Welker Asks Alertness For Communism Signs

Remember that 10 clams you coughed up at the beginning of this semester under the name "Student Facilities Fee"?

The Administration is interested in finding out what the students want to do with the money.

A legal tangle too hazy to describe here required the deposit of the $10 per student in order that work could begin on the new men's dormitory.

The money we got. The ideas we ain't. Executive Board has made several proposals such as a ski area, skating ring and several others.

Anyway, the dough is yours. You can do what you want with it, within reasonable limits.

The recent blood drive was a stinker. We were awful. But we figured that out beforehand.

With an overcrowded infirmary to begin with, it is not too hard to figure out what the situation would be today if we used the high pressure methods of yesteryear.

Speaking of the stolid Board, we thought that Tuesday's meeting was one of the snappiest ever held.

But this last meeting was a whing-dinger all the way. Shots were taken at ROTC participation in intramural athletics.

We're supposed to make what is now the "annual" walk to WSC Saturday. Come on along, the eats are on the Cougars.

Idaho Senator Herman Welker warned the American people to be alert for signs of communism when he spoke to University students here this morning.

Speaking on the subject "Communism As I See It Today," the junior senator from Idaho said he was "not going to hunt witches, but hunt rats."

He said they have infiltrated all sections of our government. One of them gets in, then installs another. They promote each other.

Senator Welker said that his committee knows more about the activities of some communist organizations than the members know themselves.

"We must have a revision of our lives toward religion. The clergy are the ones to save us," he said.

Senator Welker presented University President J. E. Buchanan with a gavel and an American flag.

The Vardaleers opened the program with three numbers which were greatly enjoyed by the audience.

Tired of classes? Tired of those tender morsels of feminine humanity making eyes at you? Like to be left alone?

Here's your chance to get away from it all—simply grow a beard. Any kind of beard will do, just as long as it can be recognized as a beard.

Besides getting away from it all, you might even win a prize at the annual Dad's Day Beard Growing contest.

This contest is open to anyone—come on girls, don't be bashful. In addition to prizes for beards, your living group has a chance to win other prizes for having the most dads, and for having the dad who comes the furthest.

Moral of the story: When writing home for more money, invite "dear ol' dad." By the time he gets to Moscow he should still be flush.

Executive Board Makes Move On Big Problems

At the last Executive Board meeting, recommendations were suggested to improve Homecoming weekends, eligibility of students for extra curricular activities, song fests, etc.

Official Notice

The infirmary facilities and staff are currently being overloaded due to an influenza epidemic.

This restriction will be in effect from October 28 through November 7 unless the situation at the end of next week requires further extension of the restriction.

Criticisms Of "Machine" Differ

Out on stage, here at the U of I, will soon be a production of the play, "The Adding Machine," written by Elmer L. Rice.

Here is symbolism used to express man as a part of a pattern or machine with expression used to entertain rather than reveal.

In New York about the year 1923 the Theatre guild at the Garrick theatre presented it for the first time. Later the New York Times critic's review and Rice's comments would make you want to see those earth-and-heaven scenes of "The Adding Machine" once again.

The prototypes represent people with whom the audience is familiar. The dramatist has put them in very unrealistic settings.

Take for instance the character Zero, a mediocre, spineless creature, who for 25 years has been an accounting clerk spending his days on a high stool and his nights at cheap movies.

The play was written as the author conceived it, with no thought of technique. It was completed in exactly seventeen days.

Hop For A Nickel

Dance with an Idaho coed for a nickel? Well, you can do it tomorrow night at the annual Spur's Nickel Hop.

Proceeds from the Hop will go into a general fund to buy food and toys for a Christmas basket for a needy family.

All women's living groups will hold open house from 8 to 11 p.m. and all men on campus are invited to come and dance.

As usual the curfew for women on campus will be 1 a.m.

Farmer's Daughter Here Tonight

Comedy and melodrama typical of the 1860's are in store for University of Idaho drama fans at 8 p.m. tonight.

Featured with the two-act play will be 30 minutes of variety acts typical of the gay 1890's.

Directed by Larry Barnes, the production is an authentic duplication of the show as it was first presented in England in the 1860's.

The Players are presently making their fourth annual tour of the Northwest. They have two newcomers in their troupe from Idaho.

There will be no admission charge to the presentation as it is a public events feature.

Princeton Prexy Sees Defects In ROTC

(IP) — The most basic faculty criticism of the present Reserve Officers Training Corps structure in the American college is that subjects taught under ROTC are "intellectually thin" and are mainly concerned with "dull memorizing of detailed facts," according to President Harold W. Dodds of Princeton University.

The following recommendations were offered for next year's Homecoming committee in relation to halftime activities and selecting of the queen. It was suggested that no public address announcements, presentations, introductions be made from the field at halftime.

This is to include the presentation of the "I" blanket, the crowning of the Homecoming queen and introductions. Although a "save" clause would be inserted to provide for special guests, such as United States executive officers.

Half-time entertainment that was recommended was a parade of winning floats and the queen and her attendants. This would leave the 15 minutes allowed for halftime to the University band cheering section stunts.

Also along with Homecoming, the question was brought up as to the eligibility of a first year transfer student as candidate for queen when freshmen are not eligible.

Voting procedure similar to that of electing student body officers was suggested for Homecoming queen voting. This way every male student attending the University could cast his vote.

The board voted that ROTC groups should not be allowed to participate in intramural athletics and song fests. This resolution will be sent to the various groups concerned.

The problem of closed night was given to the calendar committee to make a full report at the next meeting. It was suggested that more closed night should be evenly distributed to give the fraternities more opportunity to hold their dances on Saturday night.

Prize To Be Given For Best Banner

Attention all Rembrandts, artists and car painters! Now is the time to start thinking about the masterpiece of your life.

A prize will be given for the best living group banner displayed at the Dad's Day rally, Friday, November 13.

Any type banner is eligible and in case of a tie, the two artists will be investigated.

Dig That Crazy Vein

Maybe they don't realize they are bleeding, but Senator Herman Welker (foreground), President Jess E. Buchanan (middle) and Mrs. J. E. Buchanan (rear) don't seem to mind helping someone whom they probably will never meet.

Jan Cole, Homecoming queen, has a vein tapped during the second day of the annual blood drive. Looking the other way is Nurse Jerry Van Dyke of the Boise Regional unit.

Annual Blood Drive Is Big Loser; Donations Total Measly 655 Pints

"I never miss a blood drive," remarked Senator Herman Welker as he stepped down from a cot in the SUB ballroom last night.

The non-competitive blood drive missed its 1000 pint quota by 345 pints, reported Don McCabe, chairman. The Red Cross group headed by Dr. E. F. Sestero was not disappointed, as "even a few hundred pints help us," he said.

The staff of 12 from the Boise center arrived Monday evening. Doors of the SUB ballroom opened at 9 o'clock Tuesday, and 240 pints of blood were drawn the first day.

Spurs and IKS worked every day of the drive taking temperatures and unloading the blood cases and trucks. Nurses aided under the direction of Liz Winegar, and volunteer registered nurses under the supervision of Mrs. Jess Buchanan helped in the actual taking of the blood.

Fruit juice, coffee, cookies and cigarettes were served to the donors by the faculty women headed by Mrs. Erwin Graue. Blair Allen and Lucy Spencer provided their own curious brand of entertainment to cheer up the donors.

Films Will Be Shown Monday

Films on grass raising, alcoholism and western migration will be shown at the audio-visual center Monday, November 2 at 3 p.m.

Special times for showings will be arranged for those students whose schedules conflict with the above preview time. Those students should call the center at 8885.

Jewett Memorial Organ Dedicated Last Night

Hall M. Macklin, head of Idaho's music department, was the featured organist in a concert dedicating the Margaret Weyerhaeuser Jewett memorial pipe organ before a large crowd in Recital hall of the Music building last night.

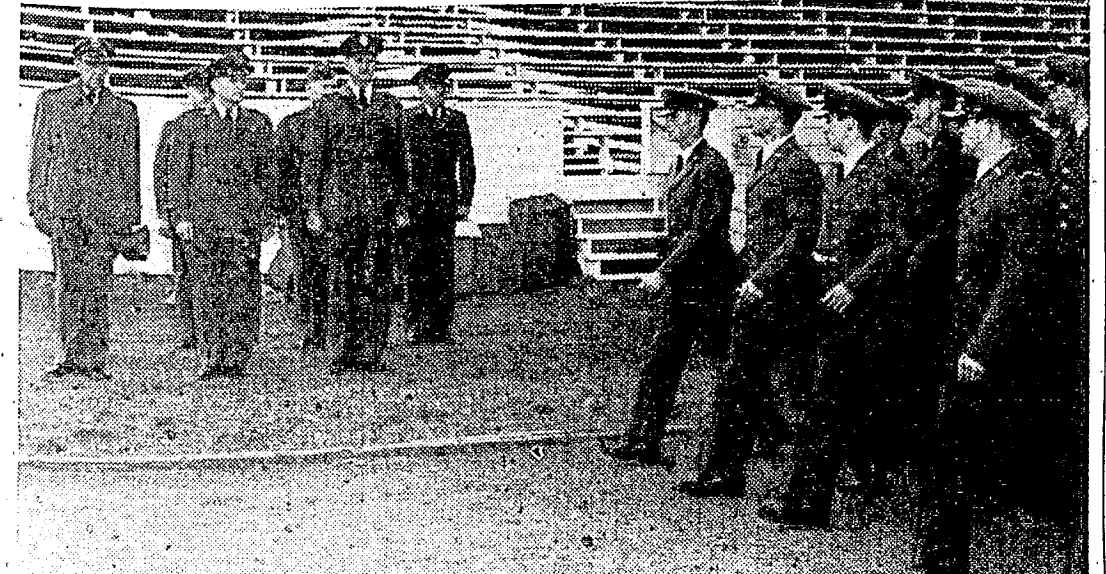

Also included in the concert were the Vandaleers, conducted by Glen Lockery and accompanied by Macklin, in a program of religious music.

Mr. and Mrs. George Weyerhaeuser Jewett of Spokane, donors of the organ, have made many such contributions to educational culture. Their gift "is an inspiration to education generally," stated President Buchanan.

Compositions by Buxtehude and Bach made up the first group of numbers played by Macklin. "Fantasy Pieces" by Louis Vierne made up the second group, and the final group included contemporary American compositions, highlighted by the Vandaleers.

The concert was the first in a series of three dedicatory programs, the second to be given in December, the third in February.

Full Dress Review

Colonel Byron R. Switzer, visiting the local AFROTC detachment, is shown inspecting the cadets in their full dress review held yesterday. With him in the reviewing party are Colonel O. J. Mosman, Major J. M. Hughes, Captains Malcolm Stewart, R. W. Grice and Wilson Talbot.

COMING EVENTS

Sunday
Cosmopolitan club meets in the South ballroom of the SUB at 2:30 p.m.

Monday
Medical college admission test, room 217, Forestry building, 8:15 a.m.

Mr. William Parsons, President, Associated Students, University of Idaho, Moscow, Idaho

Dear Bill:

With the deepest emotion I wish to thank each and every member of ASUI for the honor bestowed upon me at the recent Awards Assembly.

The contents of the Student Union Memory Book have been carefully and skilfully assembled; I shall treasure the volume always. No gift more expressively communicating the kindness and thoughtfulness of the student body, nor dearer to my heart, could have been presented.

While I am not now on the campus, I follow all ASUI activities with keen interest. The progress and growth of the organization will ever have my wholehearted support.

Sincerely yours,
H. E. Lattig
 Director of Student Affairs and Dean of Men, Emeritus.

The development of the Coeur d'Alene ore fields was a great step by our enterprising, freedom-loving pioneer forefathers. It was made possible by another group of enterprising pioneers—the men who dared build a power-line, at that time the longest in the world, through mountain wilderness from the Washington Water Power plant of Spokane to the mines.

DEAR JASON

Dear Jason,
 I was sitting in close proximity to two members of the library staff when I overheard the following conversation:

Staff member number 1: I suggest that we send a notice to the Argonaut saying that no one is to talk or make excessive noise in the library. If it is necessary that a staff member must stop any unnecessary noise, the offender or offenders will be denied the use of the library, and only through a special request of his dean will he be re-admitted.

Staff member number 2: I agreed with the principle, but suggested that the issue be taken to Bill Parsons and handled by the students — it's their library.

As a member of the student body, I would like to add this comment:
 It seems to me that we are by now old enough to keep quiet with the heavy hand of authority holding us down. I like the pleasant, congenial atmosphere the libe now has and am not looking forward to seeing a heavy restrictive atmosphere forcibly created.

The library staff is kept busy enough serving the serious students and shouldn't have to play nursemaid to the few who seem to insist on using the library for a social tea, date bureau, and backdrop for a generally juvenile exhibition.

I hope this is an adequate warning. If quiet doesn't soon return, the library staff through the University administration will take action—drastic action. My work in the library and on the Argonaut has kept me close enough to see the issue gain heat, sound and fury.

Yours for a more quiet place to study,
Jo Welsh

Dear Editor:
 Strides of McCarthy! I know now how many people in the United States feel as a result of investigation procedures levied against them by the Senate investigating committee and other investigation groups. For the past three days I have been in that category. I didn't mind being investigated, but I have come to resent the fact that my belongings, and the bank's, are also under investigation and experimentation.

It is not known to me whether the nefarious activities of the meat-heads involved resulted in any concrete exposures, but I assume that they are now aware that my car will run on the same gasoline, purchased by me, and the same mechanical parts as found in other cars.

Civil Engineers To Picnic Sunday

3 CIVIL ENGINEERS ... P-3
 The Civil Engineers met Monday in the SUB to plan the annual fall picnic Sunday, November 1.
 Transportation to the picnic grounds will leave the Engineering building at 2 p.m. To arrange for transportation, sign the list posted in room 121 of the Engineering building. All CE's are invited to attend.
 A definite time has now been set for the regular meetings at 7 p.m. on the second and fourth Mondays each month.

 To the Children of the U. of I.
 What do you need, a bribe? Well this time you received no acknowledgment for giving blood, and look what happened? A mighty lousy campaign that rates at the end of Joe Miller's joke book. So what if you didn't give a darn about volunteering to give. You could at least have thought up a decent excuse other than "I'm too tired," "there's no war on," or "they just sell it for twenty five bucks." How dumb can you get? This is something that could at least have given you satisfaction without a material reward.

Sure you're tired, but so are a lot of us and its about time you quit thinking about your darnable selves and thought about others. And by 'others' I mean those who would have received your blood had you given.
 I hope that those of you who could have given and didn't feel cheap as hell because I consider you a bunch of lazy crum burns.

Career Checklist for

ENGINEERS AND TECHNICAL GRADUATES

Check and compare these advantages of a telephone career for you

- Want a responsible job? As an engineer or a graduate in mathematics or physics, you do interesting and productive work from the start at Pacific Telephone. Your first job might involve construction of telephone facilities, planning additions to existing services, or the designing or engineering of major installations. You are given a series of assignments in different fields to train you for more responsible positions.
- Want to get ahead? Few other companies offer engineers and technical graduates a better chance to get ahead. Graduates are hired in proportion to the number of management positions that are expected to be open in the future. Training in many fields avoids narrow specialization, prepares men for major administrative and executive positions. Advancement is from within the company.
- Want a future you can plan? Pacific Telephone is a leading Western company, growing with the West. It serves more than 1200 communities in five Western states — it is vital to the fastest growing region of America. Positions with Pacific Telephone are not dependent on short-term contracts or defense spending. You can plan on a worthwhile and satisfying career with confidence.
- Our booklet, "Your Career with Pacific Telephone," will tell you more about telephone work. Ask your college placement officer for a copy. He will, if you wish, arrange an interview for you with our college employment representatives when they visit your campus. Or, call the recruiting representative nearest you. His name and telephone number is listed in the back of our booklet. He will be glad to talk over your future in telephone work.

Merry Weds Plan Party

The colorful lounge room of the Campus Christian center will be the setting for "tradition and superstition" tomorrow evening as the "different people" on campus — foreign and married students — gather for a Hallowe'en party at 8 p.m.

Hosted by Merry Weds, with Cosmopolitan club members as invited guests, the party will feature traditional Hallowe'en games, decorations and entertainment in order to give the international students an idea of our American customs concerning the spooky holiday.
 The program will include songs by Po Ping Wong and Rex Tikum, a modern Hallowe'en dance by Denise Darwin, a talk on Hallowe'en customs and superstitions by Shirley Lent and a ghost story by an unannounced person.
 Chairmen for the affair include Shirley Lent and Stanley Thomas, invitations; Mary Hopkins, games; Merry Smith, program, and Helen and Bob Ackaret, refreshments. All married and international students are invited to attend.

Frankenstein To Be Heard

Contributing to the spooky air of Halloween evening will be the Radio-TV guild's production of "Frankenstein," to be broadcast at 6:30 over KRPL this Saturday.

Mary Shelley's famous tale of terror and the supernatural was especially produced by the guild for release on Halloween evening. It was directed by Lucy Spencer.
 The radio play tells the story of an inquisitive young scientist who discovers the secret of life. He takes the bones and bodies of the dead and creates a huge monster which he brings to life. Realizing his mistake in creating this horrible creature he first flees it only to have the monster follow him and begin killing his friends. He refuses to make a mate for the monster and finally decides to destroy it if he can.

Just Chatter

Idaho State is on the warpath again. This time they're after us for not playing a proposed charity game between the Vandals and the College of Idaho to be played at Boise. The idea was to have a post-season game between the two schools and have all proceeds go to a charity fund.

It seems that the sports editor of the Idaho State Bengal thinks we are a little too "high brow" to play the College of Idaho. Well, we aren't a bit too high brow. A charity game would be a fine idea except for two reasons.

Reason number one is that the Pacific Coast Conference will not allow its members to play charity games, and reason two is that the conference also prohibits post-season games.

We would like to ask Bill Olinson of the Bengal if he can find two better reasons for the University not playing that game. We sure would like to hear from him if he thinks these reasons are not good enough for our "beloved Southern Branch."

Had a chat with Hartley Kruger the other day about the freshman basketball squad who will be turning out Monday afternoon. He seems to think that there will be a good showing of freshmen this year. Hartley is going to be student coach under head basketball mentor Chuck Finley this year and will be putting the team through their paces in preparation for their ten game schedule.

Through a new PCC ruling, the freshmen are limited to ten games this year, but Hartley feels that with a strong turnout Monday they should be able to put a pretty good frosh squad on the floor for the opening game.

Saturday is going to see an awful lot of tired feet on the Idaho campus. In addition to our walk to Pullman the campus cross country is being run. The runners won't be going as far as we will, but they will be working a little harder, and it's all for a turkey or an egg, whereas our walk will result in a banquet for all concerned.

One Platoon Bring Two Idaho Men High

NEW YORK—There's more foot in football under the new substitution rule.

So far this year punting has become an important offensive weapon, and the extra point has decided more games than it did last season.

Army's 14-13 upset of Duke illustrates the point that the kicking game has taken on new significance.

Army turned to the quick kick frequently during the contest. West Point Coach Earl Blak explained afterward that under limited substitutions he was letting Duke have the ball because a team on offense wears itself out faster than a team on defense.

At the same time the Cadets were trying to gain ground on kick exchanges. That, plus the Blue Devils' missed conversion, proved important.

Southern California used quick kicks followed by jarring tackles to recover four fumbles and produce three touchdowns in the first 20 minutes against California. The result was a 32-20 Trojan triumph.

Aramis Dandoy, USC tailback, saw one of his quick kicks roll dead one foot from the California goal line.

Ref Has Last Word In Japan

NORMAN, Okla. — Oklahoma basketball Coach Bruce Drake, back home Wednesday from a Far Eastern tour, said the Japanese "put us to shame on sportsmanship."

"The Japanese referee is kind. Nobody questions him," Drake conducted coaching clinics for the Army in Japan and Hawaii for 30 days.

Touring with Coaches Tippy Dye of Washington and Ray Oosting of Trinity, Drake said he found a highly competitive spirit and more sport for its own sake than is found in this country.

Game fixing scandals, such as those which rocked basketball in the United States, would be impossible in Japan, he implied.

"Before the game," Drake related, "the opposing teams huddle and cheer for each other, then line up in mid-court facing each other and bow politely twice. They repeat this after the game too. There is no booing."

He said the small, nimble Orientals are experts on the fast break and "pass the ball like it was a hot potato."

Cal Hanging To PCC Offense Lead

LOS ANGELES — California's Golden Bears, with a passing attack that pays off almost equally in yards with their ground game, are the total offense leaders in the Pacific Coast conference after six weekends of play.

Figures from the PCC commissioner's office showed the Bears on top with 341.3 yards a game, out-ranking UCLA, which has 320.3 and Southern California, 286.2. California has gained 146.2 yards passing to retain its passing leadership, also, and ranks third on the ground with 195.2. Stanford and Washington follow in passing with 130.5 and 121.2, respectively.

UCLA has the most potent ground game with 253.3 yards per outing, to Southern Cal's 196.2 and Cal's 195.2. The Bruins also rank atop the total defense column, having given up but 191.8 yards a game to 210.3 for Southern California and 227.5 for Washington.

Stiff Defense
Southern Cal has the stiffest ground defense, having allowed but 115 yards a game to 116.7 for UCLA and 131.8 for Washington. Oregon has allowed but 60.2 yards passing to UCLA's 75.2 and Stanford's 78.7.

Three teams share the lead in pass interceptions, each having picked off 14 enemy aerials — UCLA for 199 yards in returns and two touchdowns, Washington, 155 yards, and Stanford, 53. Southern California leads in punting with a 38.8 yard team average to 38.7 for UCLA.

Washington State boasts a 17.2 yard average on punt returns and Southern Cal has a 20.9 mark on kickoff runbacks.

Three conference games are scheduled this Saturday: UCLA-California in Los Angeles; Southern California-Oregon in Portland, and Stanford-Washington State at Stanford. Washington hosts Utah and Oregon State is at Michigan State in other games, while Idaho is idle.

Cole Not After Curfman's Job

CALDWELL (M) — Eddie Cole, secretary of the Caldwell Chamber of Commerce, said Thursday he has no intention of trying to take the job of University of Idaho football coach away from Babe Curfman.

Cole, former head coach at College of Idaho, was reported by an acquaintance to have expressed interest in becoming University of Idaho coach.

"I have not talked to any alumni and tried to get a job that is already filled," Cole said. "I am not going after Curfman's job."

He said that he had been asked "many times in the past week or two" whether he would be interested if the coaching job at Moscow became vacant. He said he replied: "If I ever had the opportunity I certainly would be happy to take it."

The first pure nickel coin is believed to have been a 20 centime piece issued in Switzerland in 1881.

J. Paul Sheedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test

"Safely as I'm concerned" said Sheedy's gal, "your hair looks like something the cat dragged in. Purrhaps you better spring for some Wildroot Cream-Oil, America's favorite hair tonic. Keeps hair combed without greasiness. Removes loose, ugly dandruff. Relieves annoying dryness. Contains Lanolin. Non-alcoholic." So Sheedy roared down to his druggist for Wildroot Cream-Oil, and now he's feline mighty fine. All the girls paws and stare when he passes. So you better leopard on the bandwagon and try Wildroot Cream-Oil right meow. Scratch up 29¢ for a bottle or handy tube at any toilet goods counter. And ask your barber for some Wildroot Cream-Oil on your hair. Then you'll be the cat's whiskers! *of 131 So. Harris Hill Rd., Williamsville, N.Y. Wildroot Company, Inc., Buffalo 11, N.Y.
