Students Disagree On Effectiveness Of Tests Professors Say Should Be No Problem

"Sorry, I just can't go for coffee. I have two mid-terms tomorrow."

Thus does this annual controversial week affect the lives of Idaho students. A great deal of cigarettes and coffee will be consumed and not a little sleep lost in the frantic study endeavors.

A great many students have argued against mid-terms because they are not part of the student's permanent record and therefore serve no useful purpose.

The other side of the story is that mid-terms allow a student to determine how he is doing in his studies.

The College of Engineering does not give mid-terms as such but administers periodic tests, some of which may or may not come during mid-term. The colleges issue a grade as required by the University, but they do not count toward the final grade.

The question seems to boil down to whether or not the pressure a student is subjected to during this week is necessary.

Comments from various deans ranged from, "The student who has studied is not under pressure," to "The pressure is no more than the student should face at any time."

The deans of the various colleges were unanimous in their opinion that mid-terms should not count half of the final grade. One said that usually only a third of the course work is completed by mid-term.

Regardless of complaints, however, mid-terms will probably continue as they presently are. And students will continue to study as they now do.

Exec. Board Suggests Regents Use $12,500 Of Student Fund For New SUB

By JIM METCALF

In a closed session two weeks ago the ASUI Executive Board recommended to the Board of Regents that $12,500 of the general reserve funds of the ASUI be used to buy equipment and furnishings for ASUI facilities in the new Student Union.

ASUI President Jim Mullen, in a meeting yesterday, stated that it was the usual practice for the Exec-Board to act on capital outlay expenditures in closed sessions. He said that it was the prerogative of the president to call such a meeting any time he felt necessary. He pointed out that the Executive Board cannot spend money, but can only recommend. The money is to come from a general reserve fund, started during the 1957-58 school year for this purpose. A statement issued by the Executive Board said that the money does not come out of the active operating budget for this year, but out of the general reserve which has been set aside for capital outlay improvements.

The same statement announced that George Schwarz, Portland, Oregon, is the interior consultant for the new Student Union offices. At the same meeting, $1,500 was designated for a sign advertising the University, which will be placed on the highway going out of Moscow.

In answer to some criticism of the closed meeting, Mullen said, "If we put everything before the students before acting, we would be hopelessly bogged down . . ."

Two parties are represented on Executive Board," he added, "and if students can't trust the Board they elected, who can they trust?"

The Board is considering other expenditures from the reserve funds, the statement said. The expenditures were not listed.

First University Display In Lewiston High School

A traveling display case publicizing the University of Idaho will go on exhibit today in the Lewiston Senior High School — the first high school in the state to receive the visual display of the University.

ASUI President Jim Mullen and Carl Berry, public relations chairman of the University, will present the school with the display today. This is the first of the major high schools in the Gem state to receive this "pilot model." It will remain at the school for a week, after which time it will be transferred to other schools in the area.

Two other traveling displays advertising the University will make the rounds of the state soon, according to Berry.

"This program is being carried out to give the high school students a chance to familiarize themselves with the University," Berry commented. He noted that it was also being done to supplement the admissions counseling program at the school.

Work on the joint ASUI-public relations project was done by the University physical plant employments editor, composed the layouts. Don Walker, University publicity officer, designed the displays.

The three displays were purchased by the ASUI for about $150. The cases are approximately three feet high and each of the seven unfolding panels is two feet wide.

The panels, mounted behind the glass can be removed. New pictures can be put behind the frames.

Two pairs of University of Idaho debaters reached the semi-finals of a debate tournament at Washington State University Saturday. Nine colleges and universities attended.

The teams of Gary Carlson and Walt Bithell, both Betas; and Bill Longteig and Bob Robinson, both Betas, returned from the tournament with 3-1 win-loss records.

Other Idaho students participating were Dennis Bodily, Gault; Richard Beebe, Upham; Dennis Coelho and Dick Weholt, Lindley; Arlen Marley, Jon Trail, and Bob McFarland, Upham; and Joan Walker, Gamma Phi. Tom Lynch, Delta Sig, and Tom Moss and Ron Rock, both of Willis Sweet, served as judges.

Schools taking part in the tournament were Gonzaga University, Whitworth College, Whitman College, College of Idaho, Montana State College, Yakima Junior College, Eastern College of Education, WSU and Idaho.

Idaho MUN To Represent Japan Group

The University's student delegate to the Model United Nations will represent Japan in the MUN General Assembly session to be held at San Diego, Calif., during spring vacation.

The Idaho students will prepare all year to fully represent Japan's interests at the assembly, it was learned in a MUN meeting Saturday.

Another organizational meeting will be held from 12:30 to 1 p.m. tomorrow in the Student Union Building. The meeting will be for prospective members who were unable to attend the first meeting.

The first regular meeting of MUN will be at 10 a.m. Saturday in the SUB.

Earlier Christmas Vacation Is Benefit To All Students

In a month and a day the exodus of students from the Idaho campus will begin for the long-awaited Christmas-New Year's vacation. Students will get an earlier-than-usual start on the holiday season this year, when it begins Friday, Dec. 15 at 5 p.m.

Last November, the Student Representative Assembly proposed that delegates from each campus living group take a poll in each house to discover the reaction of the students toward this earlier time. Each living group overwhelmingly approved the measure.

Dean H. Walter Steffens, academic vice-president of the University, said it wasn't the fact that the vacation is longer (it is only two days longer than the usual 16-day average) that was advantageous for the student, it was advantageous because the students can get to their hometowns earlier and

Boise Post-Game Activities Planned

Several activities for students and Idaho alumni will follow the football game between the Idaho Vandals and the Montana State University Grizzlies Saturday afternoon at Boise's Bronco Stadium.

An open house will be held for students and alumni after the game at the Boise Elks Lodge. Students planning to attend should bring their student activity cards.

A buffet lunch and dinner will also follow the game. Both students and alumni are invited to attend a dance beginning at 9:30 p.m. at the Elks Lodge.

Mortar Board To Host Confab

Idaho Mortar Board members will host the regional convention of Mortar Board Saturday in the SUB. The purpose of the convention is to evaluate activities and goals of the attending Mortar Board chapters to discover ways to improve and change Mortar Board policy.

Attending schools will be Montana State University, the University of Montana, Whitman College, Washington State University and Idaho.

After the 8 a.m. registration and the opening assembly the group will break up into four discussion groups. Each attending school will be in charge of one of the following discussion groups: "Procedures of Choosing Mortar Board Members;" "How Can We Encourage Scholarships?" "Does Our Activity Program Need Evaluation?" and "How Can We Encourage Leadership?"

Mrs. R. E. Hosack, wife of Dr. R. E. Hosack, head of the Social Science Department, will speak on "The Road Not Taken" at the 12:30 p.m. luncheon.

Exec. Board Discusses Boise Game Conduct

Opinions on the recent Dad's Day anti-Stahley campaign and the possibility of repeated attacks during the football game at Boise next weekend were brought into the open Monday noon at a special session of the ASUI Executive Board.

In addition to the regular board members, those attending included Bob Scott, Senior Class President; Gary Carlson, Junior Class President; Al Friedman, Residence Hall Council President; Guy Wicks, Associate Dean of Students; Jim Lyle, Alumni Secretary and Argonaut representatives.

Opening the session, ASUI President Jim Mullen said the board could not dictate to students how they should act at the Boise game. He added however, that the board effects which might result from attacks similar to those of the Dad's Day game.

"Any incidents like those of the Dad's Day game will have nothing but detrimental effects on the University," Mullen says.

Mullen says He added that the University's biggest alumni group is in Boise. Speaking next, Wicks told the board he was not trying to carry on any kind of crusade to save Stahley's job or get him fired, or to influence student thinking about the athletic situation.

He said student groups with definite ideas about University athletics should carry their protests to the proper sources — the University President and the Board of Regents.

"I am concerned," he said, "about what could happen at the Boise game."

Wicks said that at the very best the Boise game is not always orderly or sensible.

"I know it won't go quietly, but I hope it goes well without any incidents that we will regret," he concluded.

Scott Expresses Views
Representing one facet of student opinion Scott asked the Board to consider the good effects of the Dad's Day campaign.

Scott, who served as SRA Chairman last year, said his group invited Stahley to discuss the athletic situation last spring. He added, however, that the football season at that time was in the past and student apathy surrounded the issue.

"The demonstrations brought the students' feelings to the attention of the other students and faculty," he said.

Scott cautioned, however, that good results have already been obtained, and that any future demonstrations would just cause harm for the University.

"I think that proper action through the right channels will come after the season is over," he concluded.

Bob Young, board member, commented that the board should not ask students to refrain from any demonstrations, but could ask them to think before they did anything.

Jim Lyle told the board that as Alumni Secretary, he has seen many Boise Game weekends.

"I have enough confidence in the University students," he said. "I think they are mature enough not to go off the deep end and bring ill repute to the University."

Lyle said he was sure the majority of the students realized and appreciated the fact the administration was aware of the athletic situation.

Commenting on the Arizona game, which he attended last weekend, Lyle said that "the team did everything it could until it just ran out of gas."

He said the alumni turnout for the game was excellent, considering the distance from the campus.

Area Papers, Radio Stations Blast Argonaut Sports Editor

By NEIL MODIE

An editorial by Argonaut sports editor Herb Hollinger in the Nov. 9 issue of the Argonaut caused a series of editorial repercussions and news stories from Idaho and Inland Empire newspapers, wire services and radio stations last week.

Following the Idaho Vandals' 27-2 defeat at the hands of the University of Pacific's football team, Hollinger's sports column, "In the Spotlight," pointed out that a number of University students' want football coach J. Neil (Skip) Stahley "to resign, or else be fired."

Hollinger stated in his column that he has high respect for Stahley as a coach and as a person and commented that Stahley has coached a number of football players who have done well in professional football since graduation.

But the sports editor added: "The abuse that Stahley has absorbed this season, especially since last Saturday, would be a fair tale to what he would be subjected to next season, in my opinion from watching the antics of 'school children' recently." He was referring to several effigies of Stahley which were hanged around the campus during Dad's Day weekend.

In Several Papers
Articles about the column appeared in a number of area newspapers by means of the Associated Press and United Press International Thursday and Friday. One of the AP stories stated in the lead paragraph that Hollinger himself, not a group of students, was asking for Stahley's resignation. In his column, however, Hollinger commented that "it is time for a change" but did not demand that Stahley resign or be fired.

However, two Spokane newspapers, the Spokesman-Review and the Daily Chronicle, heatedly took opposition to Hollinger's views. The Spokesman-Review stated: "Fire Coach Skip Stahley," blasted the Idaho Argonaut, editorially, and termed the column "an emotional blast-off."

Chronicle sports columnist Bob Johnson remarked Thursday that Stahley had been done an injustice.

Radio Station Comments
Perhaps the most radical opposition to the Argonaut column was heard from Spokane radio station KNEW, whose disc jockeys proclaimed Friday as "Skip Stahley Day" and expressed the opinion that Hollinger "should go soak his head."

After again announcing "Skip Stahley Day" half an hour later, the announcer said he had heard about the several effigies of Stahley that had been hanged and added that "maybe someone should hang the Argonaut sports editor in effigy."

Southern Idaho newspapers also picked up the story, via the two wire services. In the Friday edition of Boise's Idaho Daily Statesman, the story of Hollinger's column carried a headline that ran the full width of the sports page.

Faculty To Hear WSU Professor

Dr. Donald Wells of the Washington State University Department of Philosophy will speak on the subject: "The Concept of God is Obsolete in the University" in the second of a series of informal lunch-time faculty discussions tomorrow noon in the Faculty Club Lounge.

Mid-Term Pace Set By Individual

The University of Idaho functions normally, as far as social restrictions go, during mid-term examinations. The only formal restraints will be imposed by individual students during mid-terms this week.

No closed nights are scheduled during the week, which means that if a house wished to do so, it could hold a dance during the week.

Study habits during this rather tedious time of the year vary with the individual. Some go to bed early and rise early while others are late sleepers but late risers.

Of course, there are always those few students who can do all their studying in one night. For instance, during previous mid-term exams, one student read two books in one night for two separate tests the next day. This particular student is maintaining a 3.5 grade average.

One noticeable change during mid-term week can be seen at University Library. Last Friday and Saturday the library was open during the evening hours, a change from the regular closing time of 5:30 p.m. on Fridays and 5 p.m. on Saturdays.

Kampus Keys To Go On Sale

Blue Key, upperclassmen's scholastic and service honorary, will start selling 1961-1962 Kampus Keys in all living groups Thursday.

Besides the name, major, campus address, phone number and home town of each University student, the Keys contain the presidents and social chaimen of each living group, class officers, and members of Executive Board and other ASUI organizations.

"Only a thousand have been printed this year," stated Bob Tunnicliff, Fiji, Blue Key representative, "and students wishing to buy a Kampus Key should get theirs early."

Sigma Tau Chooses Eighteen Top Engineering Students

Sigma Tau, national engineering honorary, recently announced the tapping of 18 engineering majors. For initiation the prospective members will attend classes wearing the traditional pyramid and rail hats Dec. 9.

Those tapped are: Lorenzo Whitling, LDS; Larry Morgan and Bruce Will, both of Lindley Hall; Jerry Okeson, Beta; Clark Brewington, Bruce Dunn, Robert Griffin, Larry Hicks, Rudolph Horst, Richard Jacobson, David March, Leo McGonagle, Alvah Rhoades, Richard Schueber, Leon Semeter, Joseph Sowers, Michael Strub and Marvin Weniger, all of campus.

The purpose of Sigma Tau is to promote engineering education. Requirements for membership are practicality, sociability, and junior standing or above. Nominees also must have a grade point average of 3.00 or better while pursuing a recognized engineering degree.

The symbolic hats worn during the initiation period represent stability, symbolized by the pyramid, and progress, symbolized by the rail section.

Annual IRE-AIEE Lab Party Planned

The university chapters of the Institute of Radio Engineers and the American Institute of Electrical Engineers will hold their annual lab party next Friday at 7 p.m. at Kirtlay Engineering Laboratory.

The lab will be open Friday night for electrical engineers and their guests. Open house will be held the afternoon of Nov. 18.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

FRANKLY ELLEN, I DIDN'T KNOW YOU SOCIETY GIRLS WERE SO SENSITIVE ABOUT BEING SEEN WITH AN INDEPENDENT!

Feudin', Fussin' And A Fightin'

They've forgotten what the feud is all about, but the Hatfields and McCoy's are knocking each other off at every opportunity. When dear old Grandma McCoy was picked off while gathering daisies the Hatfield clan held a big celebration. What a day for the Hatfields!

The McCoy's struck back! They up and blew the queen of the Hatfields to bits the next day. A celebration!

The feud is never forgotten and it pervades the lives of the clans.

If the young'ins manage to grow up, they are sent to college to prepare for a battle later in life. By choice, the McCoy's decide to live as independents and the Hatfields live Greek. With more to do at college the clans almost forget the feud, but once in a while they remember.

College outlaws the gunfights they enjoyed in the sticks as home so they devise other methods.

The McCoy's try to stay as close together as possible and work against the Hatfields on the other side of the campus. The clans even manage to eat and have coffee in different places. But no one asks what the feud is all about.

The top Hatfield and top McCoy team are pitted against each other in intramurals. It's a clan victory rather than a team victory.

The fight continues into campus politics. Each fights as hard as possible for a victory.

It is drummed into each clan that a Hatfield doesn't date a McCoy and a McCoy doesn't even go into a house where a Hatfield lives. Once in a while a rebellious clan member oversteps the bounds, but not without a severe tongue lashing by the leader.

The groups manage to stick together for most all-house exchanges, occasionally they are forced together against their will to build a booth or a float. How it hurts!

Still no one thinks why the feud is continuing. They just fight to keep it going. The more they can hurt the other side the better.

Maybe someday the Hatfields and McCoy's will discover how foolish the battle has become. They'll find that people are the same regardless of where they live. This will be the greatest victory either side has ever known. — M. B.

Young Demos Hear Dobler

Clifford I. Dobler, associate professor of political science, will talk on "The Purpose and Value of Student Participation in Politics" at the first meeting of the Young Democrats Thursday at 7 p.m. in the Student Union Pine Room.

Further scheduled plans for the group include an active role in the forthcoming Citizenship Clearing House political workshop, which will attempt to acquaint students with the workings of democratic government.

Also on the meeting's agenda will be the election of several officers for the coming year, including president, secretary, treasurer and state committeewoman. The meeting is open to the public.

MUST PULL WIRES

In order to get educated these days, the Idaho student has to pull a few wires — the television wire, the hi-fi wire, the telephone wire, the radio wire and the wire to dad for cash.

THE GOLDEN FLEECE

by Jason

Jason doesn't like to write an editorial and then rewrite the same editorial for another issue of the paper. However, several rumors about plans to re-enact the anti-Stahley campaign on a larger scale at the Boise game present a situation which cannot be ignored.

The Executive Board held a special meeting Monday noon to decide what action might be taken to prevent another demonstration—this time in the state capital.

The decision made by the board was that nothing could be done. And nothing can be done except to ask students to replace zeal by some reason.

One constructive approach which has been taken by students toward the athletic situation is the drawing up of a petition to be submitted to the University Administration after enough student signatures are secured.

There is some indication that alumni may participate in demonstrations during the weekend. Such action, however, would not justify similar activities on the part of the student body in attendance and would probably create a negative impression on other alumni who might feel motivated to act, but would choose slower, and perhaps more effective means of doing so.

A story on the front page of this issue concerning the results of a column written by Sports Editor Herb Hollinger is a good indication of how opinions on the athletic situation can be distorted from their original meaning.

It is not difficult to imagine how people both inside and outside the state, would interpret any type of mass demonstration at the capital or any other place in Boise.

Having pretty well exhausted any opinions on this subject Jason would like to throw out one trite but appropriate phrase for students going to Boise next weekend:

Think before you act.

Argonaut Readers Discuss ASUI Prexy's Action, Coach Stahley

Not Duty For Prexy

Dear Jason,

In the Oct. 22 issue of the Twin Falls Times-News there appeared a letter from Jim Mullen with his title of President, ASUI. This letter was a partisan political attack on one of the announced candidates for Governor of Idaho.

I believe that we all would defend an individual's right to express his views in any field and especially in the field of politics. However would we defend the rights of an individual to express his political opinion as the opinion of a larger group to which he belongs. This is what Mr. Mullen has done. Some of the statements which Mr. Mullen makes actually are spiteful toward Mr. Hintze.

Statements of this type certainly will not lead to better public relations with a group in Idaho. If each ASUI President over the past years had written similar letters we would probably have alienated almost every political group in Idaho.

As if this letter wasn't harmful enough. Last weekend at the Republican Party Paul Revere Dinner at Lewiston Mr. Mullen again stated his personal views, and once again a particular group, in fact all those political leaders present, were definitely opposed to his views. At this meeting Mr. Mullen was known as the President of the ASUI. As if these two instances weren't enough, it has also been brought to my attention that the official ASUI stationery is used by Mr. Mullen in most of his correspondence, whether official or not.

When we at the University state that we want more participation in world, national and state events this doesn't mean that we want to be saddled with Mr. Mullen's personal views.

We elected him on his campus views and not on his state and national political views so we hope that he will represent us only on campus issues.

Gordon Powers
Willis Sweet Hall

Ed. Note: The letter referred to by Mr. Powers is reprinted below from the Twin Falls Times-News.

Last week A. F. Hintze of Mackay, in a statement regarding his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for governor made some very disturbing statements.

At this point in Idaho's development when even the most careful spending of each tax dollar still can't provide adequate facilities for the state's university and colleges, hospitals and highways. Mr. Hintze, who professes to be gubernatorial timber, claims that he is going to protect Idahoans from the "outrageously extravagant ideas" of our political leaders. At a time when Idaho's institutions of higher learning are turning students away because of lack of housing, classrooms and research facilities this man is going to give Idahoans a "hold the line tax program." Perhaps it might better be phrased a "hold back the future of Idaho program."

In the first place, one would have to search the recent records of the Idaho legislature with considerable diligence to find legislative action that could be termed "outrageously extravagant." The democratic operation of our legislative bodies not only guards against such legislation, but makes it quite difficult to be extravagant with something you haven't got. More disturbing than this, however, is the fact that Mr. Hintze is going to protect Idahoans from ideas. How does one go about protecting one from ideas? I have always been under the impression that ideas and the compromise thereof have been the mainstay of American progress. I doubt if anyone wants to be protected from freedom of expression. Perhaps, Mr. Hintze should weigh a little more carefully the terms he uses in his campaign.

In the second place, the state legislature and many other people have been trying desperately in the last two sessions, as evidenced by the bonded indebtedness measure of a year ago and the controversy over state sales tax this year, to come up with a method of obtaining enough revenue to meet the demands of this growing state. If Mr. Hintze has thought of some program whereby more revenue can be obtained to build overdue children's hospitals, school facilities and highways without raising taxes or providing a new tax structure many people would like to know about it. Otherwise, let care be exercised in ridiculing past political candidates for speaking in generalities. President Kennedy as well as prominent leaders of both state parties tell us that we must be prepared to sacrifice if we intend to preserve our economic stability and build for the future. Is it not time then that the citizens of this state be told a few facts about their responsibility to the future of Idaho? Certainly it is, and it is time that the candidates for political office begin to present to the electorate the fact that it is going to cost a considerable amount of money out of everyone's pocket to prepare Idaho for the future. The time is past when we can wait for a crisis to arise before anything is done about it. We must guard against critical situations by planning for them and acting on them now. One of the primary vehicles through which we can insure stability and advancement in Idaho is quality education. The best research facilities money can buy are none too good. Adequate salaries for instructors must be available, and housing and classroom space must be provided.

I invite Mr. Hintze to forget his "thorough and organized campaign" for a couple of days and spend a few of his many campaign contributions visiting the University of Idaho or Idaho State college so that he can see first hand where the real future of this state lies. Perhaps he can carry back to the electorate a few bits of factual knowledge.

Player Defends Coach Stahley

Jason:

I have been associated with athletics at Idaho for two years, and for the past two years the football team gets both barrels from the newspaper and student body.

How do you think it makes us feel when students walk up to you and say, "I suppose the score this week will look like the national debt?"

Most people think it is our coach, at least that is what I read in the paper, and that the players don't want to play for him anymore. How do the critics know? Are they at practice every night, and at every game? Do they take part in our physical contact drills, or do they sit on the side line like a bunch of Monday morning quarterbacks?

When we play a game, the thought of losing never occurs. If it did, I would turn in my equipment. If this is a quitter, then I am one.

If you have ever talked with some of the players about the games, you would see how disappointed they are. Disappointed not only in themselves, but disappointed in the way they have let Coach Stahley down. Maybe we are short on manpower, but from the talk I hear we have many All-Americans on our campus. There is an empty locker beside mine full of equipment. If the shoes fit, wear them.

Next week we are going to try for another win. If we do win, it will be for us, not the newspaper,

Student World

(Ed. Note) — This is the first in a series of articles contributed by foreign students at the University of Idaho commenting on world problems and how they affect students throughout the world.

By GURCHARAN SINGH
Argonaut Contributor

The main difficulty with the foreigner has always been that he is foreign. Americans have lived in idle expectation that foreigners, given a proper chance, will adopt much that is good in America into their own lives. But no effort seems to be made to explain the fallacies in American movies and television. There is much that foreigners can learn from the American way of life; there is much an American can learn from the traditions and philosophy of a foreigner. Mutual understanding may not be quite possible but an effort can be made.

Today I wish to introduce to you a foreign student who is quite new to Idaho. Ernest Richard Douglas, Phi Tau, is an education major and hails from England. This is his second year in this University and he enjoys it here very much.

I talked to him quite late in the evening last Sunday. You see, he is a track star. Last Saturday in Spokane, he tied for first place in the four mile race with his team mate and fellow Englishman, Paul Henhen (jolly good for you old chap). Douglas came to Idaho on an athletic scholarship.

"This scholarship made it possible for me to have a college education. I come from a working class family. A college education may not have been available for me in my country," Douglas said.

Douglas practices daily exercises and believes in "Fit mind in a fit body." "Physical exercise is necessary. Far too many Americans do not take sufficient interest in physical exercise," Douglas remarked.

IFC Confab Will Be Held This Weekend

Fraternity men from ten different schools will meet on the University of Oregon campus this weekend for the annual Northwest Regional Inter-Fraternity Council Convention.

Nineteen delegates from Idaho will attend the two-day session in Eugene. After registration and orientation Friday night, the delegates will break into discussion groups Saturday to talk about such fraternity areas of concern as scholarship, public relations, and IFC programs.

Speaking at a banquet Friday evening will be Dr. H. C. Dubach, national scholarship chairman of Sigma Phi Epsilon, national social fraternity. A general business session will be held Saturday also. Saturday evening the session will be concluded by a banquet. A representative of the Federal Bureau of Investigation will speak on the infiltration and effect of Communism on college campuses.

Bud Mangals, IFC advisor at Oregon, will be in charge of the convention.

exchange with the Kappa pledges Saturday.

ALPHA GAMS HAVE DANCE

"Hypnotique" was the theme of the AGD pledge dance Saturday night. Beer kegs, candles and "the usual" exemplified the theme. Chaperones for the affair were Dr. and Mrs. R. M. Kessel, Dr. and Mrs. John Snyder, and Mrs. Hazel Laughon. Stompin' music was provided by the Pacers from Pullman.

Carol Tubbs from Spokane was a weekend guest.

K-SIG PLEDGES SNEAK

The Kappa Sig pledges took a sneak Tuesday evening. The members, however, seemed to enjoy the sneak more than the pledges, as studying was little easier.

The "Brown Jug" football game with the Phi pledges took place Saturday, with the Fijis winning 6-0.

Professor Jackson, head of the chemical engineering department, and Mrs. Jackson were Sunday dinner guests at the house.

Mis-Quoted, Mis-Interpreted Says Writer Of Controversy

Last week in this column I commented on a situation which is highly controversial and I mentioned that I was giving strictly my own opinion. Somehow I managed to get mis-quoted, mis-interpreted, and mis-just about everything else that could happen when you comment on something like this.

I would like to state that I did not "demand" Stahley's removal, I didn't tell Stahley to resign or "be fired," and I did not "blast" Stahley.

What I did say was that I felt it was time for a change. Sometimes a change brings worse or no better results, but also sometimes it brings better things than was had in the past. As I said before, I have sincere respect for "Skip" Stahley as an individual, and also his coaching ability. If this was not so he couldn't have turned out as many professional football players as he has since his reign here began in 1954.

The basis for my suggestion was that the football players had failed to perform for their coach, and that others of potential would not play for him at all. This is also my own opinion, although not without a certain amount of investigation. I still believe this.

Another important point is what will happen next year if Stahley is still here? The amount of ridicule and abuse that the coach suffered after the UOP game would probably be repeated after every game that Idaho loses next year. If students are so strong in their convictions this year, what will happen in '62? Also, let me point out that this is not necessarily a minority of students that feel this way, although it is probably a minority that have been outward in their actions against the coach.

A recent comment by a Spokane sports writer said that there is no justice in college football. He referred to the situation here at Idaho and after thinking about it, I tend to agree with him somewhat. Sure, it is bad that because a coach loses people yell for his scalp and when he wins they buy him a car. But, I don't believe that this is the case here. There is definitely something more than just losing that Stahley has been asked to resign, although losing is instrumental in the resignation of any coach.

Appearing in Friday's paper (received too late for today's) will be a letter from a Vandal booster in Nampa. He gives an opinion which he says is shared by a lot of people in that region. One which I also think is shared by a majority of students on this campus.

Point of Clarification: Although I don't know whether it was "organized" last week or not, there definitely is organized opposition to Coach Stahley. There are, evidently, circulating petitions on the campus asking that Stahley be removed. The organizers say that it will be presented to Dr. Theophilus when around 300 student signatures are affixed.

Seattle Hosts Harrier Meet

The Idaho Harriers will travel to Seattle this week to attend the Pacific Northwest AAU championships Saturday. The meet will be held at Green Lake Park for a distance of five miles.

Running for Idaho will be: Dick Douglas, Paul Henden, Louie Olaso, Nick Welter, Curt Flisher, Bernie O'Connell, and Charlie Smith.

Teams participating will be: Oregon, OSU, WSU, Washington, UBC, Vancouver Olympic Club and Idaho. Favored are OSU, Oregon and the Vancouver Olympic Club. Individual favorites will be: Dick Douglas and Paul Henden, Idaho; Bill Boyd and Dale Story, OSU; Dyrrol Bursleson and Ardie San Romani, Oregon and Don Bertora of WSU.

Frosh Battled Couababes Long, Hard—But Lost 7-0

If things were quiet last week, they are even quieter (or is it more quiet) this week.

Here is the action from last Thursday night's volleyball games in Leagues III and IV.

In League III, TMA had their problems with Chrisman, but still managed to come out on top, 15-11, 14-16, and 15-7. Lindley also ran into a little opposition against Willis Sweet, winning 15-6, 16-14.

Shoup had little trouble with Campus Club, knocking them off, 15-3, 15-9. Upham had a field day against Gault, mauling them 15-2, 15-3.

League IV action saw Chrisman 2 take TMA 2, 15-5, 15-7. Lindley had a little trouble finding the groove, but stayed in there to win over Willis Sweet 2, 17-15, 2-15, 15-11.

Shoup Hall 2 literally mangled Campus Club 2, 15-0, 15-1. Lastly, Upham 2, beat Gault 2, 15-5, 15-6.

The Recreation Committee and Physical Education Department will open Memorial Gymnasium for free play on Sundays from 1-5 p.m., starting this Sunday.

Sports Writer Lauds Frosh

ED Note: The following is part of a column, Doc's Dope, written by Doc Will, Idaho Daily Statesman (Boise) sports columnist. It is felt that his description of the Idaho Frosh football team coming from an outside source would prove interesting and informative to Idaho students.

MOSCOW — Idaho's freshman football team has accomplished a feat in the last two years that the varsity gridders have never been able to duplicate in 68 years. That feat is defeating the frosh from the University of Washington in two consecutive games.

If you glance at the record you will notice that the varsity has scored only two wins over Washington in its 30 previous meetings with the Huskies and only the oldest of Vandal alumni can tell you when Idaho last defeated its rivals from Seattle. Apparently it was in 1905 because that was the year Idaho won all five of its games for its only undefeated season in history.

Now back to the Vandal frosh. In 1960 the frosh upended the yearlings from Washington 27-15 and recently they emerged again as the victors, scoring a 7-6 win over their rivals at Seattle. The 1960 win was the first time since 1905 that the Vandal frosh had defeated the Washington club and to prove this was no fluke they went out again that Saturday and repeated the feat.

Coach Bud Goodell's club was sparked by outstanding line play and a 65-yard touchdown run by reserve quarterback Joe Chapman of Coeur d'Alene in this victory. Chapman turned in his run in the second quarter and center Paul Lawrence of Everett added the extra point which insured the win.

Idaho's line was finally dented by the Huskies in the final period but rose up to thwart Washington's attempt for a two-point conversion which would have meant victory.

Idaho's Vandal Babes and the WSU frosh battled for three and one-half quarters Friday afternoon at Neale Stadium before the Couababes from across the line managed to score and win, 7-0.

The hard fought game could have gone either way but one of the oldest plays in football helped the Couababes draw the only touchdown. On a fourth down and eight to go on the Idaho 35 WSU used the draw to perfection and on the next play it was first and goal-to-goal on the Idaho 3. It took three plays but the visitors managed to push it through the middle for the score.

The game was played in dismal weather and rain for part of the game. About 1500 shivering fans were on hand for the first, and what is hoped to be annual, Shrine benefit game. All proceeds from the game will go to the Shrine Crippled Children's Hospital at Spokane.

Calls Back TD's

The Couababes had two other potential touchdowns called back because of holding penalties. The Vandal Babes got as far as the WSU 10 yard line in the third quarter, but the drive stalled and a field goal effort by George Johnson from the 25 failed its mark.

Vandal quarterback Joe Chapman and fullback Bob Hammond racked up a good percentage of Idaho's 96 rushing yards. The line play for Idaho made the game as close as it was, however, with Rich Naccarato, Harry Allison and Max Leetzow making tremendous tackles time and again. In fact, the whole Idaho line looked sharp in the losing effort.

The potent arm of WSU quarterback Dale Ford, which caused violence in the other Couababe games this season, was silenced until the second half. In that half he completed 5 of 16 passes for 63 yards. He appeared to be hampered in the first half by a slippery ball and a fierce west wind.

Most of the Couababe running was done by the wiggly Clarence (Warmup) Williams and Les Rucker, who was moved up from the WSU frosh second team. The Couababes gathered a total of 251 yards, compared with only 103 for Idaho.

The game Friday closed the season for the Vandal Babes who won one game this year out of three, but look impressive in all three starts. The Babes defeated the University of Washington Pups, 7-6, for their only win, but lost to WSU 7-0 and Wenatchee J.C., in their opener, 10-7.

Idaho Termed Too Slow As Vandals Outclassed

By JIM HERNDON
Argonaut Managing Editor

TUCSON, Nov. 11—"Just a few seconds faster and he would have been gone," the man said as Dick Mooney picked up two blocks and ran 39 yards on a kick-off return, midway in the second quarter.

Bernie Ross, reporting for the Arizona Star, Tucson's morning daily, just repeated what he had said 10 minutes earlier about Ron Kulm's 58 yard punt return in the first quarter.

"Just a few seconds faster . . ." was the way Ross and others described Idaho's play in the Vandals' 43-7 loss to Arizona.

Coach Skip Stahley was disheartened by the loss, but had praise for his team.

"They played hard and didn't give up," the Idaho mentor said. "We were just outmanned."

Scores First
The Vandals scored first, midway in the first quarter and gave the impression that they might pull an upset.

Kulm's kick-off return had set up the score. Mooney had taken a 52-yard Eddie Wilson kick and had handed off to Kulm. Kulm found good blocking and worked his way down to the Arizona 18 where he was overtaken from behind and regged.

Reg Carolan threw a key block on the Arizona 35, dropping two Arizona tacklers.

Halfback Gene Bates, playing his best collegiate game, and fullback Mike Jordan, in two plays apiece, ran the ball down to the two-yard line.

Mooney, on a dive, scored, and John Desmond kicked the extra point.

An earlier Vandal drive had run out of steam on the Arizona 20. Desmond attempted a field goal, but the kick was low.

Idaho's lead was short-lived. The Wildcats, supporting depth and what Stahley calls "the best backs we've seen all season," scored in eight plays on a 63-yard drive.

Arizona, who rotated four teams, scored every quarter. After regging the first quarter the undermanned Vandals fell behind.

"Those four fresh teams were just too much," guard Darwin Doss said. "We could keep up with them for awhile, but couldn't when they kept coming back rested."
