Here's The Scoop

The Idaho Argonaut first began publishing in the year 1898 and has since expanded to among the leaders nationally in college newspapers. The Argonaut is completely governed and published by the students. It is among the few not connected with university jurisdiction and policy.

The Argonaut in its pages expresses the views of the students and presents the news in a fair and sincere manner to inform the students of the activities and issues which influence their college lives.

Graduation from a four page six by nine inch page to an eight column, 20 inch long page came gradually and this year the paper will be entirely "six-pagers" with special larger editions scheduled throughout the year.

The paper is entirely self supporting, relying on national and local advertising and subscription revenue. Nine paid positions are open each year to students.

Editors of the Argonaut have been referred to as Jason since the organization of the publication. Jason's views do not represent those of the paper, the University or the students in any way, shape or form and are strictly representing those of the editor.

In the spring of 1949 the Argonaut had completed fifty years of continued service to the readers and the story of the Argonaut is one of growth and progress. The paper was born during one war and has lived through two more.

Sixty-six Jasons have filed through these offices and over a thousand students have been an integral part of its publication. The Argonaut is the oldest student publication in continuous service in the Inland Empire.

The Idaho Argonaut will never be stronger or more influential than its staff. Our desires are to have this campus well represented by its students from all groups.

We sincerely hope you will find the Argonaut challenging reading and entertaining.

Spring Graduate Killed In Accident

Wally Kenny, a spring graduate was killed in an auto accident August 18. Kenny was on his way to accept a teaching position in Las Vegas when his car hit a shoulder eight miles outside of Idaho Falls on the Arco highway.

Before he enrolled at the University Kenny attended school at Idaho Falls. He was a four year member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity, rush chairman for several years and held the office of secretary in the IFC. In Alpha Phi Omega, an honor group in Scouting, he held the office of president, and was also a member of Phi Delta Kappa, education honorary and Intercollegiate Knights. Kenny received a degree in education from Idaho in June of this year. He was born October 21, 1933, in Idaho Falls where he lived until his death.

Frosh-Eye View Of 'Getting In' At Idaho

By AL PARKINS

Just think, only 1399 other freshmen went through this registration mess like you, all at the same time and the same day.

Pity the poor frosh or new student going through this for the first time!

First off there are welcoming speeches by everyone on the campus but the head janitor! This is just a build up to those darn guidance tests. At 8 o'clock in the morning mind you!

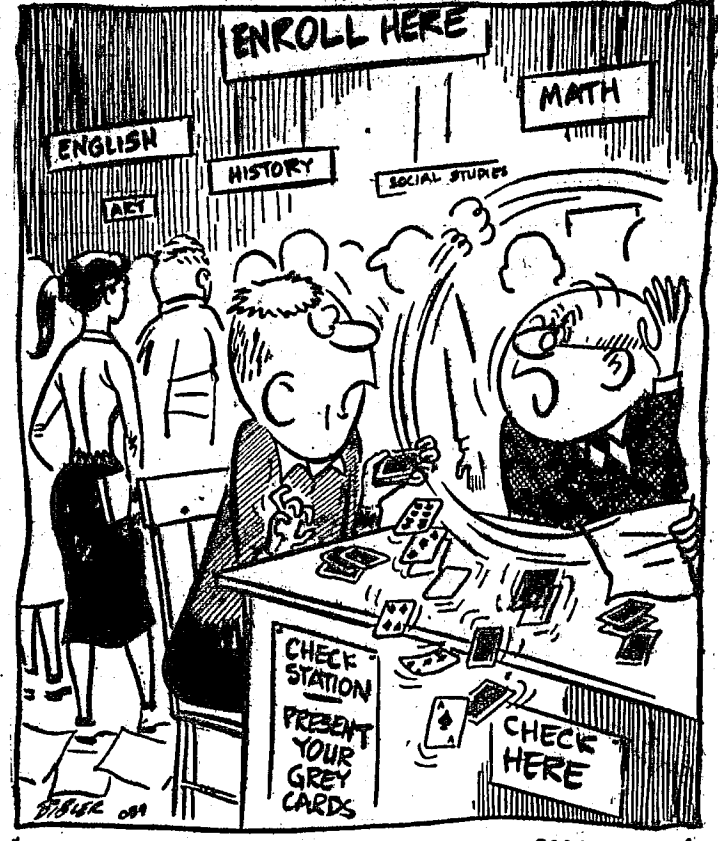

Then they give you a sheet of paper with a whole list of professor's names on it to run around and see. If this isn't enough, they also want you to try to make out a trial schedule. What do they want, blood?

Now comes the best part, trying to work out a schedule with your advisor. "But I don't want a class at 8 in the morning." "Nonsense, it will do you good, think of all that fresh air," so it goes between you and the prof. After you get your advisor and dean's signature on it you figure the roughest part is over but oh how little you know!

For ahead of you lies one of the most exciting adventures in your campus life, registration.

First stop is at the library, there's two hours shot, next is some classroom building, another hour, and finally it's all over after being herded through the gym.

J.J. on Jazz

This being the first edition of the Idaho Argonaut for the year and also the first edition for the freshmen and new students, I thought that instead of following my usual course of explaining something about individual jazz artists, I would this first issue, explain to you what I am attempting to put in print.

This being the first edition of the Idaho Argonaut for the year and also the first edition for the freshmen and new students, I thought that instead of following my usual course of explaining something about individual jazz artists, I would this first issue, explain to you what I am attempting to put in print.

My primary reason is to increase the interest of the students toward jazz. I feel that by reading the column, everyone will get to know the individuals whom they hear every day (on the jazz programs that is) and with this personal understanding, learn to enjoy and appreciate jazz for what it is.

Secondly, the question comes up "just what is jazz?" The term itself can be confusing because to some people "ELVIS" is singing and playing jazz. I personally don't consider this commercialized form of "rock and roll" as being jazz, and I will explain this in detail in a later issue.

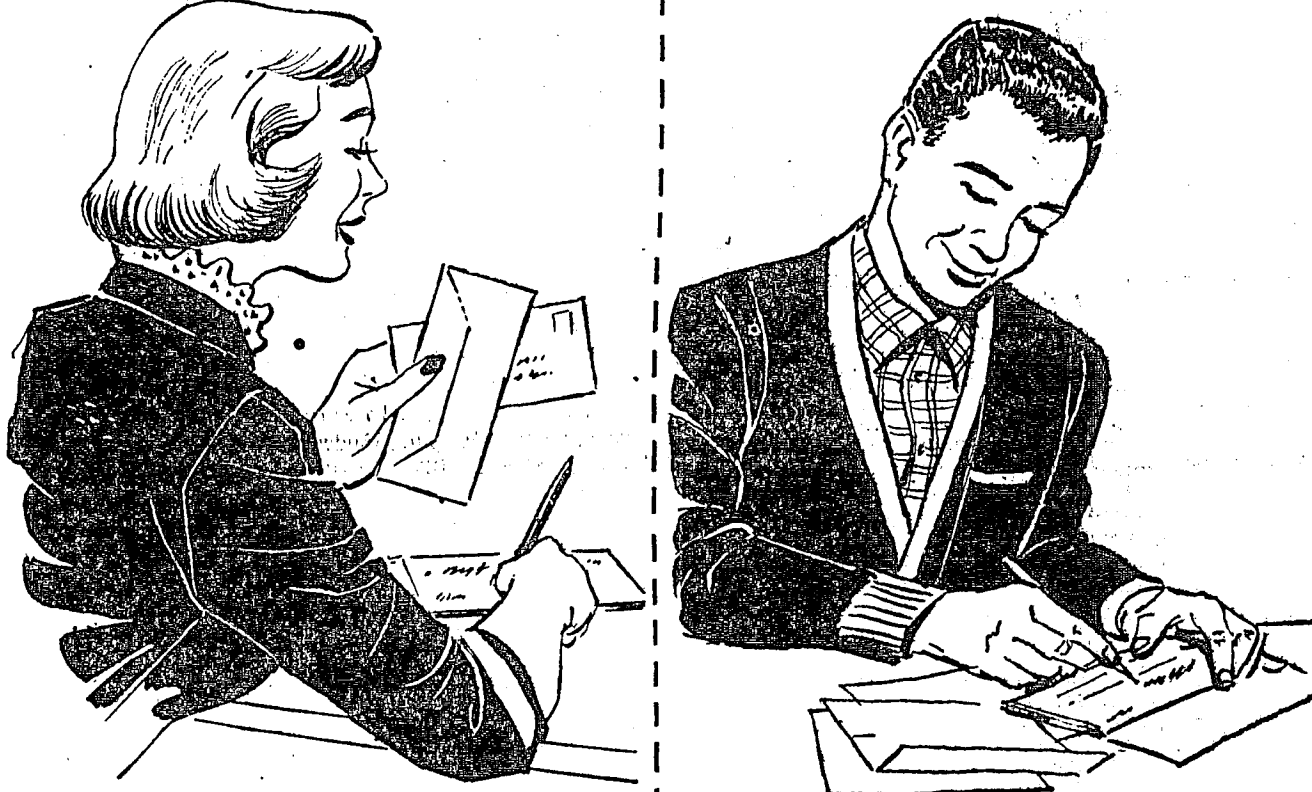

But after reading a few of my articles I hope that you will see what I consider (and I am sure I don't stand alone in this) as being jazz.

It is going to be difficult for me to try to put into words in black and white, just what jazz means and is, but I hope that after a year (and I do hope you will stick with me) you will have some idea of what I mean. But please remember that I as well as you am learning new ideas as I go along.

I would like to finish by saying that the interest in jazz here at Idaho is greater than many schools where I have, in various ways, heard about, or come in contact with. The radio stations in this area have helped tremendously to promote this primary goal of mine—interest in jazz.

Hello to all new students and let's hope that through the years, we may both learn more and come to appreciate jazz to a greater extent.

Week Began
The week began with the Presi- dent's Convocation, a welcoming address by President D. R. Theophilus Sunday afternoon.

In his first address to the new- comers, President D. R. Theophilus stressed straight thinking, and said that it is based upon:
1. Being well informed.
2. Knowing both or all sides of a question.
3. Having trustworthy sources of information.
4. Judgment.

"It is appropriate that the first meeting of the Class of 1960 be on the Sabbath," the president said. "This is the start of a journey . . . a journey unequalled in the world . . . Usually at the start of a journey or trip we have some few words of counsel or guidance, and on this journey of yours, which starts today, the implications relating to the Sabbath can also be in- corporated in the guide posts for following the right road."
Under Mandate
Theophilus pointed out that the university is under constitutional mandate to keep itself entirely free from sectarian religion. But he added that "these requirements have never been interpreted by the regents to minimize the university's responsibility to stimulate its students to be receptive to and appreciative of the moral and spiritual issues of life."
"We live in a scientific world. We use scientific and technological developments to reduce back-breaking labor, to gain shorter working hours and higher pay, to raise our living standards, and—yes—to protect us from aggression. However, it is not sufficient for us to possess skills and techniques, to have a mastery of technology, and yet be unaware of the basic moral concepts which make life worth living. Skill without direction, ingenuity without intelligence, talent without integrity, will only lead to chaos."
University heads were introduced to the students Monday morning at an assembly MC'd by student body president, Dick Weeks.

Publications Offer Many Positions To Be Filled

The publication field is wide open!! Opportunities for all students on the University's four publications, the Idaho Argonaut, Gem of the Mountains year book, KUOI radio station, and the student Handbook. Here's a short rundown:

The Arg is published twice weekly by the ASUI and from its three offices on the first floor of the SUB comes a complete coverage of campus activities, social . . . sports . . . features . . . and general activities.

Positions on this paper are available in reporting, sports, womens page and editing staff.

If you are interested in being a part of the official campus voice, contact Don Ingle, personnel director any afternoon at the Arg office.

Work on the Argonaut takes place every day, but reporters provide the polishing touch each Monday and Thursday.

The Gem is edited by Louise Tatko, a senior who has worked up through the ranks. This is a yearly publication and is financed and edited by the ASUI. There are openings in the organization, sports, administration, living group, social, photography and class staffs. The offices are on the third floor of the SUB.

KUOI offers persons interested in all phases of radio to get practical experience in the field from continuity writing, announcing, engineering, sportscasting, news and special events broadcasting. Bill Vermillion is station manager.

The station is in operation on weekdays from ten in the morning until 11 at night. The station is popular with the students and carries request programs, quizzes and remote broadcast of various events around the campus.

The well-equipped studios are located next to the Gem offices. New students have been thumbing through the pages of the Student Handbook this past week and little explanation need be given as to its organization. The Handbook is published yearly by the ASUI as a guide to new students. Audrey Montgomery edited the 1956 edition. Several staff openings occur each year.

National Scholastic Honoraries Listed To Acquaint Fresh

Alpha Lambda Delta and Phi Eta Sigma are national scholastic honoraries for freshman women and men, organized to encourage good scholarship among college students. To be tapped for the groups, freshmen must attain a grade point of 3.5 or above.

Alpha Lambda Delta gives a tea for all freshmen women who have achieved a 3.0 or above in the first nine weeks grade reports.

High point of the year comes in the spring with tapping, pledging and initiation and the initiation breakfast. Tapping is done second semester for those who attain the required grades first semester. Girls who achieve a 3.5 accumulative for both semesters are tapped in the fall of their sophomore year.

Alpha Lambda Deltas who maintain a 3.5 accumulative for all four years receive senior awards at the May Fete. A book award is given to the senior girl with the highest grade point.

Phi Eta Sigma, freshman men's honorary, taps new members after first semester grades are released. An initiation banquet highlights the year for members.

1956 Handbook Published By New Offset Process

The 1956 Student Handbook, an annual ASUI publication, was printed this year for the new students by a lithograph-offset process.

Audrey Montgomery, editor, said this new process allowed the handbook committee to use more pictures. She said the picture quality was also improved.

The handbook includes information on activities and organizations, student services, university regulations, new student days and orientation and other helpful facts for freshmen and new students.

Miss Montgomery was assisted by Virginia Ward, artist; and Mollie Godbold, Dale Evans, Charleen Roth, Sharroll Bartlet and Jo Carol Bickett, members of Theta Sigma Phi, women's journalism honorary.

Four Parties Make Politics Many-Sided

Speechmaking and politicking that characterize Idaho's twice-a-year elections furnish an indication of the power and importance of the four political parties active on campus.

Each semester—once in October and once in April—these four parties, each representing different views on student government, square off for some slam-bang electioneering.

The four parties are the United party, composed of fraternity and sorority members; the Independent party, made up of men and women from the independent halls; the Student Government party, whose membership is composed of both Greeks and Independents; and the Campus Coalition, formed last spring by students who splintered from the United party. Each party nominates a slate of candidates for the October class election and the ASUI General Election held in April.

Four officers from each class are elected following stiff campaigning by all parties. These officers serve a one year term.

Spring General Elections pit candidates for ASUI president and nine Executive Board members, who govern the entire ASUI as well as serving as a nucleus for all committees and campus activities. The ASUI vice president is elected from the membership of the newly-selected Board by the new members.

Prior to both elections candidates visit all living groups, introducing themselves and making the positions of both their party and themselves clear on the important issues.

Staff Parking Rules Revised

In a move to ease the critical parking situation on the campus Dean C. O. Decker announced through the Operations Council that it has become necessary to revise parking rules to assure that staff members have places to park.

Also, to save staff members the trouble of obtaining a new decal each year, permits will be issued on a permanent rather than on a one-year basis.

Staff parking decals were issued in two categories:

1. To all full-time male staff members in teaching, research, administrative and service capacities, and to all full-time women teachers. These permits will allow the staff member to park in any of the restricted areas.
2. To all full-time women staff members not on a teaching basis.

Staff members in this category will be issued permits which will allow them to park only in that reserved parking area most convenient to the building where they work.

Decals were not issued to graduate students who are on teaching fellowships or research assistants.

"Whenever a customer complains to me about the price of gasoline, I call my wife.

You pay 205% more to build a house today than you did in 1936. 220% more for a low-price 2-door sedan. 125% more for a suit of clothes. 325% more for a pound of sirloin steak.

"Yet if you leave out the tax, Union's premium gasoline has gone up only 70% in that same time. Fact is, the tax has gone up more than the gasoline—100%! And two gallons of Union's new Royal 76 will do the work of three gallons of our old product.

In 1956 it costs Union Oil 250% more than it did in 1936 to build the kind of service station Charles and Myrtle Santman operate in La Canada, California.

Yet in spite of continually rising costs like this we have been able to keep prices down, while constantly expanding our service and improving our product.

Idaho Faculty Turnover Heavy For New Year

A new head of the University of Idaho's animal husbandry department was among the appointments announced today by President D. R. Theophilus, following regents' approval.

Dr. T. Donald Bell, a professor on the staff of Kansas State college since 1950, was appointed head of the department of animal husbandry, professor and animal husbandman, replacing Dr. Carl Sierk, who resigned to do federal government work.

Bell, who will join the Idaho staff at the start of the second semester, is a native of Hagerman, and holds both bachelor and master's degrees from the University of Idaho. He received his Ph.D. from the University of Wisconsin. He has also taught at New Mexico A&M, Texas A&M and Utah State Agricultural college.

Other appointments include: LeRoy O. Bauer, associate professor of music, who has been on the faculty of Nebraska State Teachers college at Kearney, holds a B. S. degree from the University of Wisconsin and an M. M. from Northwestern university, and has been a member of Milwaukee, Cleveland and Philadelphia orchestras; Virgil Scharer, associate professor of economics, who taught at the University of Idaho in 1947-48, has his A. B. from DePauw university and M. A. from the University of Illinois, and returns to teaching from the position of cost accountant, U. S. Steel Homes, Inc., New Albany, Ind.

From Michigan
Dr. Edward J. Furst, acting associate professor of psychology, coming from the faculty of the University of Michigan, and holding three degrees from the University of Chicago; Allen W. Betts, assistant professor of industrial arts education, who has been on the staff of Public Buildings Service, Washington, D.C., since 1951, and has his B. S. degree from the University of Maryland and M. A. from Colorado College of Education.

John P. Howe, assistant professor of wood utilization, holding an A. B. from Amherst college and an M. S. from Yale, and leaving the position of head of the development program, P. H. Chadbourne & Company, Bethel, Me.; Paul E. Johnston, assistant professor of political science, holder of a B. S. degree from the University of Oregon and an M. A. from the University of Colorado, who taught for many years in Idaho schools and is also widely known as a former Caldwell insurance agent.

Lyle H. McEiff, assistant professor of accounting, who comes from the faculty of Brigham Young university, and has a B. S. degree from that institution as well as an M. B. A. from the University of Texas; Dr. Edmund E. Tylutki, assistant professor of botany, coming from the faculty of Washington State college with B. S. and M. S. degrees from the University of Illinois and his doctorate from Michigan State university.

Prof Returns
Anthony E. Labarre, assistant professor of mathematics, who has bachelor and master's degrees from Tulane university, formerly taught at the University of Idaho, 1948-50, and in recent years has been teaching at the University of Wyoming; Paul O. Groke, assistant professor of business administration and economics, who has a B. A. and M. B. A. from the University of Washington, has taught at Yale and the University of Arizona, and recently has been on the staff of a bank in Dallas, Tex.

Dossie W. Works, assistant agricultural engineer, an Oregon State college graduate, who has been with the Benton Rural Electronic association, Prosser, Wash.; Dr. Philip A. Buscemi, instructor in zoology, who has been on the faculty of the University of Colorado, and holds three degrees from that institution.

Robert C. Dougherty, instructor in electrical and mechanical engineering, a University of Idaho graduate, who has just completed three years of Naval service as an electronics officer; Donald C. Weiskopf, instructor in physical education, who has been teaching at the University of Illinois where he earned B. S. and M. S. degrees and is a former baseball pitcher with the Oklahoma City Indians; Robert W. Holder, acting instructor in chemistry, a University of Idaho graduate and former football star who has been a quality control analyst for a meat packing firm in Waterloo, Iowa.

Leonard E. Kavula, acting instructor in chemistry, a chemist from Decatur, Ill., and a graduate of Loyola university in Chicago; Donald E. Walker, staff editor in the publications department, a graduate of Seattle university who has served on the editorial staffs of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer and the Wenatchee World.

14 Resign
Resignations accepted by the regents included those of James C. Boyd, associate professor of dairy husbandry; Victor I. Myers, associate professor of agricultural engineering and irrigationist; Chester L. Canode, assistant professor of agronomy; Malcolm R. Jolie, assistant professor of zoology; George R. Russell, assistant professor of civil engineering; Richard J. Smith, assistant professor of physical education; Joe W. Wray, assistant professor of mathematics; Dr. Claude B. ## Math Professor Plans Research Involving Statistics

An entirely new approach to the classic problem of statistical estimation will be made by Kenneth A. Bush, professor and head of the department of mathematics at the University of Idaho, the university announced today.

The research project has been approved by the National Science foundation that fosters aid to scholars in two kinds of research as a means of stimulating basic and applied research in areas of national defense. The primary function of the basic research project to be undertaken by Professor Bush is finding new ways of estimating unknown values.

The go-ahead signal for the project, which will cover two summers of work by Bush, was received from Dr. Leon Cohen, director of the mathematics section of the foundation.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE.

A Permanency Persists In A Transient Life

The University of Idaho is in many respects a school of tradition. Most of the activities that occur during the year were originated years ago and have become an integral of life at Idaho.

Leading off the year is Homecoming, set this year for October 13. Serpentine, fireworks and a pep rally start off the excitement Friday evening. The following morning, a parade of floats constructed by campus living groups and organizations moves through Moscow to the University campus. In the afternoon the Idaho Vandals meet the Arizona State Sun Devils at Neale Stadium. Half-time ceremonies include naming of the Homecoming Queen and announcement of the winning floats.

Dad really rates at Idaho on traditional Dad's Day, which features a football game and a beard growing contest in which all male students participate. Most novel, longest and thickest growths collect prizes.

Prior to the Christmas holidays sophomores sponsor their time-honored Holly Week which is climaxed by the Holly Dance and crowning of the Holly Queen. Freshmen have a week all their own in the spring which includes a frost dance and tug-of-war over Paradise Creek.

Hats Off To Mom

But Mom isn't forgotten either. Spring brings the elaborate, colorful May Fete, renowned for its pageantry and beauty. Honorary societies tap their chosen few Saturday, the May Queen is named and Mother's Day is observed with a song fest in which all living groups compete.

A junior-senior ball in the spring winds up the dance season as students prepare for graduation early in June.

A part of each of these events are the symbols of the University of Idaho, the Alma Mater. "Here We Have Idaho" and the school colors, silver and gold.

3rd Party Has Majority This Year

A cross campus political party placed four of nine students on the ASUI Executive Board as well as the President of the student body in elections held last spring.

The Executive Board is the legislative body in Idaho Student Government. It has the power to appoint committees, make policies, and sponsor student activities. The ASUI President is chairman of the Executive Board and insures that all actions of the board are enforced.

The Student Government Party, organized as a cross campus party two years ago, staged an intensified campaign with a strong platform which resulted in the election of their candidate for ASUI President, Dick Weeks, and four Executive Board members.

Three students were elected who ran on the United Party ticket and two were elected from the ticket sponsored by the Independent Party.

Weeks, a perennially successful candidate in campus elections, worked up to the presidency by being president of the sophomore and junior Classes, president of Intercollegiate Knights, and a member of several ASUI committees. The Law student from Boise is a strong advocate for new and improved methods of gaining student opinion and student participation in Student Government.

Burrow Is Veep

Vice-president of the Executive Board is Fred Burrow, also of the Student Government party, who gained his experience in student government by participating as chairman of Student Events Council, Homecoming Dance Committee, and Traffic Safety Committee. Burrow is from Colorado Springs, Colorado, and is majoring in Extractive Industries.

Lon Davis, a cross campus politician, from Meridian was elected secretary by the members of the Executive Board. Davis, a Law major, worked in student activities as Chairman of the Student Union Committee and Religious Emphasis Week and is in several scholastic honoraries.

The other two members of the board from the Student Government party are Roger Tovey and John Hoch. Tovey was vice-president of his Freshman class, worked on Student Recruitment, Dad's Day, Homecoming and Campus Chest committees. Hoch is a Mechanical Engineer from Ashton who has worked on the Homecoming and Dad's Day committees, and on the KUOI radio station staff. Tovey is an education major hailing from Malad.

First candidate elected from the Independent ticket was Bob Schreiber, a guidance major from Gooding, who has been Chairman of the Recruitment and New Student Days committees as well as president of Lindley Hall and Wesley Foundation.

Another Independent candidate elected was Dick Rhoads from Culver, Oregon, a major in Business Education. Rhoads, a vice-president of his party, has worked on Dad's Day, Homecoming and Blood Drive committees and on the Election Board.

Two Women Members

The two women on the Executive Board come from the United Party. Carolyn Sanderson Staley has worked on the Student Activities Council, Student Recruitment, Rally and Halftime committees. She is a Gem section editor and a Spur. She is a physical education major from Boise. Jane Remsburg has a long list of activities including SUB committee chairman, Spurs, Theta Sigma Phi President, Handbook editor, and Social Coordination Council. She is from Rupert and majoring in English.

Another student from Boise on the board is a junior, Dave Maxey, who is majoring in Business. Maxey has been chairman of Homecoming registration, Holly Week Publicity, and on the Student Recruitment committee.

An attendant in a mental home was making his evening rounds when he came upon one of the patients industriously fishing in a wash basin with rod and line.

Wishing to humor the man, the attendant asked him if he had caught anything.

Vandaleers Need Members; Plan Annual Concerts, Tour

Auditions for membership in the Vandaleers, well known University Choral group, are now being held in Room 301 of the Music Building.

Auditions started Wednesday and will continue today from 3 to 5 p.m. and 7-9 p.m. and Saturday from 10-12 a.m.

The Vandaleers present annual spring and Christmas concerts and go on a full week concert tour in the State of Idaho. This year the tour will be in the South Central section of the state.

Requirements to get into the group are to have the talent and ability to sing. The group is open to all students and not just music majors.

Dr. Jolley To Meet Pre-med Students

All students planning to apply for admission to medical or dental school for classes convening in September, 1957, are invited to a meeting at 7 p.m. Tuesday, September 25, in room 27, Science Hall. Dr. J. Irvin Jolley, professor of chemistry and adviser to pre-med and pre-dent students, will explain procedures for applying for admission to medical and dental schools. Dr. Jolley urged all students who are not majoring in pre-med or pre-dent but plan to enter these fields to attend the meeting.

Ever Expanding Sub Serves Many Purposes

The present Student Union Building includes space and facilities designed to meet the recreational and other needs of both a greatly expanded student body and the many organizations and groups throughout the state who use the building and its facilities for numerous conventions and meetings.

Truly the center of campus activities, the Student Union stands today as the students' "Home away from home"—informal, friendly, a place to see old friends and meet new ones.

The central core of the Student Union Building, better known as the "SUB," is in the "Bucket" or cafeteria, where students meet to have coffee or soft drinks and generally, just to "socialize." This summer construction has been underway on the new addition to the "Bucket" which will greatly enhance the number of students that will be accommodated, and add to the beauty of the campus "coffee-spot."

Another popular place is the "Dipper," located on the second floor of the SUB, which is a lively place, particularly on the weekends, where students dance, or talk over the "world situation," or just relax.

In the basement of the SUB is the game room, which provides eight bowling alleys, six pool tables and a shuffle board. The bowling alleys are used in the daytime for physical education classes.

On the main floor is the Student Book Store which offers students any school material that they need for their work. Also on the main floor, are three private dining rooms, the Student Union Manager's office, and ASUI President's office. The University's newspaper, the Argonaut, is located in the back of the SUB in the northwest corner. In the same area is the Town Men's room and the lounge, which has a television set and a radio-phonograph console.

The second floor of the SUB includes three large ballrooms, the Borah room, where ASUI movies are held, a lounge, and the "Dipper."

The third floor has three conference rooms, a reading room, women's lounge, dark room, ASUI Executive Board room, Associated Women Students' Office, KUOI—the campus radio station, the Gem office—the campus yearbook office, and the poster room.

The Student Union, therefore, serves many purposes for the students of the University of Idaho, and is greatly appreciated by all who are able to use its many facilities.

Lawyer (for traffic accident victim): "Gentlemen of the jury, the driver of the car stated that he was going only four miles an hour. Think of it! The long agony of my poor, unfortunate client, the victim, as the car drove slowly over his body."

"Did anyone ever tell you that you have beautiful eyes?"

"Not when they were looking where you are."

Entomologist Takes Special Consultant Duties In Ecuador

The University of Idaho's extension entomologist, Roland W. Portman, will go to Ecuador for three months, September through November, as a special consultant in the university's technical assistance program in that country.

The announcement was made by Dean J. E. Kraus of the Idaho College of Agriculture.

Portman will be stationed at the University of Quito. There, in collaboration with an entomologist from that institution, he will assist in the development of a laboratory for teaching and research and will also help in setting up a course of study in the entomological field.

Portman also will assist the college of agriculture at Quito in the collection and identification of harmful and beneficial insects in the cropping areas of Ecuador.

Ecuadorians Arrive

Two agricultural staff members from the University of Quito, Ecuador, have arrived at the University of Idaho for a year of special study. They are Guillermo A. Albornoz, professor of plant genetics, and Claudio G. Luzuriaga,

Study Shows New Voters Uninterested

Only two out of five college students eligible to vote for the first time in the coming presidential election, plan to do so, a survey of 1300 students at 24 colleges revealed today.

The survey, reported in Look Magazine, disclosed that 24 per cent of the students queried had professor of plant physiology and soils.

"They are here under our cooperative program with the Ecuadorian government," explain Dean J. E. Kraus of the Idaho College of Agriculture. Under this agreement the University of Idaho not only provides technical assistance in agriculture in Ecuador but gives advanced training to selected staff members.

Dean Kraus reports that two more agricultural staff members from Ecuador will come to the campus later this fall, bringing to four the number that will be studying at the campus this year under the foreign aid program.

Dr. Julio Pena, who was at the university the past year learning methods in soils technology, has returned to his homeland. Dr. Pena's son, however, is remaining in Moscow to continue his studies at the university.

not made up their minds toward which party they leaned, while "a shattering 34 per cent of the test group indicated zero interest in who should be or would be our next vice president."

Also noting that three out of ten students interviewed had no idea whom they favored for the presidency, Eugene Gilbert, president of the Gilbert Youth Research organization, declared:

"The sobering fact of the matter is that a very large number of our young voters plainly don't care one way or another about the coming presidential election, or are so confused that it amounts to the same thing."

Students Not Informed

The survey in Look also came up with these findings:

Most first voters—71 per cent—admitted that their choice of a candidate would be "strongly influenced" by the candidate's personality and appearance.

The students' views were "nebulous" on the political effectiveness of television and radio—22 per cent of them were "completely in the dark" as to whether television and radio influenced them or not.

When queried on their chief complaint about the Democratic and Republican parties, almost 50 per cent of the students "found this too remote or complicated, or plain political" to express an opinion.

Thirty-eight per cent of those polled, didn't seem to know, or care, what there was to admire about either the Democrats or Republicans.

Raf: "I went out with a girl last night who really had something."

3rd: "So?"

Raf: "I think I've got it."

Cooperation Good In Buying Books

"Students, on the whole, are cooperating very nicely," according to Chester Kerr, manager of the Student Union book store in re-releasing text books for the ensuing semester.

A similar process from previous years is being used to handle all. Kerr stated, "Books have gone up slightly, but so has the price of everything else."
