'Cradle Song' Is Story Of Nuns

By SKIP JONES
Argonaut Drama Critic

The ASUI will present its second dramatic presentation of the year on Friday and Saturday nights at 8. The play "The Cradle Song," was written by Gregorio and Maria Martinez Sierra and will be directed by Edmund Chavez of the Drama Department.

200 Students Trek To WSU To Settle Debt

Over 200 University students made the traditional humble-pie trek to the home of the Cow University (WSU) last Tuesday in payment of the annual football bet made by student leaders of the two universities. According to the betting terms, the losers of the annual Idaho-WSU game must walk to the home of the winner.

The unusually large turnout was led by ASUI yell-leader, pom pom girls, Neil Leitner, Argonaut editor, Gary Randall, Argonaut Associate Editor, Jim Herndon, Argonaut sports editor, and John Fitzgerald, vice president of ASUI, who was representing ASUI President Bruce McCowan who was unable to make the walk because of illness.

The adventurers were met halfway by Gale Mix, SUB manager, SUB program director, who had coffee and doughnuts for them.

At Pullman, the footsore Idaho students were welcomed by WSU student leaders. After an exchange of derogatory remarks by the two veeps, more coffee and doughnuts were served.

Council Will Discuss Dorm

A meeting between the Residence Hall Council and some University administration heads will take place Dec. 8 at 7:30 p.m. in McConnell Hall to discuss facilities for a new dormitory.

RHC President Lynn Hossner, Upham, announced that the purpose of the meeting is to give independents a chance to tell the administration what they would like in the line of dining facilities, style of rooms, and location of a proposed new dormitory.

He added that all interested students are invited to the get-together to voice their opinion on the subject.

The GOLDEN FLEECE by Jason and revolves around the changes that take place in the lives of these nuns when they suddenly find themselves all foster mothers to a founding child.

Mr. Chavez has designed the set for this play, taking special care to details that create the atmosphere of a Spanish convent. He feels that it is necessary to show the physical monotony in which these nuns live, therefore he has incorporated five arches into the set which give this effect the arch being one of the more monotonous forms in architecture. The walls are of a drab plaster interrupted with high, heavy wooden doors and massive sculptured screens.

This is planned on what is known as a box set design, i. e. there are three basic walls and a ceiling, the fourth wall being toward the audience. In order to make this arrangement flexible enough to be utilized in two different scenes, special set pieces have been constructed that are able to be removed and re-arranged giving the appearance of two separate rooms.

Chavez shows a great deal of versatility in not only directing the play and designing the set, but creating the costumes. Since he is striving for as much realism as possible, Chavez is using the authentic habit of this order. They are copied from an actual habit that he was fortunate enough to borrow from a Dominican convent. These seven-piece costumes are white with a black veil and were completely hand made by University students working on the costume crew.

700 Offspring Attend Idaho

More than 700 sons and daughters of Idaho graduates are attending the University this year, reported D. D. DuSault, registrar and 228 of them are in their first year.

The students come from each of Idaho's 44 counties and 13 states ranging from New York to Hawaii. They are listed in a report composed by the registrar's office to be sent to parents. The pamphlet contains names of the new students along with the names and addresses of their parents.

Top Dancing Honoraries Slate Show

Idaho's highly regarded dancing honoraries, Orchestras and Pre-Orchestras, will present one of their twice-yearly performances Friday evening.

Based on a Christmas theme, the traditional performance is regarded as one of the highlights of the Yule festivities at Idaho, setting Christmas feelings and sounds to motion in intricate dance steps.

Scheduled for 8 p.m. in the Women's Gymnasium, the hour-long performance will be a free admission affair for interested students.

The program itself is built around the sounds heard during the Christmas season. The dancers interpret their feelings in response to certain sounds and try to convey the meaning of the sounds to the audience.

Several of the scheduled dance numbers do not interpret sounds, but represent the experience of the Christmas holidays. One dance is centered around the theme of a person wearing bulky clothing, while another section of the program is devoted to the feelings upon returning to school with memories of the holidays.

The theme of the program, "Sounds of Winter Wonderland," is carried out throughout the program, with music from the recording "Color Theme" blended into background rhythm for the whirling dancers.

The final dance of the program, shifting to the soft religious feelings of the Yule season, is on a church theme with both Pre-Orchestra and Orchestras providing background for several talented individual performers.

Two groups, made up of some 25 freshman girls in Pre-Orchestra and 4 boys and 12 girls in the upper-classmen Orchestras, practice twice weekly during the school year, culminating their efforts with a Christmas and spring dance.

The dance, sponsored by the SUB Dance Committee, will be held in the Dipper and North Ballrooms. Music will be by records. Similar dances will be held following all home basketball games, according to Bob Brown, Beta, SUB Program Council chairman.

Dance Will Follow ASUI Play Friday

Campus theatre goers will be able to enjoy a special Student Union dance following the ASUI production, "Cradle Song," Friday night.

The dance, sponsored by the SUB Dance Committee, will be held in the Dipper and North Ballrooms. Music will be by records. Similar dances will be held following all home basketball games, according to Bob Brown, Beta, SUB Program Council chairman.

Those sniffles and red noses you're suffering with are largely your own fault because you don't follow sensible health rules, according to Dr. J. Millard Fleming, University Physician.

The red noses, accompanied by hacking coughs, are a visible sign of the "cold and sniffles" months of November and December. Annually the number of colds and flu attacks increase on the campus during these months.

Not Enough Sleep
Students don't find time for sufficient sleep and rest, according to Dr. Fleming, and this is the most common cause of colds and flu. Without sleep, the student can't escape disease germs because the body has no resistance to them.

The University physician further emphasized that no matter what hour of the day he looks out of his infirmary office window he can see students running "back and forth" without coats on.

Student Artist Finds Time Scarce For Work, Study

By LEE TOWNSEND
Argonaut Managing Editor

An artist, even a student artist, has little time for anything except art during the day according to Diane Shelton Magel, off campus, currently exhibiting her work in the SUB mezzanine.

Mrs. Magel, a senior in Commercial Art at Idaho, said she puts in 45 hours a week in such things as oil painting, drawing, design, figure composition, and thesis.

"Commercial art majors are not required to have a minor course of study," she said. "I think you can see why."

Besides being a wife and a busy student, Mrs. Magel also does television slides and newspaper ads for Bob McCall, Idaho Traffic Safety Officer in Boise. The Traffic Safety Division began a safety campaign last summer which the student artist does the art work for.

"We center our campaign around a little traffic safety character named 'Gemie' for the Gem State," she said. "I have been drawing him regularly for newspapers and TV. A girl from Kimberly won $100 for naming him."

Mrs. Magel began painting after receiving an oil paint set during junior high school. She had had no previous experience with artwork of this kind.

"I just picked up the brush and started painting," she laughed. "I've been doing it ever since. I really love it."

John Magel, the artist's husband, is a senior in business and will enter law school next fall.

"We're not sure where he is going to law school yet," Mrs. Magel said.

Group Plans Art Exhibit For SUB

Charmaine Tourville, SUB program director and Barbara Sande, Kappa, SUB exhibits chairman have announced that twenty prize-winning oil paintings from the First International Hallmark Art Award competition will be exhibited at the SUB from Dec. 4-15.

More than 10,000 French and American artists entered the competition which was sponsored by Hallmark Cards Inc. The paintings, all with Christmas themes, were first exhibited at New York's Wildenstein Gallery, and have since been shown in museums, galleries and universities in 23 states and Washington, D. C.

Works of 10 American and French artists are represented in the exhibit. Equal awards ranging from first prize of $2,000 to seven $750 prizes were made in both the American and French divisions. Fred Conway of St. Louis and Edouard Guoerg of France, winners in the two divisions, shared the grand international prize of $3,500.

In addition to the $23,000 awarded to the 20 paintings to be displayed here, a total of $5,000 in honorable mention awards went to 50 other artists, making the total value of the competition $28,000.

The Hallmark art awards were established in 1949 to broaden public appreciation of fine art and to bring contemporary recognition to artists of today. Thousands of artists have participated in the awards since the first competition.

A second competition, staged in 1952, drew some 4,000 artists from 35 countries of the Americas and western Europe. For the third and fourth Hallmark art awards, held in 1955 and 1957, the invitational method was chosen instead of the previous open competition. Fifty artists were commissioned for each in an effort to achieve a more varied and balanced collection of art for exhibits.

As a climax to its Golden Anniversary this year, Hallmark Cards is sponsoring the Fifth Hallmark Art Award, which opened in New York City in October. The theme for the commissioned event, in which 20 American and European countries are represented, is "The Question of the Future."

Greenfield Exploring Sound At 11

Basic factors governing the generation, propagation and characteristics of sound waves will be illustrated in a lecture-demonstration at the University Music building at 11 a.m. today.

Making the demonstration will be Dr. E. W. Greenfield, director of the Washington State University division of industrial research. The program will include illustrations of the ear and its aural peculiarities and demonstrations of binaural and stereophonic sound reproduction.

The Greenfield tape library contains over 500 recordings ranging from the sound of the ocean breezes to the felling of giant Redwood trees, and from the call of a tiny bird to the tones of a full symphony orchestra.

He has gained experience in both industrial and electrical engineering research and has a list of scientific publications and patents on electrical devices to his credit.

Students May Gain Game Information

Students on campus who are interested in attending the Idaho-Bradley basketball game on Dec. 19 please contact Walt Bird, Lindley, or Bob Giden, Campus Club, for information.

Further notice will be given in a later issue as to the purchase of tickets, and other programming.

Holly Week To Begin Monday

Sophomore class members will spread Yuletide spirit throughout the campus Monday night when they place holly wreaths on the doors of every campus living group. The wreath presentations will signal the opening of the annual Holly Week, Dec. 5 to 9.

Lorin Butler, Gault, sophomore class vice president, is Holly Week general chairman. He said a theme, coordinating all the holiday activities, will be announced later.

Butler noted that many activities are planned for the festive week including a winter fashion show in the Student Union Wednesday afternoon. Candidates for Sophomore Holly Queen, one from each women's living groups, will model.

Five queen finalists will be selected by a vote of all sophomore men Wednesday noon. The final ballot will be taken Friday noon and the queen will be crowned at the Holly Dance, Friday night.

Sophomores will don mittens and their warmest coats for a campus caroling party Thursday night. The group will meet at the Navy parking lot at 7 p.m.

The Holly Dance, Friday, from 8-12 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom, will climax the week's Yuletide activities. The Dave Trail Band will present music for the affair.

Holly week chairmen were named this week by the Sophomore class officers and approved by the class extended board. They include Chuck Robertson, Delta, and Jill Mathies, Gamma Phi, dance; Gary Doty, Beta, and Nancy Vosika, Alpha Phi, theme and wreaths and Fred Warren, McConnell, and Idona Kellogg, Ethel Steel, publicity.

Others are Keith Huettig, Delta Sig and Rosie Curteman, DG, fashion show; Harold Schillreff, Gault and Bobby Rausted, Alpha Gam, queens; and Dave Shurtleff, Upham and Barb Blair, Phi Pi, caroling party.

Publicity committee members named this week by Warren and Miss Kellogg are Mary Wingard and Dee Llewellyn, DG; Genev Oster, Theta; Jim Judd and Jim Barnhart, Delta Sig; Diane Sturts, French House; Paula Reinmuth, Alpha Phi; Earl Hintz, Willis Sweet; Kathy Rodell, Kappa; Marilyn Hereth, Hays; and Sue Seivert, Pi Phi.

Search For 4 District Heads Is Underway

Tryouts for four district chairmen in Idaho and one out of state chairmen to serve on the Admissions Counseling Committee will be held Thursday from 7-9 p.m. in the Exec. Board Room.

Applicants for committee secretary will also be interviewed. The committee replaces the former ASUI Student Recruitment Committee.

Keith Gregory, Phi Tau, chairman, said the purpose of his committee is to advise high school students in their preparation for college. The committee attempts at the same time to interest the students in Idaho.

Gregory said chairmen applicants should have at least sophomore standing and be able to spend a lot of time on committee work.

Chairmen will hold their positions until the end of the 1961 fall semester. They will be required to write letters during the regular school term and make personal contacts with high school students during vacations.

The District I chairman will coordinate activities for Boundary, Bonner, Kootenai, Shoshone, Benewah, Latah, Clearwater, Nez Perce, Lewis and Idaho counties. District II jurisdiction includes Valley, Adams, Washington, Gem, Payette, Boise, Canyon, Ada and Owyhee counties.

Lemhi, Custer, Butte, Blaine, Elmore, Camas, Gooding, Lincoln, Minidoka, Jerome, Twin Falls and Cassia counties are included in District III.

District IV activities will be centered in Clark, Fremont, Jefferson, Madison, Teton, Bingham, Bonneville, Power, Bannock, Caribou, Oneida, Franklin and Bear Lake counties.

50 Horizon Club Members See U.

About 50 members of the Coeur d'Alene Horizon Club were shown the campus Friday through the auspices of the Hospitality Committee of the SUB Program Council, Vivian Dickamore, Gamma Phi, chairman, said yesterday.

The tour, which lasted one and one half hours, included all aspects of the campus, Miss Dickamore explained. She said over 125 delegates attending the Music Convention today will also have an extensive tour.

Board Checks Judicial Plan

The Executive Board's first evaluation meeting was set for Saturday morning after a move to have it this afternoon failed.

At the evaluation session, the Board will go over what they have done and what they figure they are going to accomplish.

In the short 45 minute session last Tuesday, the Board also heard a report on student representation from Jim Mullen. Mullen said first plans were now being laid to try to incorporate a student judicial system into the Idaho student government.

"They have a fairly adequate, working system at Stanford," said Mullen, after talking to a former Idaho student now enrolled there, "and there is no reason why we could not have one."

A New Morality

Charles Van Doren and thirteen other TV quiz contestants, indicted last week by a New York grand jury for perjury, are blatant symbols. They symbolize a new morality of social decadence. To denote them as representing immorality would be misleading, since our society blinks and tacitly accepts their actions with a timid "It's not so bad, is it?" What is accepted—mores and manners—IS social morality.

Certainly Van Doren and company are not solitary manifestations of social degeneracy. Replying to a questionnaire, 40 per cent of the undergraduates at "one of our largest and most honored institutions" did not feel cheating on examinations to be "reprehensible." A New York newspaper found five out of six people he interviewed willing to accept money for participating in rigged quiz farces a la Van Doren. Last spring numerous candidates for Ph. Ds were discovered employing professional ghost writers to prepare their theses. And of course there were the payola-ridden disc jockeys spinning their dizzy rot 'n' roll music.

Of course our society does not applaud these acts; nevertheless, it feels no need to condemn them vigorously. "Well, it's not SO bad." Wrote Johnathan Swift: "I have never been surprised to find men wicked, but I have often been surprised not to find them ashamed." This is the truly disturbing aspect: society no longer blushes. As long as no one is hurt, as long as pleasure and comfort result, the public blinks and tries to smile. Now we have an exonerating cliché: "Everyone does it." It is the face of our old enemy, conformity. Social morality, without a tenacious strength of character in the individual, becomes monkey-like imitation in order to preserve the zoo.

We are abandoning personal honor and strength of character and inaugurating group morality to fit our unique selves. The ethics of the mass and a sense of personal honor are as disparate as the nouns herd and individual. Within the group, as a member of society, one must carve out his own standards and hold to them. We are all succumbing, like Van Doren, to the present social "morality." In an age which desperately seeks unity and finds only totality, one hears a lonely voice, "Be what you are."—D.H.

Have Your Turkey & Eat It, Too

Idaho students have at last found a way to have their turkey and eat it, too, if a random check on attendance Friday is any indication.

The Argonaut made the survey among various professors and instructors in the colleges of agriculture, business, engineering, forestry and in letters and science. The average class Friday was attended by 60 per cent of its enrolled students, according to the reports of the 20-odd faculty members questioned. The range varied from 90 per cent absent to 100 per cent present. Significantly, the two classes with perfect attendance were graduate courses of one and two students.

The typical undergraduate, lower division class lost close to one-half its population to Mom's home cooking Friday, as hundreds of Idaho students turned the one-day holiday into gala four-day weekend. This was in direct violation of the 1955 student administration agreement which gave Idaho students a week-and-one-half spring vacation, providing they heeded the Thanksgiving schedule.

Although Executive Dean H. Walter Steffens' office reports that all faculty members were advised that Friday was to be a regular academic day, we are aware that not a few of the faculty took pity on the wayward student by "forgetting" to take roll or by covering extraneous material in their lectures. One professor called the day "a farce." Another said he liked the arrangement because he could catch up on some of his work without interruptions from students.

As for the students themselves, their opinion ran the gamut. Those who approved the arrangement stayed and attended Friday's classes; those disagreeing with the time-table went home Wednesday noon for good measure.

The final result? It looks again as if at least half the student body thinks it as "pulled the wool over the Hill's eyes." As the master of the vacation situation Idaho's average Vandal is looking forward to partaking in April of the same turkey he stuffed himself on during this four-day Thanksgiving holiday. L.T.

The SUB-A Center Of Culture And Inspection For Students

The tender, loving care given to the students and to the Student Union Building by some people of the campus, is indeed a mark of well being. Where else in the state could you come to get that homey atmosphere that prevails on our campus? Pick any day or holiday and you certainly could find it here.

"Say Gertie, why don't we go down to the SUB tonight and have some coffee?"
"Say Thad, that sounds like a very good idea."

The couple winds its way down the sidewalks of the campus, stopping only when Thad pulls Gertie out of one of the cracks in the sidewalks.

"Well Thad, here we are. I just love the atmosphere here."
"What did you have in mind when you said atmosphere?"
"Look around you, things look so pretty here. Look at those cute little tables, covered with those cute little tepees."

"Dolt, those aren't tepees, those are discarded megaphones. If you are real nice to me tonight, I will give you my collection of them. I have been saving them since 1954 when we won our last football game."

"Oh Thad, you are so nice to me. Imagine, your personal collection!"

"Oh it's nothing."
"Why are we just standing, let's go sit down."

"My this coffee tastes good. Hey Thad, wasn't that one of your brothers?"

"I couldn't tell, the turkey leg was in my way. I couldn't see through it."

"Oh Thad, you're just a tease."
"Tease hell, I got stuck in the eye by a pinfeather trying to look."

"Thad, what does that sign say? Beat who? I thought football season was over."

"Gertie, that sign says Be Thankful."

"Oh, well I just thought we had another chance."
"Thad, may I have a cigarette? It's the coming thing you know."

"Did they teach you how in your living group?"
"Yes, how can you tell?"

"It is a good practice to light the unfiltered end. Much better on the lungs."

Time Passes
As time passes, the coffee container gets emptier.

"Thad! go get some water quick! My tepee is on fire!"

Groups May Utilize System Of Accounting

A system of accounting available to all campus organizations is being offered again by the ASUI this year, the ASUI General Managers office has announced.

Called the Agency Account System, the program was set up originally in 1950 by the Executive Board, advisors and the U. of I. administration for the convenience of the respective organizations on a depository basis.

Purchases are not subject to University regulations, it was pointed out, but only to reviewal and approval by the ASUI General Manager.

Interested organizations should come into the ASUI office for more information.

Some of the more important advantages offered by the system are:

- 1) Centralizes funds into a regular account operated through ASUI.
- 2) Savings in major purchases by going through the University Purchasing Agent.
- 3) Free audit of funds each year.
- 4) Ticket takers provided for major functions of each organization.
- 5) All bills paid through regular ASUI channels, giving permanent evidence of all transactions.

"Say when, darling," he said, as he poured a glass of beer. "OK," she replied, "Right after the next drink."

Dear Jason

Dear Jason:
Obviously, good old Idaho spirit is not dead yet. We thought for sure that we would be making this lonesome trek all by our lonesomes, but when Carl Berry and his trusty Vandal Rally Squad got through, more students than we expected came through.

We sincerely thank the "weather-be-damned" students that came along with us; the showing we made at the CUB at WSU was almost worth the price we had to pay to lose.

Neil Leitner

Dear Jason:
In the last Argonaut a "review" of the University Symphony Orchestra's concert was attempted. If the reviewer had bothered to attend the program he would have noticed that it was performed Sunday not Saturday, and that the leader happened to be a conductor.

If this person could manage to keep his eyes open even though under a "hypnotic trance" induced by the "captivating... extravaganza of difficult music," he would also have noted that no work by the new and heretofore unknown composer, "Beethoven Stravinsky," was performed; and that only selected portions from two of Wagner's operas were played, rather than the complete works. This was fortunate because even those that reviewed thought in catalepsy might have become uncomfortable after ten hours. As it was the program lasted less than two.

I, for one, was neither "fascinated, captivated," nor mesmerized during the entire length of the program. Mrs. Barnes gave a moving performance and the orchestra played the Wagner relatively well but had not mastered the Sibelius.

From a journalistic viewpoint, the article in question was a pompous farce, from a musical viewpoint it was outrageous. Recall how much time, effort and space were given to the production of "Anne Frank." Is not our symphony orchestra, which can give quite remarkable programs like last Sunday's and which is of much more than merely campus significance, worthy of at least a factually and orthographically correct review?

Of course the reviewer should be sensitive, perceptive and knowledgeable also, but after this last article it seems foolish to even mention such obviously foreign qualities.

Ellen E. Morgan

Dear Jason:
I think it is very evident that H. V. H., in the editorial "Are Mid-Terms Good?" does not grasp what he is here for.

An incontrovertible fact of the process of learning is the technique of repetition and review; by stimulating a perceptive nerve path a number of times with an idea, or with any data that one wishes to record for future uses, the subsequent recall of that material is achieved more readily and more completely in its detail. When teachers give examinations, they provide the student with a priceless opportunity to pause a moment in the rush and crush of learning to survey the course from the vantage point of a backward look and to systematically review and organize his data and thinking.

The differences between good students, average ones and poor students are the degrees to which they successfully achieve these objectives in reviewing for an examination, or in periodic reviews without benefit of an examination — the mark of the scholar.

A less important by-product of an examination or any other course requirement is the grade received. But they are indicative of where a student stands in the judgment of his teacher and where he ranks in comparison to his classmates.

A grade is a relative thing, but it is not meaningless; an unsatisfactory grade ought to be a warning to the unwary student to seriously examine his study technique and to seek counsel with his teacher; a satisfactory grade should stimulate a student to reach higher, with the helpful direction of his teacher.

Moreover, mid-term grades are a part of a student's "lasting University record;" they are a part of the record in the teacher's grade book and they are added to, or subtracted from, by the other evidences of scholarship, or lack of it, during the following months, until the sum and total of it all appears in the form of a final course grade.

The scholar welcomes the opportunity to build up the detail of this record and sees a lot of good in it.

PKT; Theta Chi; Steel; Sweet Dances Dominate Weekends

By CHERRY ALLGAIR, Argonaut House Editor

After the peaceful atmosphere of the Thanksgiving vacation, the U of I campus returns to the routine of college life and plans for the Christmas holidays.

On Thanksgiving day, Mr. and Mrs. Dickinson and their son Joe were guests for the annual DELT turkey dinner.

The ATO's celebrated Thanksgiving this year with their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Schirmer and their son Mark, from Dayton, Washington. The Taus combined forces with the Pi Phis in a volleyball game against the Tekes and Forney Hall.

The GAMMA PHIS spent a restful Thanksgiving evening eating snacks and enjoying the fireside presented to them by their housemother, Mrs. Doggett.

Courses Are Given In Home Preparedness

In Russia 22 million people have been trained in civil defense and training continues. Every American family must be able to take care of itself for two weeks, says Mrs. Dorothy N. Stephens, assistant home demonstration leader with the University.

Home preparedness includes a shelter, basement or the safest place in your home, supplied with a battery radio, two weeks supply of food and water, and a first aid kit, Mrs. Stephens continues.

The government has made plans for protection of citizens. Warehouses are filled with food supplies and medicines. Mass feeding drills are being held in many centers.

In Idaho seven or eight hospitals with 200 beds could be made ready for occupancy within 24 hours says Mrs. Stephens. Every U.S. mail truck can be converted to an ambulance within 40 minutes.

Home preparedness courses take five two-hour sessions. Any club or group of ten to twenty or more persons may take this training. Kits are supplied by contacting Mrs. Velma Dye, Women's Division, chairman of Idaho Civil Defense office, Boise.

Health Institutes Offer Fellowships

The National Institutes of Health have announced three fellowship programs and they are as follows: Career Research Professor Grant, for persons in medicine and related fields; the Senior Fellowship Grant, for persons in graduate schools who have had at least five years of experience beyond the doctorate; and a Special Fellowship Grant to support promising young investigators.

Application deadline has been extended to Dec. 15. Applications can be obtained from Dr. Stephen P. Hattchett, Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Public Health Service-National Institutes of Health, Bethesda 14, Maryland. Information is also available in the Graduate School Office.

Forney and French girls joined with HAYS HALL girls for Thanksgiving dinner. Several guests attended the dinner—Craig Kosonen, Ed Helmcke, Dean Larson, Larry Loughmiller, Herb Hereth, Sally Smith, Dick Miller, and Larry Stewart. Helen Tomlinson was named Girl of the Month for November.

Progress is being made for the PHI TAU's annual Forty-niner Fling western dance. It is scheduled for Saturday night, December 3. Guests over the weekend's various meals have included Laura Petersen, Forney Hall; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Simpson, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Corrigan, Mr. and Mrs. Lew Oring.

The THETA CHIS held their first Red Ox dance last week-end. It is to become an annual affair. John Betanoff and Hannis Altman were pledged Monday night.

The days of the old west were relived last Saturday night at "Ethel Steel House Stomp." Kerosene lanterns swung and the wagon wheels creaked as the night wore on. Western music coming from the porch of Ethel's Saloon was provided by Jim and Barb Griffiths and Bill Riedeman. Patrons and patronesses were Mrs. Fred Spach, housemother; Dr. and Mrs. Dalke; Mr. and Mrs. Dobler, and Mr.

Grad To Write About Married Idaho Students

A new kind of study in human relations on the University campus is underway.

Mrs. Florence Aller, Moscow graduate student working on her doctorate here, is preparing her dissertation, "The Role of Self-Concept in Student Marital Adjustment." It is the first study of its kind to be made here, according to Mrs. Miller, a former teacher of home and family living courses in home economics at Oregon State College at Corvallis and Northwest Nazarene College at Nampa.

Mrs. Aller's study of U of I married couples will deal with both men and women students. Mrs. Aller hopes that her study will include all instances here where both the husband and wife are enrolled. She will take a sampling of instances where only one mate is a student here.

The California Psychological Inventory will form the basis of her statistical calculations, and all inventories will be anonymous, the identities of her subjects being kept secret by a code identification.

This study is especially pertinent, according to Mrs. Aller, because of the nationwide increase of married students.

Mrs. Aller's degree will be a Doctor of Education with the major in guidance and counseling and with supporting areas of home economics and education.

and Mrs. Walsh. Recent dinner guests were Peggy Roper, French, and Todd Nelson, Kendrick.

TRI DELT pledges learned the identity of their big sisters at the big-little sister fireside last Monday evening. Beta and Delta Chi pledges serenaded Tuesday night for various lost articles. Sharon Paynter left Wednesday for the 4-H club congress in Chicago which will last until December 3. Sharon was one of the two girls from the University to receive the honor this year.

WILLS SWEET is busily preparing for their annual dance, the Cabaret. It is to be held December 3 at 9:00 and, as usual, extensive decorations will add to the atmosphere. The theme of the dance is "La Parisienne."

Shyrack Gave Light Ideas

Good lighting in your home means planning the right kind, amount and distribution of light for each eye task, says Miss Willma Shyrack, extension home furnishings specialist with the University.

Miss Shyrack gives four suggestions for choosing the right kind of light. Avoid using a bare, clear bulb unless it is enclosed in a diffusing bowl, plastic shield, or perforated metal shield. Do not use colored bulbs for close work. Use only lamps with diffusing bowl for white, indirect light.

Various eye tasks require varying amounts of light, Miss Shyrack explains. Reading requires 100 to 150 watts; studying, 150 watts; sewing and hobbies, 150 to 300 watts.

Delegates Attend Montana Confab

Among the 160 delegates attending the 1960 Province Newman Convention at Montana State University Nov. 23-26 were seven University students.

The Idaho delegation, consisting of Julian Perez, FarmHouse; Michael Schwager, Lindley; Joyce Staley, French; Kay Aslett and Carol Ackerman, Alpha Gams; and Dick Katzenberger and Marvin Weniger, both off campus, were accompanied by the Province chaplain, the Rev. Urban Schmidt.

The delegates represented some 9,000 Catholic students attending universities in Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon. The group included delegates whose homes are in California, New York, Iowa, and Maine; Canada, Lebanon, Japan, Italy and Colombia.

Through the facilities of Newman, Catholic students are encouraged along intellectual, religious, and social paths while studying on Northwestern campuses.

Board Accepts Press, Books For University

An early day printing press and more than 100 books, manuscripts and documents were among gifts to the University receiving formal Board of Regents' acceptance at its Moscow meeting, it was announced by President D. R. Theophilus.

The Washington Press, which has been in service for a number of years at the Rathdrum Tribune, was presented to the University by Edward L. Ernberger, Bethesda, Md. The rare press served the Culp brothers, publishers of the Rathdrum weekly, in printing the news of the area.

Mr. and Mrs. Talbot Jennings, Los Angeles, Calif., gave the Library a collection of 18 books and a carton of movie and television scripts written by Mr. Jennings and others. A famed movie and television writer, Mr. Jennings is an alumnus of the University.

The University Law library received copies of the 1931, 1939 and 1943 Sessions Laws of Idaho from Raymond McNichols, Orofino.

Historical documents of the nation and of Idaho were among the gift of 77 books, manuscripts and documents presented to the Library by Mrs. Lucy Day. The items range from notices of the War of 1812 to the copy of a Cataldo manuscript written in De Smet mission in 1887.

Reg Carolan Is High Scorer Sheeran—Leads Turf Gainers

The 1960 Vandal football season has concluded and with the conclusion comes the release of the final team and individual statistics.

Mike Sheeran, Sil Vial, and Reg Carolan led in the individual tabulations.

Top scorer for the season was Reg Carolan with a total of 20 points. The big kicker for the Vandals, Ron Ismael tied with Sil Vial for second place scoring honors. Both had 18 points. Ismael earned his points by one touchdown, one field goal (the only one of the season), and nine extra points. Three touchdowns accounted for Vial's 18.

Mike Sheeran was the big ground gainer for Idaho with a net yardage of 344. Speedy Galen Rogers and Dick Mooney were second and third, respectively, with 214 and 181 yards.

An outstanding passing and receiving performance was displayed by Carolan and Vial throughout the season. Unofficial tabulations show that Carolan ranks third nationally in pass receiving and Vial 15th in passing.

Vial attempted 177 passes and completed 81 for a 45.7 percentage. 930 yards were gained by his passes. With a percentage of .467,

Hoopsters Eye Portland Pilots In Opener

Idaho Five Plans Initial Contest Thursday Night

By JIM HERNDON
Argonaut Sports Editor

The Vandal hoopsters open their 1960 season in Portland this Thursday night battling the Portland Pilots. This game will also feature the grand opening of the new Portland Coliseum.

Idaho basketball coach Joe Cipriano will take a 12-man squad to Portland for the event. Last season the two teams split their two game series with the Pilots grabbing the first, 71-64, in overtime, and the Vandals winning the second, 72-40.

The Idaho mentor cautiously expressed the Vandals' chances in their initial game.

Portland with its five returning lettermen and two very promising sophomores are better this year than last, Cipriano said yesterday.

"We are teaching a new offense this year, and will be a little behind the other teams in the league to start out with," he added. Cipriano indicated that his starting lineup while tentative will include Chuck White and Rolie Williams, at forward; Ken Maren, center; Dale James and Gary Floan, guards.

The Pilots will counter with a well-experienced team. Only Frank Rector, a part-time guard will be gone from last year's squad.

Nine Back
Portland Coach Al Negretti, however, will have nine lettermen back plus five promising sophomore hopefuls.

Two of the returnees, 6-6 Art Easterly, and Frank Bosone, the playmaker guard, started the first semester but were forced to sit out the second half of the 1959-60 season.

The Pilot hopes this season will be placed with Jim Altenhofen and Bill (Slim) Garner. Team captain Altenhofen led the Pilots last year in scoring with 16.2 points per game and was second in team rebounds with 29.2.

Garner, 6'10" and team center, was second in team scoring at a 14.8 clip per game and led the Portland club in rebounds with some 300 plus. Garner also was one of the players selected from the Pacific Northwest for Olympic team consideration.

Besides Easterly the Pilots will have Chuck Rogers, 6-7 and a two year letterman, and Roland Carpenter to play supporting holes under the basket.

At the guard positions Portland will feature Bolson, Mike Doherty, Doug Stewart, and Gene Gray, all with previous experience.

Fast Break
The opposing Idaho team is expected to employ the fast break. Williams, 6-4, led the Vandals last year in rebounding and scoring at a 11.3 points-per-game clip. White, 6-4, the other starting forward saw action with Skagit Valley Junior College where he averaged 18 tallies per game and was elected to the all conference team.

James, Vandal captain along with Williams, was rated 18th in the nation in defense last season. Floan, the other Vandal guard, averaged five points-per-game last season.

The Pilots finished the 1959-60 season with a 11-15 record. Idaho also supported a 11-15 record.

Ticket Sale
Basketball tickets for the forthcoming Vandal season are now on sale in Room 136 of Memorial (fices), Tom Hartley, Athletic publicity director announced yesterday.

Idaho Harriers Are Fourth

Seattle Meet
On Nov. 19, the Vandal harriers participated in what Coach Sorsby termed "the best meet of the season for us," when they tied for second place with the Seattle Olympic Club in the Pacific Northwest AAU Cross Country meet at Seattle. Each had 64 points. WSU won first with 45 points.

Dick Douglas, the top Vandal runner, once again showed his speed ability and topped the list of 59 entrants.

In cold and rainy weather, Idaho showed its best team effort of the year, according to Sorsby.

2. Rich Klier, Stanford, 21:04

The competition was keen at the Stanford meet and the fourth place runner, Bill Peck of Occidental College, had been expected to take the honors of the day. He had been undefeated before this meet. Among his past competitors were harriers from USC, UCLA, San Diego Navy and three Olympians who were training in California.

Sorsby said that the University of Idaho was exceptionally well represented at Stanford and that all the runners did a "real good job." The only bad note in the California trip was that Larry Weller had to run with an injured foot.

ington State, Oregon, Oregon State and Idaho will be competing in the ten-event meet.

This meet, the first of the season for the Idaho finmen, is "really a pre-season meet" according to the swim coach, Clarke Mitchell.

The relatively short distance involved in each event is only a preview of the individual participating.

"We should know what we are going to run up against with WSU next weekend," Mitchell said, referring to the forthcoming meet.

"This meet will give you an idea as to the speed and depth of the other teams," Clarke continued.

Of the scheduled ten events, Idaho will be participating in eight.

The University of Washington, last year's champions, are favored to take top honors again this year. Idaho was last in the Pullman meet last year.

Last year's team scores were: Washington, 95; Washington State, 62; Oregon State, 49; Oregon, 42; and Idaho 26.

Idaho swimmers who will see action in the Saturday meet will be Jerry Zaph, Paul Breithaupt, Cliff Lawrence, Bob Tyson, Dave Polage, Chris Nyby, Bill Stancer, Dale Dennis, Tucker Cole, and Al Hanson.

At this time the individual entrants in each event have not been decided.

LUCKY STRIKE PRESENTS: DEAR DR. FROOD:

DR. FROOD'S THOUGHT FOR THE DAY: "Life ain't all beer and skittles," as the saying goes—but if enough students got together, maybe skittles could make a big comeback.

Dear Dr. Frood: I just don't understand the men in this college. Not one of them has ever asked me for a date. I am intelligent and easy to get along with. Enclosed is my snapshot. What do you think is wrong?
Left Out

Dear Dr. Frood: After considering this problem from every angle, I can only conclude that you have enormous feet.

Dear Dr. Frood: According to my figures over ninety-five per cent of the students here are below average. What is wrong?
Math Major

Dear MATH: You are obviously going to a below-average college.

DON'T BREAK TRADITION, WARNS FROOD! One of the proudest traditions on the American campus, reports Dr. Frood, is smoking Luckies. Today college students smoke more Luckies than any other regular. According to Dr. Frood, "Any student who breaks this tradition not only robs himself of the full pleasure of smoking—but also could, conceivably, bring 'the Curse of Frood' down upon the entire student body."

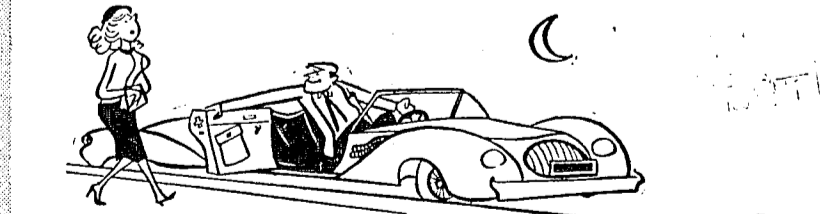

Dear Dr. Frood: I don't speak from personal experience, but I understand all the men in this college are wolves. What do you think a respectable girl like me—with a good old-fashioned upbringing—should do about this situation?
Strait Laced

DEAR STRAIT: Drop your handkerchief.

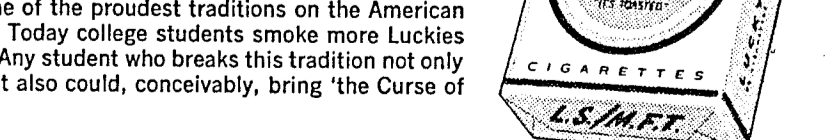

Dear Dr. Frood: When I entered college as a freshman this fall, my father gave me a very large sum of money to cover room, board, tuition, books and all other expenses for four full years of college. Because of an unfortunate series of poker games, however, the money is now completely gone. How would you suggest I handle this situation?
Ten High

DEAR TEN: I feel confident that your father will give you another chance if you go up to him like a man, tell him you are sorry, admit your mistake and promise him that your luck will change.

Dear Dr. Frood: Do you think it is safe for a girl to walk home alone from a college dance?
Nervous

DEAR NERVOUS: Safer.

CHANGE TO LUCKIES and get some taste for a change!
