

Snow Reveals New Shapes

By DON INGLE

A 7-foot statue of Minerva and her lion stood guard over the SAE house this weekend until she lost her head. The Campus Clubbers have their own Tri Delt, says the president, Charlie Starr. They call her the 1956 "Miss America."

We tried to get a weather story for today's sheet but: The faculty weatherman had no comment. The airport said don't use the phone out here except for emergency purposes. The Police Station said to stay off the roads. The Highway Department said the highways were closed except for emergency. So—we predict more snow.

We were all set to take the trip to MSU and check over an ice skating rink when the weather closed in.

You should have been around the print shop Friday morning. The Arg staff and Jason, trying to bring some up-to-date news, had filled Friday's front page with a ten inch story on the trip and half a Golden Fleece both saying how we left "early this morning."

We made it to the printers in time to junk half the Fleece and pull out a front page story

Monday morning's Lewiston Tribune carried a moving editorial concerning basketball at the University. We have a reprint of it in our editorial section today. Incidentally, the author of it, Bill Johnston, is an Idaho grad and a one-time Jason.

While we've endured a Russian winter in Moscow things have been warm elsewhere.

At Denver University, officers of a fraternity were asked to resign and the chapter went on probation after the brothers stood a coed on her head and stenciled their fraternity emblem on her panties.

At Nebraska State Teachers College a coed attempted to take Alka Seltzer for the first time. She reported they were too large to swallow.

These are just some of the many snow sculpturing creations Idaho students moulded during this weekend of Russian weather. The Kappas rounded out a big "I" with Beta help. After an unsuccessful attempt to add coloring, big "I" took a tumble.

A 3-foot statue of Pinocchio still stands in front of the Gamma Phi house. Yesterday's snow left it slightly covered, sans nose.

A 3D chunk of the state of Idaho stands in front of the ATO house. Nobody would relate to the Arg reporter why it was colored a deep purple.

The DGs built a two story tower out of their yardful of snow. The project stuck it out for three or four hours before calling it quits. The coeds spent Friday night climbing up and down ladders building it.

The SAE Minerva and her lion were built Friday afternoon. The golden lion got his color from some old crepe paper. She lost her head Saturday night but able SAEs got her back in shape for Sunday. The Campus Club creation takes the cake for measurements. The snow woman measures 50-25-50 and is 8 ft. tall.—Nuff said.

March 4 Is Last Date For Entry

The application deadline for the Blue Key Talent show has been extended until Friday, March 4, at 5 p.m. according to Ernie Bedke, co-chairman of the show.

"We would like to see some more men try out for the show," commented Bedke. So far only four men's acts have filed their applications.

Tryouts will begin Thursday of this week Bedke said. Most of the tryouts will be held in either the Borah Theater or in the Music Building. Group acts will be auditioned this Saturday in the Central Ballroom. Contestants will be contacted as to when their audition will take place.

Cartoons Are Crude, Say Illinois Officials

WHEATON, Ill.—(ACP)—The Wheaton Record, weekly publication of Wheaton College, will print no more of Dick Bibler's widely syndicated "Little Man on Campus" or "Prof. Snarf" cartoons. The college administration has forbidden their publication in the college newspaper, claiming the cartoons to be "largely in poor taste," and "generally unwholesome" in philosophy.

In an editorial headed "Here We Go Again," the Record commented: "We appreciate the opportunities we have had for discussing this matter, especially since we recognize and acknowledge the authority behind this action and realize there is no obligation on their part to defend such moves."

way cooperated in looking for student talent.

"The administration was also constructive, not merely negative in outlook. They produced ideas and sources for student cartoons,

"1. These cartoons are crudely drawn. It was felt that Wheaton students, art students in particular, could draw much better. "2. These cartoons are largely in poor taste. "3. The philosophy behind these cartoons is generally unwholesome. "4. These cartoons do not reflect the atmosphere of the campus. "We pointed out that, crudely drawn or not, many Record readers found them entertaining, and missed them when they did not appear; that local talent costs more than 10 times as much in engraving costs; and that other well-known Christian schools use syndicated cartoons (Houghton College, Northwestern Schools, etc.). "But most important, we pointed out that although we also prefer to use student talent, and would like to run student cartoons in conjunction with or in place of commercial ones, we believe that suggested holding cartoon contests (under consideration), and in every

Minerva On Ice

ham, Marv Michel, Dave Hogge, Nathan Yost, Jim Townsend, George Yost, Jim Nolan, Jack Knodle, Minerva, Marlin Jones, Russ Campbell, Lee Martin, Max Burke, Art Misner, Mike Day, Fred Burrow, Hugh Hamilton, Dewey Newman, and Chuck Manning.

Eighth Borah Peace Conference Scheduled

The Eighth Annual Borah Conference will be under way March 16 and 17. Speakers, who are specially qualified to discuss the topic "The United Nations—Is It the Road to Peace?" will be here from various parts of the country.

President Dwight Eisenhower and the United States Congress have asked the American people to consider the problem of the United Nations seriously since the United Nations charter will be up for revision soon.

Dr. Boyd A. Martin, chairman of the Borah Foundation here, has announced that Dr. Quincy Wright, professor of political science at the University of Chicago, will open the conference

Wednesday afternoon, March 16, with an address entitled "The United Nations and Charter Revision."

The three forums will follow this speech which will deal with the United Nation's Charter and related agencies.

Ronald B. Levinson, son of the founder of the Borah Foundation, Salmon O. Levinson, and head of the Department of Philosophy at the University of Maine, will deliver the Banquet speech on "Outlawry of War and the Nature of Man."

The second principal speaker will be Dr. Carlos Davila, secretary general of the Organization of American States of the Pan American Union.

He will discuss the possibilities of regionalism as a way to peace in a speech entitled "Regional Organizations and the Roads to Peace." The three forums following this address will consider the possibilities of regionalism as a road to peace.

Dr. Boyd A. Martin pointed out a new feature of this year's meeting—a special session devoted to community participation in foreign policy.

This session will be held the afternoon and evening of March 17 and will feature speakers from the state of Idaho who are familiar with various aspects of the state as related to U. S. foreign policy.

The third principal address will be delivered by Thomas Jefferson Hamilton, a correspondent for the New York Times to the United Nations. "Traditional Diplomacy vs. Collective Security in the Contemporary World" will be his subject, followed by forums on this policy in the United Nations and regional pacts.

The conference began eight years ago after a fund was set up by Salmon O. Levinson in honor of William Edgar Borah to continue the fight for the outlawry of war and for international peace. The purpose of the conference has been to bring to the minds of the people the possibilities of world peace and how the citizens can help by understanding American foreign policy.

Lose An Earring, A Glove? Try The Lost And Found

The Lost and Found collection in the Registrar's office has developed into quite a pile of articles, according to University officials.

There are pairs of men's and ladies' gloves, knit and leather.

Several leather and knit jackets are in the collection along with one pair of ladies' shoes, scarves, two bathing caps, men's knit caps and other pieces of wearing apparel.

Other items include glasses, rings, keys, bracelets, earrings, mechanical pencils, pens, notebooks, text books and check books.

The Registrar's office urges students that have lost articles to please identify them. Items left at the end of the semester will be given to relief agencies and the proceeds will be sold and the proceeds given to the student loan fund.

Executive Board

The WSC exchange dinner will start at 6:15 p.m. in the North Ballroom of the SUB. Dress for the Executive Board members is slacks and sweaters for men.

Shoeshiners Help Make Cosmo Dance Profitable

They might not be Chatanodga shoe shine boys, but about 20 University Profs shining shoes at the Cosmopolitan Club "Dance of the Nations" made a "nice profit," according to dance co-chairman Sally Spence.

A shoe shine stand from the Hotel Moscow was a part of the decorations at Saturday's dance. George Bellos, Moscow professional, was present to show the faculty boys how to apply the wax.

About 200 students and faculty members danced to the music of Chuck Clauser, played Mortar Board's bingo, and had their fortunes told by Abdul Kamal, club vice president, and by club advisor Mrs. Bob Tracy.

Prof's Shoes Shine Many profs took advantage of their colleagues for a shine, also. Nancy Shelton, Caroleigh Gittens, Nancy Leek, Lois Rathbun, Pat Bartlett and Jane Blomquist, Mortar Board president, managed the bingo concession.

Intermission entertainment consisted of Scandinavian dances by Siv Berstrom and Kristofer Storstura, a Spanish dance by Louise McMinn and a Mexican dance by Maria Duhig.

Posters showing scenes from different nations decorated the ballroom walls.

Gus Laskaras, dressed in an Arabian costume and playing a snake charming wind instrument, sold tickets. Jean Paar assisted him.

Proceeds from the dance will help sponsor a 1955-56 University scholarship for a refugee. Helgy Gagnum was dance co-chairman.

Home Ec Classes Will Help Adults Save Time, Energy

A series of lessons sponsored by the adult home economics education class will be offered on March 3, 10 and 17.

"This Is the Way We Save Time and Energy," the first unit, will be held Thursday evening, March 3, in room 103, 7:30 p.m. at the Home Economics Building. This Unit is organized to bring to the homemaker ways and means of providing more leisure time in her day.

The second unit, "This Is the Way We Manage With Equipment," will be offered one week later, March 10, at the same hour and place. Unit II will include, "Cooking With the Deep Freeze," "It's on the Ice," and class participation in the use of small appliances which they may choose to bring to class.

The third unit and last of the series on March 17, same hour and place is titled "This Is the Way We Manage Our Food." It is planned to give the homemaker interesting information on foods, shortcuts in food preparation, and suggestions for the "Up-to-Date-Hostess."

This series is planned to inspire the homemakers, encourage use of short cuts when such methods will conserve precious time and energy.

Easter Vacation Is April 8 to 12

Easter Vacation is from Friday, April 8, through Monday, April 11. All classes are to be conducted on regular schedule at 8 a.m., Tuesday, April 12.

It is expected that student attendance will conform to these dates and that instructors will meet classes as scheduled, stated the University Executive Committee.

Students who miss classes before or after the vacation do so upon their own responsibility and instructors are not required to provide make-up arrangements, they said.

Spurs Waddle—And We Do Mean Waddle

The shot on the right isn't a ticker tape celebration—it's the Idaho Spurs waddling in circles leaving trails of light for the photographer. Rick Jones, Arg photographer, took a 15 second exposure to create the odd effect. On the right is how the Spurs looked in reality.

Chinese Play Ready Friday

Drama student's eyes were slanted by makeup and long, colorful costumes were worn by the characters of "Lute Song" at a dress rehearsal Sunday evening which marked the beginning of the final week of preparation for an ASUI drama production.

The second and major University of Idaho drama production will be presented Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. in the University Auditorium.

The classes of the peasant and the royalty are sharply defined in the simple love story by mode of dress, personality and atmosphere, said director Jean Collette.

Dance sequences and music run through the play to heighten the symbolism. Although there is a happy ending, tragedy within the plot heightens the drama aspect.

A brilliant young scholar, Tsai-Yong, leaves his peasant home to seek the position of mandarin at the Emperor's capital. While he is gone, a great famine strikes his homeland, and in spite of the struggle of his young, beautiful wife, Tchao-Ou-Niang, Tsai-Yong's parents die.

The boy meets with success in the capital and the emperor forces him to marry his daughter, Princess Nieon Chi.

Royal Marriage Tchao-Ou-Niang, hearing no word from her husband, comes to the capital only to learn of his royal marriage. Tsai-Yong finds out of his wife's arrival and has her brought to him. When the Princess learns of her husband's former marriage, she consents to ask for an annulment of her own marriage. As the curtain falls, the request is being sent to the emperor.

Chinese Hamlet Presented for the first time in China 500 years ago, "Lute Song" is comparable to "Hamlet" in our country. Several years ago, it was presented on Broadway starring Mary Martin and Will Irwin and Sidney Howard adapted the Oriental classic for the Broadway production from its original manuscript by Kao-Tong-Kia.

Many crowd scenes and speaking parts call for a large cast. Sue McMahon and Gary Hudson play the major roles of the young scholar and his wife.

U. MAY HAVE TWO The University is awaiting the arrival of equipment for a Spokane channel 2 antenna hook-up, said George Gagon, University engineer, recently. He added that the equipment had been on order since the channel went in.

Buy Your Dream Gals And Guys At Auction

Would you like to have the Pi Phi pledges cook and serve a Saturday breakfast for your living group? Or would you rather listen to the ATO House band? These are some of the services to be sold at the Campus Chest Carnival's Chinese auction March 12.

Sigma Nu is offering a date with Dick Foster, and Lefty Melton is being sold for an expense-paid evening by TKE. Willis Sweet will auction 200 men plus an orchestra for an afternoon or evening of dancing. Sweet is also donating entertainment by the Fourflushers Dream Girl Date Delta Sig offers a date with 1955 Dream Girl Nancy Leek. Karen Warner, Marilyn Stewart and matching movie tickets have been put up by the Thetas. Forney's two queens, Barbara Warner and Clara Armstrong will be auctioned off with show tickets for a double date.

The Campus Club will throw a square dance for a girl's living group. Fijls have a half-hour of entertainment ready for auctioning. A Delta Tau "surprise package" goes on the block.

Hash? Hashing service will be auctioned as follows: Alpha Phi's queen candidates for dinner and entertainment; Tri Delta pledges for dinner; DG pledges for breakfast, lunch and dinner; Steel house for dinner and Chrisman hall. General work crews will sell these amounts of service; 13 Hays freshmen for Saturday morning; Gamma Phi's for five hours on a Saturday; Alpha Chi for an afternoon; Idaho Club for a girls' living group; Kappa Sig pledges; Fijl pledges; Lambda Chi pledges for two hours' work; five Lindley hall men for two hours apiece; Phi Delt pledges; SAE for one Saturday's work; and TKE pledges for work.

A Noteworthy Gain In Idaho Athletics

(FROM THE LEWISTON MORNING TRIBUNE)

The University of Idaho's surprising basketball victory Saturday night over the University of Washington was climaxed by an incident on the court which seemed to symbolize a noteworthy development in the University's program.

After chopping away steadily at a whopping Washington lead, the Vandals finally had tied the score. The two teams traded baskets through the exciting final minutes, and the score was tied with seconds to go. In the closing moments, particularly, the "breaks" went against the Huskies. With the score tied and seven seconds left to play, an Idaho substitute, John Sullivan, was fouled in a scramble for the ball.

It was a tense situation as Sullivan, who had played only briefly during the season, went to the free throw line to try the two shots which could mean victory for Idaho in the final game of the year. He missed the first one. As spectators held their breath he tried again. This time the ball swished through the net, and Idaho had won 80 to 79.

At the crack of the final gun, Idaho players and fans rushed onto the court, and Sullivan was borne off the floor on the shoulders of his teammates.

The scene has been duplicated before in Memorial gymnasium. Once in the late 30s, as we recall, an Idaho substitute sank the free throw after the final gun which defeated Oregon's national champions. He was carried to the showers by his teammates, too.

What made Sullivan's heroic departure unusual, and, in a sense, symbolic, is the fact that Sullivan is a Negro. The scene seemed to symbolize the University's enthusiastic acceptance of Negro athletes and students as worthy and respected members of the student body.

The influx of Negro athletes at Idaho is a fairly recent development. There have been Negro students at the University from time to time, and it has appeared to us that they have generally been greeted by their fellow students in a friendly fashion with a minimum of discrimination. Only in the past year, however, have Negroes begun to win reputations as star athletes at Idaho in the way, for example, that the fine fullback Duke Washington, has stood out at Washington State College.

Perhaps the outstanding "ground-breaker" in this development is Wilbur Gary, the swift Idaho scabbard whose exploits on the Idaho football field last fall were more spectacular, but no more important, than his reputation among Idaho students as a "good guy." Now increasing numbers of Negroes, including athletes, seem to have concluded that the University is a friendly school which is not hampered by that ultimate stupidity which still afflicts some institutions dedicated to truth—the stupidity of racial discrimination.

As one result of this development, Idaho basketball fans are likely to see in varsity action next year one of the most promising Negro prospects in years. The Idaho freshman team is truly "loaded" with individual talent which, must, of course, be moulded into a team. But it is gratifying to note that no artificial lines of race, creed or color are being drawn either by the University administration or the student body.

A major weakness of Idaho athletics was still apparent, too, at Saturday night's basketball game. That is the weakness of poor sportsmanship on the part of many fans. The officials, who seemed to us, if anything, to give Idaho the benefit of the doubt on a majority of close decisions, were shamefully booed by many fans, who seemed interested in nothing but victory. Even Washington's great center, Capt. Dean Parsons, was heckled and booed occasionally as he put on a demonstration of outstanding skill and cool good sportsmanship that should have shamed the partisan loud-mouths into silence. Perhaps some of these fans have become so accustomed to losing that they must learn gradually how to win.

But it is noteworthy that among the outstanding exponents of good sportsmanship on Vandal teams in the last year have been the vanguard of Negro athletes. It is foolish, of course, to make any generalizations on the basis of race. But it is probably true that there is still enough racial discrimination in the land so that most Negroes trying to win a place in life on their merits at least do not have to be taught much about fairness. At any rate, the chances seem fairly good that Idaho's new crop of Negroes will have an opportunity to give the rest of us a quiet, competent lesson in good sportsmanship.

That alone would be reason enough to welcome them to Idaho and to congratulate them upon their fine achievements thus far as athletes and as men.

—BILL JOHNSON.

DEAR JASON

Dear Jason:
 The quote, "It is deep purple to go to church," printed in last week's Arg is incorrect. The correct wording used at the panel was, "Some people think that it is deep purple to go to church." As you can see, the manner in which the quote was reported succeeded in changing the point completely. I would appreciate it very much if you would correct this mistake in your next issue.

Dean Holt

Dear Jason:
 I wish to point out that the name of Reverend David Seaman was omitted from the article on the RE Week concluding panel. I felt that Rev. Seaman did an able job of moderating the session and should be given credit for such.

The Seminars Committee wishes to apologize to the many students who couldn't get into the Borah room for the closing panel. We also recognize the discomfort of those many who stood at the back for the entire discussion. We are truly sorry that the panel was not scheduled for a larger room. We have recommended that a large room be used next year.

It was gratifying to see the display of interest in this function of RE Week.

Dennis H. Thompson, Seminars Committee for RE Week.

Abbott To Speak At ASME Meeting

Dr. Frank R. Abbott of the Naval Electronics Laboratories, San Diego, Calif., will speak at the ASME meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in Engineering 104, according to Van Stonehocker, program chairman for the chapter.

During his talk Dr. Abbott will show colored slides illustrating the work of N.E.L. engineers, the results of their efforts, and the facilities at their disposal.

The talk will emphasize mechanical engineering, Stonehocker said.

Prairie Oscars, No Sex, Must Go!

ATLANTA, Ga., (ACP) — "The ten worst movies of 1954" were listed in the Emory Wheel, "The South's Most Independent Collegiate Newspaper," by columnist Larry Custer. His choices:

Desiree—The ladies were costumed attractively, making the scenery quite interesting, but he will never be able to accept Napoleon as a great lover.

Demetrius and the Gladiators—They should have left well enough alone. "The Robe" was enough.

The Adventures of Hadji Baba—We could never figure out how those tire tracks got out in the middle of the desert.

The Egyptian—We don't know just where they dug this one up. Sex in spectacular proportions.

The Vanishing Prairie—Just a remake of "The Living Desert," but an Oscar should go to those prairie dogs. And that lady buffalo really put herself into her performance.

The Barefoot Contessa—A fairly good movie, but it had the most disappointing scene of the year.

Bean Brummel—So what was all the fuss about?

Prince Valiant—Just another one of those medieval horse operas that seem so popular today. We could have listed dozens of others.

Phift—The New Yorker best summed this one up: "Phit."

White Christmas—Bing should retire, take it easy and never make another movie—how much money can he get? Danny Kay saved this one from being a complete flop.

Campus Split Disqualified

NEW ORLEANS (La. ACP) — Tulane University students split 50-50 in a poll on the question of segregation, with another 20 percent without any opinion on the subject, the Tulane Hullabaloo reports.

According to an editorial in the student newspaper, however, "the man in charge of the poll was afraid to release these results and the Hullabaloo had to pick them up from other sources."

The poll was conducted in connection with student class work, and was not released for publication. It was said that the accuracy of the poll was questioned because some of the students conducting it deviated from the prescribed method.

Kleffner Receives Yearly Beta Award

Kappa Kappa Gamma and Phi Kappa Tau have announced the results of recent house elections. Ohris Winner will lead the Kappas, and Marvin Cox was chosen president by the Phi Taus.

Formal initiation has brought new members into the bonds of Kappa Kappa Gamma and Tau Kappa Epsilon. Flip Kleffner was honored at the Annual Beta Northwest Songfest when he was given the outstanding senior award for his service to the University of Idaho.

ALPHA CHI
Dinner guests Sunday were Mrs. Willis Coyle and Karen Brown. Mrs. Coyle was a house guest over the weekend.

Thursday evening the Deltas serenaded Irene Coulter in honor of her recent pinning to Bill Herr. Early Saturday morning they had the mattress ride, and Irene cooked Bill's breakfast. Don't feel bad Irene. We can't all be good cooks!

Saturday afternoon we visited the Delt House for a snowball fight. After, all went to the Alpha Chi house for bridge and hot coffee.

TAU KAPPA EPSILON
Eight men were initiated into the bonds of Tau Kappa Epsilon Sunday. Included in the initiation ceremonies were Charles Adams, Gerald Haller, Dwyer Lawton, Al Miller, Robert Prestel, Harry Ray Jr., Dalby Shirley and Jack Wyan.

Robert Prestel was chosen by the membership as the outstanding pledge. Bob acquired a 3.4 and participated in frosh football and basketball.

Sunday dinner guests were Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Buhler and Don Konkel.

BETA THETA PI
Two men from Boise, Jack Olson and Jerry Smith, visited the Beta house Monday and Tuesday.

Wednesday evening, Monsignor Harrington visited the Betas. He gave a two-hour talk and answered question about Catholicism.

Thursday evening, the Betas serenaded five houses.

Seventeen Betas went to Portland last weekend to sing in the annual Northwest Beta Songfest. During the songfest the outstanding senior award was won by Flip Kleffner for his work here.

DELTA DELTA DELTA
The Rev. Monsignor Daniel B. Harrington and Roger McPike, were dinner guests Thursday. After dinner the Monsignor led an informal discussion.

Cake and coffee (all you could eat) were served Thursday night, the occasion being our annual "cake feed." Many thanks to the alums who brought all the good home-made cakes. Concluding the fireside, papers on "What Tri Delta Means to Me" were read by Love-Tanner, Carol Solum, La Rae Harrop, Elizabeth DeKlotz, Arleen Zaring and Joan Robison.

Best wishes to Nancy Leek in your part in "Lute Song."

Greg Smith, Reed College at Portland, was a dinner guest Saturday night.

KAPPA KAPPA GAMMA
Once more the Kappa house will settle down to routine, with the Iota Province convention a thing of the past. Approximately 40 delegates from Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana and British Columbia were here over the weekend, with Idaho as the hostess chapter.

Meetings were held Friday and Saturday. The convention was terminated with a formal banquet Saturday evening.

New officers are Kris Winner, president; Nan Soden, vice president; Mary Kay Winner, corresponding secretary; Marilyn North, house manager; Fritz Hoover, recording secretary; Eddie Horseman, social chairman; Judy Crookham, song leader; Karen Hurdstrom, pledge trainer; Karen Lee Krause, scholarship chairman; Norma Borden, treasurer; Gail Torpey, registrar; Louann Olson, rush chairman; Jo Reynolds, deputy; Carolyn Sanderson, marshal; Kay Kreizenbeck, Key correspondent; Flo Carroll, activities chairman; Ann Reading, diary keeper; Jo Dittmer and Janette Rawls, co-historians.

DELTA BETA DELTA
At the monthly chapter meeting Sunday night in our Monday chapter house, election of officers was held. After many long and drawn-out hours of indecision as to what type of voting system would be best, it was suggested by brother Heini that the "Drawing of Straws" method be used. We found it very satisfactory and we hereby suggest that the A.S.U. take note and save their ulcers.

As the chapter has only recently been established, we found it necessary to elect only three officers. (We have only three members.) Our new president is Dutch Dutchman, the secretary-treasurer is Heini Heinrich, and the social chairman is Spade Shovel.

A word of explanation is in order as our fraternity is relatively new to the Idaho campus. We're founded on the time-tested principle of "All for one, and one for one." Our motto is "Cherchez la femme" and our chapter song of the month is "Dim, Dim the Lights and Make Yourself Comfortable, Baby (?)."

After our introductory exchange with the Tau Gammas, social chairman Spade Shovel has promised more and better exchanges in the days to come. Remember, girls, don't call us, we'll call you. Until next time, we leave you with our thought for the day:—"If you girls are as lonely as a park bench in the winter, don't be as cold as the nose of a snowplow."

The Idaho Vandals climbed from the Northern Division cellar this weekend by splitting a pair of thrill-a-minute games with the league's third place team, University of Washington.

Saturday night, Guard John Sullivan dropped in a free throw that climaxed an uphill battle for the Vandals and they turned back the Huskies 80-79. The visitors chalked up an 84-77 win the night before.

Sullivan was sent in with minutes to go when regular Bill Bauscher became the third Vandal to leave the contest on fouls-in: hopes to aid the Vandals in their stall to protect a slender one-point lead.

The stocky guard, carried out that chore but was fouled by Big Dean Parsons, the Huskies' center, and with the score deadlocked at 79 all, slipped the sphere through the hoop for the game winning margin.

All Memorial Gym was in pandemonium over the victory, as at one time the Vandals fell behind by 21 points at the start of the second half after the Huskies took a 55-41 halftime lead.

"The Washington team tired," Vandal coach Harlan Hodges commented after the game. "We were in much better shape. The boys played a magnificent game and the entire group is to be congratulated. That was a long way to come and there is no question in my mind how they did it."

Parsons hurt the Vandal rallies time and time again as he would shove his way to the basket for twisting layins and hooks to score 31 points over the night. Friday he had 24.

Center Jim Sather of Idaho, who had the job of stopping Parsons, came to life in the final 10 minutes and kept the big senior from getting the ball. Sather also scored 21 points to lead the winners, nine of those coming late in the game. His deft hooks kept Idaho in the running in the first half. Lefty Melton had 18, Bill Bauscher 17.

The Idaho team trailed until five minutes were left in the contest, when Bauscher sank a pair of foul shots and Sather hit from behind the key with a long one-hander. That put Idaho into a 76-75 lead, then Bauscher layed a brace of free tosses through followed by Parsons' layup to put Idaho into a 77-78 lead.

Regulars Foul Out
Scrappy Washington guard Jerry Johnson finally store the ball and went the length of the floor for an easy layup but it rolled away and Sather controlled for Idaho. Bauscher committed his fifth personal and Sullivan hustled in. Parsons sank both tosses and the Huskies moved back into the lead 79-78.

Olsen became overanxious in trying to break up the stall and fouled Monson. Monson scored on his first attempt with two minutes left but the second fell short and the visitors raced down the floor and put on a stall of their own, hoping to shake loose one of their "watchcharm guards" or Parsons for a shot in the late seconds.

The Vandals defended so successfully that they called time with 19 seconds to go and conferred with Coach Tippy Dye. With time in, 5-9 Don Sunitsch tried a set shot from about 30 feet out on the left side that bounded out of Parsons' reach on the far side of the court and as he went for the ball he and Sullivan mixed—the result a charging foul on Parsons.

Sullivan's shot attempt the first time was no good, but he expertly slipped the next one through and the Huskies had no chance for a good shot, only a desperation two-hander by Sunitsch and several wild tipin tries.

First Half Spree Gives Huskies Win

The Washington Huskies shot better than 50 per cent the first half Friday to build up a halftime lead that the stubborn Idaho Vandals could not overcome and took an opening night 84-77 victory here.

Paced by 7-foot center Gary Nelson and spunky guard Doyle Perkins, the Huskies built up a 42-31 halftime lead then held on the second half and held the Vandals at bay, most of the time by an eight or ten point lead. Nelson bucketed five for five in the opening half and Perkins scored 11 to lead the assault.

Center Dean Parsons perked up in the second half and carried away the scoring honors with 24 points, followed by Idaho's active forward Jay Buhler, who had 22.

Buhler led a second half streak scoring eight points in the first three minutes to narrow Washington's lead to five points but from that point the Huskies kept pouring the ball through the hoop, not with the same accuracy as they did the first half, but they had more shooting opportunities.

The scrappy Vandals played on even terms with the Washington team throughout the second half but the Husky surge in the first half was too much to comeback against.

Huskies Spurt
Washington ran to a 10-2 lead with five minutes gone after Lefty Melton hit a jumper from the side for the first game scoring. Buhler got a jump shot at the five minute mark but at the end of eight minutes the invaders had stretched their lead to 16-6.

The Vandals began clicking at the nine minute mark and closed the gap to 14-17 and at 13 minutes Bill Bauscher's layup moved the Vandals to 21-23 of Washington.

Washington Coach Tippy Dye ran in his version of a seven-foot ball player—Gary Nelson—and he scored five from the field and gave the Huskies a 23-31 lead with five minutes to go. Idaho began pressing, but the quick Washington club kept firing them through with Nelson and Ron Olson scoring on easy under-basket shots.

Narrow Gap
Buhler's sudden spurt that included a pair of free throws and three jump shot goals within three minutes brought the Vandals to within seven points, 39-46.

The Vandals didn't get closer than eight points the rest of the way until Melton slipped in a leaping hook shot from the left of the key and Bauscher added a pair of foul shots to make it Washington 75-69.

Sophomore swimmer Jack Helle of Idaho set a new meet record Saturday in the breast stroke but his team fell to a mighty Washington State outfit 53-30.

Helle moved the 200 yards in 2 minutes, 48.1 seconds to better the previous mark set in 1950 at 2:54.3.

The Vandal swimmer's top diver, Byron Richards, was ill and unable to compete in the meet but his understudy, Bryant Sather, filled in for first spot in that event for Idaho.

Other firsts taken by the home swimmers included the 150-yard individual medley by Bruce Buckman and Jerry Jones, team co-captain in the 100-yard free style.

Rough And Tumble Series

Jerry Johnson (left) of the University of Washington and Bob Falash of Idaho scramble for a loose ball in Saturday night action in the two teams' final game of the season. The ball was brushed out of bounds and the Vandals took over in the closing half of the Vandals' 80-79 victory. Other Vandals are Lefty Melton (extreme background) and Jim Sather (11).

'No Soap' For Idaho Skiers

Lack of finances and distance of travel will prevent the University of Idaho ski team from competing in the national meet in Vermont this week, Athletic Director Bob Gibb said yesterday.

Gibb explained that the one and only reason is "that we just don't have the money to send them such a long distance."

"We of the Athletic department," Gibb continued, "and I am sure the students feel the same way, are very proud of the boys who did a wonderful job for us in skiing."

"We just can't stretch our limited budget to allow the team to make the trip."

Gibb estimated that to send the five-man team it would cost the University $1,350 and to send the three members of the cross-country team it would take $850.

"We looked at every possibility and made every effort to work it out, but it just wasn't in the cards this year. Maybe next season if the national meet is closer to home, we can send a good sized team."

"It's too bad that we are unable to send them, but we just can't go any further on the other side of the ledger financially."

The ski team won the right to enter the national event which is to be held in Northfield, Vermont, this weekend by capturing first place in the Northern Division meet. It was the first time in Northwest history that a team comprised of only five men, has won the event.

Efforts had been made campus wide to send the team to the meet, but time ran out. Gibb informed that the team would have had to leave Monday night.

Gibb said the Academic Council had not been approached about giving an extension of "time of leave" to the team members, but that he was sure that the council would wave the 12-day-leave-per-season restriction.

Take Five

John B. Hughes
Idaho's skiers won't be going to the National Ski meet this season, and that's final. The University just can't afford to send the team.

A chance to put Idaho on the map, and possibly even give an Idaho skier a chance to tryout for the United States Olympic ski team, has floated down the drain along with the last of the athletic budget for the fiscal year, apparently.

It is a shame that the team won't be sent. It would cost $1,350 roughly, to send the team of five, that competed over most of the season. To send the cross-country men it would be $850 at the least.

One must remember that skiing, in contrast to other sports here, is not a gate-receipt sport, and must rely on the bigger sports such as football for its main existence.

It was rumored that this season even basketball went in the hole. The Athletic department wants as well as this writer and the numerous students to see these hardworking skiers go to a national event.

We have no doubt that they wouldn't turn in a fine performance, probably better than last season's fourth spot nationally. Coach Ron Byers feels he has the best cross-country team in the nation, but he will now have to wait until at least next season to have the chance to prove it.

The squad has one top trip left this season to add to its three jaunts into Canada and one to Washington. They will perform at McCall next week, with expenses and all the works paid for there. A pretty nice vacation and reward for the job this season.

There will be little that one can write or attempt to compensate for the fact they are not being given the chance to represent the state back in Vermont this weekend.

Pardon the old pun—but that's the way the course lies.

WHIT'S FAIL TO SHOW FOR PRELIM
Whitworth Junior Varsity, scheduled to play the Idaho freshman basketball team Saturday night as a preliminary to the Idaho-Washington game, was unable to make the trip from Spokane due to bad weather conditions.

Frosh coach Clem Parberry split up his team and held an intrasquad game. The slated contest was the last on the frosh schedule.

PDT Takes Point Lead

Phi Delta Theta has officially taken over first place in total intramural points according to figures released today by Larry Golding, intramural director. The Phi Deltas hold a 14 point lead over Willis, Sweet Hall who jumped from third to second place.

Two championships in 'A' basketball and bowling pushed the Phi Deltas in front of the pack.

Although they failed to win either of the Independent Leagues Willis Sweet picked up 200 points in 'A' basketball, and coupled with the 160 they got in bowling it was enough to put them into second spot.

The previous leader, Beta Theta Pi dropped down to fourth spot as a result of a dismal showing in bowling.

The biggest gain was made by Tau Kappa Epsilon who jumped from seventh to third place on the strength of the 360 points they gained in 'A' basketball and bowling combined.

Campus Club who were previously in second place dropped all the way down to ninth after a poor showing in 'A' basketball and only a mediocre showing in bowling.

Teams in Running
With six sports remaining to be played, including 'B' basketball and ping-pong, which are now underway, anyone of approximately 12 teams can still cop the overall points total.

Bowling finally wound up last Thursday with Kappa Sigma winning over Phi Gamma Delta by default and Lambda Chi defeating Delta Sigma Phi by the same means.

Low scoring games predominated in Thursday's 'B' basketball (WSC). Connor (WSC), Holz (I). Time—2:26.0.

50-yard free style—Mindheim (WSC), Jones (I), Vasko (I). Time—24.4.

150-yard individual medley—Buckman (I), Raney (WSC), Sanders (WSC). Time—1:50.3.

Diving—Sather (I), Mashburn (WSC). No third.

100-yard free style—Jones, Miller (WSC), Vasko, Time—:57.3.

200-yard back stroke—Davis (WSC), Hungate (WSC), Carlisle (I). Time—2:33.6.

200-yard breast stroke—Helle (I), Rosland (WSC), Raney, Time—2:48.1 (new meet record).
