With three members recuperating from injuries received in an auto accident two weeks ago and another getting over knife wounds, they were already front runners.

But last weekend they just about clinched the title when two more of their number ended up in the Infirmary with minor hurts. One, junior Tom Ratcliffe, crashed through a window, badly cutting his right hand, and another, freshman Dave Landon, fell from a fire escape to the ground three stories below. He wrenched an ankle, but was back in classes Monday.

Growing Too Fast?

· Ever since the time of Malthus (and probably before the Neanderthal man) there have been misgivings that in time the earth would become too thickly populated to produce food for all the human beings on it. This apprehension is voiced by Dr. John Rock in a recent lecture in New York.

The warning is too serious to be disregarded, though one may believe the reasoning leaves out or underestimates important facts. Among these facts are the immense increases in food production through technology — the plow, fertilizers, seed selection, power machinery, irrigation, hydroponic or soilless plant culture, and exploration of marine biology for food sources from the sea.

For instance, fewer than one-seventh of the people in the United States produce not only enough farm products for this country but a surplus even above wanted exports, whereas more than four out of five are engaged in producing the means of subsistence in relatively primitive economies of Asia, Africa, and Latin America.

There are countries where heavy pressure of population on the land has brought not prosperity but misery and want. Italy and Japan have had this problem. India is grappling with it. Communist China seems not sure whether to regard its exploding millions with satisfaction or with dread.

Certainly the doctor is right that the mere adding of bodies to the earth's population does not increase happiness but could end in more strife among "hungry and crowded people." More important is the capacity and will of a civilization, a country, or a family to clothe, train, and educate its children—to equip them with productive goods, technical skills, cultural background, and spiritual sensitivity.

-Christian Science Monitor

The True Meaning

Thursday Americans across the United States will be celebrating the nation's oldest holiday - Thanksgiving.

Here at Idaho, classrooms will be silent for one day as students take a short vacation from their books.

Some will probably make a trip home to be with their families; those that stay behind will have thoughts of sitting around the family table for Thanksgiving dinner. But the majority will most likely not think about the true meaning of the Back in 1612, Gov. Bradford of Plymouth Colony ordered that a day should be set aside for giving thanks to God. The Pilgrims held church services, followed by a huge feast of wild turkey and quail. In a token of brotherhood, they invited their Indian neighbors to the celebration, with Chief Massasoit heading the guest list.

In 1789, President Washington marked Thursday, Nov. 26, as a day to honor the constitution stating that it was "a day of general Thanksgiving for the establishment of a form of government that would make for safety and happiness.'

But credit for making Thanksgiving a national holiday is due a woman journalist, who was editor of Godey's Lady's Sarah Josepha Hale wrote editorials in her magazine and letters to governors and presidents for 20 years asking that a day be fixed in November for national recognition of Thanksgiving.

Her efforts were rewarded when President Lincoln issued a proclamation urging the country as a whole to give thanks for the bounties of God, "the fruitful fields, and healthful skies.'

E. P. Powell had a good idea when he wrote in Recreation magazine:

"Thanksgiving Day is a jewel to set in the hearts of honest men; but be careful that you do not take the day and leave out the gratitude."—J.C.F.

The From History's Pages The year that is drawing to its close has been filled with the blessings of fruitful fields and healthful skies. To these bounties, which are so constantly enjoyed that we are prone to forget the source from which they came, others have been added, which are of so extraordinary a nature that they cannot fail to penetrate and soften the heart which is habitually insensible to the ever watchful providence of Almighty God . . .

It has seemed to me fit and proper that they should be solemnly, James R. Golden ... reverently and gratefully acknowledged as with one heart and one Dwight Chapin Managing Editor voice by the whole American people.

I do, therefore, invite my fellow citizens in every part of the United States, and also those who are at sea and those who are sojourning in foreign lands, to set aside and observe the last Thursday of November next as a day of thanksgiving and praise to our beneficient Father who dwelleth in the heavens.

-From the first national Thanksgiving proclamation issued by President Abraham Lincoln, in October, 1863.

An announcement of special interest to fall graduates in Engineering and Science

B.S. • M.S. • Ph.D.

Lockheed Missile Systems Division has created a number of special, new openings with unusual opportunities for fall graduates in electrical engineering, mechanical engineering, aeronautical engineering, mathematics or physics.

The Division is engaged in a broad program of basic research in all areas of scientific activity in missile and space technology, including advanced systems research; nucleonics; physics; chemistry; mathematics; design; test; electronics; flight sciences; and manufacturing. Some of the important studies under investigation are: man in space; space communications; ionic and plasma propulsion; space physics; nuclear propulsion; magnetothermodynamics; oceanography; computing machine memories; human engineering; noise suppression; materials and processes; boundary layer control; electro magnetic wave propagation and radiation; and operations research and analysis.

Lockheed is systems manager for such major long-term projects as the Navy Polaris IRBM; Air Force Q-5 and X-7; Army Kingfisher and other important research and development programs. The Division was honored at the first National Missile Industry Conference as "the organization that contributed most in the past year to the development of the art of missiles and astronautics."

LOCATION

Headquarters for the Division are at Sunnyvale on the San Francisco Peninsula and new modern Research and Development facilities are located in the Stanford Industrial Park in nearby Palo Alto. A four thousand acre company-owned static test base is located in the Ben Lomond mountains thirty miles from Sunnyvale. Other Division locations are at Van Nuys and Santa Maria, California; Cape Canaveral, Florida and Alamogordo, New Mexico. Together, they occupy more than two million square feet of laboratory, engineering, manufacturing and office space and provide the latest in scientific and technical equipment.

ASSIGNMENTS

Upon joining the Division, you are assigned to your special areas of interest and work directly under distinguished leaders in your field. The company encourages and sponsors individual communication with other scientists, the publication of papers and articles, and participation in symposiums and conventions. Every opportunity is given members of the technical staff to participate in the initiation of advanced technological developments.

GRADUATE STUDY PROGRAM

Of special interest to those who wish to continue their advanced education, is the Division's Graduate Study Program. Under it, selected students with qualified academic records may obtain advanced degrees at the University of California at Berkeley or Stanford University, while employed in their chosen fields at Lockheed. All costs of tuition, admission, thesis and textbooks are borne by the company.

IMPORTANT

The number of these special openings is limited. If you are interested, please wire collect directly to Mr. R. C. Beverstock, College Relations Administrator, 962 W. El Camino Real, Sunnyvale, California, giving your major, and degree level.

Let us now discuss shirts. Again this year the campus favorite is the good old Oxford with button-down collar and barrel cuffs. This is without doubt an admirable garment, but let me ask you a question: if you don't wear anything but Oxfords, what do you do with all the cuff links people have been giving you for your birthday since you were twelve years old?

Well sir, some fellows have their wrists pierced, but what E. Mackenzie Sigafoos, a Chi Psi of my acquaintance, did was to take a dozen pairs of his handsome gold monogrammed cuff links and string them together in a charm bracelet for his girl, Jo-Carol Isobar.

(It turned out, incidentally, to be a mistake. In short order so many admirers accrued to Jo-Carol on account of her gorgeous bracelet that she grew tired of plain old E. Mackenzie, and one night when she was seated on a bench in Lovers Lane throwing sticks for E. Mackenzie to retrieve, she suddenly, cruelly, without warning, told him they were through.

"I am heartbroken," said E. Mackenzie, heartbroken. "But if go you must, give me back my charm bracelet."

"No, I will keep it," said Jo-Carol.

"What for?" said E. Mackenzie. "You can't wear it. The initials on the cuff links are all mine-E.M.S."

"Ha, ha, the joke is on you," said Jo-Carol. "Yesterday I was voted Miss Chinese Restaurant of 1958."

"So?" said E. Mackenzie.

"So," replied Jo-Carol, "E.M.S. does not stand for E. Mackenzie Sigafoos. It stands for Eat More Subgum!
