UNITED'S KERBS WINS ASUI PRESIDENCY

Political Workshop Opens Today

Workshop Schedule

12 noon—Registration, lobby of SUB
1:30 p.m.—Opening session, Borah Theater
Address: Ray McNichols, Chairman Democratic Party from Nez Perce County, "State Finances."
3 p.m.—Coffee Hour, South ballroom
4 p.m.—Panel Discussions:
(1) "You and the Local Campaign", Frontier Room
(2) "Lobbying, What Is The Price?", Borah Theater
5:45 p.m.—Dinner, Central ballroom

7:30 p.m.—Closing Panel, Borah Theater, "The Campaign for the State"

The ASUI selected a strong man when they went to the polls (in a startlingly small number) and chose Dick Kerbs as the next ASUI president.

Kerbs, who started the campaign as a popular candidate and held on well, based his campaign on sincerity and willingness to work basis. Jason has no doubt but that that is just what the ASUI will get from the new president.

Kerbs didn't try to appeal to the students on the basis that he would start a rock'em-sock'em battle with the Administration, but we have no doubt but that Dick's aim will be to support student interest to the utmost.

Communication, student interest and the Argonaut all became controversial issues in Wednesday's smoker.

Criticism came hot and heavy at the Argonaut for "failing to help present a united front to the Administration" and not making ASUI activities look interesting enough to draw student participation.

The critics have made their stand. Our reply is only that our efforts have in the past been and will continue to be concentrated on printing the truth and trying to look constructively at issues involving student affairs.

On issues such as the political speaker situation and the library smoker question we feel the student side was well represented.

The politicians can argue, but we welcome criticism. We'll listen to anyone with constructive criticism.

The real problem ahead for Kerbs and the predominantly Greek Exec Board will be to combat student apathy. After a dull campaign, students indicated yesterday with the poorest turnout in a number of years that this problem of student disinterest has not improved through this year's campaign.

Stereophonic Sound Adds Drama To Play Ready For Production Tonight, Tomorrow

An Idaho version of stereophonic sound will be included in "The Crucible," set for production tonight and tomorrow at 8 p.m. on the Ad Auditorium stage.

'Look At You'

Cast members of "The Crucible," which will be presented tonight and tomorrow night, are all smiles as they look over each other's costumes at a dress rehearsal. Mary Ellen Bennett (left), who portrays a witch in the play, tries her make-up on Peggy LaRue and Tony Park.

What is going on in Idaho politics with emphasis on its practical aspects will be presented by state party leaders this afternoon and evening at Idaho's first political workshop.

The session is sponsored jointly by the Young Democrat and Young Republican organizations on campus and is open to all students. It will stress non-partisan information on how politics are operating at the different levels and also technique on how elections are won.

Party chairmen for both Idaho groups will be featured speakers at the opening session and at the evening banquet. Also county party officials and state legislators will participate on three panel discussions.

Begins At Noon

Registration will start at noon today with Idaho students being admitted without cost except for $1.75 charge for those who plan to attend the banquet. Out of town guests will be charged 50 cents registration fee.

Democratic Party Chairman Ray McNichols from Clearwater County will open the session at 1:30 p.m. with an address on "State Finances." Republican Party State Chairman Ray Robbins will speak on the "Importance of Youth in Politics" at the evening banquet.

Panels

Two afternoon panels emphasizing political activities in elections and in the state legislature are scheduled for 4 p.m.

A discussion entitled "You and the Local Campaign" will meet in the Frontier room with Elvin Hampton, Speaker of the House from Latah county; John Quinn, Republican central committee member from Bonner county; Max Hanson, Democratic senator from Camas county; and Orville Slette, vice-chairman Democratic Party in Latah county on the panel. Dee Humphrey, Idaho grad student, will be moderator.

The other group in the Borah Theater will discuss, "Lobbying, What is the Price?" Panel members will be McNichols; Father Twoby, professor of political science at Gonzaga University; Jack McBride, ex-State Senator from Latah county; and Harold Snow, state representative from Latah county. Neal Newhouse, Beta, will be moderator.

The closing panel, "The Campaign for the State" will feature party committee leaders. It will be at 7:30 p.m. in the Borah Theater with Dean Boyd A. Martin, College of Letters and Science as moderator.

Panel members are Robbins; John Streifs, Democratic Party vice-chairman in Nez Perce county; Phyllis Loehr, National Republican committeewoman; Lora Albright, Republican committeewoman from Nez Perce county; and Kay Pell, Latah county Democratic Assessor; and Father Twoby.

Chairman

Organization chairmen Dick Day, Young Democrat, and Don Modie, Young Republican, said groups from WSC, Whitman, Gonzaga, Lewiston and Moscow are expected to attend.

Site Of Idaho Club Cleared As Parking Lot

Money allocations to construct an 80 car parking lot where Idaho Club now stands was announced by President D. R. Theophilus this week.

The temporary men's dormitory constructed 23 years ago will be torn down immediately after school is out this spring and made into a parking lot.

Officials said the lot would be open and ready for use by students by the time school starts next fall.

Total cost of the projects was not released by University officials.

Traffic Report

Meanwhile, the ASUI Exec Board made available to all living group presidents and students an ASUI Traffic committee report that was compiled this year.

The report will be presented to the Board of Regents next week at a meeting of the group. The reports recommend a students' parking fee of $2.50 per semester for car owners and a list of long range parking lot construction areas.

Leads ASUI

Dick Kerbs

United Platform

"The United Party believes that the full values found in student government can be realized only through a participating and informed student body. In line with this the party unanimously advocates the enactment of the following proposals:

1. An ASUI Coordination Council which would carry information of ASUI and Administration activities to living groups and to students who live off campus; and also bring student opinion back to the Executive Board.

2. A more extensive Fresh Orientation period including leadership training, a study of how the ASUI functions, and the freshman's part in campus life.

In order to solve our problems we must understand them. It is our belief that if such an approach is carried out, both Administration and students will benefit."

One-Act Play Tryouts Soon

Tryouts for the spring Studio Productions of Idaho's advanced drama class will be held at 7 p.m. Monday and Tuesday at the U-Hut.

The plays will be presented in two different groups this year. The first set is scheduled for May 15-16 and the second set will be May 22-23 in the U-Hut.

Seven drama students will direct the shows. They are Dwight Patton, Delta Sig; Ralph Provençal, off-campus; Rose-Marie Perin and Diane Kail, Kappa; Joan Fisher, Hays; Cliff Cook and Todd Olson, Campus Chi.

Two one-act plays, "The Light of St. Agnes" and "Sweet? Sixteen," will be presented.

Also, scenes from "The Doctor in Spite of Himself," "The Little Hut," "The Glass Menagerie," "Waiting for Godot," and "Mad Woman of Chaillot" are slated.

Jean Collette, chairman of drama, said the plays are presented each spring and fall on an experimental basis. The main purpose is to give students experience in directing as well as acting.

Blood Quota Exceeds Goal, Officials Call Idaho 'Model'

Students donated a total of 900 pints during a three-day Blood Drive that ended yesterday, 50 more than co-chairmen had asked.

Chairmen Elaine Heiber and Jim Golden said at the end of the drawing, one of the largest in several years at Idaho, that "We're simply overwhelmed by student support. The committee couldn't ask for anything more."

Tri Delta and Lambda Chi won living group competition in the drive. Lambda Chi exceeded its quota with a tally of 274 per cent. Sigma Chi was second with 242 per cent and Phi Delta third with 228 per cent.

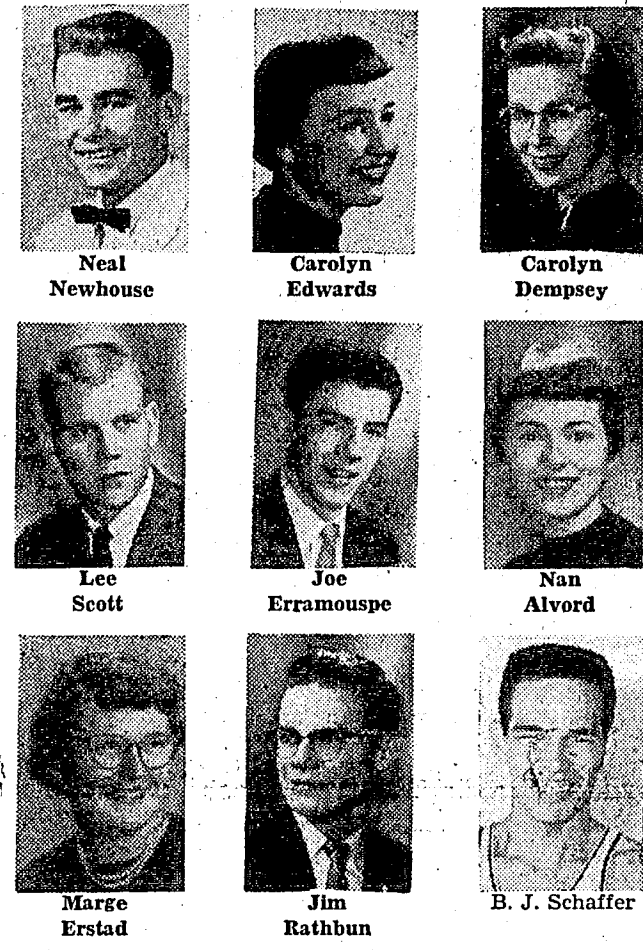

Tri Delta finished top in the women's division with 169 per cent. The drawing netted 289 pints the first day, 322 the second, and 289 the third to bring the total to exactly 900. Last year 840 pints were given during the same length of time.

Nineteen living groups, including 14 men's houses, hit 100 per cent of their quotas.

The United Party's Dick Kerbs and five of the faction's nine candidates last night were elected to top posts in student government as 1,963 votes were cast. The Independent Party placed three and Student Government Party got one. Campus Liberals placed none.

Student Government's Jim Kay, ATO, received 458 votes and Reed Bowen Campus Liberal's candidate from Lindley Hall was fourth with 187.

Kerbs, a junior from Rupert majoring in Ag Engineering expressed his gratitude to the students for his election in a statement to the Argonaut last night.

"I am indeed very grateful to the students of the ASUI for placing their confidence in me. I will diligently serve and represent you at all times to the best of my ability," he stated.

"The campaign is over and the work is about to begin."

Kerbs' qualifications include: FarmHouse president, treasurer and pledge trainer, IK's Gamma Delta president and regional president, Alpha Zeta, IFC secretary, junior class vice president, and chairman of IK regional convention, Campus Chest, Kampus Key sales, Junior-Senior Prom and Greek Week.

Kay and Bowen were both selected in party meetings and Lofdahl defeated Marvin Mackie, Chrisman, and Jim Rathbun, Willis Sweet, in the Independent primary.

Lofdahl stated last night, "The elections are over and we have a new ASUI president, Dick Kerbs. Lets all show good sportsmanship, get behind Dick and make the ASUI successful this coming year. I would like to thank all the students who voted for me and on behalf of the Independent party extend our cooperation to Dick Kerbs."

Kay said, "I would like to extend my congratulations to Dick Kerbs and the United Party and wish them every bit of success during the coming year. During the coming year Student Government can only be as strong as the people who lead it and those who are being led. I, for one, will support Dick during the coming year and I sincerely hope that each and every student at the University of Idaho will do the same."

Bowen was unavailable for comment. He is attending the national debate tournament at West Point this week.

Theophilus Gets One
President D. R. Theophilus received one vote for president from a disgruntled voter who wrote: "Here's the real candidates—they'll do it anyway." Listed for Exec Board were nine men identified simply as "Dick, DuSault, Steffens, Wohletz, Martin, Green, Stahley, Mix and Moore." The ballot was thrown out. Another ballot was numbered with native Arabic numerals and was also invalidated.

Theophilus On Panel At Education Conference

Dr. D. R. Theophilus, University president, moderated a panel on the programs of colleges of Idaho at an education meeting called by Gov. Robert Smylie in Boise this week.

Other representatives were Roger Tovey, president of Phi Delta Kappa, education honorary; Dave Maxey, ASUI president; Margaret Coffey, women's physical education department; Dr. J. A. Sneider, education department.

Topics of discussion at the conference were what schools should teach, what can be done to handle differences in individual students and what should be beyond the high school.

Minnesota Foresters Face Near 'Pole Tax' On Exhibit

A 40-foot pole erected in the middle of a University of Minnesota athletic field for a Centennial Forester's Day "maybe should be changed, a 'pole tax'."

That's the opinion of the Minnesota Daily anyway. It reports the pole interfered with baseball practice.

Forestry Club members were confronted with a problem, however, when asked to move the pole. The ground had frozen making the task nearly impossible.

The cumbersome colossus proved still another problem. A local lumberman had presented the prize to the Foresters at a $150 cost to himself.

There was also a third problem of finding transportation to carry the pole to a storage spot.

According to the Daily, "The foresters were out looking for a jeep while baseball players twiddled their thumbs on the hillside overlooking the field."

But, at last, labor triumphed. The pole was removed and home plate was dusted off for spring practice.

Perhaps the moral of the story is, "Idaho Foresters are wise to saw logs on the Ad lawn and not plant poles on baseball fields."

raided recently by a mob of 900 students, according to reports from the Daily Bruin.

At the Delta Gamma house, a garden hose was turned on the windows, soaking a large area inside the building before the coeds could shut the water supply off.

Campus police were on the scene shortly after the mob reached the Mira Hershey Hall. However, their efforts to quell the uprising were to no avail.

The Daily reported: "Crying 'We want short shorts' the mob broke through the door of Tri Delt sorority."

"Several open rooms were stormed and the agitators gleefully made off with their pink trophies."

What you'll be seeing is the culmination of one of the strangest cases of self-consciousness heard yet.

The two gals (who remain anonymous for obvious reasons), have some golf classes to make up. Under the play, they have to play a certain number of holes by Monday.

"But," one of them said, "we're afraid somebody will see us and think we're terrible."

So they're getting in their time on the links at 5:30 in the morning—presumably before anybody else arrives at the course.

Smoker Sidelights Despite the fact that President D. R. Theophilus got demoted to Dean Theophilus by overzealous politicians Wednesday, the annual ASUI smoker turned out to be one long succession of half-hearted jaunts.

A strained sort of fun kept the long grind moderately entertaining as candidate after candidate repeated his party's platform—sometimes with different versions.

Embarrassed High point of the big show was presidential candidate Clyde Lofdahl's apologetic offer to "clean up all the signs on sidewalks that were painted sometime last night."

Lofdahl said his party was not behind the whole affair.

Two separate card games were going all through the smoker, and the players seldom looked up from their bridge hands to see who was doing the talking.

Hoos WUS? World University Service got raked over the coals by several factions after Phi Delt Gordon Chester asked about the nature of something pronounced "woos."

COMING EVENTS

SUNDAY Cosmopolitan Club, Sunday, South Ballroom, SUB, 2:30 p.m.

Here's More About—Stereophonic

ren: Austin Bergin, John Proctor; Tony Park, Rev. John Hale, and Vandevort.

Supporting roles are taken by Georgetown Amos, Mary Margaret Broderson, Todd Oleson, Jo Ann Reese, Robert Fee, Rose-Marie Perrin, Robert Beardemphl, Mike Lewis, Lynn Snider, Dwight Patton, Cliff Cook, Mary Ellen Bennett, Karen Bunjer, and Diane Davis.

Howard Dorgan, a visiting drama instructor, is director. Handling technical supervision is Alen Betts of the Industrial Arts Department.

Research Conducted Research has been the keyword of production for "The Crucible," Dorgan said.

Extensive studies have been made by the drama department to have authentic dress, furniture, and utensils used by the Puritans.

Betts and a construction crew have built everything from a blunderbuss to a table salt box for the play.

A unit set is used for "The Crucible." It allows for five different scenes without removing the main wall of the stage.

There are six holes in the main set wall. By a simple switch, a window, door, or section of wall can be placed in the holes to alter the scenes.

One large fireplace, typical of the period, has bricks that climb to the ceiling. It is lowered into place from a location high above the stage.

"The Crucible" ran for 197 performances on Broadway. Awarded the Antoinette Perry citation, it is now being shown at colleges around the nation.

"Takes guts to do this," said the little bug as he splashed himself against the windshield.

If you happen to pass the golf course early some morning this week (say about 5 a.m.), you may be surprised to see a couple of coeds, clubs in hand, marching resolutely toward the next tee.

What you'll be seeing is the culmination of one of the strangest cases of self-consciousness heard yet.

Tree Planting Tops Forestry Week Activity

Idaho foresters are welding axes, planting trees, and promoting conservation projects today in observance of Forestry Week.

Gov. Robert E. Smylie made April 21-26 as Forestry Week in a proclamation issued throughout Idaho.

Dean Ernest Wohletz, head of the University forestry school, said a full slate of activities are scheduled.

Today was set as Arbor Day by Alton B. Jones, superintendent of public instruction. Idaho foresters are cooperating with the Boy Scouts and other organizations in observing the day. They will plant trees on the banks of Paradise Creek near the West Side Park Elementary School.

Foresters plan to release publicity throughout the state to inform citizens about the conservation of forest lands, and how to make wise use of these resources.

A conservation project at Comstock farm near Pollatch will see the thinning and removal of trees to promote better growth.

Dear Jason!

Another blood drive is being completed today on the Idaho campus. As usual, the Idaho students have responded and have done a wonderful job in putting over our quota over the top.

Our two chairmen, Jim Golden and Elaine Heiber, should be congratulated on a wonderful job of organizing and administering this drive. Dr. Sistero and the Red Cross Regional Representative from San Francisco informed this office today that this was the best organized blood drive that either had ever experienced, and both of these people have been in the business a long time.

Congratulations to Elaine and Jim for a wonderful job and again to all Idaho students for their assistance and help in this most important cause.

The A-Phis thank Carlene Higen for helping us make our Bohemian Ball a great success.

Thanks also to Mr. and Mrs. Terrell Guillory and Mr. and Mrs. James Jordan who were our chaperones.

Mrs. Florence Lippert, our district governor, spent a few days with us. She was honored at firesides and dinners by each of the classes.

Thanks to the Deltas for the serenade in honor of Joyce Teigs' pinning to Ed Weide.

We wish to thank the Fijis for their serenade; but fellows, we sure miss our daily exercise on the bike.

Idaho Alpha Gam Members To Receive Special Charter

Alpha Gamma Delta national sorority will present a hand-lettered charter to its newest chapter at installation ceremonies here Saturday.

National officers from as far away as Lincoln, Neb., will witness the ceremonies, including church services and initiation of new members.

The hand-lettered charter is the last one made by Emily Butterfield of Detroit. She died March 23, shortly after completing this, her 69th charter.

She was a founder of the national sorority and worked out the armorial bearings for the first chapter at Syracuse University in 1904. Since then she has furnished each new chapter with a hand-lettered charter.

All ceremonies will be held in the SUB, beginning with installation in the afternoon. Sponsoring the new group, Delta Theta, will be the chapter from WSC.

Eighteen new members will be initiated Saturday night. This will bring the total membership to 20, including Kay Zenier and Christine Mackert, out-going president, who were initiated last year.

Presentation Tea
Sunday morning the new initiates will attend church together and that afternoon will attend a presentation tea in the SUB.

New officers will be installed Monday night. They are: Molly Goidbold, president; Nancy Woods, first vice president; Karen Kottke, second vice president; Dawn Shipley, recording secretary; Sherry Walsh, treasurer; Gay Graham, corresponding secretary.

Edna Mae Jones, chaplain; Claudette Kuch, chairman of names; Elizabeth Misner, altruistic chairman; Sandra Wanamaker, activities chairman; Jeanne MacMartin, editor and Kaye Aslett, scribe.

Other initiates are: Karen Becker, Maxine Harris Riggers, Nova Jackson, Joyce Littleton, Carol Renstrom, and Norma Wiks.

National officers attending include: Mrs. F. J. Vogelsong, Lincoln, Neb., grand president; Mrs. Charles G. Williams, Pasadena, Cal., first vice president; Mrs. Thomas Hyslop, Spokane, third vice president; Mrs. W. C. Fulwiler, Seattle, province president.

April Showers Announce Deal Graben Troth

"April Showers Bring Rings and Flowers," according to Ann Deal, Forney, who announced her engagement to Jim Graben, off campus, Wednesday evening during a candlelight dinner.

Ann proved her engagement ring in a nosegay of pink narcissus and lavender myrtle.

Decorations featured a centerpiece of daffodils, daisies and jonquills laid in a large flower basket. The theme of the dinner was inscribed upon pastel place cards. White candles set in bases of daffodils and myrtle blossoms completed the decorations.

Guests for the dinner were Anita Koskelo, Willis Sweet, and Edna Weston, off campus.

Thirteen Freshmen Received Tuesday Into Phi Eta Sigma

Phi Eta Sigma, freshman men's honorary, initiated 13 members at a joint initiation with the Washington State College chapter Tuesday.
