

Campus Drive For Funds Opens With Dance Tonight

A carnival taxi dance will open the 1952 Campus Chest drive at the campus March 7 with a goal of $2,000 set by committee members. Junior class president Bruce McIntosh announced that the affair tonight, scheduled for the SUB from 8-10 p.m., will feature eleven booths and a taxi dance in which coeds collect a fee each dance.

A good many of the nation's colleges seem to be in an uproar over the honor system and student honesty (student cheating - to put it more clearly).

During the past month, various press clippings from the Associated Collegiate Press have told of students arguing for and against the honor system and of the trouble some colleges have with dishonest students.

While we are not so naive that we believe no cheating exists on this campus, it is heartening that the problem of honesty has not become a big issue here. There is something wrong with a college where cheating becomes so bad that an investigation is needed. When we say college we mean both faculty and students.

Double Blame

Most of the blame for cheating belongs to the student, quite true, but an apathetic faculty may also contribute its bit. Courses become dull by much repetition, the same exams are used year after year, and students are looked upon as doggone nuisances — all these are things the faculty of a college may do to help students become academically dishonest.

We hope that Idaho students have enough personal integrity to continue being honest, and that Idaho faculty will continue to help make college interesting enough to avoid cheating.

One of the oddest paradoxes in the modern world is that supposedly intelligent college students would try to get through college without working. Seems strange that they would not realize they are cheating themselves.

Something new in campus entertainment will be tried this spring. At this week's Executive Board meeting a plan was approved whereby an all campus dance will be scheduled each month at the Student Union — complete with half-time entertainment and chow for "them as wants it."

The plan, presented by a Student Union committee under the direction of Gordon Cook and Ray Cox, is aimed at providing more entertainment for the students and to help the SUB pay for itself.

Many colleges do have successful all-campus dances provided by their student unions, and there is no reason why the idea could not be put across here.

We believe the plan is excellent. Students will be slightly batty if they do not take advantage of it.

When you get hold of your copy of next year's University catalog, best you hang on to it. It has been decided as an economy measure that catalogs will only be printed every other year. So if you plan on being around for a spell, hang on to that catalog instead of turning it in to a paper drive.

The wonderful wizards of Washington have done it again.

In 1946 Congress made plans to slim itself down by cutting down on the number of committees. Before the "reducing" took place there were 95 committees belonging to the senate and house. At present there are 203 committees. Someone must have slipped a mickey into their reducing pills.

Three Films Slated For Wildlife Meet

Moscow Wildlife association will present three films at their next monthly meeting at the American Legion cabin at 8 p.m. Tuesday, March 18.

The films are "Hunters Paradise," "Fishermans Paradise," and "Whistling Wings." They depict phases of wildlife sports such as hunting geese and ducks in Arkansas.

The meeting is open to the public and interested students are urged to attend.

Paul Bunyan Hosts Campus Celebrants

Fellas in levis and gals in plaids will visit Paul Bunyan's cabin Saturday night for some forest-type stompin'. Boots and shoes will be tapping to the tunes of Hugh Oriard's five-piece orchestra from Spokane at 8:30 p.m. in the SUB. Donna Rhodes will be the featured vocalist.

The walls of the central ballroom will be decorated with simulated logs. The departments in the school of forestry, wild life management, forest management, range management and wood utilization, will have displays depicting their branches of forestry.

Around Paul Bunyan's cabin in the south ballroom will be strewn the forester's tools of his trade.

Tickets for the dance in the main and south ballrooms are on sale in all men's living groups for $1.50 per couple.

The all-campus affair is sponsored by the Associated Foresters with DelMar Vail, Larry Young, Bob Lleurance, Red Andrus, and Warren Crabb heading the committees.

Templeton Show Leaves People Singing

"Probably the most significant thing about his appearance here was that after the performance people could be heard in snatches of song as they walked along the street, blocks from the theater where they heard them. Staid business men and women grey with dignity were forgetting themselves and singing on the street.

"The power to do that to people is a divine gift. It is one of the things that make Alec Templeton peerless."

The above, quoted from a Spokane paper, might give University of Idaho concert goers, some idea of what is in store for them next Thursday night, when Alec Templeton is to appear in the University auditorium.

The Templeton family have been called "one of the happiest and most unusual family groups this side of a story book cover." They don't believe in "vixels," they love Italian food, but literally live on music.

This becomes evident upon visiting their home in Greenwich, Conn., where "everything" either tinkles, chimes or plays a tune. Mr. Templeton collects music boxes and clocks, and "everything from the teapot to the cigarette cases plays a tune. Even one of our chairs is musical," says Mrs. Templeton.

"Midway Through Nash," is the title of the address by Ogden Nash scheduled Wednesday at 11 a.m. in the Memorial gymnasium. In the lecture, Nash will recite a number of his verses and comment on the turn of events in his life that brought about their creation.

Nash's particular brand of verse began while he was employed in the advertising department of Doubleday Page Publishing company.

"Parents Keep Out" is the title of his latest book. Nash's humor is represented in his discussion of his own arriving at middle-age, narrated in one of his books, "Verstus, or Let's Not Climb the Washington Monument Tonight." Nash describes the time as when "Nobody will speak loud enough for you to hear, and you go to the ball game and notice that even the umpires are getting younger every year."

Nash's appearance at the University is open to the public without charge.

Curtain club, dramatic honorary, tapped new members Saturday evening following the final curtain of the ASUI production "Hamlet."

New members include Beverly Alger, Jo Magee, Tom Wright, and Fred Burton. The initiation is scheduled for sometime next week with Larry Hyer and Tom Sawyer also being initiated at that time. They were tapped earlier in the year.

The board also agreed to sanction a proposal that Phi Mu Alpha, men's music fraternity, be allowed to set up a concession stand for the state music festival May 1, 2, and 3.

The group plans to have the stand on the lawn in front of the Music hall, according to Wayne Jepsen, who presented the proposal. Plans will be carried out if the University administration will give approval.

Scheduling of the social calendar is now running smoothly, according to a report presented in retaliation of objections to actions of the social calendar committee which had been brought to the attention of the board.

Hyde Jacobs gave a report on his recent trip to southeastern Idaho, accompanied by Dean Carter, Guy Wicks, and June Carr. The trip was financed by University administration.

The Vote For Fighting Men

Congress has once more shelved the highly controversial issue of universal military training. Hand in hand with UMT goes another question that lawmakers may well soon have to face—that of voting age. For many years voices have been raised "if they are old enough to fight, then they are old enough to vote."

Universal military training would call for the average young man to place himself in the grip of the military during what may be called the most important years of his life, from 18 to 26. That would mean he would have no voice in the manner of government he served for three years, or the legal voting age of 21.

A number of political leaders and educators in Illinois recently expressed their desire for a new law which would extend voting privileges to persons 18-years old and above. In a poll by the Bradley Scout, student newspaper at Bradley university, came up with these interesting results (below are a cross-section of the quotes):

"The average 18-year-old is not well enough versed on the national situation to vote wisely."

"With the higher educational standards in our high schools, 18-year-old voters could be equal to, if not better than, older voters as far as qualifications are concerned."

"This age group doesn't know enough about the world situation and government to vote."

"Those who fight at 18 should be allowed to vote."

Pic magazine conducted a survey of several governors throughout the nation. Here are some of the replies:

Gov. Elbert N. Carvel, Delaware, said: "If we are to call upon our young people time and time again to defend our way of life and should our universal military program become effective, I would welcome a law in the state of Delaware making these young people citizens."

J. Bracken Lee, Utah, said: "I am inclined to believe that if we draft 18-year-olds to fight in the defense of this country, we should at the same time take appropriate steps to provide them with the right to vote."

These are opinions expressed by men in high office, who are not just looking at the 18-year-old age group as merely future voters, but as people qualified to take an active place in the governmental machinery of their country. When the question of UMT comes up again before our congress, the lawmakers throughout the nation will find themselves confronted with a two-fold problem. One that cannot be merely shelved and forgotten.

French Widow Looks For Youth

"Un-Carnef du Bal," last night's cinema series presentation, is a photographic account of a widow's sentimental journey to the greener fields of her amorous youth. Prompted by boredom and loneliness, Christine, still attractive in her mid-thirties, leaves her Italian lakeside villa where she had dwelt in loveless, although exceedingly comfortable, circumstances during her marriage, to hunt up the partners listed in the program of a dance she attended in her sixteenth year.

In a series of episodes, Christine finds that "the boys" have for the most part been consigned by unrequited love to fates unworthy of their early promise. As the object of their affections, Madame, at sweet sixteen, must have been quite a busy femme fatale indeed.

Even though the film appears to have been rather ineptly cut here and there and, like its protagonists, shows its considerable age, it often manages to achieve a delicate statement of human feelings, particularly in those moments of self-awareness when each person realizes the disparity between what is and what might have been.

The heroine inevitably learns that the moments of greatest happiness in one's life are fleeting, and that in seeking to recapture them, one only succeeds in tarnishing the brightness of their memory. For not only does Christine find that everything has changed since the days of that ball, but that the ball itself never was quite so gay, so beautiful, so romantic, as she had idealized it.

The least satisfactory aspect of the film is the anticlimax ending which winds things up on such an inconclusive note that one wonders whether Christine has actually accepted her life as it must in reality be or whether she is still vainly chasing the ephemeral ghosts of the past.

Marie Bell, as Christine, performs sensitively, albeit at times a bit melodramatically. The cast of male characters reads like a French Who's Who among film actors of the 1930's (if one overlooks the fact that Jean Gabin is missing): Louis Jouvet, Harry Bauer, Fernandel (The Face in the immensely funny photographic interview, "The Frenchman") and last and most important of all, the late great Raimu.

None of them—Jouvet as Jo the

Ag Department Records for Radio

No small-time business is being conducted by the agriculture department in the line of sending out radio transcriptions to stations all over the state. It is estimated that the yearly audience of these programs numbers from 5 to 10 million people, according to Dean D. R. Theophilus.

These programs, which are mainly interview in type, consist of interviews with representatives of every department in the college of agriculture.

The programs vary greatly in content and prove very beneficial as well as informative for the average farm family, which explains the very large listening audience, said Dean Theophilus.

In addition to the tape-recorded programs being made and sent out by the agriculture department itself, members of University 4-H clubs are under way with plans for their own radio show. They expect to be broadcasting before the end of the month.

night club king who has seen too many Chicago gangster movies; Bauer as the love-sick musician who has retreated to the sanctuary of a monastery, Fernandel as the hair-dresser for whom nothing changes (including his card tricks) and Raimu as a small town mayor, mired in mediocrity—has material equal to his talents.

Of them all, Raimu is the most successful as he invests his small part with the buffoonery—that odd mixture of comedy and pathos—which is so touchingly effective and for which he is so famous. To those who remember fondly the "Marius" trilogy and his other successes and who only wish he were around now he could add to their number, the ten minutes or so he brightened the screen with his warmly human portrayal, were alone well worth the price of admission.

Absolute knowledge have I none, but my aunt's washerwoman's son heard a policeman on his beat say to a laborer on the street that he had a letter, just last week, written in the finest reek from a Chinese coolie in Timbuctoo, who said the Negroes in Cuba knew of a colored man in a Texas town who got it from a circus clown that a man in Klondyke heard the news from a gang of South American Jews about somebody in Borneo who heard of a man who claimed to know of a swell society dame whose mother-in-law will undertake to prove that her seventh husband's sister's niece had stated in a printed piece that she has a son who has a friend who knows just when the war will end.

Initiation Dance And Group Elections Spark Week's Activities On Campus

Beta initiates are eagerly awaiting the arrival of Saturday night, the date of the formal initiation dance in their honor.

"Under the Big Top," motif for the Theta initiation dance, proved a huge success as everyone donned appropriate circus garb.

Sigma Nu's formulate plans for "Moonglow," initiation dance theme.

Delta Sigs, Kappa Sigs, and Sigma Nus recently appointed officers for the spring semester.

Kappa Alpha Theta Initiation topped the list of activities at the house this weekend when Shirley Bates, Barbara Bonner, Elinor Coleman, Joyce Danielson, Dorothy Deleh, Florence Garrett, Judy Haltom, Rosella Kelly, JoAnn Luck, Nancy Neveau, Caryle Pence, Jane Querna, Rosemary Rowell, Donna Shively, Gwen Weeks and Margaret White became members.

A formal banquet was held at 4 o'clock Sunday with visiting alumni, Betty Burnham, Mrs. Dan Warren, Helen Zimet, Mrs. E. E. Hubert, June Ramstead, Peggy David, and Camille Labine of Moscow; Mrs. P. T. Rowell of Salem, Oregon; Mrs. Don Modie of Lewiston; Mrs. E. T. Haltom of Spokane; and Mrs. M. P. Angell of Walla Walla, present. At this time the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity presented to each new initiate a corsage of violets, and the house gave them each a yellow carnation tied with black ribbon.

Friday evening was a gala occasion in celebration of the circus dance, "Under the Big Top." Everyone came in appropriate circus costumes to dance amid multi-colored streamers and balloons. The fire place caged a huge stuffed tiger.

Wednesday dinner guests included Betty Judd, Terry Willy, Joan Redford, and Maureen Jones. Delta Sigma Phi

Newly appointed officers for the ensuing semester are Dave Parson, social chairman; Ted Torok, rush chairman; Harry Brizee, pledge master; Don Housley, intramural manager, and Dave Womeldorff, scholastic chairman. Curt Mattson was elected editor-historian upon the resignation of Ken McCartney.

Many fraternity brothers of past-president Bert Stanford joined him in Spokane to witness his marriage to Miss Pauline Cosetta of Lewiston. The newlyweds will reside in Lewiston.

Recent dinner guests were Mr. and Mrs. Dale Scott of Boise, Corky Vaught, Stan Storey, Ted Line, and John Bjorker.

Forney Hall Dick Carbuhn, Carolyn Fowler, Ed Haynes, Mrs. Art Duncan, and Mrs. Gary Forbes were dinner guests during the week.

Visitors over the weekend were Hazel Howard of Clarkston, Washington, and LaRue Wood.

March 14 has been set as the date for a Sock Hop according to Vonda Jackson, general chairman. Assisting her in preparations for the affair are Margaret Teare, decorations; Betty Anderson, refreshments; Charlene Welch, programs; Denece Jones, and Karen Hinckley, entertainment; and Donna Bauer, music.

Beta Theta Psi Entertained Thursday evening at the chapter house were Mr. and Mrs. Vernan Batt, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Geisler, Mr. and Mrs. John Dripps, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Newhouse.

WRA NEWS

The coed bowling tournaments got underway Monday and Tuesday. The handicaps of the teams who participated were computed for this week's games and the results are:

Forney Hall I 711; Kappa Kappa Gamma I 708; Pi Phi I 702; Alpha Phi I 694; Forney Hall II 685; Kappa Alpha Theta I 685; Delta Delta I 684; Pi Phi II 677; Alpha Phi III 676; Alpha Phi II 675; Delta Delta Delta 667; and Kappa Kappa Gamma II 638.

Individual high games were bowled by Clara Crow, Forney, 151; Shirley Vorous, Alpha Phi, 140; and Diana Simpson, Tri Delta, 137.

All coeds who are planning to enter the swimming meet to be held March 15, at 2 p.m., are reminded that there are only two Saturday mornings left in which to get your required practice.

For all those who are interested in participating in the meet, it is important to note these things: A participant needn't be a speed swimmer in order to enter the meet.

Any coed who is enrolled in a swimming class this semester is not required to have the two hours practice to enter the meet. However, anyone entering the meet under these circumstances does not earn a participation point for her house.

The only way in which a participation point can be earned is by getting the two hours practice and entering the meet.

It is advantageous to have as many people entered from each individual house as possible, but if the house doesn't have entries for every event it does not mean it can not participate.

Lists of the events are posted in the Women's gym and at the pool.

Infirmary

Barbara Lee, Donald Keefer, Ronald Baker, Roy Parker, Jacqueline Baker, Betty Fix, Donald Ringe, Robert Holder, and Peter Hester composed the group discharged from the infirmary this week.

22 To Be Initiated Into Hell Divers

Country Philosopher Writes Own Version Of Dictionary

Even the experts in the most well-versed English circles have been known to comment at one time or another that it might be a good idea to revise Webster.

Everett Chaney, grass roots philosopher from Horseshoe Bend, has never been one to sit around and talk when action would do the job better. Chaney, in a recent column in the Idaho County Free Press, has already substituted a few of his own definitions for the more commonplace ones set forth in Webster.

He also disagrees at times with Webster's logic. For instance, he says, Webster states that satisfied means contented. Chaney states that you might be satisfied that your wife was running around with another man, but you would hardly be contented about it.

Transparent Defined The prefix, trans, means across, according to Webster. Chaney claims that transatlantic might mean across the Atlantic, and transcontinental might mean across the continent, but transparent does not mean across parent.

The dictionary defines lightning as electricity, but Chaney disagrees. You don't have to pay for lightning, he says. Along the same line, congregate is defined as collect, but Chaney says any preacher will tell you there is a big difference between congregation and collection.

Dictionary Revised And now a few words from Chaney's revised dictionary: America: Land of the free spender and home of the brave bill collector.

Dentist: A guy who is always trying to pull something on you. Prices: Something that keeps going up. The only things that haven't raised in price since the depression are Bull Durham and gold dust.

Resort: A place where you go for a change and rest. The hired help gets all your change and the management gets all the rest.

Synonym: A word you can use when you can't spell the one you thought of first.

Hard To Make Living Living: The hardest thing in the world to make. Loafing: Just lying around. It may be frowned on, but it's better than doing nothing.

Untold wealth: Wealth not reported in the income tax return.

Sideline Chatter

By Boyden

All-America selections will be issued freely and furiously from now until basketball's quitting bell is sounded for 1952. Already the Associated Press has come up with a squad which will probably result in extreme happiness in the East and give cause to raised glasses of mint julep in the sunny southland.

It is really quite difficult to take much stock in the selections of this type. It appears to me that the Pacific Coast stars are too often slighted by these eastern-flooded polls. Naturally, they see almost exclusively the players of the eastern colleges back there. Thus with a majority of the votes, it's no puzzle to see why the eastern stars always grab the large hunk of cheese.

If some system could be devised whereby the western writers could register at least half the influence on the selections, you'd no doubt see many more western players receiving at least all-America mention. Oh well, let's see what the western boys do in the tournaments. Maybe, the experts will again gulp their selections.

Speaking of all-America selections, I think I'll take a crack at it. Cracked, that is.

Here's the team that was just meant for basketball (and, believe it or not, these guys are all basketball players). At the forwards I'll pick Hook and Schudt. At center it'll be Dunker, and at the guards we'll have Hawkins and Press. Man, there's a ball club.

This next team is really a galaxy of endearing young men:

- F — Lovely
- C — Honea
- F — Darling
- G — Jurk
- G — Crum

My next ballclub is the one that would probably be voted most likely to fold: Hobbie, Fowler, Gavin, Blewett (if he had the chance), and Stanko.

Here's the team that is the all-America of the all-Americans. Either that or it's the backfield and center for next year's Fighting Irish: Nowakowski, Yokabaskus, Pazzdorf, Domerschick, and Maciewiczski.

I've even selected a quartet of officials for all-? honors: Hoggshead, Hamby, Swinederman, and Fouts.

Baseballers

All varsity baseball candidates are requested to meet at 9:30 tomorrow morning in front of the gym as the team will go to Lewiston for workouts.

Kruger Selected On Coaches' Team

Hartley Kruger, Bruce McIntosh, and Herb Millard comprised the selection of Idaho Vandals to the Northern Division coaches' all-ND teams. Kruger was named to the first five while McIntosh and Millard were placed on the second quintet.

Two Washington Huskies and an Oregon State Beaver were unanimous choices on the first team selected by the ND coaches—Tippy Dye, Washington; Chuck Finley, Idaho; Bill Borchert, Oregon; Jack Friel, Washington State, and Slat Gill, Oregon State. Frank Guisness of the Huskies copped a forward position while his teammate Bob Houbregs annexed the center position and Danny Johnson of OSC captured one of the guard slots. Supplementing this trio were Kruger at the other forward and Oregon's Ken Hunt at the other guard position.

Six men were named to the mythical second five since McIntosh and Millard received equal tabulation for one of the guard positions. Forwards on the second team are Eric Rberts of Washington State and Bob Peterson of Oregon. At center is Chet Noe of Oregon and at the guards are Joe Cipriano of Washington, Millard, and McIntosh.

The All-Division team boasts an outstanding scoring punch including the top five point producers in the league. Hunt and Johnson are the first two men under six feet ever to top 200 tallies during the 16-game slate. Houbregs had the best game average ever recorded in winning the conference scoring title.

Of the first five selections, Houbregs, Johnston, and Kruger are all juniors while Guisness and Hunt are seniors.

"I wonder why it is that people always refer to a canoe as 'she'." "Evidently you never tried to guide one."

Five Mittmen Battle Tonite In Intermountain Tourney

Five Idaho mittmen battle tonight in the sixth Intermountain Intercollegiate boxing tournament at Pocatello. Representing the Vandals are Franky and Johnny Echevarria, Lynn Nichols, Larry Moyer and Fred Bowen.

This will be the University's first appearance in the annual tourney hosted by the Idaho State Bengals. The competition is expected to be the toughest in the tournament's six year history.

38 Boxers

A total of 38 top collegiate boxers from seven schools have entered in the two day affair. Participating schools besides the two Idaho institutions are San Jose State, Gonzaga, University of California, UCLA and California Poly.

Eighteen bouts are scheduled for tonight while the ten championship matches are on tap for tomorrow evening. Finalists in last year's bouts have been seeded in opposite brackets.

Four champions from the 1951 tournament will be on hand for a possible repeat performance: Don Camp, 125, San Jose; Harley Towne, (winner at 130 but this time fighting at 125), Idaho State; Bob Dossey, 147, UCLA; and Elsworth Webb, 156-pounder for Idaho State.

Who To Beat

Here is a round-down on who the Vandals will have to beat for titles:

At 119-pounds, Franky Echevarria will meet a field composed of Sam Moreno, UCLA; John Jaeger, Gonzaga; and Honolulu-born Frank Lopez of Idaho State. Franky has beaten Jaeger and the other two don't figure to give him much trouble.

John Echevarria at 132-pounds will contend with Elmer Douglas, UCLA; Russ Lundgren, ISC frosh, and Ken Hansen from California. Douglas was runner-up last year and holds the favored spot.

Here's Trouble

Trouble is brewing for Lynn (Sam) Nichols in the 139-pound matches. Sam will be up against Chuck Adkins of San Jose and Jack O'Neill of Gonzaga. The fourth entry hasn't been named.

Adkins is the Spartans sophomore sensation who won an AAU title at the age of 17. The flashy Negro holds a tko over Nichols in a dual meet, at San Jose. If Sam meets O'Neill it will make three different men he has boxed at this weight from Gonzaga this season.

Larry Moyer, middleweight ace for Idaho, has a tough road ahead. To win a championship Larry will have to get by Roy Kelly, Gonzaga; Darrell Duker, San Jose; and Fred Shieman of California. Kelly upset Moyer at Spokane recently while Dykes held him to a draw in California.

Toughies

Last of the Vandal entries, Fred Bowen, has to meet a parcel of tough customers. Barrie Jackson of Gonzaga and Paul Reuter from San Jose both hold tko's over the red head. ISC's Bob Blanton rounds out the 178-pound weight. The invitational tournament awards only individual championships. No team winner is computed.

Three officials for the tourney are ex-Vandals. They are Louis V. August of Spokane, former University of Idaho boxing coach; Dr. Laune Erickson of Boise, former Boise Junior college boxing coach and national champ from the U. of I., and Herb Carlson, all-time great from here at the University.

Cage And Manager Awards Announced

Also included are Ken Loudermilk, Hartley Kruger, Bill Mather, Bruce McIntosh, Tom Flynn, Jim Price, Dwight Morrison, Ed Haller, Arnold Domke, Bob Falash, and Harlan Melton.

Varsity manager awards went to Don Harrison, senior manager, and Larry Day, junior manager.

Finmen Trek To Corvallis For ND Championship Meet

Vandal tankers hang up their fins after the Northern Division finals this Friday and Saturday following a not too successful season. It was a season, however, that showed a great improvement in the squad, half of which is composed of frosh swimmers who will have three more years to bring the Vandal squad nearer the top spot.

The Idaho line-up for the Northern Division finals at Corvallis will show most of its power in the relays with Dick Erhardt, backstroke; Dick Warren, breaststroke; and Bob Crawford, freestyle; swimming the 300 yard individual medley relay while Wayne Johnson, Dick Warren, Bob Crawford, and Pete Vajda splash in the 400-yard freestyle relay.

Idaho's best chances in the individual events will be Jim Moore on the low and three meter diving, and Bob Crawford in the 50-yard freestyle sprint. Dick Erhardt in the 100 and 200-yard backstroke, Pete Vajda in the 220 and 440-yard freestyle and Dick Warren in the individual medley should crack a favorable place in their events. They should be followed closely by Ken Giles and Jim Stanton in the 100 and 200-yard breaststroke and Wayne Johnson in the 50 and 100-yard freestyle sprints.

The mermen look forward to a successful season next year that should show a much stronger, more experienced squad. The loss of Pete Vajda and Dick Warren in the 220 and 440, and Jim Moore in diving will present a problem of finding up and coming swimmers to fulfill these positions, but the other events will be Among the top prospects for next year's team are Al Dixon and Bryan Richards in the sprints. Both boys have shown excellent ability in recent practices.

The probable lineup for next year's swimming season, not including any new members of the squad, should be Bob Crawford and Wayne Johnson in the sprints, Dick Erhardt and Dick Warren in the 150-yard individual medley, Ken Giles and Jim Stanton in the 200-yard breaststroke, Dick Er-
