Regents Approve New League First

Students To Show Campus To Dignitaries 'All Sports' Clause Doesn't Mean Competition In All

Sen. Jordan To Deliver Main Address To NICC

Over 40 student hosts will escort Idaho legislators to the President's Luncheon and on a tour of the campus today, Guy P. Wicks, associate dean of students, said.

The members of the Board of Regents will also attend the luncheon and the tour, according to Wicks. Legislators, members of the Board of Regents and their wives will be guests of the University at the University of Idaho - Washington State University football game tomorrow afternoon.

Over 130 persons are expected for the luncheon, according to Gale Mix, Student Union Building manager. The luncheon will be held from 12 to 1 p.m. in the SUB. After the luncheon, the legislators, regents and student hosts will tour the campus in two buses, Wicks said.

"To show what we want shown to the legislators, and to give them a chance to see more of the campus, we decided to use the buses instead of having individually guided tours," Wicks said.

Student Hosts

NICC Meeting

The legislators were invited to attend the annual North Idaho Chamber of Commerce meeting. According to Del McPherson, NICC Chamber of Commerce secretary, all 106 legislators were invited to attend the two-day session. Only 42 of the 106 had confirmed their attendance yesterday.

Len B. Jordan, newly elected United States Senator, will be the main speaker for the event. Jordan will speak on "Challenges and Opportunities of North Idaho" at the NICC banquet tonight.

Smyley Couldn't Come

Gov. Robert E. Smyley was invited to the meeting, but, according to McPherson, was unable to attend because he was resting.

Who Will Take A Walk?

IDAHO CHALLENGES

With all due respect (and that's not a lot) to our country cousins at the institution of Cougarberg, we here in Vandal Land feel we must point out to you that this weekend at the Home of the Vandals a sporting action may take place (if you still plan to come).

We realize that once you have been to this beautiful, intellectually stimulating campus, you will want very much to return, so we extend our offer to host you at the end of the walk you will undoubtedly be taking in our direction very soon after the results of Saturday's action are posted.

Judging from the "hearty" condition we find your milkmaids and farm boys to be in during a recent visit, we are sure no great hardship will be incurred on your part.

If, on the other hand, your team has an exceptionally "good day" and happens to squeak past the Superior Vandals, we will saunter over your way, content in knowing that miracles have happened before.

WSU ACCEPTS

With cautious confidence we accept your courageous challenge. The Vandals may be interested in knowing that we have a permanent and active standing committee designed to entertain the University of Idaho students as they wash their feet before the eyes of triumphant Cougars.

Only once in 37 years has this committee not functioned. We observe that you have prepared well for the Battle of the Palouse. Your record of 2-5-1 against our 4-3-1 makes us confident of a victory.

Athletic Director Skip Stahley is smiling. A major hurdle for an athletic conference for the University of Idaho, which Stahley started promoting two and a half years ago, was cleared when the Regents approved a seven-member conference last night.

By coincidence, the University became the first to formally approve an athletic conference comprising Idaho, Idaho State, Weber of Utah, Montana State College, Montana State University and Gonzaga.

The University Regents were the first trustees of any of the named institutions to have a meeting scheduled.

The names of the institutions mentioned since the spring of 1959 have varied, but the purpose of athletic affiliation has not.

Stahley says, "We have explored every course available and this proposal is the outcome of our research and effort."

Suggested Leagues

During the two-year period, conference affiliations were suggested with Oregon State, Oregon and Washington State; Seattle University, Portland, Gonzaga, the Montana schools, and Idaho State; the two Montana schools, Idaho State, the North Dakota and South Dakota schools; and a loose affiliation which included most of the colleges and universities west of the Rockies and north of California. All proved fruitless.

Stahley said, "The University of Idaho Board of Regents approval of entry into the anticipated, but as yet unnamed, conference is, in my opinion, a course that will be taken by all other institutions involved."

"I think it is a step that will eventually lead to better spirit and competition and advance the athletic program at the University," he said.

Weber President W. P. Miller voted for the conference in Spokane when the school faculty representatives met and gave tentative approval that Weber would go along. Neither Weber nor the other institutions have formally approved the conference, however.

Dr. Theophilus Will Explain U. of I. Budget

One of the highlights of the North Idaho Chamber of Commerce meeting will be when University President Dr. D. R. Theophilus tells convention delegates and legislators about the University's needs for greater appropriations to provide new buildings and more salaries.

Theophilus' speech will be the first time a complete breakdown of the University's proposed budget for the next biennium will be made public.

Earlier this week Theophilus presented the budget to the pre-legislative budget committee meeting in Boise. Heads of other Idaho educational institutions also presented their needs for the coming two-year period.

Asking $70 million

The total requests ran more than $70 million.

Idaho State College asked for $7,375,742. The State Department of Education asked for from $40.5 to $45 million for state support of public schools, and Lewis-Clark Normal School requested $617,000.

"Ridiculous"

Sen. K. C. Barlow of Burley, committee chairman, said after hearing the ISC request, "I think we are getting a little bit ridiculous in some of these things."

"You are requesting a budget (See "Proxy" page 4.)

150 Idaho Lawyers Expected Here For Two-Day Idaho Law Institute

The Idaho Fall Law Institute will feature outstanding Idaho lawyers speaking on topics which they have special talents.

The event, held every other year on the Idaho campus, is expected to draw 150 barristers from throughout the state today and tomorrow. The institute is sponsored by the Idaho Bar Association and the College of Law.

State Bar President Glenn Coughlan and Dean Philip Peterson of the College of Law welcomed the lawyers this morning at 9:30 following registration session in the Student Union Building.

Following the welcoming ceremonies, George Greenfield, a Boise, attorney, spoke on "Proving Damages in Personal Injury Cases" in the initial discussion session. Greenfield was followed by Blaine Anderson of Blackfoot, who gave his views on the question of "Pollution-Measure of Recovery."

Bench and Bar, a law students organization, will arrange lunch today for the barristers and Idaho law students, prior to afternoon sessions in the SUB.

Russell Randall, prominent Lewiston attorney, will speak at 2 p.m. this afternoon on "Land Purchase Contracts," and at 3:30, Boise lawyer Gene Anderson will discuss "Damage in Condemnation."

Anderson's address will terminate formal discussion work for the lawyers, who will meet again at the Moose Lodge in downtown Moscow for a no-host cocktail hour at 6:30. Following the cocktail hour the attorneys, their wives, and law students will attend a banquet-dance at the Moose. Both functions are under the sponsorship of the Clearwater County Bar Association.

Howard Manweiler of Boise will begin the Saturday session for the institute, with a 9:30 address on "Recent Developments in the Law of Damages." Manweiler will be followed to the rostrum by Louis Racine of Pocatello who will wind up the Institute with a talk on "Products Liability—Insecticides and Other Harmful Substances."

The Institute is viewed not only as an educational and idea-sharing service of the State Bar but is intended to bring attorneys from throughout the state together with students of the University of Idaho law school.

Such a gathering is expected to better acquaint both lawyers and students with problems of employment, practice, and ethics.

For the wives of the lawyers, student hospitality committee members will be available. (See "Lawyers" page 4, col. 5)

Student Drivers Carry Cards, Help Car Survey

The city of Moscow is conducting a traffic survey this week to determine the flow of traffic in the city so that future traffic needs can be determined and arterial street systems can be planned.

This survey is being taken in cooperation with the Idaho Department of Highways. Post cards have been mailed to all students on campus possessing cars asking specific trips to be noted and the purpose of each trip.

After this data is analyzed future needs will be calculated.

Cecil Hathaway, assistant professor of civil engineering, is helping collect the information from the campus. In a statement in the staff letter he said, "Current traffic to and from the campus is a major traffic flow and probably experiences as much delay and inconvenience as any

Debaters Go To Seattle

Five University debate teams will travel to the University of Washington in Seattle this weekend to debate the question, "Resolved: That Non-Communist Countries Should Form an Economic Community."

Colleen Ward, Steven Meyer, Nancy Grubb, Tom Lynch, Dick Weholt, Jon Trail, Frank Peck, Mike Smith, Dick Slaughter and Arlen Marley will be among the students from 23 schools participating in the tournament.

Large Crowds

A lot of events a pretty queen, a large crowd, a well-attended dance, and game, and an impressive parade all added up to make the Homecoming weekend, in the words of Jim Lyle, Alumni secretary, "a very successful weekend."

More than the usual number of alumni returned to the campus, Lyle reported, which contributed to the success of the weekend.

The parade, one of the best in several years according to observers, was highlighted by winning floats by Phi Tau and Tri-Delta, first, Willis Sweet and McConnell, runner-up, and honorable mention to the Beta-DG and Alpha Phi-Sigma Chi floats.

Parade Marshalls Joe Cipriano and Dee Andros, head Vandal coaches, led the procession. The one dark spot in the weekend was the 32-0 score of the game with the Vandals on the short end as potential all-American Terry Baker led the Oregon State Beavers to victory. Dave Putnam, president of the "I" club presented an "I" blanket to the outstanding Vandal booster, Fred Lillge, University alumnus from Boise.

Alumni Association President Larry Mills crowned Miss Jeanne Marshall queen of the weekend at half-time ceremonies.

Following the game, living groups on campus held open

Petition Seeks To Abolish Class Officers

A petition calling for a constitutional amendment eliminating class officers is currently being circulated among the student body, the Argonaut was told Wednesday.

Bob Hahn, current chairman of the election board, is collecting the necessary number of signatures to place an amendment on the ballot of the next ASUI election.

The constitution requires that at least 10 per cent of the student body must sign the petition before it will be placed on the ballot. If the required number (approximately 450) are obtained it will be on the ballot of next spring's ASUI election.

The amendment would completely eliminate class officers, and deletes all mention of them and their duties from the constitution.

An alternate method of initiating an amendment is obtaining a two-thirds vote of the ASUI Executive Board. No attempt has been made along this line yet.

There was some controversy during the last class election concerning the function and necessity of class officers. No one except Argonaut editorial writers made any definite statement but the subject did come up in visits of the candidates to some of the living groups.

Immature Or Fun?

Competition, spirited rivalry, and immaturity seem to be differentiated by very thin lines at times.

Last year this paper was subjected to criticism because of an article and headline slightly derogatory to a future athletic opponent. This was, in the minds of many, immaturity. No doubt the challenges on the front page will be put in the same category by some but since they have tradition on their side we're probably safe in publishing them.

It is the inalienable right of college students to relieve themselves of their heavy responsibilities to the future at times and become adolescent or at least young adult in nature rather than conforming to the furrowed-brow, worried look, of those who face a dreary future as predicted by our elders. Thus the frivolity surrounding college athletics which sometimes is taken far too seriously by those who aren't used to not being serious, for a brief moment anyway.

The spirited rivalry traditionally carried on with our neighbors across the way could be considered a huge escape mechanism but it's easier to look upon it as a time to have some fun and be able to relax and shout for the team or at theirs and the referees.

Let, then, the activities be put into that category and let them be limited enough that they rightfully belong in that category lest they venture towards "immature" nefariousness.

Good luck, Cougars, and we will be waiting for you in Moscow on your return trip. (See front page.)—J. M.

Rules Again

Misunderstanding is perhaps minor in the long run but when it can be avoided it should be. It seems as if it could have been last weekend if the Associated Women Students had acted quicker or had merely admitted a small mistake and forgotten it.

We are in reference, of course, to the misunderstanding concerning closing hours for University women Sunday evening. AWS had notified their delegates that a right permission would be granted because of the holiday Monday; discovered Saturday afternoon AWS rules prohibited this; proceeded to notify the co-ed living groups but failed to complete the task before some women had checked out Sunday afternoon.

It is perhaps not ours to criticize the delay in announcing the change in policy, whatever the reason behind the delay. The circumstances leading up to the situation do deserve comment.

In simple terms, AWS made a mistake, which we will admit, anyone can do. They then either should have rectified this mistake earlier than they did or should have forgotten about the one-hour difference. It's not too likely that morality slipped too much in that hour.

Perhaps no great damage was done this time. (It is hoped no girls were campused for being 50 minutes late because of lack of information.) The situation probably will not happen in the future, at least it shouldn't.

The whole situation points out rather neatly the ridiculousness of some of the rules and the needless uproar over one hour. The rule is basically weak in reasoning, instituted for the benefit of housemothers who are getting paid to stay up anyway, and perhaps it should be changed.

Rules aren't made to be broken, but mature reasoning does need to be used in their interpretation and enforcement.

Alum Praises

Dear Jason:

Many congratulations should go to Coach Dee Andros, his staff, and the 1962 edition of the Idaho Vandals. The fellows fought hard for a win over the Wildcats here Saturday night and they deserved it, just as they deserve the support of the entire student body the rest of the season.

I have never been prouder of being an Idaho Vandal fan than last Saturday night in the midst of several thousand screaming University of Arizona students and fans; I think all the Vandal boosters present will concur. It's great to be in such a minority and be on the winning side. The Vandal victory over the U. of A. was a performance to thrill any Idaho fan.

Spirit Praised

Dear Jason:

At 4 p.m. Saturday afternoon as I was moving with the crowd to the exit gate of Neale Stadium, my loyalty to the University was The pom-pom girls were as active as score was 32-0 in Idaho's disfavor. The school spirit and individual enthusiasm was noticeably high; all of which was a buildup from many weeks of group and individual effort in preparing for Homecoming.

Each float exhibit in the parade was well assembled. The best four floats presented very keen competition. Lindley and Forney Halls had me wondering briefly if Oregon State had entered a stunt in the parade. Gault Hall I commend for having the most impressive house decoration I have ever seen. I also commend Gault Hall for their group-like cheering section at the game; not seldom seen done by an independent living group.

I laud the Vandalettes for their precision work in the pre-game entertainment; their attire was captivating. The Vandal band, sporting their new uniforms, performed in a remarkable manner. It practically forbade anyone to and charming as ever. I enjoyed the "never die" attitude displayed by Vandals such as Bob Ruby, a 190 pound guard — the only guard or tackle under 200 pounds.

I am proud to inform anyone that this is my University.

THE GOLDEN FLEECE by Jason

Argonaut Editor Neil Modie is attending the annual Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism society, convention in Tulsa, Oklahoma, this week. Associate Editor Jim Herndon is filling in for him on the Golden Fleece today. Editor Modie will be back at the typewriter next week.

New League . . . Step Well Taken

The University Regents have finally taken a big step in University athletics . . . a necessary step. They approved the proposed athletic conference including Idaho, Idaho State, Gonzaga, Weber of Utah, Montana State College and Montana State University.

The Regents' action made official the results of a long series of negotiations Athletic Director Skip Stahley and faculty representative Dean Ernest Wohletz of the College of Forestry have held with representatives of the other institutions involved.

If the other institutions approve the coalition, a basketball league next year will be the immediate result. League competition in football will not be possible until after 1965 since scheduling in the grid sport is done several years in advance.

The Regents' official approval was for "all sports." Regent Claude Marcus from Boise made it clear that the stipulation "all sports" did not necessarily mean that any school would have to compete in all phases of athletic competition.

I think that the University will be interested in competing in almost all sports to a certain extent . . . possibly a spring sports carnival at a central location for tennis, golf and track competition.

With Utah, Arizona and Arizona State in the Western Athletic Conference and San Jose knocking at the door; and Washington State and Washington in the Athletic Association of Western Universities, the Vandals will be interested in scheduling proposed league members in football.

The other five teams which play football would form a good nucleus for a schedule. Idaho then would be free to schedule four other teams such as WSU, the Oregon schools or Washington.

All these institutions which are now Idaho foes have made other schedule commitments. Sometimes there is not a date left for the Vandals.

Well Done, Gault
Short takes . . . The Argonaut tips its sails to the men of Gault Hall for their fine house decoration Homecoming weekend. I understand Gault spent about $100 for the decoration, knowing that it would receive no prize or special recognition.

The display (a moving mug with a straight-edge razor and a half-skinned beaver, was built over the hall entrance with a banner, "Shave Those Beavers," about four feet wide running the length of the hall) was very well done.

PERSONNEL GIVE TO FUND
University of Idaho personnel contributed $6,143 to the United Fund Drive this fall, according to Lt. Col. Gregg D. Breitegan, Army ROTC Executive Officer and University Drive chairman.

Jim Metcalf's Campus Perspective

As night fell a definite chill came over the campus; the next day it was bright but brisk; the next night the thermometer dropped even lower; and yesterday the snow flakes began to fall . . . the first of the year.

It's amazing the difference there is between snow-flakes. Some are bright cheerful snowflakes that are bursting with exuberant spirit of winter and they coat the campus with the white blanket that is commonplace but yet beautiful. The snow flakes that fell yesterday were of a different type. They fell from a dreary sky that was so gray it appeared to be of the same material as the clothing of the stern Puritans of the Victorian age, and as they, it practically forbid anyone to be happy.

Perhaps it is because they were the first of the year and perhaps it was the coincidence of their falling at the end of the first mid-term. The beginning of the second half of the semester and the beginning of a new season coincided and combined to produce serious thoughts.

Half-way points are good places to pause, rest, review, and then with a short look at the future continue. Half a semester now stands in the files of the paper and in the memories of the students as history.

Battles have been fought and the wins and losses have been recorded on the gridiron, on the political rostrum, and in the classroom. The record no doubt has led some to take refuge in the philosophy of a song from "Damn Yankees" which has a phrase, "Wait 'till next year and hope." While others, the majority fortunately, have met the challenge effectively and are looking to the future with a little confidence mixed in with the hope.

It's a good time to evaluate and perhaps re-evaluate . . . it's a good time to think a little, wonder a little, and then proceed to achieve the metamorphosed goals set at the first of the year.

If perhaps the nebulousness of this is a bit overwhelming there is not too much that can be done except the accomplishment of that required each day.

With the semester's end definite changes will be made and in the most blunt phrasing, "the mice are separated from the men." The remainder continue, some of them seniors, on the home stretch or perhaps starting the last retrieve before necessity forces the decisions that have been wallowing in nebulousity until then.

By then the snowflakes will have disappeared and the past will be fitting into a perspective that may or may not be rewarding to view. Brief respites at half-way marks could make the difference.

Handbook Eds Picked By AWS

Editors for the Associated Women Students handbook for the coming year were chosen recently by the AWS Board of Reference.

Virginia Cope was selected to edit the handbook. Dana Burns will be layout editor, according to Mary Ann Dalton, AWS vice president and head of the Board of Reference.

The handbook is sent to all campus women students to help them understand campus life. It includes the AWS constitution, the rules and regulations for University women.

Nez Perce Ugly

Dear Jason,
Once again a monument to ugliness and unsuitability is dedicated to the once beautiful University campus. Standing like a large tumor on the edge of Nez Perce Drive, the new TKE house is devoid of anything resembling scale, proportion, or even humanness. An eclectic composition of trite, poorly executed traditional elements and even worse modern elements, it begs to be forgiven for its blantly awkward stature.

Gracing . . . by its punched out windows are the ever present, non-functional shutters complete with pine tree cutouts. Four ugly stories rise to be starkly capped by a graceless and inefficient steeply pitched roof. All this and more is presented to the world by the pseudo Swiss chalet portico. You need only approach this monumental blight from the west to fully recognize the total lack of harmony with its site. Space does not allow adding to this list of architectural blunders.

The complete lack of imagination or good design shown by the authors of this building eloquently testifies to the need for competent architectural design of the buildings on this campus since, unfortunately, this building will probably stand for sixty years or more.

Architecture is the greatest part of your physical environment. Will you accept thoughtlessly designed buildings for your campus? I could accept the Alpha Chi house as testimony to sentimental feminine irresponsibility. I could ac-

Social Functions For Homecoming Highlighted By Teas, Open House

Campus living groups had a busy social schedule Homecoming weekend playing host to open houses, buffet dinners and special in-house firesides for Homecoming guests and friends. LINDLEY HOLDS PAGEANT The queen, princesses and runners-up riding on the Lindley-Forney float in the Saturday Homecoming parade were chosen at a combination exchange and queen's pageant held Tuesday night at Lindley Hall.

Each contestant was introduced to the audience, asked two questions and expected to participate in the talent portion of the pageant. Howard Sealey, Eureka, California traveled the farthest distance of any of the eight guests at Homecoming dress dinner Sunday.

HAYS HOLDS RECEPTION A reception for all Hays Homecoming guests was held in the living room of Hays after the game Saturday. Hays boasted a full house all weekend due to the weekend house guests and open house visitors.

Linda Kinney was awarded the "Girl of the Month" bracelet at Sunday dinner for her active work on campus and in Hays Hall.

TRI-DELTA'S HOST SPECIAL FIRESIDE A special fireside for all Homecoming house guests was held hours in the Exec Suite of the Tri-Delta house Saturday night.

The reception and open house after the game Saturday was climaxed with a buffet dinner in honor of the seventeen out-of-town visitors and five guests from the campus.

Cuban Situation Discussion To Start Closed-TV Series

A discussion of the Cuban situation by a faculty member and three students will be the kickoff broadcast of the new University closed circuit television series "Probe." Cliff Eldred, chairman of the ASUI Executive Board's Educational Improvement Committee, said yesterday.

Fred H. Winkler, professor of history and political science, will lead the discussion. The three students will be picked next week, Eldred said.

The 30-minute program, starting at 6:30 p.m. Nov. 28, is sponsored by the Educational Improvement Committee and will consist of a 70-minute talk by Winkler and 20 minutes of discussion and question and answer by the panel.

All living groups on campus are able to receive the program over channel seven. The television set must be adjusted to pick it up. It will be broadcasted by the Radio-TV center.

He said that the program will be carried each week with a different faculty member and at least one new member on the panel each telecast.

Explaining the Educational Improvement Committee, Eldred said that it is a body formed by the ASUI Executive Board consisting of nine students and six faculty members.

Faculty members include Winkler, Dr. R. E. Christian, animal husbandry department; Dr. William B. Hunter, Jr., humanities; Dr. Harry H. Caldwell, geology; Dr. Phillip C. Dumas, biology; and Everett Baily, electrical engineering instructor.

Student members are Eldred, Dave McClusky, Bob Bushnell, Angie Arrien, Dave Cahill, Bill McCain, Lyle Sall, Fred Freeman and Ed Brune.

LeRoy Kellogg will direct the program.

Applicants are not restricted as to major.

Engineers Attend Asphalt Meet Here

More than 100 highway engineers from the Northwest attended the third annual Asphalt Conference held Friday at the University of Idaho.

The conference was sponsored by the civil engineering department of the College of Engineering of the University in cooperation with the Asphalt Institute and the Idaho Department of Highways.

In opening the sessions, Jack Peering, Idaho district engineer, Coeur d'Alene, said "These conferences are one of the best things that can happen to highway engineers. They lead us on to perform better service to the people of Idaho."

The $27 million American Association of State Highway Officials road test in Illinois was reported by Fred Finn, staff engineer and chairman of the road test board of study of the Asphalt Institute, College Park, Md.

"The aim of the study was better highway design. Both asphalt and concrete highways were tested," said Finn.

R. B. Christensen, Idaho Department of Highways construction engineer spoke on stage construction.

Better highways through use of longitudinal control of asphalt pavers was discussed by C. H. Anderson, district representative, Iowa Manufacturing company.

Proper construction of asphalt curbing was explained by Charles V. Owen, district engineer, the Asphalt Institute. New use of powdered asphalt in a regular highway mix for changing the characteristics to make it usable for curbing was covered.

W. H. McCallie, bituminous engineer, Farmers Union Central Exchange, Inc., Laurel, Mont., spoke on emulsified asphalt base stabilization properties and new developments in them.

The methods of construction and maintenance of roads in Ravalli County, Montana, was explained by Lester A. Meisner, superintendent, Ravalli County Highway Department, Hamilton, Mont.

COMMITTEES: AN AGONIZING RE-APPRAISAL

To those of you who stay out of your student government because you believe the committee system is just an excuse for inaction, let me cite an example to prove that a committee, properly led and directed, can be a great force for good.

Last week the Student Council met at the Duluth College of Veterinary Medicine and Belles Lettres to discuss purchasing a new dormat for the students union. It was, I assure you, a desperate problem because Sherwin K. Sigafoos, janitor of the students union, threatened flatly to quit unless a new dormat was installed immediately.

"I'm sick and tired of mopping that dirty old floor," said Mr. Sigafoos, sobbing convulsively. (Mr. Sigafoos, once a jolly outgoing sort, has been crying almost steadily since the recent death of his pet wart hog who had been his constant companion for 22 years.)

Actually, Mr. Sigafoos is much better off without the wart hog, who tusked him viciously at least once a day, but a companionship of 22 years is, I suppose, not lightly relinquished. The college tried to give Mr. Sigafoos a new wart hog—a frisky little fellow with floppy ears and a waggly tail—but Mr. Sigafoos only turned his back and cried the harder.)

But I digress. The Student Council met, discussed the dormat for eight or ten hours, and then referred it to a committee. There were some who scoffed at it and said nothing would ever be heard of the dormat again, but they reckoned without Invictus Millstone.

Invictus Millstone, chairman of the dormat committee, was a man of action—lithe and lean and keen and, naturally, a smoker of Marlboro Cigarettes. Why do I say "naturally"?

Because, dear friends, active men and women don't have time to brood and bumble about their cigarettes. They need to be certain. They must have perfect confidence that each time they light up they will get the same gratifying flavor, the same Selectate filter, the same soft soft-pack, the same flip top flip-top box.

In brief, dear friends, they need to be sure it's Marlboro—for if ever a smoke was true and trusty, it's Marlboro. Get some soon. Get matches too, because true and trusty though Marlboros are, your pleasure will be somewhat limited unless you light them.

Well sir, Invictus Millstone chaired his dormat committee with such vigor and dispatch that when the Student Council met only one week later, he was able to rise and deliver the following recommendations:

- 1. That the college build new schools of botany, hydraulic engineering, tropical medicine, Indo-Germanic languages, and millinery.
2. That the college drop football, put a roof on the stadium, and turn it into a low-cost housing project for married students.
3. That the college raise faculty salaries by $5000 per year across the board.
4. That the college secede from the United States.
5. That the question of a dormat for the students union be referred to a subcommittee.

So let us hear no more defeatist talk about the committee system. It can be made to work!

You don't need a committee to tell you how good Marlboros are. You just need yourself, a Marlboro, and a set of taste buds. Buy some Marlboros soon at your favorite tobacco counter.

Prexy To Give Reasons For Budget Increase of $76 million for education in the state of Idaho," he commented later. "Say we have about $90 million to spend. Education is asking for 80 per cent of the general fund."

 The University asked for $13,083,015 for its general operating budget, compared with $9,779,851 for the current biennium. In addition $2,844,243 was asked for agricultural research, compared with the present $1,906,016, and $1,995,770 for agricultural extension service, compared with $1,403,811.

 Dr. Theophilus listed a proposed construction program totaling $5.1 million with major projects including a general classroom building, $954,000; an educational department building, $800,000; an art and architecture building, from his campaign speaking tours.

 McPherson said yesterday that about 125 delegates and legislators were expected at the NICC meeting. Registration began at 6 p.m. yesterday at the Moscow Hotel and will continue until 3 p.m. today.

Theophilus To Speak
 At 2 this afternoon, University President D. R. Theophilus will deliver a talk on "Your University of Idaho" which will include a discussion on the University budget.
 The main work of the meeting will be directed toward the next legislative session. A panel discussion on "A Look at the 1963 Legislative Matters" will be held at 3:15 p.m. today.

Tonight, NICC features a social hour at the Moscow Elks Temple and an informal banquet at which Jordan is the featured speaker. Rafe Gibbs, University director of information, is toastmaster for the banquet.

Presidents' Breakfast
 Tomorrow at 8 a.m. is the vice president and past presidents breakfast at the Moscow Hotel.
 Topics for tomorrow include "Idaho's Highways," "Idaho's Changing Agriculture," and "Our Lumber Problems."
 Edwin C. Rettig, consultant for Potlatch Forests, Inc. of Lewiston was originally slated to discuss the lumber industry. Since he is unable to attend the meeting, Jack Clifford, public relations director of PFI, will take his place, McPherson said.

The NICC meeting will adjourn officially Saturday morning. Delegates and legislators, along with the members of the Board of Regents, may stay for the game Saturday afternoon.

Ooops! Hours Are Changed

Women, at least some, were a little surprised upon returning to their living groups last Sunday that the permission was 11 p.m., instead of midnight as printed in the Argonaut last Friday.
 Reasons behind this are that an announcement of 12 o'clock permission was made at the last AWS meeting and duly reported. Later it was discovered by AWS officials that the announcement had been made in error and that regulations forbid this. Apparently all the coed living groups were not notified before some of the girls had checked out for the day Sunday and thus some girls were late.
 The error was discovered Saturday afternoon. The rule allowing midnight permission before holidays except on Sundays was passed just last year.
 Reasons for the delay in notification of the living groups is not known.

 Mrs. Richard Farnsworth, assistant general manager of the Student Union Building, is in charge of the student service.
 The South Ballroom of the SUB will be available for the lawyers' wives throughout the Institute.
 The wives may attend both the luncheon today and the banquet tonight. The Student Bench and Bar Association is sponsoring the luncheon and the meeting of the Prosecutors will be held in conjunction with the Institute. The principal purpose of this meeting will be consideration of committee reports, advance planning for the winter meeting and consideration of legislative proposals.
 This program will commence immediately after Institute registration and will be conducted in the Moot Court Room of the Law School, Administration Building No. 131.

Tax Practice Management Class Today

Courses in management of a tax practice are being held in Moscow today, Dr. Raymond Kool, director of adult education at the University of Idaho, said.
 The one-day course is designed to help the certified public accountant improve the administration of his tax practice and learn methods for rendering more valuable services to his clients.
 "Each session will be limited to 25 persons," said Dr. Kool. "All interested persons are urged to enroll early."
 Covered in the program is the CPA's responsibility in tax practice, principles of tax return preparation and the training of tax personnel.
 The class is meeting in the Student Union Building with Dan Camp, CPA, Coeur d'Alene, as discussion leader.

Faculty Hears Hathaway

The Rev. L. T. Hathaway, Wesley Foundation director, spoke on "Church Unity — Vatican and World Councils" at the Faculty Forum Wednesday noon.
 Mr. Hathaway outlined the history of the ecumenical movement and gave a brief outline of the history of the World Council of Churches.
 Comparing the third General Assembly of the World Council of Churches at the New Delhi last year with the second Vatican Council currently meeting in Rome, Rev. Hathaway spoke on the attempts to bring the churches together.
 Rev. Hathaway and his family returned from a year's travel around the world before coming to Moscow this fall to direct the Wesley Foundation.
 Approximately 30 persons attended the luncheon meeting in the lower lounge of the Faculty Club.

Blue Bucket Waitresses To Serve At Luncheon For New Legislators

Blue Bucket Inn was attended by between 65 and 70 persons last Sunday, according to Dean Vettrus, Student Union Building food service coordinator.
 A pancake house menu is the main feature of Blue Bucket Inn, according to Ann Spiker, chairman.
 At the cafe luncheon in the Bucket tomorrow from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m., the Inn waitresses will serve, Miss Spiker said. The luncheon is for the newly elected legislators, North Idaho Chamber of Commerce delegates, North Idaho Bar Association members and members of the Board of Regents.
 Anyone who wants to attend the luncheon may.

HIGH-FLYING GYM-DANDY

CAMPUS TYPE IV
 Few sights in all the world of girl watching are as breathtaking as the unexpected observation of a Gym-Dandy in midair maneuver. Plato might well have had the Gym-Dandy in mind when he wrote, "When a beautiful soul harmonizes with a beautiful form, and the two are cast in one mould, that will be the fairest of sights to him who has the eye to contemplate the vision."
 Although the Gym-Dandy is a joy to behold even while tightening the laces of her sneakers, she must be seen in action to be fully appreciated. The same thing is true of a Pall Mall. It's a long, firm cigarette in a handsome package, but it must be tasted to be fully appreciated. Try Pall Mall and see.

Noel Blum, a University music major from Boise is playing the lead role of Emile DeBeque in the Moscow Kiwanis Club presentation of "South Pacific" which opened last night at 8 p.m. in the Moscow High School Auditorium.
 The show, which runs through Saturday, features the Rogers and Hammerstein songs that made it a hit on Broadway.
 Other students and some members of the University faculty are participating in the play.
 The setting for "South Pacific" is the South Pacific during World War II. It is centered around a love affair between Ensign Nelly Forbush (played by Shirley Mix) and Emile DeBeque the French planter (played by Blum).
 Directing the production of the play is Edmund Chavez, assistant professor of drama.
 Glen Lockery, professor of music, is in charge of the music.

Cagers Nearing Seas on Opener

White Back, Scheel Out As Vandals Polish New Drills

Nearing the opening game against Long Beach State, the Idaho Vandals will face two stiff weeks of practice. For the past six weeks the cagers have practiced offensive plays, team defense, fast breaking and pressing, and especially rebounding.

Despite previous rumors, two-year letterman Chuck White is still eligible to play and is once again on the team. However, Jim Scheel, junior letterman, is still out with a knee injury, and will remain so due to doctor's orders.

Rich Porter has been looking more consistent, and Tom Whitfield, drilling heavily, is looking good and working hard in Scheel's position, said Coach Joe Cipriano. Gus Johnson has also adjusted surprisingly well to the University of Idaho system.

Lost Three Men
This season will leave Coach Joe Cipriano with a loss of three men—all lettermen and valuable players. Guard Gary Florn, forward Reg Carolan and center Ken Maran are no longer on the Vandal squad, due to graduation.

To date, the cage team is comprised of twenty men. Fred Crowell, Anacortes, Wash.; Jim Halle and Terry Henson, Kent, Wash.; Gus Johnson, Akron, Ohio; BJC transfer; Nelson, Levias, and Tom Whitfield, Seattle, Wash. Bill Mattis and Tom Moreland,

Harriers May Compete In NCAA Cross-Country Meet

The University of Idaho Harriers, sporting perhaps one of the best records in a long time, are hoping they will be able to attend the National Cross-Country Championships. The meet is to be held in East Lansing, Mich.

The reason for the question is that, according to coach Doug Basham, the final decision on whether to allow the Harriers to attend the meet is up to the Athletic Board of Control, which makes up all of the schedules.

Sees Strong Squad
"In the event of our going to the Nationals," Basham said, "we will have a very strong five man team. This team will have as good a chance as Oregon State, San Jose, Houston and Villanova." The meet is to be held the 26th of November.

If the Athletic Board of Control approves the trip of the Harriers to East Lansing, the Harriers will send Paul Henden, Dick Douglas, Louie Oloso, Bernie O'Connell, and Nick Wetter.

Henden In Top Shape
Commenting on the team, Basham said that Paul Henden is in the best shape he has ever been in his life, and he should even continue to improve. "Henden," said Basham, "plans to run even after the season is over. His main aim is to gain a berth on the Canadian cross-country team and then go to the Pan American games. In this, he will run the six-mile race."

The Idaho Harriers have, this season, defeated Washington State four times, and they have defeated Gonzaga and Whitworth. Their only loss this season has been at the hands of Oregon State.

Basham also said that due to the conflict between the AAU and the NCAA some of the cross-country teams have had trouble with their schedule, such as is the case of Idaho. The Portland AAU meet which was to be last weekend was called off. Idaho was supposed to go to this meet.

Another Conflict
The same conflict came about this weekend, as the Pacific Northwest AAU meet was changed from this weekend to next weekend. Idaho was not also able to run in the Inland Empire AAU championships because WSU was not able to go.

"The boys seem to be in very fine shape," said Basham. One of Basham's main problems seems to be that of Dick Douglas, who is still bothered quite a bit by his ankle injury. "Douglas is still running," said Basham, "but his ankle is still giving him quite a bit of pain when he runs on it."

Grid Future Is Brighter - Cramer

By JIM FAUCHER
Argonaut Staff Writer

Joe Cramer, six foot four inch, 222 pound tackle of the Vandals, seems to have quite a bit of football experience, since he has played for both the Rams and the 49'ers. Actually the Rams he played for was a football squad in Fresno, Calif., and the 49'ers is the name for the Yuba College football team for which he played.

Cramer began his football career in Sweet Home, Oregon, his hometown. Cramer then went to junior college in Fresno, Calif. He did not play the first year he was there but he did play his second year.

Cramer also played for Yuba College in Marysville, Calif. The following year he came to Idaho.

Came To Idaho
He made his first appearance on the Idaho gridiron in the fall of 1961. He made the team, and played last year and this year.

The 23-year-old education and social science major plans to go into either teaching history or coaching, following his graduation.

Commenting on the team this year, Cramer said, "I feel that the team this year seems to be more organized than it has been in the past, and it should be very good in the future."

Sees Improvement
"One of the things which has improved very much is the spirit of the team," said Cramer, "and I think one of the main reasons for this spirit is the fine job of coaching done this year."

Cramer also said that Idaho has a better balanced ball team this season. This is shown in the fact that "most of the boys on the second and third teams are as good as the first team."

Dames Will Play Bridge On Wed.

The Dames Bridge Party, money-raising project of the Dames Club, will be held next Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the Faculty Club.

According to Ann Walker, the public is invited to the bridge party. Knitting groups of the Dames Club will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. at the Student Union Building.

Larry McBride's SportShop

Tomorrow afternoon finds Idaho and Washington State playing each other in the annual "Battle of the Palouse." The contest means much to many people on both sides of the scrimmage line.

For the Vandals, Saturday marks the end of the 1962 grid season and round one of the Andros system. Needless to say, Andros will not get his four wins, but he has the chance to come close.

"As long as that ball is oblong and bounces in the funny way it does, we have a definite chance of winning this game," said Andros recently. You have to throw all the record books and statistic sheets away for this one. The heated Palouse rivalry wipes them out. Only a fool would attempt to predict this game. SportShop does not intend to stick out its neck—one way or the other.

For four Vandals, tomorrow will ring down the curtain on their collegiate football careers. Ron Kulm, Bob Ames, Larry Stachler and Joe Cramer are the four, and each of these seniors have played dominant roles in the nearly completed football season.

Ames and Stachler, of course, have served as the Idaho co-captains. Ron Kulm came out of nowhere to win a starting wingback role, lost it a few weeks ago and then came on strong to regain his position. Cramer has been a steady, if silent, influence upon the Vandal team. No one heard much about this Idaho senior, but he has given his all whenever called upon. You can be sure that he has been of help to more than one of Andros' 26 sophomores.

For the remaining 40-odd men, tomorrow will end the season—at least until time for spring ball and another renewal of hopes and aspirations.

Unless one journeys up to Spokane next week, tomorrow will be his last opportunity to see the great Hugh Campbell in college action. The demonstration of football abilities Campbell puts on is well worth the price of admission.

Frustrated for two seasons in his bid for a first team All-America spot, Campbell has led the nation's pass catchers since he was a sophomore. I hope he finally gains the recognition he deserves.

Big George Reed will visit Neale Stadium for the final time tomorrow. Reed will certainly be one of the finest fullbacks that hometown fans will see this year. In my opinion, Reed is one of the finest fullbacks on the Coast.

Everyone seems to be saying, "What happened to the freshman football team?" implying that they had a disappointing season. I cannot share such views. For one thing, the Vandal Babes did not start working until October, and this hurt their early showing. "We want our frosh players to get their feet on the ground, become settled and develop good study habits before we start any football," varsity chief Dee Andros explained.

According to Andros, the crucial factor to take into consideration is how many you get back next year. That is the big difference. This has certainly proved true in the past, and Andros wanted to make sure he was not creating academic casualties. The Vandal Babes came on strong in the latter phase of the season, as evidenced by their 22-14 conquest of the highly regarded WSU Couababe team. Andros feels that ten or more of these frosh will prove an asset to the varsity team next year, and SportShop agrees. Any time you can produce ten or more quality ball players, you have performed your mission. I feel that frosh mentor Bud Riley and his charges deserve a vote of thanks.

Palouse Battle To End '62 Football Season

Campbell, Mathieson Big Worry For Vandals

The Idaho Vandals, trying to rebound from last week's 32-0 Homecoming loss to Oregon State, meet Washington State tomorrow in the 62nd renewal of the "Battle of the Palouse." Kickoff time for the Neale Stadium clash is 1:30 p.m.

Tomorrow's action ends the 1962 grid season for Idaho, and coach Dee Andros and his Vandals want to end it on a happy note. The Cougars close out their season next week against the Washington Huskies.

Last week, the Vandals simply saw too much of the Terry Baker-Vern Burke passing combination.

"The kids put forth a great effort, but I do not feel that we were as sharp as we had been the two previous weeks," commented the Vandal boss about the OSU loss. "We may not have been as aggressive, but it is a tribute to the squad that they refused to give up," Andros went on to say.

Another Passing Worry However, the Vandals' pass defense will get another stiff workout tomorrow, Andros feels. "Washington State has passed 96 times in their last three games," the Idaho mentor warned. "The Cougars possess a potent pass game with the likes of ends Hugh Campbell and Gerry Shaw and passers Dave Mathieson and Dale Ford.

Big George Reed anchors a running attack that the Vandals have been working on all week trying to stop. Ken Graham could also be rough, Andros said.

"The squad has been in high spirits all week and practices have been good," Andros said. "We will have to play very fine defense to win and we have been working hard," said the head coach.

Vandal Injures

Injuries have become more vital than anytime previously, Andros warned. Gary Mires, Don Matthews, Fred Fancher and Galen Rogers are suffering the effects of the Oregon State game. "We won't know until Saturday morning whether or not Mires will be able to play," commented Andros.

With Mires hurt, Gary Gagnon will get the starting quarterback spot, backed up by sophomore Mike Whiles. "Tom Nelson" will handle the punting.

Only two challenges were held this week. Paul Lawrence bested Joe Blackwell to retain his third team center position, and Cecil Patterson took a second team tackle spot away from Ellery Brown. Tentative Idaho starting lineup: Ends, Larry Stachler and either Hal Osborne or Mike Mayne; tackles, Fred Fancher and Jim Moran; guards, Mike Baumann and Bob Ruby; center, Bob Ames.

Quarterback, Gary Gagnon; halfback, Rich Naccarato; wingback, Ron Kulm; fullback, Galen Rogers.

White To Regain Amateur Status

Charles (Chuck) White, University of Idaho high-scoring basketball forward and hard-hitting baseball outfielder from Kirkland, Wash., will be playing for the Vandals this coming season in both sports, Director of Athletics J. Neil (Skip) Stahley said today.

The announcement, which will bring joy to all Idaho sports fans, reversed a decision of a week ago made on the basis that White had signed a contract to play professional baseball for the New York Yankees.

New Information "Additional information has been received by the University from the New York Yankees, and it has been conclusively established that White is eligible to finish out his senior year of amateur sports competition," said Stahley.

"The New York Yankees stated in a letter to University officials, that, although they did negotiate with White, no contract was executed between White and the New York Yankees. In view of this additional information, the University has revoked its ruling declaring White ineligible, and has restored him to full eligibility."

A Happy Cipriano "This is the best news I've heard in a long time," said Basketball Coach Joe Cipriano. "I will have to juggle my plans again, but it will be a pleasure." Baseball Coach Wayne Anderson added: "Amen."

Stachler Eyes A Soil Career As Year Ends

By CHUCK WALTON Argonaut Staff Writer

Larry Stachler, a defensive specialist under "Skip" Stahley in 1960, and an integral part of coach Dee Andros' two unit football system this year, hails from Lindsay, California. Larry attended three semesters at the College of Sequoia at Visalia, which is about twenty miles from his home town. In his first year at Sequoia he played both football and baseball. After the first semester of his second year, during which he again played football, he transferred to Idaho for the 1960 spring semester.

His aggressive defensive play caught the eye of Idaho mentor "Skip" Stahley and he was used as a defensive specialist during the 1960 football campaign.

After sitting out the 1961 season he was back in action this year. This year he was fitted into the two unit system and was picked as a team co-captain.

Agronomy Major

Stachler chose agronomy as his major, and though he is not certain of his plans after graduation says he would like to find employment somewhere in his home state.

When asked about the team's improvement in recent weeks, Stachler said he felt that everyone was coming into his own and realizing that the team does have good potential. He also remarked that the players have more confidence now, which is necessary to a certain degree in any good team.

Stachler's ability is especially notable on defense. His alert play and hard tackles have provided the Vandals with a good deal of consistency in the overall defensive picture. At six feet and 195 pounds, he is solidly built and can turn the outside runs in with regularity.

An often overlooked facet of Stachler's game is his offensive capabilities. In recent games he has caught some timely passes, one of which resulted in a touchdown and another in a two-point conversion.

Jim Herndon's On The Bench

If the University press releases concerning basketball-baseball star Chuck White's eligibility are correct, and there is no reason why they shouldn't be, the University administration got caught napping, or, as the saying goes, "caught with its pants down."

The University administration committed a sin which it cautions the Argonaut against: It seemingly made a decision on an issue before all the facts were gathered.

Last week the University administration barred White from further amateur sports competition. Reason: "White has signed a professional baseball contract with the New York Yankees," a University press release stated.

After corresponding with the Yankees, the administration reinstated White.

"Additional information has been received by the University from the New York Yankees, and it has been conclusively established that White is eligible to finish out his senior year of amateur sports competition," Athletic Director J. Neil (Skip) Stahley was quoted in a press release Tuesday.

I wonder why the White case had to come up. Certainly it hasn't helped the basketball team's morale any . . . or the reputation of Chuck White or the University of Idaho for that matter.

I am told that the Yankees negotiated with White (which they admit). White thought he had a contract and told coach Joe Cipriano so. Whether this was actually what happened, I can't say for sure. But it is logical enough and probably close enough to what happened to be repeated.

What I know for certain is that the first basketball game is two weeks away and White could have been sidelined until the Yankees were contacted without injury to the team.

But University President D. R. Theophilus and the administrative officials involved thought it best to revoke immediately White's eligibility. The whole affair only leaves the impression that there might be some truth to the first story. So the athlete and the University suffer.

There is talk that the Vandal cross-country team will forego the annual Pacific Coast championships at Palo Alto, California, the latter part of this month.

The Vandal Harriers hope to participate in the national NCAA cross-country meet at East Lansing, Michigan. The national NCAA run will be held at the same time as the Pacific Coast competition.

The Washington State University Cougar fans believe they have the annual "Battle of the Palouse" wrapped up this year.

Anyway, that was the feeling I got when I attended the annual WSU student board of control-University of Idaho student executive board banquet Tuesday night.

They base their confidence on the records which show the Cougars have racked up enough yardage and points in their last two ball games, even though they lost, to beat the Vandals' record of the last two outings. I guess Cougar fans don't realize that records and past performances will be disregarded Saturday at Neale Stadium. See you there.

Comfort, silence and luxury to challenge any car from anywhere

There's a lot underneath the beauty of the '63 Chevrolet. Its roomy, comfortable Body by Fisher screens out noise and shock. There's instant response in a choice of 6- or 8-cylinder engines, a host of refinements to make it run and look like new longer, and plenty more that make it hard to believe it's a low-priced car. But your Chevrolet dealer can prove it!
