Big Sing Ready For This Sunday

Vandaleers will once again present their Christmas Candlelight Concert, conducted by Glen R. Lockery at 8 p.m. Sunday. The tradition of having a Christmas program such as this was begun eighteen years ago, when the first concert was held in the University Auditorium. Because of the program's popularity and the capacity of the auditorium the Vandaleers had to sing on two successive nights.

Two years ago a permanent stage was moved to the Memorial Gymnasium and the concert is now held there, for there is ample room for everyone on one night. Last year an audience of 5,000 was present.

Candlelight
As always a candlelight procession will open the concert. In all the countries of the world, candles have a special significance at Christmas time. To us they express the joy of Christmas. It seems particularly fitting that they should be used in the opening of this concert.

"Holy Radiant Light" by A. Gretchaninoff, "Carillon by Antony

Before you go any further with this column take a look at the gripe about the "Pep Band" under "Dear Jason" on page two. The writer of this letter reflects the sentiment expressed by numerous members of the Idaho student body. Take note of one thing, the writer gives some constructive suggestions.

One to go before Christmas vacation. Next Tuesday's Argonaut will be the last of 1954. We won't greet you again until Jan. 7 or the first Friday after Christmas vacation. If you want to put anything in the paper prior to vacation time try and see us before next Monday noon.

You'll notice two more articles in today's issue on the controversy over the national debate topic.

In one you'll see a disagreement and in another you'll hear from a man who met somebody from behind the scene. As we said last time, better take a glance at this controversy and think it over because in this question Americans are being told "what they can't discuss." And sometime they might be telling you what not to talk about.

Next Tuesday evening the Executive Board will meet. At that time this writer will officially ask for the extra day off before the Thanksgiving holidays. We know definitely that there are some students behind this idea. If you feel strongly about it how about coming up to that Board meeting and telling them so—How about writing us a letter with YOUR ideas on the subject. It's a tough nut to crack especially with Thanksgiving vacation out of the way for another year. We're still going to remember this. It's a long way to South Idaho—you'll have to drive fast to make it home—you'll be driving at night and one time two people didn't make it.

Hopkins, "Alleluia" by Randall Thompson, "This Little Babe" by Benjamin Britten and "Ave Maria" by A. Bruckner, comprise the first group of selections to be sung Sunday.

Margaret Fox and John Herrett solo on "Blessed is He that Cometh in the Name of the Lord," which is taken from the Christmas Oratorio by Saint-Saens.

Watch My Sheep
A group of carols including "While I did Watch My Sheep at Night," "The Carol of the Birds," "Go Tell it on the Mountain," "Patapan," "Gloucestershire Was-said," make up the third group. Marigay Nelson and Bill Herr solo on these numbers.

Included in the fourth group are most of the carols traditional to this country: "O Come, All Ye Faithful," "O Little Town of Bethlehem," "Joy to the World," "Away in the Manger," "Hark! the Herald Angels Sing," "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear," "See Amid the Winter Snow," "The First Noel," and "Silent Night." Karen Hurdstrom and Caroleigh Gittins are soloists for this group.

Eleanor Hall Mader, violinist will perform the "Air from the 3rd Orchestral Suite by J. S. Bach-Agnucci, which will be followed by an orchestral group accompanying the choir in "Break Forth, O Beautiful, Heavenly Light," by J. S. Bach, and "Gloria to God in the Highest," by G. Pergolesi. Concluding the program will be "Hallelujah," from the Messiah by G. F. Handel.

One will be Holly Queen. Finalists are Sally Ghiglieri, Nancy Benfer, Barbara Simmons and Barbara Warner. The winner and new Holly Queen will be announced at the Holly Dance tonight.

Few Attend Exec. Board On Tuesday

With only five members attending the last meeting of the ASUI Executive Board no definite motions could be passed. Main cause of the absences was a scheduling conflict with the basketball game.

The Board tentatively decided to hold their meetings on Wednesday nights during weeks that ball games were held. Hugh Hamilton and Roger McPike reported on their visit to the NSA regional convention held at WSC last week. According to the representatives, this region was divided into three groups and Hamilton was elected vice president of group three.

Dick Weeks, sophomore class president, reported that all was running smoothly on Holly Week plans.

Gene Dickey, chairman of the ASUI constitutional revision committee noted that a problem has arisen pertaining to the role of women's athletics in the ASUI. The problem is whether they should come under the new athletic set-up or stay with the ASUI. The Board will look into the question.

A student was tentatively chosen to head the spring Campus Chest Drive. The name will be released upon approval of the rest of the Board and the registrar.

Seven Days 'Til Vacation; It's Glory And Salvation

According to D. D. DuSault, registrar, Christmas vacation will begin at noon Friday, December 17 and will end at 8 a.m. Tuesday, January 4.

Administration offices will be open at regular hours, except on December 23, 24, 25 and 31, and January 1 and 2. The Student Union Cafe will be closed at 5 p.m. December 17, and will remain closed until January 2, at 5 p.m., according to James Bowlby, SUB manager. The building will be open during regular University working hours between these two dates, says Bowlby.

LIBRARY HOURS:
Open:
Friday, December 17, 8 a. m. to 12 noon.
Saturday, December 18, 8 a. m. to 12 noon.
Monday, December 20 through Wednesday, December 22, 8 a. m. to 11 a. m.
Wednesday, December 23 through Friday, December 24, 8 a. m. to 12 noon.
Monday, January 3, 8 a. m. to 12 noon; 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.
Closed:
Sunday, December 19.
Thursday, December 23 through Saturday, December 26.
Thursday, December 30, through Sunday, January 2.

Play Tickets Obtainable
Reservations are still available for tomorrow night's presentation of one-act plays sponsored by the University drama department. The plays will end tomorrow night, Saturday, December 8, at 8 p.m. at the U-Hut. Jean Collette, head of the drama department, reported that the audience reaction to the plays was favorable at last night's performance. She stated that they seemed to enjoy the Talbot Jennings selection, "The Word Made Flesh." Jennings is a former student at the University of Idaho and is now writing movie scripts in Hollywood.

Cosmo Club Plans Christmas Party
The Cosmopolitan Club's all campus Christmas party will be held this Sunday afternoon at 3:30 in the South Ballroom of the SUB. Olaf Stavik, Cosmopolitan Club president, extends an invitation to all of the students, foreign and American, all of the faculty, student and faculty wives and children to come and share in this festive occasion.

It is also encouraged that those having costumes from foreign lands wear them to the party to add to its international color. Activities planned for the occasion include games for the children, dancing, singing of Christmas carols, skits and afterwards there will be a reception at the International House, everyone being welcome. Helen Hanford is in charge of the Christmas program.

Fund Established To Honor Memory Of Former Dean
Since the recent death of Dean Emeritus Permeal J. French, the University of Idaho's first dean of women, contributions have been coming in for a "Permeal J. French Memorial Fund."

As a result the regents this week formally established such a fund. Acting President D. R. Theophilus said today. Just how the fund will be used has not yet been determined, but any contributions received will be held in trust until such time as determination is made, Theophilus said.

Dean French retired in 1936 after serving the University for 28 years.

Czechs To Hear Glad Tidings Via Idaho

People of Czechoslovakia who dare to turn their radios on at Christmas time to a Radio Free Europe program will learn about a friendly community called Moscow—in America.

Michael Slama, documents librarian at the University of Idaho, who came to this country in 1953 as a Czech refugee and studied librarianship at the University of Denver, was asked by the Voice of Freedom sponsors of Radio Free Europe to "send greetings back home."

In a recording made at the university's Radio Center, Slama tells in his native language how he had come to this country haunted by rumors that "Americans are prejudiced against Slavic people."

"But all the American people I have met have shown great interest and readiness to help," he says. "Here at the University of Idaho in the Far Western town of Moscow, I have been made to feel at home. I am convinced that the great majority of the American people think it is their duty to help needy ones, and the government therefore tries to help other countries suffering either from want or political and religious pressure. I hope the new year may bring success to this endeavor and peace of mind to all people of good will."

Newspapermen! There Will Be A Party!

There's news of a Christmas gift-exchange and party at the Argonaut office Monday to celebrate three months of bi-weekly publications of the campus newspaper.

Each member of the Argonaut staff, from reporter to editor, is asked to bring a gift worth 10 cents or under to the Argonaut office. (Nope—it's not for Jason.) In turn, he or she will receive a gift.

Besides the gifts, the editorial staff will provide refreshments—chuckle.

Holly Week Climaxes At Tonight's Dance

The sophomore class sponsored Holly Week will climax tonight at the Student Union Building with the annual Holly Dance and crowning of the Holly Queen chosen from the four finalists, Barbara Simmons, Barbara Warner, Nancy Benfer and Sally Ghiglieri. "Silver Bells" is the theme of the week's festivities which began Wednesday afternoon with a style show featuring the queen contestants in Davida's department store window.

Lists Are Posted For Holiday Rides By Travel Bureau

University of Idaho Travel Bureau lists have been posted in all living groups, the Student Union Building, and the Administration Building. Extra copies may be obtained at the ASUI office in the SUB.

After the lists had been posted, two more cars were found available—Harry Hofstetter going to Boise with room for five passengers.

He can be reached at 4B West 6, Vet's Village, Sheldon Forrest is going to Washington, D. C. by way of Chicago and Minnesota and has room for two or three passengers.

He is leaving December 18 or 19 and is coming back December 28. He can be reached by telephone at Pullman, 16531. Round trip to Washington, D. C., will be $80 or to Chicago, $50.

Respects Are Paid Past Dean

The University of Idaho Board of Regents, in a special resolution passed at this week's Boise meeting, paid tribute to E. J. Iddings, dean of agriculture, emeritus, who died recently in California.

Iddings retired in 1946 after serving the University of Idaho for 35 years. During 30 of the years he was dean of the College of Agriculture, and helped pioneer many of the state's farming practices.

The regents' resolution read: "The Regents of the University of Idaho personally and in consideration of the long, outstanding service of the late Deah Emeritus E. J. Iddings to the University of Idaho and the State of Idaho do herewith convey to Mrs. Iddings their deepest sympathy and condolences in her recent loss."

"It is the opinion of the Regents that Dean Iddings' contributions to Idaho agriculture and to the citizens of Idaho through his wide services to students and individuals will serve as a perpetual memorial to his efforts as a teacher, research worker and friend."

Regents Appoint Dr. James C. File To Replace Owens

The Board of Regents last week appointed a home demonstration agent for Idaho county, granted a leave of absence, and accepted three University resignations.

Mary Glenn Gallagher was named home demonstration agent for Idaho county. A native of Ohio, she has done extension work in her home state as well as in West Virginia and Oregon. Mrs. Gallagher replaces Patricia M. Laughlin.

A leave of absence was granted Kenneth R. Fredericksen, assistant animal husbandman at the sheep experiment station in Dubois, February 1 to March 20, to do graduate work.

Resignations accepted by the Board included those of Eugene W. Whitman, extension agronomist; Douglas D. Caton, assistant agricultural economist at the University experiment station and Horace R. Stradley, assistant horticulturist, junior, on special research.

NAVY TESTS BEGIN

Navy ROTC Qualification tests for college and high school students will begin at 8:30 a.m. Saturday morning December 11, in Ag Science 106, according to Registrar D. D. DuSault.

Construction Approved By Board

The Board of Regents has approved the renovation of the Memorial Gymnasium rifle range and construction of a bulk storage refrigeration room for the University of Idaho cafe system, it was announced yesterday by Dr. D. R. Theophilus, acting president.

Hansen and Part Construction Company of Spokane has been authorized to build the safe refrigeration room in the old Pine Hall cafeteria quonset building.

The room, which will consist of four small units and a large one will handle all of the bulk storage for the university cafe system requiring refrigeration.

In the past, cafe storage has been handled by the dairy science building refrigeration plant, which will now be available as research facilities.

The refrigeration room will have a concrete floor with frame walls and ceiling. It will be insulated with cork.

The Memorial Gymnasium rifle range will be renovated to increase safety measures and to provide appropriate lighting on the target area.

Idahoan Wins 4-H Honor In Chicago

Idaho had a national winner at the 4-H Congress in Chicago. He is Gary Nygaard of Latah county, who won a $300 scholarship for dairy achievement.

He was one of six national winners in the division.

Argonaut Will Tell Winners Tuesday

So who won the short story contest? We're not telling—at least not for now. Here's some consolation in the form of a story that didn't win but we're sure you'll enjoy. Take a look at next Tuesday's Argonaut for the winners.—ED.

Elroy Do'ed It

By WILLIAM S. BROWN

Elroy ambled shufflingly up the stairs of the Ad Building, thinking of last night's party. Blood cut zig-zag paths of red across snowy-white eyeballs, taking detours into ever-yellow areas, and finally mingling into globs of splotchy orange. Purple veins protruded along the sides of his nose. A flake of dandruff shook loose from his widow's peak, and floated noiselessly to the floor. He veered slowly down the hall, continuing cracks in the weatherbeaten mopboards, keeping their lonely vigil for lo! these many years.

At length, Elroy slowed his pace a bit more. In the distance he saw a pane of frosted glass, and could barely discern a small card in its corner. This, then, was the office of his major professor, Dr. Thaddeus Choon. Elroy thought of the many years he had brought to class, pencils neatly sharpened, eager, thirsting for knowledge, and of the many times he had failed to make passing grades by a mere slip of the professor's pencil. This was it, he thought; nine years of this drudgery, and he was finally going to get out of this stinking hole! He had all his grades but those from Dr. Choon.

He stopped, blew his nose, checked his zipper. O. K. Chin up, he thought, and strode firmly to the bulletin board, and gazed intently at the mark next to his name. "F," it said. "F." Nothing more. A churning, volcanic gurgling eruption shook Elroy; vivid, outlandish shades of crimson and purple clouded his eyes, and molten fire seared his brain. A curse passed his lips, and he grasped the doorknob heavily.

With a violent lurch, he fell into the tiny office, for nearly thirty years Dr. Choon's ivory tower. Veins distended, biceps shaking, Elroy grasped Dr. Choon around his scrawny neck, and squeezed gently at first, so he could feel the violent pumping of the arteries, then harder and harder. Choon's face was livid, his eyes bulging, pleading for mercy. His lips became ashen, his tongue swelled. At length he ceased struggling, slumped lower, and lower in his chair. Elroy stopped, stared.

Elroy put Choon's body in a wooden crate, and called the freight office. "Deliver it to the gym at 1:45 on Commencement day," he directed. Elroy sat heavily, reaching for a slug of stale beer.

Commencement day came, and Elroy secreted himself behind the curtains at Memorial Gymnasium. The faculty filed in, followed by the potential graduates. Dr. Choon was not there. It was the first Commencement in over 25 years that he had missed; why, he was to deliver an address today! The president stepped forward, peered anxiously at the clock; it was 1:30, and things were supposed to be underway. He leaned over the microphone and asked, "Is Dr. Choon here?"

"Elroy stepped from behind the curtains, dressed in green check suit and straw cady, plunked a few bars on his uke, and sang melodically, "Choon will be a little late this year!"

Persons On Campus Oppose Debate Ban

By STEVE EMERINE

The University's Professor of Air Science and three others today went on record as opposing the ban by commanding officers of West Point and Annapolis regarding the national collegiate debate topic. "Resolved, that the United States should extend diplomatic recognition to the communist government of China."

Major James M. Hughes, commander of the local AFROTC detachment, took a stand directly opposite to that of Colonel James A. Moore of the Army ROTC and Captain T. C. Thomas of the NROTC program, who had previously said they favored the ban.

Also in opposition were Dr. Boyd A. Martin, head of the University social science department; Mrs. Wayne F. Young, proctress of Lindley hall; and Mark Hitchcock, a University junior.

Major Hughes quoted former Air Force Secretary Thomas K. Finletter in giving the reasons for his opinion. Finletter said last year that the armed forces now need officers who can be compared with Rhodes scholars. He added that the need now is for "men who not only can play football, but lead their class scholastically."

"If that's the type of officer the country needs," said Hughes, "I (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

Banning Debate Topic Argued

The nation's press has vehemently attacked the ban on the debate topic — "Resolved that the United States should extend diplomatic recognition to the Communist government of China" — by Westpoint, Annapolis, and several other schools. Is this merely a matter of good taste in preventing members of the military from arguing for the recognition or is it a flagrant attempt at suppression of free speech and the establishment by the government of thought control?

A Westpoint cadet from Idaho, Mike Garn, who is president of the academy's debate forum (as it is called there) was quite concerned over the attitude of the press and the resulting opinions of the public. He pointed out that whatever a cadet from the academy might say, it would be taken as the official view of the army. For that reason, he said, the army would be unable to debate the affirmative of the topic without taking a stand just opposite the United States' present foreign policy.

Yet, Garn realized the obvious danger in any such suppression of free speech and expression. He said that the Westpoint cadets were themselves quite concerned over the ban. It would seem that an intelligent audience could be told that "the opinions expressed here are not officially or unofficially those of the United States army" or Annapolis, etc. The type of audience that attends debates should realize that debaters can take either side of the topic — that they may not personally or politically believe in the side they do take at some times.

The great justice of the Supreme Court, Oliver Wendell Holmes said of the right of free speech that no man has the right to yell "Fire" in a crowded theatre and cause a panic. Yet, which panic would be worse: free discussion of both sides of an idea or the establishment of a definite trend in thought control by our government? Men generally consider thought control the first step toward absolute dictatorship. J.C.

Disillusioned Pedestrians

It seems like most safety editorials tell pedestrians to watch their step, to be alert and not to take chances. Well, how about the drivers watching out for pedestrians? A pedestrian, particularly around the University, soon learns to divide drivers into several clear classes.

Now you might not believe this, but the least hated driver is "The Murderer." This guy makes no secret of the fact that he is out to run down as many pedestrians as possible. His aims may not be good, but at least he's not sneaky. He doesn't drive a car, he aims it. With this one you have a 50-50 chance to get away with your life.

This is not true of "Sneaky Sam." Sneaky is the boy who slows down to allow you to step into the crosswalk, then tromps on the gas.

Sneaky is one of these "miserable loves company" boys. An orphan himself, he takes delight in making other people orphans, widows and so forth.

The third category is rather hard to define. The best descriptive term is "stargazers." They spend their driving time staring into space with vacant expressions on their faces.

When the car ahead of them stops at a crosswalk, they assume the driver just wanted to rest, and ride on by, neatly picking off the helpless pedestrian as he steps from in front of the car that stopped.

The "stargazers" probably pick up more victims than any other category, which is rather odd, because they aren't even trying.

There is another category of drivers — a small minority who observe traffic rules and stop for pedestrians when the signs indicate they should — sometimes even when there are no signs.

Actually, this group is dangerous too. They are liable to lull the pedestrian into a sense of false security which leaves him wide open for the "Murderers," "Sneaky Sam's" and "Stargazers."

Mock Court Case To Be Presented

Moscow High School students and senior law students at the University will team up on a mock court case to be held in the Federal District Court, on the second floor of the post office, Saturday, December 11, at 8:30 a.m. The case concerns injuries to a child and his mother by the attack of a bear.

High school students will serve on the jury, and college law students, Keith E. Jorgensen, Jay Bates and Francis Mithoug, will comprise the council. John Kugler and Bill Brown will be the council for the defendant.

This trial is one of two usually held each semester. The judge will be Mr. Herbert A. Berman of the law faculty.

Next semester cases will be appealed.

DEAR JASON

OBITUARY
 When did the "Pep Band" die?
 After watching the current version of the "pep" band perform at the basketball game Tuesday night, I wondered how they could have the intestinal fortitude to use the word "pep". They had all the spirit and pep of a deflated basketball! They acted like they neither had the desire nor the strength to play a note. Perhaps they are bitter over the seats they have, but whose fault is that? They ought to be out in the hall for all they contribute. I'm sure that if they had enough ambition to do something about it, they could be seated either near the "I" section, the broadcasting booth or on the main floor.

I don't like to tear down without offering some suggestions for re-building. Here is some food for thought.

1. Put them in a uniform—grey slacks, gold sweaters with the Pep Band emblem on it, and a cap.
 2. Keep the number to about 15 or less—maybe of those interested, they could take turns in appearing at alternate games.
 3. Put them where they can be seen and HEARD, so they can work with the cheer leaders who try to do a good job at this pep racket.

4. Why not play at each time out, before the game, at the half-time (more than once) and the Alma Mater at the end of each game.
 5. If they are near the cheer leaders, they can coordinate yells and songs.

In other words, I'm for putting the "PEP" back into the "pep" Band. They could be used for spontaneous playing at games, rallies, etc., and even in the stands at football games without detracting from the fine marching band.

Eight Profs To Address Association

University of Idaho faculty members are scheduled to give eight addresses at the Northwest Scientific Association's 28th annual meeting at Montana State University December 28-29.

President of the association is Dr. L. C. Cady, dean of the Idaho graduate school. Serving as program chairman this year is Professor W. H. Baker, chairman of botany at the University of Idaho.

Earl J. Larsson, assistant professor of zoology at Idaho is scheduled to give two addresses at the opening botany-zoology sectional meeting.

Baker and Robert L. Gilbertson, assistant professor of forestry, will also give reports before the botany-zoology section.

Lloyd B. Craime, assistant professor of electrical engineering, will speak on "Propagation Characteristics of the Citizens Radio Band in Idaho," in the engineering sectional meeting.

Also representing the University of Idaho will be Eugene M. Lerner, assistant professor of economics, and Kenneth E. Hungerford, associate professor of wildlife.

MEN VISIT SCHOOLS
 Don Marshall, acting dean of agriculture; Lt. Colonel James Moore, professor of military science, and Charles Bond, student counselor went to Cambridge, Millvale, Council New Meadows and Riggins last week when these schools held their Career Days. The men gave short talks on the advantages of going to the University.

Prices range up to $20. This is the only art sale sponsored by the Art Club where the student benefits.

Seasonal Program To Be Broadcast

Different kinds of Christmas trees and their selection will be discussed on the "Here We Have Idaho" program for the week of December 13 through 19 by Archie Harney and Vern Burlison.

Also presented on the program will be Michael Slama, documents librarian, who will tell of a New Year greeting to the people in Europe that he made over Radio Free Europe.

This will be spoken in Czechoslovakian with the English translation following.

An announcement will be made of a scholarship offered by the American Women in Radio and Television, Incorporated of $500 to a University student in her junior year. "The Twelve Days of Christmas" will be sung by the Vandaleers.

The optimist's cup is half full and the pessimist's half empty.

Argonaut's Circulation Is Checked

House-to-house circulation of the Argonaut will be more closely checked, according to the ASU Publications Board at their meeting held Tuesday. It was reported that there had been complaints that insufficient papers were being left at certain living groups.

The Publications Board meets monthly. Its members include Flip Kleffner, ASU president, Fred Williams, Argonaut editor; Darlene Duffy, Gem editor; Chuck White, KUOI director and Dr. Granville Price, professor of journalism here.

Darlene Duffy reported that all deadlines to date have been met by the Gem staff. KUOI director White said that the campus radio network now has lines to Neale Stadium and they are working on lines to the Music Building.

Bess Vance Makes News

Bess Vance, better known as "Loogie", became the second woman in history to be initiated in Sigma Tau, engineering honorary, in ceremonies held at the SUB Saturday night.

A Forney Hall girl from Oakland, Calif., and a senior in chemical engineering, is following in the footsteps of her father, John M. Vance, who studied engineering at the University of Idaho in the twenties.

Her outstanding scholarship and activity were recognized last year by the senior women when she was tapped for Mortar Board.

Until this November, women were not admitted to the fraternity, but Miss Vance's eligibility became apparent last month at the 50th Anniversary Conclave in Lincoln, Nebraska, where the society revised its constitution to allow women membership.

Idaho Rho chapter of Sigma Tau was instrumental in the change of constitution when five

Both Miss Vance and Miss Heard will be featured in the next issue of the "Pyramid," the magazine published by the honorary.

Patronize Argonaut Advertisers

On every American campus there are four standard fixtures: No. 1—ivy; No. 2—a statue of the founder; No. 3—Philip Morris Cigarettes; No. 4—The Operator.

The ivy is to prevent strangers from mistaking the college for a warehouse. The statue of the founder provides shade for necking when the weather is fine. The Philip Morris Cigarettes are an aid to conversation when you are studious, an aid to sociability when you are snooty, and a source of smoke rings to impress new girls.

And The Operator is the man with whom you can do without. Well do I remember The Operator on my campus. He was a young man with a ready smile, a quick mind, fifteen complete changes of wardrobe, a six room apartment, a red convertible, and assorted stocks, bonds, securities, and second mortgages.

The Operator's origins were a source of lively speculation. Some said he was left over from the old Capone gang. Some said he was Judge Craig. Some said he sprang from the brow of Zeus.

But, in fact, he was just an ordinary student — to begin with. In his first year he studied hard, took copious lecture notes, got good grades, and made a big reputation as a friend in need. He'd lend you money; he'd let you copy his lecture notes; he'd write themes for you; he'd sit up all night to help you cram for an exam. All of this was done with infinite good nature on his part, and no obligation on yours. . . . The first year, that is.

In the second year The Operator started to operate. He'd still let you copy his lecture notes — but it cost you a quarter. Sitting up to help you cram cost 50 cents an hour till midnight, 75 cents an hour afterwards. His prices for writing themes were based on a sliding scale — a dollar for a "C", two for a "B", three for an "A". A "D" cost you nothing, and if you flunked, you got a dollar credit on the next theme he wrote for you.

His services expanded steadily. He added a line of cribs for examinations. He booked bets on football games. He did a bit of bootlegging. He ran a date bureau. He rented cars, tuxedos, non-willing buttmongers.

But all of these were really sidelines. His main line was lending money. At any hour of the day or night, for any amount from a dollar to a hundred, The Operator was always ready with a sympathetic ear and cash on the barrelhead. And he rarely charged more than 150 percent interest.

Usury and sharp trading are practices not calculated to win affection. Nobody loved The Operator. But nobody did anything about it either. . . . Because undergraduates live in a perpetual state of need — need of money, need of lecture notes, need of romance, need of beer, need of something — and The Operator was the goose that laid the golden eggs and, therefore, safe.

Nor did The Operator seek affection. He just went his well-heeled way, serene and carefree. . . . No, not quite carefree. One thing troubled him: a fear that some day he might graduate. Graduation, leaving school, would mean the end of his empire. You can't run a business like that from the outside; you must be right in the your finger on the public pulse.

So he took great pains to stay in school, but never to graduate. This he accomplished by constantly shifting majors. He would come within a semester of getting a B.A. in sociology and then transfer to law. When he had nearly enough law credits, he'd switch to business administration. Then from business administration to psychology, from psychology to French, from French to history, and so on, meanwhile getting cultured as all get-out, rich as Croesus, and never accumulating quite enough credits for a degree.

Finally, of course, it caught up with him. There came a semester when no matter what he took, he had to wind up with some kind of a degree. He looked frantically through the class schedule trying to find some major he hadn't tried yet. And he found one — physical education. So, sleek and pudgy though he was from high living, The Operator entered the department of physical ed.

It was a mistake. Among the people he had to wrestle and box with were some great hulking fellows who, like everybody else on campus, owed him money.

Their tiny foreheads creased with gloom as they regarded The Operator's trembling little body; their massive biceps swelled joyously; their flexors rippled with delight. Eububling happily, they fell upon him and covered him with lumps, the smallest of which would have taken first prize in any lump contest you might name.

Confused and sick at heart, The Operator dragged his battered members home. He knew he had to get out of physical ed; his life was forfeit if he did not. So, unhappily, he transferred to some other course, and the following June, a beaten man in his cap and gown, received with lifeless hands a diploma and a bachelor of arts degree.

I don't know what happened to The Operator after graduation. It's not a bad guess that he's serving time in some poky somewhere. Or maybe he was lucky and went into the advertising business. If so, he is surely a big man on Madison Avenue today.

But, as I say, I don't know what happened to him. But this I do know: another Operator appeared on campus as soon as this one left, and he in turn was replaced by another, and the process goes on endlessly.

For as long as boy students like girl students better than going to class, as long as parents cling to the delusion that the allowance they had at college is sufficient for their children, as long as blood runs warm and cash runs short, there will be an Operator operating on every campus everywhere.

THE OPERATOR

On every American campus there are four standard fixtures: No. 1—ivy; No. 2—a statue of the founder; No. 3—Philip Morris Cigarettes; No. 4—The Operator.

The ivy is to prevent strangers from mistaking the college for a warehouse. The statue of the founder provides shade for necking when the weather is fine. The Philip Morris Cigarettes are an aid to conversation when you are studious, an aid to sociability when you are snooty, and a source of smoke rings to impress new girls.

And The Operator is the man with whom you can do without. Well do I remember The Operator on my campus. He was a young man with a ready smile, a quick mind, fifteen complete changes of wardrobe, a six room apartment, a red convertible, and assorted stocks, bonds, securities, and second mortgages.

The Operator's origins were a source of lively speculation. Some said he was left over from the old Capone gang. Some said he was Judge Craig. Some said he sprang from the brow of Zeus.

But, in fact, he was just an ordinary student — to begin with. In his first year he studied hard, took copious lecture notes, got good grades, and made a big reputation as a friend in need. He'd lend you money; he'd let you copy his lecture notes; he'd write themes for you; he'd sit up all night to help you cram for an exam. All of this was done with infinite good nature on his part, and no obligation on yours. . . . The first year, that is.

In the second year The Operator started to operate. He'd still let you copy his lecture notes — but it cost you a quarter. Phi Delts To Dance In Winter Wonderland

Christmas spirit has hit the campus this week as living trees are holding firesides and parties to decorate their groups and sing carols. The Phi Delt will display their holiday spirit with their annual winter formal, "Winter Wonderland."

Last week-end the SAE's went to the Bowery for an evening's entertainment, while the Pirate's Dance was held on the Good Ship Delta Chi.

ALPHA PHI
LaVonne Kallusky announced her recent calling to Carl Crisp, Sigma Nu.

A dinner exchange was held with the ATOs Thursday.

The sophomores took over the living room Wednesday to decorate the Christmas tree. The Christmas spirit begins to take hold . . .

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON
The Bowery is over, the six beautiful imported can-can girls are gone, and now the Christmas spirit is settling over the SAE house. Sophomores decorated the Christmas tree which the pledges bought this week.

Dinner guests Wednesday evening were Dick Johnson and Fred Loseth.

A dinner exchange was held with the Thetas Thursday evening. After the dinner, the group went to the SAE house to play bridge and dance.

DELTA CHI
After all is over, the group has agreed that the Pirates' Dance was a great success for another year? The dorm, which was used for the dance, was decorated as a waterfront establishment, with the upper hall as a street scene.

Approximately 65 couples attended the crab feed and dance. After the diner the terrified wenches went through the secret initiation.

CAMPUS CLUB
Monday night found our lounge decorated with Christmas tree ornaments and pretty girls. Fourteen members of Ethel Steel house helped decorate our tree. The remainder of the evening was spent eating popcorn and singing carols.

Latest gossip around the East wing concerns the disfigured face sported by Jim Henderson. He claims that he got it playing basketball! The story didn't sell to certain members of the club.

Strange but true: Carol MacMillan spent the week at home as a result of swallowing a toothpick while eating Thanksgiving turkey. Big drumstick, no doubt . . .

KAPPA ALPHA THETA
A Christmas tree decorating party was held at the house Tuesday evening to get everyone in the Christmas spirit. After a buffet dinner, the tree was decorated and songs were sung by the girls and their dates.

Dinner guests at the house this week have been Carrie Chartrand, Saturday; Marie Van Orman and Barbara Jensen, Sunday dinner; and Mrs. E. L. Douglas, Idanne Schriber and Shirley Long, Wednesday evening.

The pledge exchange this week was with Campus Club.

ALPHA TAU OMEGA
Professor John Raeder of Moscow was awarded the Silver Circle Award last Sunday at formal dinner. Brother Raeder has been a member of Alpha Tau Omega for the past 41 years.

A fireside was held Sunday evening, Dec. 5. Cal Hugenberg, War-

DGs a bit early this year and the party ended with the singing of Christmas carols.

Dinner guests the past week have been Miss Beverly Skillingberg, Mr. Glen Lockery and Mr. Wallace of the faculty. Other guests were Joy Groskost, Gertrude Carder, Mary Lou Wolfe and Ingrid Jones.

If anyone misplaced a sign on our front porch and would care to call for the article it will be returned with the greatest of pleasure.

House guests over the week-end were Carolyn Taylor of the University of Oregon, Jackie Thorson, Joyce Prickett, Barbara Clark and Zeta Johnson of Spokane.

Saturday afternoon we will hold a party at the chapter house.

PHI DELTA THETA
Tomorrow night at 9 p.m. "A Winter Wonderland" will be seen at the annual Phi Delt Christmas semi-formal dance. In charge of decorating are Bill Bonnett and Skip Hitchcock. Kaye Biggar's band from Spokane will furnish the music.

Wednesday evening the Phi Delt pledges entertained the TriDelt pledges at the exchange. Bob Parrish supplied humor by mimicking "Casey at the Bat."

Guests for Wednesday dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Nall and Mike Dewey.

FORNEY HALL
The Christmas mood was set last week by a gift exchange by a "culture group" which has been formed recently of nearly 40 girls. The sisterhood is all in fun with gay mock meetings, and "mountain climbing" in the attic.

Theme Of Announcement Is "It's A Touchdown"

DALKE-CHRISTIAN
"It's a Touchdown" announced the engagement of Dot Dalke, Alpha Phi, to Glen Christian, TKE, last Wednesday night. The centerpiece was a football field with a large ceramic football in the middle of the field in which the ring was displayed. There was holly on each table and small caramel footballs at each place with "It's a Touchdown!—Dot and Chris" on cards beside them.

Dot is a business education major and a senior from Moscow. Glen is employed at the Stampeder Professional Football team in Calgary.

Weekend Functions To Be Broadcast

KUOI is taking on the Christmas spirit this weekend by covering campus activities, according to Chuck White, station manager.

The Holly Dance will be featured Friday evening over KUOI and the Campus Radio Network starting at 9:30. The crowning of the Holly Queen will be broadcast during the intermission of the dance.

The Vandaleers' Christmas Concert will be broadcast Sunday evening starting at 8 p.m.

Guests at the dinner were Mrs. Gloria Jones, Mrs. Paul Dalke, Martha Dalke and Ann Lou Ringe. Wedding plans are set for June.

First Basketball Rally Last Tuesday

The first basketball rally in Idaho's sports history was held last Tuesday noon in the auditorium in preparation for the Idaho-Gonzaga game and the basketball season.

The purpose of the rally, according to Gary Wescott, Idaho cheerleader, was to introduce the new coach and basketball team to the students and "peg them up" for the game.

The rally was held at noon because the team could attend only then, since they practiced after classes in the afternoon.

Caroling Planned By Church Groups

Everyone is invited to the Canterbury Bazaar today! At noon there will be a luncheon and gifts for everyone at reasonable prices. Most of the groups have scheduled Christmas caroling parties for next week.

CANTERBURY CLUB
STUDENTS, FACULTY, EVERYONE, come to the Canterbury Bazaar at Canterbury House right this minute. It starts at 12:00 today.

There is a luncheon for $1.50 and gifts for everyone in the family at reasonable prices. Canterbury House is located right next door to the Alpha Phi house on Elm Avenue, so run over any time this afternoon and see what bargains you can find. You can buy your luncheon ticket at the door.

And to all Canterbury members—the house will be open Sunday, Dec. 12 after the Vandaleer Concert to finish up the goodies left over from the Bazaar.

WESTMINSTER FORUM
Installation services will be held for the Rev. Johns, Sunday at 3:30 p.m. The Westminster Forum has been invited to eat at the Congregation supper after the services. A choral reading on Christmas will be given afterwards. Cars will leave the CCC for the Church at 3:15 p.m.

College-age Sunday school begins at 9:30 a.m. Sunday. Church follows at 11 a.m.

Plan to attend the coffee hour at the CCC from 4 to 5:30 Tuesday. Thursday evening the Westminster Forum is planning to go Christmas caroling.

DISCIPLES STUDENT FELLOWSHIP
The regular meeting will be from 5 to 7:20 p.m. Sunday at the First Christian Church. Final plans will be made to go caroling Tuesday evening. All students are invited to attend.

There will be an Inter-Church Council fireside from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Sunday at the CCC.

NEWMAN CLUB
The communion breakfast will be Sunday after the 9:30 mass. New officers will be nominated.

An exchange supper and social will be with the WSC Newman Club Sunday night at Parish Hall in Pullman. All persons wishing to ride meet in the SUB lounge at 5 p.m. Each person should bring a 50 cent gift which will be given to the orphanage in Caldesse.

LUTHERAN STUDENTS ASSOCIATION
A coffee hour will be held Friday at the CCC at 4 p.m. The Christmas party will be at the CCC Sunday from 5 to 7 p.m.

The First Lutheran Church will have its choir concert at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday. Our Savior's Lutheran Church will hold its concert at 4 p.m. Sunday.

WESLEY FOUNDATION
All college students are invited to attend the College Forum Sunday at 9:30 a.m. in Epworth Hall to discuss "The Meaning of Christmas in the 20th Century."

Go caroling this Sunday with Methodist students. We shall leave from the CCC at 4 p.m. and return to the church for refreshments at 5:30.

The annual Kappa Phi Christmas Candlelighting Service will be held Tuesday at the First Methodist Church at 7:00.

21 Persons Initiated By Sigma Tau

Rho chapter of Sigma Tau engineering honorary initiated the fraternity's 21 new members in the national ceremonies held December 4 at the SUB.

The senior honorary culminated a week's pledge activity, at which the pledges wore their distinctive pyramid-shaped hats and carried a short section of rail, by the formal and informal initiation of 21 new members Saturday evening.

Initiation was followed by a banquet at the Ad Club, where members and initiates heard G. A. Riedesel, president of the Idaho Society of Professional Engineers, guest speaker for the occasion.

Membership keys were presented to the new members by Paul Mann, electrical engineering staff, who is faculty advisor to the society.

Those initiated were: Agricultural Engineers, Dave O'Harrow, Pete Van Houten and Bill Carson; Chemical Engineers, Dick Denney, Bruce Dimick, Paul Ackerman and Bob Furgason; Civil Engineers, Ralph Clements, Ed Pottenger, Donn Snodgrass, Keith Stokes and Parley Walter; Electrical Engineers, Bob McBirney, Larry Klappenbach, Bill Cameron, Al Stubberud and Keith Smith; Mechanical Engineers, Willard Chils, Charles DePalmo and Lavern Ghan.

At Alcatraz, a convict frantically summoned a guard, pointed at the rain pouring through the roof, and snarled, "This pen is leaking."

"I thought I'd be considerate and tell her that her hose were wrinkled—but she wasn't wearing hose."

Xmas Show To Be Given By Dancers

The members of Orchestis, Pre-Orchestis and the two modern dance classes will present their annual Christmas show tomorrow night at 7:30 p.m. in the Women's Gym.

This program will consist of seven numbers: two to be presented by the modern dance classes, two by Pre-Orchestis and three by Orchestis. These numbers will range in mood from the tender story of "The Little Match Girl" done by Nancy Casteel, Joann Dittmer, Ronald Tan, Dan True and Lane Hahan to the gaily of "Christmas in the City" done by the members of Pre-Orchestis, with the much variety of "Fossils," the story of the toys, "A Stranger in the City," "Holiday Cheer" and the number done to a Negro Spiritual.

Members of Orchestis participating in this program are Eleanor Horseman, Nancy Casteel, Rochelle Henderson, Shirley Holden, Joann Dittmer, Layne Hahn, Dan True, Carolyn Babcock, Lou Green-

John Bahr To Attend Convention

John Bahr has been selected to attend the national Blue Key Convention at Indianapolis December 28 to 31, according to Keith Jergensen, president.

The honorary has scheduled an initiation and banquet for Tuesday at 5:30 in the Syringa room. Rev. Harry Johns, new pastor at the First Presbyterian Church, will speak at the banquet, Jergensen said.

New initiates are Ray Miller, Robert Newhouse, Harry Brenn, John Gillis and Roger McPike.

Wayne Glidden, George Yost, Ted Frostenson and Dewey Newman complete the list of initiates.

Once more the telephone rang. "What is it?" asked the moron. "It's long distance from New York," replied the operator. "I know it is," said the moron, and went back to bed.

Delegates Of Mortar Board Meet

When Mortar Board delegates from seven college campuses met in Eugene, Oregon, December 4 for their annual convention, three main topics were discussed, each relating to the senior women's honorary to service on the campus.

The delegates exchanged ideas on money-making projects, standards within the group and scholarships, according to Jane Blomquist, Idaho delegate.

"Mortar Board on this campus has just as many or more projects than any other school which sent a delegate, I found," Jane said. Idaho Mortar Board sells "Mums" at Homecoming to earn money for the group. This is its only money making project.

The delegates discussed promoting school traditions. The Idaho chapter sponsors the annual May Fete. Encouraging scholarships on the campus was also discussed. High scholarship is recognized by the Idaho chapter each fall when the freshman girl with the highest grades receives the Mortar Board plaque. Narthex table is the spring honors high scholarship among junior girls.

Colleges sending delegates to the convention were Whitman, University of Oregon, Oregon State College, Washington State College, University of Washington, Montana University and University of Idaho.

Recruiting Aid Praised By Director

The University of Idaho students received a pat on the back this week from the athletic department for a fine job of student athletic recruiting this year.

Assistant Athletic Director Frank Young, in a letter addressed to ASUI President Flip Kleffner, said to the ASUI:

"The athletic department is pleased with the freshmen athletic outlook for the coming year. The presence of these fine-looking freshmen athletic prospects forecasts better days and better teams in the future.

"Much of the credit for the selection of the University of Idaho by these fine young men must go to the students who did an outstanding recruiting job during the summer.

"We in the athletic department appreciate the recruiting job the students did and hope we can continue this movement to an even greater degree in the future. We pledge our continued cooperation to this end, and thank the students for a job well done."

HELLDIVERS TAP THREE
Tuesday noon three initiates were tapped for Helledivers on the basis of a recent tryout. The three who made it were: Dan Davis, Delta Tau Delta; Sharon Harp and Janet Daigh, Alpha Chi.

They will be initiated during second semester with the second-semester Initiates.

"All the answers aren't in the book"

Here Don Garland makes noise distribution measurements with a Level Distribution Recorder

W. D. Garland, E.E. '52, Univ. of California, is working for the Pacific Telephone Company. We thought you'd be interested in what Don told us about his first assignment.

(Reading time: 45 seconds)

"My job is to help solve problems of noise and other interference on telephone lines due to power interference. Inductive co-ordination is the technical term for the work.

"First thing the Chief Engineer explained to me was that 'all the answers aren't in the book.' He was right. Most of the problems have required a combination of electrical engineering, a knowledge of costs and generous amount of ingenuity. I like it that way. It's given me an immediate opportunity to put into practice the theory I learned at school.

"In addition to this on-the-job experience, I have attended several special training courses conducted by the company. Now I'm breaking in a new man, just like when I started."

Don Garland's work is typical of many engineering assignments in the Bell Telephone Companies. There are similar opportunities for college graduates with Bell Telephone Laboratories, Western Electric and Sandia Corporation. If you'd like to get more details, see your Placement Officer. He will be glad to help you.

Zags Outrun Vandals 80-67; Utah State On Tap Saturday

Lefty Melton Buckets Two

Two platooning Gonzaga University handed the Idaho Vandals an 80 to 67 loss Tuesday to ruin the home clubs first Memorial Gym performance of the still young basketball season. The Vandals, in the game at the halftime, were beaten at their own running game, as crafty Hank Anderson substituted freely to run down the Idaho quintette.

Forward Harlan Lefty Melton bucketed 23 points for the losing team as Idaho's offense showed considerable improvement over its showings against Utah. Forwards Jerry Mitchell and Harry Watson led the Zag scoring punch and a scramble type game.

The Vandals play host tomorrow night at 8 to the Utah State Ag College basketball team and will be shooting for their first season victory. The Vandal Babes, unbeaten in two starts, face McChord Air Base in a preliminary contest starting at 5:50.

Although the game was tight for the first thirty minutes the visitors led most of the way. The Zags, paced by Watson, had complete control the final 10 minutes as the fagged Vandals couldn't drop in a field goal. The fast pace during the entire game was too much for the thin reserved Vandals. The first five scored all but seven points, those scored by forward Don Monson.

The Vandals fought back from a 42-37 halftime deficit to boom into a 45-44 lead after three minutes had been played. Melton was the Vandal big gun in this surge dumping in three jumping field goals. The Zags then spurred for eight points before the Vandals knew what hit them.

Top Scoring Mark Broken By 'T' Babes

The Idaho basketball Babes raced for some 45 minutes Tuesday before upending a tough Fairchild Air Force base team 92-85 for their second straight 1954 season win. The Babes found it rough going the first half but came back hard the rest of the way to score the overtime win. The 92 points is a new scoring record.

A closing rally in the final the hoop and Idaho pulled away. Gould poured three goals through Babes' but towering center Bob shot at an overtime with the three minutes earned Fairchild a closing second's hook shot by Forward Bowman gave the Flyers a tie and that ended the regulation period.

Fairchild took an early lead as they ran up an 8-0 lead in a minute and a half before the Babes could muster a score. The Flyers held an 18-6 advantage with six minutes gone.

The obviously nervous Babes playing before the home crowd for the first time, began then to click with their offense, which had been held at a near standstill by the Flyers' race horse style of play.

Simmons Hot
Gary Simmons and Jack Mitchell led a furious driving style of offense that pulled the frosh to within one point of the Fairchild team at halftime. Gould opened up at the start of the second half with the score 39-40 and the Vandal Babes led 47-42 after three fast minutes. Bowman and Pierson led the Fairchild attack the rest of the way that pulled the Fairchild five to a short 61-60 deficit with nine minutes left. Bowman's hook shot from beneath the basket saved the Flyers.

Jump shots by Jerry Jorgenson Bill Wilson and Gould pushed the Vandals into a 86-78 lead with two and a half minutes remaining. Buckets by Jim Branom and Wilson iced the game for Idaho.

Coach Likes PC Revision

Basketball Coach Harlan Hodges yesterday commended the Pacific Coast's decision to unify the Northern and Southern Division hoop teams into a solid conference.

Hodges feels the move "will greatly help the interest in Idaho basketball. I'm not too familiar with the problems that they have been saying wouldn't make it work, but I think it will greatly improve the ball in the conference and give the fans a chance to see some good basketball."

Hodges indicated the $750 guarantee that teams must put up for teams from the North or South should be sufficient or covering the travel and other expenses.

Teams when they go South or come North will probably fly leaving on Thursday, playing Friday and Saturday and returning Sunday, the hoop mentor said.

"You know, Idaho won in the last conference wide year of 1922. Maybe we can repeat history. Maybe it will be a good omen for me."

GYM OPEN SUNDAY
The gymnasium will be open Sunday afternoon from two to four for anyone wishing to use it.

Frosh-Varsity Swimmers Compete Today At 2 P.M.

Swimming enthusiasts will get their first chance to view this year's edition of varsity and frosh crews this afternoon at 2:00 as the two clubs collide in an intrasquad meet.

The varsity with five lettermen, two transfers and an abundance of newcomers up from last year's strong frosh team and the frosh with some of the finest aqua talent in the past few years are expected to put on quite a display of power as the two vie in what often is called the annual "Silver and Gold" meet.

Featured will be the distance swimming of veteran Fritz Holtz who will compete in the 200 and 400 distance races. Jerry Jones another veteran from last year's club, which set a new school record of four wins against three losses, will team with newcomer John Helle in the individual medley relay and then will start the free style relay. Byron Richards in diving, letterman Jerry Light and Don Medley in the breast stroke and sprints are expected to give added strength to the club.

Giving the Vandals trouble will be frosh Dick Galloway and John Bethke, in the 220 freestyle and 400 free style. The two boys have been coming along very well and are expected to give Holtz quite a bit of trouble in these events. Tom Croson and Chet Hall have been showing very well in the individual medley and may possibly give Jones and Helle a lot to worry about in their race this afternoon.

The Pairings:

VARSITY	FOSH
150 Free Style	Ciesielski, Patterson
	Light, Hixon
	Jensen, Parr
220 Free Style	Holtz, Galloway

VB Playoffs Pit League Champions

Final games of regular league play in intramural volleyball were completed Wednesday. Independent playoffs got underway last night between league winners, but due to an early press deadline the winner of the game between WSH I and LH II, who won the league 3 and 4 titles respectively, with identical records of five wins and no defeats. This University Championship match will be played on Wednesday, starting at 7:45.

The runners-up in the Independent Leagues Chrisman Hall I and Willis Sweet Hall II will play-off along with the third, fourth and fifth place finishers in the two leagues to decide positions in the final standings of the two leagues combined.

By winning their last four games, LDS moved into a tie for second place in League II with Phi Delta Theta. Both teams finished with records of 5 wins and 2 losses and will play-off for the right to meet Delta Tau Delta, second place finishers in League I with 5 wins and 1 loss.

TAKE FIVE

With John B. Hughes

The Pacific Coast Conference moguls have come up with their annual trouble makers and newspaper pleasers which they annually stir up in attempting to build a little interest in their meeting. But the big one up North this year has been the censure of "poor" Idaho. The PCC has chosen Idaho for the hand slapping and lecture this year.

The curtain rises, the characters are there, the act is the same, but the victim usually different. For instance, at a meeting a few years back USC took it on the nose when it was voted that a conference team may not return to the Rose Bowl twice in succession. Idaho has been accused, as one publicity seeking member is quoted of "being reprimanded by the Pacific Coast Conference because a former coach violated the code involving the interview of athletes."

And, but of course, the Idaho school is not the only one that has been brought to light by the honorable conference. Prof. H. P. Everest, faculty representative at Washington and press spokesman for the conference took it upon himself to disclose the school after announcing that the conference faculty representatives in effect had kept the door shut on public disclosure of PCC secrets.

No Coach Mentioned
Everest merely identified the school made no indication who the guilty party might be on the present or past Idaho staff.

A reliable United Press source in Spokane said last night by phone that the Idaho coach was Babe Curfman, adding that the charge was not released.

In the past it has been customary for the PCC officials to release in the spring the list of fines and violations summoned at the annual winter meeting. Everest said the faculty men restored the fining of institutions guilty of infractions.

So there is no indication that place in League II with Phi Delta Theta. Both teams finished with records of 5 wins and 2 losses and will play-off for the right to meet Delta Tau Delta, second place finishers in League I with 5 wins and 1 loss.

Nothing more to say this week than:
Joe, Joe DIMaggio
Had a prospect but let it go
Say, hey, wouldn't it be nice
To claim her for the walver price??

Idaho is the only team being picked upon for this rule violation at this time, but there must be some purpose in disclosing the Idaho violation in particular over any other.

Question Posed
Could it be that nine teams is again too many for some of the California schools?

Let's take the ruler away from the teacher and bring it out in the open 100 per cent or is the PCC not willing to have the name of the personal violator brought into view in fear that he may reverse the charges.

Here is the official Idaho statement as of yesterday afternoon from Acting President D. R. Theophilus: "The University is aware that certain rules of the conference have been broken by a coach who is not now a member of the university staff. However, we were not aware of such infractions until after the coach had left the university."

"We are living up to the letter and intent of the Pacific Coast conference regulations and explicitly inform all members of our staff of these regulations. Any violation of such instructions will be dealt with by the university upon discovery of them."

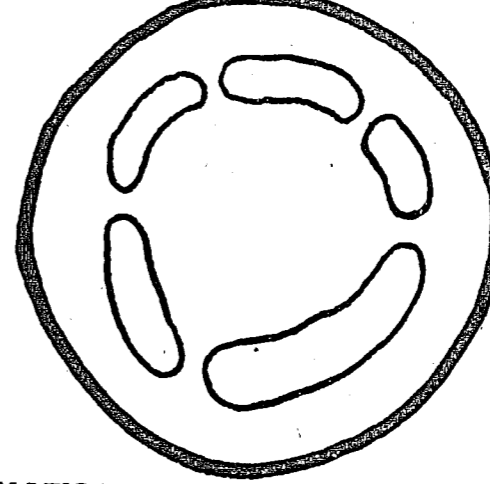

"We are now aware that a coach did commit certain acts contrary to these explicit instructions, but we learned of these actions after he left our employ."

There, in part, is both sides of the issue (we feel that Idaho has quite a bit of ground to stand on).

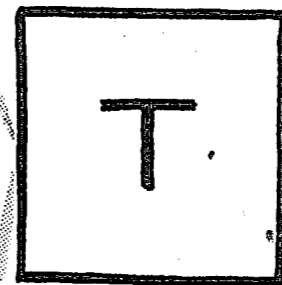

We will commend the PCC, however, for combining the South and North in basketball after some 32 years. Did you know Idaho was the last all-conference winner under this style of organization?

IT'S A FACT! College smokers prefer Luckies to all other brands—and by a wide margin—according to the latest, greatest coast-to-coast college survey. The No. 1 reason: Luckies taste better. They taste better, first of all, because Lucky Strike means fine tobacco. Then, that tobacco is toasted to taste better. "It's Toasted"—the famous Lucky Strike process—tones up Luckies' light, good-tasting tobacco to make it taste even better. Now for the Doodle above, titled: Inept smoke ring blown by ept smoker. He's ept, of course, because he smokes Luckies. Be ept yourself and enjoy the better-tasting cigarette... Lucky Strike.
