

WORLD-WIDE TEXTBOOK — A student hand reaches for a copy of the Holy Bible, the text of Christianity. The book is a guidepost for those participating in Religion in Life conferences the next two days.

Confab Enters 2nd Go-Round

With four seminars finished, and a one and a half day schedule of conferences, seminars and discussion groups to fill, the Religion in Life conference enters its second day today.

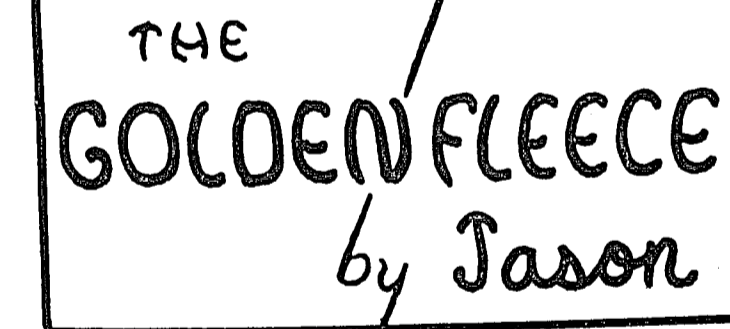

RIL centers this year's conference around the theme, "Alone In the Crowd," dealing with the idea that many people make up the world and each one thinks of himself as a separate entity with his own ideas and problems.

But there is an underlying unity, says RIL, that governs human behavior, forming a common basis for belief in God.

Keynote

Keynote speaker at yesterday's convocation was Marion D. Hanks, of the LDS church, who stressed the need for a re-emphasis of the standards of faith, decency, integrity and responsibility, saying "people feel lonely because there is a personal emptiness in them, the human power source is missing."

In two of yesterday's seminars in which drinking and suffering were discussed, Rev. Alvin Denman, chaplain at the College of Idaho, discussing drinking, said "I believe that an inner standard will direct the person to do the right thing in relationship to the love

There will be five Greeks, three Independents, and one of the two single candidates elected to the 1960-61 Executive Board.

This was the prediction Jason made in the Tuesday, March 8, edition of the Argonaut. Perhaps this was the luck of the Irish, but this is the way the cards seemed to fall prior to elections.

However, the vice-presidential race turned out to be mass confusion and anyone who would have tried to call that race could easily have had a red face when the final ballot was cast.

This goes to prove two things: The voters need to take elections more seriously and the Election Board needs to improve its system of conducting elections.

Jason feels that those students who wrote in names of no concern to this election were just playing an asinine trick that easily threw this race into a farce stage.

On the other hand, those people who voted twice should have been caught by the Election Board members even though the voters in case were just showing their ignorance by such an act.

A careful check of ASUI cards for identification and dates is mandatory. Also, the ballots were poorly marked for write-in candidates and for procedure in voting. This must be improved in future years if elections are to be conducted on a high plane.

Jason suggests that a space for a write-in candidate be printed after each office each year whether some students have indicated they will run in such a way or not. If the students and those conducting the election do their part, perhaps the mud slinging that went on in this year's campaign will be eliminated—somewhat.

About 1,930 years ago in a small community called Jerusalem a man known as Jesus Christ was roaming about the land, both in cities and in the country, preaching a strange new word.

His message blossomed out and touched the hearts and souls of people throughout the world. And today Christianity has become an important part of everyone's life and environment.

Many of us are often torn apart from our goals by various happenings that make us feel "lost in the crowd." But religion is a strong binding force during our trials and tribulations. Jason feels the current Religion in Life conference is a value to all, whether they be Christian, atheist, or agnostic.

1960 Chest Drive Nets $2,600 Total

The 1960 Campus Chest took in approximately $2,600 for dispersion for charitable organizations, John Fitzgerald, Del, head of Campus Chest, said yesterday.

The goal of the Chest was $3,000 but the amount contributed was termed very good in spite of the fact that the ASUI elections took much of the interest over the weekend, Fitzgerald said.

Alpha Chi Omega took the "Weightiest House on Campus" contest with the Delta Gammas running a close second.

The annual Carnival held in the SUB netted the Chest about $1,200, with the living groups' booths built around the theme, "Around the World in 80 Days."

The booths were different and interesting even though there were not as many as in previous years, noted Fitzgerald. They were of higher quality and an especial thanks should be given to the TMA who joined in and helped on a booth at the last minute.

In the auction, a little over $1,300 was given the Chest through the bidding of the different living groups. The Hossner brothers, Bill Davidson, and Tim Barnett, all Uppham, handled the auction. A number of living groups weren't able to sell and this contributed to the smaller amount taken in by the auction.

Campus Chest money will be given to charitable organizations and is expected to be dispersed in the next couple of weeks. The money is distributed to charities on the junior class recommendations which are approved by the Executive Board. They are released on a percentage basis.

The prize for the best booth at the Carnival hasn't been decided yet but will be announced Thursday. The Campus Chest is an annual project of the junior class.

Wreck Hurts Six Students

Six University of Idaho students suffered bumps and bruises and the 1959 car they were riding in was practically demolished Sunday night in a head-on collision five miles south of Coeur d'Alene. Driver of the students' car, George Fernquist, Gault, was returning from his home in Wallace when his car skidded out of control on the ice-slick highway and slammed into another vehicle bound for Helena, Mont.

Most seriously injured of the University students was Nancy May, Hays Hall, who required several stitches to close a facial cut. Barbara Britt and Ann Turly, also of Hays, suffered bruises as did Meredith Stone, Gault, and Wray Featherstone, Phi Del.

At least nine other accidents were reported in the area on roads that became treacherous during blinding evening snowstorms.

SUB Board Interviews Set

Interviews to fill the six positions on the Student Union Board for the 1960-61 academic year are slated for March 23-24.

Interested students must file a petition with Charmaine Tourville before March 23, according to Bob Brown, Beta, recently appointed SUB Board Chairman. Petitions will be available in the SUB office Thursday, he said.

Positions on the board are open to all students with at least sophomore standing. Board members serve as student directors of all SUB activities.

Students should show interest in SUB activities and be willing to devote the necessary time. They should have also some good ideas for improving the SUB programs, Brown said.

Old board members must also be interviewed in order to qualify for positions on the board next year.

Prexy To Hear IFC Decision

An undisclosed recommendation by the IFC tribunal to penalize Phi Gamma Delta fraternity for extra-curricular activity at Genesee last week will go before University President D. R. Theophilus either today or tomorrow.

The IFC recommendation went to the University Men's Discipline Committee last week for approval before being forwarded to Dr. Theophilus.

Phi Gamma Delta is charged with improper conduct while holding a social function and with serving alcoholic beverages at a function sponsored by the University.

Two new columns begin in the Argonaut today.

Don Erickson, managing editor of the paper, starts a new feature sponsored by Time, Inc. and titled "Don Erickson Looks at Life."

The other column, "Subways," will be written by Fred Nelson, staff cartoonist and writer.

Both will become regular features of the paper for the remainder of second semester.

Frosh Week Tug-of-War Is Set At Paradise Creek

Frosh Week opened yesterday with freshmen class members urging the rest of the campus to observe "Be Kind to Freshmen Week," and the sophomores preparing strategy for the annual Freshman-Sophomore Tug-of-war.

The freshman challenge for the annual battle and the sophomore acceptance are as follows:

CHALLENGE

"We, the students of the illustrious freshman class, in accordance with traditions, do hereby challenge the decrepit members of the sophomore class to a 'tug-of-war' over Paradise Creek, Thursday, March 17 at 4:30 p.m.

If by some remote chance there are thirty of you who are clear-headed enough to appear at the site of battle, we will be more than happy to give you a good bath; and no doubt a much needed one.

Because of our due respect for our elders, we will naturally offer sympathy and condolences to the sophomores after their defeat.

ACCEPTANCE

Alleviating superfluous introduction, the magnanimous denizens of the sophomore class, experienced in diverse pastimes infinitely limitless do, with some element of ennu, accept the crass, although somewhat hesitant challenge issued by the subservient freshmen proletariat, that by virtue of sheer number they remain perpetually lower caste as "It's What's Up Front That Counts."

Or could it be that you are making verbal accusations which cannot be proven. It might prove feasible to bring along some "Ard To Be Sure." But despair not my churlish rebels, perhaps "Little White Dove Will Be On The Other Side."

Informatively yours, the sophomore class

In other week activity a strong man from each men's living group was chosen last Saturday at Memorial Gym to compete in the finals today at 4 p.m. in the south ball room of the SUB.

The finalists of these two contests will be crowned at the intermission of the freshman dance, Saturday, March 19.

APPLY FOR PHT

Wives of Idaho students who would like to apply for an honorary PHT (Putting Husband Through) degree should do so in the near future, according to ASUI officials. Applications can be made at the SUB.

Fitzgerald Slips By Jerry Walsh With One Vote

At 8:17 p.m. last night, ASUI vice-president Karl Bittenbender, announced that John Fitzgerald, Del, was elected ASUI vice-president for the 1960-61 school year by the margin of 912 to 911.

The decision climaxed three days of intensive controversy between factions supporting Fitzgerald and Jerry Walsh, write-in candidate from Uppham hall.

The result will probably be appealed to the Board of Arbitration by Walsh's supporters.

In the three hour meeting of the

AWS Voting Is Scheduled Wednesday

Members of Associated Women Students on campus will go to the polls tomorrow to pick officers for the coming year.

Three coed's names will be on the ballot for each office. Polls will be set up in the Administration Building and will be open from 8:30 a.m. to noon and from 12:30 p.m. until 4:15 p.m.

Hopefuls for the office of president are Beverly Paul, Forney, a junior coed from Caldwell; Diann Nordby, Alpha Phi, also a junior from Moscow and Sue Livingston, Kappa, a junior from Buhl.

AWS secretary candidates are Pat Sleuter, French; Carol Hodgson, Kappa; and Mary Jaurequi, Alpha Chi.

AWS treasurer hopefuls are Romana Marotz, Forney; Linda Jones, Kappa; and Blanche Blecha, Alpha Phi.

Voters will also vote on royalty for the May Fete, held on Mother's Day weekend. Finalists for Maid of Honor are Judy Stahl, Delta Gamma; Ann Irwin, Kappa; and Linda Brown, Pi Phi.

May Fete Page candidates are Edwina Zabel, Kappa; Jean e Rau, Alpha Phi and Katherine Koelsch, Delta Gamma.

AWS members include every coed on campus. Voters must present their AWS cards at the polls before they are eligible to vote.

Beside planning two annual events each year, the turn-about dance and the May Fete, AWS is the ruling body for coeds on campus, and makes up the minimum standard of conduct for coeds.

Whelan To Lead Idaho Orchestra

Harold Paul Whelan, conductor of the Spokane Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra, will appear with the University Symphony Orchestra as guest conductor for a concert Sunday at 3:30 p.m.

The regular Orchestra conductor, Leroy Bauer, will perform with the group as violin soloist.

Whelan, founder of the Spokane Orchestra, is widely known for his teaching and conducting in the Northwest.

High School Journalism Confab Set For Friday And Saturday

By BRIDGET BEGLAN Argonaut Staff Writer
The 14th annual University-sponsored high school journalism conference, for the improvement of prep newspapers and year-books is scheduled for Friday and Saturday.

More than 300 high school journalists from Idaho will be in attendance at the work shops, lectures, and contests.

Charles O. Decker, director of student affairs, will be aided in the opening address Friday by the co-editors of the Argonaut, Jim Flanigan and Dwight Chapin.

Lectures will begin Friday at 10 a.m. and last until noon. They will feature Mr. Hugh Wagoner, a former Associated Press writer who is publisher of the Idaho State Journal at Pocatello and Mrs. Robert Hammes, whose husband is a publisher of the St. Maries Gazette-Record.

JOHN FITZGERALD
The Board's Decision

Election Board last night, an extensive recount of all the ballots was held, and the first time the Board reached a count of two matching consecutive counts, a decision was reached.

The appealing of the decision will rest on the statement, received late last night, that Larry Woodbury, Lindley, losing Independent candidate for vice president, had transferred his ballots to Walsh.

The legality of this transference is the question to be determined by the Board.

The formal protest to the Board of Arbitration, composed of Dr. D. R. Theophilus, C. F. Peterson, ASUI Executive Board advisor; and ASUI President Laird Noh, was delivered by Robert Young, Lindley, on behalf on Walsh.

Young stated that the basis of the protest were the irregularities which occurred in conducting the general election, coming from non-observance of the constitution and regulations of the ASUI.

The Board believed that there was no necessity for either the holding of a general election again, or for a revote for the office, and told the Election Committee to recount the ballots until they came to a decision.

Tracksters Eye Opener; Cougars Host Invitational

By GARY RANDALL
Argonaut Sports Editor

Idaho tracksters aimed at their first hurdle this weekend with a final warm-up meet in the WSU fieldhouse last Saturday.

The Vandal cinder artists trek the nine miles to Pullman next Saturday for the WSU Invitational meet which will include 13 Northwestern teams including the College of Idaho.

Along with the College of Idaho, Idaho and Washington State, Whitworth, Whitman, Lewis and Clark Normal, Willamette, Oregon, Eastern Washington College of Education will compete.

Also expected are teams from Columbia Basin, Central Washington, Gonzaga and Western Washington.

Ray Hatton, the "English Express" sighted in on the Idaho mile record in the warm-up meet, and although obviously holding back, whipped across the finish tape with a 4:22.8 time. The other two top-notch members of Idaho's distance stable, Frank Wyatt and Ron Adams, may also put the mile record in danger Saturday.

Overholser Skims Hurdles
Hurdling Bill Overholser, using a hurdle style brought in by track coach Bill Sorsby this season, skipped over the 70 yard high hurdles with a .08.8 time, then turned to the 70 yard lows for a .07.9 clocking. Both times are considered excellent for this early in the season.

Whirling Reg Carolan, Idaho's three sport man, turned in two top performances in the weights, twirling the discus 142'5 1/4", then heaving the shotput 50' 7 1/4". Carolan is expected to smash the shotput record set by Gerry Kramer before the spring track season ends.

Jumping Joe King stretched an even 22' in the broad jump to rank as Idaho's top contender in that event, although Washington

Riders Begin Rodeo Work

Idaho's bronc-busters, the Vandal Riders, will take to the saddle this week, starting with a meeting in the SUB at 7 p.m. Thursday. The conference room will be posted on the SUB bulletin board.

Jim Swayne, spokesman for the Riders, labelled the meeting "very important" and urged that all Riders and prospective Riders attend. Plans will be made to attend the Missoula spring rodeo April 7 and 8 at the meeting, and work will begin on the Idaho show scheduled for May 7 and 8.

Frosh Baseballers Will Meet Today

Frosh baseball players will hold an organizational meeting tonight at 7 in room 109 of Memorial Gymnasium.

Coach Glen Potter said those who plan to go out for frosh ball should pick up physical examination cards in the equipment room of the gym and get their examination as soon as possible. Equipment can't be checked out without the physical, he added.

Broken Basketball Hoop Causes Problems For Parberry

Sometimes the littlest things can cause the biggest problems.

Take for example the Case of the Broken Basketball Hoop, as Perry Mason might tag it.

This columnist was on the trail of intramural news Thursday and went looking for the man who knows, intramural director Clem Parberry.

It wasn't an easy job finding him and when we finally did, he was in a most unlikely posture, standing on a tall ladder and bending with a purpose over one of the baskets in Memorial Gymnasium.

We asked Parberry just what he was trying to do and got a patient smile.

Repair Job

He explained that frosh basketball player Dan Hoag was getting in a little post season practice Wednesday when one of his shots popped the steel of the rim, making it tough to shoot at, to say the least. Parberry was doing a repair job.

"It happened just before B basketball game started and don't think those guys didn't let me know about it fast," Parberry said.

We've talked to Parberry about B basketball before and he never ceases to speak in awe of that sport. It always amazes this columnist too.

In the first place, there are more than 70 teams battling for the B championship, and that means between 350 and 500 players in the tournament.

Then consider that playing are a few guys who could almost make the varsity, plus a flock of fellows who frankly probably don't know the difference between a basketball and a football.

Funny Sport

Nowhere else can you see a team score four or five points in an entire game and still leave the court smiling. To those who haven't played B basketball, it's tough to explain, but the vast majority of the guys out there are playing strictly to have fun, and winning is secondary.

Winning supposedly is the purpose of most athletics, but B basketball players are a breed apart.

Parberry certainly understands this and that is why he was working with such a will Thursday.

"When I found out we didn't have another hoop in the building, I almost fainted," Parberry said. "There's no telling what those B boys would have done to me if I hadn't got it fixed."

* * *

A short note on what may be an old topic. We've heard nothing from Idaho State College during the past few days about why Idaho is afraid to meet the Bengals in athletics.

Maybe they are busy preparing something on why the Vandals are afraid to meet California. You know, Cal probably would beat Idaho by 30 points too. The Bears have a great ball club. Etu, ISC?

* * *

A prediction. Look for Idaho's track team, which only two years ago had less than 15 men, to be a power of the Northwest in 2-3 seasons.

They will lack experience this year, but are there in number, size, and from all appearances, willingness. That's a trio of qualifications that should be pretty hard to beat.

Batsmen To Open Play Saturday At Walla Walla

By JIM HERNDON
Argonaut Assistant Sports Editor

Baseball spikes are stirring clouds of dust in the University fieldhouse as the Vandals prepare for their double header this weekend at Walla Walla against Whitman.

The Idaho stickmen, home from Lewiston where they participated in what Vandal baseball Coach Wayne Anderson called "a very worth while and successful scrimmage," will dot the diamond with a stronger squad than that of last year.

Tony Burke and Steve Hinkley, will share the throwing chores in the first game with the Missionaries and Jack Bloxom, and Pat Townsend will get the nod in the nightcap.

The Vandals and the Whitman nine broke even last year. Idaho won the first game at Walla Walla and the Missionaries took the finale. The doubleheader at Idaho was rained out.

Competition Keen

"There are still 37 out and only three positions tied down, Anderson remarked yesterday. Competition is keen so nobody's position is safe."

Last season's pitching star, Bloxom, showed that his arm injury was not permanent, threw three fine endings. Steve Hinkley, bothered with a blister on the index finger of his pitching hand, showed that he hadn't lost his touch as the fireballer struck out four enemy batsmen.

Junior College transfer Burke proved that he would aid the team as batters found him giving few hits. Sophomore southpaw Townsend also drew praise from Anderson over his performance in the 14 inning extrasquad dual.

Burke, former thrower for Columbia Basin JC, has in his past

Bad Weather Halts Netmen

Uncertain weather conditions have put an effective damper on practice so far but the Idaho tennis team will be ready to take to the courts soon.

Coach Frank Young said yesterday that he expected to begin full-scale practice about the first of next month for the opening meet of the season, April 12 against Gonzaga at Spokane.

Four lettermen, Al Sudweeks, Bob Livingston, Chuck Hervey and Bob Hansen, will return to bolster this year's varsity.

Big D's Guide Path To NCAA For California's Golden Bears

C is for California. But more important to the basketball team at that school is the letter D for Darrall and Defense.

Without doubt the toughest hoop aggregation in the West and possibly the nation, Cal's Bears own most of their success to a big, rangy center named Darrall Imhoff and a defense which truly has earned a capital D.

California's Pete Newell, a nervous towel-chewer when a game is in progress, is a calm gent in pre-game practice.

Newell believes that by keeping the other team from scoring you can win ball games. It's been an almost incredibly successful formula.

The Bears posted a 27-1 season record and will play Cincinnati's Bearcats and Oscar Robertson Friday in the NCAA Tournament. Cal has won a total of 18 straight ball games, including a 70-49 rout over Oregon's Ducks last weekend in the NCAA regionals. Earlier the Bears had trounced Idaho State to reach the finals.

Leading the Bears is the tall, thin center, Imhoff, who has been almost an unanimous All American selection for the last two years.

It is Imhoff, with his searching arms and quick reactions, who keys the Cal defense.

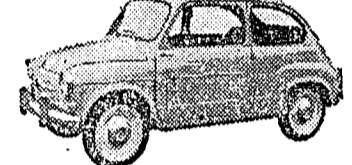

He has got a lot of help from burly Bill McClintock and Tandy Gillis at forwards and jump-shooting surprise Earl Shultz at guard.

Cal will have more than the two big D's going for it against Cincinnati, however.

The Bears, to the surprise of almost everyone, ousted Cincinnati in the NCAA finals last year. Coach Pete Newell has them ready to do it again however, and this time, it would be no surprise.
