

All Campus Men Will Vote Tomorrow For Holly Queen

Who are the biggest robbers in the world today? There probably could be many answers to the hypothetical question. Some would claim claim referees, some would say government and, in some cases, state officials; others would give the distinction to plumbers; and doubtless there are many more theories to be advanced on this subject.

Jason is thoroughly convinced that garage owners would classify very well along this line. If not the biggest robbers, they certainly would qualify for a top position. And it wouldn't be petty larceny that these "villains" would be convicted of should there ever be a court of poor taxpayers to try them.

Not all of these garage owners are this way. Some actually try to give the poor ragged student car owner a square deal. But as far as the rest of them are concerned (censored), you'd think that you were driving a big Cadillac and sitting on a fat wallet. (They don't realize that all that wallet contains is phone numbers, addresses, parking tickets, pink slips, choice quotations, and membership cards to various and sundry, or Friday, organizations).

No kidding, there is only one price for everything up to a certain bracket and that is $40.00. They've got that figure on the brain. It's $40.00 whether they cough in your tires or reline your brakes. Anything more involved than that, you might as well trade your car in for a motor scooter and the price they'd give you would be about the same.

And stubborn and "hard-nosed?" In comparison, Jason could even feel a little love for that defender of law, our hard-headed cops. Well, comes the revolution" and things will be different. (Incidentally, that last sentence was all in jest. You know, there have been editors removed for statements like that.)

Mechanical Co-op
Seriously, Jason was wondering if a student-faculty garage could be started and sponsored by ASUI and the University, jointly. It is ever started, it would in a few years show a profit and could still maintain decent "law-abiding" prices. Well, it was just an idea.

There have been many complaints, and Jason believes they are justified, as to the fact that school is not officially closed for Christmas vacation until 4 p.m. Friday, December 2. It would be better for a large part of the student body (and perhaps faculty) if classes were out at noon. This would give students going long distances quite a few extra hours of daylight driving and could mean the difference of making it home for Christmas or not for some.

That it silly, you say, for students would take off anyway whether they had classes or not. Maybe so, but there are instructors who seem to actually wait for this time of year and that exact afternoon to pull a quig that can't be made up. These C. S. (means college studentish) educators are relatively few, but nevertheless they are.

Ordinarily Jason is usually sentimental about traditions, but there is one that seems a little out-dated and kind of silly. Whenever a student isn't doing too well at the nine-weeks, his folks receive a card from his dean intimating that the student is slunking out.

Get In The Ball, Boy
Well, the psychology behind this is to prod the student at nine weeks with pressure from the folks before it is too late. That is fine and perhaps it is needed in some cases, but in most it is a false alarm that just causes undue anxiety to worried parents. In most of these cases, the student concerned is not at all worried that he will pass and bring up his grades by semester time. There are peculiar study methods developed by a lot of students and this subject touches upon one of them. (Jason's parents, by the way, have not received a "com-")

Idaho Wins Debate Meet; Campus Tourney Planned

Men's intramural debate will begin Saturday morning at 9 o'clock with teams from men's campus living groups on the subject "Should the Federal government adopt a permanent program of wage and price control?"

Sigma Chi Sweetheart Is Chosen

Red satin curtains opened, revealing the centre of a heart, and a throne, and members of Sigma Chi sang of blue eyes and golden hair, a Sweetheart — Madeline Meltvedt — was presented.

Miss Meltvedt, a sophomore from Boise, was crowned Sweetheart of Sigma Chi by Bob Nixon, consul of the Idaho chapter. The new Sweetheart traveling trophy was presented to Miss Meltvedt by Frank Campbell, chapter adviser. Cups were given to Emily Christie, Jane Wimer, Bonnie Johnston, and Catherine Fitzgerald, the four members of Miss Meltvedt's court. The new Sweetheart is the 13th chosen by members of Sigma Chi at Idaho.

Entertain Guests
Special guests at the formal dinner at the Moscow hotel included Mrs. Edith Magnuson, Joan Kaeser, last year's sweetheart, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Buchanan, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Young, and Mr. and Mrs. Wade Patterson. Chuck McDevitt was master of ceremonies. The Moscow Legion was decorated for the occasion and featured the presentation throne, the Sigma Chi coat of arms, and portraits of the five finalists.

King Of Kings Scheduled Next In Film Series

"King of Kings," the 1929 epic film production, is the next movie slated on the ASUI cinema series. Scheduled tomorrow and Thursday, the movie will be shown in the Student Union Borah theatre.

"King of Kings," which portrays portions of the life of Christ, is the first of Cecil B. deMille's biblical productions. Although it is a silent film, many critics claim it surpasses some of the more recent ones, like "Samson and Delilah," and "David and Bathsheba."

In order to facilitate larger crowds attending the cinema series, and especially the one expected for this film, the film will be shown two days.

Show times Wednesday will be 4, 7, and 8:30 p.m. Thursday will be the same, except no afternoon showing is scheduled.

The usual 25 cents admission will be charged.

Sophomores Behind The Scenes

Candlelight Sing Set December 18-19 By Vandaleers

Idaho's widely acclaimed mixed choral group, the Vandaleers, will be heard next Tuesday and Wednesday in their traditional "Candlelight Concert". The concert is scheduled for 8 p.m. in the University auditorium.

Professor Glen R. Lockery, director of the choir, requests that students attend the Tuesday performance and townspeople attend the Wednesday concert.

National radio station hookups will broadcast the concert again this year as in the past. The "Candlelight Concert" this year will be aired by Mutual and Liberty networks.

Record Friday
The Vandaleers will record for the Mutual broadcast Friday from 7 p.m. to 8:30 in the auditorium. The broadcast date and time will be announced at a later date. Visitors may attend the recording session.

KRLC in Lewiston will also make a transcription for broadcasting at a later date over that station.

Last year the concert by the Vandaleers was heard throughout the United States through Mutual over WOR in New York and Liberty's Hollywood hookup.

Serenade Thursday Night Begins Sophomore Week

Margaret Alley, Betty Ruth Westerberg, Bobbie Hargis, Donna Bray and Anna Lou Luedke were chosen by the sophomore males to compete for the title of 1951 Holly Queen and to reign over Holly Week festivities which began yesterday on the Idaho campus.

This year's Holly Queen, to be selected by an all campus male vote Wednesday, will be crowned Saturday night during intermission of the Holly Dance, "It's A Marshmallow World." Music for the semi-formal affair will be provided by Bernie Ackerman and his orchestra. Tickets for the dance are now on sale in all men's living groups for $1.50.

The sophomore sponsored Holly Week will get into full swing tonight with a serenade practice for all sophomores in the auditorium at 7:30 p.m. A sophomore rally and serenade to all campus living groups have been scheduled for Thursday night at 10:30. Sophomore women have been granted late permission to participate in the event. The class will meet in front of the Ad building at 9:45 p.m.

Saturday afternoon all Holly queen candidates will model winter fashions in the front window of David's Inc. The coeds will model ski togs, sweaters and skirts, date dresses and formal attire.

Christmas pajama sets will also be displayed during the show which is scheduled to begin at 3 p. m. The Holly Queen will be presented and will model a Christmas formal in the fashion show.

Coeds turning mannequin for the afternoon include the five finalists, and Patty Byrnes, Liz Winegar, Joanne Harwood, Jane Perry, Rev. Alger and Lorene Schmelzer.

Have No Flowers
Climaxing the week's activities will be the annual Holly Dance scheduled for Saturday, December 15 in the ballrooms of the SUB. Decorations for the no-corsage affair will be built around the dance theme, "It's a Marshmallow World."

Iceless, Christmas trees and evergreen boughs will transform the ballroom into a winter scene. Dancing will be from 9 p.m. until midnight.

Name Workers
Committees supervising the traditional mid-winter event are Don Runner and Ron Baker, queen contest; Anna Luedke and Bev Groninger, decorations; Doris McCabe, ballroom; Jane Perry and Marietta Cloos, music; Carla Brodd, tickets; Bev Alger and Isabel Clyde, programs and Marilyn Fleming and Barb Greene, publicity.

'Hallelujah Chorus' Is 'Messiah' Finale

The University Singers' presentation of Handel's "Messiah" drew a capacity crowd to the University auditorium Sunday afternoon. Directed by Norman Logan, the program, an oratorio of the Christmas season, combined the talents of the 100 members of the musical group. Doloris Knight, organist, and Cynthia Huguenin, pianist, accompanied the singers.

Hall Macklin, head of the music department, began the program with the organ Overture, followed by tenor Rex Eikum's "Comfort Ye My People" and "Every Valley Shall Be Exalted." "And The Glory of the Lord," highlighting the entire group, was followed by a baritone solo by Gerald Goecke, "Thus Said the Lord" and "But Who May Abide."

Joyce Fisher, contralto, presented the first women's solo of the evening, "Behold, a Virgin Shall Conceive." Miss Fisher and the chorus together presented "O Thou That Tellest Glad Tidings To Zion."

Organist Solos
"For Behold, Darkness Shall Cover the Earth" and "The People That Walked in Darkness" again spotlighted Gerald Goecke. "For Unto Us Is Born a Child" was next presented by the chorus. Doloris Knight's Pastoral Symphony followed.

Joanna Peters took the center of the stage to sing the soprano

Hepworth's Retirement Announced

Retirement at beginning of 1952 of Miss Marion Hepworth from the agricultural extension division of the University has been announced by Dean D. R. Theophilus, college of agriculture. For all but one of her 27 years with the University, Miss Hepworth has been state home demonstration leader.

During the past year Miss Hepworth has been extension studies specialist. Her work included summarizing, evaluating and outlining her methods and procedures as a guide for home demonstration work in Idaho in the future.

Aid Women's Groups
"Helping local groups of women to see home and community problems and to work with the home demonstration service in doing something about them, has been the highlight of Miss Hepworth's long period of service," Dean Theophilus explained.

Coming to Idaho from West Virginia, where she was also home demonstration leader, Miss Hepworth has worked with local groups of women in the promotion of practically every major Idaho product, potatoes, prunes, apples, lamb, wool, dairy products, peas, beet sugar.

Started Camps
Out of this community promotion of Idaho products has grown the statewide network of county home demonstration councils and the summer camps for women. Home demonstration councils now operate in 20 counties of the state. Their objective is to study home

'Hot Jazz' Featured On Sunday

Red hot music will be on the agenda Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock as the first in a series of invitational jam sessions will be presented by the Sunday Afternoon Jazz club. No admission will be charged for the session which will take place in the SUB central ballroom.

Master of ceremonies for the jam session is Bruce Berg from WSC who also participated in the Idaho-WSC program here last year with drum background and solo work.

Mark Barnett, Jack Perciful, Bob Nobis, and Jack Lyman will also be on hand for the jam session. Wally Schmidt, president of the Vandal Flying club, will fly the quartet from Spokane to Moscow to participate.

Give Fancy Works
Artistry and showmanship are emphasized through Mark Barnett's "solo runs" on the drums and Bob Nobis' lively rhythm on the bass fiddle. Jack Lyman will present special jazz on the trumpet while Perciful will handle piano background.

Participants from Idaho include Fred Schmidt and Chuck LaFollette. Chuck will start the affair with his night club style of vocalizing at the piano. Other Idaho music men will also play in the jam session.

From Washington State college will be representatives with two tenor saxes, one alto, two trumpets, bass fiddle, one clarinet, and a piano — with their respective players. Berg is leader of the WSC (Cont. on Page 2 Col. 3)

Energetic Wind

The new administration office building has a western exposure which subjects it to a rather strong wind. In fact the wind apparently exerts an almost unbelievable force. Metallic raised letters in the formerly attractive sign beside the entrance to the building have been lifted from their base and deposited at points unknown.

Certain students of physics have been skeptical as to the ability of the wind to accomplish this feat of transportation. But actually there is no other feasible explanation for the disappearance.

Certainly only the most cynical of critics would suggest that a student would "lift" the letters from their base. In a college community we may discard that possibility immediately. No person could exhibit that degree of immature disregard of a public benefit.

So the loss must be attributed to an overzealous attack by a westerly breeze, even though it be deflected by the T-C building. Let us hope that the wind inflicts no further damage. K.L.K.

Executive Board Will Vote On NSA Role On Campus

(Editor's note: This article, as is the case with other signed articles, does not necessarily reflect the opinion of the Argonaut staff.)

By JERRY MCKEE
The ASUI Executive Board, the representative body that determines to a large extent how the ASUI fees paid by each student will be spent, is soon to vote on the role NSA will play on the Idaho campus.

The National Student Association is a kind of "nationwide hook-up" designed to provide a link between all collegiate student bodies, and to serve as a medium of exchange for these organizations.

According to budget allocations made last spring, NSA may be given $400 from the ASUI funds to finance their membership on the Idaho campus.

The odd part about this is that NSA membership dues for Idaho are only $75, which leaves the tidy sum of $325 for that vast item known as "expenses."

Attend Conventions
The main expense of the Idaho NSA committee is travel to and from the various and sundry conventions, meetings, and conclaves that are held yearly. The two main ones this year will be the great Northwest regional convention and the national convention.

The regional meet is slated for one of the four other NSA schools in this "great Northwest region," while the national conclave is undoubtedly slated for back East somewhere.

Any NSA convention travel expense is waste beyond compare if these coming conventions compare to the regional meeting held at Idaho last spring.

Not Much Offered
Not one concrete suggestion, not one beneficial idea came from this conference. The whole affair dealt with generalities such as "should we do this, or that?" "Yes, we should do this, or else that!"

The Idaho committee, as the host group, did a magnificent job of representing Idaho students as boors, barbarians, and generally uncivilized creatures. During the last plenary session, for example, while the president tried to keep order, the Idaho delegation used such convention-wrecking tactics as hurling wads of paper and spitballs at one another, whispering to their friends on the other side of the room, and playing tic-tac-toe.

Learn From Exchanges
Vern Bahr, who was chairman of Idaho NSA two years ago, often enlightened the Executive Board last year with clipping of unique and interesting projects and activities of other colleges. However, these clippings came from exchange papers from these schools, and not from the NSA committee. If this plan were utilized this year, it would seem to eliminate the only practical function of the local NSA committee.

The University of Washington recently dropped its NSA membership. The University of Idaho would do well if it followed Washington's footsteps, unless opinion favors sending delegates to worthless conventions at student expense.

DEAR JASON

Dear Jason:
I'm a new student at the U. of I. Up until the last two weeks I've been a happy student; but now something has come up which makes me most unhappy — the ice on the sidewalks.

The University seems to have a large force of men in their employ who could remove this ice. Or, if they can't spare the men I'm sure that some of the male students would appreciate the job. I know that I, for one, would be grateful for a chance to earn a couple of dollars.

It would be better to have the ice removed for a few dollars, rather than to leave it on the walks, thereby taking the risk of a lawsuit for injuries. It is dangerous as well as being a great inconvenience to everyone concerned. Maybe if the administration were to check on the number of accidents caused by icy sidewalks, as reported by the National Safety Council, they would take steps to correct this hazard.

Slipping Still, I remain the Ice Age Kid
M. M.

P.S. In many towns throughout the nation it is now required by law to keep sidewalks clean and free of ice and snow.

Bringing Teacher Along

Hal Carr, one of WSC's faculty members, will take a breather from his English lectures to show the audience what Dixieland clarinet is and how it is performed.

Eddie Williams from Lewiston will complete this section with his valve trombone. Also from the Banana Belt city will come Bob Barton and Bob Olson playing the clarinet and sax and Dixieland trumpet, respectively.

Vocalists for the Sunday jam session will include Pat Cameron from Idaho and Carol Bird from Lewiston. Try-outs for additional songsters can be arranged by calling Mike Madison at KUOL.

They went for a ride and all she did was shake her head. After 50 miles she told him her nose was stuck in the windshield wiper.

things as drama and other ASUI activities.

There is an article written by Jerry McKee in this issue that points out some reasons why NSA shouldn't be a part of the ASUI budget. (Jerry probably and rightfully would like to see that money go into the "Gem of the Mountains" for its budget was cut drastically also.) Jason would gladly print any article concerning why NSA should be and for that matter the columns of the Argonaut are open to any student wishing to voice an opinion, for this is a student newspaper.

To Be Or Not To Be
As for Jason's personal opinion about NSA, he can see both good and bad points to it and it would be a toss-up to him whether it stayed or not. Let's hear some ideas on the subject.

Jason heard that the Forney ladies had a bit of a time with musicians Saturday night at their dance. The girls seemed to think the blighters were "all wet," eh what?

Grade Reports To Parents Do Not Work As Intended

By Con Christensen

It's the same old story with grades. In grade school you put off showing the report card until demands reached such a fever pitch that the uncovering is necessary for the preservation of life and limb. In high school, the discovery of changes that can be made with pen and ink are unfolded.

Then at long last graduation rolls around and the day of report cards are through. You begin college, strive, struggle, dig against the embarrassing revelation that you don't really know it all. At long last you pass; maybe you are on the up grade for a year or perhaps even two. Then, when you think things are going along smooth, for the first time in 14 years, and you forget the dread of the words "report card." That's the day they kick you in the teeth.

The wires are hot with phone calls from excited parents frothing from the mouth in the fear that their investment at Up State U has depreciated until the chance for a return is practically nil. And why? Because they have received a personal letter from "The Dean" about the quality of their offspring's grades.

Edged Letters
Mail, edged in black and full of dire threats about completing school under complete economic independence, flock to university living groups. Or perhaps the student is already independent, and the letter is inscribed with a little note about the Christmas welcome mat being rolled up for you and placed in the attic. Christmas becomes as feared as going before a congressional investigating committee.

In many cases the letters received by these dutiful parents give implications that there is no chance for survival by the student. They read as if the nine weeks' grades are as final as a Christmas card from the draft board. In some cases, the letters are not only misleading, but downright untrue.

Calls Fly In
In one case, a student, not considered below average mentally, received a phone call from his father, who was, to say the least, downright exasperated. The wires continued to smoke for some five minutes, before our hero could get a word in anyway. It seems his grades weren't up to the usual, he had managed to corner a mere two point even. His father said the letter read as if his son was on the verge of being asked to leave the noble institution.

One student, a veteran, and getting up in years, received word from his mother that his father was displeased to the point of refusing to talk about his son. The fact was that the veteran had not been informed of the letter and is now not in a position to clarify the belief his parents have about nine weeks' grades.

Parents Should Know
These cases are representative of what many believe as an injustice to the student. Students realize the parents' right to be informed on how their children's activities; but, they also believe that they are entitled to know about what their parents are told. The fear of a minor NKVD reporting their grades is enough, but the least they are entitled to is for the administration to report the facts straight, and then to report all the facts.

The idea of the respective departments taking a personal interest in their enrolled students is fine; however, the end is being out-shadowed by the means.

Two Shepherds Said Best Play Of Three

Last week's Studio presentation of three one-act Christmas plays gave a number of students their first chance to appear before a theatre audience.

All three shows were student directed under the general supervision of Miss Jean Collette and Edmund Chavez.

The first of the trio, Dickens' "A Christmas Carol" was greatly cut in order to make the one-act presentation possible. Director Doris Moore staged some clever tableaux, but the rest of the show wasn't too convincing. A number of the prominent players pounded lines almost to the point of tiredness.

Shows Good Talent
"The Long Christmas Dinner," by Thornton Wilder, was the second offering. It was directed by Marvin Alexander. The large cast was highlighted by a few players who have some refreshing talent. Among these are Liz Winegar, a rather convincing matron in the show; Norm Jones, who played an aging man with special insight; Jean Bales, acting with a sort of sparkling inflection and manner that immediately wins an audience, and Ann Eames, a bumbling, flustered type of comic that had this writer in stitches. These four pulled the show out of the doldrums — as much as was possible.

Easily the best of the three, the final production, a Talbot Jennings adaptation of "The Two Shepherds," was directed by Judy Coble. Especially outstanding were Tom Sawyer and Mort Glinker, as Cyb and Mak the shepherds, and Mary Thompson as Gyll, one of the shepherd's wife. All three were thoroughly convincing and watching them was the high spot of the evening.

Drama mentor Jean Collette has scheduled Shakespeare's "Hamlet" for February 28-29 and March 1 as the next ASUI theatrical offering.

Sagebrush Sandal Found In Oregon

Southern Idaho students have a new argument in their never ending defense of the aesthetic and practical benefits of sagebrush.

The oldest known artifact in Oregon is a sandal 9050 years old — made of sagebrush bark. It was found carbonized under the pumice of Newbury volcano in southern Oregon.

The age of the material was determined by analysis of radioac-tivity at the Institute of Nuclear Studies at the University of Chicago.

Idaho Is Invited To Play Bridge In Spring Meet

Idaho is one of the more than 300 universities and colleges invited to compete in the 1952 National Intercollegiate Bridge tournament. The Campus bridge tourney is scheduled early in the second semester.

Only undergraduates are eligible to play in the duplicate Contract Bridge event for the title and trophy. A preliminary round will be played by mail in February, and the sixteen highest ranking pairs will meet for the face-to-face finals at the Blackstone hotel in Chicago on April 18 and 19, with their expenses paid by the Tournament committee.

The National Intercollegiate Bridge Tournament committee, which supports the event so that there is no cost to the competing colleges or the players, is a group of college alumni and officials interested in developing Contract Bridge as an intercollegiate sport in which men and women can compete on an equal basis.

The committee for 1952 includes: Louis D. Day, Jr., Director, Houston hall, University of Washington; Lloyd M. Valley, Manager, Purdue Memorial union, Purdue university; Foster M. Coffin, Director, Willard Straight hall, Cornell university; Mrs. Christine Y. Conaway, Dean of Women, Ohio State university; Kenney L. Ford, Alumni Secretary, Kansas State college; Nelson B. Jones, Director, Faunce house, Brown university; Donald R. Matthews, Director of Alumni Affairs, University of Florida.

The committee requires that the approval of the dean or a corresponding authority be granted before a college can be regarded as officially entered in the tournament.

Students Are Favorable To Student Recruitment

An extensive recruitment program is being planned for Christmas vacation. Dave Lau, chairman of the ASUI Student Recruitment committee is seeking to bolster enrollment by pushing a program of personal contact of hometown seniors. Hence the question of the week:

What do you think of the Student Recruitment plan in which Idaho students use their local high school seniors to point out the advantages of coming to the U of I?

Carla Brodd, Kappa: "It's a great plan—we need some good favorable propaganda about Idaho. The only reaction I've ever heard is 'What... that country club? We should at least try to disillusion them favorably.'"

Sally Landers, Alpha Chi: "I think the idea is good. Lots of schools have the same plan. The more students we can recruit, the better school we should have."

Bill Lawer, Christmas: "Pretty good idea. The school could stand a larger enrollment."

Bud Wheeler, Sigma Nu: "I think it's a very good idea. We should especially show those from southern Idaho what we have to offer. It has been easy for Idaho State and Utah schools to draw southern Idaho students away from Idaho."

Betty Riggs, Gamma Phi: "I think it's a very good idea. Maybe we can get some students away from WSC. We might also convince some to come to school rather than going to work."

Al Foucar, Kappa Sig: "I haven't encountered the recruitment program very much, but I think it is a good idea and should be expanded. Students from southeastern Idaho need quite a bit of inducement to get up here."

Norman Jones, Willis Sweet: "It's a good idea and should be worked up more fully than it has been in the past. It might even up the radio if more coeds were convinced to come to Idaho."

Maggie Stewart, Alpha Chi: "I think it's a wonderful idea. I like both the personal interview angle and the pep talks to the local high schools."

Insurance Types Available To Vets

Two new types of low cost government life insurance are available to eligible veterans who have served 30 days active duty with the armed forces anywhere in the world since the start of the Korean campaign, June 27, 1950.

The first type is a non-convertable 5-year level premium term policy, renewable every five years at the premium rate for the then-attained age.

The second is a special form of National Service Life Insurance on either term or permanent plans, that may be issued to disabled veterans whose disabilities are service connected.

Veterans must meet requirements within 20 days after separation or release from the service to make application for insurance. Further information may be obtained by contacting the VA immediately after release or separation. Application for insurance must be made in writing to the Veterans Administration, at Washington 25, D. C.

Hysteria reigned from the moment he heard the details of those quick-trick cigarette mildness tests. First he giggled... then he guffawed... wound-up rolling in the aisle! He knew that the "single sniff" test or the "one puff" test didn't prove anything! Millions of smokers have reached the same conclusion — there's just one test that really proves cigarette flavor and mildness!

It's the sensible test... the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke — on a pack-after-pack, day-after-day basis. No snap judgments! Once you've enjoyed Camels for 30 days in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste), you'll see why...

Vandals Have Tough Night Against Grizzlies, Tooters

By Broadcast

The Montana Grizzlies and two ambitious whistle tooters gave Chuck Finley's Vandal basketballers a rough time last night, but the undefeated Idahoans came through in the closing minutes of play to rack up a 64-58 victory on the Missoula court.

It was victory number six for the Vandals without a defeat.

Close to 40 personal fouls were assessed against Idaho to put a clamp on Vandal activities throughout the evening as three members of the winning team were banished from the contest via the five foul route. The Grizzlies, although they were not "hot" from the free throw lane, marked up 20 points in this manner.

Slow Start

The contest started out slowly with the Grizzlies holding a 14-10 margin at the end of the first period. Idaho came back in the second stanza to take a 28-26 lead at the intermission due to the scoring efforts of Dwight Morrison, Bill Mather, and Bruce McIntosh.

The Vandals again fell behind in the third period as the Grizzlies Hal Sherbeck and Bob Sparks began to find the range. They opened a seven-point lead midway in the period after Sparks hit for six straight counters. Idaho began to nibble away at the deficit at this time and with 30 seconds gone in the fourth quarter Sam Jenkins hit a 40-foot howitzer to tie the contest at 47-47.

The score rotated back and forth until with six minutes remaining Tom Flynn, Hartly Kruger, and Stu Dollinger hit for successive field goals to open up a 57-52 margin. From that point on the Montanans were unable to draw closer than three points as the Vandals went into a 2 1/2 minute stall to end the game.

Shooting Off

The shooting of both clubs appeared to be off somewhat although Idaho hit on 31 pct. of its shots from the field and Montana 32 pct. The free throw marksmanship left much to be desired by both as neither team hit 50 pct. from the line.

Three Vandals who fouled out with over five minutes remaining in the contest included Sam Jenkins, who left with 9:30 to go, McIntosh, six minutes, and Kruger with 5 minutes remaining. Several other of the winners came within one of the limit.

Idaho's Kruger and Montana's Sherbeck led the scoring parade with 15 counters apiece. Davis of the Grizzlies followed closely with 14.

Vandal Named To WSC All-Opponent

Pete Hester, junior guard on the University of Idaho football eleven, was recently honored by Washington State college gridgers when he was named as a member of their all-opponent defensive team. Hester, who hails from Chicago, Illinois, was outstanding in Idaho's 9-7 loss to the Cougars.

Joe—Where've you been?
Blow—in a phone booth, talking to my girl, but someone wanted to use the phone so we had to get out.

Flo: "What causes that awful smell in the library?"
Joe: "It's that dead silence they keep in there."

Finley Cagers Cop Fourth, Fifth Wins In Row From ISC

Although their offensive pace slackened, the University of Idaho hoopsters copped their fourth and fifth straight victories of the campaign as they topped Idaho State, 38-37 and 49-29, in the Pocatello school's new million-dollar gym.

With the Idaho shooters finding their target quite elusive, it remained for the defenses to hold the Vandal fort. And hold it they did, for the Bengals were forced to bang away at the nets from distances requiring radar equipment. By limiting Idaho State to an average of 33 tallies per contest, the Silver and Gold resistance corps showed a vast improvement over previous contests and displayed a value equal in price to the new Bengal hoop home.

Friday's contest found the Vandal offensive power woefully lacking as they garnered but 38 points after racking up a 67.5 average in the first three contests, and the Idaho five could only post 13 tallies in the second half drought after leading the Bengals, 25-22, at halftime.

However, the Idaho defenses contained the Idaho State second half output to 15 tallies to provide the slimmest of victory margins, one point.

Idaho's defense proved even more efficient in the Saturday battle while the offense improved enough to garner a 20-point conquest. Backing up a 29-16 halftime lead, the Vandals were never seriously threatened by the panting Bengals.

After tonight's tiff with the Montana State university cagers, the Vandals will return to Memorial gym for a pair of tough encounters before hitting the road for Coeur d'Alene and a meeting with Gonzaga on December 18. The Idaho squad will then journey eastward for a December 23 tussle with Caterpillar Tractor of Peoria, Illinois, and the Oklahoma City tournament December 27-29.

Oilers Tomorrow

Invading Vandalville tomorrow will be the Phillips Oilers, AAU champions eight times in the past 15 years. In addition, the Oilers whipped the Beard, Groza, Jones, Rollins, and Barker aggregation of Kentucky Wildcats in 1948 to capture the United State Olympic trial championships.

Dotting the roster of the 66'ers is a group of former collegiate All-Americans including seven-foot Bob Kurland, former Oklahoma A&M star, and Loy Doty, former University of Wyoming ace.

Not only do the Oilers possess a corral of stars, but they can floor a quintet averaging a celestial mark of six feet, nine inches. Among the taller men are Kurland at seven feet, Bill Kleine at 6' 10", Bus Whitehead at 6' 9", and Bob Pierce at 6' 7".

The Vandals will then complete their pre-Yule home calendar with Memphis State on Saturday, December 15.

Sigma Chi Volleyball Champs

Gorjon Taylor of the Sigma Chi intramural volleyball championship team spikes the pill against Campus club in the tournament final. Meanwhile his teammates watch in admiration. Right to left they are Joe Haycock (back to camera); Steve Douglas; Bruce Sweeney; Bill Luscher, who is jumping rope with an invisible twine; and Bob Campbell, who seems to be remembering that he left his shower cap at home.

Intramural

Starting tonight the maple court men will take over the Intramural limelight. This evening's contests are the only ones slated for this week because of conflicts with the varsity games. Tonight at 7:30, the Alpha Tau Omega cagers will battle the Sigma Alpha Epsilon casaba crew, and the Phi Gamma Delta five will take the floor against the Beta Theta Pi squad.

Final point standings have been determined on the basis of last week's play-offs. Sigma Chi edged the Campus club squad to win the trophy for this year along with the university championship. These two teams were the cream of their leagues, although Willis Sweet garnered top points in the Hall leagues because both her teams totaled better than CC1 and CC2's sum.

Olympic Year Changes Boxing Rules; Smoker Slated Friday

By Don Theophilus Jr.
Latest NCAA rule changes will drastically affect the 1951-52 boxing season. In connection with this Olympic year, college boxers will compete at ten weights instead of the usual eight.

Other rulings released indicate that lineups all over the country will have to be reshuffled. Under the new system Idaho will fight at the following weights:

- 112-pounds
- 119
- 125
- 132
- 139
- 147
- 156
- 165
- 178
- HW

Dual meets and all tournaments including the national collegiate and Olympic tryouts, will be conducted on this basis.

Another point that has coaches pondering concerns forfeits in the lower weights. In dual meets at the 112 and 119-pound brackets no forfeits will be allowed if one of the schools cannot enter a man in the weight.

This means, in other words, that if Idaho has a man in the bantamweight division and Gonzaga doesn't, the match will not count one for the Vandals as it has in the past.

Another regulation states that a boxer will fight 50 per cent of his contests in the weight for which he is entered in the national tournament. This holds for all except those 112 and 119-pound weights.

Under this rule, Larry Moyer, for example, would have to box half of his bouts at 178 pounds if he wanted to enter in the nationals in this division. Frankly Echevarria could fight all his fights at 125 pounds during the season and then drop to 119 for the tournament.

Friday night, December 14, at 8:00 p.m. in Memorial gym, the Vandals will hold their annual intrasquad boxing bouts. There will be nine or ten matches during the evening. Each pairing will be for three rounds of two minutes each. Coach Frank Young will referee.

T CLUB

There will be an I club meeting tonight at 7:00 in conference room A of the SUB. I Club President Myron Hodgson announced that membership cards will be passed out. All men eligible for letter sweaters are requested to attend.

THE DU PONT DIGEST

M.E.'s AT DU PONT [3] Plant engineering and production supervision offer interesting careers for science graduates

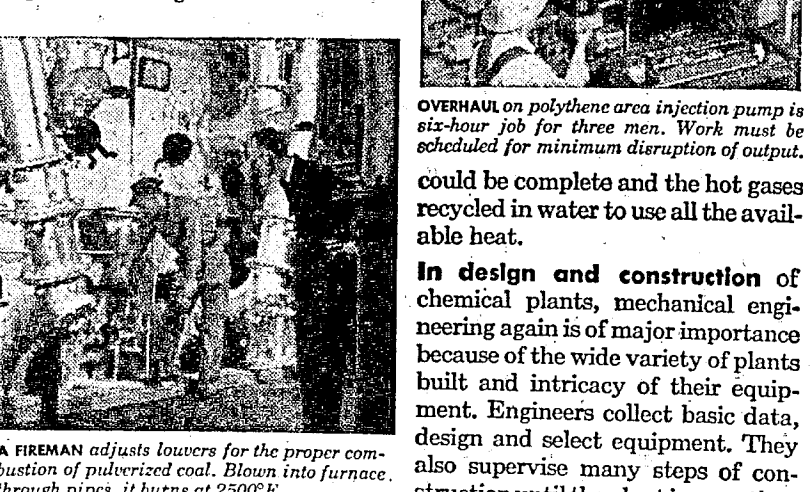

In the past two issues of the Digest you've read of the broad opportunities that are offered mechanical engineers in research and development work at Du Pont.

This month let's look at opportunities for men interested in any of the branches of plant engineering—such as maintenance, power, design and construction—or in production supervision.

Efficient maintenance is an important cost factor in the continuous processes of a modern chemical industry. The M.E. is called upon to diagnose troubles, work out corrective measures, and supervise repairs.

Frequently he increases production by developing preventive maintenance measures. So vital is this work that in one division of the Company, 500 men of all crafts, along with a routine maintenance group, spend almost all their time on it.

One example of the problems facing Du Pont engineers is the main-

F. E. SPELLMAN, JR., B.S.M.E., M.M.E., Ohio State '51, and D. A. Smith, B.S.M.E., Purdue '40, discuss a change in feed wheel design of nylon spinning machine.

Production supervision attracts many mechanical engineers. Men who have the ability and interest usually move into it by one or two routes: they acquire background on all stages of a plant's operations by helping design the plant, or by operating on the job.

Sometimes students of mechanical engineering feel that in a chemical company they will be overshadowed by chemical personnel. This is not the case at Du Pont. Here, hundreds of administrators and supervisors, up to the rank of vice-president, started as M.E.'s.

Opportunities for men and women with many types of training are described in the 40-page brochure "The Du Pont Company and the College Graduate." For your free copy, address 2521 Nemours Bldg., Wilmington, Del.
