

Key Planning 'A Big Shoo'

Everything ranging from the Gamma Phi "West Side Story" with Peter-Gunn-type music, to Sigma Chi Dave Pugh's swinging improvised jazz vocalizations, will be part of the two-hour Blue Key Talent Show, scheduled for Saturday beginning at 7:30 p.m. in Memorial Gym.

A full dress rehearsal is set for Thursday at 7 p.m. in the Gym. The trophies have arrived and will be presented to the winners as each of the divisions.

Judges will be the WSU student body president, Len Hudson; Mrs. Gerald Goeke, and a member of the WSU music faculty.

Small Crowd Attends Last Play of Year

Crowds attending the Thursday and Friday night performances of the ASUI comedy, "Thieves' Carnival," were some of the smallest this year. The comedy was the last major production of the season.

An opening night crowd of 126 attended the Thursday performance and 309 watched the final performance Friday.

Edmund Chavez, assistant director of dramatics, directed the four-act comedy and 11 students assumed character roles. The play is a comedy by French author Jean Anouilh, which follows no central theme and takes place at no particular time or place.

Miss Jean Collette, director of dramatics, commented on the four ASUI dramatic productions this year by saying that on the whole the plays have been very successful and varied. The year's programs have included a romantic comedy, "The Sleeping Prince;" a thriller, "Desperate Hours;" a musical, "Li'l Abner;" and a fantasy, "Thieves' Carnival."

Over 86 students have participated in acting roles and 151 have assisted production as stage crew and technical workers.

gram was issued yesterday by Show co-chairman Dave Trail. The approximate order of the acts will be:

- Nail Driven' 5 Plus 1, Kappa Sigma, small ensemble.
- Larry Eld, Gault, solo.
- Cherry Allgair, Gamma Phi, solo.
- "Steam Heat," Alpha Chi, small ensemble.
- Shirley Mitchell, Theta, solo.

Residents of Idaho pay no tuition, but out-of-state students currently are charged $250 a year. Thus, a non-resident student who maintains a 3.33 average for four years would receive a scholarship totaling $1,000. The new policy is effective with the start of the fall semester.

Out-of-State Scholarship Was Adopted

What is considered to be one of the most challenging scholarship programs for the nation's top students has been adopted by the University of Idaho, according to President D. R. Theophilus.

Dr. Theophilus said that the Board of Regents at its Pocatello meeting had approved a program in which out-of-state students will automatically be refunded their non-resident tuition for any semester in which they attain a 3.33 grade average out of a possible 4.0 while carrying 14 credits or more.

Residents of Idaho pay no tuition, but out-of-state students currently are charged $250 a year.

Thus, a non-resident student who maintains a 3.33 average for four years would receive a scholarship totaling $1,000. The new policy is effective with the start of the fall semester.

"Our first responsibility is to residents of the state, and for that reason we have had to limit our out of state enrollment," said Theophilus.

"Non-resident students generally must be in the upper half of their high school graduating class to be admitted to the university. Under this rule, hundreds of students are turned away annually.

"As a broadening influence, it is important to a university to have students from different parts of the nation and world. But we want to give particular encouragement to the top scholars. A 3.33 grade average is difficult to make. It is, for instance, the average that must be attained throughout college to be considered for Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic honorary.

"It was felt that non-resident students should be awarded a scholarship returning their tuition for attaining the high average. By its charter in 1889, the university granted a free-tuition scholarship to every resident of Idaho."

'S Marvelous Ray Conniff Enthralled 3,500 Listeners

By GARY RANDALL
Argonaut Staff Writer
'S Marvelous the way Ray Conniff blends voice and orchestra into a finished product. At least, some 3,500 enthralled listeners seemed to think so after Conniff's "Concert in Stereo" Sunday night.

The audience, who came from all points in the Inland Empire, kept up a continuous din of applause after Conniff and his group finished the two hour program in Memorial Gymnasium.

Conniff's "magic music" hurried along with a distinctive style that kept the packed gymnasium in an almost church-like hush throughout the program, a hush broken only by wild bursts of applause after each sequence of numbers.

Five speakers carried every Conniff note to audience, utilizing special stereo equipment put into use for the first time only the Thursday before.

The numbers ranged from the danceable, swinging style that Conniff personalities to the stirring sounds of classical music in the

Master Board Control Men Guided Conniff

By NEIL LEITNER

"Bring in the reds, slowly," the heavy-set man behind the multi-dial control board whispered into the microphone, and Ray Conniff and his orchestra were bathed in red light appearing as if by the magic voice of the man behind the board.

The master board was situated in the middle of the basketball floor, operated by two men. Bob Ballard, sitting on the left, controlled the earphones, and had a direct hookup with Conniff on the stage podium and with the men manning the lights.

Rowland Miller, on the right, moved his fingers limberly over the many dials on the board before him, modulating and controlling the sound coming through the five huge baffles rising 30 feet above the audience.

"Down beat," Ballard would whisper into the phones, and the spotlight would fit to Conniff. "Up full," Ballard would speak into the phones, and to the accompaniment of a rising crescendo, the lights would rise, until at the peak, the whole stage was bathed in either red, yellow, or blue light.

"Bring the spot on Ray . . . little higher . . . fade," and Conniff would talk to the audience. And so it went, through the two hour concert. Ballard followed each piece that Conniff played, and Miller adjusted the stereo equipment.

Herb Gibson placed first in the ice cream judging when the team was in Portland. Gibson also took second high honors in the overall judging. Honors to be given at the banquet are:
—Aggie of the Year award for outstanding service to the Ag Club and the College of Agriculture.
—The Block and Bridle Club award, given to the most outstanding agriculture.
—$200 R. M. Wade, agricultural senior and junior in the field of education scholarship.
—Ralston Purina $500 scholarship to the most outstanding junior in dairy products and animal husbandry.
—$125 plant food scholarship for service in agronomy.
—Outstanding Student Award plaque given by the American Society of Agronomy.
—Virginia Dare Extract award, plaque and a $25 scholarship for the most outstanding senior in agriculture.
—Gene Allen, president of the Ag Club, will emcee.

'Paris Walk' Is Illustrated By Hillaire

Marcel Hillaire, noted French actor, whisked approximately 1,000 University students through a humorous and imaginative "Six Minute Tour of the Paris Louvre" during a Public Events program Friday morning.

Hillaire, who has played more than 200 versions of the typical Frenchman, entertained students with his hour program, "Smile of France."

The partially-bald French comedian presented his interpretation of both serious and humorous ballads, poetry, fables and love letters from France. Several of the works were recited in French.

Using loose-jointed gestures, Hillaire explained that the average visitor must spend several hours touring the Louvre.

As a solution to these frustrated tourists, he cleverly described a plan whereby they can see most of the art museum including the Winged Victory, Venus de Milo and the Mona Lisa, in six minutes.

The comedian pointed out that children's stories have a lot of meaning, and proved it with his own version of "Little Red Riding Hood." The moral of the fable, according to Hillaire, is "It isn't so easy to fool little girls now-a-days."

Hillaire recently appeared with Audrey Hepburn in the movie "Sabrina." He has also played in television shows such as Kraft Theater, Studio One, U. S. Steel Hour, Armstrong-Circle Theater and Alcoa Theater."

Idaho Seniors Vandal Guests

More than 300 high school seniors are expected to converge on the University campus Friday afternoon for Senior Days.

All high school seniors of Idaho and nearby Washington schools have been invited to the two-day affair.

Purpose of the annual event is to acquaint seniors of the state with the educational opportunities at the University and show them the traditional aspects of the campus.

The Senior Day program will begin Friday with registration and an open house that evening in the SUB with free bowling, ping pong, billiards and a mixer.

A general tour of the campus and welcoming speeches by Rafe Gibbs, publicity director, and a D. Bruce McCowan, ASUI president, will begin the Saturday morning itinerary.

Each student will have a chance to go on two specialized tours of departments in which they are interested, where they will be able to meet the professors and discuss career opportunities and required curricula.

Saturday afternoon all religious groups on campus will hold open house and there will be Jazz at the Bucket for entertainment.

The program for Saturday evening has been filled with the Blue Key Talent Show.

A coffee hour will be held Sunday morning and open house at all of the churches in Moscow before the students again leave for home.

"I would like to ask the cooperation of all the Idaho students in making this weekend an enjoyable academic and social experience for all high school seniors that will be here," said Diann Nordby, chairman of Senior Days.

THE GOLDEN FLEECE by Jason

Ray Conniff Calls on Jason

When Ray Conniff reaches out, he pulls music in. With each movement of his hand a note seems to appear out of nowhere as by magic. And this magic holds an audience spellbound.

While performing on the Idaho stage Sunday evening he appeared relaxed although he exerted enormous energy while directing his hand through the renditions that have made him famous.

Offstage, after the show, Ray Conniff was a different person. He was nervous . . . but it wasn't due to stage fright. He was worried about his troupe and the safety of attempting a plane take-off in poor Palouse weather.

He's a conscientious guy, too. Jason, who went to interview him after the "Concert in Stereo" show, was unable to accomplish more than a handshake because Ray "wanted to talk to the pilot about take off."

But Monday afternoon, Ray called long distance from Seattle apologizing for not being able to discuss his performance while in the Moscow area. The conversation that ensued went something like this:

Q. How did you feel playing in the counterpart of the Russian capital? One of your guitar players, a fellow from Chicago, Ill., was quite impressed that he was playing in "Moscow" and wanted a card stating this fact so he could send it home to his folks. Was this the general attitude of your troupe?

A. Well, I had never played there before. Among my own group on the plane no one made much thought of comparing it to the Russian city and I don't believe any of the others had either.

Q. Have you ever played in the Russian capital?
A. No.

Q. Would you like to?
A. Well, I hadn't given it much thought. If they liked our music I would like to play there very much, although it would be a very long trip.

Q. I understand you hire college students to play in your band quite often. What is your reason for this and how do you go about your selections?
A. Actually, I don't hire the people. They are hired through my contractor and usually are picked up around the Los Angeles area.

Q. What would be the chance of an Idaho music student of good talent becoming a member of your company?
A. Usually we work through the L.A. union. But I don't base my selection on education. They are hired for their musical ability. I do look for a good sounding chorus.

Q. I understand you had some plane trouble while in this area. What was the situation here?
A. The CAA regulations on our aircraft indicated our weight was 800 pounds over. So, we sent four of the heaviest fellows and about 300 pounds of equipment to Lewiston by car.

At this point, Ray once again apologized for rushing off the night before and then told Jason he would have to hurry and dress for another performance. The "musician" was about to win another thousand friends with his warm personality.

Educators Will Hear Material On Manpower

A profile of the manpower situation facing the United States during the 1960's, was the gist for a meeting of guidance personnel, educators and others connected with education at the University of Idaho yesterday.

Entitled "Manpower, Challenge of the 1960's," the material has been gathered by the bureau of apprenticeship and training of the Department of Labor. Information from the survey has been organized into colored charts to show what may be expected in the next decade.

Topics stressed include the number of persons who will reach 18 years of age annually, the numbers of young people who will drop out of school, population growth, industry changes and developments in relation to the labor force and the utilization, development and training of people.

Zoologist Will Speak At SUB

National lecturer of the Society of Sigma Xi in the Pacific Northwest, Dr. Emil Witschi, professor of zoology at the State University of Iowa, will speak at 4 p.m. today at the University Student Union.

Dr. Witschi will outline research activities in progress in his laboratory on sex reversal in animals and in man.

"The challenging problem of willful predetermination of sex in animal breeding and in human reproduction, having left the realm of mere speculation becomes a fascinating project for laboratory investigation," believes Dr. Witschi.

On April 27, at 8:15 p.m., he will give a public lecture on the subject at a joint meeting of the Washington State University and University of Idaho chapters of Sigma Xi in the Compton Union ballroom at Pullman, Wash.

From California. Appointed assistant professor of languages was Dr. Eugene E. Reed, who has been on the faculty of the University of California since 1953, and has also taught at Vanderbilt University and the University of Texas Christian University. He has his master's and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Texas.

Confirmed was the current appointment of Lieut. Don S. Campbell, Jr., USN, as assistant professor of naval science. A native of Spokane and former student at Boise Junior college, he is a graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy.

New instructors appointed for the fall term are Rosemary Aten, physical education for women, and Karl E. Waltz, electrical engineering. Miss Aten, who comes from Browning, Ill., is a graduate of Western Illinois university, and is completing her master's work at the University of Wyoming. Waltz, a graduate of California's Polytechnical Institute, will receive his master's degree there in June.

New Zealander IFYE Arrives For Idaho Stay

A transplanted Irishman with a British accent and the name of Denis Matthew O'Sullivan arrived in Idaho recently to pick up American ideas of farming to take back to his home in New Zealand next September.

Announcement of the arrival of the New Zealand International Farm Youth Exchange was made by Don Mitchell, state 4-H club leader with the University.

O'Sullivan, age 23, farms with his father near Albury, in the South Canterbury section of his homeland. The farm produces wheat, white and red clover, rye, and "lucerne" as New Zealanders call alfalfa. Livestock is sheep and beef cattle.

The IFYE lists his special interests as farm techniques, sports, stock judging, and debating. He likes music, is especially fond of singing, and enjoys dramatics and dancing.

"His photo shows an Irish twinkle in his eye," says Mitchell, "so he ought fit in well with the farm people and 4-H club members he meets in Idaho."

"We have made arrangements for him to live and work on Idaho farms with Idaho farm families through the next four months. The last half of his stay will be with farm families of Northern states."

Student Captures Full Text Of Lectures By Tape Recorder

A switch is thrown and the reels spin tape through the machine. A voice speaks with authority on the difficult subject of parasitology, a study of animal parasites with special emphasis on those of man.

Beside the recorder, a student writes.

He is Ranold Purviance, a graduate student in zoology from Lewiston. His tape recorder is used to capture, word by word, the lectures of Dr. Stewart Schell, chairman of zoology.

"The tapes help fill in my notes," said Purviance. "Parasitology is a difficult subject."

Grads Receive High Positions

The saying "when it rains, it pours," has special meaning to the University of Idaho College of Forestry.

Idaho graduates were named recently as presidents of two of the leading national professional forestry and range management societies.

Charles A. Connaughton, a native of Placerville and 1928 graduate of Idaho and now regional forester for the U.S. Forest Service, San Francisco, Calif., has been elected to lead the Society of American Foresters.

Fred K. Kennedy, regional forester at Albuquerque, N.M., was elected president of the American Society of Range Management. From Dubois, he was graduated with a bachelor of science degree in 1929.

Connaughton, author of numerous articles on silviculture, watershed management and multiple-use forestry, has served as a director of the American Forestry association since 1955.

Spring Functions Invade Calendar

By DANA BAKER
Argonaut Women's Editor

Many long-awaited spring activities have taken place this last week or are planned for the very near future. Spring dinner dances and pledge class functions seem to be of paramount importance.

Pledges ruled the THETA house Thursday as they surprised the members with turnabout day. At the end of the day pledges gave a fireside in honor of the members. Saturday morning seniors were ousted from their warm beds and into a cold shower by the pledges. Weekend guests were Kiska Arnold and Janet Miller of Boise and Rita Oliver and Linda Cox of Sandpoint. Wednesday dinner guests were Jennie Ball, Glenda Alexander, Toni Thuner and Sally Peterson all from Hays Hall; Ann Marie Baum, Judy Walsler and Dorothy Scarcello from French; Glenna Gale, Betty Rosholt, Janice Mooers and Sandy Banks from Lewiston. Guests at Sunday dinner were Pat Symms, Gamma Phi; Mr. and Mrs. S. Lewis, Moscow; Mr. and Mrs. Jess Johnson, Genesee and Mrs. Wayne Anderson and children.

Approximately 150 guests attended the formal dedication of the new SIGMA CHI house this weekend. Grand Consul Citations were awarded to David Trail and Richard Harden of Moscow and Carl P. Clare of Chicago. John Terry was tapped for Phi Eta Sigma, freshman scholastic honorary. Dinner guests this week at HAYS HALL were Cathy S. Teensma, Moscow and Heather Hill, Kappa. Weekend guests were Judy Bauman, Bonners Ferry and Deena Watts, Payette.

Pi Phi officers from Idaho and WSU were dinner guests at the DELT house Wednesday. Carolyn Kudlac, Sandy Byrnes and Barb Blair from Idaho and Jan Burke, Betty Johnson and Sue Berger

Women Will Occupy A Larger Role In American Work Scene

By 1970, one out of three workers will be a woman. This was one of the many facts concerning "Manpower—Training Challenge of the 1960's" brought out by R. L. Switzer, Boise, Bureau of Apprenticeship and Training of the U.S. Department of Labor, in a discussion at the University of Idaho.

"One of the most significant developments during the decade of the 1960-1970's will be the percentage of women in each age group who will be in the labor force in 1970," said Switzer.

Nearly half of all women aged 35 to 64 will be in the labor force. The largest increase is expected to take place in the 45-54 age group, whose participation rate

Playday Lures 160 To Idaho

In spite of the inclement weather over the weekend, 160 high school girls participated in the annual High School Playday, last Saturday on the University's campus.

The program, organized and directed by a student class in management of women's physical education, featured mixers, tournaments, and demonstrations. The one-day event drew girls from 15 schools.

Girls Bowl
In the morning the group was split, with approximately 90 of the girls entered in a bowling tournament. The rest competed in an indoor track meet held in the women's gym because of the wet conditions of the regular track.

The afternoon saw the girls involved in four softball games, volleyball contests, and open swimming. Despite the ragged weather officials of the women's physical education department termed the playday a complete success.

Delta Sigs Search For Dream Girl

Delta Sigma Chi began its annual Delta Sig Dream Girl contest Sunday, with a field of 26 coeds competing for the title presently held by Linda Himmelsbach, Theta.

Finalists will be picked May 2nd and the new dream girl will be crowned at the Carnation Ball, May 14.

The candidates are: Sharon Stroshein and Nancy Frost, Tri Delta; Dorsey Baldrige and Eleanor Unzicker, Alpha Phi; May Jouregui and Cookie Goodwin, Alpha Chi; Crystal Gould and Pat McCarter, Ethel Steel; Diane Heller and Suzanne Best, Gamma Phi.

Sandi Worsley and Marge Marshall, Delta Gamma; Diane Rowland and Dixie Wilson, Permal French House; Barbara Harrison and Judy Sperry, Pi Phi; Diane Fawson and Idora Lee Moore, Kappa.

will rise to about 55 per cent. "The problem of training new young workers to productive people, and the re-training of the older workers is the challenge we are facing," he said.

Job opportunities will increase fastest in occupations that require the most education and training. Professional and technical workers will increase about 41 per cent; proprietors and managers about 24 per cent; clerical and sales workers 27 per cent; skilled workers 18 per cent and unskilled workers 25 per cent.

There will be no change in the numbers of unskilled workers, and in the farmers and farm workers there will be an actual decrease of 17 per cent.

One of the most appalling facts to face civic leaders, government officials and educators is that nearly 8,000,000 young people will not complete high school during the decade, Switzer declared. Nearly one-third will drop from school in the eighth grade or earlier.

"This is ample cause for alarm and action," said Switzer. "In a period during history when we are struggling to maintain the leadership of the free world, we are faced with the utilization of a large group of people who have only the most rudimentary education."

Dropouts tend to get lower paying service and laboring jobs. High school and college graduates usually get the better jobs.

"These facts most definitely point to the great need for persuading youth to stay in school, and for schools to provide vocational counseling even before the eighth grade," Switzer added.

Pete Kelly Wins Pre-Med Trophy

Pete Kelly, Fiji, was named winner of this year's pledge scholarship trophy for Alpha Epsilon Delta, National Pre-Medical Honorary last Wednesday.

The award was made at the AED initiation spotlighted by a talk by Dr. David Valder, surgery specialist, on vascular surgery.

Fourteen pledges were initiated, including Margaret Crowley, off campus; Joanne Gartland, Tri Delta; Kelly, Bud McDougal, Delta; Judith McGarvey, Kappa; Richard Monahan, Fiji; Dave Polage, Sigma Chi; Marie Scott, off campus; Loren Taylor, Uham, Robert Taylor, off campus; Louise Vandenberg, Tri Delta; Marjorie Willis, off campus; Carl Winterstein, Willis Sweet and Beverly Paul, French house.

Ed Television Given Study

Educational use of television was the topic of consideration at a joint meeting of Phi Delta Kappa campus chapters of the University and WSU held on the Pullman campus last week.

Dr. William Snyder, Head of the Department of Communications here, presented a statistical analysis of the rapid growth in the use of educational television in elementary and secondary schools of the nation as well as in institutions of higher education.

The joint meeting of Phi Delta Kappa, an educational fraternity, was preceded by an initiation meeting on the Moscow campus where Dr. Thomas Dahle, Director of the Division of Adult Education and Summer School and the following graduate students were initiated into membership: Larry Ellis, off campus; Gary Ferney, Gault; Philip Fitch, Monte McMurray, off campus; Norman Warren, Gault.

The following officers were elected: Stowell Johnston, president; Sidney Miller, vice president; Ronald Osborn, all off campus; Recording Secretary; Dr. Melvin Farley, corresponding Secretary-treasurer; Clarke Mitchell, historian; and Dr. Ray Berry, faculty advisor.

8 Coeds Are AF Sponsors

Eight Idaho coeds were elected sponsors of the Air Force ROTC rifle team March 26.

Chosen by the group were Christine Hoff, Alpha Phi; Sharon Miller, Tri Delta; Judy Kempton, Gamma Phi; Kay Lewis, Theta; Diane Fawson, Kappa; Beverly Dittman, Pi Phi; Judy Ghiglieri, Alpha Chi and Sonia Allen, DG.

The girls acted as hostesses for the local Air Force Invitational rifle meet March 26, and will represent the rifle team at meets the rest of the year.

The Air Force has provided uniforms of white blazers and black skirts for the sponsors, who will wear them every Wednesday.

Oakland Signs A Strange Pair; College Boxing May Be Through

A couple of paragraphs from Associated Press the other day reported the signing of two players by the Oakland Raiders of the new American Professional Football League.

And a couple of mighty strange bedfellows they make. One was Ronnie Beagle, who starred at end for the U. S. Naval Academy and was All American in 1954 and 1955.

But Davis, who had done so well with the Black Knights of the Hudson, couldn't really cut it with LA and hampered by injuries, he soon quit pro ball for the relative security of show business.

Once Was Star

Larson was a happy, blond-haired All-American boy type who got rave notices while he was quarterbacking the California Golden Bears in 1953 and 1954.

Larson was drafted by the Chicago Cardinals, and he was supposed to solve their long-standing quarterbacking problems.

But Larson, after being given a better than fair chance to make it, was shunted aside in favor of a couple of journeyman quarterbacks, Jim Root and Lamar McHan.

So when the Oakland Raiders take the field next fall, their star quarterback will be a has-been and his pass-catching end a man with a mighty big jinx to overcome.

College boxing, after the untimely death of Charlie Mohr of Wisconsin in the NCAA finals recently, probably is finished.

The sport, once a top-drawing attraction at Idaho, died here in 1954.

At that time, Coach Frank Young and others involved said the main reason was that the school was losing money, chiefly because many teams in the area were dropping the sport.

Few Hung On

Several schools, such as Washington State, Idaho State and San Jose State, have struggled on since then and done fairly well but even college boxing has been affected by the horrible reputation of its professional brother.

That, coupled with decreasing gate receipts and the unfortunate death of a young boxer should be enough to close the book on a once-great collegiate sport.

Unless some drastic changes are made soon, its professional brother likely will be made to follow suit.

Football player Ralph Jannino went to Seattle last weekend, on his own financial hook but representing the University of Idaho.

Before he returned, he had won both a billiards and a pool tournament, two of three such tournaments in progress at Seattle. If he plays football that well this fall, Skip Stahley may have an All-Coaster on his hands.

INTRAMURALS. That old devil rain put another wet damper on softball action Wednesday and Thursday but if the weather clears and the ground dries out enough today, the teams will be back at it.

Vandals Split Two Road Tilts

The Vandals swung their bats against OSC pitching at Corvallis yesterday and battle the Beavers again today. The Vandals, 2-2 in Northern Division play, are tied for second place with Washington after splitting two games with the Huskies last weekend.

Bob Vervacke drove a line drive to left, scoring the deciding run and giving Idaho a close 7-6 victory Saturday. The Huskies had taken advantage of five hits to defeat them 3 to 1 Friday.

In the second game, Idaho took a commanding 5-1 lead. Washington countered in the fifth with the help of three Vandal miscues to score three runs.

Husky pinch-hitter Phil Swimley tied the score in the sixth. He doubled driving in one run, went to third on LaRoy Johnson's wild pitch and stole home to knot the contest.

A single tally in the seventh placed Washington in front before Idaho warmed up in the ninth. A walk, hit batsman, and a hit set the stage for Vervacke.

Pitchers Ernie Wheeler and Swimley combined to stop Idaho on a four-hitter Friday. Vandal hurler Steve Hinckley hurls a 1 1/2 pitched fine ball, allowing only five hits.

Washington got all the runs it needed to win in the first, scoring twice, and added a single tally in the third. Both teams committed one error.

Oregon State is in fifth place in the Northern Division, after dividing a double header with Washington State last week. The Beavers stand 1-1, while Washington State, 3-1, claims first place.

Cliff Trout and Ralph Hatch led the Vandal stickmen throughout the pre-season schedule at the plate. Trout banged out 27 hits in 64 trips to the dish for .422. He also had 15 runs batted in.

Hatch hit for .364 with 20 safety hits in 55 at bats. He drove in 8 runs and scored 17 himself.

Northern Divisionwise is a different matter, however, with Hatch only appearing in two ball games. Trout has dipped to a .250 average in his first three games. He had 3 for 12 going into Saturday's game with Washington.

Idaho golfers recorded both a victory and a defeat last weekend, triumphing over the Oregon State crew 17 to 10 at the Corvallis Country Club Saturday and dropping their first match of the season 17 1/2 to Oregon at the Eugene Golf and Country Club Friday.

The Vandals, still smarting over their defeat to Oregon, took out their vengeance on the hapless Beaver squad, picking up their fourth victory in five matches.

Pacing the Vandal attack was Gary Floan with a sparkling, two-under-par 69. Floan was followed by teammates Lynn Hansen at 74 and Don Modie and Ray Kowallis at 75.

Tom Carter spearheaded the Beaver linksters with a 73 and teammate Jack Mattison and Stu Schroeder posted 74's.

The Floan-Modie combination in best-ball set the lead with a 67 while the Bill Emery-Mattison twosome posted a 69 score.

Scoring for the match against OSC was:

Best-Ball Idaho: Floan-Modie 2, Kowallis-Hansen 1, Smith-Johnson 2 1/2. OSC: Mattison-Embry 1, Schroeder-Thayer 2, Hamlin-Warnock 2.

Individual: Floan 3, Kowallis 1/2, Smith 1/2, Modie 3, Hansen 3. Mattison 0, Carter 2 1/2, Schroeder 2 1/2, Embry 0, Rohnbuck 0.

TWO-WAY STAR - Adept with either the egg or the football, Idaho grid star Stan Fanning is looking forward to careers which have come from both. Fanning, who will try out for a berth with the Chicago Bears football team, helped pay school expenses with an egg business started in high school.

Fanning Used Eggs, Football To Gain His Life's Ambitions

Stan Fanning isn't concerned with which came first, the egg or the football. They have both done things for him.

Fanning, an outstanding Vandal football player for three years, and draft choice of the Chicago Bears professional team, started mixing the two unrelated items in high school.

The egg grew into a business out of a 15-chicken flock started as a 4-H project. After the first year, Fanning had 800 layers and had built a 50 by 40-foot building to house them. The next year the building had doubled in size and the flock numbered 1,800.

Fanning, who is now aided by his three younger brothers in the venture, soon found himself in the egg business in a big way while still in high school. The profits have helped pay educational expenses.

"Our flock was used in a test on feeding," related the 260-pound Fanning. "We found that we were getting more eggs for less feed and lower cost per chick than any of the others in the test."

About the same time, Fanning came home with his first 15 chickens, another dream began to take shape, and like the egg business, just began to grow. He eyed a career as a professional football player. "I was never able to make any of the all-conference teams in high school, except as honorable mention, but I still had to try," said Fanning.

His prowess on the gridiron for the Vandals earned an 11th draft choice ticket to the pro ranks with the Philadelphia Eagles. Later, because of an earlier trade agreement between the teams, Fanning was traded to the Chicago Bears.

When he reports to the Bears' training camp to bid for offensive center and defensive end positions, the soft-spoken athlete will carry a big stick called determination with him.

"I've set my mind to making the team. There is too much at stake now to make it," he said. "A few years as a professional player would put me at least five years ahead financially."

Fanning has planned to return to school in the off-season for graduate studies leading to an agricultural business of his own, perhaps an enlarged version of the poultry venture.

Whether it be with the football or the egg, the Idaho student has a way of making things work out — his dreams might just come true.

EWCE Is Next Track Squad Falls To OSC

Oregon State made a successful invasion of the Palouse Saturday, edging Washington State, 66-65, and knocking off Idaho, 93-34.

Tennis Team Loses Pair Over Weekend

Trying to break a record of no wins and four losses, Frank Young's tennis team galvanizes into action Friday against Whitman and Saturday against Oregon State.

The Whitman game will be at Walla Walla, and the team will play WSU here, weather permitting.

"The team played its best game so far this year against OSC at Corvallis last Saturday," (which Idaho lost 7-0), Young said, "and I hope we're getting stronger. It looks that way."

The team took a 6-0 loss to University of Oregon Friday, after being almost snowed out and unable to compete at top form.

"We need decent weather to practice in," Young commented. "Unlike football or track, which can conceivably exist in any weather, tennis players just can't play when the courts are wet."

Leading the Idaho "racket squad" into action this weekend is Bob Hansen, in the top seeded position, determined by ladder competition; Al Sudweeks, in second position; Bob Livingston, third; Chuck Hervey, fourth; and Dick Minas, fifth.

Rain Hampers Grid Drills

Yesterday, for the second time in a week, football coach Skip Stahley's spring gridgers were rained out, as inclement weather continued to hamper Stahley's plans for shaping up the squad for the annual Alumni-Varsity game, May 21.

The 70-odd team aspirants are supposed to practice from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday; and beginning at 2 p.m. on Saturday. Stahley was pleased by the season's first scrimmage, a 90-minute affair Saturday.

"We're optimistic," he said afterwards. "Taking a look at ability this early in the season, the coach commented, 'We've got more speed in the backfield than we've had recently, but it's too early in the season to tell how it'll shape up.'"

PFROSH RAINED OUT: The frosh baseball team was rained out of scheduled games with the WSU Couabes last weekend. They play WSU at Pullman Saturday.
