GREEN AURA — Two huge "candle" pillars and a green-tinted door covered with gold foil helped Sigma Nu win the Lambda Chi door decorations contest for men's living groups Saturday night.

The sophomore class wound up its week of festivities Saturday evening, by crowning Kathy Baxter Holly Queen at a swinging dance attended by 760 students.

The dance, held in the student Union, had two bands, one fast and one slow in two different deors. The Stylists and the Monarchs provided the music in the "Crystal" and "Holly Day" rooms.

Sigma Nu fraternity and Alpha Gamma Delta sorority won the Lambda Chi Alpha annual door Christmas decorations contest.

The class also named five of their students, one from each college, as outstanding in their fields. Announced at the dance Saturday evening were Craig MacPhee, College of Business; Paul Gravelle, College of Forestry; Donna Leaverton, Letters and Science; Paul Anderson, College of Agriculture; and Mike Olson, College of Engineering.

Soph Treasurer

Miss Baxter, a member of Delta Gamma sorority, is currently serving as sophomore class treasurer. She was elected by a vote of sophomore men Friday noon. She is majoring in education and is from Buhl, Idaho.

Other finalists were Andrea Anderson, Pi Phi; Janie Modie, Gamma Phi; Flo Sleeman, Kappa; and Jerri Ross, Alpha Phi.

The two bands at the dance were an innovation new to this campus. The Monarchs provided the sophisticated swing for the more sedate crowd.

The selection of the outstanding sophomores is a relatively new addition to the traditional week of festivities. It was initiated by the present senior class.

Several other activities were held earlier in the week. Thursday evening the class went caroling on campus under the direction of Jerry Martin. They sang traditional Yuletide carols to all living groups on campus.

Wednesday afternoon the annual style show presenting each of the queen candidates was held under the direction of Jeanne Myers. Wreaths were given to each living group early in the week to officially start the week.

Holiday Hours Set At Library

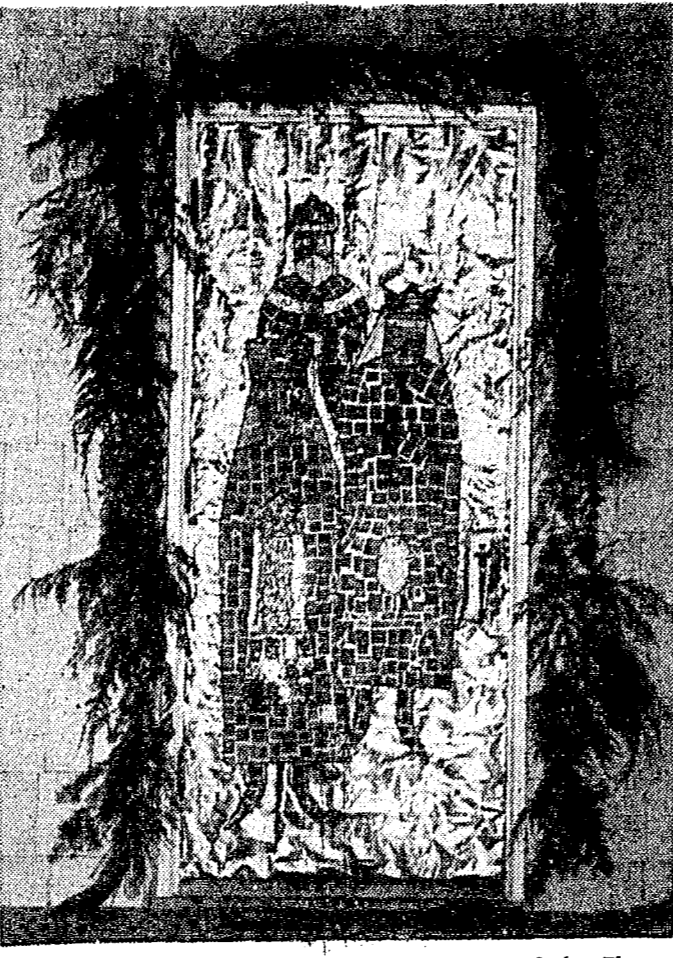

Library hours for the Christmas holidays, Dec. 21, 1962, to Jan. 7, 1963, were announced recently by Lee Zimmerman, University librarian.

The library will be closed on weekends, Christmas Day and New Year's Day.

The library will be closed on Dec. 22, 23, 25, 29 and 30, and Jan. 1, 5 and 6.

Library hours will be from 8 a.m. to 12 noon and from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Dec. 21, 24, 26, 27, 28 and 31 and Jan. 2, 3 and 4.

Regular hours will be resumed on Jan. 7, Zimmerman said.

HOLY SCENE — A mosaic Christmas scene of the Three Wise Men traveling to Nazareth was depicted on the door of the Alpha Gams, winners of the women's living group decorations contest.

First Cut To Be Made Soon For College Bowl

The College Bowl faculty selection makes its first cut this afternoon when the committee meets to trim the 42 aspirants to 14 before the holidays.

Charles Decker, dean of students, and a member of the faculty committee, said, "team positions will still be open. We don't want to eliminate a slow starter or any one who might make a good team member, but we have to start somewhere."

Decker said that the faculty members have been keeping a running score on the candidates. "We will discuss each candidate's strong fields, reading interests and check his test score," he said.

Fitted

The candidates have been fitted against each other in a five-part general culture test and in a series of question and answer sessions where a question is asked and the first to buzz a buzzer gets the chance to answer the question.

"It has been simple to see the ones we will probably choose from the results of the question and answer sessions," Dean Decker said.

Final selections will be made sometime after the holidays. A team of four persons and an alternate will be selected to compete on the nationally televised Sunday program sponsored by General Electric.

Christmas Spirit Invades Concert

By KIP PETERSON
Argonaut News Editor

Comment heard after the Vandaleers' Christmas Candlelight Concert Sunday: "I feel like going home and smiling for an hour."

As blue lights rose on silvered Christmas trees, 65 Vandaleers silently filed into the darkened gymnasium carrying lighted candles and circled onto their platform — silhouetted against the gold velvet curtains.

Organ strains of the Pastoral Symphony from "The Messiah," played by Hall M. Macklin, accompanied the Vandaleers as they placed their candles — emblematic of Christ as the light of the world — in the long black holders.

"Uplifting . . .
"Make a joyful noise unto the Lord, all ye lands . . ." set the tone for the season. Harp, cello and organ added to the uplifting quality of "Juchzet dem Herrn" by Johann

Vandaleer Audience Attentive

In an interview with Glen R. Lockery, director of the Vandaleers, Lockery noted that the audience was "very attentive" during the Christmas Candlelight Concert Sunday night.

He commented that the audience listened as carefully last night as they had ever done in any performance — and "especially during the singing of 'Silent Night.'"

Although 1,500 people attended the concert, applause was more reverent than usual. Lockery explained this, saying: "There's always a question as to whether people should applaud. Some like to, while others feel that in this particular program it is out of place."

Standing Ovation
On the road, however, the Vandaleers received a standing ovation at Coeur d'Alene High School, where they performed in the first concert of its kind in the new high school gymnasium.

Because of the difficulties of simulating an antiphonal choir in high school gyms, the Vandaleers carried extra risers with them. During Sunday's concert, the Vandaleers used the balconies to achieve the antiphonal effect.

Splitting the choirs was done once before, but then the choirs were placed in different parts of the Music Building recital hall.

The Vandaleers also performed at Lewis and Clark Normal School in Lewiston, Orofino and Grangeville during their two-day tour last week.

Pachelbel.
Performed in the authentic fashion of the seventeenth century, the 100th Psalm was accentuated by lights, which first lit the faces of the Vandaleers, then flooded the scene, leaving only the audience darkened — and quiet.

Venetian antiphonal techniques of the sixteenth century gave an air of live stereo — sometimes from three directions at once, in the motets by Giovanni Gabrieli. Vandaleers slipped from side to side, from floor to balcony, to emphasize the different vocal masses of the three motets.

Crying Couldn't Detract
Somehow, when you heard the music, the tonal beauty such as Gabrieli intended it, even a baby crying didn't detract.

The first two motets set the theme — which was then destroyed in the third. Brass instruments, playing very difficult, high, soft music, seemed to be out of tone — and out of the range of their playing ability in the third motet.

The Vandaleers, according to Director Glen R. Lockery, used the original scoring as the composer intended it — although just an organ could have been used for accompaniment, they used the orchestra, as intended by Gabrieli.

"We Praise Thee"
En masse, the Vandaleers presented an inspiring performance of "Te Deum" by Anton Bruckner. Opening with "We praise Thee, o God . . .," this arrangement takes the listener with it in its attempt to find an artistic relationship with God.

"Te Deum" was also performed with the original scoring, although today's brass instruments are entirely different from those of the sixteenth century, Lockery said.

While the brass ensemble presented the Alleluia from Cantata No. 142 by Bach, the set again went dark, and lighted candles were passed to the soft, rising gold.

More Felt Than Heard
"Joy to the World" — was more felt than heard. Soloist Dick Reed, known as a folk song singer, was "right in his means of expression," Lockery said, as he sang "Hacia Belen va un borrico" — a Spanish Christmas song about a donkey going toward Bethlehem, laden with chocolate.

For the first time in the traditional program, a candlelight recessional was used after "Silent Night" — "so we could be gentle and end on a reverent tone rather than closing with applause after 'Silent Night,'" Lockery said.

Christmas Vacation Begins Friday At 5

In three days, University of Idaho students will begin moving from the hilly University campus to hillier ski slopes. They'll begin exchanging textbooks for lighter forms of reading and they'll trade school clothes for something more comfortable.

In three days Christmas vacation will begin for students, faculty members and administration officials.

But contrary to rumors going around the campus, the 16-day reprieve won't officially begin until 5 p.m. Friday, Academic Vice President H. Walter Steffens emphasized yesterday afternoon.

The last classes have been dismissed the last Friday before Christmas here for years, and no change will be made this year, Dr. Steffens said.

Up To Instructors

Although classes will officially be in session through Friday afternoon, the consequences for skipping will be determined by individual instructors. That has been the University's policy since

Weekend Temp. To Rise Slightly

Temperatures in northern Idaho are expected to be five to ten degrees below normal during the next two days but should rise slightly to improve highway driving conditions Friday and Saturday.

High temperatures will range from 15 to 35 degrees and lows from 5 to 20. Scattered precipitation, mostly as snow, is expected to average .2-4 inch. Temperatures in southwest Idaho will be about normal but slightly below normal in the southeastern part of the state.

about 12 years ago, when the Administration ended the imposing of a flat 10 per cent cut in grade point for missing the last classes.

Students will have until Jan. 7 to rest up before returning to classes, giving them almost a week's vacation after New Year's Day.

The University community's counterparts at Washington State University close up tomorrow at noon but must return to school the morning of Jan. 3.

Moscow offices of various travel lines yesterday anticipated a busy weekend of sending students home. A West Coast Airlines representative reported that all Friday flights leaving Moscow-Pullman Airport Friday have been sold out, as have been all reservations for Saturday morning and afternoon.

An extra Friday flight as far as Boise is also sold out, the representative said. The earliest one to southern Idaho leaves Saturday evening.

A Greyhound Bus Lines agent reported that enough buses will be available to handle the college crowd. If the number of regular runs isn't adequate, standby buses will be put into operation. On Page 2 Col. 4

Four more seats are yet to be filled on the 38 passenger "Bus to Boise" before it can depart Friday, Gale Mix, ASUI manager, said yesterday.

"Because of the fact that the weather looks bad over Whitebird and all roads South we don't anticipate any problems in filling them," Mix said.

The bus will depart from the Student Union Building at 5 p.m. Friday afternoon and is scheduled to arrive at the Greyhound Bus Depot in Boise shortly after midnight. It will make connections with buses going to Burley, Pocatello, Idaho Falls and all points east, Mix said.

No Arg Friday; Next One Jan. 8

Due to the crowded pre-Christmas vacation schedule this week, no Idaho Argonaut will be published Friday. The next edition won't appear until after the 16-day vacation.

Edition No. 23 will be published Jan. 8, the day after the New Year's classes begin.

Frosh Recruitment Rally Stresses Personal Contact

A freshman student recruitment program began last night with a kickoff rally attended by 100 freshmen.

"We are stressing personal contact with the seniors who show an interest in attending the U of I," Pat Goddard, program chairman, said.

Frank Young, director of admissions, explained the program in detail to the freshmen, while Goddard urged the freshmen to "really get out and work" on the recruitment program.

The freshmen are trying to get the top high school students to attend the University, Young said. He noted that 77 per cent of the freshmen at the University this year were in the top half of their graduating class in high school.

Buzz Groups
After the recruitment program was explained, the freshmen divided up into groups according to areas. Areas are North Idaho, Southeast Idaho, Southwest Idaho and out-of-state. Group leaders oriented

Officer Petition Has 400 Signees

About 400 students have signed a petition which has been described as "trying to abolish class officers."

The petition, if it gets 456 signatures, would place amendments on the ASUI spring ballots which, if passed would eliminate all mention of class officers from the ASUI Constitution.

If passed, this would be the first major change in the new constitution, which was ratified last spring.

Bob Hahn, instigator of the petition, said that unless the petition got into another "good" house (one in which a large percentage of the residents sign it), the petition probably will not have the required 456 signatures before Christmas vacation.

FINAL EXAMINATION SCHEDULE

First Semester 1962-63

Regular classrooms will be used for the examinations unless instructors make special arrangements through the Registrar's Office. Examinations in courses comprised of lecture and laboratory periods may in most instances be scheduled according to the sequence of either. Announcements of time and room should be made by the instructor for all examinations. Rooms should be reserved in the Registrar's Office for "arranged" examinations in order to avoid conflicts. Instructors will announce to their classes rooms to be used for all sectioned classes having common final examinations.

"Bottles And Bars" Set As "Probe" Subject Wed.

Educational Improvement Committee's panel television program, "Probe," will explore a campus drinking tomorrow night at 6:30 p.m. on channel 7 to determine if student consumption of alcoholic beverages presents a problem.

Cliff Eldred, moderator of the 30-minute show, said that Dr. Caldwell, associate professor of geography, and Thomas Walenta, professor of law, will be quizzed by Idora Lee Moore, Associated Women's Student president, Patt Kelly, member of the activities council and Vince Rossi.

This week's program, "Bottles and Bars" is the first of two parts on student morality.

Eldred said Caldwell and Walenta will give four minute opening speeches. Discussion is expected concerning "how cars lead to drinking," "functions of chaperones, and what are faculty, administration and student responsibilities."

The second part, which will be presented after the holidays, concerns University regulations.

Mrs. Marjorie Neely, dean of women, and Guy Wicks, associate dean of students, will be on hand to answer questions on student do's and don'ts. They also will explain the history of campus regulations.

Men Selected By Sigma Tau

Traditional Sigma Tau pyramid and rail hats will again appear on campus Jan. 7 through 12, Jerry Okeson, president, said.

The hats will be worn by the 19 newly tapped members of Sigma Tau, engineering honorary, during the initiation period.

Tapped were Joseph Allen, Corral Allred, Darwin Ellis, Gayle Ernest, Jerold Heimbuch, Orval Hilliard, Maurice Hoffman, Harold Jensen, Joseph Luse, James Mack, Alvin Mong.

Francis Murphy, Harrell Osborne, Lyle Parks, John Read, Robert M. Smith, Robert Vannoy, Glade Weight and Norman Young.

Dear Jason

Sophs Thanked

Dear Jason:

We would like to thank the many many Sophomores who put so much time and effort into making Holy Week successful. The record attendance at both the caroling party Thursday and the dance Saturday night was an indication of the effect a class can make for the University if the class itself works together.

We were very pleased with the enthusiasm shown by Sophomores and hope this is an indication of the unity we can have as a class. If the class of 1965 remains enthusiastic there is no reason why we can't accomplish more this year. Thank you, we appreciate your help, support and enthusiasm.

Jim Faucher, Holy Week Chairman
Bob Watt, Dance Chairman

Week Praised

Dear Jason,

The practicality of class officers is currently being questioned by those circulating a petition.

It is my opinion that many who signed the petition do not realize what the resulting abolition of class officers really entails. In essence, all class functions would become ASUI functions. The spirit of class participation would be dissolved.

The petition, according to its investigators, is to either dissolve class officers, or challenge the officials to show the student body that they are actually beneficial.

I believe the sophomore class officers met this challenge with ease. Through their able leadership, Holy Week was definitely successful. The Holy Dance, despite its elaborate decorations, was a financial success.

Holly Week should dispel any doubts as to the value of the sophomore officers. It should serve to further challenge the other class officers.

35 Fill Cards

In a student ride display in the Student Union Building lobby, about 35 students had filled out cards requesting either rides or riders home by yesterday afternoon.

Most of the requests were for rides home rather than for passengers to help share expenses. And most of the cards were signed by men students.

Requests were posted for rides or riders to such points east as Chicago, Minneapolis, Florida, and New York. A number sought rides to California, especially the San Francisco area, and one wanted to get to Arizona.

Idaho students weren't the only ones to take advantage of the service. A card asking for riders to Omaha, Neb., was filled out by a WSU student.

Home For Christmas?

When darkness falls over the campus Friday night there will be considerably fewer lights flash on and the noisy, happy-Friday-night crowds will not be present. Most of that crowd will still be noisy and happy but they will be wending their way home over Idaho's sometimes-treacherous roads.

Possibly some of them won't make it back to start the new year because of those same sometimes-treacherous roads. At one time or another every year this is the case. The tragedy of just-past Thanksgiving emphasizes this point as strongly as it ever can be.

The weather reports are not encouraging. Snow, ice, hills, curves, and darkness present indeed a set of circumstances that can almost instantaneously silence the noise and remove any vestiges of happiness.

A gloomy picture, but then life is sometimes that way and a newspaper would not be honest if it said otherwise. It is hoped that the necessary precautions and care will be taken. "I'll be home for Christmas," is a thought that deserves a little effort to preserve.

Unsung Campus Heroes

A merry, restful Christmas to the living campus heroes.

Which heroes? Well, the ASUI personnel, politicians, musicians, debaters, athletes, actors, ad infinitum, get lots of publicity—everyone is impressed by how hard they work and how much they deserve a vacation.

We're not talking about them. We're talking about the unsung heroes—the one who run the living groups. The ones who feed us, clean up after us, get us in on time, defend us against the administration—the ones who keep the living groups running so the rest of us can do the 'glory' work.

How many of us would have time to polittick, sing, debate, play sports, act—if we had to take the time to keep a living group running, too?

None of us. We need our presidents, scholarship chairmen, activities chairmen, dieticians, janitors. We need our secretaries, standards chairmen, house managers, social chairmen.

It weren't for them, who would check up on our grades? Who would make sure we had a 'social' life? Who would keep our 'morals' from being corrupted by late hours and underage drinking? Who would, in short, leave us free to do all the campus jobs—the one for which you get your name in the paper, and your picture on posters?

Thank you. May you have a vacation free from grade points, 'socializing,' and worrying about house bills.

—K.P.

U of I International Students Feted At Christmas Dinner

About 35 international students from the University attended a progressive Christmas dinner sponsored by the United Church Women of Moscow Sunday.

The students were divided into four groups, each of which went to a different section of Moscow.

In that area, the students then had each course of a four-course dinner in a different home, said Mrs. Russell Chrysler, president.

Mrs. M. M. Renfrew was general chairman of the event. Last year, the group held a dinner party for the whole group at the Faculty Club. This year they decided that it would be more interesting for the foreign students to see local homes, so the place was changed, said Mrs. Chrysler.

The first course, soup, was followed by salad, turkey and Chairman of the Eastgate area near the fairgrounds was Mrs. Richard Lundy. The homes of F. W. Hagedorn, Lambert Erickson and Dr. David Valder were also visited.

Bit Of Idaho Mine History Saved Through Generosity

A segment of Idaho mining history has been saved through the generosity of a 15-year-old California girl.

Florence Ellen Lloyd, Coachella, Calif., owner of the Empire Copper Mine operation near Mackay, presented the University of Idaho archives with complete records of her company and its predecessor, the White Knob Mining Company, dating from 1850 to 1927.

Siegfried Rolland, associate professor of social science and history and chairman of the archives committee, said the ton and a half of material now housed in the Library will be of much value to a mining historian.

"The gift contains thousands of letters, business records, complete volumes of correspondence, cancelled checks and volumes of Justice Court dockets," said Rolland.

The records were first noticed by George Williams, associate professor of geological engineering, at the University's summer mining camp at Mackay. They were housed in the mine office building.

"Within a few years, the records would have been lost through deterioration and rodents and the like," said Williams. "Because of the gift of Miss Lloyd, they will be preserved in our Library."

"If I had it to do over again, would I take Army R.O.T.C.?"

My wife and I are in Panama at the moment. She likes it. You know, Officers' Club, dances—that sort of thing. I like it, too. But whether I stay in the Army or not, the question is: Would I take Army R.O.T.C. if I had it to do over again? Yes, I certainly would. In spades, I didn't realize how lucky I was. At the time I figured: Okay, so I'll get my degree—get an Army commission, too, and pick up some extra money along the way! I wasn't the leadership type, I thought. I was wrong. Boy, was I wrong! Looking back on it, I wouldn't trade the leadership training I got for anything! Take my word for it, leaders are made—not born! Whether I stay in the Army or not, nobody can take away what I've learned. And let's face it, where can anybody my age step out of college and walk into a standard of living this good? Look, if you have already invested two years in college ROTC, take it from me: Stick it out! It'll be one of the smartest things you ever did. I say so."

THE GOLDEN FLEECE by Jason

Here's Why Not

"Why not let us out on Wednesday?" ask students this week, as they hear of the beginning of WSU's vacation tomorrow and thus feel cheated out of a few days of their vacation.

"Why keep us here till Friday?" they ask, arguing that they'll skip Friday classes anyway.

Washington State does get out tomorrow noon, but students there are due back again Jan. 3; so they have 14½ days of vacation. Idaho students needn't be back until 8 a.m. Jan. 7, so they have a 16-day rest period.

Would the ending of classes on Wednesday prevent students from skipping on the last day? Probably not. A WSU student told me yesterday that he wanted to "get an early start," so he was taking off this morning. Another student from across the line plans to leave for home early tomorrow morning, according to his brother, a U of I student.

The point is that no matter what day classes end, quite a few people are going to be so anxious to go home that they'll leave a day earlier.

We'd Have To Make It Up Sometime

If it were to get out of school Wednesday noon, when would we make up the extra 2½ days of school? Classes must be held a specified number of days each year, so we might end up with a shorter spring vacation as an alternative.

What about the argument that Christmas is too soon after vacation begins? This year WSU is due back two days after New Year's Day and last year Idaho was. So Idaho students may complain that they don't have enough time before Christmas, but WSU students likewise might complain this year that they don't have enough time to rest up from a boisterous New Year's celebration. Some of them might have to spend the holiday on a bus coming back.

So, as the cliché goes, it's six of one or a half-dozen of the other. We're rushed before Christmas or after New Year's Day—either one or the other. It can't really be helped.

P.E. Honorary To Sponsor Sports Dance After Xmas

Phi Epsilon Kappa, physical education professional honorary for men, will sponsor the third annual Sports Dance, January 12. The dance, held the first weekend after classes resume, will be the only big social event on campus until finals.

The Sports Dance was held for the first time three years ago when members of the honorary felt there needed to be a dance during the year to feature and emphasize campus athletes participating in golf, tennis, basketball, football, swimming, etc.

Bruce Trowbridge, vice president of Phi Epsilon Kappa, said he expected attendance at this dance to be good and expected everyone to enjoy themselves. "All athletes should be in attendance," he said.

The Sports Dance will be held in the middle ballroom of the SUB. "If the crowd is overwhelming, we will expand the ballroom," Trowbridge said.

The Sports Dance will be the last all-campus dance to be held in the ballroom. All dances second semester will be held in the new ballroom.

Tickets can be obtained from the ASUI office in the Student Union Building and at the Physical Education office in Memorial Gymnasium for $1.50 per couple.

All Phi Epsilon Kappa members will be making the announcements in their living groups.

Three University of Idaho men and eight from Washington State University were initiated into Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic society, in ceremonies held jointly by the two undergraduate chapters here Friday evening.

Idaho initiates were Larry McBride, Dave Mulalley and Warren Board.

Living Groups Schedule Exchanges As Event Of Christmas Festivities

Living groups scheduled Christmas dinners, firesides and other Christmas entertainment this weekend to wind up the Christmas season on the Idaho campus. Several houses have planned all-house firesides and Christmas exchanges later in the week.

ETHEL STEEL ENTERTAINS GUESTS
Steel house girls and their guests enjoyed a candlelight Christmas dinner Sunday afternoon in a dining room decorated with greens and holly. Small candy canes were place favors. Mrs. Marjorie Neeley, dean of women, and Miss Shirley Newcomb, home economics staff, were special guests.

A special Christmas dinner was held Wednesday honoring the cook, Mrs. Newton, and the kitchen boys. Highlight of the evening was a visit from "Santa" in the form of "Chuck" who distributed gifts among the group. FORNEY HAS PIXIE WEEK
The annual "pixie week" began at Forney yesterday, when the girls began doing a deed for the girls they are 'pixieing.'

Open house will be held on each floor Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights. The pixie week will be ended by a gift-exchange fireside Wednesday night and a visit from Santa Claus.

DELTA CHIS HOLD CHRISTMAS DINNER

A special Christmas dinner was held Sunday for members of Delta Chi and their guests. Dr. and Mrs. Walter Steffens, Dean and Mrs. David Kendrick, Kathy Hicks and Larry Annis attended.

President and Mrs. D. R. Theophilus attended dress dinner Wednesday evening at the house. Dr. Theophilus gave a short talk after dinner. Other dinner guests were Ron and Roger Anderson.

The all-house Christmas party has been planned after the basket ball game Thursday night. Tri Delta and Theta pledges serenaded last week.

PHI DELTS CELEBRATE CHRISTMAS

The annual Christmas exchange with the DG's will be held Wednesday. Members of the two living groups will exchange gifts which will later be given to charity.

Phi Delt's decorated the entire house and even extended decorations outside, for the annual Christmas Formal, "The Belle Noel."

Recent dinner guests have included Sheila Cranney, University of Oregon, and Jean Thomas, campus.

ALPHA GAM SING CAROLS

The Christmas season was in full swing last week at the Alpha Gam house. Monday midnight the Sophomores led everyone downstairs to present them with a Christmas tree and decorations. Refreshments and caroling followed.

Party Given For Children

More than 200 children attended a Christmas Party Sunday afternoon in the Student Union Building middle ballroom.

Children, under eight years of age, of faculty members and married students were invited. Ted Burke, chairman of the Off-Campus Programs Committee, said.

Vandals Battle Cougars After Edging MSC

Idaho's Vandals, riding high on a 4-0 record and a pair of week end wins over Montana State College, take on the always dangerous Washington State University Cougars Thursday. Game time for the Idaho-WSU battle is 8:05 p.m. at Memorial Gym.

The Vandal frosh, 3-2 for the year, clash with Columbia Basin Junior College in the preliminary tilt. The Babes hold an earlier win over the Hawks.

"We will be working on our break and the press this week," said Idaho coach Joe Cipriano. "We will also stress rebounding, as I did not feel that we were as strong on the boards in Bozeman as we should have been."

Expects Rough
The Vandal mentor is looking for a tough contest with the Cougars in this, the first round of the basketball version of "the Battle of the Palouse."

"WSU is always strong offensively, and they have been tough on the boards this year," commented Cipriano. "In addition, you have to throw away the book for this one. The rivalry is just too intense." According to the coach, "We will have our hands full."

Commenting on the Montana State series over the weekend, the coach said, "I feel that we were very fortunate. We were outscrapped over there."

68-61 Friday
Friday night, the Vandals jumped off to an early lead and then hung on to register a 68-61 win over the Bobcats. Sparking the Idaho play were Gus Johnson and Chuck White, the two Vandals scoring aces. White scored 14 points and Johnson tallied 18.

The Vandals held a substantial lead late in the first half, but Cipriano gave the reserves a rest and the Bobcats gained ground in the final minutes of the opening canto.

However, the Vandals retained their margin in the second half, though pressed all the way.

Saturday night, it was a different story. Colder than ice, the Vandals could not find the range in the first while MSU hit well from all over the floor. A late Idaho surge brought the Vandals back from a ten point deficit. Idaho trailed by four at half-time.

Free Throw Fails
In the second half, they took an early lead and held it till the waning minutes. The Vandals almost lost the game in the last second, but MSU missed on a one-and-one to send the contest into overtime.

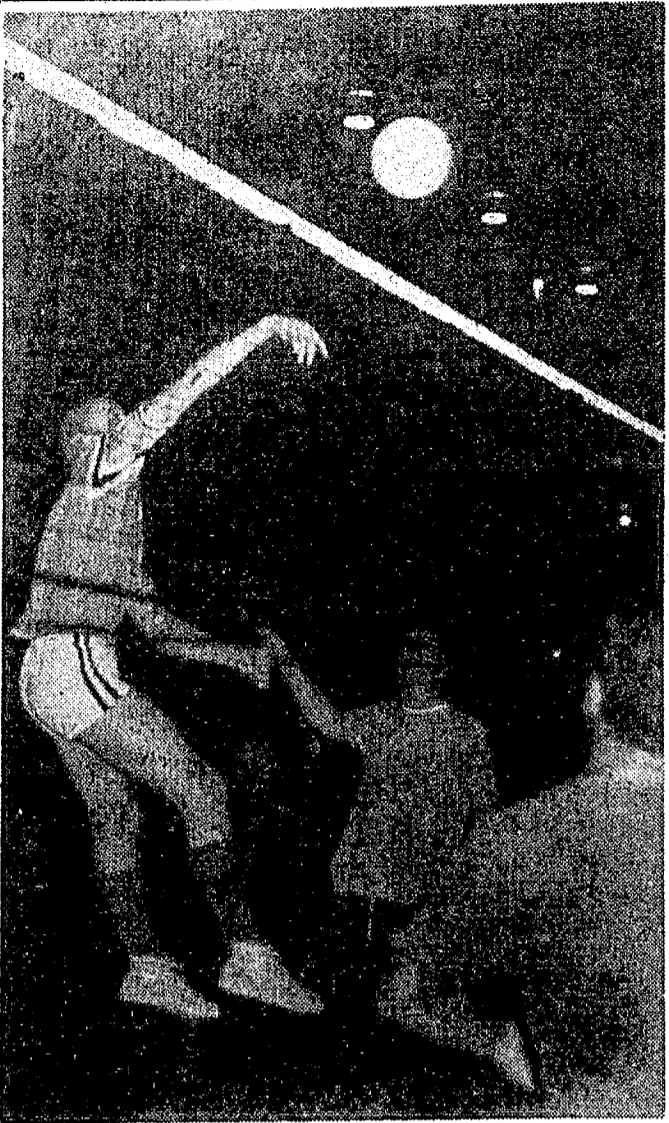

In the extra period, Montana State jumped into a three point lead, but a basket by Gus Johnson sent the Vandals into the lead for good. Once again, Montana had a golden opportunity to win the game, but another Bobcat free throw missed the mark.

The Vandals stalled out the last 30 seconds to win, 64-63. Johnson led the Vandal effort with 20 points, followed by Rich Porter who scored all 13 of his points after intermission. Lyle Parks scored nine points in the second half.

White Continues To Lead Vandals

Chuck White, senior forward from Kirkland, Wash., moved to within 165 points of Gary Simmons' all-time Idaho scoring record during the weekend as the Vandals swept a pair from Montana State in Bozeman. White now has a career total of 900 points. His 82 in the first four games give him a 20.5 average to lead the team.

Injuries Plague Frosh As Club Eyes CBC Invasion

The University of Idaho frosh basketball team, fresh from their recent win over Columbia Basin Junior College, will meet them again Thursday night in Moscow. The game will be a preliminary game to the Idaho-WSU clash, at 5:50 p.m.

Frosh coach Ken Maren said yesterday that the team has not had too much practice in the past three days, and that they will have to work extra hard to beat the Hawks from Columbia Basin Thursday night.

Maren also says that there will be a big change in the Hawk lineup Thursday due to the quarter system at the school. "Three of their boys who were not eligible to play last week will be eligible this week, as the first quarter of the year is over for the school." All of these boys will be playing on the first string, said Maren, and with the addition of these three, the team should be a lot tougher.

Ballantyne To Play
One of the three players is Tommy Ballantyne, a former Idaho frosh player, who is from Twin Falls. He is expected to give the Hawks a lot of shooting and a lot of points in the forthcoming game.

Maren also said that Idaho will be on the short end of the height and depth again for the game, and the way they were going to win the game will be by using a lot of Idaho spirit and a very good rebounding effort.

Vandals Will Meet OSU In FWC Play

The Idaho Vandals will meet Oregon State's Beavers in the first round of the Far West Classic, Dec. 26-29 in Portland, Oregon. The Idaho-OSU clash is set for 9 p.m. Dec. 27 in the final game of the first round, according to Vandal mentor Joe Cipriano.

Paired in the first round in addition to the Vandals' game are Oregon vs. Washington State, Seattle vs. California, and Arizona vs. Iowa.

According to Cipriano, Oregon State, Seattle, Arizona and California will be cast in the favorite's role. All four teams have played tough competition.

Johnson Sideline
The Vandals will not have the use of 6-6 center Gus Johnson. Johnson will be on the sidelines because of an NCAA regulation.

Year by year the Classic has grown in stature until it has become one of the major holiday tournaments in the country. Usual procedure is to invite four Northwest teams and four teams from other areas to the Portland fray. Big Ten teams have appeared in the Classic for the past few years.

Idaho's best finish in the tournament was last year when the Vandals defeated Washington State 75-74 to capture third place. Rich Porter and Chuck White were named to the all-star team.

Have Won Every Year
In past years, Oregon State has held virtual monopoly on the title. The Beavers have won the trophy every year the Classic has been held.

Coach Slat Gill's team has never lost a FWC game. OSU beat the Oregon Ducks in the finals last year. Oregon had sidelined the Vandals in the semifinals.

Two unbeaten teams are expected to highlight the Portland event. Both Seattle University and Stanford University are undefeated to date.

The Classic opens up Dec. 26, even though the Vandals do not play until the next night. Two games Wednesday and two more Thursday will complete the first round of play. Semifinals will be held Friday, and the championship game will be held Saturday night.

Skiers Open New Season January 5-6

Joe Anderson, head ski coach, announced the immediate team for the first ski meet to be held Jan. 5 and 6. Because the tryouts originally planned for December 15, were rained out, the team was selected on the basis of last year's intramurals, and the results of last year's placing in the meets.

The team consists of Harald Jensen, Per Jensen, and Rolf Prydz, cross country; Steve Kimball, Bob Mooney, Erik Friis, Dave Iverson, and Bob Trent, down hill and slalom; Per Jensen, and Rolf Prydz, jump, and Arnstein Friling, all four events.

First Meet
January 5 and 6 will be the date of the first meet which will be held in Rossland, Vancouver. The Rossland International Intercollegiate Four Way Ski Tournament will include beside Idaho, the University of Washington, University of British Columbia, University of Alberta, University of Montana, and Montana State College.

Idaho will sponsor the ski meet, held Jan. 12 and 13, in McCall. January 19 and 20, Montana State College will sponsor the meet held in Bozeman, Montana. The following week the team will travel to Banff, Alberta.

Three weeks later, Feb. 23 and 24, the regional championships will be held in White Pass, Washington. The results of this meet will determine the top three teams who will go to the National championships in Solitude, Utah. Winners from the five regions in the country will compete against each other in approximately the middle of March.

Haskins Leads I. Frosh Shooters
Sharp-shooting Ed Haskins from St. Maries is leading the Idaho frosh basketball team at the end of five games, official statistics showed today.

Haskins, a 6-3 guard, has scored 77 points for a 15.4 average and is leading the regular with a 44.6 percent from the floor. He has 33 field goals and 11 free throws.

Second on the list is Jim McElroy, a 6-3 forward from Seattle High School in Seattle. He has 64 points and a 12.8 average. Rod Shinko, another 6-3 forward is third with 39 points followed by Gary Glenisky from Pocatello with 25 tallies and an even 5.0 average.

Larry McBride's SportShop

There is at least one man who is going to spend Christmas holiday doing a lot of worrying. His name is Emory T. (Slat) Gill. Occupation: Head basketball coach at Oregon State University.

There are going to be seven teams gunning for Gill and his Beavers. They include the best in the West and some of the better teams in the nation as well.

I have an idea that Western basketball coaches and teams have become tired of the annual Oregon State success story in the Portland tournament. Some of these teams have the talent and ability to battle the Beavers to the wall. Gill may spend some sleepless nights until this one is settled.

According to Idaho coach Joe Cipriano, Seattle University, California, Stanford and Arizona should be favored to battle for the championship. Each of these teams has what it takes to beat the Beavers.

Seattle stands an excellent chance. The Chieftans have height, speed and shooting to challenge Oregon when and if they should meet. Seattle will have trouble handling Mel Counts, but don't believe the Beavers won't have a busy night trying to keep track of Seattle's Eddie Miles. In addition, Seattle has Charlie Williams, who already is said to be one of the fastest sophomores in the West.

In addition, Seattle has one more ace in the hole to throw at the Beavers—tournament know-how. The Chieftans are old hands in this stuff. Don't think they won't use it to the best of their ability.

Both California and Stanford have the rebounding and the defense to take the Beavers into camp. Stanford has a pair of 6-8 men who can jump with the best of them. On is slated for AAWU honors.

The California clubs are the best defensive teams in an area in which defense comes first. The Pete Newell tradition is still very much alive, and this tough, man-to-man play could give Oregon State fits.

Arizona is said to be loaded. The Wildcats are reported to have a good balance of rebounding, speed and shooting. Arizona could have the best offensive show of any team in the tourney. If they can control the boards, the fast-breaking, fast-shooting style of the Wildcats may just be too much for Gill and his team to handle.

Even with Gus Johnson out of action in the Far West it would be very unwise to count the Vandals out. Cipriano's bunch may surprise a lot of Portland fans.

Cipriano still has Chuck White and Rich Porter around, and when these two get hot in the same game, they are as tough as any other one-two punch that will appear in this event.

In addition, Tom Whitfield has done a fine job on the boards in spite of Johnson's presence on the court. If Whitfield can continue to do so well and can get help from White and the others, Johnson's absence just may not be as damaging as everyone thinks.

The Vandals will present a tough, seasoned defensive-minded team that their opposition will have to cope with. When they work it right, they can rattle a club with their half-court and full-court presses. If one of those hot-shooting teams has a bad night from the floor against Idaho, watch out.
