

RECORD SMASHING 1,851 ENROLL THURSDAY

The GOLDEN FLEECE by Jason

It's traditional at this launching point in the school year for Jason to laboriously detail the history of this column and to make a few generalizations about the onrushing season. And it's here that Jason will break with tradition. Result: No "history" and as few generalizations as possible.

The Golden Fleece this year will have one simple, uncomplicated goal. That will be to present one man's opinion on topics that concern this campus.

The staff of your Arg will have two principal aims newswise during 1958-59. We will present the day-to-day happenings on this campus as objectively as we know how. We'll also try to learn something about realistic journalism in the process.

A campus newspaper is not a professional product. It exists as a cohesive force for a student body and as a recorder and interpreter of events. It has its faults and its errors. That is part of the pain of learning.

The Arg is independent of administrative censorship and has never encountered pressure from officialdom to "forget" essential information. It has enjoyed complete freedom to report campus events.

During a stormy political free for all last spring, there came an anguished cry from some sources that the Arg must "mirror student opinion and present a united front to the administration."

If the authors of that rather ambiguous plank meant that the Arg should present the news accurately and fairly, then they were correct. If they meant that the Arg should agree with every scheme hatched during the year, then they were wrong. The Arg always will reserve the right to disagree editorially with any policy or plan proposed by the Executive Board, any other group, or any individual.

The policies outlined briefly above will be the credo of the Argonaut during the tenure of this editor and the staff with which he works.

Predictions

Now to the problems that will face administration and students during the next nine months.

The University of Idaho is presently in the midst of a period of much-welcomed growth. To continue this all-important development, Idaho must enjoy the support of a state legislature that understands its needs. If students ignore these needs, they can hardly expect their tax-paying parents and their elected representatives meeting 300 miles away to understand.

The practicality of the National Student Association (NSA) needs to be thoroughly reviewed before the ASUI jumps feet and checkbook first back into that organization.

The fact that intellectual accomplishment is the prime goal of education needs to be underscored again and again.

That frustrating enigma of where we'll park a couple of thousand student and faculty cars in the next five years needs intensive study.

Idaho's 3,900 or so students are at this moment looking squarely at another academic year. Whether or not we gain significant maturity and insight by June, 1959, will be the real yardstick of success.

Shall we make an honest effort to tip the scales of accomplishment in our favor?

More Out-of-Class Work Needed President Claims

President D. R. Theophilus stressed the need for more student responsibility for out-of-class work and assignments in his first address to the faculty Monday morning.

"I am convinced," he said, "that our students simply are not working at the level of their full intellectual capacity."

"I insist that the first responsibilities of students at this institution are for classes and class assignments," he added.

Quality In Quantity
President Theophilus further emphasized the need for "quality in quantity" to make the best use of teaching ability and time.

The president continued with a quotation from C. W. De Kieviet that "the ordinary American student, not the first-class man who is headed for the top professions, but the rank-and-file student, is the foundation upon which American industry is built. . . . The run-of-mill student, who would have little chance of being accepted in a French or British university, acquires a literateness in science and awareness in political and economic issues . . . that in their sum-

New Students Must Have Goals, Discipline Selves

Two University of Idaho leaders told incoming freshmen students this week that the key to academic success is "discipline of mind and body," and asked them to "evaluate their motives and goals."

In the traditional convocation at Memorial Gymnasium, President D. R. Theophilus outlined three significant factors to success.

"You are citizens of a community and are expected to act as responsible citizens," he said.

"You are the essential substance of this institution, and what you are it will be.

"Your real business here," Theophilus explained, "is learning and that is up to you."

Stressing moral values, the president said "it is not sufficient for our citizenry to possess skills and techniques.

"Unless our material resources are supported by moral and spiritual resources," he commented, "there can be no sound foundation for human progress."

Kerbs Speaks
At a new student assembly held Monday in Memorial Gym, Dick Kerbs, ASUI president, declared "we live in the time when crisis is evident."

Kerbs pointed out there are 45 suicides every day, one murder is committed every 40 minutes, and 21-year-olds represent the largest criminal group in the United States.

And yet, he added, "society cannot be built on a foundation of fear." (Continued Page 2, Col. 6)

Frosh Plunge Into Full Week Of Activity During Orientation

Idaho's class of 1962 began college life this week with the usual assemblies, guidance tests, and mixers, as an estimated 1,500 students went through New Student Days.

Rush activities began Friday, and concluded last night.

Registration, which started this morning, will round out the official part of the New Student Days program.

This evening, two new student assemblies are slated, one for men and one for women. A Spur skit will be presented by the sophomore women's honorary for the coeds, when they gather in the Recital Hall of the Music Building at 6:30 p.m.

Men will meet in the University Auditorium, room 102, at the same time.

Dance Set
A new student dance will follow the assemblies at 8 p.m. at the tennis courts, directly behind Memorial Gym. In case of rain, it will be held at the SUB.

Registration continues through Friday. An all-campus mixer is scheduled for 9 p.m. Saturday. The Embers will play at the informal event.

Classes begin at 8 a.m. Monday. Permits High

Number of permits to register issued to new students is continuing to run ahead of last year's mark,

Lidifter Slated

Idaho's 1958 football season opens Saturday with a crucial Pacific Coast Conference clash with the University of Oregon at Eugene. Game time is 1:30 p.m. PST.

Yell King Art Lindemer said Thursday that a send-off rally has been scheduled for 11:15 a.m. today at the SUB. He urged students to back the Vandals in "a big-league send-off."

A radio account of the game will be carried at 1:30 p.m. on KRPL, Moscow; KOZE, Lewiston, and KREM, Spokane, Wash. (See game story on page 6.)

University Group To Mull Problems At October Meet

University of Idaho administrators, faculty members and student leaders will meet at Coeur d'Alene Oct. 4-5 to discuss problems confronting the school and student body, conference chairman Bill Roy, McConnell Hall, said Thursday.

The two-day meeting, the first of its kind, was planned last spring as an attempt at improving student-faculty understanding. Roy said about 40 persons, including University President D. R. Theophilus, had been invited to attend.

He said conference agenda would include four panel discussions on "existing problems" and "administrative decisions" and an evaluation of student government.

Student representatives will include members of the Executive Board, campus political parties, Town Men's Association, Associated Women Students, Inter-fraternity Council and Panhellenic.

Other members of the planning committee are Executive Board members Nan Alvord and Jim Rathbun and Weldon Tovey, Willis Sweet Hall.

"Revenue from the meters will in turn go to aid students through a scholarship fund," the president added.

Theophilus said that checks had shown that many persons were using the Library area for all-day parking. For long periods, there has been no parking space for persons having to drive to the Library to use its facilities. Also, the president pointed out, out-of-town persons were found to be passing up a visit to the Library, because no parking space was available.

The president said that the meters were erected as an experiment on only half of the north side parking area, but, if they achieved their purpose and a demand arose for more metered space, additional meters would be added to the other half of the area.

Meters Installed In Library Area

To aid short-time users of the University Library in obtaining parking space, meters have been installed on the north side of the building, President D. R. Theophilus said today.

"Revenue from the meters will in turn go to aid students through a scholarship fund," the president added.

Total Points To 4,000 Students For '58 Term

Another significant boost in the University of Idaho's rising enrollment appeared likely Thursday as 1,851 students registered for classes. The first day's total was 50 higher than the previous year.

First semester registration last year climbed to an all-time record of 3,717. Registrar D. D. DuSault said that only one bottleneck was found in enrollment procedure Thursday and added that the slow-up would be eliminated today. Working under a new system that was set up last year, students and faculty members ran into few long, slow lines that complicated the procedure in past years.

DuSault said that "it's too early to say" whether the final total would smash existing marks. He added, however, that 4,000 was within reach.

Forty students and an equal number of faculty members and staff members handled class card checking and other duties during the day. The Idaho football team registered early Thursday because of a scheduled trip to Eugene, Ore., today for their football opener.

New Schedule
Last year, more than 1,600 students went through the line of the second day.

Under the admission schedule for this term, students with names beginning with Fa and ending with Re went through the lines Thursday. Those with names beginning with Re to Fa will finish today.

The Office of Student Affairs this year supplied a 10-page pamphlet outlining the school's social code to registrants.

The Argonaut also sold subscriptions at the end of the registration line to students wishing to have copies of the paper mailed to their homes. Subscriptions will be sold again today.

Summer Mishaps Take Toll; One Student Killed, 2 Hurt

A University of Idaho student drowned and two former University students were seriously injured in three unrelated summer accidents.

Davis Holmgren, 20, of Idaho Falls, drowned on the N.F. of the Clearwater River in June when a raft he and three other men were riding capsized at Government Rapids.

Holmgren's body was found by a fisherman June 29 on a rocky beach three miles above Canyon Ranger Station, about seven miles from where the raft capsized.

His father, Elmer Holmgren of Idaho Falls, had led a searching party which had tried futilely for about two weeks to locate the body.

On Raft Journey
Holmgren's companions, Larry Peterson, 20, of Cambridge and James Kempton, 20, of Moscow, both University students and Larry Sanders, 18, Montgomery, Ala., managed to hold on to the raft after it capsized and were not hurt.

The party was on a raft excursion down the Clearwater River to Larson's bar.

Truck Accident
Marv Fischer of Jerome, who was graduated from the University in June with a degree in business administration was seriously injured in Idaho Falls last month.

Fischer was working on construction when a cement truck backed over his legs and crushed his pelvis, also injuring his bladder.

A Phi Gamma Delta fraternity brother, Steve Swanson, said Fischer noticed that a wire mesh over which the truck was backing was buckling under the weight.

Crushed By Truck
Fischer tried to force the mesh down and in doing so slipped. Swanson said. The truck backed over his legs and crushed his pelvis before rolling off him.

Fischer has been in traction at the LDS hospital in Idaho Falls for about a month and doctors expect him to spend at least three months there, Swanson said.

He is a former Idaho Vandal yell king and was active in several other campus activities.

Skull Injury
Another former University student, Barry Elsensohn, 20, of Lewiston suffered a fractured skull and broken neck vertebrae in a fall while working on construction there last month.

Elsensohn fell about 30 feet from a platform on to a concrete walk.

New Physical Science Head Is Appointed

One of the nation's leading industrial research scientists, Dr. Malcolm M. Renfrew, has been named professor of chemistry and head of the department of physical sciences, it was announced today by President D. R. Theophilus.

Dr. Renfrew, who has been director of research and development for Spencer Kellogg & Sons, Buffalo N.Y., since 1954 and has served in similar capacities for DuPont and General Mills, will succeed Dr. William E. Cone as department head, effective February 1.

Dr. Cone, who has been a member of the faculty for 24 years, will relinquish his administrative duties as required for those reaching 65, but will continue as a professor of chemistry.

Now on terminal leave from Spencer Kellogg & Sons, Renfrew plans to spend the next few months in Europe where he will study the physical science departments of universities and colleges of various countries.

Dr. Cone, who has been a member of the faculty for 24 years, will relinquish his administrative duties as required for those reaching 65, but will continue as a professor of chemistry.

Stough Completes Long Career At Idaho

Prof Howard B. Stough, chairman of zoology, retired July 1 after teaching at the University for 33 years.

Stough, one of the school's best-known educators, received a certificate of merit and the title of professor emeritus at commencement exercises in June.

He taught 20 different science courses during his tenure at Idaho ranging from anatomy to zoology. He received his doctorate from Harvard University and is a member of the Sigma Xi and Alpha Epsilon Delta honoraries.

During his teaching career Stough mastered 11 languages and can speak German, French, Spanish and Italian.

COMMITTEE TO MEET
An organizational meeting of the Board of Selection and Control is scheduled for 7 p.m. Tuesday in conference room A of the SUB, chairman Tim Daley, Beta, said.

Snyder Appointed Communications Head At Idaho

The former director of communications at Sacramento State College in California has accepted appointment as head of the newly authorized department of communications at Idaho.

He is Dr. William W. Snyder, who officially took over his duties Monday.

His job will be to coordinate the activities of journalism, radio-television and audiovisual aids.

Regents authorized such a department last September, President Theophilus said, but operation of the department had awaited selection of a director.

"The different mediums of communications have their own distinct roles in world progress," President Theophilus added, "but they all have a common goal, and the trend in universities and colleges today is to bring them closer together for better understanding by the students and for more efficiency in operation."

A graduate of Baldwin-Wallace College, Beria, Ohio, Dr. Snyder received his Master's degree at Western Reserve University, and his doctorate at the University of Denver.

Faculty Members To Marry Today

Two University of Idaho faculty members plan to be married this afternoon at 5, at the home of Dean and Mrs. Boyd A. Martin.

Miss Barbara Anne Chandler, an English instructor, and Dr. Anand Malik, assistant professor of education, will be united in marriage.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Chandler of Huntington Woods, Michigan.

Education Leads To Maturity

As the 1958-59 school year begins, one fact above all others must be kept in mind. The University of Idaho remains, despite some impressions to the contrary, an institution which ultimately leads to the maturity of its students.

The degree of maturity reached should be in large part traceable to the University but any measure of adulthood cannot be attained without continued cooperation from the student body itself.

College students for the most part have not reached the full extent of their maturity. If they had, perhaps the chief reason for attending college would be gone.

Because of this and because tensions built up over a period of time must be released, those sometimes embarrassing sprees that are usually misnamed "riots" crop up across the nation.

It is easy to condemn the water fights, tubbings, pep rallies and the almost traditional walks to Pullman as definite signs of immaturity.

Perhaps they are. But one of the basic signs of maturity is a liberal education. And who is to say that some of the seemingly immature things students do are, if not integral parts of a liberal education, at least somewhat worthwhile.

The University of Idaho has grown tremendously in the last few years and with new construction in evidence everywhere over the campus and much more planned it should continue to do so rapidly.

The legislature of the state has seen fit to provide generous outlays of money to the school for many of its building projects.

Shows Confidence
Apparently it has confidence in what the University has done and what it plans to do in the future.

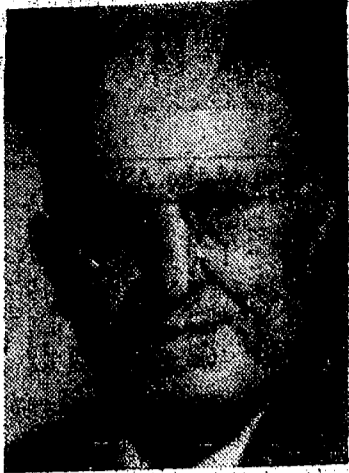

We seriously doubt that this confidence would have been maintained if the University were not pointing toward the ultimate maturity of its students.

Many of the students attending college for the first year may find it difficult to believe that intellectual growth is a main consideration because of some of the things they see, hear and participate in.

At what price will it come? Mainly it must mean sacrifices from the student body as a whole and the cooperation between the students and the University.

Idaho is growing noticeably physically. This growth can extend to education and morals if the students make an honest effort to abide by the existing laws and aid in future development.

From The Summit

Welcome to the University of Idaho, both old and new students. A favorite inscription on library buildings is the quotation from Paul Valery (1871-1945):

"It all depends on him who passes by, whether I be tomb or treasure-house, whether I speak or remain silent; it is up to you alone, friend, enter not without desire."

These are words which, in a broad sense, can also be applied to a university, and it is hoped that each of you who has come to the University of Idaho has within him the desire to get the most out of the educational opportunities offered here. It is up to you, friend, to look to your studies with diligence.

That word "friend," too, has special significance at the University. It is one where you will find faculty and staff members ready and willing to help you. It is an institution where I am sure you have already been made welcome, but it is a pleasure to add this welcome, personally and on behalf of the faculty and staff.

D. R. Theophilus, President

Four Idaho Profs Attend Conference

Four University of Idaho professors attended a two-day conference at the Clark House at Hayden Lake to discuss methods of teaching political science.

Sixteen professors in all, representing eight different colleges and universities, attended the conference sponsored by the Washington-Idaho Citizenship Clearing House.

The Idaho professors who attended were Dean Boyd Martin, political science head; B. C. Brading, associate professor of social science; C. I. Dobler, assistant professor of political science and R. J. Huckshorn, political science instructor.

Musical Groups Are Organizing

Three Idaho musical groups told plans for organizational meetings this week.

A meeting of the University variety band is scheduled for 10 a.m. Saturday in room 216 of the Music Building, according to director Ernie Carr, SAE.

Members of the pep band are selected by audition, Carr said.

Sweet, and Joe McFarland, Gault, independent men's function; Kay Zenier, Alpha Gam, women's assembly; Dan Watson, Willis, independent mixer; Gary Dosssett, Sigma Chi, all-campus mixer.

They play for games, rallies, shows, and other special events.

The University marching band will hold an organizational meeting at 1 p.m. Friday in room 216 of the Music Building.

Warren Bellis, band director, said anyone who can't attend the meeting should contact him.

Auditions for the Vandaleers, Idaho's singing mixed chorus, will be held throughout this week. Director Glen Lockery said interested students should sign-up in the Music Building lobby.

With the threat of Communist domination, Kerbs believed "we are not as well off as we thought we were." He explained Russia is continuing to progress in education, while we are falling behind.

"Russians have almost seven million students on the high school level engaged in a five-year program for the study of the English language," Kerbs stated.

"Unless you and I meet this

"From this, you can see why education is important. "Now that you are beginning your college career," Kerbs said, "I think you better stop right now and evaluate yourself, your motives, and your goals.

"See how much more important and less selfish it is to ask what can I do for society, instead of what do I want out of society."

At last count, officials at Idaho State College in Pocatello predicted a probable new enrollment record.

The expected enrollment will reach 2,453, officials predicted. The high mark previous was 2,359 in 1956.

Gem Dedicated To Theophilus

Arrival of advance copies of the University's year book, the 1958 Gem of the Mountains, Monday revealed the annual has been dedicated to Dr. D. R. Theophilus, University president.

Another 500 copies of the book will be distributed in the ASUI office of the SUB at 10 am. Monday.

A Western Teamsters truck strike, resolved this week, has caused a delay in shipments of the yearbooks to the Idaho campus.

Theme of the book is progress, illustrated by scenes of the Nineties and present day.

Myrt Williamson, who was graduated this spring, was editor of the publication. Associate editors were Kay Conrad, Gamma Phi, and Marjie Bradbury, Kappa.

True Confessions' Westminster Topic

"True Confessions of Two Working Girls" is the theme of a Westminster Foundation program scheduled for 5 p.m. Sunday in the Campus Christian Center.

Reports of two Idaho coeds, who spent their summer in seminars on government and urban problems, will be given.

Kay Harberlac, Alpha Chi, who studied government problems, and Rosie Bruce, Forney, who concentrated on urban problems, will be narrators for the program.

A coffee hour is slated for 4 p.m. Tuesday at the Campus Christian Center.

Senior at Psychiatrist's office: "It's terrible, Doc! My room is plastered with pictures of Marilyn Monroe, Jayne Mansfield, and Jane Russell."

"Then what's your trouble?" asked the doctor.

New Women's Page Policy Inaugurated

The Argonaut this year has inaugurated a new policy regarding women's page news. Striving for more complete coverage, the Arg will incorporate news from all living groups into single articles Tuesday and Friday.

Under this year's arrangement the women's page editor will combine the news into a single column to make the page more compact and more readable.

In the past, news from each living group was run largely unedited. The Arg staff feels that the system which will be inaugurated will add greatly to the general format of the paper.

Argonaut editor Jim Golden said the deadline for turning in all house news will be 2 p.m. on the day before publication at the society desk in the Arg office of the SUB.

News should be turned in on the following days:

MONDAY: Alpha Tau Omega, Delta Chi, Delta Tau Delta, Lambda Chi Alpha, Phi Kappa Tau, Sigma Chi, Tau Kappa Epsilon, Theta Chi, Campus Club, Shoup Hall, Willis Sweet Hall, Gault Hall, Alpha Chi, Delta Delta Delta, Gamma Phi Beta, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Hays Hall, Ethel Steel House.

THURSDAY: Beta Theta Pi, Delta Sigma Phi, Kappa Sigma, Phi Delta Theta, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Sigma Nu, LDS House, Chrisman Hall, Lindley Hall, Upham Hall, McConnell Hall, Alpha Gamma Delta, Alpha Phi, Delta Gamma, Kappa Alpha Theta, Pi Beta Phi, Forney Hall, Permeal French House.

Engagements

Included on the summer engagement lists were these Idaho couples:

Sylvia Chase, Alpha Phi, to Ed Thornburgh, SAE; Reba Troyer, Alpha Chi, to Ross Trunkey; Marilyn Applegate, Pi Phi, to Dan Merritt, Phi Tau; Karen DeKlotz, Tri Delt, to Dean Judd, Phi Tau, and Linda Aaring, Delta Gamma, to Wiley Wagner, Beta.

Giant Strides Evident In Campus Building

By JIM FLANIGAN

Students returning to the Idaho campus for the fall term found growth evident as the University made rapid strides in its long-range building program.

Atop the I-Tower hill, crews continued to re-contour the proposed site of a new University president's residence, new fraternity and sorority houses, and men's and women's dormitories.

Land-leveling is virtually completed, but the ground will have to settle for about a year before any building can start.

Sigma Chi fraternity has already selected one of the lots on the I-Tower hill, and will probably be the first to build. No action has been taken on a president's home, but it is provided for in the University's long-range plans.

Fraternities and sororities will be offered a 99-year lease on the lots, University officials reported.

The entire area has been seeded for grass to assure proper drainage, and to avoid washing of dirt down the hill.

A road through the Arboretum is nearing completion. The gravelled scenic drive will later be converted into an asphalt road. It will lead to the University golf course club house, where it will join two other gravelled arteries.

and the area there is presently being converted into a parking lot, scheduled to be completed in the next few weeks.

Mall Planned

A shaded walkway is planned in the future between Gault Hall and Memorial Gymnasium. Shrubbery will be planted along the mall, and a cement sidewalk constructed there.

Shoup Hall, twin to McConnell Hall and the newest men's dormitory on campus, was completed just before school opened for the fall semester.

Beds and desks have been moved into the 110-man unit, but furnishings are still incomplete in the hall's living room.

New furniture, ordered by the University for this fall, has been delayed because of a western Teamsters' strike, officials said.

However, the strike was resolved this week, and shipments should resume in the near future.

Need Million

University officials report that a million-dollar appropriation will be asked for in the next legislature to build a physical science building.

The proposed site of the structure is between the library and Agricultural Science Building, where the old greenhouses are now standing. Newer greenhouses are located in the Agricultural Farm area.

Law students will be settled in the Ad Building's first floor this year. The new College of Law location was completed this summer.

Married student housing will be improved in the next few years. Yet's village will be torn down at the end of this academic year, and new fire-proof units constructed soon afterward.

Last year's married students only are living in the village, and vacancies are not being filled. A definite site has not been named for the new married student housing project, but it will be in the campus area, and not at North Main Street village.

The usual painting and refinishing of buildings was the only other work completed over the summer months.

NEARING COMPLETION—Two new sorority houses, Pi Beta Phi (top) and Gamma Phi Beta, joined the ever-growing family of campus living groups this week. The Gamma Phi house is now occupied by members and pledges who are living on the sleeping porch until the house is completely finished. The Pi Phi house will not be ready for occupancy until late October. Meanwhile members and pledges are living at Hays Hall.

Officials To Set SUB Work Date

Starting date for construction work on the new $2 million Student Union building addition and skating rink will be set by the University administration and Board of Regents sometime next spring.

Gale Mix, ASUI General Manager, said it would take the group about six more months to formulate plans and determine the possible numbers of students who will enroll at Idaho in future years.

The new addition would extend from the present structure across the parking lot to Sixth Street. Plans call for expansion of the present basement, first and second floor facilities and an entirely new building housing a skating rink.

The expansion development would raise ASUI fees from the present $15 a year to $35 or $45, or an annual increase of $20 to $30.

The SUB parking lot, located directly north of the building, will be temporarily expanded to accommodate 95 cars, Mix said. The lot last year had a 70-car capacity.

Ground is now being cleared just south of Theta Chi fraternity for the additional space.

Several improvements in the current SUB were made during the summer, Mix said.

Crews worked much of the summer sanding, reconditioning and painting the SUB game room bowling alleys and Mix commented he thought the alleys were now "among the best in the Northwest."

The alleys opened Monday. Both faculty and students will be charged $1 for three lines of bowling.

Last year students were charged $3.35 a line or $1 for three lines but faculty paid a straight $4.40 per line charge.

New cigarette, candy and milk machines have been installed in the Bucket.

Mix said he thought the new ending machines would help to "stop the service delay during rush hours of the day."

In addition to improvements in the game room and the Bucket, much of the furniture in upstairs conference rooms has been reupholstered and reconditioned, he added.

Richardson New Naval ROTC Head

A much decorated Navy career officer, Captain George F. Richardson, is new professor of naval science and commanding officer of the Navy Reserve Officer Training Corps.

He succeeded Captain John M. Wyckoff who was reassigned.

A graduate of the Naval Academy in 1938, Captain Richardson had sea duty for the next two years on the battleship West Virginia and the destroyer Dupont. After training at the submarine school, he served in the silent service throughout World War II.

He was executive officer of the D-46, gunnery officer and first lieutenant of the USS Fargo, executive officer and navigator of the USS Sailfish, operations officer on the staff of Commander Submarine Squadron Four and commanding officer of the USS Tarpon.

For outstanding duty while on the Fargo, he was awarded the Bronze Star and for meritorious service on the Sailfish, the Silver Star and a Gold Star in lieu of a second Bronze Star.

Highlights of service on the Fargo the sinking of over 27,000 tons and damaging an additional 9,800 tons of Japanese shipping in a single night by surface attack with six torpedoes. The Sailfish was the first U.S. submarine to sink, unassisted, a heavily escorted Japanese aircraft carrier.

Captain Richardson was U.S. Naval attaché at Seoul, Korea, from 1950 to 1954.

He commanded the destroyer Ross for two years and served as assistant chief of staff for intelligence on the staff of the commander in chief of the Caribbean command. He came to the Idaho campus from duty in the Canal Zone.

New Faculty Appointments, Position Advances Released

Five faculty members at the University of Idaho were advanced to the rank of full professor in June.

The new professors are William H. Baker, chairman of botany and head of biological sciences; William S. Greever, chairman of history; Edward C. Moore, chairman of philosophy; William F. Barr, entomologist, and Ruby A. Wortham, zoologist.

Professor Joseph Newton was named head of the department of mining and metallurgy after serving in an acting capacity.

Moving up to associate professors from assistant professors were Luane J. LeTourneau, agricultural chemistry; Norman R. Logan, music; Siegfried B. Roland, social sciences, and Lee A. Sharp, range management.

Those promoted to assistant professorships included J. Vail

Foy and Floyd C. Tolleson, Jr., English; Richard G. Kappler and Werner K. A. Suttner, languages; Arthur R. Gittins, entomology, and Fred H. Winkler, history and political science.

Acting instructors made instructors were Robert W. Clark, accounting, and Keith D. MacPhee and Geraldine H. Meiners, secretarial studies. Lewis G. Neal was moved up from a research fellow to instructor in chemical engineering.

Later in the summer, the Board of Regents approved appointments of 12 additional faculty members.

They included Dr. Waldo Curtis, associate professor of physics, who has been on the faculty of Michigan State university.

New assistant professors are Lyle H. McIlff, accounting, who is returning to the faculty after serving in industry, and Laurence D. Miller, veterinary science, who received his doctor of veterinary science degree from Washington State college.

Francis A. Langer was named assistant librarian, readers services. He has been reference librarian at the University of Miami.

Named agricultural engineering technologist, junior, was William B. Laakonen. A native of Salmon, he holds both bachelor and master's degrees from the University of Idaho. Jack C. Chugg, native of Rupert and also a University of Idaho graduate.

G Phi, Pi Phi Houses Near Completion

The Gamma Phi and Pi Phi sorority houses, $280,000 worth of new Greek living groups, will be completed by late October, spokesmen predicted today.

The two buildings, each designed to house 56 coeds or more, were scheduled to be completed by the beginning of the first semester but a West Coast trucking strike delayed materials for almost a month.

The Gamma Phi house, the first ranch-styled dwelling on the campus, was partly finished before the beginning of sorority rushing and members and pledges are already living there. Pi Phi, however, has been living at the Moscow Hotel. Both members and pledges will move to Hays Hall this weekend and stay there until their building is ready for occupancy about Oct. 20.

Members of both sororities are eating their meals at the Student Union Building.

Split-Level

Utilizing split-level construction, the brick Gamma Phi house features a promenade at the entryway, a combination dining room and dance area, large study areas and extensive storage space.

The three-story Pi Phi house design shows both colonial and Mediterranean influence. Two balconies overlook the entrance. Sleeping facilities on the same floor as the study rooms contrast with the usual dormitory-type sleeping quarters at other sororities.

Yet to be installed at both houses is carpeting, kitchen equipment. Most rooms at the Pi Phi still must be painted.

Construction began last spring under private financing arrangements. The Gamma Phis vacated their quarters on Blake Street over to the Alpha Gamma Delta sorority and Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity took over the Pi Phi house.

Argonaut Meeting Is Scheduled Wednesday

Students interested in working on the Argonaut this semester are asked to attend an informal meeting in the Borah theater at 4 p.m. Wednesday.

Jim Golden, Argonaut editor, said there are positions open for reporters, copy readers, advertising personnel, photographers, and in circulation.

Different aspects of the Argonaut will be discussed by various department heads of the paper.

The staff works in the Arg offices every Monday and Thursday afternoons, Golden commented.

Club Nears Finish

A new 60-man dormitory, now being constructed south of French House, will replace Campus Club, which was destroyed by fire last spring.

University officials predicted that residents will move into the new unit by semester time. At present, they are being housed in the lower floor of Pine Hall.

The roof on the new Campus Club is now finished, and will allow crewmen to finish interior work during inclement weather.

When completed, about 15 more men than those who will live in Campus Club will be able to eat there.

Debris from the old Campus Club was cleared completely this summer, and the area smoothed out with a bulldozer. Grass will probably be planted there.

Idaho Club was also torn down.

NEWEST DORM—University President D. R. Theophilus and H. Walter Stefens, executive dean of the University, prepare to make a tour of Shoup Hall, Idaho's newest men's dormitory, which will house about 110 men.

IDAHO, OREGON VIE TOMORROW

Stahley Names Espinoza Probable Starting Quarter

The big question of who will replace the graduated Howard Willis at quarterback was at least partly resolved Tuesday when Idaho head coach Skip Stahley named transfer Joe Espinoza as probable starting signal caller for tomorrow's Oregon-Idaho clash at Eugene.

Espinoza, a six-foot, 190-pound junior, who transferred to Idaho from Yakima Junior College last spring, moved into the number one position with the announcement that Gary Farnworth, one of the other two quarterback contenders, had been injured and probably would see only limited action this weekend.

The other question mark, center, will tentatively be handled by 235-pound Stan Fanning, a one-year letterman who last fall backed up Wayne Walker at the pivot spot.

Ken Hall, second leading distance punter in the nation last year, will handle kick-off and conversion duties as well as his regular position at fullback. The other leading fullback candidate, Dick Pickett, quit the squad Wednesday, announcing that he wished to devote more time to his studies. Pickett, who has been plagued by a knee injury since the start of fall practice, had been expected to provide much-needed depth at the fullback position.

The Idaho line, while missing five starters from 1957's front wall, was described by Stahley as "potentially comparable with last year's line by the middle of the season."

Stahley added however, that no line-backer of Walker's caliber or lineman of Jerry Kramer's ability have yet developed.

Roussos Shifted

A major change this week saw 220-pound center John Roussos shifted to right guard by Stahley in an effort to strengthen the spot left vacant by Kramer.

The Vandals, who took to the air on many occasions last season, are more likely to stay close to the ground this year. "We hope to throw the ball some, but as yet our quarterbacks are inexperienced," Stahley noted.

Defense rather than offense was stressed this week, however, with the Vandals concentrating on containing Oregon's ground game and passing attack, which could be deadly with All-American Ron Stover on the right end of the Oregon line.

No full-scale scrimmages have been held this week in an effort to keep all 37 men on the traveling team in top shape for the opening game tilt.

Starters Named

Harriers Look To 2nd Cross Country Title

Headed by four of the six members of last year's PCC cross country champions, the Idaho harriers are in a solid position to repeat as one of the top teams on the coast this fall, according to cross country coach Joe Glander.

The harriers, who last year won three of four meets including the all-PCC meet at Los Angeles, reign as defending PCC champions, the only Vandal athletic group to win top honors last year. Returnees to Glander's camp include Frank Wyatt, holder of the Northern Division track championship in the two mile, Dick Boyce, crack half miler who finished third in his specialty at the ND track meet, Ron Adams, who finished third in the mile at the ND track meet last spring, and Pete Reed and Bruce Wendle, the former a letterman, and both members of last fall's championship team.

Besides the lettermen, Glander will have the largest crop ever of newcomers.

Newcomers

They include: Charlie Smith, Polk; Gary Michael, Laurel, Mont.; Bud Dove, Kamiah; Wendell May, Southern California runner who was a member of the state champion high school cross country team in California last year; Norman Luke, member of Twin Falls championship relay team last spring, and Jay Boyle, Weiser, who finished second in the state in quarter-mile competition in 1958.

"May looks awfully good," Glander noted. "He has a lot of desire, and could replace Ray Hatton." Hatton is one of two members of last fall's harriers who will not be back this season.

INTRAMURALS

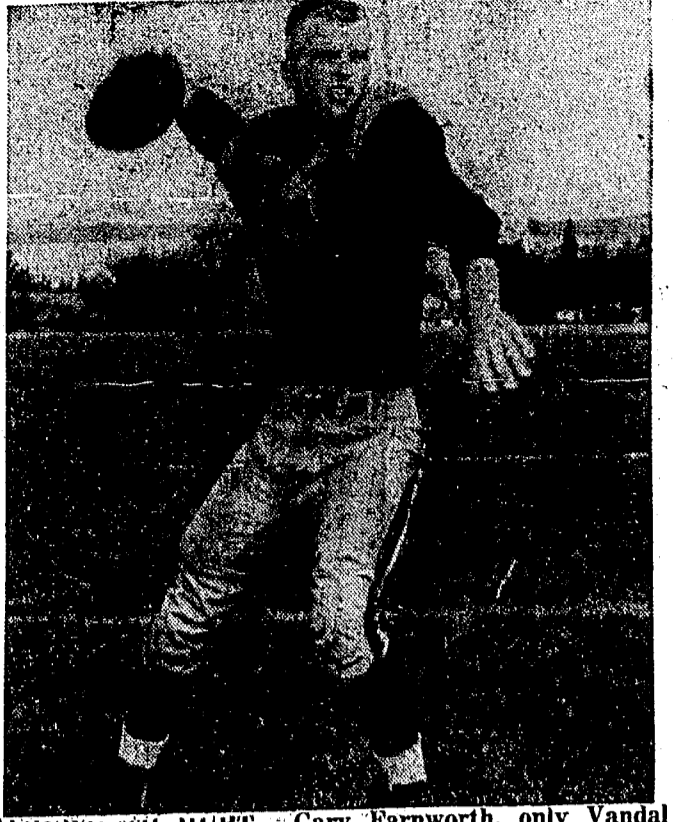

The annual meeting for all intramural managers to open the 1958-1959 intramural program will be held at 9:30 p.m. Monday in room 109 of the Memorial gymnasium, intramural director Clem Parberry said.

The meeting, which precedes the start of a year-long intramural program on the Idaho campus, will be primarily concerned with election of officers, and setting up the schedule for touch football and tennis, Parberry said.

Both sports are slated to start soon, with football tentatively scheduled to begin Wednesday and the tennis program to follow the first week in October.

Last year Town Men grabbed top honors in the touch football field, while Phi Delta Theta fraternity reigned as tennis champions.

Parberry heads into his second year as chief man for the Idaho intramural program, assisted by Carl Hendricks, who also served as assistant last year.

FARNWORTH HURT—Gary Farnworth, only Vandal quarterback to have actual varsity experience, suffered a shoulder injury in practice this week and is expected to see only limited action in the season opener with Oregon tomorrow.

Golf Championship Begins Next Week

Idaho golf begins Monday with the opening match of a series of qualifying rounds to determine the annual Idaho campus golf champion, golf course manager Dick Snider announced recently.

The qualifying matches, which are slated from Monday to the following Sunday, will be run on a flight basis which will match golfers of approximate ability, with the number of flights to be determined by the number of entrants.

Regular semester links tickets are available at the course club house at the usual $5 price, according to Snider.

Babes Host Pups In First Game

Idaho varsity footballers of the future, the Vandal Babes, meet the University of Washington frosh in the first game of the season, Oct. 24 here in Moscow.

Besides the season-opener with the junior Huskies, the young Vandal gridders meet the WSC Couabes at Pullman Nov. 1, and host Montana's Junior Varsity Nov. 8 in the last scheduled Idaho home game of their three game season.

Last season the Babes, playing the same three foes, dropped all three games, and failed to score a point. This year, bolstered by what promises to be a near "Idaho will be better off in a re-organized conference." This was the opinion of Vandal football coach Skip Stahley, who recently discussed the almost-defunct Pacific Coast Conference with the Argonaut.

Stahley, head coach at Idaho since 1954, seemed convinced the Vandals would enter any future western conference as a full-time member with a full-time chance to cop top honors.

At present, Idaho stands as a half-partner in the present conference group.

The PCC was founded in 1915 by the University of Oregon, University of California, Oregon State College, and University of Washington.

It is currently made up of the four original member schools as well as five late-comers, of which only Idaho is ineligible to compete in the Rose Bowl because of a limited PCC game schedule.

Few PCC Games

The Idaho grid team has played no more than five conference games since 1948, relying on out-of-conference tilts to complete its nine or ten game season.

Idaho and the University of Southern California were accepted into the PCC together in 1922, following the admission of Stanford University and Washington State College in 1916.

In 1923, because of the distance involved between the California schools and the other members of the conference, Southern and Northern divisions of the organization were formed for competition in all sports except football, which remained on a conference-wide basis.

Montana State University and UCLA completed the conference roster, with MSU joining in 1924, and UCLA being added in 1927. Montana later dropped out in 1950, and joined the Mountain States Conference.

Idaho, the other so-called "weak sister," in the PCC, twice won the coast championship in basketball. However, they have never been able to finish higher than second in football, baseball or track, until last year's cross-country team took top honors.

Gary Randall's SIDELINES

1958 Grid Season Could Be One Of Best In Vandal History

Searching for an original title for a sports column is no easy job. Practically every possible term for Argonaut columns ranging from "Chalk Talk" of a few years past, to last year's highly successful "Neutral Corner" has been used.

This year, however, "Sidelines" makes its appearance on the Argonaut sports page, aimed not only at covering Vandal sports from the sidelines, but also throwing in a few interesting sidelights, or sidelines. Like "Neutral Corner," "Sidelines" will attempt to keep a neutral, unbiased position, and will try to avoid over or under-praising Vandal sport prowess.

After last year's successful (4-4-1) season, many Idaho fans feel that this year, without such Vandal stalwarts as Jerry Kramer, Wayne Walker, Larry Aldrich, Howard Willis, etc., Idaho football fortunes may take a sharp drop.

Some sports writers feel that football coach Skip Stahley faces 1958 as a "building year."

On both counts Vandal gridders in the coming season should prove that not only are the Vandals tough, but that if 1958 is a so-called "building year," 1959 will be the year that no one stops Idaho.

The chief thing that Stahley may lack is an experienced quarterback, and with three top candidates in Gary Farnworth, Joe Espinoza and Sil Vial, that particular spot might well turn out to be one of the strongest on the squad.

Spring and early fall practice have given all three potential signal callers ample opportunity to demonstrate their abilities and all three seem able to do the job capably.

First Test

Idaho's first grid test, the 1958 Rose Bowlers, the University of Oregon, boasts a returning squad built around 21 lettermen.

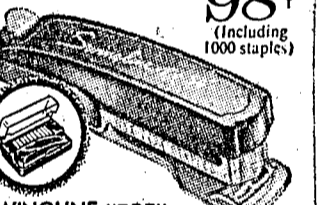

Idaho counts 23 returning letterwinners, including pro football prospects Pete Johnson, 220 pound right tackle, and Wade Patterson, 220 pound end. Both men are seniors, and both have plenty of game experience under Stahley.

The Ducks, pre-season choice of many sports writers to be one of the top PCC teams, had to fight all the way last year to beat the Vandals, 9-6, on a last minute field goal by Jack Morris.

With a few breaks, the Idaho eleven could well turn the tables on the Webfoots tomorrow.
