

Concert Slated By Orchestra

William Billingsley, a new member of the University of Idaho music faculty, will be the featured soloist of the annual fall-winter concert by the University Symphony Orchestra scheduled for the University Auditorium at 8 p.m. Tuesday, November 30.

Holly Week Is Planned At Meeting

The Holly Week festivities, a project of the sophomore class, will start off with a bang Wednesday, December 8 when the five finalists for Holly Queen will model college clothes in David's window. Each girls living group will select one girl to run for queen and the men's living groups will vote on these candidates. The queen will be crowned during intermission of the Holly Dance.

Thursday, December 9, the entire sophomore class will serenade all campus living groups. Following the serenade they will sponsor a rally and a rally dance as a preview to the Holly Dance Friday night.

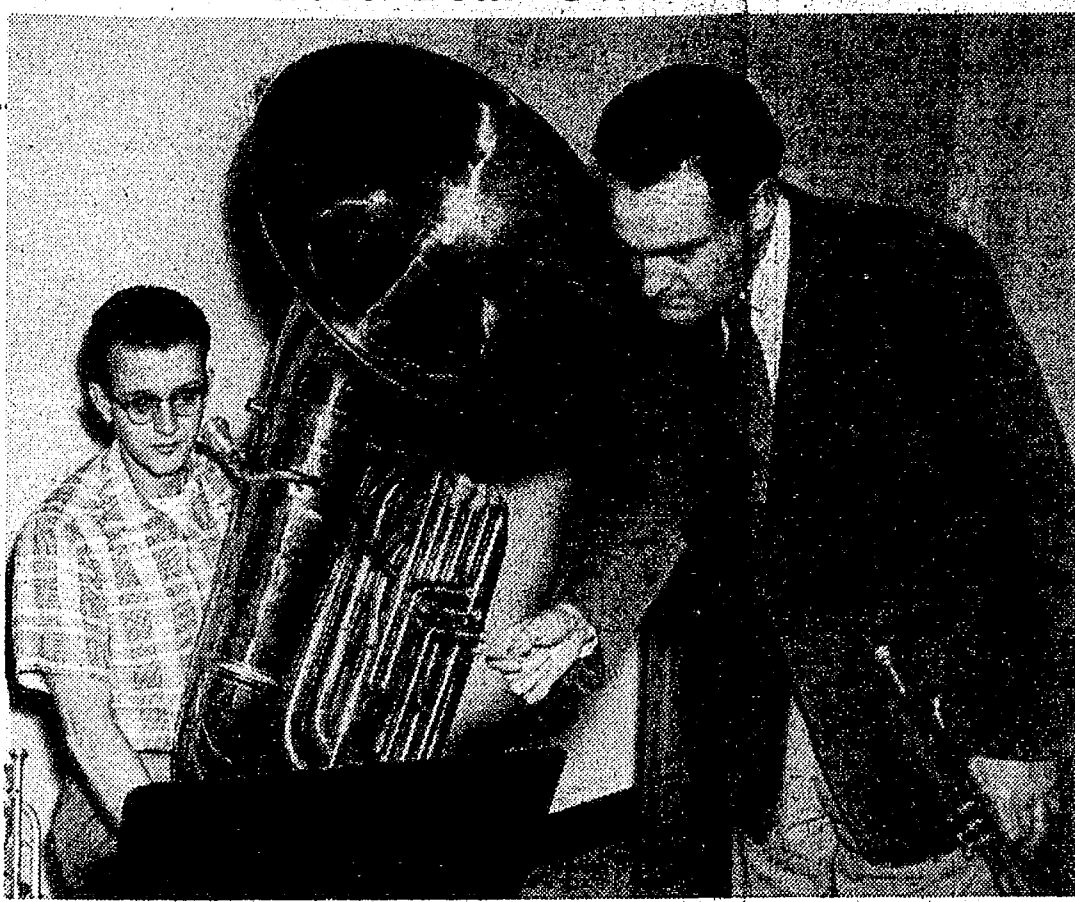

The Holly Dance will be held in all three ballrooms of the SUB December 10 from 9-12 p.m. Music is to be furnished by the Rock Rice seven-piece orchestra from Spokane. The vocalist is the 1954 Miss Washington.

A former professional soloist with orchestra and band groups throughout the country, Billingsley has received considerable attention as a composer. His "Symphony for Band" was performed at the Music Educator National conference in Chicago last winter and received acclaim from mid-west musicians. Billingsley will be featured in the performance of the "Concerto for Trumpet and Orchestra" by Haydn. A former music staff member in the Des Moines, Iowa, public schools, he is a specialist in brass instruments and assistant director of bands at Idaho.

Conducting the orchestra will be Elwyn Schwartz, assistant professor of music. Assisting him and serving as section leaders will be Mrs. Eleanor Mader, associate conductor and string section coach; Warren Bellis, wood-wind instruments and Billingsley, brasses. All are Idaho music faculty members.

Tuesday's program will include major works by Cesar Franck, Debussy and Prokofiev, and is open to the public without admission charge. The orchestra was started in 1922.

Toot Your Own Horn

Members of the University of Idaho Symphony orchestra have been busy the past few weeks preparing for their annual fall-winter concert to be presented in the University auditorium at 8 p.m. Tuesday, November 30. Here instructor William Billingsley, who will be the featured soloist of the concert, gives a few pointers to Donald Hannah of Caldwell.

Gem To Take Shots Of Arg Workers

Gem pictures of Argonaut staff members, and those working on copy, reporting and rewrite will be taken Monday at 4 p.m.—after Thanksgiving vacation. Pictures will be taken in the Arg office.

Red Cross Sends Cards To Donors

Blood donor credit cards have been sent out by the Red Cross, according to Dennis Thompson, blood drive co-chairman, and should have reached the students by now.

If any students have not yet received their cards, he said, they should contact him. This applies only to students giving blood for the first time.

Students having given blood before should have a card and can fill in the dates of donation, if that was not done at the time they gave.

Any student having lost his original card should also contact Thompson.

THE PROLOGUE (Here by-gone the book Moscowbury)

When that November with his vacation soot,
The classes of fall hath borne us the boote.
And bathed every head with four days free,
Of which a vacation is engendered to thee.
When thy dear with his sweet breathe,
Inspired hath lent us a bit of relief.
The tendre croppes, and the freshmen sonne,
Hath packeth an auto and headeth home.
Away with thee SUB and thou java black,
Aye, even thee too shalt see thy slack.
And thy merchants of Venice, who dwellth downtown,
Shall mold ye a Christmas with prices not down.
Yea, slide rules will sit, on the table but dead,
While Engineer stuffeth on turkey an bread.
Yet even thy lawyer shall not be heard.
Yea, who can talketh with a mouth full of byrd.
And lo, with thine vacation's quick end,
Of Idaho to Moscowbury they shall agayn wende.
Agayn to thine texts-and doith with glee,
For but three weeks and thou art agayn free.
Now let us confesse—to Geoffrey we say,
We apologise thrice for wryting this way.
Yet holdeth a moment, a quick word to thee,
Driveth with cayre and a jolly turkeye . . .

Geologists To Make Trip To Orofino

Some 210 geology students and staff of the department will take a field trip to the Orofino area today. Rock specimens and an educational exhibit will be taken on the expedition.

This is believed to be the first time in the Pacific Northwest that such a venture has been attempted. The trip is not only considered to be highly practicable as an educational procedure, but also an economy measure for the students who must pay their own travel expenses.

Students will have access to rock outcrops and other geologic features without being exposed to the hazards of the traffic during stops on busy highways.

The field trip was made possible through the cooperative efforts of the Northern Pacific Railroad. Dr. Cook, head of the department of geology and geography, pointed out that the Orofino trip would provide good illustrations of a wide variety of geological features. They will range from mineral deposits to fossil leaves deposited in ancient lakes at the time of lava flows in this region.

Phi U Taps Three Home Ec. Students

Clara Armstrong, Forney Hall; Helen Ann Douglas, Theta and Mrs. Pearl Wheaton, Moscow, were tapped recently for membership into Phi Epsilon Omicron, national home economic honorary.

All three are juniors. They earned membership in Phi U by achieving a 2.8 grade point (or above) and by being outstanding in home economics activities, according to club members.

Drama Group To Present Play Of Former Student

Medieval England will return to the University of Idaho when the ASUI drama department will present "The Word Made Flesh," by Talbot Jennings, a former University student.

"The Word Made Flesh" is one of three plays to be presented at University Hut theater December 8, 9 and 10. This mystery-miracle play is the only serious play of the three.

Other plays to be presented will be "Master Pierre Patelin," and George Beebe's fantasy drama, "The Old Wife's Tale."

Reserve Seats
Seats for the plays will be limited, according to Miss Collette, and may be reserved by calling the U Hut.

The setting is England during the time of the War of the Roses between the houses of Lancaster and York, striving for control of the throne.

The main theme, according to Jeanne Collette, head of the drama department, dwells on a group of traveling actors who indirectly were involved in this serious political battle.

Wrote For Hollywood
"The Word Made Flesh" was one of many plays Jennings wrote while an undergraduate here. After leaving the University, Jennings attended the Harvard graduate school and then went to Hollywood to help write scenarios for "Beyond the Wide Missouri," "Knights of the Round Table," "Ivanhoe," "Anna and the King of Siam," "North West Passage," "Romeo and Juliet" and "Mutiny on the Bounty."

The play cast will feature Jerry Chandler as Judas; Gerald Bierweg as Carn; Claud Nealis as the Pilgrim; Bud Duffy as the Herald and Willard Wilson as Sherry.

Increased Enrollments Discussed By David
How will private and state supported colleges face the problem of enrollment which has increased from 10 to 25 per cent this year in our nation's college level?

"Much larger appropriations for state supported schools by legislators are necessitated," said Dean Donald K. David of the Harvard Graduate Business School in an interview Saturday. "The private colleges such as Harvard and Princeton will take care of themselves."

"There are a great many instrumentalities involved in appropriate money for private colleges. The Ford Foundation and the Council for Financial Aid to Education, Inc. are two available funds for help in private institutions." State supported schools must depend entirely upon the state legislatures.

Skyline Drive Ski Runs Are About Half Finished

Work on the new ski run at Skyline Drive is progressing well, according to Darrel Betts, president of the Vandal Ski Club. The two runs, the beginners and the advanced, are about half finished at the present.

When completed, each run will measure around 3,000 feet. The two runs will meet halfway down and at this time the runs are completed to the point where they meet. Ski club members plan to complete the run in four weeks.

Thanksgiving Vacation Begins Tomorrow Noon

Thanksgiving vacation will begin Wednesday at noon and extend to 8 a.m. Monday, November 29. All University offices will be closed for Thanksgiving day but will be open on their regular schedules throughout the remainder of the holidays. The library will close Thursday but will reopen for business as usual on Friday and will be open until noon on Saturday and again closing on Sunday. The SUB cafeteria and grill will close from 3 p.m. Wednesday, November 24, to 5 p.m. Sunday, November 28.

Mme Shafik To Discuss Illiteracy

"The Fight for Literacy in the Near East," will be the topic which Madame Doria Shafik, a native of Egypt, will discuss here next Monday.

This speech will be given in an open meeting under the sponsorship of the International Relations Club.

The Academic Council has ruled that classes may be excused by individual instructors in order that interested students may hear Madame Shafik.

The ruling states, "The instructors are to use their discretion in excusing classes. Also, that classes are to be excused must be in fields related to the subject being discussed."

Here Monday
Madame Shafik will be met at the Moscow-Pullman airport Monday morning by Ann Popma, Dennis Thompson and Dr. S. B. Rolland, assistant professor of social sciences.

From the airport Madame Shafik will be brought to the Tri-Delt house where she is a guest.

At noon she will be feted at a no-host luncheon sponsored by the International Relations Club in the Vandal Room of the SUB.

After her speech here Madame Shafik will fly to Seattle for another engagement.

IFC Elects West Prexy

Tom West, Sigma Nu, last Tuesday evening was elected as president of the Interfraternity Council, which represents Idaho's fourteen fraternities. West, a senior from Pocatello, succeeds Ernie Bedke, SAE.

Chosen as vice president was Kenny Wright, Sigma Chi, while George Yost, SAE, was selected as secretary and Bill Bauscher, Delta Tau Delta, the new treasurer.

The big project of the council this semester will be the staging of the Interfraternity Council Ball in the early spring. Committees to begin preliminary work on the dance were appointed by West.

Dance Held After Game

An estimated 2,500 people attended the dance after the Boise BYU-Idaho football game Saturday, according to the Boise Statesman.

The Boise festivities kicked off with a rally line-up from 5th and Main Streets to the Capitol steps on Friday afternoon after the team arrived. The rally line-up featured the football team, coaches and Len Jordan, governor of Idaho.

The rally was led by Dale Carlisle, yell leader.

A pre-thanksgiving turkey dinner led Saturday night's activities at the Elks temple in Boise. Following the buffet style dinner, the dance was held in the lodge.

Transfer English Credits Accepted

The Academic Council recently voted to accept freshman English credits earned by transfer students through correspondence study at other colleges and universities, the minutes of the Academic Council reported.

The only restriction was that the transfer student asking for such credit pass University of Idaho English proficiency examinations.

Academic Staff Members Have Stayed On Campus?

For the benefit of those remaining on the campus, several of the popular eating places in Moscow will serve the traditional Thanksgiving dinner with all the trimmings. All other meals between Wednesday noon and Monday breakfast will have to be arranged by the students themselves.

Contrary to explicit instructions issued by the Academic Council, as stated below,

"All classes are to be conducted on regular and normal schedule until noon on Wednesday, and are to start on regular schedule on the following Monday morning. It is to be expected that student attendance will conform to these dates and that instructors will follow the regular and normal class schedule without deviation or discrimination because of the vacation. Students who take unexcused absences before or after the vacation do so upon their own responsibility, and their instructors are 'not' required to provide make-up arrangements."

departures from the campus began last Friday with students leaving for the southern part of the state with the Idaho-BYU game as an excuse. Departures can be expected to continue at a stepped up pace through Wednesday.

Some stay-behinds are already wearing long faces at the thought of foraging for their own "vitals". An increase in the number of hermits is expected to result from the holiday, and as a last resort some of them may have to stoop to studying to occupy their free time.

Arab Independence Topic Of Cosmopolitan Meeting

"The Arabs have been fighting for a long time for their independence from western rule," stated Farah Shehede, junior in civil engineering from Syria, when he addressed the Cosmopolitan Club on "Problems of the Arab World."

Farah Shehede was joined by Maurice Nasser who discussed the "Palestine Problem." These topics formed last Friday's meeting of the club. Approximately 60 people were present.

Along with his speech Shehede showed a film on French Morocco.

Concerning the problems of the Arab world Shehede pointed out that the "western world didn't help the peoples of the Arab world, that their only interest was in the exploitation of their resources." He further stated, "This was a basis for the trouble in such countries as Egypt and Lebanon."

On the same Friday night program with Shehede was Maurice Nasser, a junior in chemical engineering from Jordan who talked about the problems of the Palestine situation.

Not Rightful
Nasser pointed out that "the Jewish population was not the rightful inhabitants of Palestine, that only through immigration have they gained control of the majority."

"The support which the United States, France and England gave the Jews in obtaining control of Palestine has done much to cause undue friction between these countries and the Arab countries," said Nasser.

Abdul Kamal, graduate student in horticulture from Jordan had charge of the Sunday meeting in which he discussed the "Social Life of the Arab People."

Misrepresented
Kamal emphasized that "the Arab world has been misrepresented by the west due to medieval religious rivalries, and the reliance of the western public on the "Arabian Nights" as a source of information concerning the Arab people."

Kamal cited as examples the misconception of the harems, veils and polygamy. He went on to point out that these were more cultural than religious.

Kamal also pointed out the differentiation between the Arab nomads and the settled Arab society. "The Arab cities are very similar to those in the western world," he stated.

After the speech Kamal showed some slides demonstrating different phases of Arab life and then showed a movie entitled "Women of the World in Egypt."

After the Sunday meeting an open house was held at the International House in which native Arab costumes and various interesting elements of the Arab world were displayed.

Has Individualism Died?

In the previous editorial, the promotion of individualism in thought and intellectual action was set down as one of the primary goals of education. The question now arises, says Gilbert Highet, noted professor at Columbia, concerning whether or not contemporary educational systems are striving for this goal or smothering individuals in a fog of massism.

It is difficult to evaluate our own current system for the very words upon this page are influenced by it. However, the author, Raymond Jones, in "The School" starts off by pointing out that "the educational system exists to enable the individual to become an integral part of his cultural life." A culture demands a certain minimum degree of stability for its existence. "Uniformity of customs, habits, thoughts contributed to this stability," adds Jones.

There is, therefore, a heavy checkrein on any individual who attempts to vary from the norm. This all represents a process called homeostasis. "The school is the instrument," says Jones, "to carry it out." The school, then, by homeostasis would be responsible for keeping things as they are. "It preserves," concludes Jones, "the cultural ideal at all costs through the widespread indoctrination with mass data."

Education in the United States is widespread enough to function as a mass unit. Yet, it has been limited enough in the past to keep from smothering individuals like Edison and Ford from shaking the cultural norm of the gas light and the horse and buggy. Professor Highet fears that era in education is going out the window. Mass data in the form of data collection and practical consequences is being substituted for real learning, believes both Jones and Highet.

Homeostasis controls don't necessarily suppress cultural growth. "They keep it in certain bounds," says Jones. The control shouldn't be confused with the agency responsible for growth. That would be like confusing the thermostat with the fire. Has the fire of individualism died in our educational system? —J. C.

Two Tests In Business To Be Given

PRINCETON, New Jersey—The Admission Test for graduate study in business, required for entrance by a number of graduate business schools or divisions throughout the country, will be offered twice during the coming year, according to Educational Testing Service, which prepares and administers the test.

A candidate must make separate application for admission to each business school of his choice and should inquire of each whether it wishes him to take the Admission Test for graduate study in business and when.

The tests will be administered on February 3, 1955 and May 14, 1955. Applications and fees must be filed with the Admission Test for Graduate Study in Business, Educational Testing Service, 20 Nassau Street, Princeton, New Jersey, at least two weeks before the testing date desired in order to allow ETS time to complete the necessary testing arrangements.

Hart Will Attend Council Meeting

Dean Donald Hart of the College of Business will attend the Advisory Council of Social Security Agencies as a public member and chairman of the Council.

The Council will consider possible changes in the state laws pertaining to Social Security and Unemployment Insurance to propose to the Governor for his administrative program.

The meeting will be held in Boise December 2 and 3.

Conference Announces Officers

Newly elected Idaho officers in the Music Educators National Conference are president, Richard Mansfield; vice president, Margaret Fox; secretary, Cherie Wood, and treasurer-historian, Virginia Sturgess, was recently announced.

Other members of MENC include Sophia Pilkington, Elaine Brandt, Caroleigh Gittens, Edwin Armstrong, Deane Jolstead, Charles Clauser, Edward Eldridge, Joan Jabborra, Maxine Fletcher, Lavonne Wilson, Richard Martin, Dallas Quick and Betty Sanders.

Elwyn Schwartz, member of University of Idaho music staff, is adviser for the group.

MENC, a department of the National Education Association of the United States, represents all phases of music education in schools and universities. Student membership is designed to aid the students in an understanding of the music education profession, members report.

Participation in programs, demonstrations, discussions and performing groups are some of the ways in which MENC furthers the students' concept of the music education profession according to a conference spokesman and it affords its students an opportunity

University Begins Second Geology Extension Course

Dr. A. T. Abbott, assistant professor of geology, will teach an extension course at St. Maries beginning on Monday, November 1. The course has to do with rocks and minerals and will last for sixteen weeks.

The St. Maries townspeople became interested after a course on the fundamentals of earth science was taught there last winter by Dr. Harry Caldwell of the geology department.

This is the second geology course to be taught by extension from the University of Idaho. The program, new last year, seems to be progressing very well. The Sandpoint community is expected to receive an extension course sometime in the future.

The Sub: Psych Lab For Student Normality

By MOLLIE GODBOLD

"The Student Union Building should be a laboratory for the exercise of that most important of all college courses—personal relations. Don't look for it in the catalog. It's not listed, not required, purely voluntary and has no credit hours."

"What you acquire here at the Student Union is your best insurance against frustration, regardless of what you may learn from regular courses," stated John Remsberg, Jr., Chairman of the Board of Regents in the dedication address on September 30, 1950.

That was by no means the beginning of the Student Union building. The original edifice, the "Blue Bucket Inn," was built in 1924, sponsored by Miss Permeal J. French, Dean of Women, emeritus, and bought by the Board of Regents in the fall of 1936, due to urgent appeals of the students leaders for a "place they could call their own."

An addition, costing $22,500, was added to the building which had been purchased for $21,200, plus $10,000 for furnishings. In 1949, due to growth of the student body, a $700,000 addition was financed by the students with no state support.

Dean Lattig
Much of the credit for the building is given to the late Dean of Men and Director of Student Affairs, Herbert E. Lattig, who held these offices from 1945 to 1953. A picture of him, under which is inscribed, "His ideas were the foundation stones of the Student Union Building," is found in the second floor SUB lounge.

Upon entering the Bucket, the eating, coffee swigging, chat site makes an instant impression with its friendly atmosphere. Many people ask how this "talker's heaven" came to be known as the "Bucket."

WSC Takes Credit
The WSC students claim it was named by them. According to their tale, they had a Temporary Union Building before they got their new one, and they called it the TUB.

WSC students came over here to our SUB, and used our lunchroom at times. They nicknamed it the bucket because it was smaller than the TUB. Because it was even smaller, the Dipper got its name.

To the south of the Bucket are two small rooms which can be used for either conference or banquets. They are the Vandal Room and the Pine Room.

Just on the other side of this, with an outside entrance and a door into the Bucket, is the Student Book Store which handles all student books and supplies.

Going the other way from the little "anteroom," one enters the lobby from which Student Union Manager Jim Bowby's office, the

Faculty Aid Is Adopted By Regents

Six faculty members were selected and appointed by the University of Idaho Board of Regents to serve as a committee to advise and counsel with the Regents in the selection of a University president, it was announced by Mrs. Marguerite Campbell of New Meadows, president of the Board.

The Board appointed Dr. D. R. Theophilus, dean of the College of Agriculture, acting president following the resignation of President J. E. Buchanan last July. The Faculty Advisory Committee was determined Saturday at the Board meeting here as part of the Regents' program for appointing Buchanan's successor. Committee members were selected from a list of 25 nominations made by divisional faculties.

The committee consists of Professors Ray M. Berry, chairman, head of the department of education; Boyd A. Martin, head of social sciences; Leif Verner, acting head of horticulture; Norman F. Hindle, head of mechanical engineering; W. H. Cone, chairman of chemistry, and E. W. Tisdale, assistant director of the forest, wildlife and range experiment station.

The cop walked over angrily. "Hey buddy," he stated. "Didn't you hear me yell for you to stop?" "Nope," said the motorist. "Didn't you hear me whistle?" "Nope."

"Didn't you see me signal?" "Nope," said the motorist. "Well," said the cop, "I'd better go home. I don't seem to be doing much good around here."

DECEMBER AND MAY: ACT I

Of all the creatures that inhabit the earth, none is so fair, so warm, so toothsome, as a coed.

This is a simple fact, well-known to every campus male, and, to most campus males, a source of rejoicing. But not to all. To some, the creamy brows and twinkling limbs of coeds are a bane and a burden. To whom? To professors, that's whom.

Professors, according to latest scientific advice, are human. Stick them and they bleed, pinch them and they hurt, ring a dinner bell and they salivate, confront them with a round young coed and their ears go back, even as yours and mine.

But, by and large, they contain themselves. After all, they are men of high principle and decorum, and besides, the board of regents has got stoolies all over. So, by aid large, they contain themselves. But not always. Every now and then a coed will come along who is just too gorgeous to resist, and a professor—his clutch worn out from years of struggle—will slip and fall. White though his hair, he is as lovable, most truck, and impaled as any freshman.

But he's far worse off than any freshman. After all, a freshman can thump his leg, put on his linen duster, and take out after the coed with mad abandon. But what can the poor smitten prof do? How, in his position, can he go courting a young girl undergraduate? In this column and the next one, I am going to deal with this difficult question. I will relate to you, in the form of a two act play, an account of a professor's attempt to woo a coed.

The scene is a typical office in a typical liberal arts building on a typical campus. In this shabby setting, we find two men, Professors Twonkey and Phipps. They are lumpy and bent, in the manner of English lit professors.

PHIPPS: Twonkey, a terrible thing has happened to me. A terrible, ghastly thing! I've fallen in love with a coed.

TWONKEY: Now, now, that's not so terrible. Phipps: Oh, but it is. Miss McPetridge—for that is her name—is a student, a girl of nineteen. How would her parents feel if they knew I was gawking at her and refusing my food and writing her name on frosty windowpanes with my fingernail?

TWONKEY: Come now, Phipps, no need to carry on so. You're not the first teacher to cast warm eyes at a coed, you know. Phipps: You mean it's happened to you too?

TWONKEY: But of course. Many times. Phipps: What did you do about it? TWONKEY: Looked at their knees. It never fails, Phipps. No matter how pretty a girl is, her knees are bound to be knobby and bony and the least romantic of objects.

PHIPPS: Not Miss McPetridge's—for that is her name. They are soft and round and dimpled. Also pink. TWONKEY: Really? Well, I'll tell you something, Phipps. If I ever found a girl with pink knees, I'd marry her. Phipps: It is my fondest wish, but how can I, a professor of fifty, start a courtship with a girl of 19?

TWONKEY: Very simple. Ask her to come to your office for a conference late tomorrow afternoon. When she arrives, be urbane, be charming. Ask her to sit down. Give her a cigarette.

PHIPPS: A Philip Morris. TWONKEY: But of course. Phipps: I just wanted to be sure you mentioned the name. They're paying for this column.

TWONKEY: Give her a Philip Morris. Phipps: That's right. TWONKEY: Then light her Philip Morris and light one yourself. Say some frightfully witty things about English lit. Be gay. Be insouciant. Keep her laughing for an hour or so. Then look at your watch. Cry out in surprise that you had no idea it was this late. Insist on driving her home.

PHIPPS: Yes, yes? TWONKEY: On the way home, drive past that movie house that shows French films. Stop your car, as though on a sudden impulse. Tell her that you've heard the movie was delightfully Gallic and naughty. Ask her if she'd like to see it.

PHIPPS: Yes, yes? TWONKEY: After the movie, say to her in a jocular, offhand way that after such a fine French movie, the only logical thing would be a fine French dinner. Take her to a funny little place you know, with candles and checked tablecloths. Ply her with burgundy and year old girl resist such blandishments?

PHIPPS: Twonkey, you're a genius! This will be like shooting fish in a barrel... But I wonder if it isn't taking unfair advantage of the poor little innocent.

TWONKEY: Nonsense, Phipps. All's fair in love and war. Phipps: You're right, by George. I'll do it! (So ends Act I. Next week, Act II)

This column is brought to you by the makers of PHILIP MORRIS who think you would enjoy their cigarette.

Kappa Sigs To Hold Annual House Party

Kappa Sigma will present its forty-fourth annual House Party December 4, as the campus swings into the whirl of winter formals and dinners. The House Party includes twelve hours of dining and dancing to the tunes of Eddie Alverti's orchestra.

Sigma Nus and Campus Club members have both celebrated Thanksgiving this week with annual turkey dinners. The Campus Club also held its annual fall dance this week, with the theme, "My Favorite Song," setting the pattern for the costumes.

KAPPA SIGMA

Enthusiasm is high at the Kappa Sig house while plans get underway for the forty-fourth annual House Party, a traditional event. The first House Party was a joint function with the Gamma Phi back in 1911. The big day this year will be Saturday, December 4, from noon until midnight.

Kappa Sigs and their girls will dine, dance and be merry to the twelve hours of music by Eddie Alverti's orchestra. The fellows assure a good time to all the girls who attend—from the "Snow In" at high noon until the "Mardi Gras" at midnight.

Recently pledged to Kappa Sigs were Bob Donnelley, Chick Brown, Steve Clements and Carl Rau. Welcome, men.

ALPHA CHI OMEGA

Watching TV at the Sigma Chi house and dancing at the Dipper were highlights of the Alpha Chi-Sigma Chi all-house dinner exchange Wednesday night. Thanks, Sigma Chis, for a fun time.

Sharon Gilbert, Spokane, was a weekend house guest.

Twenty-one of the Alpha Chis travelled to Boise for the big game Saturday, while the other half stayed home and appreciated a peaceful, yet empty, house.

CAMPUS CLUB

Saturday night found Campus Clubbers and their dates dressed up as "My Favorite Song," at the annual fall dance. The unusual costumes drew many inspiring comments.

Intermission entertainment was provided by several couples who presented kits or songs to represent their respective songs.

Guests at the dance were Mr. and Mrs. John Moisey.

DELTA GAMMA

Last week, Mrs. Morrison Campbell, province secretary, was a guest at the house. Mrs. Morrison held conference with the chapter officers as a main part of her visit.

Nancy Moore and Joyce Genoway, home economics students, have returned from Boise where they gave cooking demonstrations over one of the television stations.

Nan Nelson was a dinner guest Wednesday, and Sharon Gilbert, Spokane, was a Sunday dinner guest.

Sunday evening Margaret Woodard announced her pining to Bob Hanson, Phi Gamma Delta.

BETA THETA PI

Beta intramural volleyball team members started off the season this week with two wins, one over the Lambda Chis by forfeit, and a 15-2, 15-4 defeat over the Fijis. Jim Asaph, Beta pledge, was recently appointed as the sports editor of the Gem.

Dinner guests Friday were Virginia Nelson and Stan and Lynn Eate. The guests were surprised as five Delta Gamma pledges served the dinner as hashers.

DELTA DELTA DELTA

The girls who stayed home this weekend had a great time, it is rumored, for they were treated to steak dinners and apple pie both Saturday and Sunday.

Two serenades highlighted the week for the Thetas. Karen Warner received a serenade from the SAE's as the 1954-55 Violet Queen.

The Sigma Nus serenaded Suzanne Dolphin in honor of her recent pinning to Bill Summers. Sharon VanDorn was a week end guest at the house. Saturday lunch guests were Chuck Choate and Jay Bergslien.

Dinner guests Sunday included Maureen Maxwell, Patty Reese, Dave Cummins, John Nelson, Roy Hargraves and Larry Church. SIGMA NU

The big event of the past week for the Sigma Nus was the Thanksgiving dinner last Wednesday evening at the house. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Wade Patterson and Mr. and Mrs. Dick Reed.

Entertainment for the evening included the showing of the Idaho Utah football pictures. Congratulations are in store for Tom West who was elected president of the Interfraternity Council last week. Returning from Columbus, Ohio where he attended the national convention of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism honorary, was John Gillis, president of the local chapter.

Seven members of the Radio-TV Guild, Marilyn Weaver, Don Bundy, Connie Brookins, Maxine Fletcher, Ramona Denlinger, Roger Groth and Warren Peterson, visited KRPL Wednesday, Nov. 10 to see the radio station in live operation.

The visitors had the equipment, its purpose and how it works explained to them by their host, announcer John Mix, who also showed them around the station.

The Radio-TV Guild plans to take another visit sometime for those unable to go and for those who would like to go again.

Gem pictures will be taken tonight at 7:15 p.m. All Radio-TV Guild members be there, so they will not have to be postponed.

A team of Army ROTC cadets went to Pullman last Friday evening to install the officers of the newly organized WSC Pershing Rifle chapter.

The team, headed by cadet Capt. John Kaku, presented the WSC chapter their charter and installed their officers for the coming year.

Other members of the Idaho Pershing Rifle team who went to Pullman were first lieutenant Don Omans; second lieutenants Richard Cooke, Robert Sewell and Charles Lents; and sergeants Edward Houck and Robert Sargent.

It seems that the gate broke down between heaven and hell. St. Peter appeared at the broken part and called to the Devil, "Hey, Satan, it's your turn to fix the gate this time."

"Sorry," replied the Devil, "my men are all busy."

"Well, then," said St. Peter, "I'll have to sue for breaking our agreement."

"Oh, yeah," said the Devil, "where are you going to get a lawyer?"

Dean David spoke Friday at 11 a.m. in the University Auditorium. Business students were excused for his speech on democracy and the business world.

David returned this summer from a visit to European countries on behalf of the Harvard Business School, where in Germany he investigated the policy of the United States to Germany.

In addition to his Harvard dean ship, David is theonly trustee of the Ford Foundation who is not related to the Ford family. He is director of the R. H. Macy Co. and General Electric, National Bank of New York and Aluminum Ltd.

Honorary Has Dinner

Acting President D. R. Theophilus was the honored guest Sunday evening when the Idaho Chapter of Scabbard and Blade, the national military honorary, held a formal dinner in the SUB.

Capt. T. C. Thomas, professor of naval science; Lt. Col. James A. Moore, professor of military science and tactics; and Ma. James M. Huges professor of air science, were featured speakers of the evening.

4-H Club Makes Tags

Making identification tags for the Idaho delegates to National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago held the last of this month and the first of December was the main activity at the regular meeting of the University 4-H Club last Thursday evening.

The group discussed plans and ideas for the rest of this year's program. Twenty-four members attended the meeting where it was decided to make Christmas cards to send to the county 4-H Clubs of the state. This will be done at the December 2 meeting.

Club President, Jim Jessup, said he hoped more members would start attending the regular meetings, the first and third Thursdays of each month. He also said he was organizing an interesting program, including an exchange with the WSC 4-H Club organization.

Scientific Jobs Open To Students

Summer employment opportunity for scientists is being offered by the University of California in connection with the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory in Los Alamos, N. M.

This graduate student summer employment program is for experimental physicists, mathematicians, nuclear physicists, theoretical physicists, analytical chemists, inorganic chemists, physical chemists, mechanical engineers, metallurgical engineers and electrical engineers (electronics). Persons applying must be graduates and must plan on advancing their studies.

The selection will be made by the laboratory on the basis of scholastic record, experience and interests, and recommendation of the professors. The salary will vary with the training and experience. A bachelor of science candidate will receive $350 per month for 40 hours a week, a first year graduate will receive $375 and a second year graduate will get $400 per month.

Dinners Are Set; Meetings Cancelled

A Thanksgiving dinner is being planned for the Presbyterian and Congregational students who will be here during Thanksgiving. Many of the Sunday meetings have been cancelled because of the coming vacation. The Northwest Newman Club Convention will be held at Eugene, Oregon, on November 24-27.

LUTHERAN STUDENTS ASSOCIATION

Thursday night at 7 p.m. will be Bible study. A council meeting will follow at 8 p.m. at the Christian Center.

WESTMINSTER FORUM

Plan to attend the coffee hour this afternoon between 4 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. at the CCC.

A Thanksgiving dinner is being planned for the Presbyterian students and Congregational students who will be here during Thanksgiving. If you are going to be here and would like to be included call Mrs. Lambert Erickson, phone 2-7164.

Wednesday evening at 8 p.m. the Union Thanksgiving service will be held at the Methodist Church. Everyone is invited to attend.

There will be no Westminster Forum next Sunday, November 28, because of Thanksgiving vacation.

NEWMAN CLUB

The main purpose of the Northwest Newman Club Convention at Eugene, Oregon, on November 24-27 will be discussions with clubs of other universities concerning the problems that face the student on a secular campus.

The following will leave Moscow by cars Wednesday morning: Thomas Butera, Jan Avery, Homer Oberst, Paul Moore, Thomas Monaghan, Joanne Peterson, John Speth and Peter Rogalski.

CANTERBURY CLUB

Canterbury Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. at Canterbury House Tuesday.

Allyn Dingle has received the Canterbury calendars from the printer and will need help to distribute them on Monday, November 29. Please come to Canterbury House after the noon meal on that date to take one calendar for each Episcopalian in your house. The lists will be there for you.

Canterbury is looking forward to the arrival of Bishop Hubbard for the first weekend in December. He will give a talk at the evening meeting of Canterbury Club.

There will be no meeting next Sunday night because of Thanksgiving vacation. Don't forget to bring your gifts for the Christmas Bazaar back with you after Thanksgiving, if your parents haven't already sent a gift. We need more help on this bazaar. There are opportunities to work on the luncheon and publicity committees. Contact Ann Reading or Julie Whitney if you can help.

Idaho Engineering Grads Are Active, Says Hindle

"Idaho's graduate engineers can be found distributed all over the country. They can be found from the Pratt and Whitney Company in Hartford, Conn., to the Shell Corporation in San Francisco, Calif., stated N. F. Hindle, professor at the College of Engineering.

Hindle, acting dean during Dean A. S. Janssen's absence said the Idaho graduates can be found working throughout the country for many of the 200 companies who interview students here each year.

Companies Interview

The Aluminum Company of America interviewed students last week and several other major companies will be here in the next month, he reported. Representing the Wenatchee, Wash., branch of the Aluminum Company of America was R. L. Shut, employment manager. H. R. Kelly was the representative of the Vancouver branch of the company.

These men will return for final interviews on January 14. "Last year one or two of our students were hired by this company," Hindle said.

Engineer Possibilities

Other companies interested in possible engineering graduates are the Monocato Company, one of the largest companies in Idaho, on November 30; the Radio Corporation of America will be here December

1; the Idaho Department of Highways on December 9; the Food Machinery, and Chemical Corporation of Pocatello, December 10.

Some firms interview students during the first semester and return during the second semester for final arrangements for possible jobs. Other companies, however, come for interviews during the second semester and make further arrangements by letter in the spring and summer, Hindle reported.

Hindle reported that letters are coming in right along asking for dates for interviewing students. "There doesn't seem to be any slacking off," he reported. "It seems to be going much like last year when we had about 200 firms here."

So these two bopsters stalled their automobile on a railroad track, see? They looked out and saw an express train thundering down upon them. "Man," cried one, "Dig that crazy 3-D."

FOURTH STRAIGHT WIN FOR IDAHO ELEVEN

Lawr Scores Lone TD, Gary Motors

TAKE FIVE

With John B. Hughes

Bye Bye Mr. Pigskin, see you in Moscow again this spring for a practice session of some 20 days and then again next fall. You were good to the Vandals and Skip this fall but don't you agree that their hard work gained them everything they earned such as a win over the mighty Cougars and their bitter Southern rivals, those Utah Redskins?

Fans, you had a great quarterback this season, although such runners as Wilbur Gary and Bill Lawr and linemen Birdy Hess and Frank Teverbaugh made the news. George Eidam came a long way through college ranks and led the Idaho team almost every minute of the nine games. In the second half of the BYU game at Boise Saturday George separated his shoulder on the opening kickoff and played every second of that half with a sharp pain that didn't seem to bother him. He played all 60 minutes of the contest and not until the final game gun sounded did he even mention that he had hurt his shoulder.

Vandals Miss Seniors
Eidam generated the club all season and was turning into one of Idaho's finest quarterbacks. Being a senior cuts George's career short. Too bad this spirited Vandal doesn't have another year of eligibility left. The Vandals will miss George next season. And that goes for the rest of the Idaho seniors—Frostenson, Giles, Teverbaugh, Roark, Leigh, Armitage, Barton, Lawr and Hess.

Although post-season Bowl football games won't come around until January 1, we begin to wonder how much interest the classic's tub-thumpers will be able to create over some second choice teams that are pitted in a pair of these games.

In particular we refer to the Orange and Rose Bowl tilts, undoubtedly two of the top four New Year's Day games. The opponents for these two contests have been decided in but one case.

Oklahoma's performance in the Orange Bowl last season and UCLA's in the Rose Bowl make the two teams ineligible for returning to the Bowls this year.

Nebraska will represent the Big Seven and either Maryland or Duke for the Atlantic Conference in the Orange Bowl and out here in the West, Southern California will represent the Pacific Coast Conference and Ohio State the Big Ten in the Rose Bowl festival.

In our book both of these games will turn out farces. The bowl committees are taking second rate teams in the case of USC and Nebraska. No offense toward either club, but they just didn't win their conferences and are not true representatives.

Getting the knife in this deal is UCLA on the Coast, battling all season with Ohio State for the number one team in the nation honors and Oklahoma, unbeaten this year and in their last 18 games. Come the end of the season, these teams will hang up their spikes and sit back and see what the second choices will do with Ohio State and Duke or Maryland.

Incidentally UCLA beat USC 34-0 and Oklahoma dropped Nebraska 55-6 in games Saturday. Wonder how the runners-up felt about these likings.

So as you see the conference rulings set up in the Big Seven and the Pacific Coast won't allow the Bowl representative from the previous year to return should they win in the conference again the following season.

USC and Nebraska both have fine clubs, but cannot honestly go into these games with the feeling that they are true representatives, a position that is embarrassing to them and the conference, so why does the conference carry on with this ruling. In one way, however, the ruling is beneficial, in that it allows other teams to get a crack at the Rose Bowl and prevents one team from dominating the Bowl.

Rulings Unfair

But this rule is not fair to the conference, if it wants to be represented in the post season classic and it is not fair to the fan who pays 10 bucks or more a crack to see the game.

The emphasis for the big powers today is to shoot for the post season games, for many of the schools rely on the income to keep their fabulous football recruiting and operating systems going. UCLA and Oklahoma might have just as well concentrated this season on bringing along some sophomores and juniors to get ready for the 1955 campaign when at that time they can wholeheartedly go after a Bowl berth.

So much emphasis is also placed on winning that the individual athlete, who is less and less being considered in these days of big cars and little people, fights for the chance to make the starting team when he is a senior, for instance, and then doesn't have a chance to play in a Bowl game. It is the dream of most any college football player to play in a post season classic. A prospective college player makes a gamble when he goes to a large school such as UCLA, for he must be terrific to crack the Bruin team. He has worked up through the ranks and now no Bowl game.

Sooners Vs. Bruins

A post season game between the Sooners and Bruins, you say—sorry, conference rules prevent any post season games for UCLA.

The Cotton Bowl has one representative with Arkansas, a near second choice, as they backed over the fence when Baylor dropped SMU, who had beaten Arkansas soundly earlier in the season. Other top teams looking for bowl berths are Georgia Tech, Miami, Baylor, and either Duke or Maryland, depending on which one gets the trip to the Orange Bowl.

Then there is the Ivory Bowl in East Afganistan—who knows what kind of odd rules they have there.

Tailenders

Pre-season dopesters give the Northern Division basketball nod to Oregon State who will have Wade Halbrook conveniently eligible again at the semester. OSC Coach Slat Gills says Washington will be the winner and the team to beat. We'll wait until the facts are a little more concrete before making a gamble. Each season this race gets better and better. The five Northern Division teams play a basketball round robin in Seattle during the Christmas holidays.

Grid Coaches Speak To South Idahoans

Idaho coach Skip Stahley had quite a weekend in Boise following the Idaho 7-0 win over Brigham Young University.

Stahley was the guest speaker last night at a Vandal Booster banquet and will speak tonight in Nampa. Assistant coaches Gene Stauber and Jay Pattee are also fulfilling speaking engagements in the Southern part of the state.

at right tackle and Lawr punched another yard to the BYU 20. Cougar End Tom Verbantz slashed through the Idaho defense to set Gary back five yards and a fourth down incomplete pass intended for Frank Teverbaugh gave the BYU club the ball on downs, and another Vandal rally fell short.

Hodges Promises Cage Fans Interesting Play At Idaho

SPOKANE — Idaho basketball coach Harlan Hodges told Spokane sportswriters and broadcasters Monday noon that the Idaho Vandals will play an interesting type of ball this season, but with the lack of height may have its trouble in the hot Northern Division race.

Hodges appeared along with WSC basketball mentor Jack Friel at the weekly luncheon of the SWAB Association.

Hodges, new to Idaho this season as he replaces Charles F. "Chuck" Finley at the head position, said "Idaho won't be very tall with the tallest player Jim Sather who stands 6-4. But we will use a fast break style of play when feasible and run most of the time."

"As is look at this point of the practice season," Hodges commented, "our starters will probably be Harlan 'Lefty' Melton and Jay Buhler at the forwards, Bill Bauscher and Bob Falash at guards and Jim Sather at center."

Hodges praised his fresh club. "People in Moscow tell me that the freshmen this year are the best at Idaho in many years and I must agree they look good."

Like ND Play
"I've heard that the other Northern Division teams are all supposed to have better teams this year and I hope that the Vandals

FANS INVITED TO CAGE SCRIMMAGE TONIGHT

Idaho students are invited to attend a basketball scrimmage tonight at 8 p.m. in the Memorial Gym for the first look at the 1954-55 Idaho team. The scrimmage will be for full game length and will be the first time students will have seen the new Harlan Hodges type of race horse basketball.

will compete in good style with them. I've looked at the movies of the 1953-54 games played by Idaho and feel that the Northern Division plays some pretty good basketball."

Hodges also related his basketball experiences while at Murry State in Kentucky, the school he left after building teams to among the nation's basketball powers, to take the Vandal reins. Friel told the writers and broadcasters that the Cougars will have an experienced team but was reserved in any predictions as how the race will come out.

Other guests at the luncheon were Hank Anderson, Gonzaga; Red Reese, EWCE and Art Smith, Whitworth, all head basketball coaches at their school.

The weaker sex is the stronger sex because of the weakness of the stronger sex for the weaker sex.

Theophilus Gets Lighters But Is Not Lit

Dr. D. R. Theophilus, acting president of the University of Idaho, was one up today on President Robert Cross of the University of Oklahoma.

At the Idaho-North Dakota football game November 8, the Coeur d'Alene Athletic Roundtable presented Idaho Coach J. Neil (Skip) Stahley with a new car for the victory over Washington State College. Predecessors had unsuccessfully sought for the victory for 28 years.

On the same week-end, Theophilus related during an address to the North Idaho Chamber of Commerce meeting here the following story on President Cross:

The Sooner Touchdown club, in appreciation for the highly successful 1950 football season, gave to Oklahoma Coach "Bud" Wilkinson a new car—and to Cross a cigarette lighter.

Theophilus, who incidentally does not smoke, has now received two cigarette lighters. One was given him by the Grangeville Vandal Boosters club at Saturday's Idaho-Brigham Young football game in Boise, and another came in the mail today from Victor Casebolt, the presiding president of the North Idaho Chamber of Commerce meeting.

A sign on a golf course reads: "Members will refrain from picking up lost balls until they stop rolling."

Nine Teams Are Unbeaten In VB Play

Nine teams remained undefeated after the first week of play in intramural volleyball, concluded Thursday.

Heading the list are three teams from the fraternity division, Tau Kappa Epsilon of League 1 and Phi Delta Theta and Sigma Nu of League 2 each with three wins and no losses. Delta Tau Delta of League 1 and Beta Theta Pi of League 2 both have two victories against no losses.

Three teams in league 3, Willis Sweet Hall 1, Chrisman Hall 1, and Pine Hall 1 have records of 2 wins and no losses. Lindley Hall 11 are the sole leaders of League 4 with a 2 and 0 record.

Play will be continued on Tuesday, November 30 after the Thanksgiving holiday.
