The GOLDEN FLEECE by Jason

Now that we have had time to catch up on lost sleep and think over our Friday morning party, it seems even better than we realized. Friday morning we knew we had a good time, but were too dazed to think much about it.

One thing we are very happy about is the nation-wide publicity that the University has been getting. Not only has the story and pictures of our organized panty raid been run in newspapers from coast to coast, but several editorial writers have given us praise.

The Salt Lake Tribune in particular had fine things to say about Idaho students. An editorial in the Sunday edition of that paper entitled "From Bad To Good," is quoted in part: "Recognition is due Idaho students who turned the current college hoodlumism epidemic into a beneficial project.

Well, we hope so too, because it's about time that Idaho broke into the columns of a national magazine on its own merits instead of being merely mentioned as an "also ran" as we were in the University of Texas blood drive coverage by Life magazine.

It seems that we have a pretty fair chance to be mentioned in Life, since that magazine's correspondent in Spokane called the University publicity director Friday morning to get details on the affair.

Be that as it may, we have still done ourselves proud, we have set an example for other schools to follow. We hate to rub it in, but even our neighbors across the line, had one of the troublesome type raids last week. Idaho can still show 'em a thing, or two.

"We're going to have our own panty raid tonight," Cox said. "You are not!" a policeman on duty answered with an extra emphatic slap on the desk. Ten sentences later, according to Mitchell, the patrolman was listening with interest.

Pre-Commencement Slate Released By Registrar

A complete program of pre-commencement activities has been announced by the registrar's office for all candidates for degrees June 9. A schedule of the baccalaureate and commencement services will be published in the next and final issue of the Argonaut.

According to Registrar D. D. DuSault, all accounts pending at the cashier's office must be cleared before a student is eligible for a degree. The cashier's office has set June 6 and 7 for attending to the debts. Diplomas will not be awarded to students whose accounts have not been cleared by noon, June 7.

The program for all candidates for degrees is as follows: Saturday, June 7, 9:30 a.m.: commencement rehearsal. All candidates will meet their respective dean in the following places: letters and science, Memorial gym, northwest section (organize alphabetically in degree groups); agriculture, Ag Science 106; engineering, Engineering 104; law, Ad 320; mines, Mines 101; forestry, Forestry 335; education, University auditorium; business administration, Science 110; graduate school, Memorial gym, southeast section.

Rehearsal Slated Following the meetings with the deans, all graduates and their deans will meet at the Memorial gym for rehearsal. All candidates are expected to attend the rehearsal to hear final announcements and to practice for the details of the exercises.

Sunday, June 8 at 10 a.m. all graduates will assemble for formation of procession for baccalaureate services in the Administration building. The groups will meet in this order: First floor, south end, candidates from graduate school; Third floor, south (Continued on Page 3, Col. 3)

Idaho's class of '52 brought their campus social life to a grand climactic finish with two huge affairs over the past weekend. A picnic honoring seniors was held at Robinson lake Friday afternoon, and the annual Senior ball was held Saturday evening. The picnic got off to an earlier than expected start, because of the holiday declared Friday. Students in large groups and by pairs headed toward the lake early in the afternoon; a few even before noon.

Student Veteran To Place Wreath A student veteran of two wars will place a wreath on the University of Idaho's statue to Spanish-American war dead in campus observance of Memorial day.

Executive Board The Executive Board will meet for the last time tonight at 7 o'clock in the Executive Board room.

Campus Cuties Nominated For Homecoming Queen

Fourteen campus beauties have been entered early in the race for the 1952 Homecoming queen honor to reign over the October 4 festivities. Male living groups nominated the coed of their choice this spring while the football team will choose five finalists from this group next fall. Final voting by all campus males will precede Homecoming activities.

Candidates, their sponsoring living group, and their own living group are: Jane Wimer, Beta Theta Pi, Delta Gamma; Madeline Meltved, Sigma Chi and Phi Delta Theta, Gamma Phi Beta; Catherine Fitzgerald, Kappa Sigma, Pi Beta Phi; and Barbara Higgins, Alpha Tau Omega and Campus club, Ridenbaugh hall.

Homecoming committee chairmen have been chosen by chairman Dave Lau with the approval of the Executive Board. Included are dance committee chairman, Bob Huntley; assistant Ernestine Gohrband; parade committee chairman and assistant, Bill Parsons and August Jaussi; half-time committee chairman and assistant, Delores Uria and John Hansen.

Post Office Report Tells of $100 Loss Moscow post office officials reported yesterday that a $100 money order cashed at the downtown office Thursday afternoon, possibly by a student, has been lost.

Military Professor To Leave University Three Army ROTC staff members will leave for Korea following the end of this semester. Col. Charles F. Hudson, professor of military science and tactics, is finishing his fourth year at the University. As one of his last official acts Thursday he "trooped the line" or inspected his corps of cadets. He will leave for Korea in June.

Miners Have Picnic The Associated Miner's club held their annual picnic at Laird park Saturday afternoon. Food was furnished by the wives and "girl friends" of the members.

Master Applicants Listed By Registrar One hundred and twenty-six University of Idaho students have filed applications for master's degrees in the University's 57th annual commencement exercises June 9, Registrar D. D. DuSault has announced. Candidates for master's degrees include:

Panty Raid Snaps Tension In Dawn Pajama Party

Pants were at a premium on the Idaho campus Friday morning from 3 o'clock on (or off) as ASUI president Ray Cox auctioned off $500 worth of lacy lingerie to fit every size, shape, or form as a climax to the student-staged "mock" panty raid.

Classes were dismissed Friday "unofficially" as the male groups dined in the women's living groups following the auction and dance in the wee hours. A snake-dance serpentine composed of "sleepy students" wound its way down Sixth and Main streets at 7:30 a.m. after which the students solicited downtown merchants for additional contributions to the crippled children's fund.

Expresses Thanks Baker expressed his thanks to students in a phone call to the Argonaut office Friday morning. "They have taken a great burden off my shoulders," the chief said.

Blood Certificates American Red Cross blood donor certificates have been distributed on the campus for all donors who gave blood for the time during the last ASUI blood drive. Anyone not receiving a card should check with Dr. G. S. Tanner at the LDS Institute.

Strip-tease by Knox Highlighting the auction of panties was a "strip-tease" act done by Willie Knox, ATO, who was dressed up and imitating a female. The several pairs of underthings he drew off were auctioned with the others.

Following the dance, students dressed in pajamas were seen from one end of the campus to the other, participating in a wide variety of activities. On the golf course, for example, there were a few sports-minded souls out as early as 5 a.m. The tennis courts were also filled with pajama clad racketeers, and many others joined in the serpentine downtown.

Fun And Five Hundred Dollars

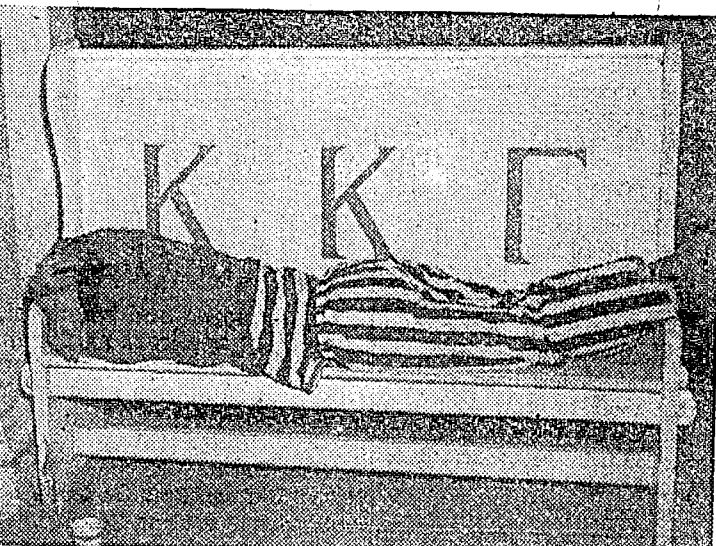

Five weary but happy students take a quick count of the money brought in by the panty auction Friday morning. Some $500 was gained for crippled children during the early morning blow-out. One of the most colossal parties ever held on the Idaho campus, the "panty raid" robbed sleep from some 2,500 students—but everyone had fun. Shown above looking over the proceeds of the morning are (left to right) Pat Dyson, Ray Cox, Fred DeFrancesco, Gary Sessions, and Louise Gourley.

Never Say Die

Some 1,000 students who were still on the go Friday morning formed a serpentine and weaved through Moscow streets in search of more contributions for the crippled children's fund. The picture above was taken at about 8 o'clock Friday morning.

'Sacked Out'

Some people can sleep under any circumstances—and the guy shown above is one of them. The camera man found the fellow "sacked out" on one of the Kappa benches early Friday morning at a time when the campus was anything but quiet. When awakened, the sleeper would identify himself only as "Joe."

Come On Down

DEAR JASON

Dear Jason:
 This letter is written with a two-fold purpose - to thank all students for their splendid support in the next student recruiting program and to urge them to continue with their assistance. During this school year the student body at Idaho has become nationally known for its participation in the Blood bank and its intelligent approach to the "Pantie Panic."
 Because the publicity was so favorable on these two programs it can well be used for recruiting material.
 Also the student body is to be congratulated on the fine hospitality shown visiting students during the State Music Festival. Take a little time out this summer and keep up the good work!
 If every Idaho student would contact just two prospects before next fall, we will have another strong freshman class in '52!
 Senior lists from all Idaho high schools are in my office, and may be checked at any time.
 Sincerely yours,
 Guy P. Wicks
 Field Agent

Dear Jason:
 The University of Idaho students whose signatures appear on this letter would like to suggest that the ASUI golf course be named the "Francis L. James Memorial Golf Course." We feel that the golf course would be named in memory of and for a person who contributed so much to golf at Idaho as did Frank James.
 The recent summary in the Argonaut of the contributions of Frank James to golfing at the University of Idaho gives many reasons why the golf course should be named after him. There are not many students who have attended the University of Idaho and have played golf who have not received some of Frank's advice and encouragement.
 Perhaps this letter will arouse enough interest among students that appropriate action can be taken to change the ASUI golf course name to the "Francis L. James Memorial Golf Course."
 The letter was signed by 57 students and faculty members. In the space of an hour and a half the sponsor of this letter was not refused a signature. The signatures are not printed here for lack of space.
 "See this jewelry," said the sorority pledge. "It once belonged to a millionaire."
 "Gosh," gasped an impressed sister. "What was his name?"
 "Woolworth," the pledge replied.

DAVIDS'

Where Credit Is Due

Editor's note: The following editorial appeared in Saturday's Lewiston Tribune. We reprint it here because it tells what others think about our "panty" Friday morning.

University of Idaho students, we think, deserve a lot of credit for the way they put reverse English on the nationwide "panty raid" fad that has hit college campuses.

Fifteen hundred Idaho men students woke the coeds at 3 a. m. yesterday. They came bearing various items of dainty feminine apparel. These were auctioned off at an all-night dance at the Student Union building. Proceeds, which amounted to more than $300, went to the crippled children's fund.

The idea originated in the brain of Ray Cox of Clearfield, Utah, student body president. He commented afterward: "Psychologists are trying to figure out what is wrong with the college students of today, and we wanted to show them that nothing is wrong with the students at Idaho. We thought we would do something constructive about the panty craze for a change. Incidentally, we wanted to have some fun, too."

The kids didn't show up for their 8 a. m. classes, but the professors weren't mad when they found out why.

"The holiday is unofficial but justified," said Dean H. E. Lattig, director of student affairs. And President J. E. Buchanan commented: "This should give the public new confidence in youth."

Idaho students have similarly done themselves proud in the past with record-breaking responses to blood drives and similar worthy activities. A school with a collective enthusiasm for good causes, such as Idaho has shown, is a credit to the state.

Elsewhere in the nation, the panty craze seems to have reached or passed its crest. We predict that the Idaho version will do a lot to help stem the foolishness at other schools. It may even inspire similar worthwhile stunts at other campuses. Meanwhile it should certainly, in the words of President Buchanan, give the public new confidence in youth.

Follow Us Awhile

Well it's all over now and has become a part of the University of Idaho's rich history. Idaho's unique "panty raid" Friday morning set a trend for colleges throughout the nation to try to equal or excel. There was no damage, no fights, and Moscow's carefully prepared and indoctrinated militia did not have to be called out.

It was interesting to this writer to sit back and listen to the hot words bandied back and forth for and against any kind of a scanty raid. Arguments could be heard that proclaimed a raid as the thing to do to keep in the national swing of things. Others disclaimed any such activity as childish and idiotic.

When rumors began to fly that a raid was being planned Wednesday night, University and Moscow officials began their "it shall not happen here" plans.

When word reached the campus of the precautions being prepared, the pot began to boil. Groups of men were seen roaming about the campus waiting for something to happen. For a while it seemed that the carefully laid plans of Ray Cox and the living group presidents would go down the drain.

A raid was averted, and the planned party was successful. Peace reigns once again in Moscow, and everyone involved had a good time—plus collecting over $500 for crippled children.

We would like to see more schools follow Idaho's example of "constructive fun."

Early Morning Pajama Party Features All Hues And Sizes

By Ken Kornher

Shades of night—everyone's probably heard of them, but those who missed the Friday morning party missed a rare sight. Oranges, blues, pinks, reds, greens, yellows, black and white; horizontal stripes, diagonal stripes, vertical stripes—it was a pajama parade dimming even the brilliant fall serpentine by frosh coeds.

Not content with gaudy pj's, most of the men in the mob appeared with some form of headgear. There was one fellow with a con on his head—maybe it was just a coonskin, but at that time of day—

Sailor hats floated listingly on several heads. There were berets and westerns, "I" caps and Confederate bonnets. The most famous of the latter was worn by the bugler who blew "charge" to start off the 3 a. m. festivities.

One tall lad wore a black derby that Charlie Chaplin has been looking for since '22. He's lucky he never found it. Another fellow enclosed his curly locks in a plastic dish cover. He must have been afraid of rain.

The prize of the party (with lace) should have gone to the Kappa who wore a genuine imported bird's cage from old Mexico. There might not have been a bird in it, but the chirping sounded mighty suspicious.

Speaking of prizes—this was the only major event of the year which didn't have a queen. What a terrible mistake! It was a natural. There should have been a queen of the Undie-world (Thanks S.A.)

Rumor has it that a loyalty investigation is planned to check on the party. Seems there was too much pink in sight. Even downtown cars were displaying pink banners Friday about 8 a. m. That wasn't so bad, but one driver displaying a pink banner had a red face.

A serpentine down main street ended the festivities. It was almost half a mile long. Do you know what a serpentine is? Webster says: "A mineral or rock... usually dull-green, often with a mottled appearance." Amazingly accurate, but cheer up, old top, it's surprising what a little sleep can do.

Excessive speed is reported as the cause of most auto accidents.

FINAL EXAMINATION SCHEDULE — Second Semester 1951-52

(Three-hour examinations—two examination periods each day.)

For all students except graduating seniors and graduating graduate students whose names are on the list distributed by the Registrar's Office. Final examinations for any single course are limited to three hours. Instructors should check for conflicts before May 15 and arrange for scheduling conflicting examinations during the time provided for this purpose. Regular classrooms will be used. The instructor will announce the time and place for each of his examinations. All examinations are for classes which meet at the periods specified. Ordinarily classes which have both lectures and laboratories will schedule examinations for the lecture sequence.

Study at Oxford Open to Women

The five women's colleges of Oxford University are prepared to admit a limited number of American students for the 1953-54 term, according to information received by Louise Carter, Dean of Women.

Candidates should have a Bachelor or Arts degree and should be willing to spend two years at Oxford to qualify for the Honours B.A.

The work of these two years is planned to develop tenacious accuracy and disciplined intellectual vigor; it will provide the finest and most typical Oxford training.

The Committee on Selections for Oxford, which was set up some years ago by the American Association of University Women, is interested in finding candidates of more than average ability and definite intellectual purpose. It is looking for students who will further mutual understanding and command respect for American education.

Interested women students should contact Dean Carter or the American Association of University Women for further information.

Huskies Tally 10 In First To Rout Idaho Nine, 17-4

Washington's Huskies tallied with 10 counters in the opening frame of yesterday's diamond fray with the University of Idaho Vandals to put an end to all hopes for a baseball contest. It would have been a tight ball game displaying sensational fielding except for the fact 18 errors were chalked up to the two teams.

The first inning opened in not too unusual fashion as Vandal hurler Dick Dodel fanned Washington lead-off hitter Tom Absher, Roland Halle beat out an infield roller and John Garner grounded out to Flip Klefner. However, the next 11 Huskies found a safe way to the base paths before Lefty Melton, Idaho's third chucker, struck Jim Morrison out to end the frame.

Washington tallied its 10 first-inning scores on five base hits and six Vandal miscues. George Huffman, Vandal third sacker, was the party responsible for three of the errors while Jerry Ogle, Klefner, and Bob Falash rounded out the total. Needless to say, not one of these runs was earned.

Dodel was held responsible for the first six tallies and was jerked by Coach Chuck Finley after Washington's eighth batter, Bill Stuh, slapped Bill Earley home with the fifth run. Mel Reynolds came on for the Vandals and failed to register an out in the next three batters, so Melton was summoned from the bull pen to take his chances on the hill. A walk, single, and error raised the Huskie score to 10 before Jim Morrison ended the inning.

The Vandals were tamed by Huskie starter Bob Bell in the first inning, but the Idahoans cut loose for single counters in the second and third stanzas and added a pair of tallies in the fourth for their day's run production. None of the Vandal scores were earned as the Washington fielders were also plagued with the drowsy epidemic. Sam Mitchell, Huskie backstop, suffered most with three errors but was followed closely by second sacker Roland Halle's pair of miscues.

All Idaho runs were counted against Bell, who was relieved in the fifth by Jim Rothaus. It was Rothaus who turned in the day's best hurling performance as he limited the Vandals to two base hits and no runs in his four inning stint.

Washington waited until the third inning to add more runs to their total. Actually only one counter passed the platter in the third but two more were stashed away in the fourth. Melton was still around to share the guilt for

Martindale Grabs Pole Vault Title

Dave Martindale turned in the surprise of the year for Vandal fans when he sailed 14 feet 2 3/4 inches to win the Pacific coast pole vault championship at Eugene.

Bruce Sweeney, still weak from a bout with the measles, placed fifth in the low hurdles after winning his preliminary heat. Emerson Clark ran the fastest race of his life to cop sixth in the mile while Lou Gourley finished in the same spot in the two-mile.

Martindale, in winning the gold medal, became the seventh Vandal to win such an honor. The last time it was done was in 1941 when Phil Liebowitz blazed his way to the present PCC record of 4:09.3 in the mile.

Dave's mark is the second best jump this year for a college athlete. Only Dick Coleman of Illinois has a better vault at 14 feet five inches.

When you include all the AAU pole vaulters in the standings, Dave is still in number eight spot in the United States. Bob Richards leads the parade with 14 feet 8 inches.

Martindale's vault smashed his old personal mark by over 8 inches. He set that 13 foot 6 inch high last season for a new Idaho record. When he came to Idaho he was doing under 12 feet.

When interviewed about last Saturday's meet he said, "I felt just right that day. Before I left Moscow I knew I had brought myself along and was just about at my peak. Of course I didn't expect to go as high as I did."

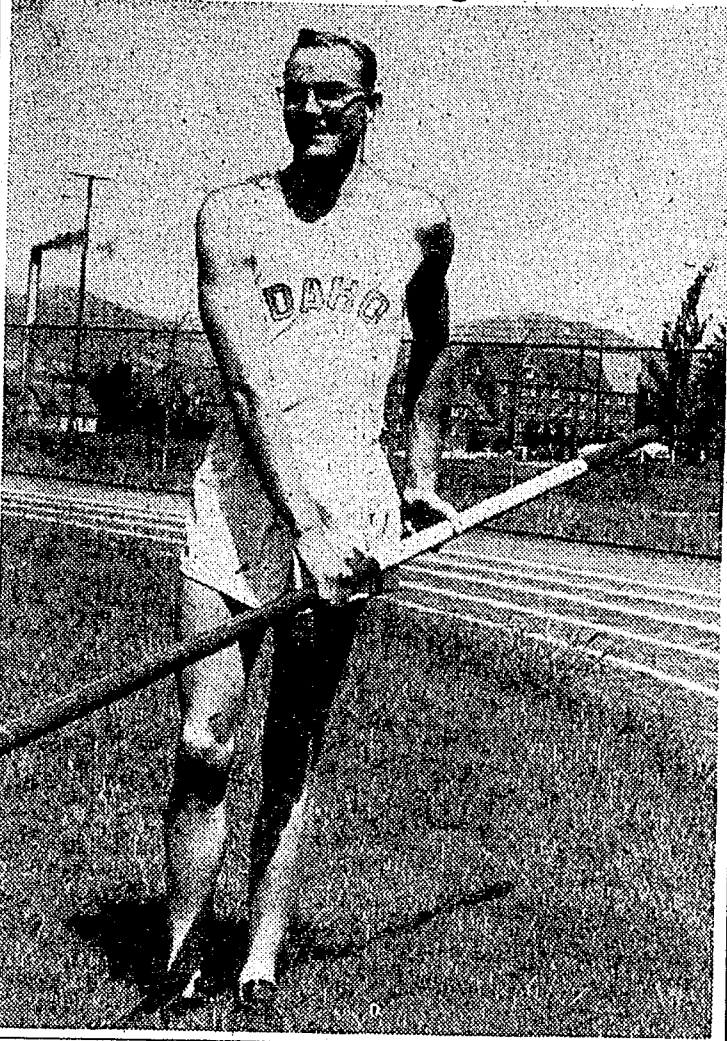

Dave started jumping at 12 feet 6 inches at the meet. After that the bar was raised four times and he cleared every height on his first jump.

Then the bar was raised to 14 feet 3 inches. The first time he missed but on his second try he cleared with space to burn. Lyle Dickey of Oregon State, who had been rated a favorite before the championships, didn't make the grade and Dave was best on the coast in college circles.

He then had the bar raised to 14 feet 6 inches. The coast record is shared by Sefton and Meadows at 14 feet 11 inches. On his first jump he cleared the bar with most of his body but brushed it coming down. Again on his third attempt it looked like he might make it but once again he nicked it off.

During the more than three hours of vaulting, Martindale and Dickey carried on a friendly rivalry. Dickey, has gotten the best of things in the past. So when Dave made 13 feet 9 inches, the

Dave Martindale ... Eighth In Nation

Vandal ace said, "It looks like it's my turn to win Lyle." After it was over, Dickey congratulated him and replied, "I guess it was your turn Dave."

Sweeney, who missed the Northern Division because of measles, got out of the infirmary just in time to enter the Pacific coast meet. He hadn't had a decent workout in better than a week. Those that saw him wondered if he could run at all.

He not only ran but placed first in the preliminary heat Friday with a 25 flat clocking in the low hurdles. His time was second best that day. He also entered the highs but came out fourth in his heat.

Saturday in the finals he placed fifth in the field against a nine-mile wind. His time was reckoned at 24.4. Bruce figures he could have placed third if he had been up to par.

Emerson Clark ran the best race of his life as he placed in the mile with a 4:17.8 time. He never was in contention for first place among the fast entries.

Four Vandal Boxers Trying For Olympic Team Spot

By DON THEOPHILUS, JR.

If all goes well, four men from the 1951 Idaho varsity boxing team will hold a reunion at Kansas City, Missouri, June 16, 17 and 18. The occasion would be the United States Olympic team trials to decide who will make up Uncle Sam's boxing team to Finland.

The four men trying for a berth on the squad are Franky Echevarria, Larry Moyer and brothers Len and Norm Walker.

Franky is furthest along the tough road to an Olympic team position. Last month he won the 119-pound NCAA championship and was chosen "outstanding college boxer in the nation." This automatically put him into the Kansas City tournament.

The others have a harder grind ahead.

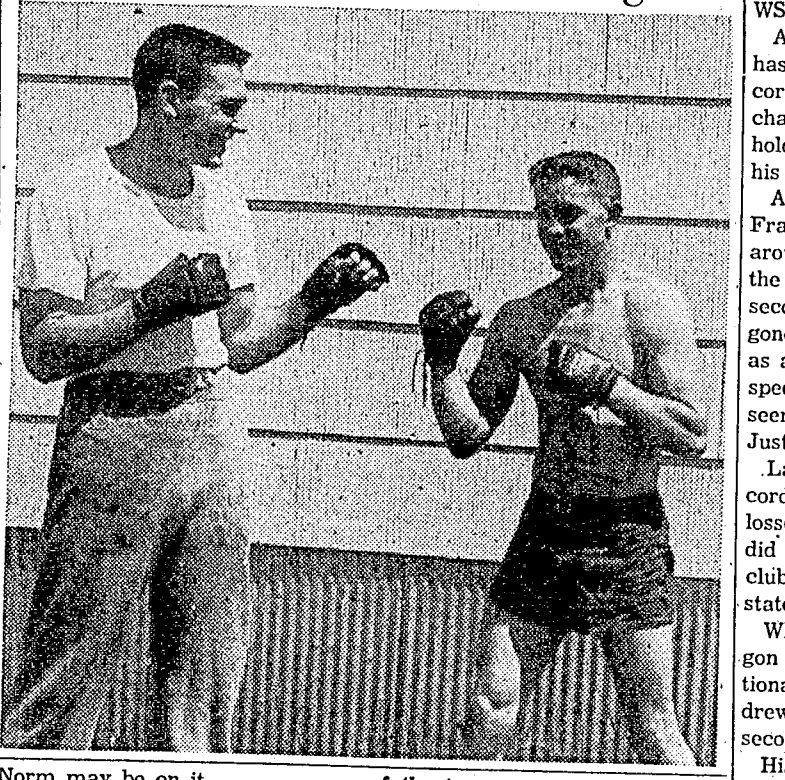

Larry Moyer, who lost in the semi-finals of the nationals, has been granted permission to enter the AAU regional tourney at San Francisco around the first of June. If he wins, he will join Franky at Kansas City.

Norm and Len Walker have been fighting in the army at Camp Roberts, California, since leaving Idaho last year. Both have done so well that they will be a part of the Sixth army team at the all-army tournament May 27 to 31 at Fort Monmouth, N. J. If they get the judges nod the reunion will be complete.

"I expect to see all four men make it to Kansas City," said Coach Frank Young who has tutored the men during their college careers. "They're used to tough competition and I don't think the AAU three-minute, rounds, and eight-ounce gloves will bother them."

Echevarria and the Walker brothers may meet before Kansas City. Franky leaves for Madison, Wisconsin, around June 3 to train with the NCAA champs for several weeks. The June 7 and 14 these men are scheduled to tangle with the all-army team. Len and

Frank Echevarria And Larry Moyer Grim And Pose Before Working Out

Norm may be on it. Echevarria and Moyer have been turning out, regularly since after Easter vacation. Both, however, have come up with injuries that are giving them a little trouble.

Franky tore some ligaments or cartilage loose in his left knee and the pain has been bothersome enough for him to miss several weeks of roadwork. He wraps it every practice session and figures it is getting better all the time.

Moyer sustained a cut over his right eye last weekend and it had to be stitched up. He's counting on it to be okay by the time he fights. It took Moyer all season but he finally settled on the 178-pound division as his best weight. He fought the top three weight classes during the past year but feels the light-heavy position gives him the best combination of speed and power.

If you take a peek at the records of the four mittmen you come up with the opinion that here are four of the top amateur boxers in the country. Franky Echevarria has won over 70 fights in his career. In 34 straight bouts. He graduated in time to try for a place on the 1948 Olympic squad.

At the AAU sub-regionals in Salt Lake City he won his only fight by a knockout. He then went on to the regionals at San Francisco. This is the same one that Larry Moyer will be entering.

from Blackfoot," won one fight and lost one in his freshman year. His loss was to Ev Conley from WSC.

After three varsity years Frank has compiled a 32-5-1 win-lost record. He is a three-time Spokane champ, two-time Pacific Coast title holder and won the NCAA crown his senior year.

An interesting sidelight to Franky's career that many fans around ringside don't know is that the four main fingers below the second joint on his left hand are gone. He lost them in an accident as a youngster. He tapes the hand specially every fight and it doesn't seem to affect his power much. Just ask the men he boxes.

Larry Moyer's high school record around Portland was 2 or 3 losses out of about 35 fights. Larry did all his boxing against AAU clubs around Portland and the state.

When he was 17 he won the Oregon AAU and went back to the national tournament at Boston. He drew his first fight and lost the second to an army man.

His freshman year at Idaho he had a 2-1 record, losing to a Gonzaga heavyweight. In two years of varsity campaigning since then he has an 18-5-1 margin. Larry has won a Pacific Coast championship his last two years and was a national finalist his sophomore year.

The Walker brothers of Wallace were the deadliest combination since the Kara brothers left Vandaville. In three years Len won 33 fights and lost but 5. Norm won 25 and lost 12.

Len was twice a national champion and won the same number of Pacific Coast trophies. Norm copied a Pacific Coast crown his last year after being a national finalist his sophomore year.

Since going in the army brother Norm has had the edge of the two. He has won all but 2 in his approximately 20 fights to date. Norm has dropped to 132-pounds and using the eight-ounce gloves has cooled most of his opponents colder than a wedge.
