

Dalton, Moore Vie For Prexy

University coeds will pick between Idora Lee Moore, Kappa, and Mary Ann Dalton, DG, for president of the Associated Women Students in the election March 22. The following candidates were chosen last night to run for the AWS posts:

14 Acts Slated For Blue Key Talent Show

Blue Key members have selected 14 acts—from a violin solo to a baton-twirl—to provide competition in the Blue Key Talent Show a week from today.

The acts are divided into four divisions: house acts, vocal solos, instrumental, and small groups and variety. The acts were selected by the members in auditions held Sunday at the SUB. The winner from each of the four divisions will be named at the March 23 show.

In the house acts will be: Kappa Kappa Gamma, Gamma Phi Beta, and Alpha Chi Omega. Vocal solo division: Dick Reed, SAE; Linda Nelson, Tri Delta; Dave Frazier, Sigma Chi; and Rose Marie Bican, Theta.

Lana Alton, Forney, Karen Fisher, Gamma Phi, and Penny Parberry, Phi Phi, secretary; Linda Kinney, Forney, and Linda Scoville, DG, treasurer; Sharon Stroschein, Tri Delta, and Pixy Woolverton, Theta, maid of honor; and Pat McCullough, Gamma Phi, and Julie Severn, DG, page.

The coed who loses the president's race will automatically become vice-president. According to La Dessa Rogers, outgoing president, three will run for secretary because only one vote separated them when the primary slate was picked.

Polls will be in the Administration building only and will be open between 8:45 a.m. and 4:15 p.m. Women must show ASUI activity cards to vote.

Wodlinger Will Visit Campus

David Wodlinger, director of the International Institute of Education in New York, will be on the campus today to discuss with University professors ways and means of getting students to apply for Fulbright scholarships.

Usually from six to 16 Idaho students apply for Fulbright scholarships each year and of these there have been two or three scholarships awarded to Idaho students each year in the last decade, according to William J. Brockelbank, Fulbright chairman.

At a noon luncheon today in the Frontier Room of the Student Union Building Wodlinger and faculty members will discuss and organize possible means of creating interest among students for the Fulbright scholarships.

There are two types of Fulbright scholarships which students may apply for. One is on the state level and the other is for study in a foreign country. Once a student receives such a scholarship the International Institute of Education represents him and pays all expenses for the following year of study.

Students interested in these scholarships should apply before Nov. 1, of their senior year so that they may be eligible after receiving their bachelor's degree in the spring.

ON THE CALENDAR MONDAY

AIEE-IRE Meeting, 7:00 p.m., Engineering Building, Room 104.
American Chemical Society (Idaho student chapter), 7:00 p.m., Science Building, Room 110.

Nelson To Discuss Investor Problems

John M. Nelson, executive assistant superintendent of Seattle City Light Co. and Marshall Blair, vice-president of the Washington Water Power, will discuss the various problems of the investor of the privately-owned electric utility in a program prepared by the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

The meeting will be held Monday, at 7 p.m. in the Engineering Building in Room 104.

Jimmy Rodgers Will Sing On Junior-Senior Weekend

The junior and senior classes will present a "weekend" featuring such attractions as the Jimmy Rodgers Show and Pont's and Johnny Reitz's band instead of the traditional prom this year.

The "weekend" is scheduled to start Friday, April 27, at 9 p.m. with a formal dance to Reitz's music in Memorial Gym. Rodgers and troupe will perform Sunday afternoon in the Memorial Gymnasium.

The class officers said that the Reitz band was recommended to them by their counterparts at the University of Washington and the University of Oregon.

According to Gary Carlson and Bob Scott, junior and senior class presidents respectively, the Reitz band, which played at three major dances at Washington and two at Oregon, "is one of the best bands that has ever appeared at either place."

The Washington students said "they were very happy they had a band that played danceable music," the class presidents related.

Another Attraction Besides good music, the dance will have another attraction to University students. There will be a 2 a.m. permission for the coeds.

The dance lasts from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m.

Carlson and Scott said that possibly there would be extra entertainment during the intermission.

The Rodgers show is including the University as one of its six college stops this spring. The two-hour show is also booked at Stanford, University of Washington, University of Oregon, University of California at Berkeley, and Oregon State University.

The Rodgers show features the Camas, Wash., singer who made the big time singing folksongs in a mellow voice to the tune of a guitar. Rodgers is best known for his hit records of "Honeycomb," "English Country Garden," and "Tucumcari."

Appearing with Rodgers will be a quartet of University of Oregon singers who have made a name for themselves in the Bay area—the Fairmount Singers.

Master of ceremonies will be Harrison Baker, a Bob Hope type comedian whose record of "The Last of the Well Comedians," has placed him in the limelight.

The show is open to the public. The class presidents said the minimum price under the contract will be $1.75 for students with activity cards and $2.50 for adults.

Elizabethan Play, Jonson's 'Volpone' Opens

"VOLPONE" — The ASUI play "Volpone" opened last night and will be presented tonight and tomorrow night in the Administration auditorium. The play is open to the public and to students with activity cards. The scene depicts the Elizabethan era that Ben Jonson's play is drawn upon.

Performances Tonight And Saturday; Drama Department's 'Biggest Show'

The ASUI Drama Department's "biggest show" of the year opened last night in the University auditorium as a "comparatively fresh cast" presented Ben Jonson's "Volpone." The play, written during the Elizabethan era, is set in Venice, which was at that time considered the most morally decadent city in the world. The play is composed of a whole set of "degenerate types," according to Dr. William B. Hunter, head of the Department of Humanities. It is somewhat comparable to Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice."

E-Board Overrides Subordinate In Picking Activity Councilmen

Executive Board Tuesday night passed over one recommendation of the joint boards of Selection and Control and Student Union, headed by ASUI Vice President Dick Stiles, for appointment to the newly-formed Activities Council, thereby establishing power over both groups and the new council.

When the Activities Council was adopted by the Executive Board last month, the board asked for recommendations for area chairmen from the joint boards. The new Council combines activities of both the ASUI and the Student Union, but is structurally under the direction of the ASUI Executive Board.

The Student Union program council is the former governing body for SUB affairs and the Board of Selection and Control and recommended appointments to ASUI positions.

Are Appointed Those appointed to the council were Keith Huettig, junior; John Gamble, junior; Bob Carlson, sophomore; Mary Lynn Evans, sophomore; and Pat Kelley, junior.

Only two were named by a unanimous vote of 10, and the other three were appointed with seven votes each. One member appointed was not recommended by the joint boards.

Overly upset with the board's action, Stiles directed a statement to the new board members saying that he hoped they would "hold more confidence and respect for the recommendations given to them for future appointments."

Defending the board's action, ASUI president Jim Mullen said that the board was exercising its proper prerogative because it had reserved the right to consider recommendations, but not to accept them.

Stiles countered that the persons working most closely with the applicants involved should have a better insight into their abilities and service records.

In other action, the board voted 6-4 to approve a recommendation to the Academic Council that the 2.2 academic requirement passed earlier this year be extended to apply to all king and queen royalty connected with ASUI activities.

In asking for a recommendation from the Board, Mullen pointed out that the office of student Peace Corps liaison officer, at the Student Counseling Center.

Harold Snow Addresses Joint E. Boards About U. Relations

In the first of a series of orientation meetings for the new ASUI Executive Board, Harold Snow, Republican state representative from Latah County, Tuesday night explained University-Legislature relations and expressed support for a sales tax.

Snow, who is member of the Ways and Means Committee and the State Affairs Committee told the Executive Board that if the state is going to provide more money for higher education, it must adopt a new means of financing. He said firmly that he believes the sales tax is the only feasible way to do this.

"I am aware that Idaho can't increase its appropriations for education or other services without adding new means of revenue," Snow said. "A sales tax seems to be the only answer since we have about scraped the barrel on other types of revenue schemes," he added.

Explains Process Snow explained that as budgeting in the state now operates all funds must be taken from a general fund, and the budget must be balanced each biennium with enough incoming revenue to pay for all legislative appropriations.

He noted that the budgets for public schools, higher education, and public health are usually considered last by the legislature, and therefore much of the cutting comes from these institutions' requests.

Turning to the latter of the University budget approved by the legislature last year, Snow said this was the first time a real fight had developed between Idaho State and the University, or at least the representatives from Latah and Bannock counties. He said that both institutions, however, ended up with an equal increase from their previous budgets.

Concerning Representative Carl Burt's defeated proposal to change the name of Idaho State College to Idaho State University, Snow said that he would have no objection to such a bill in the future if it were recommended by the Board of Regents.

Not From Regents Burt's proposal last session, he said, was not recommended by the Regents.

When asked by ASUI president Jim Mullen what the consequences of a football game played at Boise between ISC and the University would be, Snow commented that a win would gain a lot of prestige for the University; but on the other hand a loss would lose a lot of prestige in the state.

Answering some more questions about the University's relations with the rest of the state, Snow said that he could see no reason why at least one of the state basketball tournaments could not be played at the University.

He noted that such tournaments are held all over the state, but seldom at the University, which has all the necessary facilities.

Library To Open On Friday Nights

The University library will be open for the rest of the semester on Friday nights from 7 to 10 p.m.

Tonight is the first time that the library has been open on a Friday night since 1958. The action came as a result of a proposal to the Executive Board by Chuck Thompson, board member, about a month ago.

A $250 appropriation will be added to staff the library for this extra time. Library officials said that the number of students taking advantage of the situation will determine whether or not it will be continued.

Peace Corps Rep. To Visit

A Peace Corps representative will visit the campus Monday and Tuesday to talk to interested students and faculty.

Paul Worthington, Washington, D. C., will hold general conferences in the Borah Theater at 3 p.m. both days. He will also participate in a Faculty Forum Tuesday at noon in the Faculty Club.

Private conferences with Worthington can be arranged for the Board Room of the President's office for individual students.

Further information can be obtained from Donald J. Kees, Peace Corps liaison officer, at the Student Counseling Center.

Sophomores Are Challenged

"You're all wet," is the final clue for Frosh Week treasure hunters.

For individuals who like a more strenuous activity, the frosh have challenged the those "uncouth, barbarous" sophomores to a tug-of-war "o'er that halloved ribbon of silver, Paradise Creek."

Bill Frates, president of the sophomore class, said yesterday that the sophomores would accept.

"Big words and flowery phrases aren't going to help the frosh any," the sophomore class president said. "We (the sophomores) will band together like we did last year." Last year the sophomores, then frosh, won the annual tug-of-war.

This year's big pull is slated for 4 this afternoon.

Frosh week activities include the tug-of-war, a dance tomorrow night and the treasure hunt.

The dance's theme concerns St. Patrick's Day. The frosh king and queen will be crowned during intermission. The music, presented by The Demons, starts at 9 p.m. at the Student Union Building.

Awards to outstanding freshmen also will be presented during the intermission break.

The "best-looking legs" final contest will be judged this afternoon and the winner announced Saturday evening at the dance.

People finding gift certificates on the treasure hunt should bring them to the dance and cash them at intermission according to Jani Meyers, member of the Frosh Week publicity committee. The prizes have been donated by 13 Moscow business firms.

The three previous clues are "It's not in the open. You'll have to use thinking. Good luck if it's as easy as eating and drinking." 2. "A'ohy, Ca'n. Thar she blows." 3. "Could be somewhere near a wall, could be."

The frosh serpentine for the tug-of-war will form in three areas: Sigma Chi house, Lindley, Delt area, and the SAE house.

The sophomores received the freshman challenge too late for a reply to be printed in the Argonaut.

The challenge that the frosh issued is as follows: "As that special period of the year here at the University of Idaho commonly known as Frosh Week draws anew, we, the immortal omnipotent, omniscient and extraordinarily sophisticated class of '65 have had it brought to our attention that it is our duty as supercilious sovereigns of this revered institution to bathe those uncouth, barbarous, neurotic, normally referred to with profound distaste as the sophomore class.

Money of Power

One question Hunter said that those who attend the play might ask themselves, "Is Volpone out for money or power?"

The cast of the play has spent more than twice as many hours in preparing this production than they did in last fall's play, "Rashomon." Miss Jean Collette, director of the play, said she was very pleased with the job that has been done by the students who have never acted before. This includes almost 75 percent of the cast.

The production, in terms of time spent in preparation, is comparable to ASUI's production of Shakespeare's "King Henry IV" last year. The play is unusually long—two and one-half hours.

Performance Tonight

Performances are scheduled for tonight and tomorrow night at 8 p.m. High school students attending the drama festival this weekend will be guests at the play Saturday night.

In order to improve the acoustics in the auditorium the meeting capacity has been reduced somewhat.

The play is well spiced with humorous incidents Miss Collette said. The hero or villain of the play is Volpone who attempts to exploit the greed of others in order to extort money from them.

Edmund Chavez, technical director for the play, said that the play was difficult to produce because it involved 17 scenes, and there was limited wing space on which to place the props. Also a shortage of lighting units and difficulty of the cast in mastering the unwieldy Elizabethan language presented further difficulties. He added that all the difficulties have been overcome, however.

Cal Watson, assistant professor of speech and drama at Washington State University, will present awards for the best play, second best play, best comedy actor and actress, best serious actor and actress, and best supporting actor and actress.

The participants in the festival will be guests of the ASUI play "Volpone" Saturday night.

POST OPEN

All persons interested in the position of Director of ASUI Public Relations must submit their names to Carl Berry, present public relations director, before Thursday.

The position is appointed by the Executive Board for one year. The salary is $25 per month.

The cast of the play includes: Lorenzo Nelson, Volpone; Gerald Goodenough, Mosca; Dick Weholt, Volture; Dave Hill, Corbaccio; Roger Barr, Corvino; Hugh Allen, Bonario; Darwin Afdahl, Sir Woudbe Politic; J. Longeteig, Peregrine; Bill Line, Nana; Bill Gotsch, Castrone; and Tom Tuttle, Androgyno.

Others are: Terry Bolstad, 1st Merchant; John Cantale, 2nd Merchant; Bill Cobble, 1st Advocate; LeRoy Brown, 4th Advocate; William Bickford, Notario; Terry Bolstad, 1st Servant (Herald); John Cantale, 2nd Servant (Herald); Bonnie Scott, Lady Woudbe; Diane Fawson, Celia; Sherry Meyer, 1st Woman; Helen Jones, 2nd Woman to Lady Woudbe Politic; Barbara Stivers, 1st Woman to Celia; and Rodney Kamppi, Commanditore.

The same actors with the addition of Angie Arrien, double for a crowd scene.

Angie Arrien and Nancy Harmon are assistants to Chavez in the directing jobs. Linga Ensign is the stage manager, and Terry Messenger is the assistant to the technical director. Jane Ruckman designed and made the costumes.

IK Interviews Set Tuesday

Interviews for prospective Intercollegiate Knights will be held Tuesday, at 6:30 p.m. in the Student Union Building.

New Officers Orientation Is Different

A new approach is being used this year for the orientation of the new ASUI officers elected last Thursday.

Outgoing ASUI President Jim Mullen has asked several area state legislators and the mayor of Moscow to speak to the Board on such subjects as what factors effect the total biennial appropriation for higher education and how it is appropriated. Other subjects include the views of these men on the role of student leaders in effecting legislation for high education, the student-businessmen relations here in Moscow, how they have changed, and the role student leaders do play and should play in this relation.

Those speaking to the board will be State Sen. Harold Lough, (D-Latah), State Representatives Harold Snow, (R-Latah), and George Broeke, (D-Latah), and Fred W. Handel, Moscow mayor.

In his letter to these men Mullen said, "I hope this will stimulate more serious thought on the part of Idaho's student leaders toward effecting a better future for all through the best possible education on the effects of this in student government."

Also Charles Decker, dean of men, Guy Wicks, associate dean of students, will talk to the new board and inform them what has been accomplished during the past year and to acquaint them with ASUI philosophy, and relations with administration.

SOPHISTICATION

The countess rose. She lifted her silver goblet and proposed a toast. "Wine is the essence of humanity. Its delicate smell fills my nostrils with sensuous aroma. When I put the chalice to my lips I have the thrill of ecstasy, and when the wine touches my lips and trickles down my gullet, I get a warm, tender feeling. On the other hand, beer makes me belch."

The GOLDEN FLEECE

As I mentioned in Tuesday's column I think that ASUI elections could be revised in a manner that would benefit the University to a greater extent than now possible. As the elections are now held, regardless of what CUP professes, there are two distinct factions battling each other for spots in ASUI government. This was extremely evident in the recent election.

Since the lack of space prohibits publishing the full text of my proposal, I will try to just briefly explain what I think could eliminate the current friction between factions on campus and put campus politics on a more intelligent scale.

First, divide the campus into nine voting districts, including TMA. For example, take Upham and Gault halls and classify them as one district. The proper representation according to student population would have to be figured out but to explain the principle I'll use Gault and Upham.

Within the two halls, one district of nine on campus, there will be a CUP and United party. When elections roll around two men from this district would oppose each other, one representing United and the other CUP. They both possibly could be from Gault, or both from Upham, or one from each. This would provide a campus-wide United Party and a campus-wide CUP.

Each party would then be composed of both Greeks and Independents and would have platforms based on campus-wide improvements instead of voting Greek or Independent. This is basically the way the nation is divided. You don't see one part of the country all Republican or Democratic, neither do I think that the campus should be divided strictly down the middle with Greeks against Independents.

One aspect of this Jason proposal would be that one district would hold the balance in a close election, and I think that TMA with neither Greek nor Independent affiliation might control the "balance of power."

I don't profess to be a political scientist and consequently there are probably many arguments against such a proposal. Those who would like to discuss or argue this proposal might write a letter to the Arg. or see me personally. I will try to explain a bit more each issue of how I think it might be instituted on the campus. Along with this I will also publish in this column any points which would make this proposal impossible, if there are any. In other words, I would like to discuss a re-organization of campus politics in a way that would better serve the interests of all University students.

The current Executive Board has three more weeks of power. After observing one action of the Board Tuesday evening it seems apparent to me that the Board is making sure that everyone knows who runs ASUI. The action came when the Board overruled a Board of Selection and Control recommendation to replace a certain individual on the Activities Council.

The Exec. Board felt that one individual recommended by the Board of Selection and Control was not as well "qualified" as another person who was not recommended. The resulting action saw the Exec. Board overrule the recommendation and name another individual.

It doesn't necessarily matter who the two individuals in question are except that the one who got the position was felt to be not as qualified to handle the job by the Board of Selection and Control. Nevertheless, the Exec. Board felt she was.

The funny part is that most of the members of the Exec. Board knew socially the one not recommended but knew nothing of the other. The Board of Selection and Control definitely felt that the one they recommended was by far the better for the position. The Board of Selection and Control has every right to be disgusted.

Maybe it might be wise for the Board of Selection and Control to disband since it seems their recommendations are disregarded anyway.

Political Scene Is Quiet Now; Possibility Of E-Board Split

By JIM METCALF Argonaut Political Editor

It's all over now. Even the shouting has died down. And in a few weeks a new regime will take over the handling of ASUI affairs.

This year's campaign, fought on both sides actively and with dignity produced an Executive Board and a President and Vice-President with party affiliations which may produce an interesting split on some issues.

The Vote
The Executive Board members seldom do vote on party lines but if they should this year the result will be a tie. Campus Union Party elected five of the nine Board members last Thursday. United elected the other four plus the Vice-President who has a vote in all Executive Board action. This results in a tie of five votes apiece if all the members vote with their party. Thus there is a possibility of the newly elected President, CUP's Ron Houghtalin, having to break more than the usual amount of tie votes next year.

A few issues that came up in the campaign which may produce such a situation are the KUOI issue, the difference in philosophy of Exec. Board visitations, the proposed traffic-violation changes, and some aspects of public relations programs such as the proposed Boise game weekend program.

The president's chair is occupied by a non-United candidate for the first since 1958. That year was also the last year that United candidates did not have the majority of Exec. Board members.

Elections Not As Close
The election for the two top positions was not as close this year as it was last year. Houghtalin beat United's Gary Carlson by 41 votes as compared to outgoing President Jim Mullen's 30-vote victory over Lynn Hossner last year. This year's vice president, Dick Stiles, also won by 30 votes last year over Bob Brown. United's Bill Bowers won by 200 votes this year over CUP's Roy Bowman.

CRITIQUE TO BE HELD

Dr. W. B. Hunter, head of the Department of Humanities, will hold an open discussion on the ASUI's production of "Volpone" after the performance.

The "theater party" will be held at the Campus Christian Center and is open to anyone interested in the play.

Seelye Tells Importance Of Bargaining

The collective bargaining process is an excellent way to resolve group conflict.

Donald W. Seelye, professor of labor economics and business administration, expressed this opinion in a lecture sponsored by the AAUP.

Group conflicts in our dynamic society must be resolved between workers and employers and the bargaining process is the only good way in which to do this, Prof. Seelye said.

Strikes have little, if no repercussions on the local or national scene. They only hurt the community in which they take place, he maintained.

He described how the impact of large scale strikes can be studied in the steel strike of 1958. The strike lasted 106 days until the government forced management to make concessions to the union. The strike was not serious and production that year was not noticeably reduced.

The industry, in anticipation of the strike, speeded up production, making enough steel to last the duration of the strike.

Queens Now — Beards Next?

The Executive Board Tuesday night recommended that the 2.2 requirement passed by the Academic Council last fall be extended to cover an activity which has long escaped any academic qualifications at all—namely queen and king contests.

The Argonaut several issues ago published an editorial recommending that the Academic Council reject an appeal from the four academically-ineligible freshman class officers. We still stick with that opinion.

By-passing a recommendation that ASUI royalty must have a 2.2, however, the Executive Board has opened the way for the inclusion of loopholes which could be used by competing living groups or campus organizations to their own advantage. For instance, when house X has more members that grow Dads' Day beards than house Y, the simple way for house X to eliminate this undue competition would be to check into the academic backgrounds of the competitors and see that they are disqualified.

The philosophy behind the 2.2 requirement is sound—we should have informed, intelligent leaders—but there is no reason why this rule should be thrown out as a bounty to be grabbed up by the craftiest politicians seeking personal or living group recognition. And this is what would happen by filling the rule with exceptions such as queen contests, which will lead to a series of other absurd exceptions.

A request to the Office of Student Affairs that the 2.2 rule be applied to the candidates for Freshman King and Queen came from an "unhappy" campus living group that felt had ballots been distributed correctly, its candidate would have been a king finalist. The Argonaut does not claim to have any insight as to whether the ballots were distributed correctly, but personnel handling the votes claim that any mistakes in the distribution of ballots were taken care of before the final counting.

As the rule now stands, the following activities and projects are included in the rule:

—All elected ASUI and class officers, appointments to all ASUI committees and appointments to joint student-faculty committees.

—Management of major leadership positions (both paid and unpaid) in all student organizations and enterprises as determined by the Office of Student Affairs in consultation with the deans of the respective divisions.

—Debating, dramatic or music projects of students not registered in a course for which participation in an activity is required.

—Other activities not covered in the above categories in which the participants represent the University of Idaho in public performances.

These stipulations are clear enough. Let's hope the Academic Council will take a little more time than the Executive Board to consider the possible ridiculous consequences of including ASUI "royalty" under the academic rules set aside to insure better campus leaders.

Perhaps the best statement expressing how out-of-hand an application of the 2.2 rule to beauty contests could get was made by an opposing Executive Board member, who suggested that the "line" for queen contests might be: "Sorry, chicken, you're good lookin', but you just don't study enough." —S. L.

Ida. Youth Exchange Delegate Hopes To Make Lives Easier

"I am going to learn more from the women of Brazil's interior than I shall be able to teach them, but I hope with everything I have that I can leave something that will make their lives easier, better, and fuller."

This is a statement made here today by a college girl on her way to work in a country she has never seen before and with families who are reportedly in poor financial condition. The girl is Miss Carol Falk a University senior from Priest River, a small logging town of northern Idaho. Carol has been chosen this year as Idaho's second International Farm Youth Exchange delegate and will be in her host country about April 15.

"Attitudes and hopes of people like Carol have made the International Farm Youth Exchange what it has become," says Dan E. Warren, State 4-H Club leader with the University.

"The work of these young people has come to the notice of everyone in the United States including President Kennedy who patterned our present Peace Corps after the IFYE program.

Miss Falk will spend approximately six months in Brazil. There she will live in the homes of wealthy farmers along the coastal areas as well as in the much poorer homes of Brazilian tenants who make up the population of the undeveloped interior. Odd as it may seem, the Priest River girl - reared with conveniences that would be extreme luxuries to most wealthy South Americans - is most eager to spend her time with the peasant families she hopes to visit.

She will return in time next fall to resume her college studies where she leaves on April 1, to take up her work in Brazil. She is a senior in home economics at the University and will graduate in June of 1963.

Scholarship Available For Upperclassman

Applications for a new $50 memorial scholarship available to any Idaho high school graduate who has completed his sophomore year at the University or the Lewis-Clark Normal School at Lewiston are now being received at the Office of Student Affairs.

The amount has been provided as a memorial to Kenneth R. Primus, former superintendent of schools at Genesee.

No deadline date has been set for filing of the applications, but interested students should make application this spring semester since the money from this award will be used during the 1962-63 school year.

The scholarship will be awarded on the basis of scholastic achievement and contribution to the college community. It is not restricted to any particular field of study.

Idaho Trackmen Open Season In Meet At WSU Tomorrow

The University of Idaho opens its spring sports season tomorrow at Pullman when Coach Bill Sorsby's track team enters the Washington State Indoor Invitational meet.

The outlook is bright for the Vandals, Sorsby said, noting the "tremendous improvement" shown in last weekend's time trials. Defending champs entered in the meet include Curt Flisher, who will move up from the 600 to the 1,000-yard run; Ed Jacoby, in the 70-yard low hurdles; Reg Carolan, in the shot; and the Idaho mile relay team.

Twelve schools from Washington, Oregon and Montana will be competing against Idaho tomorrow, and Washington State has always dominated the meet, Sorsby said.

"On an overall basis, it looks like Washington State will have the strongest team, closely followed by Idaho," the coach added. "The next three will probably be Portland University, Montana State College and Montana University."

Moving up to the varsity level this season are frosh champs Paul Henden in the mile and a half, and Nick Carnefix from in the 600-yard run.

Heaviest duty for the Idaho entrants will be borne by Jerry Pressey and Pete Luttrupp. Both men are slated to compete in the 70-yard dash, 70-yard low hurdles, 70-yard high, 300-yard run and the mile relay.

Zura Goodpaster, a junior college transfer from Seattle, Wash., is billed for both hurdle events, the 300 and the relay. The Vandals will enter two relay teams in both the varsity and frosh runs.

Slated for competition in three events are Jacoby in the 70-yard low and the 300; Bob Johnson in the 70, the relay and the 300; and John Pasley in the 700, the 300 and the relay.

Prydz Enters In Javelin

Rolf Prydz from Oslo, Norway, will enter the javelin and the broad jump. Carolan is billed for the shot and the discus. Flisher will go in the 1,000 and the relay. Louie Olaso and Bernie O'Connell will go in the 1,000 and the mile and a half. Dick Borneman and

MEETING THE BOSS — Tom Morris (center) and Paul Lawrence, two Vandal football players currently training for spring practice next month, meet new head coach Dee Andros. The coach met with football prospects yesterday.

Andros Meets With Football Prospects, Two Assistants

Fifty-eight football prospects met here and while they're home for spring vacation, Andros commented. "That way we won't have to waste a lot of time conditioning them."

"I think we'll probably have to finish spring practice before we have any indication of how much progress we've made for development next fall."

Attending the meeting besides Andros were John Easterbrook and Dick Monroe, Andros' recently appointed assistants. Another assistant, Steve Musseau, hasn't yet arrived from his home in California.

Football uniforms will be checked out before spring vacation next month, the coach said, and practice will start April 17, two days after the end of vacation. Most of the prospects are already working out by running and lifting weights.

"I hope they'll do a lot of running

Newcomers Will Aid Baseball Team

The 1962 Idaho baseball team, according to coach Wayne Anderson, will heavily rest its hopes for a good season on a group of newcomers. This bunch, made up of transfers and players up from last year's frosh squad, will have to carry a large part of the burden.

According to Anderson, ten men are lost through graduation and other reasons, including his top two catchers, and three good pitchers. These are but an indication of positions that are up for grabs.

But Anderson still is looking for a good year, saying "I'm optimistic about this year's club." He feels that he has "good team speed, as good as last year's, and last year we had a team with speed as good as anyone we played."

Anderson looks to several new men for help. Gary Riebe, a transfer from Lewis-Clark Normal, is showing promise. Riebe, an ex-Lewiston High player, is a candidate for a third base position.

Shortstop Battle

Two transfers are waging a hot battle at shortstop. Fred Thomas, transfer from Sacramento Junior College, and Mick Michaelson from Skagit Valley JC, and both looking good in recent drills, the coach said.

Top catching prospect at the moment, according to Anderson, is Clark College transfer Jeff Mc-

Queeney. Another candidate is Gene Novotny, a veteran of previous campaigns.

The baseball mentor looks for pitching help from another group of new men. He's counting on Fred Crowell, now on the Vandal basketball squad, and BJC transfer Dave Sewright.

Another pitching candidate is sophomore Bill Huizinga from Caldwell. Huizinga played third and first base for the frosh last season, but Anderson wants him as a pitcher exclusively.

According to Anderson, men who can hit the ball will play the most this year. He said, "Defense is important, but we've got to find hitters. Hitting will determine who plays."

Foul weather is still hampering the Vandals. Anderson has set up the field house, in his words, as a "spring training camp." He is conducting infield drills, workouts for the pitchers, and conducting some batting workouts. Anderson says little can really be done until the squad can get outside.

To counter the weather situation, he expects to take the team down to Lewiston where he hopes the Vandals can get some good workouts outdoors. He hopes to make this a regular Saturday practice until the Banana Belt Tournament March 22-24, the Vandals' opener.
