Wanna Push A Bed?

What's with these Bed Pushers? What motivation could a group of guys have to push a bed 315 miles down a road at a moderate speed, or 9 miles down a road to Pullman as fast as they can push?

Something to do, probably—an interesting new way to get some kicks.

As far as we can see, there is no latent harm in pushing a bed, but in the case of the Boise-Moscow run, we can easily see why the ASUI turned thumbs down on sponsoring the extracurricular activity, it would get the University lots and lots of publicity all right, but the kind of publicity it would gather would be doubious, to say the least. The boys or the B-M run got a great deal more publicity than anybody on the student level at the University gave them credit for.

Even now we can still recall the catcalls and hoots of derision that greeted Stephens-Dave Richey & Crew as they pushed their bed down Deakin Street.

But those catcalls were soon to be swallowed in recalicitrant throats as those students in Boise over Spring vacation saw how much publicity the Bedders were getting. The wire services had them covered every step of the way and the papers in the area/covered them well.

But nobody could get their reasons for pushing the bed, other than "it will bring publicity for the University," and "it will help the leukemia fund," both of which

Those factors were mere rationalizations; however, the main reason anybody would want to push a bed is because other collegiates are doing it, it is the thing to do at college this year, and it brings a certain amount of individual publicity.

The Game Of Love

Most Americans probably think of the praying mantis as an insect, but a certain French femme—one Christie Rieuf—has said the creature resembles the American woman in at least one respect: both devour their males. "It is a well known fact that the American woman devours her man," she writes in La Nef. a French quarterly. The article comes to the Argonaut by way of a new American publication called Atlas, volume one, number two.

Christie Rieuf, who is married and has spent three years in the United Statesteaching in a small Idaho high school and at Stanford University—feels that love in America has become matter of fact to the point that it is taugh now by text book and clinic. The woman always controls the situation, she feels.

"Little girls swiftly acquire decisiveness which is still lacking in the little boys," she says. The girls learn to say "Dance with me" and "Carry my school-bag" early, the Frenchwoman writes. By the time they reach high school—even Idaho high schools—the girls have learned all about love.

"... On Monday mornings in the senior class," she goes on,, "girls of fifteen or sixteen would often come up to me to announce to the most natural way in the world: 'I got married this week-end, so would you please change my name on the register?' Sometimes the young couple did not mean it, so they would quickly get a divorce.

Later at university, Christie says, "the game of love was played according to the same rules, but at least the partners there were adult in body if not yet in mind."

Apparently, Christie is worried because the problems of American women is fast coming to France, and their traditional poetic love is fast becoming only memory.

A ROBE BY ANY OTHER NAME

As Commencement Day draws near, the question on everyone's lips is: "How did the different disciplines come to be marked by academic robes with hoods of different colors?" Everybodybut everybody—is asking it. I mean I haven't been able to walk ten feet on any campus in America without somebody grabs my elbow and says, "How did the different disciplines come to be marked by academic robes with hoods of different colors, hey?"

This, I must say, is not the usual question asked by collegians who grab my elbow. Usually they say, "Hey, Shorty, got a Marlboro?" And this is right and proper. After all, are they not collegians, and, therefore, the nation's leaders in intelligence and discernment? And do not intelligence and discernment demand the tastiest in tobacco flavor and smoking pleasure? And does not Marlboro deliver a flavor that is uniquely mellow, a selectrate filter that is easy drawing, a pack that is soft, a box that is hard? You know it!

But I digress. Back to the colored hoods of academic robes. A doctor of philosophy wears blue, a doctor of medicine wears green, a master of arts wears white, a doctor of humanities wears crimson, a master of library science wears lemon yellow. Why? Why, for example, should a master of library science wear lemon

Well sir, to answer this vexing question, we must go back to March 29, 1844. On that date the first public library in the United States was established by Ulric Sigafoos. All of Mr. Sigafoos's neighbors were of course wildly grateful-all, that is, except Wrex Todhunter.

Mr. Todhunter had hated Mr. Sigafoos since 1822 when both men had wooed the beauteous Melanie Zitt and Melanie had chosen Mr. Sigafoos because she was mad for dancing and Mr. Sigafoos knew all the latest steps, like the Missouri Compromise Mambo, the Shay's Rebellion Schottische, and the James K. Polk Polka, while Mr. Todhunter, alas, could not dance at all owing to a wound he had received at the Battle of New Orleans. (He was struck by a falling praline.)

Consumed with jealousy at the success of Mr. Sigafoos's library, Mr. Todhunter resolved to open a competing library. This he did, but he lured not a single patron away from Mr. Sigafoos. "What has Mr. Sigafoos got that I haven't got?" Mr. Todhunter kept asking himself, and finally the answer came to

So Mr. Todhunter stocked his library with lots of dandy books and soon he was doing more business than his hated rival. But Mr. Sigafoos struck back. To regain his clientele, he began serving tea free of charge at his library every afternoon. Thereupon, Mr. Todhunter, not to be outdone, began serving tea with sugar. Thereupon, Mr. Sigafoos began serving tea with sugar and cream. Thereupon, Mr. Todhunter began serving tea with sugar and cream and lemon.

This, of course, clinched the victory for Mr. Todhunter because he had the only lemon tree in town-in fact, in the entire state of North Dakota-and since that day lemon yellow has of course been the color on the academic robes of library science.

(Incidentally, the defeated Mr. Sigafoos packed up his library and moved to California where, alas, he failed once more. There were, to be sure, plenty of lemons to serve with his tea, but, alas, there was no cream because the cow was not introduced to California until 1931 by John Wayne.) © 1961 Max Shulman

And today Californians, happy among their Guernseys and Holsteins, are discovering a great new cigarette—the unfiltered, king-size Philip Morris Commander—and so are Americans in all fifty states. Welcome aboard!
