

The GOLDEN FLEECE by Jason

"Did you hear about so-and-so? Well, let me tell you. . . ."

The above is a common expression passed around frequently across back fences, bridge tables and barrooms, in men and women's living groups, and in fact, almost anywhere.

Roughly, it is called gossip. But in better circles, it is endearingly termed "keeping in the know."

Usually the most popular lady is the one who has all the answers about everyone, past and present. This does not necessarily mean that she, herself, must lead a pure and chaste life, and usually doesn't.

It is really a comfortable feeling for a man to walk past a representative group of these ladies whom he knows and when he has passed out of earshot to get the same treatment that a steamroller would do for him.

However, ladies, don't think for a minute that you have a monopoly on all this "knowledge."

(1) Which women are, whether they are or not; (2) Which women are dependable, delicate, serious individuals, whether they are or not.

We men never take into account that your reputation, lady, is one of the most important assets you own.

Jason supposes that we, men and women alike, owe our prejudices, likes and dislikes, habits, and even ourselves to society.

But it follows that "what others think of us" has been ground into us so deeply that we are constantly worried about it.

Well, such is life—just a big bowl of cherries. If you don't

Jim Dunham, blood drive chairman, will represent the ASUI and the Latah County Red Cross in Boise today at the regional Red Cross blood program conference.

Following a request, from Dr. B. A. Martin, the Board decided that the International Relations club and Cosmopolitan club will have one member serve on the United Nations day committee in the future.

The first section of the British actress's presentation featured portions of "Lady of No Importance," by Oscar Wilde, "The Weaker Sex," George Bernard Shaw, and Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Ernest."

Miss Bennett assumed the role of Lady MacBeth in her second section with excerpts from Shakespeare's "MacBeth." During the third portion of the program the actress played Rosalind in Shakespeare's "As You Like It."

When portraying a man during her presentation of the classic excerpts, Miss Bennett held a mask and admitted "I don't try to approximate a male voice."

Miss Bennett has played many of Shakespeare's heroines in London theaters in the past. At Memorial festivals at Stratford-on-Avon, she appeared opposite Laurence Olivier in "Coriolanus," with Robert Morley in "The Great Romancer," and with Ethel Griffies in "Night Must Fall."

Leland Stowe, foreign correspondent, will speak on foreign education for peace at the next Idaho public events assembly February 25.

Miss Bennett's recital was given at 8 p.m. Wednesday evening, departing from the usual 11 a.m. time for public events assemblies.

Two Showings

"King of Kings," epic Biblical story filmed by Cecil B. DeMille, and next in the ASUI cinema series, will be shown for two days rather than the usual one day run.

It Looks Like War

Members of the University Army ROTC got a taste of near combat conditions Wednesday evening as patrols moved against "enemy" positions. Several hundred rounds of blank ammunition were fired during the action.

Enemy "Riflemen" Go Down Before Sophomore Troopers

Despite below freezing weather and a blanket of snow, sophomore Army ROTC cadets performed their missions in a commendable manner while undergoing field training in scouting and patrolling Wednesday night.

The exercise, designed to train the students in night operations under simulated combat conditions, was executed in three phases. First, a short lecture and demonstration were conducted on MacLean field, emphasizing lights, sounds and the difficulty of range estimation.

This was followed by a tactical march to the far corner of the golf course where patrols were organized and dispatched into "enemy territory." The aggressor force, composed of Pershing Riflemen, fired hundreds of rounds of blank ammunition in an effort to prevent the sophomore troopers from infiltrating behind the lines.

Patrol leaders made a formal intelligence report concerning their findings after the accomplishment of each mission. At the conclusion of the critique phase of the problem, Colonel Chas. F. Hudson, Idaho Professor of Military Science & Tactics, lauded all participants on their outstanding enthusiasm, zeal, and spirit of cooperation under such adverse weather conditions.

Transportation slow-up and communication tie-ups have been prevalent the past few days. In addition, many students can be seen taking belly flops in mid-summer form on the precarious ice patches located strategically throughout the campus.

Power breaks have also added to the confusion of the campus as several houses have experienced lack of heat and light.

However, milder weather is seen for the immediate future with the final arrival of winter yet on the docket.

Joining the agricultural extension division staff in 1929 as district home demonstration agent at Idaho Falls, she has also served as Bonneville county home demonstration agent, home demonstration agent at large for eastern Idaho and assistant state home demonstration leader.

Three Christmas Plays Presented Before Final Audience This Evening

Fellowships Are Offered By Council

The National Academy of Sciences-National Research Council has announced several large national fellowship programs for the academic year 1952-53.

Fellowship programs now offered are sponsored by the National Science Foundation, Merck and Company, Inc., the Lilly Research Laboratories, the Radio Corporation of America, Rockefeller foundation, the National Tuberculosis Association, and the American Cancer Society.

Applications for fellowships are evaluated by boards appointed by the National Research Council.

A large national program of predoctoral fellowships sponsored by the National Science Foundation is offered for the first time.

The tenure of a fellowship is for one year and can be arranged to begin at any time after July 1, 1952.

Applications for fellowships will be required to take a Fellowship record examination which will be given at nearly 175 centers throughout the United States.

Postdoctoral fellowships in electronics are open by the National Research Council to give selected science students an opportunity for further training and development.

Approximately 100 members of University Singers will combine vocal talents Sunday to present Handel's "Messiah," an oratorio of the Christmas season.

Oratorio 'Messiah' Presented Sunday

Approximately 100 members of University Singers will combine vocal talents Sunday to present Handel's "Messiah," an oratorio of the Christmas season.

Under the direction of Norman R. Logan of the University music department, the chorus will be accompanied by Deloris Knight, organist, and Cynthia Huguenin, pianist.

Miss Knight will begin the program with the Overture, followed by tenor Rex Eikum's "Comfort Ye My People" and "Every Valley Shall Be Exalted."

The first women's solo will be a recitative contralto, "Behold a Virgin Shall Conceive," by Joyce Fisher. Next, "O Thou That Tellest Good Tidings to Zion" will be given by Miss Fisher and the chorus.

Gerald Goecke will take the center of the stage again with "For Behold, Darkness Shall Cover the Earth," and "The People That Walked in Darkness."

The "Hallelujah Chorus" is the finale of the entire presentation. At this time the audience will rise. This old-English custom is a revered tradition.

Tonight is the last night in which Idaho's campus and surrounding area may see this year's theatrical tribute to Christmas.

Student director of Baker's adaptation of "The Christmas Carol," is Doris Moore. Dave Banks is Scrooge; Duane Ness, Bob Cratchet; Paul Matthews, Fred; Bob Hall, Marley; Donna Jo Walenta, Christmas Past; Polly Bell, Christmas Present; Nancy Magel, Christmas Future.

Scrooge, the world's groucheiest man, is steadfastly against Christmas and all its traditions. "Misery for others" is his theme.

"The Shepherds" is an English comedy which takes place on the night of Christ's birth. A group of shepherds suspect one of their numbers of stealing a sheep—and the suspicion leads right to the door-step of the guilty one who has made a humorous attempt at concealing the sheep.

Thornton Wilder's "The Long Christmas Dinner" is under student direction of Marvin Alexander. Elizabeth Winegar is Lucia; Shirley Pettijohn, Mother Bay-

The story takes place at Christmas dinner and extends over a period of three generations. It is a symbolic play presented in a realistic manner—one that must be seen to enjoy its mysteries.

Larry Hyer is stage manager for the productions, and Fred Burton is technical manager. Beverly Alger, Jean Bales, Jo Magee, and Mary Thompson are in charge of costumes; Carol Blocher, and Janice Rockwood comprise the sound crew.

Lights are under the direction of Hugh Burgess and Tom Sawyer; Jerry Sperrazzo, Ida Mae Collett, Bonese Collins and Shirley Pettijohn are the property crew.

Stage crew members are Mort Grinker, Sharon Henderson, Stowell Johnstone, Jack Rudefeld and Clyde Winters.

Dr. A. P. Schneider, director of the Bureau of Animal Industry, Boise, will give the group an idea on new treatments in combatting disease in cattle.

Discussions of feeding cattle will be turned over to T. B. Keith, animal nutritionist at the University; Frank Roach, Spokane; and E. F. Rinehart, extension animal husbandman for the University.

C. F. Sierk, University animal husbandman, will speak about breeding with the group, and R. R. Miller, Spokane, will present methods and the importance of keeping herd records.

Soprano, Joanne Peters, will be featured in her rendition of the recitative solo, "There Were Shepherds," "And Lo! The Angel of the Lord," and "And Suddenly There Was With the Angel."

"Glory to God in the Highest" by the chorus will be followed by Miss Peters singing "Rejoice Greatly, O Daughter of Zion."

Joyce Danielson will make her first solo appearance of the program in the contralto recitative, "Then Shall the Eyes of the Blind Be Opened," and the contralto air, "He Shall Feed His Flock Like a Shepherd."

The chorus will climax the program with "Lift Up Your Heads, O Ye Gates," "Worthy Is the Lamb That Was Slain," and "Blessing and Honor, Glory and Power Be Unto Him."

Herdsmen To Gather On Monday

It's back to school with no "reading, writing, but plenty of arithmetic" at Idaho December 10 when the fourth annual Breeder-Herdsmen short course begins a three-day session for cattlemen of the Northwest.

Said C. W. Hickman, animal husbandman at the University, "We offer the course each year as an attraction to the new breeders who may find the time and incentive to come up and talk over some of the problems of the cattle business with us."

The three days will be divided into full discussion periods devoted to diseases and disease control, feeding and breeding problems, and to various phases of herd management.

Dr. A. P. Schneider, director of the Bureau of Animal Industry, Boise, will give the group an idea on new treatments in combatting disease in cattle.

Discussions of feeding cattle will be turned over to T. B. Keith, animal nutritionist at the University; Frank Roach, Spokane; and E. F. Rinehart, extension animal husbandman for the University.

Vo! Now wait! WAIT! I said let's go STUDY! Not STEADY!

In Ten Years

Remember the shock which struck America 10 years ago today? We Americans thought we held an impregnable position in 1941. Could any nation challenge us in war while negotiating for peace? Few expected the people of Japan to issue that challenge.

Our hate and bitterness after December 7 was magnified by Bataan and temporarily convinced us even more that they were not civilized. We accepted their challenge in all-out war to show them that free people wouldn't permit them to finish what they had started. Yet, looking back we may wonder if they really did start it. Were we blameless?

For centuries white men have dominated and exploited the "colored races" whenever possible. The yellow race challenged white superiority successfully. Pearl Harbor was a part of the reaction to the "white man's burden."

Ten years have passed—years marked by attempts to secure a lasting peace for all peoples of the world. The United States provided leadership in spreading ideas of civil rights in order to further peace. We set ourselves up as exponents of such ideals in evidence of our good intentions. But in our example we must present records of lynchings and repeated failures to practice these ideals.

It must be difficult for other peoples to comprehend our sincere attempts to secure world peace when they witness these examples.

If we continue the pageant of racial discrimination which began long before Pearl Harbor, we must consider the potential enemies we will make, and must realize that we comprise a clear minority in comparison with those we have sought to exploit. However, we should consider the potential friends we can make by being ever mindful of a lesson taught at Pearl Harbor.

Almost Made It!

Congratulations to WSC! One-half of Idaho's recent blood record has been beaten by our neighbors across the line. Students and faculty contributed about 1,700 pints in the six day drive. Contributions by townspeople boosted the total to 1,831 pints. The total amount, therefore, exceeds the 1014 pints collected in three days at Idaho through student contribution.

Final statistics are not yet available on contribution percentage of the student body. The record, however, will clearly fall short of Idaho's 33 per cent. So WSC and other schools still have a goal to shoot at. Connecticut will be the next to try. News stories indicate that they will be trying hard.

It is gratifying to watch the furor of blood drives which Idaho has helped to induce in other schools. Their success in achieving larger and larger records of contributions is surely helping out the vital need of blood in Korea.

So let's have more smashed records—at WSC, at Connecticut, and at Idaho.

Johnson and Henessey Star In The Voice Of The Vandal

Say, did you ever wonder why you folks know so much about what is going on at the University of Idaho, especially since you very seldom write home? Well, chances are that it is through the new, state-wide radio program, "Voice of the Vandal," produced and sent out by the students in the Radio Center under the direction of Robert K. Tracy, director of radio at the University.

The Voice of the Vandal is a half hour program put on by students which is featured weekly on stations throughout the state. This week's broadcast will feature Bert Johnson giving the history and functions of the Argonaut, and Tom Henessey providing special entertainment with guitar and vocal selections.

The purpose of these shows is to keep parents and alumni informed about campus activities and to interest high school students in attending the University of Idaho. Persons in this area can hear the program over KRFL Moscow, at 9:15 a.m. Wednesdays, and over the Lewiston station at 11 a.m. Saturday mornings.

The Radio Center where the show is produced and recorded is located in the TC-3 building. Courses offered to students at the radio center include recording, broadcasting, and commercial broadcasting. In addition, a new course has been added which offers students the opportunity to learn operation of radio broadcasting equipment, and qualifies them for FCC licenses upon passing the required examinations.

Recreation

Leon Green, head of the physical education department, wishes to remind all students and faculty members that recreational facilities at Memorial gym are open to them from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. on Sundays. Green emphasized that this service is free of charge and more students should take advantage of their luxury.

Winter On Display

The first-floor library show case lends itself to the spirit of the season with a new exhibit this week. Instead of the usual literary display, the show case contains an attractive winter scene.

Bonnors Students See One-Act Plays

Approximately 35 students from Bonners Ferry journeyed to Moscow to attend Tuesday's performance of the three one-act plays. Miss Loretta Lynch, Bonners Ferry English instructor, and Andy Tozier, an Idaho student teacher at Bonners Ferry, escorted the drama enthusiasts to Moscow. The group came to Moscow via bus, leaving Bonners Ferry Tuesday morning, and returned home immediately after the performances.

Camp Fire Girls Finish Campaign

Moscow's campfire girls have been touring Idaho living groups for their annual candy mint sale this week. This is a fund raising campaign to replace the money usually obtained from the community chest which Moscow is not having this year. The slogan is "A Treat For You, Helps Camp Fire Too!"

The girls are trying to canvass the entire city of Moscow, including the campus. Their goal in sales is 6,000 boxes of mints. The dollar size milk chocolate mints are being sold in 17 1/2 ounce boxes for $1 per box.

Sideline Chatter

By Royden

Following is a "fan" letter appraising my recent appraisal of the 1951 Idaho football team's record:

"Dear Mr. Boyden:

"On reading your column of sideline chatter, we feel your so-called explanation of Idaho's unimpressive season was a very feeble crutch on which to stand. Since you have resorted in dividing your column into four divisions of Idaho mishaps, we shall take each topic individually and show you just how much you know about collegiate football.

"Firstly: Regarding the subject of a coaches first year with a team, we will sit two pretty good examples of first year successes: Chuck Taylor, of Stanford, whose record is enough proof; and Jess Hill, U.S.C. mentor, did fair for a track coach, don't you think? And the list is shocking through the past years. Regarding the split-T, does it take a whole season for a club to become familiar with it, or does it?

"Secondly: Concerning injuries, don't you think each club has its share of injuries each season, or is Idaho the exception? Washington did fairly well with the absence of Don Heinrich, who is considered an exceptional player. Also California played the last few games without the assistance of John O. and also part time injury of All-American Les Richter. Or maybe they don't play the rough ball Idaho does.

"Thirdly: Your third factor is well versed, but don't forget, other teams win ball games away from home. For instance, last seasons victory over distant Boston University. Pertaining to trips, didn't U.S.C. do alright against Army back East?

"Your fourth and final comment concerning weather has no place in this column. For Idaho's best showing was under the most miserable weather, while the games at Boise, Salt Lake City, and Tucson were played under more favorable weather conditions. What connection has the climate in California have to do with the Vandals?????

"We feel that if a team could play as they did on Homecoming against WSC, surely this would be an inspiration, not a let down.

"Many of us are getting tired of hearing the worn out phrase "Wait Until Next Year" and think we should either import some ball players and have a team we can be proud of, or get out of the Pacific Coast Conference.

"We hope we have made ourselves clear.

"Yours till your next column. "M. & O."

(Ed. note: The above letter was set as written. Don't blame the linotype operators or proofreaders for the mistakes.)

In reply, I will initially agree that Taylor and Hill enjoyed successful campaigns in their first season at the helm. You must also add the fact that they were greatly aided by the return of 28 lettermen in the case of Hill and 26 for Taylor. The Vandals had approximately a team less of monogram winners than these two institutions.

Then on the other side of the ledger I can exemplify Wes Foster at Minnesota, Woody Hayer at Ohio State, and Len Casanova at Oregon as mentors who experienced relatively poor first seasons.

I was especially amused over the statement concerning the University of Washington Huskies, who stormed through the season with the ferocity of tucked turtles. Yes, they did do fairly well for a team that was rated as highly as third in the nation and tops on the Pacific Coast by pre-season dopsters. In fact, their record was astounding to the tune of three victories in ten games with the Huskies failing to garner better than a single tie in their last six contests. Oh, yes, their conference mark flashed a brilliant one win, one tie, and five losses good for seventh place in the PCC standings. They did do fairly well by whipping Montana, Minnesota (who almost scared the "H" out of Huskies), and Oregon. Care to hear MO, "M.&O."?

Concerning Boston university last season, you will recall that the Vandals made the trip by air, which is considerably less taxing. Agreed from this corner that USC did all right against Army, but what team didn't other than The Citadel?

Fierce Finley Five Faces Fighting Foe For Fourth Fracas

The all victorious Idaho Vandal basketball forces of coach Charles Finley will open action on a four game trip tonight when they engage the Idaho State Bengals in a contest which will dedicate the new million dollar gymnasium on the Pocatello campus. The game will be number four on the Vandal slate and they will be looking for victory number four.

Victories over Seattle university, Gonzaga, and Eastern Washington make up the present Idaho record. Finley will lead his boys out again tomorrow evening for a return tussle with the Staters and then on Monday the team will leave for Missoula and a contest with Montana university. On Tuesday Wallace will be the scene of a second Montana-Idaho clash. The Vandals return to Moscow for a Wednesday night encounter with the renowned Phillips Oilers of Bartlesville, Oklahoma.

Sixteen Travel Finley took 16 men on the road trip including eight lettermen and eight first year men. Those making the trip include Stu Dollinger, Ed Haller, Bill Mather, Harlan Melton, Herb Millard, Jim Price, Hartly Kruger, Ken Loudermilk, Dwight Morrison, Arnold Domke, Bob Falash, Tom Flynn, Sam Jenkins, Bruce McIntosh, Don Morrison, and Bob White. The group left Wednesday for southern Idaho.

The local courtmen added their third victory to the record on Tuesday when they journeyed to Cheney, Washington to defeat Red Reese's Eastern Washington College Savages by a 68-51 count. This was the third time in three games that the Vandals had added the first defeat to an opponent's record.

The Vandals again got off to a slow start, but they began to roll in the second period and led 35-24 at intermission. From here on there was no doubt about the outcome, although the losers narrowed the half time margin to 5 points at the outset of the third period. Idaho then put on another spurt to sew up the issue.

Millard Puts 13 Herb Millard was top man in the scoring column with 13 markers, with ten of these coming in the final period. Thirteen other Vandals entered the scoring column with Sam Jenkins and Ed Haller, both hitting nine for runner-up honors.

Considering that Idaho played eight of its nine contests in relatively miserable weather, if you consider 50-mile per hour winds, unseasonably cold temperatures, and sloppy terrain as favorable weather conditions, I'll gladly retract my previous statement.

The only connection California climate had with the Vandals was the fact that they held practice sessions in Riverside, California, prior to and after the Arizona contest. And again I state that weather for practices was generally lousy.

The point is that individually the new coach, new system, injuries, lack of home games, and weather insufficiently explain Idaho's unimpressive record. However, had the Vandals experienced a complete season without hindrance from any of these factors, I believe their record could easily have listed two or three additional victories.

VANDAL VIEWS BY RIGGERS

Well, to the basketball fanatic, it didn't seem like the weekend of Nov. 30-Dec. 1 was the beginning of the cage season. There just wasn't that basketball atmosphere in the air. There was no snow covering the sidewalk to the gym; instead there was a warm rain falling which still left a person with the football bug. But there was no mistake, basketball was here and it was clearly evidenced by the large crowd on hand to see what "Cheerful" had to offer for the 1951-52 season.

The Vandals, in my opinion, staged a brilliant show for the first game of the season. Both of Finley's platoons displayed good basketball during the week-end contests, and left the impression that the Vandal will be a bitter gall in the mouth of Pacific Coast hoopers this season.

Perhaps some felt we were playing teams which naturally wouldn't stack up to the Vandals and give them any competition. After watching the Seattle Chieftains and the Zags in action, it was evident that they were both top notch ball clubs and it took a top notch team to beat them. Coach Finley had a good reason to give his boys a satisfactory smile because Idaho was playing its first game against a Seattle five which had already tumbled three games' mistakes under their belt.

Every Vandal that made an appearance on the floor during the week-end series played good ball and proved to the spectators that he had earned a suit on Finley's squad.

However, throughout the season, appearing in this column will be a weekly portrait of or individual interview with one of the Idaho cagers. This is not an attempt to pick a star from a group of stars, but an attempt to acquaint each of the ball players a little more with the students and spectators who watch them in action throughout the year.

The cager spent most of two years serving his country in the Merchant Marines at Catalina Island, and after receiving his discharge decided to come to Vandallville and play for Smilin' Chuck.

AP Honors Ringe

Don Ringe, a junior 232-pound tackle from American Falls, was placed on the Associated Press' 27th annual All-Pacific Coast football team as an offensive tackle on the second squad.

Steve Douglas, Vandal captain, received honorable mention along with Jerry Ogle. Douglas was a senior this year and played at guard while Ogle was a junior at end.

Coach Frank Young Names Top Varsity Mitt Prospects

By Don Theophilus, Jr.

Coach Frank Young this week named top varsity prospects for the 1951-52 boxing squad. After a month's turn-out seventeen men have caught Young's eye. Seven of the mittmen are freshmen, five sophomores, four juniors and one a senior.

Heading the list is squad Captain Franky Echevarria at 119 pounds. The two-year letterman senior has made the drop from 125 pounds to the lower Olympic weight for this year's competition.

Another veteran, junior Larry Moyer, returns at 176 pounds to bolster Vandal hopes for a good year. Also in the lightweight class is junior Fred Brown, transfer from Boise Junior college. Fred was undefeated in dual matches last year. Fans may remember this red-head who boxed exhibitions here as a freshman.

Dropping a weight to 160 pounds we find three eager men in hot competition. Freshman Jim Driever, three time fifth district champ from Pocatello, has been looking exceptionally good. So have sophomore Don Anderson, Pasco, and freshman Ron Bloom of Kellogg.

In the 147-pound bracket the leather is flying thick and fast. Back for action is sophomore Sam Nichols, who was a crowd-pleaser last season. Also coming along fast are first year men Harvey Mutch, Kellogg; sophomore Alan D'Andrea, Coeur d'Alene and junior Doyle Haskins, Rogers, Arkansas.

Letterman Herb Joo and freshman John Echevarria share the spotlight in the 136-pound division. John was Idaho fifth district winner from Blackfoot last year at 135 pounds.

Intramural

In the campus volleyball title game last night, the Sigma Chi team, composed of Steve Douglas, Bruce Sweeney, Bob Campbell, Joe Haycock, Bill Luscher, and Gordon Taylor, defeated Campus Club, the independent titlists, in three sets, 15-7, 11-15, and 15-6. Thus Sigma Chi finished the season as the only undefeated team on campus. They won League II honors with a record of seven wins and no defeats and then defeated Phi Delta Theta, League I champs, for the Greek championship. The championship gives Sigma Chi its first intramural trophy of the year.

There will be an intramural managers meeting Monday, December 10, at 4:05 in room 109 of Memorial gymnasium. Schedules for IM 'A' basketball, skiing, bowling, and table tennis will be drawn up. Since 'A' basketball will commence Tuesday evening, all groups that plan to enter a team in this schedule should have a representative attend this meeting.

Two girls were sitting behind me on the bus. I heard one of them say to the other: "Do you allow a man to kiss you when you are out driving with him?" "NEVER," answered the other. "Any man who can drive safely while kissing me isn't giving the kiss the attention it deserves."

WHAT'S SO DIFFERENT ABOUT ENGLEWOOD, N. J.?

In Englewood, the local telephone exchange looks pretty much like the telephone building in any other town.

And Englewood's telephones seem just the same as the twenty-seven million other dial telephones in the country.

But there's a difference...

You can pick up a telephone in Englewood and dial San Francisco telephone numbers direct!

In fact, you can dial any one of eleven million telephone numbers in thirteen widely scattered areas from coast to coast.

That's what makes Englewood different - the new kind of Long Distance telephone service on trial there by the Bell System.

Long Distance dialing is another example of the Bell System's constant search for ways to provide you with ever-better telephone service.
