Radio Guild Gives Shows For May Day

A series of Radio shows made by the Radio-TV guild were presented to back the May Day celebration during last week's festivities.

Coleen Gray and Touch Connors were interviewed after their appearances in the Ag Science auditorium. Later on during the day's festivities, man-on-the-street interviews were held, getting people's opinions on the celebration. Joe Corless, vice president of the guild, was in charge of producing the programs, all of which were taped and broadcast later.

Dance Group To Present Program

Twenty-five Orchestras and Pre-Orchestra members will present their annual spring program Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. in the University auditorium.

Orchestra dancers are Kim Kimmerling, Barbara Higgins, Don Rydych, Mary Harding, Rita Barker, Fred Scheide, Parke Garrard, Denise Darwin, Sharon Wright, June Adams, Ralph Kistler, Bud Skalsky and Betty Ruth Westerburg. Pre-Orchestra dancers are Eleanor Horsman, Madge Foster, Nancy Jutila, Phyllis Boling, Dorothy Warren, Nancy Benfer, Pat Johnson, Janice Loren, Virginia Lewis, Vanessa Wheatley, Shirley Maynard and Rena Brackett.

Something new for the Orchestras this year will be their dramatic interpretation of a story concerning the white and black racial prejudice in Africa and of a preacher's search for his son. The dance is based on the theme "You Have to be Taught," meaning that prejudice is not born in one, but learned.

The second dance will be interpretations of satire drawings. "Mother Mine," the third part of the program, will also be presented Saturday as part of the May Fete program.

General admission for the dance is 50 cents and student admission, 25 cents.

Estes Files Court Appeal

Copies of an appeal which Murray Estes, Moscow attorney, is taking to the Supreme Court were served the Latah county prosecutor and probate judge following denial of his motion to dismiss charges of battery against him.

The motion for dismissal was based upon the fact that the battery complaint was the third action instituted against Estes upon the same set of facts that resulted in earlier dismissal of two complaints charging assault with a deadly weapon. Probate Judge Lloyd G. Martinson dismissed Estes' motion Friday, April 24.

The appeal asks the supreme court for an alternative writ of prohibition against pressing the charge of battery. It claims the battery charge was filed "not to accomplish justice, but ... to harass, worry and annoy (Estes), to provide adverse publicity, to injure and harm (his) reputation and to create a foundation for a civil action in damages."

The appeal sets forth that the attorney offered to permit himself to be found guilty of "either assault or battery" during the pendency of the two "assault with a deadly weapon" actions, but that the prosecutor refused. It adds that had he originally been charged with battery he would have permitted himself to be found guilty without entering a defense, declaring that in view of the dismissal of the two felony complaints he "now questions the legality and the right of the state... to file a third offense."

Several statutes and court decisions are cited to uphold the petition for the alternative writ of prohibition, which he asks the court to issue as quickly as possible.

A Challenge to Generations Costigan made mention of the challenge which faces every American generation to meet and to keep the basic freedoms established. These liberties, he said, which were established over a century ago "were not established once and for all; it is the responsibility of each generation to keep these civil liberties."

If spiritual factors perish, power means nothing, Costigan said. "Never before has there been such a great challenge and opportunity to prove what America is worth. We're helping the cause of democracy in the world, but if we are not united and strong, our leadership will come to nothing."

Coleen And Touch Symbolize Campus-Hollywood Contrast

By Al Dieffenbach
 May Day—big celebration; parade, talent show, blood drive, bond drive, speeches, a Congressional Medal of Honor winner and real live movie stars all in one day. A big platform on a green lawn; a huge American flag covering the entire back of the structure and a crowd of students and townspeople listening in.

Yeah, Touch Connors and Coleen Gray, two bits of Hollywood loaned to a college town for the day to act as masters of ceremonies, maybe to add some color, maybe for publicity purposes. Who knows? There they are, though, all decked out in their makeup so that their pictures will show up good in the newspapers. Maybe you put your tongue in your cheek when you hear them talking about the "very wonderful people..." You wonder if they mean what they're saying, after all they are actors, aren't they? But, then again, college people are pretty critical, too.

You look around at the crowd and see an elderly couple standing a few steps away from you. They are just people, sometimes called the salt of the earth. And they're all dressed up in their best clothes, the kind of clothes you'd expect a man and woman of 60 to be wearing on such a big occasion as May Day—Moscow, USA.

picture they saw'... about three-four years back, wasn't it, Will? Maybe the elderly couple sees an unpleasant symbol of something overgaudy. Who knows?

So we have Touch and Coleen—young, fresh, well dressed and the center of attraction. Glib and personable, they are big people. And then we have two old farm people, also well dressed, an insignificant part of the audience. What a difference, you say. But, isn't Hollywood a part of the USA? Aren't farm folks a part of the same USA? And maybe some of us think that Hollywood and Moscow are awfully far apart, but if you look closely enough, you'll see a connection. All it is is people.

Still, it's a great day for the local citizens, something to be remembered. How about Touch and Coleen. Aren't they a little bored with it all? Haven't they seen all this before—speeches, applause and a college band? And you wonder which of the two couples is getting more nourishment from the scene and the speeches, especially the one by that history professor. The two older folks are watching and listening closely. But more than that, they're thinking about what they are witnessing. Are the movie stars thinking... or even listening? Maybe they're just thinking about what to say next. Maybe they are taking it all in; you can't tell.

Will There Be More?
 You watch how graceful Coleen and Touch are up there on the crowded platform; never getting in anyone's way. Probably because they're doing all the moving. You join in the applause at the end of the speech and turn to look for the two older people you've noticed. They step back and look at each other, obviously wondering whether the program is finished, whether they should go. But they can't seem to decide. It does look like the end, but they hang on, still looking to-

Bus Terminal? Maternity Ward? ...Nope, TV!

Caught with their poses down are these sober-faced students as they viewed the new TV in the lounge of the SUB. The boy on the left seems bored by it all and the fellow to the right rear is deep in prayer. Could that young lady be eating her hands? Empty seat caused by someone dashing out for an aspirin.

THANKS

To Members of the Student Body, University of Idaho, Moscow, Idaho,

Since it is impossible to thank each of you who assisted in making our recent convention so successful, we hope you will take this as a personal note of appreciation.

So many things were planned to make our campus visit pleasant that it is hard to itemize them all, but we remember particularly the University Brass Sextet, the Madrigal Singers, the Vandaleers, and Tic and Toc; the Spurs, the ASUI and AWS and their efficient handling of the refreshment breaks; the friendly lunches at the sorority, fraternity and group houses.

The young people who participated in the Youth panel did a splendid job and we have heard many compliments on their participation on the program. The pages who assisted during the convention sessions were very helpful, as were the individual students who gave of their time and energy. We congratulate you on your Student Union building and we appreciate having the privilege of holding our convention there.

To all of you—please accept our sincere thanks; your friendliness and graciousness was heart-warming and we have thoroughly enjoyed mingling with you on your beautiful campus.

Yours sincerely,
Mrs. C. S. Bosquet, President Idaho Congress of Parents & Teachers

Dear Jason,
I would like to thank all those people who helped make the blood drive a success. It is impossible to mention all who helped, but I would like to give a special thanks to the following people and their committees: Don McCabe, assistant; Lois Bush, publicity; Mrs. MaGe, nurses aides; Mrs. Buchanan, nurses; The Newcomers club, canteen; Phyllis Gestrin, typists; Dr. Tanner, advisor; The Junior Class officers, and the Iks for their splendid work.
Thanks to all — you did a fine job. Best of luck to next year's blood committee.

Sincerely,
Don Mitchell
Blood Drive Chairman

To The University Student Body:
On behalf of Moscow citizens and the Chamber of Commerce, we would like to take this opportunity to thank the student body of the University of Idaho for the immeasurable part they played in making May Day a success.

Certainly, without the wholehearted cooperation of the students, May Day might very well have turned out a grand flop. As it was, we and everyone else feel that it showed what a group of townspeople and students working together can really produce, and the parade, talent show, and blood drive were certainly a credit to the University. We of the city of Moscow will long remember the efforts put forth by you students.

There is little more that can be said here to further express our appreciation, but believe us, our thanks come straight from the heart.

Sincerely,
Dr. Clyde Culp,
President, Moscow Chamber of Commerce,
DelMcPherson, Secretary,
F. N. McCowan, May Day Chairman.

Dear Jason,
As co-chairman of entertainment for the blood rally and blood drive, we would like to extend our thanks to the following people. Without them, we could not have made the entertainment for the rally and drive a success.
Bill Exworthy, Tom Bullock, Sharon Henderson, Chuck La Follette, Don Hanna, Rod Burton, Jack Pepper, Paul Ackerman, Ray Cox, Shirley Lent, Gary Leaverton, The Pep Band, The Singing Sigs, Rex Eikum, The Cheerleaders, Marv Washburn, and Jim Bowlby.
Thanks again to all of you, and if we have missed anyone, please consider yourself thanked too.

DEAR JASON

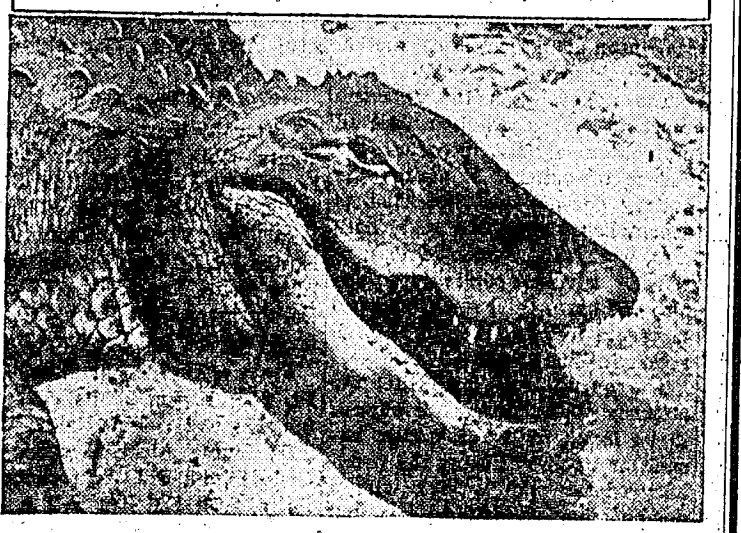

Dear Jason:
Congratulations to the student body for their fine participation in the recent May Day celebration. As Lt. Col. Myers stated, the student body really put over the May Day celebration. Your splendid cooperation as far as punctuality and participation in the parade was excellent and due to these things the parade was acclaimed a great success.

It really shows school spirit when the students will get in and build such wonderful floats especially at such a busy time of the year. Pictures of the May Day activities will appear on newscasts in the near future.

THERMOMETER TOO HOT

The Oregon State college April Fool's day newspaper, The Thermometer, was banned from the campus indefinitely last week by the administration. Foul and obscene jokes and writings were given as the reason for the ban. A protest was lodged by the president of the OSC chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, national journalism honorary. The Thermometer was a corruption of the regular OSC paper, the Barometer.

A coed's promise carries a lot of weight.

Forestry Movement Rooted In History Of United States; Forest Use Vital To State

Representatives of the King of England during the late 18th century were marking the New England colonists' highly prized White pine for the King's navy. Those straight tall trees made excellent masts for the sailing ships. The mark cut on the tree was a "broad arrow."

The Colonists resented such action. The "Broad Arrow" became a symbol of opposition. How much the timber "steal" contributed to the final revolt we do not know. That it was an early indication of the importance they gave to trees and forests, we cannot doubt.

Although the word "forestry" was not applied to that particular agitation, we believe part of the later forestry movement was rooted in the "Broad Arrow" opposition.

Other examples, in colonial times, could be sighted as part of the early forestry movement.

The emphasis during colonial years was on conservation. The timbered lands offered the best protection against storm, Indians, marauders, and furnished logs for houses and fuel. But timber land was also fair farm land. Forested land was a "barrier" to expanding settlement. So clearing and burning was the slogan of the day.

Against such wholesale burning — for it was done on a large scale — the voice of the conservationist was raised. Ever since that day, in the United States, conservation and forestry have been thought of together.

Although forestry refers to trees, there are other natural resources within the forest of high value to people. Picnic spots, camping areas, fishing, beautiful drives, release from the heat of summer in the cool shade of the forests — these are resources within the reach of nearly all our people.

Most of the counties of Idaho have their timbered areas. But, even in Idaho, the preservation of timbered areas for beauty and charm, and as places for rest and recreation is opposed by some. Our last legislature opposed a gift of just such an area in Benewah County, dedicated to rest, beauty and charm.

Forestry Wees, rightly, directs attention to the forested areas of Idaho. The manner in which we use them, means a very great deal for the total economy of our state. The extent to which we misuse them is the standard by which future generations will judge us.

Practice Makes Perfect For Harris

Howard Harris, sparkplug of the Vandal Riders rodeo team and winner of top all-around cowboy honors at last weekend's Northwest Intercollegiate rodeo, is caught putting those all-important "three wraps and a hooley" around the proper legs of an indignant calf in a practice session. Harris entered all six events at the show and piled up a terrific 372 1/2 individual points over the 160 of his nearest rival, Leroy Whitener of WSC. Plus contesting, Harris served as general arena director and, as Hambone Harris from Gobblers' Nob, Ark., even clowned the show. He is president of the Vandal Riding club on campus. By the way, he didn't place in the calf roping.

Oregon Clips Idaho 9-4; Squads Play Again Today

By John McDermott

Two wild innings gave the University of Oregon Ducks the chance they needed yesterday afternoon against the Idaho Vandals when they drummed out eight hits for nine runs in the fourth and fifth frames of the series opener here to top the Vandals 9-4.

Dick Dodel, righthanded hurler for Idaho, threw two-hit ball for three innings but got into trouble in the fourth when three hits and two quick errors gave the Ducks five runs with three more coming in the next inning of pitcher Harlan Melton after Dodel left the game with two men on.

What a Hassle

A fourth inning rhubarb was caused by Dodel's throwing the ball into the dugout while men were on base with no time out being called. The ten minute squabble involved two Oregon base runners who, according to Duck Coach Don Kirsch, should have been allowed to advance since the ball was legally still in play. Plate umpire, Bruce Campbell, ruled that neither man should be allowed to advance.

The Vandals got off to an early start against pitcher Bill Blodgett with two runs coming in the second off the bats of Bob Falash, Wayne Anderson and Earl Huffman. Blodgett was pulled in the third in favor of reliever Trent Hul who only gave up three hits the rest of the game.

Third tally for the Vandals came when Earl Huffman collected his second hit followed by a base on balls for Mike Cygler. Jerry Ogle doubled to left field to score Huffman before Dave Paulson flew out to retire the side.

Score in Seventh

The seventh inning brought the last run for the Vandals when Cygler got on base on an error and scored after Flip Kleffner reached the base sacks on a two base error scoring Cygler.

Oregon's last tally came in the sixth when powerhouse Earl Averill clubbed his second consecutive triple and scored on Pete the day with four hits in five trips to the plate, followed by Averill with three for four.

Huffman and Cygler got two hits each for high men on Chuck Finley's nine. The two teams play again today. Game time is 3 p.m. Williams' double to center.

Jim Johnson, second sacker for the Ducks was the big hitter for

Babe Names Starting Team As Spring Practice Goes On

The sun shone down fierce and hot all yesterday afternoon and the dozens of green, orange and white clad Vandal football players really worked up a sweat as Coach Babe Curfman and his staff put them through a rigorous tackling, passing and running workout.

With spring football practice over half completed, Babe expressed himself satisfied at the progress made thus far.

"We haven't gone in yet for scrimmage work," said Curfman, "but have been working on individuals and their assignments. Much of our work has been taken up with preparing all the players on both offense and defense as set up following the elimination of the unlimited substitution rule. This requires quite a bit of work although most of the 23 lettermen on the squad went both ways last fall."

Fresh Get Praise

Curfman has been particularly pleased at the showing made by men up from last year's freshman squad. He listed for special praise Eddie Allison, halfback, Twin Falls; Larry Gorrell, halfback, Gooding; and Ray Bittner, halfback from Buhl, among the ball carriers. He singled out Bob Haines, quarterback from Boise, as "one of the best passers to come out of the freshmen ranks here at Idaho for a long time." He said Bittner could run at either halfback or fullback and would make good in either spot.

In the line among the newcomers

he named a pair of guards, Dick Fray, Lewiston, and John Payne, Idaho Falls; Chuck Schoonover, tackle, Sandpoint; Jim Faulkner, center, Gooding, and Pete DeLong, end, Payette. The veteran members of squad of 62 have shown improvement over the 1935 season and starting assignments if the Vandals were to play tomorrow would be pretty tough, Curfman said. Curfman said the middle of the starting line was pretty well set with Captain Mel Bertrand, Memphis, Tenn., at center; Neil Caughill, Spokane, and Tom Falash, Twin Falls, guards; Burdette Hess, Shelley, and either Rog Randolph, Boise, or John Armitage, Fairfield, at the tackles. The end situation sees a pair of veterans in Bruce West, Idaho Falls, and Lou Mendola, Boise.

George Eidal, Sandpoint, will get the starting call at quarterback with Jay Buhler, Hailey, and Bill Law, Weiser, halfbacks, and either Bob Lee, Ashton, or Flip Kleffner, Boise, at fullback.

The Vandals will use the T-formation this season and will introduce a wider variety in their offensive work, Curfman indicated.

There will be an I-club meeting tomorrow night at 7 p.m. in conference room A at the SUB. Plans for the spring picnic and initiation will be discussed. Patronize Argonaut Advertisers

INTRAMURALS

Led by sophomore Bill Crookham, who won three individual firsts, Phi Delta Theta maintained the lead it had racked up in the preliminaries of the intramural track and field meet a week ago and went on to win in yesterday's finals.

Willis Sweet Hall and Beta Theta Pi placed second and third in the meet. Final point totals are unavailable at press time since there is a disputed decision and a possible disqualification for fouling in the 880-yard relay, the last race of the day. The Phi Deltas won but there is some question of one of the runners cutting in. The decision is being studied by Dick Newton who is in charge of the intramural track and field program.

Crookham, an agriculture major from Caldwell, sprinted to a double in the 100 and 200-yard dashes. A week ago he had won the broad jump at 19 feet 8 inches before rain cancelled the rest of the meet until yesterday. Bill's time in the century was 10.8 and 21.3 in the longer sprint.

Other double winners were Paul "Buzz" Hanson in the low and high hurdles for the Fijis and Bryce Johnson of Willis Sweet Hall who captured honors in the 660-yard run and loped in an easy winner in his final heat of the 1320-yard run.

Jerry Ogle Is Ranked Top Catcher

Base runners hold plenty of respect for the throwing arm of Jerry Ogle when the Idaho boy settles down behind the plate in his catching paraphernalia. He threw out two Oregon runners yesterday when they tried to steal second. Ogle is in his third season as the Vandals' big mask and mittman, and coach Chuck Finley, who has worked with the Coeur d'Alene lad since Jerry was a freshman, deems it perfectly proper to remark, "Jerry is the best college catcher I've ever seen."

Finley has more superlatives for Ogle. "He has a world of courage, can hit the ball, throw and receive. I sincerely believe that Jerry is a major league prospect."

College Cowboy Show Taken By Host Idaho

All-Around Cowboy Crown Is Taken By Vandals' Harris

For the first time in three years the Vandal Riders rodeo team, sparked by human dynamo Howard Harris, won team and all-around cowboy honors at their own show.

Harris and his fellow Idaho cowboys rolled up a total of 482 1/2 points in last weekend's third annual Northwest Intercollegiate rodeo held in Coeur d'Alene.

Nearest rivals for top team honors at the show were the hotshot ropers from Washington State who tallied 340 points by the last performance. The Washington State cowboys won the first Northwest Intercollegiate rodeo in Lewiston in 1951.

The Vandal Riders rodeo team now leads the Pacific Coast conference in NIRA (National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association) standings. The Cal Poly team holds second place.

The Northwest Intercollegiate travelling team trophy, won last year at the second annual show by Pierce Agricultural college in California, will soon come home to Idaho and will be on display in the Student Union building.

Heaps of Honors Individual cowboy honors, and the custom made trophy saddle on display in the Bucket last week, went to Harris who worked all six events, placed in five of them, clowned the show, and served as general arena director. Runner-up for the all-around title was Leroy Whitener, WSC.

Harris won three of the six regular cowboy events, saddle bronc riding, wild cow milking, and bulldogging, and placed third in bareback riding. Stan Potts, Idaho, placed third in bulldogging. These are results for the average. Places were also awarded in each "go-round" in each event.

Idaho's Fox sisters, Virginia and Freida, made a successful team in the coed events. Virginia won fourth place in the calf tying and Freida won second place in the calf tying and fourth in the cloverleaf barrel race.

Complete results for the three-day show are: Bareback riding—1st go-round: Gene Bruner, Colorado A&M; Doug Tippet, WSC; Lyn Montgomery, Montana State. 2nd go-round: Howard Harris, Idaho; Jim Gerard, Idaho; Montgomery, MSC. Vern Gasser, Idaho. Average: Montgomery, MSC; Bruner, Colorado A&M; Harris, Idaho; Tippet, WSC.

Saddle bronc riding—(Only four qualified rides were made in this event during the whole show) 1st go-round: Tippet, WSC; Harris, Idaho. 2nd go-round: Harris, Idaho. 3rd go-round: Harris, Idaho. Average: Harris, Idaho; Tippet, WSC.

Calf roping—1st go-round: Leroy Whitener, WSC; Turk Ahlquist, WSC, and M. G. Olson, MSC, tied; Ed Hays, WSC. 2nd go-round: Whitener, WSC; Duane Jones, WSC; Bill Mink, Idaho; Fred Swarthout, WSC. Average: Whitener, WSC; Ahlquist, WSC; Bob Delp, MSC; Swarthout, WSC.

More Harris Bulldogging—1st go-round: Harris, Idaho; Jim Carrig, MSC; Olson, WSC; Ahlquist, WSC. 2nd go-round: Harris, Idaho; Stan Potts, Idaho; Hays, WSC; Olson, MSC. 3rd go-round: Harris, Idaho; Olson, MSC; Bill McKay, EWCE; Hays, WSC. Average: Harris, Idaho; Olson, MSC; Potts, Idaho; Hays, WSC.

Washington Socks Idaho Linksters

The University of Washington Huskies turned on the power last Saturday at Seattle to earn them a runaway 22-5 victory over the previously undefeated Vandals.

It was Washington's second Northern Division win and Idaho's first loss in golf competition.

Russel, Johansen, Hines and company showed clearly why they have won the division title two years in a row as they toured the hilly Olympic View Country Club course. The match was originally scheduled at Inglewood but was transferred to Olympic because of an Inglewood club tournament.

Powell, Rawlings Win Idaho's points came when the third doubles team of Dave Powell and Bob Rawlings swept their morning match to pick up three points. The double teams of Bob Campbell and Tom Miller and Phil Weitz and Harlan Melton were held scoreless. In the afternoon singles, Weitz picked up one while Campbell and Miller each took 1/2.

Washington's Don Russell, 1952 co-medalist of the ND, shot a three-under par 68 to win medalist honors. Low for Idaho was Tom Miller with an efficient 71.

Tricky Course The Vandals found the Olympic course deceiving with its hilly fairways and hidden greens. Greens were fast and difficult to pitch to. They were the opposite to what the Vandals had been used to on their own course.

The pill-chasers have a full schedule this week-end. Friday they take on Oregon State and Saturday the powerful Oregon Ducks in two 36 hole marathon matches on the campus course.

Net Squad Blanked; Play Weekend Pair Idaho's traveling tennis squad was blanked 7-0 in Seattle Saturday. The squad will meet the Oregon netters on Friday afternoon at 2 p.m. and Saturday it will be Oregon State at 1:30 on the courts by Memorial gymnasium.

Poor Beavers At Corvallis the Huskies swamped Oregon State 93-39. Versatile George Widenfelt and distance runner Denny Meyer led the attack.

Widenfelt, a Swedish national who competed for his country in the Olympics, piled up 14 points as he won the discus event, tied for first in the high jump, placed second in the low hurdles and third in the javelin, pole vault and broad jump.

Meyer cracked the meet record by running the two-mile event in the sensational time of 9:18.8, the fastest time for the event ever turned in at Bell field.

SOME TENNIS University of Washington's tennis teams have lost only one Northern Division championship since league competition began in 1934. Oregon State won the title in 1937 to break the Husky string.
