

Executive Board Names New Committee Members

Appointments were made at the Executive board meeting Tuesday night from Executive board members.
Named to serve on the following committees were: Bonese Collins, president's representative to calendar committee; Bill Nixon, president's representative to Student Faculty council; Bob Allison, Executive board representative to SUB committee; and Bill Ringert, Executive board representative to traffic and safety committee.

Once upon a long time ago, when the State of Idaho was but sparsely populated, the residents of Idaho lived in fear of encroachments upon their liberties by the Federal government.

This was not uncommon, and there were states that refused to be a party to the Constitution unless certain amendments were made that would guarantee the freedoms they believed in.

One thing they especially feared was domination of their government by Federal soldiers. The Federal government found that they could very easily control the elections in early Idaho by sending in a portion of the army who outnumbered and outvoted the meagre population of the fledgling state.

To protect themselves, they asked and were granted, certain constitutional rights.

To cut it short, today we have the following situation. The voting population of Idaho may be drafted and sent halfway across a world. They do not lose their voting rights. A man may be at sea, in foreign soil because of government service, OR A STUDENT IN ANY INSTITUTION IN THE WORLD, and that man's voting rights are preserved.

The citizens of Idaho have gained some mighty privileges. It would be an error of the first magnitude to destroy those privileges by fighting for less than what they now have.

The Greek party primary nominating elections were held Wednesday night at a caucus meeting. The party nominating elections will be held Tuesday, Oct. 21, to select the Greek candidates for class officers.

The nominating assembly of the Third party will be held tomorrow at 1 p.m. in the Student Union building.

Four separate assemblies, one for each class, will be held at the same time. The nominations and voting for the final slate will be accomplished in a joint meeting of the classes.

At 1 p.m. all four classes will meet in SUB conference room A, for a general run-down on procedure. Following will be the nominating assemblies themselves, immediately after which will be the nominations and elections of a new president, the selection of a new name for the party, and other general business.

Other appointments were: Veri King, Executive board representative to publicity council; Bruce McIntosh, Executive board representative to public events council. Pat Harris was named representative to the women's disciplinary committee. Tom Mitchell was named 3rd party member of the election board. The president of WRA and the president of intermural managers will serve on the University recreation committee.

Under class assignments Bruce McIntosh and Bengston who were assigned to study the possibility of class assigned projects reported. It was voted to adopt a program of assigning various campus projects to the classes. The exact nature of the resolution will be published upon completion of drafting.

Ray Cox, Bonese Collins, and Bob Allison will make a trip to Pullman to start negotiations on Idaho-WSC relations prior to the Moscow-Pullman football game.

Gale Mix reported on the controversial subject of PCC officials. Appropriate action to insure acceptable judging in future PCC contests is being taken. Films on the Oregon-Idaho homecoming game will be shown to the student body as soon as they are available for public showing.

Dr. Wood Speaks To Republicans

The Korean war and the proposed Hells Canyon dam were the subjects of discussion Thursday afternoon, when Dr. John T. Wood, first district congressman, spoke as guest of honor of the Young Republicans of the University.

Dr. Wood, who is running for a second term on the Republican ticket, spoke to students and faculty members briefly; then opened the meeting to round-table discussion.

Idaho Ag Students To Practice Teach

Eleven University of Idaho students will leave Sunday for a two-week practice teaching assignment in the vocational agricultural field in northern and southern Idaho schools. This was the announcement made this week by Dwight Kindschy, associate professor of agricultural education.

Students participating include Bob Perry, Gerald Deahl, Don Rydych, Bob Mitchell, Don Deercor, Bill Choules, Dave Cramer, Wayne Heieskari, George Gardner, Arvan Anderson and Jack O'Leary. Accompanying the group will be H. A. Winner, assistant dean of agriculture, and Kindschy.

Mecham Attends Institute Meeting

James G. Mecham, University of Idaho instructor of civil engineering and testing technologist, attended the Asphalt Institute meeting at West Yellowstone September 23. Problems of using asphalt in road construction were discussed. Highway, city, park and county engineers from Montana, Idaho, North Dakota, South Dakota and Wyoming attended the annual meeting.

Mr. Mecham also visited the Western Association of State Highway officials. Construction has recently been completed on test highways in southern Idaho, and the testing program has been started.

Mr. Mecham returned via the Palisades dam construction site, where he visited the highway relocation project.

IDAHO READY TO SET NEW RECORD

Nothing But Class

The University of Idaho marching band is shown here displaying some of the stuff that wowed the crowd during the Homecoming festivities. The band, making its first appearance under its new director, gave the onlookers only a preliminary to what may be expected in Dad's Day routines.

An Open Letter To Dad

Hi Dad,
We're planning big doings for you when you come Vandalway for the big Dad's Day weekend October 18.

Yes sir, Dad, you're invited to the Idaho campus for this big celebration honoring you as an Idaho Dad. A complete list of scheduled events will be on tap to make this weekend at Moscow among your most memorable. Activities include the following:

- Registration
- Idaho-North Dakota State football game
- Half-time entertainment
- House decoration judging
- Living group open houses
- Individual living group dinners or luncheons
- Annual Dad's Day dance

Upon arriving on the campus, you will be asked to register your name with officials Saturday morning at the student union building or before the game at the stadium gates. This registration procedure provides for a correct tabulation of the winning living groups in competition for having the largest percentage of fathers present for the weekend's activities.

A trophy is awarded in this division as well as for the living group member whose father traveled the greatest distance to attend the game. Prizes are also given in various "beard divisions" as all Idaho males shave the razors weeks before Dad's Day to get the desired effects.

Right up your alley and the actual basis for the Dad's Day weekend will be the Idaho-North Dakota State football game Saturday afternoon, October 18 at Neale stadium. The game, with half-time entertainment promises to be one of the season's best and one you won't want to miss. And, Dad, when you register, you can buy a special half-price ticket for the game.

You will make your own arrangements for your meals and for housing during the weekend. Most individual living groups have special entertainment and dinners in your honor. An open house in all living groups will give you a chance to "chew the fat" with old friends and other dads on the campus.

The open houses are scheduled for immediately following the game Saturday afternoon. The annual dance that evening in your honor, "Pop's Hop" will climax the Dad's Day weekend.

We are looking forward to seeing you October 18, Dad's Day, 1952.

Sincerely yours,
ASUI DAD'S DAY COMMITTEE
Why not clip this invitation and send it home to Dad?

Foresters To Hold Annual Picnic

The Associated Foresters of the University of Idaho will hold their annual steak fry and picnic tomorrow.

Highlights of the picnic will include interclass contests in burling, pole climbing, pacing, log sawing, and chopping. There will also be an interclass tug-of-war across Meadow creek.

Bill Nagle is in charge of arrangements for the outing, which will begin at 1 p.m. at Meadow creek in the University forest.

Arrangements For ASUI Blood Drive Now Underway; Begins October 21

ASUI Film Postponed

Because of a mix-up with the film company, the scheduled ASUI film, "Foreign Correspondent," was not shown on Thursday. In its place a movie featuring the life of composer Franz Schubert was shown. The movie starred Ilona Massey as the woman in Schubert's life. Backgrounding the movie were several of Schubert's best known musical compositions. The plot featured the actual writing of these same pieces such as "Ave Maria," "Serenade," and the "Unfinished Symphony."

"Foreign Correspondent" will be scheduled later in the year, according to cinema chairman Hugh Burgess.

Janssen Announces 1953 Gem Staff

Gem editor Sheila Janssen has announced her staff for the 1953 Gem which is now under way. Associate editors are Bob Stivers and Ginger Jones. Fall editor is Barbara Pickett. Winter editor is Marjory Honstead.

Dean Kerr Attends Meeting in Boise

Dean T. S. Kerr, of the college of letters and science, left today to attend a meeting of Idaho liberal arts college representatives. Dean Kerr will serve as chairman of the meeting being held to further a better understanding of problems in liberal arts programs of the institutions.

The main topics will be general requirements for graduation, major requirements in various fields, and accreditation of work.

This regularly scheduled fall discussion will be attended by representatives of Idaho State college, Ricks college, Northwest Nazarene college, College of Idaho, Boise Junior college, North Idaho Junior college, and the University of Idaho.

15 Minutes Of Dancing For Nickel

Legal releases and time schedules for the coming ASUI Blood Drive were distributed to all living group presidents at a meeting Thursday night, according to drive chairman Don Mitchell.

The 5th campus blood-letting sortie is scheduled for October 21, 22, and 23. Medical personnel will be up on the job from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. each day, with the possibility of their staying on a fourth day if necessary.

No quota, as yet, has been set for the drive. Mitchell has scheduled an immediate meeting of his committee to shape final plans and arrange details.

Any student, faculty member, or other person connected with the University may donate his blood. Requirements are that the giver be 21 years old or over, in good physical health, and he must not have donated blood within the last two months.

Minors May Give
Students between the ages of 18 and 21 may give blood provided they have a signed release from their parents or guardian giving permission. A copy of this release is found on page 3 of the Argonaut, or may be obtained from living group presidents.

A Red Cross mobile blood unit from Boise will handle the blood taking. The vital fluid will be flown from the campus to Boise where it will be processed, shipped to San Francisco, and from there find its way to the front lines in Korea.

Real Estate Award Granted to Bettis

Nelvin W. Bettis, a University of Idaho senior in business administration, has been awarded the $200 McCarger scholarship in real estate for the 1952-53 year, Dean D. J. Hart, head of the business administration school, announced today.

The McCarger scholarship is granted by a group of real estate firms in North Idaho, including Moscow Realty company, Papienau Real Estate, Cornellison Real Estate and Insurance, and Kennedy and Keane, all of Moscow; C. D. McCarger, after whom the scholarship is named, Grangeville; King and Adams, Lewiston; and Gridley Investment company, Coeur d'Alene.

This award is the first real estate scholarship to be granted at Idaho.

Bettis, a married veteran from Chicago, was presented the award on a basis of scholarship and interest in the pursuit of real estate as a career.

Grads Featured In Publications

Two University of Idaho graduates are featured in current issues of national publications. The men are Dr. Chester Southam, formerly of Salem, Mass., and William M. Tomlinson, formerly of Blackfoot.

Dr. Southam, who received bachelor's and master's degrees from the University in zoology in 1941 and 1943, was pictured in the current Collier's magazine as he worked in the cancer research laboratory of the Sloan-Kettering Institute in New York. While at the University of Idaho, he was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic honorary.

Tomlinson, who received his degree from the University in economics in 1940, was recently appointed acting United States representative to the "High Authority of the European Coal and Steel Community" in France. He is featured in an editorial appearing in the Christian Science Monitor newspaper, an international publication.

State Flag Will Fly

The state flag of Idaho will be flown beneath the American flag on all important occasions in recognition of the fact that the University is represented by all counties in the state. It was flown for the first time at the annual Homecoming football game with Oregon. From left to right are Darlene Duffy, Nampa; President J. E. Buchanan; University Business Manager Kenneth Dick, and Dave Lau, Soda Springs.

Rep Upheld

According to Mitchell, tentative plans to secure national publicity and recognition for Idaho's 5th blood drive are underway. He also maintained that Idaho's reputation as the bloodiest campus in the nation will—of course—be upheld.

Acting as Mitchell's right hand man during the next two weeks will be Don McCabe, assistant chairman; Hazel Tomlinson, drive secretary; and Lois Bush, publicity director.

Draft Quota Is Set

Selective service has been asked by the Defense Department to draft 47 thousand men in December.

Draft officials were asked to deliver the December quota in the first weeks of the month so a maximum number of army personnel can take advantage of Christmas leave.

Varied Play Parts Join In Rehearsal

Orderly chaos, if there could be such a thing, prevailed on the auditorium stage Wednesday evening, as "Sing, Senator, Sing," Idaho's original musical comedy, moved headlong into its first full continuity rehearsal.

A continuity rehearsal, as veterans explained to fledglings, is a rehearsal that runs through the entire production from beginning to end, if possible, without interruptions. Until Wednesday, rehearsals had been carried on by having actors go through their "stuff" in bits, and choruses and dancers work by themselves in widely scattered spots. But on Wednesday, the choruses finally got a chance to learn about the plot, the actors heard the choruses, everyone got a first look at the dancers, and the orchestra worked with the singers for the first time.

Costumes Mingled
The occasion had an atmosphere all its own. Actors in dude ranch costumes mingled with others in sweat shirts and levis. Dancers practiced ethereal movements in pedal pushers. The pounding hammers of stage crews filled every lull; and one construction man wandered around with an electric drill, apparently drilling holes in pieces of metal just to be doing something.

The stage, of course, was bare except for the essential steps and platforms necessary to the action.

Between scenes, the flare of flash bulbs brought attention to the corners where photographers and actors worked on publicity shots.

Director Watches
Perhaps the least conspicuous person present was director Jean Collette, who master-minded everything from a darkened portion of the auditorium with quiet efficiency. She would emerge and take over when something went wrong or when a scene ended. Her assistants, Mary Thompson and Sharon Henderson, perched near the footlights and kept each actor on his toes from moment to moment.

One outstanding impression was of the crowds of people swarming around. Counting cast, chorus, directors, orchestra, and crew, more than 80 people are laboring on the production.

When it was all over, everyone told everyone else that it had gone fine for a first continuity rehearsal. Two weeks of work still precede the opening night on October 22. Meanwhile, everyone concerned now knows what the show is all about, and can get more enjoyment out of the atmosphere that makes people fanatical about "Show Biz."

Remember Hello Walk?

Have you ever heard of "Hello" walk here on the Idaho campus? You know that walk beginning at the North entrance of the Ad building, leading out to the corner of University and Elm? Well in years gone past, it was a tradition to say "Hello" to whomever you might meet coming down the walk.

Lately the tradition seems to have died out. It could be that the University of Idaho is becoming one of those "big" schools where you don't speak to anyone or maybe we have lost that "friendly feeling" that has been apparent in past years.

Can you ever remember getting out of the wrong side of the bed some dreary morning and dragging yourself to classes and then have the sun suddenly come but when someone greets you with a cheery "Hi"? It makes the world look a lot better doesn't it?

Well maybe we can get the tradition going again and make some of the freshmen feel that friendly attitude. After all, Idaho is still small enough to be a friendly campus. So next time you come roaring out of the Ad building on your way to a physics lab, pick out the first person you see and say "Hi". Then watch and see if his face doesn't light up with a friendly smile.

Throw Away That Razor

O.K. rents, cast away that razor and prepare to look rugged. The annual Dad's Day beard-growing contest is launched.

Next Thursday evening during supper a committee will tour all men's living groups, and decide which one has the highest percentage of beards. A trophy is also being presented to the student with the most original beard. The latter contest will be judged at the Dad's Day dance Saturday night after the game. Both trophies will be presented during intermission at the dance.

Remember men, a gal just can't resist a man with that rugged he-man look. So let's see a campus full of "Smith Brothers."

Grad's Dissertation On Dozing In Class

By MARIE INGEBRITSEN

The following is a synopsis of a thesis recently written by Herbert Q. Herbert, a Minnesota grad now doing research work at Harvard.

Educators think it is probably the most important work of the century in the theory of education. His theme is "Sleep, and its Effect on the Undergraduate." He contends that few of us get enough. Here is his recipe for extra sleeping, as practiced in the classroom:

1. If your name happens to be Aardvaard, change it to Zombie so that you can sit in the back of the room. There is nothing quite so hard to ignore as the reprobateful eye of a professor who doesn't think you should sleep in his class.
2. Don't allow your neighbor to lure you into a game of cat-and-mouse. It isn't good for the brain.
3. Don't ever listen to what is being said at the front of the room.

DEAR JASON

Dear Jason,
 We feel honored that our modest letter occasioned such a lengthy answer. We feel rather taken aback at being accused of trying to "put one over" on somebody.

Just for the record, we are not trying to put anything over on anybody. We merely presented our views, backed by authority, on a local controversy regarding student voting. We are sincere in these views and willing to stand behind them, now, and until a court decision finally determines the issue; and we fully believe such a final determination, when it comes, will be in accord with our views.

We also sincerely feel that if the way is opened up for students to register and vote here in Latah county, that more of them will take the opportunity to do so than would take the trouble to vote absentee.

We fully respect your right to differ with us, but we do not feel we deserved to be characterized as trying to "put one over" on anybody.

Sincerely,
 Irving D. Muir
 Edward H. Ohnsendahl
 Robert M. Gibbs

Dear Jason,
 Our honest and sincere effort, including many hours of research, has been directed towards only one goal. That goal is to show that the constitutional provision that "students can neither lose nor gain residence while attending school" candidate and does not prevent them from establishing a new residence in Latah county if that is their desire and intent. The entire question revolves around the individual's intent as to which place he chooses to make his residence.

An individual does not have to intend to make Latah county his permanent residence. One example is church ministers who are transferred from place to place every two or three years. When they come to Moscow they know and other people know that their residence is not permanent. Surely, no one would deny them their right to vote. In case a registrar refuses to register any applicant, he may apply for a writ of mandate to compel the registrar to register him. This is provided for in Idaho Code 34-818.

Since many students will not have an opportunity to read the sections of the Idaho Code that you referred to in your reply in the last issue of the Arg, it seems that at least the titles to those sections should be shown. They are as follows:

- Section 34-401. QUALIFICATIONS OF VOTERS.
- 34-403. SOLDIERS, SAILORS, STUDENTS, AND INMATES OF ASYLUMS.

Panel Broadcast

The action in Korea was the topic for a panel discussion last night over radio station KRPL by a group of University students.

Panel members were Jim Costley, Ken Kyle, Albrecht Menke, and Lois Bush. Questions discussed were the need for the UN in the Korean action and what good the truce talks were doing.

In charge of the program were Rita Schöeder, John Sheridan, and Wayne Glidden, members of the campus Radio-TV Guild.

It is a fair warning that if a person remove from one county in this State to any other county in the State with the intention of making it his permanent residence, he shall be considered and held to have lost his residence in the county from which he removed.

In all honesty, this is the portion we counted on quoting. The reasons that we did not are neither here nor there; not will we waste our time by giving them. If you feel we treated you roughly, remember that our interests were not the discredit of any party, because a strong opposition is as necessary to the health of one party as it is to another.

Where you feel apologies are due, consider them given.

THE DU PONT DIGEST

Power Work for M.E.'s

Varied needs of 71 Du Pont plants pose a host of original power problems

Heart of Du Pont's manufacturing program is the power plant. To make some 1200 products and product lines the Company operates 71 plants.

Most require steam and electric generation, water supply and treatment, heat exchangers, piping systems and related services. The designing of these power plants, their erection and operation are all in the hands of engineers, the great majority being mechanical engineers.

But this is not the most interesting thing about power work here. What challenges the highest skills of the engineer at Du Pont is the wealth of original problems constantly arising. Power requirements vary enormously, not only from plant to plant but from time to time.

Process operating pressures may range from over 15,000 psi. to 2 mm of mercury, electrical requirements from as low as 7,000 to higher than 1 million KWH/day, and temperatures from -360° to over 3,500°F.

Here are examples of recent "off-the-beaten-path" power problems.

1. A plant using natural gas as its basic fuel produces a waste oil of variable hydrocarbon composition and a waste gas with only 110 Btu/cu. ft. Du Pont M.E.'s designed burners, fans, boilers and combustion controls to permit use of all three fuels for generating steam.
2. At another plant 20,000 gpm of cooling water were to be drawn from a nearby river. Since the water level fluctuated 40 feet between normal and flood stages, it was necessary to evaluate several plans for pump-house constructions against cooling towers. The engineers installed a unique pump house whose submerged vertical pumps operate even when the structure is entirely under water.

Aside from design and construction, Du Pont mechanical engineers concern themselves with such related subjects as economic evaluations, equipment selection, heat balances, load calculations, waste heat boilers.

For example, where various process temperatures from 300° to 600°F. were required, Dowtherm was selected as the supply medium at the rate of 35 million Btu/hr. The engineers installed a central system for primary supply because it calculated to be more economical than separately located vaporizers.

On the operational side, M.E.'s supervise the supply of power and services. They establish performance standards and analyze equipment for results, cost and maintenance.

Power Work for M.E.'s

This powerhouse for a nylon plant at Martinsville, Va., was designed by Du Pont engineers. It houses two 135,000 lb./hr. boilers and two 7,500 KW extraction turbine generators.

Whether viewed from the design and construction side or the operational side, the diversity of Du Pont's manufacture offers a wealth of opportunities in power work for the mechanical engineer.

Dr. Maurice Strieby Speaks On History Of Television

Television is based on a patent of Dr. Paul Nipkow who invented the electric telescope idea in 1884. In a talk to University students and the public Thursday afternoon, Dr. Maurice Strieby explained the history of television.
The electric telescope idea of Dr. Nipkow, explained Dr. Strieby, is to break pictures in small parts with no detail in the separate parts. Dr. Strieby built a machine similar to Nipkow's, which he demonstrated to his audience, explaining the process of light registering on a photo sensitive cell to produce a picture composed of different shades of light.
One Spot at Time
Dr. Strieby mentioned that in television the viewer never sees a complete picture but one spot at a time. Each view is a division of small picture elements shown by light rays going through holes in a disk. Dr. Strieby explained that at first, in trying to get more detail into television, they put 24 holes in the disc, then 48, then 270 and some now have as many as 500.
In 1938 Dr. Strieby was in on an experiment where he saw the person he was talking to by telephone. "It was tremendously thrilling," he said, then added, "of course you couldn't recognize the person."
Improvement
Television improved after the discovery of the cathode ray tube in 1930. Dr. Strieby said the cathode ray tube was used for the receiving end, and the next problem was to find some way to send out the images. This was done in 1938 by means of an iconoscope.

As he explained different processes to his audience, Dr. Strieby demonstrated them. He showed the problems of working with micro-waves by setting up a small transmitter and receiving set and interrupting the sound with objects. He showed a map of television relay towers and explained that as yet there is no call for the towers in this immediate area.
The "quickie" of all words series games, the shortest on record, was the World Series between the Chicago Cubs and Tigers held on October 14, 1908. It ran for only one hour and twenty-five minutes. Maybe the boys were hurrying to catch a train.

Late breaking developments on the officiating of the Idaho-Oregon game are almost nil. The real excitement hit the headlines earlier this week.

Tuesday night seventy Vandal Boosters assembled to hear faculty officials explain what was being done about the "Homecoming hassle."

"President Buchanan said, "We are not just sitting on our hands — we are doing all we can. We are working on the situation through the proper and correct channels, but we don't know what the result will be."

Dean Kerr, faculty representative to the PCC added, "After each game, officials who work the contest are rated by the coaches. This has been done. We can't do anything about the score — that is in the record book, but we may be able to prevent such occurrences in the future."

Wednesday the moving pictures of the game came back and selected university officials, including Dean Kerr and President Buchanan, watched the controversial plays.

After seeing them Kerr stated, "It is believed that at the earliest opportunity these films should be shown to Victor O. Schmidt, conference commissioner and Frank McCormick, supervisor of officials."

President Buchanan said, "The films will be used only for official purposes until the conference officers have seen them." Under conference rules, the pictures can't be shown publicly until PCC officials view them.

Another PCC rule provides that coaches or others connected with the athletic departments of member institutions shall not publicly criticize the work of any official in an athletic contest.

Both Vic Schmidt and Frank McCormick are scheduled to visit the campus soon on other business. Schmidt will be here on October 22 and 23. McCormick on October 17 and 18.

Other Comments
Apparently Idaho fans weren't the only ones complaining about the poor job of refereeing. Herb Ashlock, sports editor of the Spokane Chronicle talked with Oregon Coach Len Casanova after the game. Said Casanova: "It was some of the shoddiest officiating I've seen in a long, long time."

Larry Lavelle, sports editor of Oregon's campus paper, the Oregon Daily Emerald, had this to say: "Two questionable interference calls against Idaho defenders, a possible intentional grounding by Quarterback Holland late in the third quarter, and a mixup on Monte Brethauer's outside kick following the Ducks' tying touchdown, drew the ire of the Idaho partisans." Looks like his heart was in the right place.

Hit and Miss
In case anyone wants to know, there is no record of Idaho ever lodging a protest with the PCC. At least athletic officials here can't remember one.

Before we rest the case for awhile there is one thing of which fans should be reminded. Not all officials are like the ones we had Saturday. Idaho has had plenty of good games called for them in the past and will have more in the future (we hope). There is no earthly reason for being down on officials in general. Give em a chance, be tolerant and remember they have a tough job and are only human.

Frosh And Varsity Footballers Try For First Wins Of Season

Utah State Hosts Vandals

Still mad after losing to Oregon last week, Coach Babe Curfman and a 35-man travelling squad left Moscow this morning for Logan, Utah, and Saturday's battle with improving Utah State.

Wini-1 line F) UTAH STAT (Spt) Idaho will be gunning for victory number one this season. The Aggies beat Montana 7-0 in their opener and then lost to College of Pacific 7-34 and Wyoming 0-14.

Coach Curfman had this to say about tomorrow's opponent: "They have probably the best running attack we have faced. They made Wyoming look bad defensively last week and Wyoming has a good defensive club.

The Vandals will be out to stop two of the Aggie top threats. One is 6-1 end, George Hotchkins, who is number five pass receiver in the nation this week.

The other to watch is Jack Hill, leading ball carrier for the Sky-line Six.

Starting quarterback for Utah State will be Barry Flenniken. His dad is none other than Mack Flenniken, chief scout and freshman coach for Idaho.

Coach Flenniken joined the Idaho staff two years ago and Barry wanted to transfer up here. He didn't because he would have lost football eligibility in the move, his father said.

In practice this week the Idaho coaching staff worked on individual assignments in hopes of up-putting the single-wing offense of Utah State. Also stressed was protection for the punter after last week's blocked kick.

The squad will be without the services of crack line-backer and captain, Bob Holder. His leg injury will likely keep him out for several weeks.

Making the trip with the team are Manager of Athletics Gale Mix, Jack Parker, trainer, and student manager, Bob Kleffner. The squad expects to return to Moscow on Sunday afternoon.

Varsity Golf Team Enters Match Play
The Vandal golf team will participate in its first match of the 1952-53 season, Sunday morning at 9:00, when they enter a four-way match scheduled for the Moscow Elks course.

Coach Dick Snyder has an unusually large number of men turning out and is yet undecided as to his top eight men.

Those making the trip will be Bobby Campbell, Phil Weitz, Nonnie Batt, Lefty Melton, Tom Miller, Fred Stringfield, John Drips and Dale Taylor.

Others are Dave Powell, Gary Farmer, Wendell Coombs, Jack Perry, Wayne Solomon, P. J. Daly, Jamie Steele and Tommy Pierson.

Game and Grouse Season to Open
State Game Director John Biggs has announced that the state big game and grouse season will open Sunday in spite of complaints from forest and logging officials who say that the woods are tinder-dry and that hunters shouldn't be allowed to romp through them in quest of game.

The season was once postponed and Biggs said that he feels that the hunters should get a chance at some game. The Forest service, however, has stated that it may have to keep some of the areas in its control out of action because of the fire hazard.

Babes Tackle WSC There

The Vandal Frosh take the field this Saturday at 2 p.m. against the WSC Frosh in their first ball game of the season. For three weeks the future varsity material has been practicing long and hard for this one and it will take a tough Cougar aggregation to walk away with a victory.

Frosh coach Mike Flannikan did not comment as to the outcome of the game, but he did say that it looked like the Cougar Frosh were loaded with talent and he expected a hard fought game.

The Frosh, in a scrimmage with the varsity Tuesday, sustained two injuries. Art Koenig will be out of the line-up with broken ribs and Keith Smith will be sidelined with a dislocated shoulder.

Bob Haines, former Boise prepster, and Hod Sanborn will do the passing while Larry Garrell and Eddy Allison will be depended on for a large part of the running. Garrell and Allison will also do the kicking.
