The GOLDEN FLEECE by Jason

Now about getting out earlier for Thanksgiving?

Probably not, according to Director of Student Affairs C. O. Decker.

Decker said that the administration has considered the idea but doubted the effectiveness of it. In short they thought students would drive just as fast if they got a day earlier for Thanksgiving. Besides, if they were excused following Tuesday's classes most students would leave for home immediately. This would promote more night driving than leaving Wednesday at noon.

In fact another remedy might be to revert back to the old plan where school was held the Friday following Thanksgiving. Then students wouldn't try to take a 500 mile trip for the short vacation.

Another factor was that since Christmas vacation is just three weeks away it isn't practical for students living long distances to try and get home anyway.

We still maintain that something should be done in the way of getting out earlier. That leaving at noon the day before Thanksgiving is just plain asking for it.

Maybe you've already noticed a feature on this page today dealing with a controversy over the national debate topic of recognizing Red China.

Don't let that word "debate" scare you away.

Because when this question was adopted as the national debate topic certain academic groups in this country decided that students should not debate such a question.

The controversy started in Nebraska where five college presidents decided their students would not debate the national topic. Even students at Annapolis and West Point were forbidden to debate it.

The Minneapolis Morning Tribune editorial page said: "It was bad enough when Annapolis midshipmen and West Point cadets were forbidden to debate it, but now the contagion of caution is spreading to other institutions which are warily sidestepping the question of U. S. recognition of Red China."

The State College at Kearney, Nebraska, the first to withdraw on the topic said: "College debaters should not plead the cause of a country which caused the death of 120,000 American boys in the recent Korean war."

Believe us, if American youth cannot openly discuss a topic of this type it's time to quit. Any college administration that imposes restriction such as this should take notice of Americans' cherished, right-free speech, the right of free discussion.

This editor wouldn't trade his Coeur d'Alene high school education for a degree from a college that told you what not to think about. And that goes for Annapolis and West Point.

It seems evident that persons attending one of these military institutions and planning to make the military a career should at least be able to discuss what he's fighting about.

Qualification Tests Given Thursday

Selective Service Qualification Tests will be given Thursday, December 9, at 8:30 a.m. in room 301 of the Home Economics Building. All students who have received notices from Selective Service should report for this exam.

One Acts Start Wednesday

Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday, the 8, 9 and 11 of December has been scheduled for the three one act plays to be presented by the University drama department. The University Hut in the postoffice building is the place and curtain time is 8 p.m.

"The Old Wives Tale," directed by Mary Lou LeFores, "Master Pierre Patelin," directed by Larry Hyer and "The Word Made Flesh," directed by Glenmar Hoke are the plays to be presented.

The English War of Roses is the background for the play "The Word Made Flesh," written by Tal-

Restricting Debate Topic Is Discussed

By Jane Querna

Is freedom of speech in the United States more important than publicly embarrassing and misrepresenting our government officials by arguing on points against the American way of life?

If so, should West Point and Annapolis be allowed to debate the topic, "Resolved, That the United States should extend Diplomatic Recognition to the Communist Government of China?"

Commanding officers at West Point and Annapolis find the Speech Association topic for the annual debate too lively and controversial a question for the cadets and midshipmen to discuss.

Two Army and Navy instructors on the University of Idaho campus agree, understanding the criticism and investigation superintendents of the military schools would have to face if the question were allowed.

Captain T. C. Thomas of the Navy department believes in free

Idaho Wins High Praise Of Raters

The action of the Northwest Association of Secondary and Higher Schools at Salt Lake City in approving "unrestricted accreditation" for the University of Idaho for a period of 10 years, subject to such interim visitations as may be necessary" was called by Acting President D. R. Theophilus "a tribute to an outstanding faculty and staff."

The University of Idaho is the first state university to be given school-wide accreditation by the association. Previously, the University had been accredited on a divisional basis.

The new accreditation by the association was based on a study of University of Idaho teaching, research and service by 25 leading Western educators in October. Their report recommended to the association the "unrestricted accreditation" for the entire university.

bot Jennings, a graduate of Idaho. This is the only serious play of the three. The first farce in the theatre is the theme being dealt with in "Master Pierre Patelin". It tells the troubles of a lawyer who is outsmarted by an apparently illiterate sheepherder. Sorcery and magic prove to be the solution to a medieval fantasy in "The Old Wives Tale," written by George Peele. Seating facilities for the plays can be reserved by calling 8425. As the theatre is quite small, reservations are the only way seats can be obtained.

Exec. Board Discusses Opening Gym Sundays

Athletically minded University students may have an outlet to work off some of their steam as the ASUI Executive Board, at its regular Tuesday meeting, referred a formal recommendation to Acting President D. R. Theophilus that the University gymnasium be opened on Sunday afternoons for basketball and recreation.

Leon Green, head of the department of physical education, estimated that this move would cost about $50 for supervisory personnel for the remainder of this semester, but that the PE department couldn't appropriate extra funds for this program under its present budget.

Suggestion Made
To alleviate the situation, the board also recommended that if possible, sufficient money be allotted to the physical education department for the purpose of defraying expenses incurred from opening the gym on Sunday afternoons. This would come out of ASUI funds.

Gale Mix, ASUI general manager, said that the ASUI was not authorized to spend funds directly for a project of this type. He pointed out that the necessary money would have to be transferred to the physical education department for their use.

Other matters taken up on the agenda were the discussion of the possibilities of having RCA do recordings of special Idaho songs. According to Lee Anderson, the RCA people use their own recording equipment and publicize the records and take care of all details.

Details that were discussed by the board were the possibilities of having either the University Vandaleers and band record the numbers with professional technicians, have professional musicians do the job or have the radio department do the recording with the Vandaleers and band. The possibility of having the Pep Band do some numbers on the record was discussed.

The board appointed Emma Jean Fairchild to a position on the Women's Discipline board and Ray Miller was appointed as student orientation chairman.

Last Rally Is Planned For Tuesday

The last rally of the year and the first basketball rally is planned for Tuesday noon in the Auditorium by Dale Carlisle. "It will be a kickoff for the first basketball game," said Carlisle.

Special arrangements have been made for late lunches in the living groups. Lunches will be served about 12:20. Students are asked to go to the gym immediately after 4 p.m.

Students will be introduced to the basketball coaches, and the coaches will, in turn, introduce their teams. Schedules for both varsity and freshman teams will be announced.

"Students support at the football rally was fine," commented Carlisle. "Since this is the only basketball rally, we hope the gym is overflowing with students."

Buy Golly Buy Holly

Holly wreaths will be sold next week by Phi Upsilon Omicron, home economics honorary, according to Janet Biker, chairman of the committee.

This year's sale, from December 6 to 11, will feature the exceptionally low prices of $1.50 to $2.00, said Janet.

Exec. Board Has Series Of Queries

At the regular Tuesday meeting, the ASUI Executive Board members decided to make themselves available from 3 to 5 p.m. every Wednesday in the General Manager's office in the Student Union Building for the express purpose of answering any questions that the students may have.

A schedule has been set up so that there will be at least two members of the Executive Board in the ASUI President's office during these times for the remainder of the semester.

ASUI President Flip Kleffner urged students to bring their problems and questions in for discussion at this time.

Airmen's Choice

Nancy Burns, Gamma Phi, was selected guardian angel of the AFROTC drill team from six candidates. The drill team saluted Nancy yesterday at the Gamma Phi house and last year's guardian angel, Clara Armstrong, presented her with a bouquet of flowers. The guardian angel will accompany the drill team on its competitions and exhibitions.

Nancy Wins Air Force Angel Race

Climaxing two weeks of deliberation by the Air Force ROTC drill team, Nancy Burns, Boise, was chosen as the new guardian angel. Nancy assumes from Clara Armstrong, last year's guardian angel, the position of accompanying the drill team on all occasions of drill competition.

In conjunction with the announcement of the winner, the drill team marched to the Gamma Phi house, where Nancy is a pledge, and presented her with a salute of appreciative recognition and a bouquet of roses. Clara Armstrong, accompanied by Cadets Bill Brockman and Steve Peebles, made the presentation.

Nancy was chosen from a group of six nominees presented to the drill team for appraisal last week at an informal smoker. She is an education major and a freshman. Nancy will be guardian angel of a drill team which has won many drill competitions in the Inland Empire in the past two years.

Interest in drill team competition has increased in the past two years among the Air Force ROTC students, according to Cadet Brockman. This necessitated the forming of two flights made up of freshmen in one and experienced drill team members in the other flight.

The three schools taking part—University of Idaho, Washington State College and University of Montana—will each have two teams. Students Accepted By Dental Schools

Three University of Idaho students have already been accepted for study at dental schools next September, it was announced today by Dr. J. Irving Jolley, chairman of premedical and pre dental studies.

For the last two years, the University of Idaho has achieved a 100 per cent placement record for students meeting the minimum requirements for admission and submitting applications to dental schools. Last year Idaho students were accepted by Creighton University, Northwestern and Washington University in St. Louis.

DECEMBER AND MAY: ACT II

Synopsis of Act I: A middle-aged English Professor named Phipps has fallen desperately in love with a rosy-kneed coed named McPetridge. Phipps doesn't know how to go about courting Miss McPetridge, for, after all, he is a professor in the autumn of his life, and she is a coed with rosy knees. Professor Twonkey, who shares an office with Phipps, proposes the following plan: Phipps will ask Miss McPetridge to come to his office for a conference late in the afternoon. He will be urbane and charming and make frightfully witty remarks about English lit, and Miss McPetridge will laugh and laugh. After an hour of this high-type hilarity, Phipps will look at his watch, exclaim at the lateness of the hour, and insist on driving Miss McPetridge home. On the way home, he will pass a theatre that shows French movies. They'll see the movie, then have an exquisite French dinner, and Miss McPetridge will be so enchanted that she cannot but yield to his suit.

So at the beginning of Act II, we find Phipps in his office awaiting the arrival of the poor young innocent. His hair is brushed; his nails are clean; he has new leather patches on his elbows. There is a knock on the door. He opens it and admits a gorgeous creature with blue eyes and pink kneecaps.

PHIPPS: Ah, Miss McPetridge. Come in, my dear. Won't you sit down? Cigarette?

MISS MCF: Ooh, Philip Morris! I think they're marvy, don't you?

PHIPPS: I do indeed.

MISS MCF: Hey, prof, would you mind opening a fresh pack?

PHIPPS: But I just opened this one a little while ago. It's perfectly fresh.

MISS MCF: I know, prof, but I like to hear the snap when the pack opens.

PHIPPS: Very well, my dear.

(He opens a fresh snap-open pack of Philip Morris. Miss McPetridge claps her hands delightedly when she hears the snap.)

MISS MCF: Hey, that fractures me! Man, I flip when I hear that crazy snap! Do another one.

PHIPPS: All right.

(He snaps open another pack of Philip Morris.)

MISS MCF: (Ecstatically) Isn't that the living, breathing end? Do two at once.

PHIPPS: Well, if you insist . . .

(He does two at once.)

MISS MCF: More! More!

PHIPPS: I'm afraid that's all I have.

MISS MCF: Oh . . . Well, what's up, prof? What did you want to see me about?

PHIPPS: Oh, nothing in particular. Just wanted to have a little chat, find out how you're enjoying the Shakespeare lectures.

MISS MCF: I don't know, prof. By me Shakespeare is strictly a square.

PHIPPS: Indeed? Well, I must say I find your attitude refreshing. One is so inclined toward slavish admiration when it comes to the Bard. People forget that in many quarters Shakespeare is regarded quite critically. Take, for example, the opinion of Shaw.

MISS MCF: Artie?

PHIPPS: George Bernard. . . You know, of course, his famous words.

MISS MCF: I sure don't, dad.

PHIPPS: Shaw said he would like to dig up Shakespeare and throw stones at him.

MISS MCF: Did he dig him?

PHIPPS: No, I don't believe so.

MISS MCF: I don't dig him either.

PHIPPS: (Looking at watch) Good heavens, I had no idea it was so late. Come, my dear, I'll drive you home.

MISS MCF: No, thanks. I always walk home. It's good for the circulation in your legs. I got the best circulation in my legs of the whole sophomore class. Ever notice how rosy my knees are?

PHIPPS: As a matter of fact, yes. . . Look, you sure you don't want a ride home? There's an excellent French movie on the way.

MISS MCF: Not me, dad. I hate French pictures. The sub-titles always disappear before I can read 'em. But if you want to go to the movies, there's a new Tony Curtis picture downtown—a real gut-buster. Tony plays this beggar, see, but he's really a prince only he when Tony got born. Then Tony finds this magic lamp, see, and he gets into the palace where he meets this crazy girl, only she's and Tony licks about a million guys, and then he finds out he's the prince and it's real crazy. Wanna go? I've only seen it three or four times.

PHIPPS: As a matter of fact, I just remembered a previous engagement. Sorry.

MISS MCF: That's all right. Thanks for the Philip Morris. 'Bye.

(Exit Miss McPetridge. For a moment Phipps sits in stunned silence, mopping his brow. Then a smile appears on his face. He is a happy man again—out of love. Contentedly he lights up a Philip Morris.)

This column is brought to you by the makers of PHILIP MORRIS who think you would enjoy their cigarette.

Several people seem to be on an "after Thanksgiving" diet since vacation. It has almost become a fad.

Many thanks to the Sig Chis for the lovely serenade last Sunday—'twas real fine.

WHAT DID IT COST TO CREATE YOUR JOB?

If you're an average U.S. factory worker—$12,000.
If you're a rough carpenter, it took approximately $350 worth of tools to set you up in your trade.
Tools for a garage mechanic cost about $3,000; for a Washington wheat farmer $12,500; for a secretary $300.
But if you work for Union Oil, it took $77,000 worth of tools in the form of trucks, service stations, refineries, oil wells, etc., to create your job.* Obviously, some of our jobs require considerably less investment than $77,000 and some considerably more. But this is the average for Union's more than 9,000 employees.
That's big money. But it accomplishes big things.
It brings Union's customers better products at lower costs. It enables each employee to produce more and therefore earn more. It creates better jobs and a higher standard of living.
*Even this figure does not include the "tools" Union rents for its employees, such as office space, tankers, telephone service, etc.

Vandals Boom Tonight Against Utah Redskins

A team which will have to rely mostly on shooting accuracy and plenty of speed opens its 1954 cage season tomorrow at Salt Lake City, Utah. The Vandals, scarce in height and rebound power, test a new style of offense against the Utah Redskins, highly ranked Skyline Conference representative in a two-game series this weekend.

The Vandals left by plane yesterday morning to work out in the afternoon under Utah climate conditions and then rest for the opening games of the non-conference slate.

The Vandals are making their 1954-55 debut under a new coach, Harlan Hodges, imported from the far off state of Kentucky, where he built his former team, Murray State, to among the best nationally ranked teams.

Hodges will employ in the Vandal team a fast break style of offense, seen for the first time at Idaho. "In the past, under such coaches as Charles F. "Chuck" Finley, the Vandal give has concentrated on a ball control pattern of play.

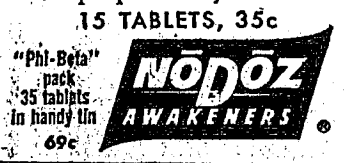

Lacks Big Boy
Hodges has the speed he wants, but lacks a tall man for rebound

'Archie' Hess Receives East-West Game Invite

Idaho's football captain, Burdette Hess, has received and accepted a bid to the annual East-West shrine football game to be played New Year's Day in San Francisco, Calif.

Hess, a four year letterman and outstanding offensive guard and defensive linebacker, becomes the first Vandal player since 1949 to receive a bid from the Shrine committee.

Capt. Hess will leave Dec. 19 to open practice with some 28 other West team players the following Monday. The senior captain played three years of tackle for Idaho.

Burdette Hess

switching to guard this season. He hails from Shelley, weighs in at 210 and stands 6-1.

In 1949 Carl Kiltsgaard, a tackle with that year's team, went to the 1950 game and in 1947 Billy Williams, halfback, was the Vandal representative. Hess is the third Idaho player to make the trip since the World War II.

Burdette's familiar "number 68" jersey was seen this year popping through enemy lines as a hard tackling linebacker and leading Vandal downfield blocking. He was named on the Brigham Young all-opponent team this season.

TAKE FIVE

With John B. Hughes

Nail up the peach basket, son—it is here again—basketball steps into the limelight and the sports pages for the 64th consecutive season. At Idaho, we shall see what we shall see.

Coach Harlan Hodges sets forth into what looks to be a fine rebuilding program for Idaho in the Northern Division cage circle. Not that the Vandals haven't been in the running for the top rung in ND play, for they tied for second last season, but the current outlook isn't too bright.

Hodges has several veterans back who shoot with accuracy and are hustling ball players, but lack one element, possibly the most important of all—HEIGHT.

Gone from the '53-'54 clubs are giants Dwight Morrison (6-8), and Roger Lillibridge (6-6) and back is the tallest of this year's regulars, Jimmy Sather (6-4).

But remember what the Vandal outlook in football was and be patient for a few games and we think you will see a mighty fine, speedy ball club that will do everything in its power to bring home the goodies for Idaho.

Coach Hodges has an excellent group of freshmen candidates that will bear watching also. Idaho will be slow in starting but watch out come Northern Division conference play.

TELEPEP BOOSTERS BACK VANDALS

Students and living groups are asked to get behind basketball Operation Telepep No. 1, according to yell king Dale Carlisle.

Carlisle said yesterday he hoped "all the students would respond to this 'telepep' idea of sending telegrams to the team in Salt Lake. We want to get the season off to a rousing start. Send your telegrams to "The Vandals" Newhouse Hotel, Salt Lake, Utah."

College: An institution which sometimes lowers entrance requirements with an end in view—not to mention promising tackles and halfbacks.

Gary, Hess On Coast Honorable Mention

Two Idaho football players received honorable mention honors on the All-Coast football team recently. Fullback Wilbur Gary, a junior, and Guard Burdette Hess, a senior, were named to the honorable mention team in their respective positions.

FROSH PLAY FAIRCHILD

The Idaho Frosh met Fairchild Air Force's basketball team last night in Spokane in their opening game of the season. Result of the contest was unavailable at press time last night.

WHAT'S THIS DROODLE?
 For solution see paragraph below.

ACCORDING TO THE LARGEST and latest coast-to-coast college survey, college smokers prefer Luckies—and by a wide margin. The No. 1 reason: Luckies taste better. Thousands of students appreciate Luckies' better taste almost as much as the pair in the Droodle above, titled: Sweethearts attempting to kiss and enjoy better-tasting Luckies at same time. Luckies taste better for good reasons. First of all, Lucky Strike means fine tobacco. Then, "It's Toasted" to taste better. This famous Lucky Strike process tones up Luckies' light, good-tasting tobacco to make it taste even better—cleaner, fresher, smoother. So, enjoy the better-tasting cigarette... Lucky Strike.
