No, Jason is not a write-in candidate for any office. At the time he is writing this, the vice-presidential post is still not filled. So whatever happened is told in the headlines at the top of this page. Comment on the results will be made in Tuesday's Argonaut.

Strong Man Contest Begins On Saturday

The Strong Man contest preliminaries kicking off Frosh Week, will be held Saturday at Memorial Gym.

All interested freshmen will be weighed in and competition will begin in weight-lifting and push-ups.

A finalist will be picked from each living group who will then compete for the Strong Man title Tuesday at 4:15 p.m. in the South Ballroom of the SUB.

Another event of Frosh Week is the Prettiest Legs contest. Two girls from each living group will vie for the honor on Monday in the Bucket. The winner will be crowned at the annual Frosh Dance, "Spring Fever" Saturday, March 19.

Finalists were picked for the Freshman King and Queen last Wednesday.

The Queen finalists are Lynn Hallvik, Pi Phi; Judy Johnson, Alpha Chi; Kay Lewis, Theta; DeLores Llewellyn, Delta Gamma; Jill Mathies, Gamma Phi; and Kay Vesika, Kappa.

King finalists are Stan Fallis, Fiji; John Fox, ATO; Dave Fraizer, Sigma Chi; Dick Harris, Beta; Wanek Stein, Sigma Nu; and Chuck Robertson, Delta.

Voting on the finalists will be held on Friday, and the winners will be crowned at the dance.

race for "The Weightiest House on Campus" continues with the Alpha Chis taking a slight edge over the Delta Gammans.

Voting jars are still set up in the SUB so votes can be cast.

Auction Is Highlight

Highlight of the Carnival will be the auction with various house donations in the offering.

Sandra Byrne, Pi Phi, co-chairman of the auction committee, requests bidders for the various participating houses to check with her in the Pine Room between 9:30 and 10:15 p.m. Saturday to receive their bidding numbers. Bidders must sign in with her.

During the course of the auction, the funds committee will collect from each bidder as a bid is won, stated Miss Byrne, and the bidder's signature will be obtained.

Bids Count

She said several houses failed to govern their bidding last year and consequently depleted their funds to such an extent that they are unable to participate this year. She asked that this be a reminder to bidders not to put themselves out of action for next year.

Saturday night will be "Owl Night" for the co-eds, said Miss Byrne, and they may stay out until 2 a.m. after paying a fee of 50 cents. Casual clothes are suggested for the evening.

Larry Harvey, FarmHouse, co-chairman of the house representatives committee, stressed the restrictions for construction of the booths in the ballroom. Because of the damage created in previous years, he said, there will be no painting done in the room. Nails are not to be driven in the walls and floor and builders must be careful not to bring in wet lumber that might damage the floors.

Damages Charged

The participating houses will be held responsible for any damage created by their booths. They are to have the booths down and the ballroom cleaned by 10 a.m. Sunday, he said.

Following the auction, all groups must collect the tickets received at their booths and turn them in to the funds committee so they can be tabulated and a trophy awarded to the most successful group. The winner will be announced next week, stated Harvey.

Vice-Presidential Race Is At A Dead Standstill

By NEIL LEITNER Argonaut News Editor

Using the effective idea of the Student Representative Assembly as a shoehorn, United Party's Bruce McCowan piled up a lead of 545 votes to defeat Independent Paul Krogue in ASUI presidential election tonight.

Although the presidential contest was never in doubt, the real drama of the seven-plus hour session came in the razor thin battle between vice presidential candidates John Fitzgerald, Delt, and Jerry Walsh, write-in candidate from Upham Hall.

Taylor, 5 Greeks, 3 Ind. Win Executive Board Seats

By GARY RANDALL Argonaut Staff Writer

Five Greeks, Three Independents, and the lone member of the Campus Representative Party were elected to the ASUI Executive Board tonight in one of the longest student government body tabulations in campus history.

Bob Alexander, the sole sophomore running for the board, swept in first, picking up the required 237 votes on the ninth ballot at 9:50 p.m., some 50 minutes after counting for the board began. Last year two candidates were elected on the first ballot.

Lorna Woelfel, running far down the vote list, picked up over 78 tallies on the same ninth ballot to go over the hump second, just eight minutes after Alexander was elected.

The three Independent candidates were elected on the tenth ballot.

During the 2 1/2-hour smoker, sponsored by the outgoing Executive Board, those seeking office answered questions ranging from better student representation to the recent fund raising program for the Cross Country team.

Both presidential candidates discussed their platforms and planks for the spectators' satisfaction.

"We feel this election is very important," Greek president candidate Bruce McCowan said. "We are the ones who can provide the impetus for improving higher education."

Paul Krogue, the Independent candidate for the same office, added: "We also think ours is a strong platform and our candidates are qualified to put this program into action."

A review of the election will be made by the Board of Arbitration, consisting of University President D. R. Theophilus; faculty representative Charles Peterson and student representative Noh.

Young said that the protest was tentative, pending final outcome of 2 ballots which are still in question.

"The Teahouse of the August Moon" was produced recently at Idaho State.

ELECTION PROTESTED

The backers of write-in candidate Jerry Walsh, Upham, for vice president, late tonight filed a formal protest with ASUI President Laird Noh over the outcome of the election for that office.

Bob Young, Lindley, speaking for Walsh, said that the formal protest was being filed. Certification of the vice presidential election was not given tonight.

A review of the election will be made by the Board of Arbitration, consisting of University President D. R. Theophilus; faculty representative Charles Peterson and student representative Noh.

Young said that the protest was tentative, pending final outcome of 2 ballots which are still in question.

The second count was 892 for Walsh, and 916 for Fitzgerald, but a mistake was made in the cross filing system, and on the third count, the sums were more reasonable, with Fitzgerald receiving 916 and Walsh 917.

On the fourth count, Walsh got 912 and Fitzgerald 915, and immediately a request for a re-vote was made by Dan Watson, Independent caucus president.

Much of Walsh's trouble came with obvious uniformedness of supporters. At least 25 of the miscellaneous 78 ballots for other candidates for president and Executive board were cast for Walsh.

They were immediately invalidated because, as Dave Trail, Sigma Chi, Election Board chairman put it, "A guy can't run for every office available, no matter what the intentions of the voters. But nevertheless, it's going to be damn close."

FOREIGN STUDENTS HONORED

"Getting to Know You" will theme WSU's International Festival Week opening Monday at Pullman to honor the 150 foreign students at WSU.

Presidency Decided

In the battle for the presidency, Watson said, at 6:10 p.m., "I can't believe it," but he conceded the battle to McCowan.

The election, in which a record spring election total of 2405 votes were cast, gave a 68 per cent total to the University, with a registered 3652 undergraduates enrolled.

As the battle for the admittedly close vice-presidency started, Trail yelled, "Double count all these votes." In the end they had to be recounted four times.

As early as 6:23 p.m. an Election Board was formed. (Continued On Page 2, Col. 6)

The conference will begin Sunday in local churches and youth groups and will open on campus Monday morning with seven visiting speakers and a full schedule of seminars, personal conferences and dinner engagements.

The theme, "Alone in the Crowd," is designed to arouse the realization that religion can be a vital and living force in the lives of college students. Students will be encouraged to relate religion to the great social issues of the age as well as their personal lives.

Kick-Off Sunday

Sunday is kick-off day with guest speakers participating in Moscow church services in the morning and meeting with various groups in the evening. The conference will officially get underway Sunday at 8 p.m. at a reception for RIL committee and speakers at the Campus Christian Center.

Elder Marion D. Hanks, member of the First Council of the Seventy, Church of Latter Day Saints and main speaker for the conference, will give the Convocation address in the Ad Building Auditorium at 11 a.m. Classes will be shortened Monday morning for this event.

All speakers, RIL committee, the Religious Directors Assn. and the ministers of Moscow will attend a noon luncheon Monday at the Conterbury House.

After the opening convocation, the conference emphasis will be contained in 13 seminars to be held in the Student Union.

Questions And Answers

Each seminar will consist of a 50-minute period divided into approximately a 30-minute talk by the speaker and about 20 minutes of questions and answers. Seminars will run Monday through Wednesday beginning at 3:15 and 4:15 each afternoon.

Each evening at 5:30 speakers will meet and eat with individual living groups until 7:30. Other evening events after the dinner hour will include a coffee hour on Monday, a panel discussion on "Great Decisions" and a coffee hour on Tuesday, and large group discussions and coffee hour Wednesday to conclude the conference.

Personal conferences for students with particular speakers can be arranged on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Waugh To View Literary Scene

Novelist Alec Waugh will view "The English Literary Scene" at a Public Events talk in Memorial Gymnasium tomorrow at 11 a.m. The sophisticated British novelist, who backgrounds most of his novels by traveling the world, is the author of the 1956 best-seller "Island in the Sun." The Hollywood version of "Sun" enjoyed considerable box-office success.

After his campus speech Waugh will lunch with the faculty in the SUB. The Public Events Committee has arranged an informal discussion hour in the Borah Theatre at 1:30 p.m. It will be open to students.

ALEC WAUGH
"Island in the Sun"

Waugh first won literary acclaim while serving in the British army during World War I. Writing after drill periods he produced "The Loom of Youth," a critical appraisal of English public school life.

He became known in America in 1925 with the appearance of the novel "Kept." It is a story of postwar London society.

The best known member of the Waugh family is a brother, Evelyn. He has authored many best-sellers, most of which are humorous novels.

The shortened class schedule is 1st period, 8-8:35; 2nd period, 8:45-9:20; 3rd period, 9:30-10:05; and 4th period, 10:15-10:50.

2,000 Entered In High School Math Contest

Almost 2,000 Idaho high school students participated in the National High School Mathematics contest recently, it was announced today by Dr. K. A. Bush, head of the University mathematics department, who administered the test in the state.

"In all, 59 high schools entered," said Dr. Bush. "The response was the largest since the contest became a regular feature on the high school scene nation-wide two years ago."

Pocatello high school had the largest enrollment with 250 students participating. A number of high schools in the state registered more than 20 percent of their students in the contest. Cottonwood high school entered 37 per cent of its students.

The Sigma Xi scientific honorary chapter of the University voted to award prizes of $25, $15 and $10 to the three highest ranking students in the state.

The examination questions were prepared by college and high school teachers of mathematics and are of unusual difficulty, Dr. Bush said. A number of students who took the examination in past years and received high scores have done outstanding work since at the University and other institutions, he added.

Gotsch Named Wilson Fellow

University graduate student Carl Gotsch, off campus, has been selected as one of the 1,000 Woodrow Wilson fellows to be named this year by the national foundation.

Gotsch has received the fellowship amounting to $3,000 to work toward a doctorate degree in agricultural economics at Harvard. He is currently an agricultural economics teaching fellow at the University while working on a master's degree. Gotsch received a bachelor of science degree in agriculture from Idaho in 1956.

The purpose of the Woodrow Wilson foundation is to encourage promising men and women to consider careers as college teachers. Nomination by a university faculty member is the first encouragement a student receives. Through a careful process of selection, including a personal interview, 1,000 fellows are elected from the nominees and are fully supported through their first year of graduate study.

Those selected are expected to accept an award only if they believe that a career as a college teacher is at least a possibility for them.

Idaho Article Gets Review

The publication of the University student's version of what high school students should stress in studies before coming to the University has rated a review in another national magazine.

Requests for The Idaho Indicator have been as high as 50 a day from all parts of the United States and Canada since it was discussed in "Teen-Age Digest."

The publication has rated another favorable review in the current issue of "Builders," the youth magazine of the United Brethren church.

Material for the publication to aid high school students prepare for college years ahead was compiled by the Associated Students from material provided by University faculty and staff members.

Dear Jason,
To further substantiate my claim that this school excels in mass production of mediocrity, I call your attention to the disgusting lack of books in the bookstore. Here is obvious evidence that the University is composed basically of clods.

These remarks are not aimed at bookstore personnel, nor at the text book business. They are aimed at the extra reading material situation. The bookstore personnel supply student demand.

One glance in the door will reveal the demands of Idaho students: nine different kinds of ballpoint pens; three shelves of teddy bears; dozens of buckles and sweaters; loose-leaf note books ad infinitum.

Where are the young, aggressive minds demanding books to satisfy a deep thirst for knowledge, demanding to know what our intellectual heritage offers? They are worrying about what queen they will vote for at the next dance.

One can point out schools a tenth the size of this where bookstores the same size or smaller carry 20 times the books. Why? Student demand. A teddy bear would get about as far as the proverbial snowball.

This problem is not one of money. With quality paperbacks, students can afford a wealth of reading material. The problem is one of student "clodding."

The dry bones around this cultural, intellectual desert are dead attitudes, dusty intellectual life, and murdered minds. A bit of rarified air from an important author might also blow in some refreshing life-giving moisture.

Robert Young

Dear Jason:
I should like to congratulate the student body on its fine participation in the Wednesday night smoker. It was most gratifying to witness such a smoker in which the audience and candidates kept the discussion on a level constructive to student government.

I challenged the student body last year and will do so again. Let's keep up this fine spirit and interest and keep our University on top.

Karl C. Bittenbender

300 Journalists Are To Attend State Confab

More than 300 high school journalists from all parts of Idaho will take part in the University of Idaho's 14th annual high school journalism conference March 18 and 19, Dr. Granville Price, chairman of journalism, said today.

The conference is geared to the improvement of prep newspapers and yearbooks.

The opening talk covering journalism as a career will be made by Hugh Wagnon, a former Associated Press writer who is publisher of the Idaho State Journal at Pocatello.

The women's role in communications in a behind the scenes manner will be described by Mrs. Robert Hammes, whose husband is a publisher of the St. Maries Gazette-Record.

Life as a foreign correspondent will be told by Lucile McDonald of the Seattle Times, at the Friday evening banquet. Her topic is "Hunting Features on Three Continents." She is co-author of the book "Assignment in Ankara" due for spring release.

Mrs. Len Jordan, wife of the former Idaho governor, and Mrs. McDonald will be honored at a coffee hour Saturday morning by Theta Sigma Phi, women's journalism honorary. Mrs. Jordan also has a book scheduled for spring release.

While on the campus, the high school writers will attend numerous workshops, lectures, take part in writing contests and receive awards for their school newspapers.

By noon today, voting had reached 1877, with 675 being cast at the SUB, 400 at the Ad building, and 302 at Engineering.

WSU Festival Draws Groups

Five musical groups have been selected to perform in a special "Jazz in the Cub" jazz festival at WSU Saturday. The program will be held from 2:30-5 p.m. in the CUB ballroom.

The regular Saturday afternoon "Jazz in the Bucket," will not be held so Idaho students can attend the WSU festival, according to Dick Stiles, Idaho jazz chairman. The festival will feature the "Boatman Quintet," a jazz combo from Eastern Washington College of Education. The group, which plays a Dave Brubeck style, has been labeled one of the best combos in the Northwest.

A "West Coast" jazz demonstration will be given by Mike Duroe's, "The Five," a WSU group. "The Five," entertained at the Idaho "Jazz in the Bucket" last Saturday.

Other entertainment will include a jazz stock arrangement by "The Pastels," and music by the "Gatekeepers," a swing band. Completing the program will be some modern jazz symphony music by a special brass ensemble. All three groups are from WSU.

A similar jazz festival will be held in the Idaho SUB, March 26-27.

POSTURE! It means so much and no woman should ever settle for less than a graceful, poised carriage if she wishes to be truly attractive. How well you stand affects how well you walk. Body alignment means lining up your body so that all parts from top of your head to your toes falls into a balanced position. To test your alignment, weight one end of a tape measure with a large spool of thread. Stand before a long mirror so that you can see the profile of your right side. Hold the unweighted end of the tape to rest on the tip of your ear with your left hand. The tape should rest lightly on your shoulder and then fall to the floor.

Don't rearrange tape until you've checked these points of contact. Tape should rest on middle of shoulder joint, on high joint, on back of knee and the middle of the foot. Be honest with yourself... start to work on any spot that does not measure up, for these are the danger points. Good posture also makes you feel better.

Your feelings show in your face. And the way you feel controls the way you look. Are you bored with your looks? Then it's time for a trip to your hairdresser for a new hair style. Make that appointment today with Alice or one of her highly trained staff.

Unassuming Builder Of Lines To Leave Idaho Coaching Job

There will be an empty office in the west wing of Memorial Gymnasium come April 1st and only a couple of people will even notice.

But the man who sat in the chair behind the big desk in that room will be missed. His name—Don Swartz.

Don Swartz wasn't among Idaho's more colorful coaches. This columnist never said more than hello to him, even though he always seemed to be standing somewhere in Memorial Gym.

But Don Swartz's forte wasn't words and that wasn't what the University of Idaho was paying him for. It was paying him for turning out raw-meat eating football lines. At that Don Swartz was close to being a master.

Tells Story

A Vandal reserve lineman approached us the other day after he heard Swartz was quitting Idaho to return to high school coaching in Ohio.

"You know," he said with a look of respect in his eye, "that guy Swartz had me scared to death for weeks. I never quite got over a sort of fear of him."

"But," he was quick to add, "he is a heckava fine line coach. He taught me more in a couple of weeks than I learned all through high school."

They tell a story about Swartz when he played collegiate football for the mighty Ohio State Buckeyes.

Don never went out for practice during the week. His knees were so bad he couldn't have taken the punishment.

He Played Games

But every Saturday there was Swartz, big as a bear and twice as mean, starting at guard for Ohio State. And he usually played 60 minutes.

There's no questioning the fact that Swartz did a top notch job at Idaho. In three years here, he coached no less than five tackles, guards and centers who were selected in the player draft by professional teams.

Two of his proteges, Wayne Walker and Jerry Kramer, both have starred for two years in the NFL ranks.

This columnist remembers a trip to Stockton, Calif., with the Vandals two years ago, when Walker and Kramer were in their heyday.

Idaho was playing College of Pacific, what might fairly be called a dirty football team. COP worked over quarterback Gary Kenworthy in the first half, opening up a huge slash over his cheekbone.

Stopped Quick

Just after the second half began, Jack Larscheid, a 155-pound all-conference halfback for COP, came slashing through the line. Walker turned him into Kramer, who awesomely sent him crashing to the dirt.

Larscheid suffered a broken collarbone and played no more football that year. As Kramer came off the field shortly after, Don Swartz walked over and gave him a hearty thump on the seat of his pants. He said nothing.

That's the kind of guy Don Swartz is. Skip Stahley will do some sweating before finding another line coach as good.

Co-Rec Swimming Is Slated Again

New co-recreational swimming hours were announced yesterday by Clarke Mitchell, director of the Memorial Gymnasium pool.

He said the pool would be open from 3-5 p.m. Monday through Friday each week for co-recreational swimming and from 7 to 8:30 Wednesday and Friday nights.

Mitchell added that broken filters at the pool have been repaired, the water is now clear and new lights have been installed.

"It's once again a very enjoyable place to swim," Mitchell said.

Alum-Varsity Game Slated Here In May

Idaho football fans will get a second chance to see the Vandal greats of the past and present perform May 21 at Neale Stadium.

The second alumni- varsity football game is scheduled on that date, Athletic Director Robert Gibb announced Wednesday.

The first alumni- varsity clash, held last year, was both a financial and artistic success as the alumni won rather convincingly, 20-6.

But Coach Skip Stahley will have his pick of some 60 varsity candidates, including a host of junior college transfers, to try to avenge the loss.

Vandal lettermen expected to see a lot of action are Reg Carolan, Jim Davidson, Kent Valley, Bill Hill, Ron Ismael, Jim Neubauer, Ralph Jannino, Lee Shellman, Dan Vail, Bob Vervacke, Mike Sheeran and Sil Vial.

Leading the alumni will again be pro football stars Jerry Kramer and Wayne Walker. Scheduled to handle the alumni squad are Steve Symms and Wade Patterson.

Symms played center on last year's Vandal squad and Patterson was a star end two years ago on the Idaho team. He played in the clash last year.

ZAGS LOSE THREE
Gonzaga will lose only three seniors from this year's team: Blake Elliott, Charlie Jordan and George Morrison.

Track Squad Faces 2nd Season Test

Idaho's track team, bigger and better in almost every way from the tiny squad which scrapped for points last year, goes against Washington State in indoor trials at Pullman again this week.

No team scores were kept but coach Bill Sorsby said he was more than pleased with the team's first outing.

The ranks are thinning in intramural basketball and the pressure is starting to build as winners meet winners.

Second and third round action has been completed by most teams and less than 20 of the 72-team field still remain undefeated.

In a couple of thrillers Wednesday Delta Tau Delta 1 stopped Alpha Tau Omega 1, 16-14 in a sudden death overtime and Bob Harrell dumped in nine points as Wilis Sweet 2 edged Sigma Alpha Epsilon 1, 16-14, in sudden death overtime.

In bowling action Tuesday night, Chuck Thompson of Lindley rolled a 232 game to pace his team to a 4-0 win over Sigma Chi.

John Collet of Sigma Alpha Epsilon had the high individual series, a 525 and his team won over Sigma Nu, 3-1. Delta Sigma Phi, which stopped Kappa Sigma, 3-1, rolled the high team series, 2,396.

Baseball Hopefuls To Get First Outside Scrimmage

Turf will fly from Harris Field as the Vandal baseball team hopefuls take to the diamond at Lewiston Saturday for the squad's first practice game.

Forty candidates are presently working out in the Fieldhouse, but the size of the squad, according to Vandal coach Wayne Anderson, "will be thinned to 22."

Anderson has an optimistic outlook on the coming season, which will start Saturday, March 19, against Whitman at Walla Walla.

"We are a much improved ball club over last year's 7-28 squad," the Idaho mentor stated.

"There will be more strength on the mound with Steve Hincekley back in school and if Jack Bloxom's arm remains strong."

Bloxom Sound
Supplementing Hincekley, an all-northwest player two seasons ago, and Bloxom, who started strong last season but developed arm trouble, will be junior college transfers Denny Grant and Darrell Woofor.

Hurlers Pat Townsend and LeRoy Johnson, up from the frosh squad, are figured to add support.

Besides all-northern division alternates from last season, Fern Pa-sold at first base, Anderson's new strength will be determined by how well the junior college transfer players he has recruited come through.

Dick Mooney, most valuable player for Sacramento Junior College last year, leads the list of new talents. Mooney, claiming a .371 batting average in the JC circuit, is presently battling with Terry Boesel for second base.

New Shortstop
Bill Johnson, former all-high school from Richland, Wash., and last year a star for Columbia Basin, leads the field at shortstop.

Cage Captains Are Selected

Tall, rugged Rollie Williams and crowd-pleasing Dale James Tuesday were named to co-captain the 1960-61 Vandal basketball teams.

The pair were instrumental in helping Dave Strack's Vandals to an 11-15 season won-lost mark. Both are juniors.

Williams, a 6-4 forward, was runner-up to Joe King in team scoring with an 11.1 per game average. James, a 6-0 guard, was third in scoring with an 8.3 average, despite the fact he played only spasmodically early in the season.
