Til then we say, "East is East and West is West and never Idaho's record shall be met."

Our cross-state rivals started their drive yesterday. Six days are all of Pullman.

A Winner

By golly, Idaho has finally found a winning formation. A Shorthorn senior calf entered in the International Livestock Exposition at Chicago by the University won second place. The calf's name is "Formation."

. There is a letter on page two that brings up an interesting and rather intangible issue — school spirit. Actually Jason is and always has been a strong advocate for better student body support of athletic teams. In fact the very first editorial that Jason ever wrote (in high school) concerned this topic. The first sentence went something like this:

"Hooray for victory, but defeat is unpardonable," sems to be the bull cry of certain impeuous souls in and around MHS." The article went on to condemn bad support. That contention still holds with Jason down here at Idaho. O.K. Let's do get behind the biggest and best basketball team that Idaho has ever seen, this year.

Speaking of sports, another theory of why Idaho doesn't athletically has been advanced by a Sophia Hansen of Moscow in a letter to the Daily Idahonian. She

Just A Little Cooperation

Basketball season is upon us. This is perhaps a good time to take a look at student body support of the athletic teams and the success of the yell team.

Starting with the latter first: The yell team has been on the job with consistency and has been turning in a better field mice or something? than average performance. But they have had moments of weakness. In the last quarter of the Homecoming game the student body was ahead of the leaders in yelling spirit.

But it is easy to criticize. We should remember that in much of the Homecoming game and certainly in other games of the year the yell team has had to try to pull yells from a half-enthusiastic crowd of fans.

Perhaps part of the trouble lies in the type of yells utilized The yell leaders are justifiably afraid that if they try more rapid and complex yells they will achieve even less cooperation. Many fans, on the other hand, resolve that they won't cooperate until more snappy routines are incorporated. The answer lies in experimentation. Trial may result in Every student body as well as every university likes to have winning teams. And that extra little push furnished one dollar and nobody would by enthusiastic support at the games is not to be underestimated. Now is the time to get behind the yell leaders and the team.

After the last blood drive, Ida—we score first and are ahead—but students sent word of the 1,014 we know we can't win and say to team.

DAIRY PRODUCTS

Aside from any question of fairness, people wonder how they'll be affected personally if the Antitrust lawyers succeed in cutting big companies into smaller ones. We hear such comments as "What have I got to lose if they break you up?"

The answer depends on who you are. Most people gain in many ways by the fact that there are both large and small companies competing for your patronage, trying to get ahead. Here's what you stand to lose:

New products and improvements in old ones flow steadily from our laboratories-new gasolines and oils, raw materials for new fabrics. "soapless soaps"; many others. You may take such progress for granted. But Standard has put some 40 million dollars into research since 1940. We can't go on this way if they break us up.

You are assured of ample supplies of petroleum products at reasonable prices. Standard is constantly seeking out new crude oil reserves in this country and abroad. This sometimes costs millions before the first gallon is found. We can do jobs this big, which benefit you as well as the country, only by being integrated.

gas stations; Standard led the way. Our technical counsel helps many industries cut production costs of goods you buy. We've pioneered in taking needed petroleum products into undeveloped farm and frontier areas. We can't give these services if we're forced to be small.

America's military strength depends heavily on industry. Our fighting men are backed by the world's greatest production capacity. Should it now be limited by breaking up big companies? We are at work for the U.S. on atomic research, synthetic rubber, aviation gasolines, other jobs. We believe we perform them best by being big.

You have a lot to lose if they break us up. As a big, integrated company, Standard is able to operate more efficiently in serving you and helping to make America strong.

Seattle Invades Tonight; Gonzaga Here Tomorrow

Coach Chuck Finley's 1951-52 addition to the University of Idaho hoop history will take to the hardwood tonight as they play host to the invading Seattle University Chieftains in the season's inaugural. When the Vandal cagers trot onto the Memorial gym hardwood tionight, all eyes on the floor sevel will have to glance upward to catch the determined looks on the faces of Dwight Morrison (left) and Hartly Kruger. Morrison is a six-foot, eight-inch center, who topped the Idaho freshman cagers in the scoring columns last season. The red-headed sophomore will be a constant threat both in pouring in the points and grabbing the melon off the boards. A junior letterman, Kruger stands but one-half inch under Morrison. Kruger is equally mean on the boards and is capable of mutilating the meshing beyond repair.

Annex Grid Honors

Two Vandal turfmen received individual honors recently. The United Press mentioned Bob Holder in its All-coast selections while George McCarty was named on Oregon State college's All-opoonent team. Holder was named to the third eam, All-coast, center position by United Press in its annual selections. Bob was a stalwart linebacker for the Vandals this season and was rated by coach Curfman as one of the best linebackers on the coast. He is a junior and will return for grid action next fall. McCarty was named to the defensive tackle position on OSC's all-opponent squad. Like Holder, McCarty is a junior and will answer Curfman's call to action next season.
