Mme Shafik Cancels Talk

Because of sudden illness, the Egyptian lady who was to speak here Monday afternoon cancelled her engagement.

So the Idaho highways have taken two more. Yet, cars get bigger and faster every year while the highways are still living in the twenties.

Thanksgiving vacation is the year's first break. Classes keep you on campus until noon.

And, remember, you sat through four classes already today.

Maybe you should have started sooner, cut a few classes. It would give you more daylight driving time.

Maybe it's worth it. With a longer daylight driving period you might be safer.

Maybe the extra day or two can come off Christmas vacation if the school can't afford the time.

Anyhow, it's pushing things—getting out of Moscow at noon and expecting to go to bed in South Idaho that night.

Maybe we ought to have that extra day or so.

It might help.

Hope you like the KUOI picture feature on page three today. It's the first of a series of picture features on views of campus life and University activities.

Gary Pletsch, Argonaut managing editor, will handle these for the rest of the year.

The next one will be on the ASUI student government. It will include pictures of the Executive Board, the ASUI offices and officers, plus a full run story on how they spend your money.

Students Killed In Car Crash

Muddy Numbers and Frank Pogoaga, both students here, were killed in a head-on auto crash while on their way home for Thanksgiving last Wednesday.

They were enroute to McCall. The accident was near New Meadows on highway 95.

Sheriff Frank Yantis said Numbers apparently lost control of his car while rounding a curve, crashing into a car driven by Lorene Yeoman, of Weippe. Yeoman is a recently discharged soldier.

Numbers, son of Dr. and Mrs. Don Numbers, was in the school of agriculture here. He was a member of Kappa Sigma.

Pogoaga was a geology major and lived at 519 University Ave. Numbers, a member of the Idaho ski team, was winner of the national downhill junior ski champ-

Three Plays To Be Given Next Month

"The Word Made Flesh," Master Pierre Patelin," and "The Old Wives Tale" have been selected by the ASUI drama department for presentation to the students December 8, 9 and 10 at 8 p.m. in the U-Hut.

"The Word Made Flesh" is the only serious play and it deals with the English War of Roses, according to Jean Collette, head of the drama department.

The first farce in the theatre is the theme being dealt with in "Master Pierre Patelin." This play, written by an unknown author, is directed by Larry Heyer and Dixie Kroush, and deals with the troubles encountered by a lawyer who is outsmarted by an apparently illiterate shepherd.

The cast includes Perry Lee as Pierre; Sue McMahon as Marie; Jim Kruger as Jockeau; Don Harris as the Shepherd, and John Worden as the Judge.

A Shakespearean contemporary, George Peele, is the author of "The Old Wives Tale." This selection dwells on sorcery and magic which, through many complications, eventually proves to be the solution.

This romantic comedy directed by Mary Lou Lefors and Darlene Kilborne features in the cast Warren Peterson as Calypha; Don Harris as Ereustus; Gary Hudson as Euminides; John Worden as Wiggen; Bob Beardemph as the Sexton; Mary Dunn as Della; Jessie Powers as Jack, and Ramona Delinger as the Hostess.

A replacement for Muddy Numbers, who was killed in an automobile accident Wednesday, will be announced later, according to Miss Collette.

Seating facilities, it has been stated by Miss Collette, are very limited at the U-Hut and those desiring reservations for the plays are urged to contact her at the drama department.

Results Of Contest To Be Announced

Results of the Argonaut Short Story Contest, which closed November 15, will be announced in the Argonaut soon, according to the contest chairman.

Three faculty and three student judges are now considering the separate stories, and evaluating them according to rank. The two stories judged best will be printed in the Argonaut in the next few weeks.

Two Colleges To Sponsor Band Clinic

The Departments of Music at University of Idaho and the State College of Washington are joint sponsors of a band clinic for high school music directors, to be held Saturday and Sunday, December 4-5.

Appearing as clinic leader will be Sigurd Rascher, world-renowned concert saxophonist, teacher and conductor. Rascher has appeared as solo saxophonist with the leading symphony orchestras of the world. His playing has been lauded by practically every major music critic.

Rascher will serve as guest clinic director for the two days of sessions, during which time he will present three sessions dealing with problems of playing and teaching the saxophone. He will perform specially prepared solo numbers, accompanied by the clinic band.

The clinic band will be made up of selected members of the WSC and Idaho concert bands. In addition to accompanying soloist Rascher, the band will read selected music from recent band publications. Mr. Warren Bellis and Mr. Randall Spicer, directors of Idaho and WSC bands respectively, have chosen approximately 100 numbers for the clinic band to read under their direction.

Climaxing the two day session will be an informal concert on Sunday afternoon in the recital hall of Idaho's music building at 2 p.m., at which time the program will feature a small band accompanying Rascher in several solos, a woodwind choir from the WSC bands and a saxophone choir from the U. of I. bands. This concert is open to the public with no admission charge.

Volunteer First Aiders Protect Idaho Students

By Dee Humphrey
First rate protection, according to national insurance companies, by the Moscow Volunteer Fire Department's first aid squad is one of the lesser known of the many free services University of Idaho students get.

This group of volunteers first aiders can be seen at games during the football and basketball seasons ready to jump to action wherever and whenever emergency first aid is needed.

Well Equipped
This group of volunteers workers is equipped with resuscitator, inhalator, aspirator, iron lung, oxygen therapy equipment and many other modern first aid devices. Operating from a modern, radio-equipped first aid emergency ambulance, these men have for their goal two-minute action before they are on their way to have a life or administer first aid.

Every member of the squad holds the American Red Cross advanced first aid card. It is the only group of its kind in Idaho entitled to wear the American Red Cross emergency first aid arm band. Also, each man is a member of the International First Aid and Rescue Association.

When an emergency call is received, regardless of what they are doing, the members of the squad jump into action, never minding the hour or the weather.

Sale of tickets to the annual Firemen's Ball held at Memorial Gymnasium, New Year's Eve is the chief source of income for the department.

71 Cared For
To date, this year, over 71 victims have been handled by the group, a member group of the Moscow Volunteer Fire Department.

"I think we are very fortunate in having the low number of accidents at the University of Idaho in the past," stated Fire Chief Smith.

Smith pointed out that most of the fires and accidents could be prevented by being careful.

Mass Or Individual Man?

Thus far only the school systems have been examined as educational methods in the inculcation of "massism" into our society. One of the other most powerful means is in the field of advertising.

Anyone who reads the newspapers, listens to the radio or comes in contact with the numerous means of mass communication is certainly aware of the messages set forth by advertising.

Yet, in the Middle Ages, according to many scholars, and in later times, too, sweat was regarded as a sign of manliness since it embodied active physical exertion.

Could not this same mass appeal be recognized, then, not only as a massism in itself but as a means to promoting it further? Advertising executive Rosser Reeves says it best.

In "Year of Consent" Kendall Crossen develops an unusual and interesting study of the right of free will being washed away in a sea of slogans coined by public relations manipulators.

Campus Radio --KUOI-- Boasts Many Changes Since 1945

By Gary Pietsch
Managing Editor

"Good afternoon. The Pacific Standard time is 12:30 p.m. and KUOI, the radio voice of the University of Idaho, is returning to the air with a full schedule of programs beamed and designed for Idaho campus listening. KUOI transmits a high fidelity signal on a federally assigned frequency of 660 kilocycles, maintaining studio and offices on the third floor of the Student Union Building."

This is the opening script that greets listeners of KUOI. "Kilocycles University of Idaho," "Voice of the Vandal" and "Campus Radio Network" all mean the same thing—the radio station at the University of Idaho.

This is your radio station and this is how it was formed and how it operates:

The "Voice of the Vandal" has gradually come into its own during the past nine years, serving 22 of the 30 campus living groups, said ASUI General Manager Gale Mix, KUOI's adviser. Their current facilities include a suite of five rooms, a UP teletype, a five-watt transmitter, a high fidelity tape recorder, a remote amplifier, a record turntable for 78, 45, and 33 1/3 speeds, and a commercial console.

According to Mix, long range plans for the future include the installation of a new commercial console for the control room at an estimated cost of $1500. There are also plans for expansion and erection of a new broadcasting studio with piano and necessary equipment for studio production which is estimated to cost between $5000 and $6000 for equipment and sound proofing.

But KUOI's future didn't always look so bright. If it hadn't been for the outstanding leadership of interested students and their determination to have a campus radio, KUOI would have fallen by the wayside.

The students' determination to have a radio station on the University of Idaho campus was realized in the fall of 1945. A group of electrical engineering majors borrowed equipment from the university, the NROTC and from private individuals they set up shop in a corner of the Electrical Engineering lab in the Engineering Annex building, behind the Home Economics building.

For the next two years the infant KUOI operated on an amateur basis in this location until 1947. That same year the "Voice of the Vandal", under the direction of Ted Cady, station manager, moved into an especially constructed studio on the third floor of the Engineering Annex.

The year, 1947, witnessed many other changes. Originally operating on a frequency of 650 kilocycles, KUOI was transferred to 660 with its affiliation with the Intercollegiate Broadcasting System. The IBS links over 100 college stations in the United States and Canada and provides information concerning engineering problems, programming procedures and a limited amount of national advertising. The transmitter was also increased from two to five watts of power.

The station started a regular schedule of programs, covering campus activities for 14 hours each day. That was also the year that KUOI made special "on the spot" broadcasts of concerts, assemblies and athletic contests for the first time.

Although the station was entirely self-supporting, it managed to build up a collection of records and obtained funds to operate by broadcasting music for living groups' dances. Another source of income was obtained from the rental of public address systems for campus dances.

Due to a regulation of the University and ASUI, KUOI is not permitted to solicit local advertising. The only advertising that the station can carry is the national commercials that come through the Intercollegiate Broadcasting System.

These two sources of income soon proved inadequate to meet the costs of replacing worn out equipment and operational expenses. To insure continued operation of the radio station, the ASUI Executive Board in 1949 voted to sponsor KUOI on a temporary basis and appropriated emergency funds for replacing equipment.

Although KUOI continued to broadcast from high atop the Engineering Annex building, considerable time was spent in 1950 installing the station's facilities in their new home on the third floor of the Student Union Building which was just being constructed.

With KUOI moving into its new facilities in the SUB, the ASUI decided to take it under its protecting wing and thus insured its future.

According to Gale Mix, about $4000 of ASUI funds were spent in erecting and outfitting the new studio with equipment before KUOI moved in.

The biggest problem the Voice of the Vandal" faced in 1949 and 1950 was the limitation in coverage of the campus. In June of 1950 a radiation check by the Federal Communication Commission disclosed that KUOI was exceeding the radiation limits set up by the FCC even though campus coverage was not as desirable as it could have been.

This violation prevented the station from returning to the air on a daily schedule until it was remedied. A request to the FCC for a five watt free radiation license to broadcast direct from the transmitter through an antenna over the campus like a regular station was turned down. The FCC ruled that no more such licenses would be issued to campus radio stations.

To alleviate the situation KUOI decided to broadcast through its own power lines and thus pipe its broadcasts directly into each living group.

"Wire was given to us by the Electrical Engineering department and strung through the university heat tunnels and on some poles by KUOI technicians," said Mix. "As fast as possible the whole campus will be covered, but KUOI still won't be able to serve the other one-third of the students who live off the campus," he added.

KUOI is presently serving all living groups except eight. Immediate plans for the future include the wiring in of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, LDS Institute, Kappa Alpha Theta, Delta Delta Delta, Alpha Phi, Campus Club and Idaho Club.

During the summer of 1951 when the construction of the Student Union Building was finished, KUOI completed the big move from the third floor of the Engineering Annex building to the third floor of the SUB. The once familiar phrase, "We are broadcasting from the third floor of the Engineering Annex building," was heard no longer.

Included in the five rooms is the control room from which all broadcasts originate. It is equipped with a commercial console and record turntables. The main business office contains the stacks of records card files and office desks. KUOI currently has a collection of approximately 3000 records.

The production studio is equipped with a piano for use in broadcasting campus talent. The engineering room contains the five watt transmitter, the United Press teletype and repair equipment. The last room is the office of the station manager.

The year 1953 saw KUOI forging ahead. For the first time in the station's eight year history, a United Press teletype was installed. This machine was donated by a cigarette company in return for commercials. This brought the world's top news stories to the campus and is now used daily for news broadcasts by the radio station.

In addition to the teletype, KUOI installed a new five-watt transmitter and a news bulletin board where latest dispatches from the UP teletype were displayed and changed three times daily.

This year KUOI, under the direction of station manager Chuck White, is broadcasting on a schedule of 10 hours each day from 12:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. The station also broadcasts on Saturday if there are special events to be covered. According to Chuck White the programs this year are designed directly for the student.

"We are trying as best we can to present programs on KUOI that will be of interest to the University of Idaho students as they are our primary audience. Your wishes are our desires and any comments would be appreciated," said White.

The Voice of the Vandal's staff this year consists of Jerry Chandler, production director and boss of a staff of 25 announcers, Joan Welsh, program director, Roger Groth, chief technician, Jim Foley, record librarian, and Scott Peters, publicity director.

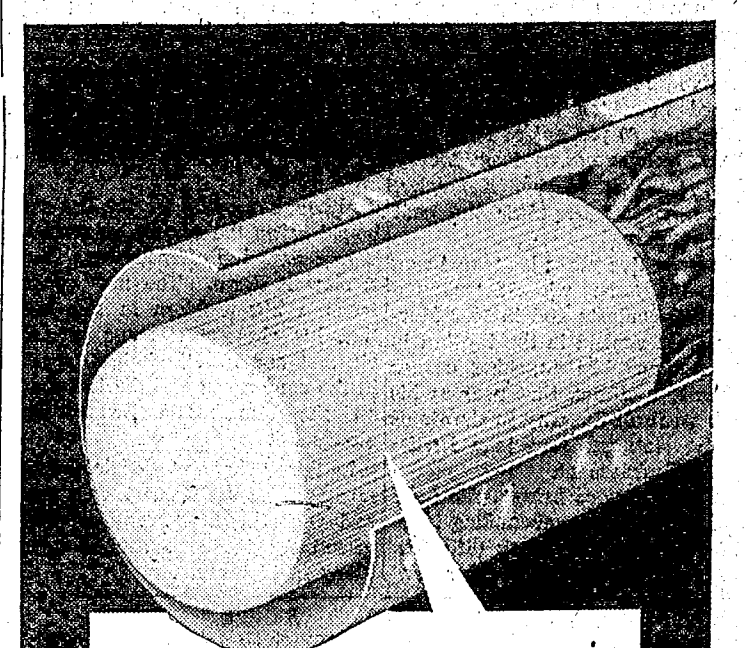

White pointed out that none of KUOI's offices are paid jobs. Student participation and their donation of time "is what keeps us going," he added.

Vandals Smooth Play For '55 Hoop Opener

Coach Harlan Hodges has but two more days to grind in offense and defense into his Idaho basketball team as the Vandals prepare for their 1954-1955 season opener Friday at Salt Lake City against the Utah Redskins.

Coach Harlan Hodges

Vandal basketball Coach Harlan Hodges faces the task of rebuilding at the University of Idaho. Having a comparatively small team this season, Hodges has a fine looking frosh team to his liking.

The Vandals worked out Tuesday in an intra-team scrimmage with the frosh winning handily 76-47 and have been working on a fast break style of play since November 1. Hodges has a 13 man squad turning out at present with the tallest team member Carl Swanstrom, reserve center, who stands 6-6. Next in line is sophomore Tom Hoots from San Anselmo, Calif., a jaysee transfer at 6-5. Gone from the tall 1953-54 team are graduates Roger Lillibridge, 66 and Dwight "red" Morrison, 6-8. Also, lost were the Vandal guards Tom Flynn, through graduation and Bob Garrison, last season a sophomore, who left school with Chuck Finley to attend Mississippi Southern, where Finley now coaches.

Local Basketball Fans Await Hodges' Style

Harlan Hodges makes his debut into Idaho basketball Friday night as the new Vandal mentor takes his charges against Utah Friday night in Salt Lake City. The new coach brings with him a fast break type of play seldom seen in past Vandals teams.

Sully to Report John Sullivan, who played end for the football Vandals, is expected to join the team. Hodges runs his teams from fast break running style of play but commented earlier this season that he would employ the system here "if the other teams allow us to get the ball enough and it seems feasible."

Vandal Babes Tangle Thursday With Fairchild

The Idaho freshman basketball squad, under coach Clem Parberry open the 1954-55 season at Fairchild Air Force Base in Spokane Thursday. The first home game for the frosh will be next Tuesday when Fairchild plays a return game.

The probable starting line-up for the frosh will include guards Bill Wilson and Jack Mitchell, forwards Jim Branom and Jerry Jorgensen and center Bob Good.

Stahley To Show BYU-Idaho Movies

The third in a series of Idaho football pictures will be shown Thursday night in the Borah Theater, Ed Smith, chairman of the Student Union film committee, announced today.

The Idaho Giant Killers, 35 Strong

Pictured is the Idaho Vandals football team for 1954, winners of four, losers of five. Two of the Idaho wins were the biggest in several years, a resounding 10-0 victory over the Washington State College Cougars and a slim 14-13 edging of Utah. The 35-man Vandals team (end Bob Meyer and halfback Ted Frostenson are missing from the picture) and the coaching staff comprised of line coach Earl Klapstein, backfield coach Jay Pattee, end and center coach Gene Stauber and assistant coach Clem Parberry, plus the head man, Skip Stahley, made the fine season possible.

Illness Hits Washington's Court Team

(Ed. Note—This is the first in a series of roundups of basketball prospects for the five Northern Division clubs. This article concerns the University of Washington.)

SEATTLE (Special)—A stepped-up practice schedule which includes team defensive maneuvers was outlined for the University of Washington basketball team this week by its coach, Tippsy Dye. The 16-man Husky squad has little more than a week left to prepare for its opening series with Hawaii University's Rainbows on Dec. 3-4 in Edmonton Pavilion. Dye's hopes for a flying start in pre-conference games took somewhat of a jolt last week when both of his starting forwards were sidelined with sickness. Jim Coshov, the 6-foot-6 junior from Seattle's Roosevelt high, developed a virus infection which kept him out of practice all last week and left doubtful whether or not he could participate before Thursday or Friday of this week.

The Huskies' other regular forward, letterman Karl Boeglin, also missed several sessions with a bad cold. However, he was expected to be available for all practices this week.

Behind this dark cloud at the forward spot, though, lies one silver lining. That's the sudden blossoming of Bob Morris, a 6-foot-1 junior who saw little action at guard a year ago but seems to have found himself in early drills at a forward spot. As of now, Morris looks like the top reserve at forward, and if he continues his present pace, the Huskies will be able to spell of Voeglin and Coshov without weakening their game.

VOLLEYBALL HOURS CHANGE Beginning Wednesday intramural volleyball will be played in the evenings rather than in the afternoons, Larry Golding, intramural director, announced Monday. Golding said teams will play at 7:45 and 8:50 rather than the previous 4:00 and 4:40 times. Forfeit time will be 7:55 and 8:50.

TAKE FIVE

With John B. Hughes

With the packing up of the Vandal football team for another season, the press will now start making rounds at the second door to the right in the coaches' office, that of Mr. Harlan Hodges, who has taken over at the desk vacated by Chuck Finley. Opening drills began Nov. 1 and the team is shaping up but has a long ways to go in polishing its run-run offense. A note from the practice court—the frosh and varsity teams take an hour of practice shooting before working on fundamentals and the Hodges system.

Brigham Young, 7-0 loser to Idaho at Boise two weeks ago, named Burdette Hess as a guard on their all-opponent team. Hess was captain of the Vandal team.

The Oregon Ducks, who posted the Vandals 41-0 in the season opener in Moscow, selected Wilbur Gary to fill the fullback berth in their all-opponent team.

TRACK CANDIDATES TO MEET WEDNESDAY Head Track Coach Joe Glander issued a call to freshmen and varsity track candidates to meet Wednesday at 4:30 p.m. in room 109 in Memorial gym.

Vandals Second To UCLA In Rushing And Defense

LOS ANGELES — Idaho placed second to highly touted UCLA in rush offense and rush defense for the 1954 football season, according to official statistics released this week by the PCC commissioner's office. Fleet fullback Wilbur Gary of Idaho was the conference's fourth rusher. The Vandals amassed 1,868 yards rushing for an average per game of 207.6 second to the Bruin's 286.4 yards per game rushing. Gary picked up 579 yards in nine games for a total average per ball carry of 6.6. Bill Lawr, Vandal halfback, totaled 369 yards for tenth in total rushing and third in average yards gained per carry of 7.5.

The fleet Idaho fullback tied with Bob Iverson of WSC and Bobby Cox of Washington with pass interceptions with five. Gary finished 12th in total offense and scored four touchdowns. Quarterback George Eidam was fifth in passing for Idaho passing 132 times, completing 49 for 411 yards. Eidam averaged .368 in completions. Eidam booted for a 33.7 yards per kick average for eighth place in that department.

Senior End Figures The Vandal senior end Frank Tevberbaugh caught 19 passes for 172 yards to tie for seventh among pass receivers. The Vandals finished on the bottom of the pack but in two departments, pass offense and defense, stayed on the ground to pick up four wins in their last four games. Idaho was second in punt returns, rush defense, third in pass interceptions, fifth in total defense and seventh in punting and total offense.

UCLA has apparently captured eight of 10 statistical titles and has contributed a new Conference record as did California. UCLA leads in every department except pass offense, where California has a 172.4 yard game average, and pass defense which Oregon heads with 91.9 yards.

California established its Conference mark by compiling a 61.0 per cent pass completion record, surpassing the former Conference record of 57.3 per cent (Washington 1950) and the former national record of 57.5 per cent (Illinois, 1952). California completed 139 of 228 passes for 1724 yards and 10 touchdowns and had only 12 intercepted.

Brins Set Record UCLA's new Conference record was a defensive performance, the Bruins allowing opponents only 659 yards rushing in nine games for an average of 73.3 yards per conference game.
