

On page two you will find a letter to the editor in which R. N. Mangus objects to Jason's comment of February 12 concerning press freedom and censorship.

Mr. Mangus, we fear that emotion has dimmed your reason in this case. First of all let me ask, are there not jokes in the Argonaut? If you read the Argonaut (and evidently you do) you will find that we still have jokes.

And while we are at it, Mr. Mangus, the present Jason is not a representative of any "special interest of a certain group or groups around here."

Then to Blot magazine. That publication was temporarily suspended until it is once again financially feasible to resume publication. As soon as there are enough students on campus again to support Blot it will be resumed.

The Russian genius has done it again. This time the redskins report that they are training honey bees to follow the party line.

Speaking of the reds, if anyone is making a study of their propaganda methods we can help them out. Each week several reams of copy enters this office that must be tossed in file 13.

We often wonder just what holds so many students back from working on publications or other activities. In the recent past there has been a dearth of people who are willing to work.

At the present moment the ASUI publications are screaming for help, and most of the other activities are being handled by a few people who have too darned much to do.

As we sat in the Bucket the other day we couldn't help but feel there was a conspiracy about, to freeze friends and sneeze people.

We would like to know why the center doorway could not be kept closed in winter, and only the two end doorways be used.

Coeds Race For Presidency

Idaho coeds go to the polls tomorrow to elect AWS officers for the coming year. Pictured above are Erlene Clyde and Mary Hansen, University Juniors, who are running for the office of president.

Final Balloting Takes Place Tomorrow To Choose AWS Officers For 1952

Final elections for six major AWS officers will be held tomorrow in the Ad building with Idaho coeds voting from 9 a. m. until 4:15 p. m. for the 12 candidates selected in the primary run-offs last week.

Mary Hansen and Erlene Clyde are candidates for president. The candidate who receives the second highest number of votes will be chosen vice president while the highest serves in the presidential capacity.

T Club Members Entertain Boosters Before Ball Game

Approximately 150 Idahoans from all parts of the state were represented at the Vandal Boosters' dinner Saturday night in the SUB central ballroom.

Boosters from as far south as Twin Falls attended, with almost every town in the northern part of the state represented at the buffet-style dinner.

The purpose of the dinner was to acquaint the Vandal Boosters with men in Idaho sports. It was also hoped to develop their interest in raising financial contributions for Idaho athletics.

During the dinner all University coaches were introduced. They in turn introduced members of the various athletic teams.

The Kimberly Bagpipers afforded entertainment for the evening. Later, all the Boosters attended the evening basketball game as guests of the "T" club.

ANNOUNCERS NEEDED

Script writers and announcers are still needed at KUOI, campus radio station. Any student with an empty place in his schedule is requested to contact Bob Burnham, station director about working in the mentioned positions.

International Ensemble Will Perform Thursday

Next in the series for community concert-goers will be the program of the "Virtuosi Di Roma" Thursday, February 21, at 8:00 p. m. at Bohler gymnasium in Pullman.

Fourteen instrumentalists compose the ensemble, called the "great instrumental ensemble of this age," by Toscanini. Each member of the group, known in Europe as the "Collegium Musicum Italiaeum," is a solo performer and frequently appears as soloist with the ensemble.

The Virtuosi di Roma took America by storm last year in their introductory concerts. Press and public alike hailed their appearance as one of the great musical events of all time and invoked their decision to return.

Phone Men To Interview U. Students

A five-man delegation from the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company will interview prospective employees for that company here Tuesday, February 26, according to University placement director, Harlow Campbell.

According to L. W. Ross, general employment manager for the company, there are some 1,350 job openings throughout the country for students in the above divisions.

Monday evening preceding the interviews a joint A.I.E.E. and A.S.M.E. meeting is slated for 4 p. m. in room 125 of the Engineering building.

Candidates for AWS treasurer are Margaret Alley, sophomore, and Pat Harris, junior.

June Carr and Janet Fulton will vie for 1953 May queen. Theta president, the past year, Janet was also vice president of AWS and executive board member.

Maid of Honor Peggy George, Kappa Kappa Gamma, and Kate Church, Alpha Chi Omega, were chosen in the preliminaries to run for Maid of Honor.

International Ensemble Will Perform Thursday

Next on the program of community concert artists, is Alec Templeton. Templeton, a blind pianist, will perform at Moscow on March 13.

William Kapell, young American pianist, is listed as the last in the series of concert artists. He is replacing dual pianists Labozhutz and Nemenoff in the April concert at Pullman.

Kapell, though still in his twenties, has toured across the United States, Canada, Europe, Australia, New Zealand, and South America. He has played 42 times with the Philadelphia orchestra and has made almost three dozen appearances in the city of Chicago.

University of Idaho students will be admitted to community concerts by their ASUI cards.

Theme of Discussion Next Week Is 'A College Student's Religion'

Photography Competition Announced

Kappa Alpha Mu, national collegiate honorary devoted to photo journalism, has announced its annual competition for college photographers with entries being accepted until April 1.

Students enrolled in any college or university are eligible to enter, up to 10 prints with no more than five entries in each of the four classes — picture story, feature, news and sports.

Judging will be done in amateur and professional divisions. Students earning at least half their income from photography will compete in the latter division.

The portfolio winner in the amateur class will receive a scholarship to the University of Missouri Photo Workshop from May 11 to 19. A $25 bonus will be given to this winner if his prints emphasize college life.

First, second and third winners in each class of both divisions will receive certificates of award. All persons who place in the show will receive certificates in addition to national recognition.

Outstanding photo journalists will judge this year's competition at the national convention of the University of Nebraska. Entry blanks and contest rules may be obtained from Vernon E. Miller, National Executive Secretary, 18 Walter Williams hall, University of Missouri, Columbia, Miss.

Date Is Scheduled For Annual Show Of Campus Talent

Campus talent will again come into the spotlight for the annual Blue Key Talent show scheduled for March 14. Sponsored by the men's senior service honorary, the show is open to all campus students for participation.

Two trophies have been ordered and will be awarded following the completion of the show program to the winning man and the winning coed participants.

'Plastic' Set Used To Produce Hamlet

Work on the set which will be used in the coming production of Hamlet is nearing completion. A "plastic" set will be used this year which will utilize lighting, props, and audience imagination for divisions and audience effect.

The set will consist of a rising series of steps to depict a castle and the grave scene will be taken care of by a trap door in the stage. Lighting and color will be used to bring out the Gothic arches and to establish the impression of a castle in the late Gothic period.

Ballif Opens Week With Talk Sunday P.M.

"A College Student's Religion" will serve as the theme for Religious Emphasis Week which goes into full swing Sunday afternoon to continue until Thursday, February 28, on the Idaho campus.

Buchanan Reports Faculty Promotion Of Luke and Cook

Two faculty promotions at the University were announced recently by President J. E. Buchanan, following board of regents approval.

Associate Professor George L. Luke was raised to professor and made chairman of physics in the college of letters and science, and Asst. Professor Earl Cook was made acting head of geology in the school of mines.

Professor Luke's promotion comes as a closing tribute to an outstanding teaching career at the University. Reaching the statutory age of 70, he will retire in June after having taught physics here for 32 years.

Cook joined the University staff at the start of the current school year, coming from Denver, where he was a supervisor for Geophoto Services. Familiar with the geology of two continents, he studied at the University of Paris in France and the University of Geneva in Switzerland.

Idaho to Join In WSC Jam Session

Musicians from Idaho, W.S.C., Spokane, and the surrounding area will be heard at the TUB in Pullman at 3 p.m. Sunday when they take part in the third of a series of jazz concerts between the two schools.

The concert will be recorded by KBKH, Pullman, for release at a later date. Another jazz session has been scheduled for April and will be held at the Student Union building.

Editor For Time Magazine Will Speak To Journalists

John Scott, author, foreign correspondent and former chief of several foreign news bureaus for Time magazine, is scheduled to speak to University journalism students and other interested persons Friday at 11 a. m.

Speaking in room 103 of the University Classroom building, Scott will address the group for one half hour on "Time and U.S. Journalism" followed by one half hour of discussion. Scott is currently speaking on phases of journalism to colleges and universities throughout the country.

The well-known correspondent filed his first dispatches as a correspondent for the weekly newsmagazine from Japan in 1941 and has since been Time New York editor, state department correspondent and chief of Time's central European bureau in Berlin. Since January of this year he has been an editor for Time, Inc., in a secret air force project being produced by the "March of Time."

Two weeks before the German attack against the U.S.S.R., Soviet authorities expelled Scott from the country for slandering Soviet foreign policy and "inventing" reports of Soviet-German friction. The author is 39 years old, married and has two children who live in Ridgefield, Conn. Scott was graduated from George school in Pennsylvania and also attended the University of Wisconsin.

Betas Take Final Round Of Tourney

Stu Hitchins and Bob Kleffner, Beta bridge enthusiasts, emerged victorious in the annual intercollegiate bridge tournament on the Idaho campus following the third and final session in the local rounds Sunday.

The partners ran up a 227 1/2 score to win the traveling plaque. Other high scorers were Bob Parish and Bert Wohlschlagal, Beta, 226; John Nixon and Frank Bowles, Fiji, 210 1/2; and Patsy Peiser and Marian Cook, Delta Gamma, 215 1/2.

Hands for the regional contest will be played off tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock in SUB conference room A. The four highest scoring partners will participate in the mail round of prepared bridge hands.

The winners of the regional contest will be announced on or about March 15 and those winners will participate in the national finals in Chicago April 18 and 19. Marilyn Evans was the Idaho campus chairman with Mrs. Rolston Butterfield in charge of the prepared hands and rules.

DEAR JASON

Re your column in 12 February issue of the Argonaut; about California school paper. It was a nice little commentary until you came to that third paragraph about censorship at U.I. Come now—what about our immortal Hyde Jacobs, who represented the interests of a certain group or groups around here last semester, in regard to Argonaut jokes? Furthermore, what about the famous case of the Idaho Blot? Censorship? No, just meddling and unwarranted interference with what little evidence of individuality is left on this campus.

Very sincerely,
R. N. Magnus
(Ed. Note: See Jason column for comments.)

Challenge

We, the undersigned, being members of an elite and noble vocation and social fraternity, not members of a high but lousy professional honorary, and in sound mind, not one clouded by laws, and in the soundest of health, do hereby challenge the intelligent, movable portion of the 3rd floor of yon Ad building, south wing, in name, the lawyers of Phi Alpha Delta, to a contest involving the athletic abilities of members of a forementioned organizations, namely a contest termed basketball.

The said contest, to be of the highest calibre possible, and competition to be under the common rules of sportsmanship, shall occur at halftime of the Idaho-Oregon basketball game on the eve of February 25th in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and fifty-two.

Please reply by carrier pigeon from forementioned dens in Ad building.

Truman Is Criticized By Malone

Senator George W. Malone, republican from Nevada, labeled the Truman administration as part of an "international socialist clique" in a scathing anti-democratic Lincoln Day address to Young Republicans here last Friday. Appearing before a group of students and faculty, the veteran congressman stated that the "nation's Republicans must have a positive program in the next election in order to cut the life line which holds the American people to the present socialist-Marxist administration in Washington."

Malone declared that the present administration's policies, both foreign and domestic, were leading the country to disaster. He attacked the European spending program and pictured the United States as one who picks up Britain's check. The Nevada senator said that Britain was "sitting on a fence trying to decide which way to jump." He added that the United States should "tell her which way to jump, and make her jump."

Weak State Departments
The state department also was the object of Malone's scorn in its dealings with the Russian satellite nations. He attacked the department for its refusal to exert strength in contacts with these countries.

Malone said that there was a definite reason for the unwritten law of only two terms for the president. He added that he "would not like to be responsible for any party if it had been in office for 12 years." The senator felt that Truman would run for the office again, however. In a pre-address interview, Malone stated that "wild horses couldn't prevent Harry Truman from running again for the presidential nomination."

Cut Spending
In answer to questions from the audience, Malone stated that he would cut down government spending by "abolishing the Indian Bureau and cutting down appropriations to Europe."

Malone commended the two

"HENDERSON!... word has gotten to me that you've been licking your fingers..."

Scarcity Of Male Engineers Leads Women To Profession

Since the time that women were granted the vote (or should we say seized) strong men have trembled and foretellers of the future have gazed with gloom into their crystals. Insomnia and suicides ran hand in hand as great leaders sorrowfully contemplated an existence on this earth in which women shouted "jump" and men asked "how high" as they were on the way up.

But as is the way with most dire predictions, these, too, failed to materialize and the fair sex invaded the haunts of men only in cases of utmost necessity. They went right on having babies and except for a few scattered instances, the male of the species has been the better for his "generosity" in granting universal suffrage.

And it looks as though once more, as they did in the last war, women, secure in their infinite versatility, are coming to the rescue. It is reliably reported that there are a considerable number of jobs open to women who are capable of handling positions in the engineering profession, and does industry ever need them.

Need More Engineers
Blame it on the birth rate, blame it on poor policy, the fact remains that we need 30,000 engineering graduates annually and we are not going to get them. We are not going to get even half of them. The Secretary of Labor has placed all branches of industry on the list of critical occupations, but any way you want to look at it, the lack of enrollment in both the natural and applied sciences is hurting and it was painful before any Koreans started shooting at one another.

There are 148 accredited schools in the nation that grant degrees in engineering. They average 4.5 curricula per school. The University of Idaho grants 8 degrees in engineering and that could be food for thought for those who persist in running down Idaho at every opportunity.

Idaho has always placed her engineers and from all appearances, will continue to do so for some time. The Dean of Engineering reports that an average of one call a day has been made since September by representatives of engineering concerns. In the light of this, it is not surprising that a firm admitted sending out 22 engineers as talent scouts and having 21 return.

AW'S COFFE GUESTS
Six members of the Idaho school of education faculty will be guests of honor at this week's AWS apple-polishing session. The instructors include Dr. Hervon Snider, Dr. John Snider, Dr. Ray Berry, Dean J. Frederick Weltzin, Dr. Albert Sittlinger, and Dr. Frances Maib.

Idaho senators, Welker and Dworshak, for their work in the senate. Ezra Whittle, vice-chairman of the national committee, was also introduced during the program. Mrs. Delores Wood, district chairman of the Young Republicans, was another guest of the group. Senator Malone later appeared before a meeting of the Latah County Republicans at a Lincoln Day dinner Friday evening.

Friendship Is Stressed By International Group

By Irene Sterling
Friendships abroad are the goal of the Experiment in International Living, an educational organization which offers summer visits in 20 different countries. The purpose of the organization is to build in various countries groups of people who are interested in promoting mutual understanding and respect between their own and other lands.

The plan was founded in 1932 by Donald E. Watt, and is now directed by Gordon Boyce.

The "Experiment Way" is a challenging plan by which an internationally minded person may go abroad not just to see a country, but to learn to know its people. During the past 20 years the Experiment in International Living has provided some 4,000 students with the way to make enduring friendships in 20 countries in Europe, Asia and the three Americas. Under this plan each individual has the opportunity to live half the summer as a member of a selected family in another country.

How It Works
Normally experiment groups of five men and five women live in the same town for the first four weeks of the summer as members of separate families, where there is a young person of their own age. In this unique way each experimenter is confronted with the challenge of turning "foreigners" into friends. Making real friends abroad demands maturity, self-control and the ability to express oneself; basic requirements for adaptation to new and different customs and national attitudes.

A group is assigned to a trained leader who serves as a friend and adviser in helping experimenters understand another culture. During the second half of the summer the American invites his student host to accompany the group on a camping trip or bicycling trip to other parts of the country. With the help of his friend's viewpoint, the experimenter gains new perspectives and learns to see the country he is visiting from the inside.

Singing, dancing, cooking and biking together, the Americans and their "foreign" hosts strengthen their understanding of each other's ways and deepen their personal friendships.

What Is Gained
The Experiment is not an experience limited to the span of one summer. The experimenter forms friendships which permanently link him to another country and frequently lead to return visits. His new insight into another culture enriches the courses he takes at school; the places he visits, the experience gained in making friends in a strange environment aid him in solving other problems in human relations. In many countries the experimenter learns to think in another language.

In all countries he learns to think in the other fellow's shoes, what ever his nationality. Often an Experiment summer leads to a new direction in a college major or career. Several colleges now follow the precedent set by Colgate university in granting academic credit for a successfully concluded "Experiment" in a language-speaking group. Many experimenters have found a vocation in the international field with UN, ERP, UNESCO and the State Department.

Trips Next Summer
Countries to be visited next summer are: Austria, Germany, Columbia, Ecuador, Mexico, Spain, Italy, Brazil, Denmark, England, Belgium, Holland, India, Israel, Norway, Scotland, France, Sweden, Union of South Africa, and Yugoslavia.

Our Brother's Keeper

This is Brotherhood Week. The National Conference of Christians and Jews has set aside February 17-24 for the emphasis of "brotherhood."

Unfortunately "brotherhood" is a word that very few people seem to understand. It seems to be a little abstract in their thoughts. Webster says that the word means: "The state or quality of being brothers or a brother."

It seems strange that such a simple definition should not have permeated people's heads. Go out on the street and ask the first ten people you see if they believe in world brotherhood. "Sure do, great thing"—unanimity.

Ask them what they think of persecution of minorities, of intolerance on the basis of "race" or color. "Terrible, just terrible!"—unanimity.

But then pick up a copy of almost any recent newspaper—the headlines tell a different story. "FBI Swoops Down On Ten Klansmen," "Chinese Bets On Democracy—Loses," "Indians Discriminated Against To Great Extent In This Area"—these three were taken from the Lewiston Morning Tribune of February 17, 1952.

Three headlines on the day Brotherhood Week began told graphically how well we are practicing this "brotherhood" that we all believe in so strongly.

"Nez Perce Indians are discriminated against in seeking employment, in joining civic organizations and in general social activities," the last story said.

But the best illustration is probably the story about the Chinese who bet on democracy and lost. Sing Sheng, a former Chinese nationalist intelligence officer, his American-born wife, and their small son wanted to live in the Southwood residential district of San Francisco.

Sing made a $2,950 down payment on a house in the district, bought furniture, and made plans to move in. But the neighbors (who probably believe in "brotherhood") objected. "At first," Sing recalled, "they tried to use a little bit of threat. It was suggested little children might throw rocks and dump garbage on the house if I bought it."

Sing met with Southwood home owners and proposed a vote—"because I was sure everybody really believed in democracy." The ballot was arranged and Sing agreed to abide by the results, even though he could not be legally excluded from the district.

The Southwood home owners had their chance to preserve their precious "property values." The final count read 174 to 28 against Sing.

If you walked down the streets of Southwood tomorrow and asked the first ten people you saw whether or not they believed in brotherhood, they would undoubtedly reply, "Sure do, great thing."

But they, like so many of us, have apparently forgotten that "brotherhood" as a word is just a glob of 11 letters which looks good in print and sounds good when spoken, the same as "democracy." "Brotherhood" only means something when people make it mean something—by the way they treat their fellow man.

Movie Bases Plot On Dreams As Experiment

"Dreams That Money Can Buy," an experimental movie made in New York in 1945, plays tomorrow in the Borah room at the usual 4, 7, and 8:30 p.m. times. The usual 25c admission will be charged.

This unusual color film employs such famous art subjects as Max Ernst's "Desire", Duchamp's "Nude Descending a Staircase", and Calder's unique mobile "Circus", for the exploitation of interpreting—in a Freudian sense—people's dreams.

The story involves a man who discovers he can see into people's eyes and thus into their subconscious minds. When he offers his talent to people as a dream salesman, the difference in people's personalities is revealed.

Hans Richter, producer of this film, is not only an artist in his own right, but also is now CCNY's teacher of movie techniques. Josh White, though not appearing in the film, sings in his own incomparable style, a scenario for "The Girl With The Prefabricated Heart!"

The New York Post said this about the movie: "There is a profound difference between (this) picture and the ordinary entertainment setting forth a story which can be understood by intellect. Most pictures require a minimal effort of the mind, but great or small, conscious or reflex, it is an intellectual process. Richter attempts to by-pass the intellect by making his appeal directly to the emotions.

Prayer For Peace Sent Over Nation

A prayer for peace was recently sent out by church and interfaith groups to educational, political and business leaders and was broadcast by a nationally-known radio team. The response was amazing. Hundreds of thousands are now using this daily prayer:

From the point of Light within the Mind of God

Let light stream forth into the minds of men.

Let Light descend on Earth.

From the point of Love within the Heart of God

Let Love stream forth into the hearts of men.

May Christ return to Earth.

From the center where the Will of God is known

Let purpose guide the little wills of men—

The purpose which the Master knows and serves.

From the center which we call the race of men

Let the Plan of Love and Light work out.

And may it seal the door where evil dwells.

Let Light and Love and Power restore the Plan on Earth.

He: My mother used to rock me to sleep every night.

She: How sweet!

He: Yeh, but I wish she hadn't used such big rocks.

as you first approach the film it automatically becomes a closed book, and you never get anything out of it."

The symbolism is abstract enough to leave adequate interpretation to each person who sees the film.

The first exhibit last December featured various historic periods in weaving and the current display follows in sequence showing development toward modern patterns.

Many of these designs are variations based on historic patterns, others have been inspired from forms in nature, as floral designs, and some are imaginary creations.

The Scal-amandre family is among America's foremost designers and manufacturers in the textile industry.

Teenagers Attend YMCA Conference

The YMCA pre-legislative conference was held here Saturday with 60 high school students from Northern Idaho and Eastern Washington in attendance.

This session, held along with others in Idaho and Washington, is in preparation for the annual YMCA boy legislatures held in Boise and Olympia in April.

The session featured discussions by several University of Idaho and Washington State officials. Included as speakers were Rafe Gibbs, director of information at the University; Bernard Boring, instructor in political science at the University; Willard F. Rouse of the YMCA area staff; Daniel Ogden of Washington State, and Abe Goff, Moscow attorney and former U. S. congressman.

Two men were working on the White House lawn, each supplied with a small push cart upon which was a garbage can. They walked about picking up papers with a long spear. One spied a piece of toilet paper and started to spear it, when a gust of wind came up and blew the paper into the White House through an open window.

The man became frantic and rushed into the building. He returned shortly and said: "I was too late. He had already signed it."

Cage Contest

Dale Chaney, Campus Chesterfield representative, announces a sports contest on Idaho's two remaining basketball games. Second and third places will receive five packages of Chesterfields each.

Entries will be made on the inside of a Chesterfield wrapper and placed in the box in the Student Union lobby. Contest closes Saturday at 4 p.m. Winners will be announced in the Argonaut.

Huskies Capture N D Crown As Vandals Bow Twice

Washington's Huskies proved once and for all which team is the best in the Northern Division this season as they took the University of Idaho Vandals to task, 79-64 and 75-66, last Friday and Saturday evenings at Memorial gymnasium. By virtue of their weekend sweep, the Huskies clinched the ND bunting, thus moving one step nearer their goal of copying NCAA honors before the home folks in Seattle next month.

Friday night it was a mixture of Bob Houbregs and Frank Guisness greatness that eclipsed the Vandal efforts with Saturday night's recipe including the ingredient of Joe Cipriano as added flavor. Although these men were undoubtedly the top Washington performers in the two-game set, they received excellent support from the other half of the "big six", Doug McClary, Mike McCutchen, and Duane Enochs.

Even Once Saturday
The Vandals managed to keep pace with the high-flying Huskies until midway through the second period in Friday's encounter. After that the nearest the Vandals came to heading the brilliant ND champs was at the start of Saturday's battle when the count was 0-0, and that wasn't for long.

As far as connecting with the hoop from the field was concerned, the Vandals did an excellent job. On each night the Idaho quintet potted better than 40 per cent of its shots. However, each night the Huskies also hit better than 40 per cent — only each time a slightly higher "better than 40 per cent."

It was Washington's accuracy from the free throw line that extended the margin in each game. Idaho's shooting from the charity stripe was pitiful indeed Friday night as it failed to hit even half of its attempts, and Saturday's improvement was far from being sufficient.

Magnificent McIntosh
High man in the scoring department for the Vandals each night was Bruce McIntosh, who turned in his usual sterling brand of basketball. Minnie flipped in 11 points on Friday and 15 on Saturday for 26 counters in all, while Houbregs matched Bruce's over-all total in each tussle for the Huskies.

Having bade the Huskies fond farewell, the Vandals will now settle down for a week's preparation for the Oregon Duck invasion slated for Monday and Tuesday, February 25 and 26. The Idahoans might be hard pressed to maintain their second place standing.

Idaho Leatherswingers Hope To Upset Undefeated Zags

Looking for an upset, University of Idaho boxers play host tonight to Gonzaga's undefeated squad in the last home appearance of the season for the Vandals. Starting at 8:00 in Memorial gym, the card will feature eight varsity bouts and one or two exhibitions.

The Vandals will try to return to winning ways. Invading California in their last outing they were dropped by the San Jose State Spartans 5½ to 2½. Previous to this Coach Frank Young's club had topped WSC 4-3 and Minnesota 5-3.

Fans should find plenty of action in matches scheduled for tonight. Coach Joey August's mitt team is rated as one of the most powerful in college circles this season.

Moyer v. McMurtry
Larry Moyer of Idaho versus Mike McMurtry in the light-heavyweight division should be the headline bout of the evening. McMurtry is a sensational freshman that just graduated from high school at the semester.

In his first varsity fight the Gonzaga youngster lost a narrow decision to Michigan State's national champ, Chuck Spieser, 29-28 at Spokane. He followed this with an impressive win over WSC's Gordy Gladson.

Franky Echevarria at the lead-off weight will draw either Terry Smith or Gordon Simington. Terry Smith is the freshman brother of capable Dave Smith, Gonzaga's 147-pounder. Simington is a senior who Franky has already beaten four times during his career.

Other Half
Johnny Echevarria, the other half of Idaho's brother team, will meet either Simington or Wes Langford. Langford is a veteran who has not seen action this year.

Lynn Nichols will hit the comeback trail against highly rated Dave Powell from the Boone avenue school. Dave is undefeated in four starts and is a Spokane invitational champion. He has a rangy build and will have both the reach and height over Nichols.

Idaho's rapidly improving heavyweight, Hal Solinsky, will trade blows with Bill Schertler in the final bout of the evening. Schertler has yet to fight varsity

JV Quintet Splits Weekend Series With Worley, NIJC

By BOB HEATHERLY

The Vandal JayVees split a brace of games last weekend as they easily downed the Worley town team by a decisive 91-37 margin Friday night and dropped a thrilling 48-45 decision to the North Idaho Junior college courtmen Saturday night in an overtime contest.

In the first contest, Worley scored two gift shots to take an early lead but after six minutes of the initial quarter there was no doubt as to the outcome of the game. The Vandal JayVees, led by Don Monson, racked up eight consecutive points. The half time score was 23 to 17 in favor of Idaho.

Come Back Strong
Following the intermission, the Vandal junior varsity came back strong and controlled the ball game to the end.

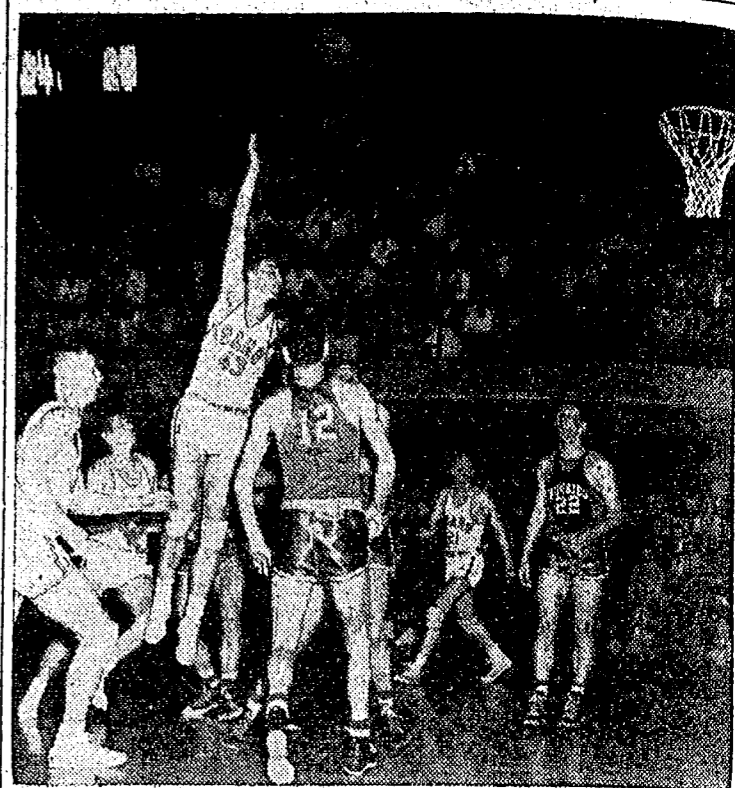

Saturday night offered a much closer contest with the two quintets never separated by more than a few points in the first half. At the sound of the half time buzzer, the score was knotted at 23 points. During the opening moments of the third period Idaho built up an eight point lead and led NIJC 37-35 at the end of the quarter.

Build Up Lead
The Vandals built up a lead at the opening of the final stanza, but the time was growing late at this point and the officials decided to cut the game short to get the teams off the court by 7:00 p.m.

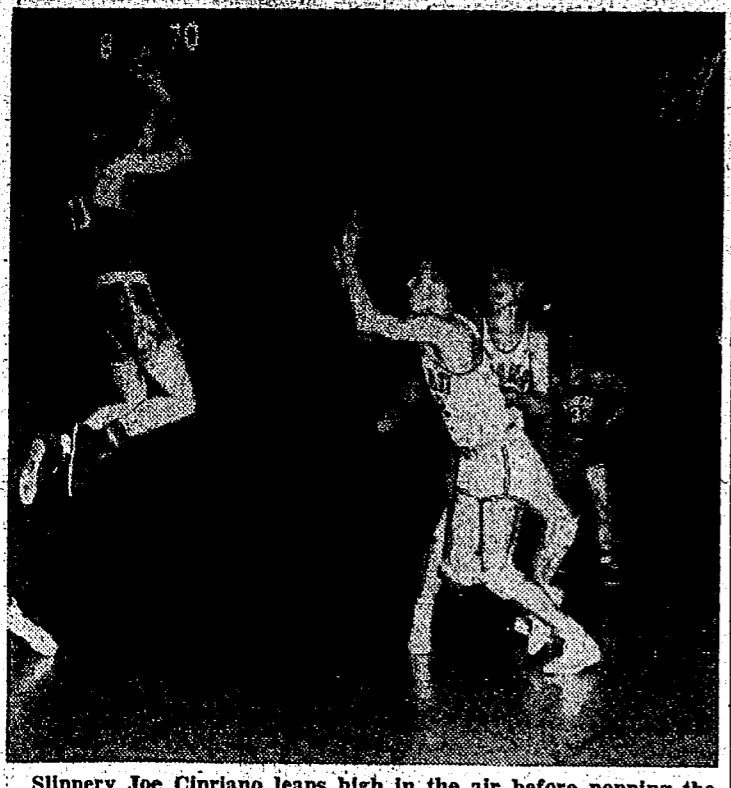

In the closing seconds of this shortened period NIJC's Bill Manjika sank a field goal to tie the score at 45-45. In the sudden death overtime period that followed the Idaho squad never handled the ball as NIJC sank a free throw and a field goal. Don Wilson's shot clinched the game for the upstate squad.

Sideline Chatter

By Boyden

At the conclusion of the weekend series between the Vandals and the Washington Huskies, both teams left the court with a feeling of glee, although of varying degrees. The Huskies were elated over the fact that they had copied their second straight Northern Division title and the Vandals were happy indeed to see the Huskies leaving town.

Not too often does a basketball fan get a chance to witness as fine a basketball aggregation in action as the University of Washington quintet. And not too often does one get the chance to witness the play of such stars as Frank Guisness and Bob Houbregs. There is probably no doubt in anyone's mind that this duo will be selected on the All-Northern Division and more than likely All-Pacific Coast teams at the end of the season.

All-America?
There is also a likely chance that both will receive All-America mention, although only one of them could hope to receive first team honors. At least that has been the situation in years past. The west coast voting contingent has never had the volume to overcome the eastern bloc in previous selections. Very seldom has one player from the coast been fortunate enough to crack the "glory" five—a situation which should be remedied.

Guisness, especially, proves to be a cage artist of great merit. With Tippy Dye's offense seemingly based on a continuous feed to Houbregs, Guisness must count his points mainly on his own hoof. To wit, Mr. Guisness tallied 25 counters on Friday night by exploding from nearly every angle while Houbregs merely snagged a teammate's pass and hooked it through the meshing.

Deadly Hook

I don't mean to take any credit away from Houbregs, who possesses the deadliest hook since Captain Kidd roamed the high seas, but it seems to me that Guisness has to work much harder to tally his evening's share of counters.

Although Guisness is one of the finest cage athletes I've had the pleasure to witness, I also think he's among the "hammies" of actors in hoop circles, Hollywood productions, or what have you. In fact, several of the Huskies have developed the practice of folding up or taking various and sundry prat falls on the slightest contact or indication of contact with an opponent. Guisness, however, has come up with a facial expression for each type of foul the refs call on him or fail to call on the other guy. Obviously, with the officiating during the recent series, Guisness' resembled a quick-change artist.

Slippery Clip

One incident in Saturday's contest found Joe Cipriano staggering about with hand on head as if he had been stung on the kisser by the meat end of a pugilist's paw — however, Slippery Joe wasn't acting as can be attested by his partially toothless grin. Slippery Clip, possessor of trick skip, swivel hip, and of recent, a split lip, was the victim of an all too obvious foul. However, you can't blame the officials for not handing out a just punishment. The foul was much, much too obvious for them to see.

I hadn't heard about any animals escaping from a nearby circus or zoo, but my view was continually obstructed by a couple of zebras (otherwise known as j---a---es with stripes) running up and down the court. What's that

Vandal Splashers Set for Wet Week

The Idaho tank team gets a double dose of meets this week WSC hosts Idaho Wednesday at WSC, and a quadruple meet with EWCE, WWCE, and the University of British Columbia is slated at Cheney this Saturday.

The chances for an Idaho win this Wednesday with WSC seem extremely slim, because of the number of experienced swimmers on the Cougar team. Jim Moore on the boards, Dick Wartena in distances and Dick Warren in the individual medley will be Idaho's hopes. Jim Moore took diving away from the Cougar team in the last WSC-Idaho meet; and with the improvement Wartena and Warren have been showing in cutting their times down, there ought to be worthwhile hopes for the Vandals.

The condition of the Vandal swimmers has been improved greatly since the start of the season—especially among the five freshmen swimmers on the ten-man varsity squad. This quintet includes Bob Crawford, Wayne Johnson, Dick Erhardt, Al Lewis, and Jim Stanton. It is expected that next year these five will be in good shape for next season's meets.

CH Quintet Grabs IM 'A' Hoop Title

Chrisman Hall trailing Sigma Nu 14-22 at the half came back to win the Intramural "A" basketball championship 31-28, last Thursday at Memorial gym.

Sigma Nu got off to a good start and at one point in the game led Chrisman Hall 14-4. Chrisman stayed about eight points behind all through the first half but kept a good pace up to tire Sigma Nu and in that way was able to defeat the bigger team.

George McCarty led the Sigma Nu attack with 12 points and Gordon Cook paced the Chrisman Hall team with 7 points.

Intramural

Intramural ping pong is progressing rapidly and contestants are urged to play their scheduled games by next Tuesday.

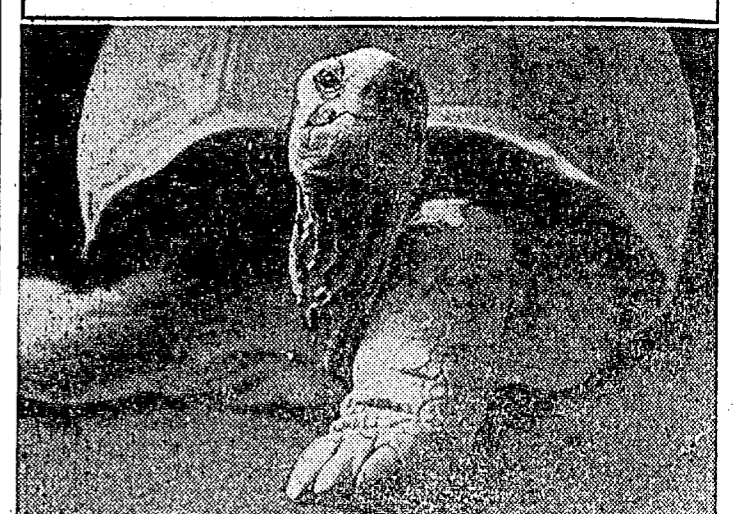

Intramural "A" basketball came to a close last week with Chrisman hall winning over Sigma Nu 31 to 28. Intramural "B" basketball started last Saturday. The games will be played every afternoon except Friday.
