Five Vie For Sigma Chi

Christmas Sing Is Scheduled

The annual Christmas Carolelight Concert by the Idaho Vandaleers, one of the outstanding college musical organizations in the Northwest, will be presented at 8:00 p.m. Sunday, December 12, in Memorial Gymnasium.

Professor Glen R. Lockery, now in his eighth year as conductor of the group, has planned an unusual program which features modern and traditional choral works of great interest, along with the customary Christmas carols and songs of the season.

One innovation is a setting of familiar Christmas hymns arranged for mixed voices and brass choir, prepared by Dallas Quick, graduate student in the department of music. The brass choir, composed of students from the symphony orchestra and concert band, is under the direction of William Billingsley, music staff member.

Also assisting in the concert is the University string orchestra, taken from the regularly organized symphony orchestra. Mrs. Eleanor Mader, associate conductor and string coach of the symphony, will serve as director of the string orchestra.

Student Produced Plays Start Tomorrow

Mystery, romance, comedy and farce come to the University of Idaho campus tomorrow night as the ASUI drama department presents "The Word Made Flesh," "Master Pierre Patelin," and "The Old Wives Tale."

The series of plays begins at 8 p.m. tomorrow night at the U-Hut, and will continue Thursday and Saturday. It was pointed out by Jean Collette, director, that there will not be a presentation Friday night due to conflicting schedules.

Don Broughman, a junior, will replace Muddy Numbers as Scaramo in "The Old Wives Tale."

There are reserved seats available on all three nights of the production and persons interested in seeing these plays are urged to contact Miss Collette at the U-Hut.

A medieval drama by Talbot Jennings titled "The Word Made Flesh," deals with the War of Roses for control of the English throne. Jennings is a graduate of the University of Idaho and wrote the play while he was an undergraduate here.

The play cast will feature Jerry Chandler as Judas; Gerald Bierweg as Carn; Claud Nealis as the Pilgrim; Bud Duffy as the Hermit and Willard Wilson as Sherry.

Larry Hyer and Dixie Kroush are the directors of "Master Pierre Patelin," which was written by an unknown author. The plot of this play is very simple and is recorded as the first farce in the history of the theater.

Included in this presentation is Paul Gotsch as Pierre; Sue McMahon as Marie; Jim Kruger as Patrons and patronesses for the dance will be Mr. and Mrs. Hall Maklin, Mrs. Edith Magnuson, Mr. and Mrs. Wade Patterson and Mr. and Mrs. John Luedke.

Cady Gives Typing Tips For Theses

The graduate school is preparing a new list of approved thesis typists according to L. C. Cady, dean of the school. Persons who were not on the approval list last year should contact the school before December 11 if they wish to be considered for approval.

To be approved, a typist should have had previous thesis typing experience or an "A" rating in typing with the University Placement Service or a typing ability equivalent to an "A" rating. A sample of one's typing and the name of a reference familiar with one's work should be submitted to the Graduate School secretary.

In order to avoid the disappointment of a possible thesis rejection it is necessary for the wives of graduate students who wish to type their husbands theses, or students who prefer to type their own theses, to get prior approval from the Graduate School Office. Directions and suggestions for thesis typists are furnished by the Graduate School he said.

Idaho Navy ROTC Loses Contest To U of Washington

Twenty-one Navy ROTC drill team members journeyed to Seattle last week end to enter into competition with the University of Washington Navy drill team.

The Idaho boys lost, but Major Roy J. Leite Jr., who accompanied the boys on the trip said, "Idaho made a good showing and should do better next spring when the University of Washington drill team comes to Moscow."

Bad weather grounded the Idaho Middles in Spokane; so they didn't arrive in Seattle until noon Saturday, just one hour before the competition started.

This contest was a get together for the Idaho and Washington Navy drill teams, Leite said. Both teams drilled for 15 minutes and 5 minute periods before three judges, who were Army and Air Force officers.

'Razumov' To Portray Revolution Of Russia

An exciting French version of the Russian revolution comes to the Borah theater this Thursday at 4, 7 and 8:30 p.m. in Joseph Conrad's "Razumov." As a special price during the holiday season, the film committee announced that fellows with dates would have to pay 50 cents for two tickets rather than 70 cents.

Although based upon Conrad's "Under Western Eyes," written in 1911, "Razumov" has the advantage of being able "to address an area of our minds which everything in the world has been conspiring to prepare for it," says Nation magazine. Razumov brilliantly forecasts the future of Russia under the heel of the Red regime.

During 1906 The period of the film is sometime in 1906 or 1907 during the beginnings of the nihilist movement in Russia when other authors like Gorki were starting to praise the rise of the Bolsheviks. Closely following the Conrad story, the film is said by Time to be full of the "sombre, malevolent tragedy" of the revolution.

Razumov is an intellectually brilliant Russian student who is on the verge of a great scholastic career. Politics disgust Razumov, but through a "sequence of peculiarly ghastly ironies, he becomes a tale, traitor, hero and worker for the cause"—all opposite his convictions, says Nation.

Through sympathy for a friend who has assassinated the prime minister, Razumov is forced to

Women Debaters Place Second In Montana Meet

Four members of the Women's Debate team placed second in the Women's Triangular Debate meet held over the weekend at Missoula, Mont., it was announced by Dr. A. E. Whitehead, chairman of speech.

Those attending the meet were Jody Keith, Joyce Chilcott, Linda Williams and Karen Wilson. They were accompanied by Dr. A. E. Whitehead.

Two teams from Montana University, WSC and the University of Idaho competed in four debates each on the topic "Resolved that the United States should extend diplomatic recognition to the Communist government of China. The Idaho group won three out of four debates with neighboring WSC placing first in the competition for the second consecutive year. Total team points decided the winners.

Marvin Jagels, Assistant County Agent of Latah County and graduate student at the University, was the main speaker at last Thursday evening's University 4-H Club meeting.

Fraternities Banned At Eastern University

National fraternities and sororities have been ousted on the New York University campus, according to a recent ruling of the Supreme Court of the United States which upheld a lower court's decision that New York University had a right to bar national fraternities and sororities from its campuses.

The ban affected more than 20,000 students at 22 units of the university, including 11 state teachers colleges, 6 agricultural and technical institutes and 2 medical colleges.

The contention of a number of Greek letter societies was that the university's ban was a denial of civil rights and of freedom of speech, assembly and religion guaranteed by the first amendment to the constitution. They also contended that it denied them due process and equal protection of the laws guaranteed by the 14th amendment.

Also involved was a ruling of the university's trustees that no social organization would be allowed to operate that barred students "on account of race, color, religion,

Idaho To Aid Ecuador In Agricultural Program

Final arrangements for a three-year program of agricultural advisory aid to Ecuador by the University of Idaho have been completed, Acting President D. R. Theophilus said today.

The assistance to the South American country, which has many problems similar to those of the state of Idaho, will be under the sponsorship of the U. S. Foreign Operations Administration.

Woodbury To Washington Dr. George W. Woodbury, head of the department of horticulture, who will be in charge of the University of Idaho activities in Ecuador, is now enroute to Washington, D. C., where he will confer with FOA representatives before flying to Quito. Kenneth A. Dick, university business manager, will also leave shortly for Washington to complete financial arrangements.

Will Fly To Ecuador On December 11, Dr. Lloyd H. Scrivner, head of veterinary science, will fly to Ecuador, stopping first at Guatemala to visit the experiment station in that country, and then proceeding on to his headquarters at Guayaquil. Eventually the Idaho party in Ecuador will total six, with each member serving two years under a leave of absence from the University.

Hamilton Elected To Regional Office At NSA Meeting

Hugh Hamilton, University of Idaho student, was elected regional vice-president of the National Student Association during a conference held at WSC December 3, 4 and 5.

Other students attending from Idaho were Flip Kleffner, ASUI president; Jim Saad, ASUI vice president, and Roger McPike and Charles Oldham, Idaho NSA representatives.

The discussions covered common problems of universities such as student leadership and coordination of student affairs. Primary purpose of the conference was to determine methods of solving student government problems, according to Hamilton.

The Golden Fleece by Jason

Guess October was our month. Besides the WSC win we had a blood drive—remember? In checking through a news bulletin from the Red Cross we found that the U of I did O.K. in comparison with the rest of the state.

During the month of October the University of Idaho students donated 91.3 per cent as much blood as the rest of the state combined. Our total was 1317 pints according to the bulletin. The next highest locale in donations was Pocatello with 618 pints in two days!

Here's a little gem, stolen from somewhere, dedicated to faculty lecturers:

THE WISDOM OF THE EAST Old Wong, beloved ancient, incomparable philosopher, is lecturing

From the Sages, on Human Mortality. A delicately wrought, exquisite vase

Stands upon the lectern. Wong the Bearded, Seizes the vase and hurls it to the ground.

It shatters into a million green shards. "My sons" old Wong addresses his students,

"My sons, human life is like that vase!"

GRADS TO CEYLON The University of Ceylon, Paradeniya, is offering two fellowships to American graduate students for the 1955-1956 academic year.

Applicants should write to the United States Student Department of the Institute of International Education.

It was interesting to note while reading the 1937 reviews on this film, the different attitudes toward Russia, then, than now. Then was a time when our president publicly stated his friendship and recognition for Russia. The obvious undertone of admiration for the romantic aspects of the Russian revolution was quite apparent in Nation's review and certainly evident in Time, also.

Public Shocked This is not to say that these critics or many American people admired the Soviet form of government. Even the average public was still too shocked over the Trotsky assassination to take this "friendship" for the USSR as more than quiet toleration. However, an ad on page 339 of Nation for March

Journalism Steps Backward

Journalism is a proud profession. Most newspapermen are happy they are newspapermen and do the best work they can to keep standards high. But occasionally a story loses all proportion in the minds of some journalists and "trial-by-newspaper" results. Such a case is centering around Cleveland doctor Samuel Shepard, who is accused of murdering his pregnant wife. Big city papers and press associations shipped in gossip columnists to cover the trial long before it began. Sensational evidence about jurors was uncovered and publicized to cloud the case of "Dr. Sam"—a name developed to fit better in the headlines. Cleveland newspapers did do a service when they warned the public that the Shepard case was being "hushed" because the doctor's family was a prominent one. But since national agencies have come into the case, the level of reporting has sunk to the depths of yellow journalism days. Even if the doctor is innocent, his reputation and practice will be gone. And such a loss will never be worth the extra papers that were sold.—Minnesota Daily.

Program Is Planned By Orchesis

The annual Orchesis and Pre-Orchesis Christmas program is scheduled Saturday night, December 11, at 7:30, in the Women's gym. The various selections offer variety in mood and theme from the light and humorous to the more provocative. Part of the tradition of the Christmas program is the presentation of two dances by the beginning dance classes. One of these is a satire on the family provider's role as Santa Claus, to the tune of a whimsical bit of music by Saint-Saens, entitled "Fossils." The other dance depicts toys being brought to life on Christmas Day. According to Patricia Rowe, dance adviser, 26 members of Pre-Orchesis, including Jane Bonham, president, are completing the choreography on two dances, one showing the liveliness of "Christmas in the City" and the other the dreaminess of a "Stranger in the City." Three dances will be presented by the Orchesis members. One tells the story of "The Little Match Girl," a tender short story by Hans Christian Anderson, starring Nancy Casteel, as the match girl, Joan Dittmer as her grandmother, and Ronald Tan, Dan True and Lane Hahan in a triple representation of her stern father. The second dance, entitled "Holiday Cheer," will be accompanied by Karen Hurdstrom, singing four parts at one time. Rochelle Henderson and Shirley Holden worked out the choreography for this dance. The third Orchesis dance is really a combination of five, separate dances depicting the general effect of the life of Christ on various persons. Commencing with "His Birth," done to a Negro spiritual, the other parts are "The Search," "Father Forgive Them," "On the Third Day," and "O Ye of Little Faith." With the exception of one dance, all of the choreography has been done by the Orchesis members. Some of the most active members in this respect have been Ronald Tan, vice president, Jo Dittmer, Shirley Holden, Rochelle Henderson, Eleanor Horsman, president, Lou Greeley, Nancy Casteel, Lane Hahan and Dan True.

"We feel it is the duty of the University of Idaho to participate in such a program where it can be of special assistance, and in the process we expect our faculty members to receive a broadening of backgrounds."

Here's More About—"Razumov"

27, 1937, was certainly eye-catching in contrast to anything we might think of today. The advertisement read "See Soviet Russia." The Open Road tourist service proclaimed a trip to Russia for only $394, including the month in the USSR. It went on to say, "Trips which show you more than tourist sights at least cost of time and money." One can only wonder what "more than tourist sights" could have meant in the midst of hunger, poverty, anarchy, slave-labor, thought police and blood-bath purges. Since "Razumov" was filmed during a time of more tolerant attitudes toward the Soviet, it must be recognized as a tolerant attitude and not more than merely a romantic view of revolution of a people against a government. Keeping the attitude of the revolution itself rather than its end as the object of the film is the idea of Nation, "Razumov returns to the time when the Russians revolution was still being fought for. And for the purposes of art, there could be no better time."

DEAR JASON

Dear Jason:
We are privileged to hear fine concerts, lectures and readings on our campus. For years, the only jarring note has been the photographer who manages to pick the most untimely moment to snap his flash gun in the face of the famous persons who is entertaining. Some of the photographers are more adept than others, it is true, and can take their pictures then fade into limbo without too many ripples of annoyance from the unfortunate performer or the crowd. Thursday was the exception to out-exception any. Not only was the audience rudely torn from the castled realms of Shakespeare's magic, created for them by the wondrous voice of Margaret Webster, but the artist herself was greatly discomfited by the inept maneuvers of a clumping-footed pair (not one, but two!) of would-be journalists, who pounded the whole length of the long aisle in the auditorium, rattled their camera, and who capped the whole sorry incident by being trigger-shy! Perhaps it is necessary to obtain "action shots" in this manner. But if it is, surely the artist should be paid the compliment of an ace photographer. Isn't it possible to arrange ahead of time with the artist when the "shot" can be taken? And the photographer might be courteous enough to be on hand, camera ready, sitting quietly at the front in order to create as little disturbance as possible, then leave inconspicuously after the picture has been taken. Such a procedure would lessen the annoyance for everyone. One the way it has been at outstanding events of late years, it may be good for journalism, but is very bad manners. Thanking you for space in your paper, I am,
Your courteously,
Norah Tisdale

Groups Hold Winter Firesides, Dances

Holiday activity on the campus is in full swing as houses hold their annual Christmas firesides and dances. Over the weekend, Tekes presented their annual "Apache Dance" while Willis Sweet guests danced at "The Bal Royal de Versailles."

Alpha Chis are spending a busy two weeks with a faculty dinner, "Pixie Week" and a fireside. Kappa members were surprised at a fireside given by the pledges; in turn the pledges were honored at a breakfast given by their "big sisters."

DELTA TAU DELTA

Plans are underway for the Christmas fireside which will be held December 11. Tom MacGregor is in charge of preparations for the function which will feature music of many name bands—on the records, of course.

Featured intermission entertainment will be by—not the Four Aces—but the Four Fools. Further identified, they are Charlie Sauls, Bill Herr, Lavon Muncy and Lorin Nelson.

Farrell Buxton, past president of the house, paid a visit over the weekend.

ALPHA CHI OMEGA

Christmas activities began Sunday with a faculty dinner and carol singing around the decorated tree. Guests at the dinner were Dean Louise Carter, Dr. and Mrs. H. W. Steffens, Dean and Mrs. C. O. Decker, and Commander and Mrs. H. C. Ayers.

A shower was held Thursday for JoAnn Brown who will be married December 27 to 2nd Lt. Bryce Blakely, Quantico, Virginia.

RoJeanne Coyle, chairman of the pledge dance, and Janice Hall, homecoming float chairman, were announced as Carnation Girls for the month of November. They were presented with red carnations at the ceremony Monday.

Following the breakfast, big and little sisters attended church together.

The lounge, representing the palace ballroom, was decorated in red and black. At the far end, a golden crown was surrounded by satin draperies and the bandstand was enclosed in the hall of mirrors.

Corsages of double carnations were presented to each guest. Willis Sweet's new quartet, consisting of Harry Ehoodin, Norman Helgeson, Greg Knapp and Roger Thieme, made their debut as the intermission entertainment.

Music was furnished by Ed Grier's eight piece band from Cheney. Chairman of the dance was Donley O'Neil.

DELTA DELTA DELTA

Pine boughs, red ribbons, silver bells, mistletoe, and a lighted tree were the setting for a Christmas fireside Sunday night. An annual event given by the pledges, the evening was spent by the couples dancing and playing cards. Coffee and doughnuts were served.

Karrie Deligan, Hayes Hall, was a dinner guest Wednesday evening and Sunday dinner guests were Artis Larsen, Orofino, and Janice Avery, Hayes Hall.
