

Eisenhower Declines March Borah Bid

By JIM FLANIGAN
President Dwight Eisenhower turned down an Idaho invitation Monday to be the principal speaker at the annual Borah Peace Conference slated for March 18-19 on the University campus.

The invitation was extended by two slates of 16 candidates each have been chosen by campus political groups and are now making living group tours, as they prepare for the campus class elections only a week away.

For the first time, the "politicians" involved in the scramble for jobs which mean little but prestige and possible future vote getting power in ASUI elections, appear to have done some serious thinking on how to make the positions something more than just mere titles.

Both the United Party and Independent caucus have come up with ideas which we feel at least show that they are thinking. It appears they are trying to make the fall elections something more than just ordinary popularity polls.

The Independents have come up with proposals which would give the officers of each class more duties. Their suggestions include setting up entirely new projects which would be under the direction of the officers of the different classes.

The Greeks, on the other hand, point out that they will ask class officers to attend Exec Board meetings with the objective of giving them a better chance to work more closely on the functions of which they have charge.

We think this presents a new and interesting look at class elections.

At present, except for the seniors, a class office seems to be just an opportunity for a student to present his name with the hope that it will help when he makes an effort to make a big splash in the ASUI elections.

The proposals presented by the two parties are certainly a step forward, and will give aspiring politicians an opportunity to prove themselves for later aspirations.

Departments Need Money For Musical

Idaho's music and dramatics departments are awaiting approval of the ASUI in order to produce a spring musical comedy, "Kiss Me, Kate."

Gale Mix, ASUI general manager, said today the Executive Board must approve the two department's request for $997.50 in order for them to produce the show Feb. 27, 28, and March 1.

A special presentation general budget covering the request and an income budget of $1000, would involve charging all Idaho students 35 cents for reserved seats, University faculty and high school students 60 cents, and other adults $1, he explained.

"This production should pay off, so it would be no expense to the ASUI above the revenue taken in by the show," Mix said. He pointed out the success of "Finian's Rainbow" two years ago.

"Over a period of years, the music department and dramatics have cooperated in productions of musical shows," Jean Collette, dramatics professor told the Exec Board in a written request for appropriations.

"These (musicals) have always proved very popular with students and residents of the area," she continued.

PINSETTERS NEEDED
Pinsetters are urgently needed for the bowling alley in the SUB game room. Manager Earl Hall said yesterday. Anyone interested should contact the game room desk immediately, he said.

the Borah committee head, R. E. Hosack, who is chairman of social science here, and Dean Boyd Martin, a committee member.

In a letter to the Idaho men, Mr. Eisenhower said, "Thank you for the invitation extended to me on behalf of the Borah committee of the University of Idaho to address the Borah conference in March. Your conference comes at a particularly busy season for me, and I know, from experience, that I could not possibly devote the time to the preparation of the speech that I would consider adequate for the occasion. I must regretfully decline your cordial invitation."

Kampus Key Available Soon For Students

ASUI structure and special telephone number pages of the Idaho student-faculty directory, are being prepared by Blue Key members this week Jack Cole, president, said today.

Cole indicated the directory was in its final stages and would be released to students soon.

Blue Key members will meet Wednesday at 12:30 in the SUB mezzanine to select a delegate to the regional convention on the Fresno State College campus Nov. 14-16.

The directory, called the Kampus Key, contains the names, home and campus addresses, majors, class, and phone numbers of all students. It also has the names, addresses, and phone numbers of all university faculty and administrative personnel.

The mimeograph publication is sold to college students through living group representatives.

Fleming Urges 'Flu' Vaccine Inoculations

University Physician Dr. J. M. Fleming Monday urged students to be inoculated for Asiatic influenza to stave off any further outbreaks of the disease on the Idaho campus.

Fleming said vaccine was still available at the campus hospital.

"Some students," he said, "are not taking the shots in the mistaken belief that they have already had Asiatic flu simply because they suffered a bad cold."

Fleming's warning came simultaneously with a report that the number of influenza cases at the Infirmary had dropped off again this week.

"SUII Advisable"
"Precautionary measures, however, are still advisable," said Fleming.

The total was down to 29 Monday morning, following a slight upsurge last week. Three women who had been patients at temporary hospital facilities in Forney hall were dismissed Saturday.

The Willis Sweet men's hospital was dismantled Thursday.

ASUI Movie Slate Includes Showing Of 'Caine Mutiny'

"The Caine Mutiny" is on the ASUI movie slate for Thursday in the Borah theater, Betty Bovey, Gamma Phi, Idaho flick chairman, said today.

"Because of the length of the film, only two showings of the movie are possible—one at 3:30 p.m. and the other at 7," she explained.

Humphrey Bogart portrays the psychologically unbalanced Captain Queeg in the 125 minute colored film. Co-stars include Jose Ferrer and Van Johnson.

Students will be admitted to the Borah theater for 35 cents admission.

the famed Senator's election to the U.S. Senate.

Sen. Frank Church urged Ike to attend the annual affair in mid-March, but the President's letter arrived in yesterday's morning mail with his final decision.

In a letter to the President, Sen. Church wrote the chief executive, "This invitation is particularly timely in view of the fact that Idaho is now preparing to celebrate the semi-centennial anniversary of Sen. Borah's first election to the Senate."

Plans Series
Dean Martin explained that the invitation to the President was made after the Borah committee learned the chief executive planned a number of appearances throughout the nation to discuss the world situation with the general public.

Each year delegates to the Borah conference discuss the "Causes of War and Condition of Peace."

In recognition of the semi-centennial celebration of Idaho's Sen. Borah, a state-wide program is being planned for 1958. It is headed by Secretary of State James Young.

3-Act Comedy
Listed 'Success'
Despite Setback

By Jim Flanigan
"Ring Around the Moon" was listed as a "success" both Friday and Saturday night, after the 3-act comedy was presented as the first ASUI dramatics production of the fall season.

Director Jean Collette's plans suffered a setback when the show was re-scheduled several weeks ago because of a flu epidemic among her cast. The company resumed rehearsals several days after the cancellation.

Edgar Vandevort turned in a successful performance as the lead, Hugo, and his brother, Frederic. A double for Vandevort, who was only seen in the background and never appeared directly within the audience's view, helped add sparkle to the French comedy.

As leading lady, Diane Kail gave the show its only real-to-life character. Her mother, portrayed by Mary Margaret Broderston, drew the most laughs, however, as the overstuffing woman who desired everything for her child.

Rose Marie Perrin, who played Hugo and Frederic's aunt, is the wise old woman who solves the entire plot of "Ring" and mends a number of broken hearts—including Miss Kail's.

After the last curtain, both crew and cast set to work striking the set. As the hour hand reached 1 a.m. the entire auditorium stage was entirely bare.

Other meetings and parts of the prevention program will take place this week with the two school's executive bodies meeting for an exchange banquet Thursday night.

Also the ASUI Exec Board will be presented a plan to purchase a 26-inch trophy to be presented the game winner at the end of the traditional "Walkathon." The WSC Board of Control approved payment of half of the $68 trophy last week.

Dingel said he would talk to the house presidents and tell them all the work that he has done to prevent a recurrence of student riots after the Idaho-WSC football game.

"We can make all kinds of plans to prevent a riot from being started," Dingel said, "But we will never really know if any of our efforts will be successful until about five minutes after the game is over."

In addition to the meeting with house presidents, Dingel said his committee expects the presidents to read the information to their students. Also committee members will visit each living group to answer further questions and explain the work that has been done on both campuses to prevent student fighting.

The Idaho Exec Board will host 20 members of the WSC Board of Control at a traditional pre-game banquet Thursday night at 6 p.m. in the North Ballroom of the SUB.

ASUI president Dave Maxey said the groups would get to know each other by exchanging ideas and discussing common problems.

Dingel will present the "Idaho-WSC Walkathon" trophy plan to the Board tonight with a possible suggestion for a name as the "Battle of the Palouse."

The trophy will be presented to the winning school each year by the losing student body after the traditional nine-mile walk.

Fifth-quarter committees were established last fall after a meeting of Idaho President D. R. Theophilus and WSC President C. Clement French when they issued a statement that the 53-year-old traditional game would not be played in the future if "fifth-quarter activity" occurs this year.

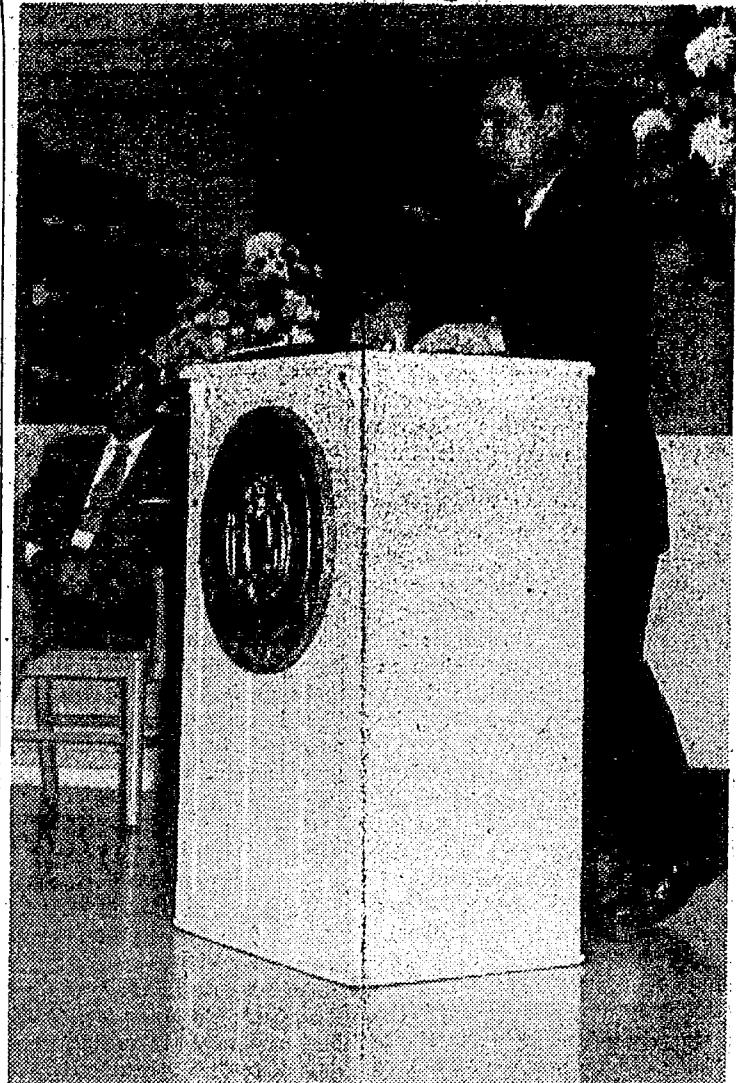

The rioting started three years ago at WSC when Idaho defeated the WSC Cougars for the first time in 29 years.

IRC PRESENTS PANEL
International Relations Club will present a panel discussion on "The Sputter About Sputnik," Nov. 14. The panel will include Dr. B. C. Boring, Dr. R. E. Hosack, Dr. E. C. Moore, and Professor Ward Crowley.

The meeting will be held in conference room B of the SUB at 4 p.m.

SMYLIE LAUDS GLASS DOMAIN

Dedicatory Speaker

Link In Long-Range Building Program Dedicated To Intellectual Development

Idaho Gov. Robert E. Smylie Saturday dedicated the University of Idaho's new $1.5 million library to the intellectual growth of those who will study and do research here, and forged another link in the school's long-range building program.

Smylie made the remarks in the principal address of a 30-minute dedication ceremony in the lobby of the four-story building, which was begun 18 months ago. About 200 officials, faculty members and students attended the official opening.

The Idaho chief executive's remarks rounded a whirlwind two days at Moscow, where he met with campus Young Republicans, conferred with President D. R. Theophilus, and watched an Idaho-Montana football game.

In his dedicatory address, Smylie said there had been "many attempts to get appropriations to build such a library," all of which had failed until last year. He paid special tribute to Latah County representatives who proposed the bill authorizing the structure at the last session of the Idaho legislature.

The building, which Smylie described as "one of the finest in the nation," replaces 50-year-old facilities previously housed in the University Administration Building.

"This is a long sought, long awaited addition to our educational arsenal," said the governor.

"... Move Ahead"

"But we must move ahead as rapidly as possible to provide more research facilities."

Especially needed, said Smylie, are further additions to present equipment and housing for scientific study at the University. He said education of new scientists and technically trained minds was "now, more than ever before," important in keeping America competitive with advances in a progressive civilization.

The governor cited the development of the Russian satellite, "Sputnik" as an example of the new vistas opening to creative minds. He said the development of the baby moon, which was joined by a bigger partner Sunday, was proof that "we must move ahead as rapidly as possible on every scientific and technical front."

Honor Guard
A combined honor guard, composed of elements of the three ROTC units at the University, lined the sidewalk leading to the library and presented the traditional ruffles and flourishes as Smylie entered the building.

Meets Young GOP
Friday Smylie met with Young Republicans for a 90-minute discussion session at which students and faculty members discussed ideas that ranged from his political future to road building.

Asked what his future plans in politics might be, the governor smiled and maintained his non-committal side stepping.

"In 1946, I had the choice of going into a law firm or going back into the Army," said Smylie. "I didn't make my decision until the last minute. I'll probably do the same thing in 1958."

Smylie has one year yet to serve in his present four-year term and under present Idaho law is eligible for reelection.

Highways
Commenting on Idaho highway development and financing, the governor said the Winchester grade on U.S. 95 was in the process of being eliminated and cutting out of the Whitebird grade was under discussion.

He said revenue derived from heavy hauling over those two sections would pay for the construction "in two years."

Asked about segregation at Little Rock, Smylie criticized Arkansas Gov. Orvil Faubus for his actions, but said he was not "close enough" to the situation to judge the long-range results of President Eisenhower's subsequent actions.

He recommended that the controversial "right-to-work" bill which originated as an initiative proposal late in August be subjected to a referendum.

"I think it's wise to take this issue to the people," said Smylie. He added, however, that he had never recommended such a bill.

Dinner Guest
Following his conference, the governor spent the evening as a guest of President and Mrs. Theophilus.

He left for Boise Saturday afternoon after watching Idaho trounce Montana 31-13.

Advances To Be Discussed Tonight

A representative of the Teletype Corporation will talk to interested engineering groups tonight about recent developments in high speed printing telegraph systems, Dr. H. E. Hatrup, electrical engineering head, announced today.

The talk is scheduled for 7 p.m. in Engineering 104.

Phillips G. Wray, a 1931 Purdue graduate, will elaborate on the time division multiplex, a new technique for transmitting data to distant computers, Dr. Hatrup said.

Class Officer Project Ideas Offered By Independents

Project ideas for classes to sponsor in an effort to increase their officers' participation in Idaho student government were announced today by Bob Jeschke, Independent party campaign manager.

All Independent candidates will meet in the SUB lobby tonight from 6:45-7:15 p.m. to coordinate campaign activities, Jeschke said. Also the candidates will meet with TMA members Thursday night at 7:30 p.m. in the SUB.

The four classes will select a president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer in election Nov. 14.

Independent candidates will begin a house visitation program Wednesday noon.

Jeschke said the Independents felt officers could hold a retreat each spring just before graduation with leaders of the university faculty to hammer out problems and grievances between the students and faculty.

"We think the seniors would be able to help the students with problems because of their four year experience and because they are going to graduate, they will be in a better position to discuss things with the faculty," Jeschke added.

One suggested project for the Junior Class would be to sponsor a Booster dance for alums, university friends and prospective students during spring vacation throughout the southern part of the state.

"We feel that the class would be able to help student recruitment activities of the ASUI and to put the university in closer relations

Parking Problems Quelled By CCC

A new parking lot is being completed this week by the Campus Christian Center to quell campus parking problems.

Stan Thomas, director of the CCC, said work parties have leveled off the ground between the Center and Phi Delta house with a bulldozer Sunday evening.

The lot will be used by CCC directors.

Contest Open For Naming Of Present Syringa Room

A certificate worth $3 credit in fountain service at the Bucket will be offered to the Idaho student who can furnish the name for the SUB's newly re-modeled Syringa room, Gale Mix, ASUI general manager, announced today.

The SUB committee is launching a contest to rename the banquet and conference room that bears the state flower's name.

"Because the one-time red and blue colored room is now replaced by a sage green color with a rustic western mural on the wall, we feel the room must have another name," Mix pointed out.

The contest will run until Wednesday, Nov. 13. A winner's name will be printed in the following issue of the Argonaut.

Lon Davis, off-campus, chairman of the SUB committee, said the contest will be judged by himself and the four other members of his board. A box for entries will be located in the front part of the Student Union.

The Syringa room will be open

UP Proposes Exec Meeting For Officers

A recommendation that class officers attend Exec Board will be advocated by the Greek party candidates in their campaign for class elections, caucus president John Bradbury announced today.

The party's 16 member slate started its house to house tours last night and will continue through the week until all living groups have been visited. According to Bradbury all Greek candidates have been approved scholastically for the Nov. 14 elections.

The president pointed out that the party was suggesting officer Exec Board attendance for a number of reasons.

"First the officers will be able to work more closely with the Board on functions of which they are in charge throughout the year," Bradbury said.

He explained that the recommendation was that the officers will only sit in on the meetings and emphasized that it does not advocate that they be given any official capacity.

Bradbury also pointed out that Theta Chi has joined caucus and is now a member of the United Party.

ASUI Cards Admittance To Italian Concert

Presentation of a major new work celebrating the first overseas tour of the 97-piece Symphony Orchestra of the Florence Festival will highlight the initial program in the 1957-58 Community Concert series in the Moscow-Pullman area.

The commemorative work, "Sinfonia Americana," was composed by Franco Mannino, one of three conductors for the Florence orchestra. The group will also present symphonic works by Vivaldi, Corelli, Rossini and Respighi.

The current tour of the Italian orchestra marks the first one by an Italian group in the U.S. for 38 years. The group will make appearances in 65 American cities this year.

Idaho students will be admitted to the concert with their ASUI activity cards.

After All That Time - Winner Forgets Name

Anonymity does not pay — at least in the case of the winner in the "Name the Band Contest" who failed to sign his name on the entry.

Officials judging the "Name the Band Contest" were able to pick a suitable nickname for the University marching band, but awarding the $10 gift certificate proved as difficult as getting entries submitted.

The new nickname, "The Marching Idahoians," was announced today by band director Warren Bellis.

"The only problem now," he said, "is to find out who submitted the winning entry."

Bellis said the winner should contact him in the Music building to identify the entry and claim the gift certificate.

Ever meet a fanatic?

He's got just one thing uppermost in his mind. If he's looking for a job he's thinking only of pay or only of security. Reasonable men, however, weigh these and many other factors when they're evaluating career possibilities. Such factors as opportunity, challenging work, training, professional associates—things fanatics never bother to consider.

The Bell Telephone Companies have a booklet for reasonable men. It's called "Challenge and Opportunity." It's not the sort of thing that'll make a fanatic's eyes light up, but it ought to interest a thoughtful young man—whatever his college background—who is weighing career possibilities. Frosh Shifted For Weekend Tilt With Pups

Coach Wayne Anderson announced several changes in the frosh football lineup in preparation for next Friday's tilt with the University of Washington frosh at Seattle.

Anderson has switched Don Chapman, 6', 172 pound center, to right end to add depth at that position, and shifted Earl Yelton, a 5'8", 185-pound center to right guard to back up the guard spot.

The Husky frosh run from a split T formation, with Gene Bates and Brent Wooten, last year's "touchdown twins" at Walla Walla, getting the ball regularly. The Pups also have an effective pass offense, with Phil Borden and Bob Schlorcht combining their talents.

The Vandal frosh have been continuing to work on offense and pass defense, in an effort to put the skids under the Husky Pups.

Roger Johnson, a 170 pound halfback from Lima, Ohio, drew favorable notice from Anderson, as Anderson stated that "Johnson is not a big boy, but he puts his head down and runs hard."

Other firsts were taken by Tom Ricker, McConnell Hall, in the 50-yard free style and Al Ray, Christman Hall, in the 100-yard free style. Lindley Hall was third in swimming with 62 points, followed by Signa Alpha Epsilon, 55, and Willis Sweet Hall, 52.

Intramural director Clem Parberry announced yesterday that an intramural manager's meeting will be held tonight at 7 in Memorial Gymnasium, room 109.

Plans will be discussed for the start of the volleyball season, tentatively set for next Monday.

The gymnasium is now open for practice from 7:45 to 9:30 p.m.

Norby's Opening Scamper Sets Torrid Touchdown Tempo Before 4,500 Fans

Halfback Larry Norby set the pace Saturday with a 96-yard touchdown scamper on the opening kickoff as Howie Willis led the Vandals to a 31-13 victory over Montana in the battle for the Little Brown Stein.

Norby's spectacular jaunt and Jerry Kramer's conversion gave Idaho a lead which they never relinquished.

A cold autumn wind failed to dampen the spirits of 4,500 fans including Idaho Gov. Robert E. Smylie who witnessed the encounter.

"It was a better than average overall team performance," Vandal coach "Skip" Stahley said yesterday. "Again we were not as sharp as we should have been defensively though."

Paced by the brilliant passing of quarterback Earl Keeley, Montana fought back to score midway in the first period.

After a Willis punt rolled dead on the Grizzly 15, Keeley connected on several short tosses to ends Larry Myers and Les Vierra, and halfback Howard Johnson. With fullback "Tank" Rosera supplying the running power and the line blocking well Montana moved deep into Idaho territory.

On fourth and seven on the Vandal 17, Keeley hit Johnson in the end zone for a Montana touchdown.

Point Missed The point was missed and Idaho led at the end of the first quarter, 7-6.

Willis sewed up the issue shortly before halftime when he rifled two quick touchdown passes in the final 65 seconds of the first half.

He found glue-fingered Bob Dehlinger in the end zone from 26 yards out and after intercepting a Keeley pass threw to Paul Wagar, reserve flankerback, for the third score.

Idaho left the field at halftime with a 21-6 lead and as events proved, it was insurmountable.

In the third quarter, with third and ten on the Grizzly 41, fullback Kenny Hall burst up the middle on a draw play to the 25 and a first down.

Willis to Patterson After an offside penalty against the Vandals, Willis connected with end Wade Patterson on the 13 for another first down. Willis plunged to the three on keeper plays and Larry Norby dove for the score one play later.

Montana tallied again in the final period on an 84-yard sustained march sparked by Russ Grant's 33-yard dash. A 12-yard pass from Keeley to Myers set up a four-yard scoring run by Grant.

With six seconds left in the contest, Kramer, who already had booted four extra points kicked a 25-yard field goal from an angle. The three-pointer closed out scoring for both clubs.

A brief post-game fist fight at mid-field between Idaho's Wayne Walker and Montana's Chuck Moore caused a flurry of excitement but did little damage.

Vandal coach Stahley and Grizzly mentor Jerry Williams came racing out from opposite sides of the field to stop the uproar.

Willis had one of his greatest days, carrying the ball 16 times for 83 yards and completing seven of 14 passes for 109.

Second string quarterback Gary Kenworthy, also was impressive, completing four of six passes for 40 yards and moving the club well.

Montana's Keeley had the Vandal defense on his hip much of the game, especially in the first half and completed 15 of 24 passes for 146 yards.

Cooler heads prevailed however, and the coaches managed to subdue their squads. As the teams walked off the field we thought, "There was a lot of heart involved in that game." Yes it was a little ragged in spots. But quite a game. Quite a game.

Neutral Corner Smell of Upset Wanes Quickly; Willis Attack Baffles Montana

By DWIGHT CHAPIN

"One point or 30 points, a loss is still a loss." Disappointment reared its head above the other after-game comments in the press box at Neale Stadium Saturday.

J. D. Coleman, Montana's king-sized sports publicity man, squirmed uncomfortably in his seat as local sportswriters were informally putting him on the grill over the game's outcome.

Montana had come into the clash a hungry underdog. They smelled upset in the biting Moscow air.

But from the moment Vandal halfback Larry Norby grabbed the opening kickoff on his own four and loped 96 yards for a touchdown to the brief fisticuffs after the final whistle, Idaho proved that they were not the fat mouse who tempted the hungry cat once too often.

The Little Brown Stein, firmly entrenched in the Idaho trophy case for the last six years loomed as a constant symbol of victory for the Vandals.

Norby's near-fantastic run shocked the crowd into the realization that this was going to be quite a game.

It more or less numbed the Grizzlies but two Montana grid-ders, quarterback Earl Keeley and end Larry Myers were either not impressed or were spurred to greater efforts by the dash.

Pinpointing passes like a gymnast walking a wire, Keeley continually found the shifty Myers in the open and the Grizzlies marched to a touchdown. It looked like the game which had started out as a win for Idaho might turn the other way in short order.

Then Vandal Howie Willis, calling on something extra, reached deep into his bag of tricks and threaded the needle on long passes to Bob Dehlinger and Paul Wagar, for touchdowns.

Quickly the Vandals had opened the dike. The scoreboard read 21-6 when the gun signaled the end of the first half.

During the intermission we wondered. Will Idaho fold up? Will they weaken in the second half as they've done more than a few times this year?

The wonderment proved groundless as Idaho solved Keeley's passing in the second half.

Where before, Myers and the

Norby Piledrives For Touchdown

Larry Norby scores his second touchdown of the day on a dive play from three yards out in the third quarter. Blocking for the Vandals are Jerry Kramer (64), Wade Patterson (arm up), Montana defenders are John Dixon (75), Don Williamson (46), Stan Renning (67), and Montana Bockman.

Sheppard Bests Modie For ASUI Golf Championship

The final round in the final match of the ASUI golf tourney was played over the weekend, with Dick Sheppard defeating Don Modie to win the championship flight.

Sheppard had to go all out as he narrowly squeaked by Modie, 3-2.

Washington State, led by the first place finish of Max Yoder, won the meet with Idaho second and Whitman College third.

Final teams scores read — Washington State, 28; Idaho, 34, Whitman, 86.

Missed Turn Thwarts Harriers; Cross Country Squad Loses 1st

Idaho's cross country team lost its first meet in two years at Spokane Saturday as the two top Idaho runners missed a turn and were disqualified.

Frank Wyatt and Ron Adams, English distance stars, were well in front when, according to coach Joe Glander, they missed a turn due mainly to "poor marking" and were disqualified by the judges.

Washington State, led by the first place finish of Max Yoder, won the meet with Idaho second and Whitman College third.
