Ceremony Tonight To Open SUB Addition

Giant Vandal Highlights SUB Lobby

The lobby of the new Union addition has a quiet relaxing atmosphere about it despite its luxurious appointments. The acoustics and the color scheme contribute to this motif.

Highlighting the area is a giant nine-foot tall statue of a Vandal. The statue is made by a special process of welding wrought iron. A cutting torch is used to shape the metal. George Roberts, instructor of art and architecture did the work. He also did the two small sculptures on the wall of the lobby.

The statue weighs around 100 pounds and is anchored to the floor. His shield contains in relief a snake and a rising sun, the former symbolizing the Snake River, the latter the origin of Idaho's name.

These last two pieces are not permanent but will be sent to other colleges. The art work, done by Geneva Sloan, is a temporary or moving display also. The Student Union directors plan to have a different display up every week.

The furniture, modern in design, is of the best quality available.

SENTINEL — A nine-foot Vandal, fashioned from wrought iron by George H. Roberts of the art faculty, stands guard over the lobby of the Student Union Building addition, which will be formally opened in ceremonies tonight. Several students are pictured enjoying the lobby's new facilities.

ASUI Facilities Use Vivid Colors

ASUI officials moved into new facilities yesterday in the Student Union Building addition.

The office of Gale Mix, ASUI general manager, sports a bright blue carpet, yellow webbed chairs, two telephones and a two-foot-square table of old, battered design. The table is temporary until his new desk arrives.

Along with Mix's office in the general manager's section are the public office, vault and offices of the activities director and program director. The public office has attractive blue furniture for guests, and new desks for the secretaries.

Organizations Room

Connected to the general manager's office section is the Organizations Room in which 40 organizations will have individual locked files and a large bulletin board with space for meeting notices and other organization information. This is not quite complete.

Next to the Organizations Room are the office for the ASUI president, vice president and public relations director and the Executive Board Room. The Executive Board Room has an elevated floor where the large teakwood table and 14 yellow leather chairs for the E-Board members is situated; off the elevation are chairs for observers to congregate around a low teakwood table.

Lighting in the E-Board Room is much the same as that in the Dipper: patterned after the Stork Club. A bright blue carpet and paneled wall complete the decor.

Translucent panels along the hall are used in the general manager's offices and the ASUI office.

Enlarged Dancing Facilities Featured In Addition

Student dancing areas in the Student Union Building addition will provide larger, more comfortable, more modern facilities. The new Dipper, located in the basement, will be open tonight; the second floor ballroom will not open officially until Feb. 15, Gale Mix, ASUI general manager, said yesterday.

The Dipper, will feature combos "two or three times a week" from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m., Mix said.

The program headed by Mrs. Richard Farnsworth, assistant general manager, will be entirely free to the students and will last next week, Mix said.

Modern Decor

Teakwood tables, orange leather seating banks around three walls, dark green cocktail chairs, and a Northern Michigan maple dance floor are features of the new Dipper.

The old Dipper, painted in red and yellow, seated about 40. The new Dipper, decorated with hemlock paneling and Stork Club type lighting, seats about 100 and has one and one half times the dancing area of the old Dipper, Mix said.

All the lights in the Dipper are equipped with dimmers, to achieve any level of lighting desired. The hemp-carpeted elevat-

Staff Moves To New SUB For This Arg

This issue of the Argonaut was written in the new offices in the basement of the Student Union addition yesterday. The offices, located across from the new Dipper, feature a modern newsroom arrangement designed for efficient flow of copy and patterned after layouts of major papers.

The offices are in three rooms: a large newsroom, editors' office, and a darkroom. The newsroom, which houses sports, social and general news departments, is larger than similar rooms in any newspaper throughout the state except the Lewiston Morning Tribune and The Idaho Daily Statesman in Boise. Operations are directed from the news editor's desk in a central location. It is a large raised desk with facilities for copy readers and headline writers also.

The editor's office houses the editor, associate editor and managing editor. The dark room is located next to their offices, closer at hand than former facilities which were on the top floor of the old Union building.

LCNS May Turn To Private Ownership

By JIM METCALF
Argonaut Managing Editor

The possibility of Lewis-Clark Normal School becoming a private school arose for the second time within a year during the vacation period. Officials from Cascade College, an inter-denominational liberal arts school in Portland, Ore., visited the campus at Lewiston last Friday to evaluate the physical facilities.

This was the second visit by the Portland college officials. Administrative officials visited the campus Dec. 17 but their purpose was not made known at that time. This last visit was made by the Board of Directors, including the college president, Thomas A. Leupp, and the Board chairman, Dr. Charles E. Fogg.

Inquiries about acquisition of the school facilities were made early last year by Wheaton College, Wheaton, Ill., but no action ever resulted.

The 14 members of the Cascade College directorate were escorted around the grounds by Idaho Board of Regents member Elvon Hampton of Genesee, and University Academic Vice-President H. Walter Steffens.

In an interview yesterday Steffens emphasized that the University was not connected with the negotiations in any way. The normal school is administered by the University as a branch of the school. A separate budget is prepared for the Lewiston school each biennium.

A news story in the Lewiston Morning Tribune Saturday told of an incident last Friday when Dr. Steffens was asked by an LCNS staff member, Robert Jones, what the purpose of the visit was. Later that afternoon Jones and two Nez Perce county legislators, State Senator Carl Moore, and Representative Edward Williams, burst in on a meeting at the LCNS Student Union demanding information. After being reassured they retired. Dr. Steffens pointed out yesterday that he had told Jones that Hampton would be there later and would be willing to answer questions and that he was acting only on orders from the Board of Education to guide the officials around the campus and was not authorized to answer any questions.

The normal school was formerly North Idaho College of Education. The school was shut down by the Legislature as it cut the funds off. It was reopened in 1955 as a normal school granting teacher's certificates. It has been the center of controversy recently as the school head Dr. Cleon Caldwell and the LCNS alumni association came out advocating changing the school to a state-supported four-year liberal art college.

Hampton told newsmen that the Board of Education was exploring every possible avenue for future development of the school, adding that any of the proposed alternatives, including making it into a junior college, would be preferable to its present status.

Cascade College officials have to present the proposal at a meeting of the school trustees Jan. 14. Dr. Fogg said the college would not move without an invitation from the State Board of Education and the State Legislature. He added that the college is also considering several other locations. They are presently bounded by the district condition of Portland and are unable to expand their facilities without a great deal of expense. It is a small liberal arts-Christian college with a student body of 300.

Alumni leaders were not enthusiastic about the possible move and acquisition by Cascade College and are still maintaining their stand advocating state support for a four-year liberal arts college.

The Board of Regents will make no recommendation to the State Legislature, which opened yesterday, until after its Jan. 24-25 meeting at Boise. The survey of higher education in Idaho being made by the Stanford Research Institute will be considered in their recommendation.

The first and biggest phase of a $2 million Student Union Building addition will be officially opened with the cutting of a ribbon by University President Donald R. Theophilus tonight.

The ribbon will be across the door to the new Dipper in the building's basement, and its cutting at 6:30 p.m. will begin a short combination opening ceremony and rally for the Idaho-Washington State University basketball game at Pullman tonight.

The doors to the long-awaited student center will be opened to permit access to new ASUI offices, lobby, TV lounge, Argonaut offices, stereo listening room, information booth and ballroom, in addition to the dance room where the ceremonies will be held.

A short speech by Dr. Theophilus will be followed by pep talks by members of the Vandal Rally Committee. Students will be free to tour through the building's addition throughout the rest of the evening.

Free coffee and punch will be available, and live music will be provided in the Dipper.

Tours Scheduled

Guided tours, conducted by members of the Hospitality Committee, will be held during the rest of the week. They will begin from the new lobby about 4:15 p.m. tomorrow through Friday, and members of the committee will be there to provide information from 3 to 5 p.m. Free coffee, punch and cookies will also be served in the main lounge during the same hours.

Although the most important phase of the Student Union's remodeling and extension now has been completed, work isn't scheduled to be finished until August.

Rooms on the north side of the original building, such as conference rooms, the old Dipper and Argonaut and ASUI offices, are being emptied, and the project of remodeling the original portion will be begun in the near future, ASUI General Manager Gale Mix reported.

Restaurant Slated

The main portion of the old building will be cleared to make way for expanded facilities and new features. A restaurant is scheduled for construction in the old section.

The Student Book Store, a one-story section of the SUB at its south end, will be razed and a new, larger one erected on the same site. The store will take up temporary quarters in the basement of the new wing, between the bowling alley and the Dipper. Later the room will be converted into a game room.

A four-lane extension of the bowling alley, bringing the number to 12, was the first unit of the new SUB to be completed. It has been in use for more than two months.

'Satchmo' Tickets Here Tomorrow

Tickets to the Louis Armstrong show Feb. 15 will go on sale tomorrow morning at 8 in the ASUI offices. Gale Mix, ASUI General Manager, said the students will be protected for two weeks, and then sales will be opened to the general public. Students may still buy after that date but it will be on a first come, first served basis.

Armstrong and his group will open up the new ballroom on the top floor of the Student Union that night. This will be the formal opening of the entire new addition. A four-hour program will be presented that night, three hours of dancing and an hour-intermission of his famous jazz. The program is being sponsored under the auspices of the ASUI Activities Council.

"Satchmo" is world-famous for his virtuosity with the trumpet and the jazz music of the town he was born in, New Orleans. He has been playing since he was 17 years old.

Since 1923 Armstrong has recorded more than 1,000 numbers. He is known throughout the world as he has toured in behalf of the United States as a good-will ambassador. He has played in Africa, Australia and Europe, and the British Isles.

He has a rather unique definition of jazz. Asked to describe it, he replied, "Jazz is a lazy summer afternoon . . . it's the girl you love . . . it's boiling honey . . . it's Tchaikovsky's Sixth . . . and it's spinach."

He will be supported by his band of Trummy Young on the trombone, Barney Bigard on the clarinet, Billy Kyle on the piano, Danny Barcelona on the drums, and Mort Herbert on the bass.

Many Requests

Tickets are $4.00 a couple, and $2.50 single. Mix said that they had had many requests for tickets already but are not replying to them until the students have had a chance to purchase the tickets.

The ballroom will hold 1200 couples for a dance and the show will undoubtedly be to a capacity crowd, according to Mix. Mix made the arrangements for the show, wanting something a little special for the opening of the luxurious addition.

KTRS Now Has Changed Call Letters

Call letters of the University-owned FM radio station have been changed. Originally the call letters were KTRS-FM, but had to be changed when it was discovered that they had already been assigned to another radio station.

The old call letters, KTRS, stood for K-Teaching, Research, Service; the new ones, KUID, have no meaning. The letters were assigned by the Federal Communications Commission Dec. 20, James Crockett, Radio-TV instructor, said.

A tentative air date for the station was set for Jan. 14, but has been postponed to Jan. 21, Crockett said. The week's delay was due to the vacation interruption in the work of remodeling and new equipment.

'It Was Fun,' States Prof Who Created SUB Vandal

The wrought iron figure of the Idaho Vandal in the lobby of the Student Union addition is fashioned to represent "just what a Vandal seemed like to me," George H. Roberts, creator of the statue, said yesterday.

Roberts, the recipient of over 200 art and sculpture awards, completed the 100 pound, sheet iron and welding rod statue in two months of work in his home workshop.

The figure of a snake which is incorporated into the statue represents the Snake River, the life blood of Idaho, he said, and the hawk signifies protectiveness with the outstretched wings.

Roberts has won prizes for his wrought iron figures of a Chinese gate for a city wall, bull in a bull ring, and hawks. He has won first places in art showings at the 153rd Pennsylvania Academy fine arts show; the Ball State display, Muncie, Ind.; the National Craft and Decorator Arts show, Wichita, Kan.; ceramic purchase prize for permanent collection at the St. Paul Gallery, and the best of show award at the Pacific Northwest Artists showing, Spokane.

Theodore Prichard, acting dean of the college of Letters and Science, commenting on the statue and its creator, said: "Roberts is a really great artist."

Cars Damaged In Accidents Injuries Are Minor

None of the 373 individuals who died on the nation's highways over the Christmas - New Year's Day holiday period were University of Idaho students, although several accidents which totally wrecked cars involved University students.

Bill Benjamin of Idaho Falls and Ann Weber of Salmon were thrown in waist-deep water in the Bitterroot River 12 miles South of Darby, Mont., when Benjamin's 1962 sedan, driven by Tim Flood of Idaho Falls hit a slick spot the night of Dec. 21 and rolled over.

cushioned the impact so that the five - Jon Harms, Pat Alexander, Bart Harwood, Mary Fairchild and Tom Richards, all of American Falls - were unhurt. The car, driven by Harwood, received $75 damage.

Two accidents occurred in Moscow. Frank Kasunic of Irwin, Penn., was treated at Gritman Hospital Dec. 28 for head injuries after being thrown into the windshield of a truck when the truck was stopped suddenly by a tree limb striking the truck van.

Flood, held in by a seat-belt, was unhurt but Miss Weber and Benjamin received lacerations besides a dunking. They lost some of their belongings in the river. About 11 p.m. the same night and 46 miles further up the Lost Trail Pass going to Salmon, Idaho, a 1956 sedan loaded with five students plunged through a snow-bank and 150 feet down an embankment before stopping against a tree.

Highway patrolman Elvin Albiston said the snow apparently

Several people were injured when a Greyhound bus hit a parked car being driven by University student Larry Stachler, north of Lovelock, Nev. Saturday after the vacation had started.

The bus overturned and many of the passengers had to be given hospital treatment. Apparently neither Stachler nor his two passengers were injured. He refused to comment on the accident when queried yesterday, saying, "I just want to forget it." His passengers remain unidentified.

Morality Limits Is 'Probe' Topic
Morality restrictions will be tomorrow evening's topic on "Probe," the University closed circuit television station's weekly panel show at 6:30 p.m.

The panel will consist of Mrs. Marjorie Neely, dean of women; Guy Wicks, associate dean of students, and students Linda Kinney, Dave Brashers and Bob Tunnelliff.

Dance Sat. Is Last Event Of Semester

The Phi Epsilon Kappa Sports Dance Saturday night will be the last big all-campus social event until finals, according to Bruce Trowbridge, chairman.

Phi Epsilon Kappa, the physical education professional honorary, will sponsor the event for the third time this year. The dance was originated three years ago when members of the honorary felt that all college athletes should be recognized at an all campus social event.

The dance will probably be the last one to ever take place in the old ballroom of the Student Union Building. All dances after Feb. 1 will be scheduled in the ballroom of the new SUB addition.

Archie R. Harney, Ag Editor, Succumbs To Heart Attack

Archie R. Harney, agricultural extension editor for 17 years and "The farm radio voice of the state," died of a heart attack at his home in Moscow Dec. 20.

After joining the staff of the University in 1945, Harney began a series of radio programs on agricultural subjects. Last year, 32 stations carried his programs. Harney prepared six taped recordings each week.

Several days before his death, he prepared a special broadcast for the Christmas season. In his broadcast, which will be carried by radio stations as a memorial to him, Harney said:

"The good that men do out of the kindness of their hearts is a force that once started develops a chain reaction of its own. It may die, be forgotten for a time, but where human prayer for a better world lives on, it comes to life again. And from its fruit and flower come a thousand new seeds of hope."

Besides preparing agricultural radio programs, Harney was responsible for editing the many bulletins published by the College of Agriculture in its various programs.

Vandals Play Dangerous Cougars Tonight

The Idaho Vandals, with Gus Johnson once again in action, will collide with the often-beaten but dangerous Washington State University Cougars tonight at Pullman, Wash. The Vandals and the Cougars take the floor at 8 p.m.

The Vandals will go into the contest with another win streak going for them. Idaho has won its last two outings, the latest being a 75-60 conquest over Montana State University on the road.

In that contest, Coach Joe Cipriano's charges came alive in the last quarter to gain their win. The Vandals had a hot streak midway in that period and it provided the winning margin.

Johnson was able to come up with but five points, but guard Rich Porter scored 22 points and Chuck White, leading Idaho scorer, chipped in with 17.

Tough Game Expected

"Washington State is a far better team than the one we beat in Moscow earlier this season," warned the Idaho boss. He cited the one point win the Idaho team was able to cop in the Far West Classic, plus WSU's close game with Oregon State Saturday. "They really did a job against Mel Counts in that one," the mentor remarked.

According to Cipriano, an additional worry is WSU's great winning ability against the Vandals on their home court. "I can't remember the last time we won in Pullman, but it has not happened since I've been here." The Cougars have traditionally been tough at home against Idaho.

According to Cipriano, Idaho will go with its usual starting lineup of White and Tom Whitfield at forwards, Johnson at center, and Porter and Lyle at the guard spots.

The Idaho coach said that other Vandals that can be expected to see action tonight include Bill Mattis, Chuck Kozak and Terry Henson.

In addition, the Vandals will have limited services from forward Jim Scheel. "The knee looks as if he will be able to finish out the season, barring another injury, but he is not ready to go strong yet," said the cage mentor.

Cipriano feels that Cougar shooter Byron Vadest will be Idaho's chief worry, but added that the rest of the WSU squad can hurt you as well. "Ted Werner and all the rest can give you real trouble," he commented.

Idaho stands 2-0 against WSU for the year. Idaho beat the Cougars 94-57 at home, but the Classic victory was a one point margin. Porter's desperation shot in the last second won the game.

At the Classic, the Vandals fell to the eventual champions, Oregon State, 83-50. Next night, Idaho lost to Seattle University and Eddie Miles 85-71. The WSU win was 64-63.

Lindley Defeats Delts To Win IM Laurals

Lindley Hall, led by Ronald Pyke, beat the Delts 2-0 to win the campus intramural volleyball championship just before Christmas vacation. Each team received 200 intramural points as winner in its division.

Following the Delts in the Greek division were the SAES in second place. Then came the Kappa Sigs, the Lambda Chis, the Fijis, the Betas, the Sigma Nus, and the ATOs.

In ninth place were the Delta Sigs. They were followed by the Tekes, Sigma Chis the, Phi Taus, the Theta Chis, Farm-House, the Phi Delts, LDS, and Delta Chi.

TMA took second place in the independent division. Upham was third and Chrisman was fourth. Following in order were Shoup, Willis Sweet, Gault, and Campus Club.

Basketball Begins

"A" basketball steps into the spotlight Wednesday with a full schedule of six games. In the drawing for the Greek leagues the following teams were put in League One: Fiji, Phi Delt,

Sigma Nu, LDS, Delta Chi, ATO, SAE, and the Delts. All other Greeks are in League Two.

Also making its debut this week is intramural bowling. There are four leagues; three have six teams and one has seven. These league find the Greeks' and Independents mixed.

Schedules

Wednesday's basketball action includes: 7:00 — court 1, Delta Chi vs. Alpha Tau Omega; court 2, Sigma Nu vs. Delta Tau Delta; court 3, LDS vs. Sigma Alpha Epsilon; 7:40 — court 1, Phi Gamma Delta vs. Phi Delta Theta; court 2, Delta Sigma Phi vs. Lambda Chi Alpha; court 3, Phi Kappa Tau vs. Kappa Sigma.

Thursday games include: 7:00 — court 1, Sigma Chi vs. Tau Kappa Epsilon; court 2, Beta Theta Pi vs. Theta Chi; court 3, Chrisman Hall vs. Upham Hall; 7:40 — court 1, TMA vs. Gault Hall; court 2, Campus Club vs. Lindley Hall; court 3, Shoup Hall vs. Willis Sweet Hall.

Thursday's bowling matches include: lanes 1-2, TMA vs. Tau Kappa Epsilon; lanes 3-4, Phi Delta Theta vs. Willis Sweet Hall; lanes 5-6, Delta Chi vs. Gault Hall; lanes 7-8, Lindley Hall vs. Delta Tau Delta; lanes 9-10, Alpha Tau Omega vs. Delta Sigma Phi; lanes 11-12, Kappa Sigs vs. Sigma Nu.

Swimmers To Step Up Drills

Coach Clarke Mitchell's Idaho swim team returns to action this Saturday after a month-long holiday playoff.

The Vandal tankers will tangle with Montana State U., Utah State and Idaho State in a four-way meet in the Grizzlies' pool at Missoula, Mont.

According to Mitchell, the squad seems to be in fairly good shape, considering the long duration of inactivity. "We look pretty good, all things considered. They are in better shape than I expected, but they are not as extra as I was hoping for."

Need Extra Work

Mitchell said that the Vandal finnen will be holding two workouts daily this week, one in the morning and another in the afternoon. "We are going two-a-day all this week, because we don't have much time before the meet."

"We will have to get a lot better between now and Saturday, that's for sure," commented the coach.

"All three schools have some great individual stars," said Mitchell. He said that Montana has a strong, depth-laden squad. He expects a tough tussle.

Need Seconds, Thirds

"We should get our share of firsts in this four-way meet, but we're going to have to pick up some seconds and thirds if we are going to win the meet."

Inability to score seconds and thirds has hurt the Vandals all season long.

Idaho will count on rookie Karl Von Tagen in the sprints, junior college transfer Gary Baker in the butterfly and individual medley, Larry Peterson in the middle distances and Charles Edwards in the backstroke. Dave Katsilometes will pick up the slack in the breast stroke.

The relay teams will include Edwards, Baker, Katsilometes and Von Tagen.

Vandal Babes Collide With WSU Frosh Squad Tonight

The University of Idaho frosh take on the WSU Coubabes tonight at Pullman. The Idaho frosh are fresh from their last win over Columbia Basin Junior College. It was the second win in a row over the CBC club.

Frosh coach Ken Maren said that the WSU game should be a good one, but the team from across the border should have a lot of height, and should be hard to overcome.

Maren said "the boys from Washington State have at least five or six men over six feet six

White Leads Scorers

Senior forward Chuck White continues to lead the Idaho scoring with better than 18 points per game. The Kirkland, Wash., ace will probably break Gary Simmons' all-time scoring record against Washington State here on Jan. 15.

Paul Henden Will Run In Indoor Track Meet

Paul Henden, Idaho's star cross-country and distance track man, has been invited to compete in the annual Oregon Indoor Invitational, coach Doug Basham announced yesterday.

Henden will vie in the Portland meet January 26. The Idaho runner will have his expenses paid for by the OII.

According to Basham, Henden should have an excellent chance of doing well in the two-mile, the event he is scheduled to run. "I think he has a real good chance in this race," commented the Idaho track coach.

Basham said, however, that the British-born trackster will run against top competition. "Some of the best two-milers on the West Coast will be in this race," said Henden's coach.

Henden has been in hard training ever since the cross-country season ended for his indoor competition. Basham said that on Dec. 18 Henden ran a three-mile to determine how he would do in the shorter race. According to Basham, Henden's run was excellent.

"Henden ran the three-mile course in 14:07.5, which is well under the listed varsity record held by Frank Wyatt at 14:27.0." Henden ran this course at the indoor facilities at Washington State University.

"A three-mile shows how well you can run a two-mile" said Basham, "and I felt that his performance showed that Henden is ready to go in this meet."

Road Crowd Aids Idaho, Says Cip

"We knew our basketball team was popular in Moscow," Idaho cage coach Joe Cipriano said yesterday, "but when 250 rooters from north Idaho rolled into Missoula to see us play Montana last Saturday night we knew that the whole state was behind the Vandals."

"Our team got a great lift from the interest shown in Missoula and I know that it helped our club play better basketball," the Idaho coach continued. "We're used to sellout crowds of partisan fans in Moscow, but when you have a following of two or three hundred enthusiastic fans backing you on the road it's really great."

The Vandals will also face Lewis and Clark Normal School Friday. Maren said that the club from Lewiston is somewhat similar to the Idaho frosh team, in that they lack height but make up for it in a lot of speed and hustle.

Starting for the Vandal Babes will be Ed Haskins and Jim McElroy at forwards; Gary Glensky and Mike Everett at guards; and Ron Muskoph at the center position.

Maren said that he plans to use a diagonal offense against WSU, the reason for this being that it will enable the shorter Idaho players to shoot from the outside.

Against Lewis and Clark, Maren said that he would have to wait and see what type of defense they plan to use before he plans any offense.

Maren said that with the two games this week, there would have to be a lot of hard work for the team.

Henden Honored Again

Once again fortune has smiled upon the University of Idaho's growing track program.

Yesterday, it was learned that distance star Paul Henden has been invited to compete in the Oregon Indoor Invitational, one of the biggest tests of the winter track season.

It is remarkable that Henden could get an expense-paid invitation to such a meet, but its easy to see why. Henden was the leader this fall in Idaho's cross-country success story. The British harrier placed tenth in the NCAA finals. In addition, the Idaho runner performs well in track, both indoor and outdoor. Running is a year-around program for Henden.

That Henden will do well in the Portland fray is hard to dispute. Big meets and races are far from new to a man who has vied in some of the best, both here and abroad. Henden will probably surprise a lot of people in Portland, athletes, as well as officials.

Henden's accomplishment is but one of several honors the Idaho track program has recently reaped. A few years ago, Vandalville was a track-and-field nobody, but through the tireless efforts of Bill Sorsby and his successor, Doug Basham, Idaho is making its presence felt. It's another honor to Idaho's track program, and the men who have been responsible.
