No Class Officers Dear Jason:

"The Elimination of Class Officers" report states that threre are three resons for maintaining class officers: (1) training in democratic government, (2) providing social function, and (3) doing charitable work, and two reasons why these haven't been carried out successfully in the past: (1) lack of initiative and evaluation of duties by past and present class officers, and (2) lack of encouragement and support from the ASUI Executive Board.

Training in democratic govrnment is probably the best justification for class officers, but at the last Sophomore Extended Board meeting 14 out of 35 living groups were unrepresented. Webster's Collegiate Dictionary, fifth edition, defines confuse as "to mix or blend so that things cannot be distinguished." Webster doesn't include an example so I'll supply one the present political campaign.

I illustrate. Campus Union Party turned the "I' magazine over to Alpha Phi Omega to keep it "non-political" and then included the "I" magazine in its platform.

CUP prexy hopeful Bill Frates proudly expounded on CUP's interest in class officers and CUP member Tom Lynch's report on the pros and cons. Lynch, however, acted upon the request of the junior class officers, three of the four who are United Party members.

CUP likes to take credit for the Activities Council and Judicial Council's successes because CUP controls the present E-Board. Yet, Activities Council was the brain child of Jim Mullen, ASUI president two years ago and a United Patry man, and Dick Stiles, vice president the same year, a CUP member, They worked with Dean Decker and Charmaine Fitzgerald.

Judicial Council was proposed and outlined by Leo Taffolla, of the old Independent Party, and polished by Mullen, Mullen was elected because of the Judicial Council,

And, the present success is due to Merlyn Clark, Judicial Council chairman. Fred Warren, a United Party member, has the Judicial Council for his E-Board area of concern. Enough for CUP.

United's E-Board candidate Marlene Finney claims the student-recruitment film is ready for production. Miss Finney says it will be ready by next week.

Gordon Law, acting chairman of communications, whom Miss Finney has to see to make arrangements to make the film, hasn't seen her since Christmas.

Actually, there's talk about re-doing the film. The Library and Mines Building (and several others) aren't shown. Girls pictured are wearing skirts which extend to their ankles. Dewey Newman, now head counselor for the men's residence halls, was a member of E-Board when the film was taken.

United's platform says in section II: "The student should have an opportunity to review the present policies and regulations (of the University) . . ." Warren made a study of one of these policies in question, "conduct probation."

His report states: "The discipline of the student body is a University matter handled by the Office of Student Affairs and by the President of the University. This is not in the realm of student government."

And before Warren agreed to a deletion his report included: "This should not be an issue to campaign on."

United advocates an investigation be made of how student funds are spent. Jim Bounds, United prexy hopeful, has a "secret" report which he graciously revealed at Wednesday night's smoker to show United was already investigating. A similar report of where the $82 registration fee goes was explained in the Dec. 8, 1962, issue of the Argonaut.

And Clif Eldred has a platform. It's short, sweet and damn general. I can't say much until some one pins him down on the "Black Book." How will it differ from the old Vandal Organizations handbook? Is this something that a competent ASUI president would do as an ordinary administrative duty?

These are only a few of the weaknesses in the platforms.

They said United killed it and CUP supported it. It was a United-dominated E-A gradual encroachment on that power came with the election of CUP's Dick Stiles to the vice-presidency. Then Board that killed it, true. elected President of the ASUI on that issue. Thus fallacies in the candidates' reasoning and memory appear. Are they naive mistakes or deliberate?

A major fallacy is that whoever dominates E-Board is responsible for all of its actions. Many of the issues are near unanimous and party-line votes are few. A party can only take credit for those ideas it initiates, not those it finally carries out. Thus CUP deserves credit for the symposium idea despite what was said at the smoker Wednesday evening. But they do not deserve credit for establishment of the Judicial Council, or the Activities Council as they have claimed.

A long list of these statements could be presented. Some of them were so ridiculous that it wasn't worth taking notes on them. The candidates seem to be trying to fool the public. Whether they succeed or not makes little difference as 80 per cent of the votes to be cast are already decided.-J. M.

THE CURSE OF THE CAMPUS: NO. 2

As was pointed out last week, one would think that with all the progress we have made in the education game, something might have been done by now about roommates. But no. The roommate picture has not brightened one bit since Ethan Goodpimple founded the first American college.

(Contrary to popular belief, Harvard was not the first. Mr. Goodpimple started his institution some 75 years earlier. And quite an institution it was, let me tell you! Mr. Goodpimple built schools of liberal arts, fine arts, dentistry, and tanning. He built a lacrosse stadium that seated 102,000. Everywhen on campus was emblazoned the stirring Latin motto CAVEMUSSI—"Watch out for moose." The student union contained a bowling alley, a clock, and a 16-chair barber shop.

The student body, being drawn from the nearby countryside, was composed chiefly of Pequots and Iroquois who, alas, had no need of a barber shop. But I digress. We were discussing ways for you and your roommate to stop hating each other. This is admittedly difficult but not impossible if you will both bend a bit, give a little. I remember, for example, my own college days (Berlitz, '08). My roommate was, I think you will allow, even less agreeable than most. He was a Tibetan named Ringading whose native customs, while indisputably colorful, were not entirely endearing. Mark you, I didn't mind so much the gong he struck on the hour or the string of firecrackers he set off on the half-hour. I didn't even mind his singeing chicken feathers every dusk and daybreak. What I did mind was that he singed them in my hat.

To be fair, he was not totally taken with some of my habits either—especially my hobby of collecting water. I had no jars at the time and just had to stack the water any-old-where.

Well sir, things grew steadily cooler between Ringading and me, and they might have gotten actually ugly had we not each happened to receive a package from home one day. Ringading opened his package, paused, smiled shyly at me, and offered me a gift.

me a git. "Thank you," I said. "What is it?" "Yak butter," he said. "You put it in your hair. In Tibetan we call it gree see kidstuff." "Well now, that's mighty friendly," I said and offered him a gift from my package. "Now you must have one of mine." "Thank you," he said. "What is this called?"

"Marlboro Cigarettes," I said and held a match for him. He puffed. "Wow!" he said. "This sure beats chicken feathers !" "Or anything else you could name," I said, lighting my own Marlboro.

And as we sat together and enjoyed that fine flavorful Marlboro tobacco, that pure white Marlboro filter, a glow of good fellowship came over us-a serene conviction that no quarrels exist between men that will not yield to the warmth of honest good will. I am proud to say that Ringading and I remain friends to this day, and we exchange cards each Christmas and each Fourth of July, firecrackers. © 1903 Max Shulman

Wherever you or your roommate may be-on any campus in any city, town, or hamlet in any state of the Union-you will find Marlboros at your favorite tobacco counter-soft pack or flip top box.

Disciplinary Cases Few, Dean Says

Probably fewer than one percent of University students become involved in disciplinary cases, Charles O. Decker, dean of students, said in a recent interview.

In most cases of student discipline, Decker said, the Office of Student Affairs places the individual on a status of informal conduct probation rather than automatically referring him to a discipline committee. This is an attempt to spell out to him the kind of behavior the University expects of him.

Most of these cases, he said, involve drinking and the behavior that goes with it.

"It's not a major campus problem, however," he explained. "It's mainly a problem of underage drinking, of altering identification.

"I really feel that our living groups handle this problem very well. Living group and general functions are well handled. Of more than 2,000 persons at the Louis Armstrong dance, only one couple had to be ejected, and they were from another college."

There are three main disciplinary bodies handling cases forwarded from the Office of Student Affairs. The Men's and Women's Discipline Committee. each composed of three staff members and two students, and the newly created Student Judicial Council, made up entirely of students, six juniors and six seniors. The junior councilmen are au-tomatically on the next year's ed by the ASUI President with the senior councilmen.

The Discipline Committees presently handle most cases, alpected to take over some of them. Decker said the Judicial Council is just beginning to test itself, acquiring tradition through experience.

"In theory it is a good move in the evolutionary development of students accepting responsibility," he said. "If it proves itself, ney General Allan Sheppard, its areas of responsibility will be

SUB Sound-Off This Afternoon grees.

The second SUB Sound-Off, an Activities Councilsponsored open student forum on current topics, will take place at 4 this afternoon, Chairman Mark Brown said yesterday.

The first Sound-Off was held Tuesday with a large degree of success, Brown said. The event is held in the Bucket of the Student Union Building.

The forum's purpose is to let students express themselves publicly on any topic on which they have an opinion. In Monday's forum, topics ranged from a complaint about the lights

B meeting VOU We'll be on the campus on the dates listed below, ready to give engineering and science seniors information on spaceage careers in a dynamic industry.

If you are looking for a company offering assignments on programs of unique interest and career potential, you'll be interested in the advantages Boeing can offer you.

Boeing, for instance, is a major contractor on such advanced programs as the Saturn S-IC first-stage rocket booster, the X-20 Dyna-Soar manned space glider, the solid-fuel Minuteman ICBM, and the Bomarc defense missile system. Boeing is also the world's foremost designer and builder of multi-jet aircraft, including the eight-jet B-52H missile bomber, the KC-135 tanker-transport, the C-135 cargo-jet, and the famous Boeing 707, 720 and 727 jetliners. In addition, Boeing's Vertol Division is one of America's leading designers and builders of helicopters.

Research projects at Boeing are under way in such advanced fields as celestial mechanics, solid state physics, nuclear and plasma physics, flight sciences, space flight and propulsion.

Expanding Boeing programs offer exceptional opportunities to holders of B.S., M.S. and Ph.D. degrees in aeronautical, mechanical, civil, electrical-electronic and industrial engineering, and in engineering mechanics, engineering physics as well as in mathematics and physics. Assignments are available in Washington, Pennsylvania, Kansas, Louisiana, Alabama, California and Florida.

You'll work in a small group where individual ability and initiative get plenty of visibility. You'll enjoy many other advantages, including an opportunity to take graduate studies at company expense to help you get ahead faster.

Drop in to your Placement Office and arrange for an interview. We're looking forward to meeting you !

After long-awaited years, Idaho's reunion with athletic affiliation has become a reality.

Through the efforts of a number of dedicated individuals, Idaho and five other institutions finally have something that they can call their own. The benefits that everyone involved will reap should more than compensate for the efforts required in its conception.

A new league means, for one thing, a better crack at NCAA post-season tourneys. No longer will these six teams have to come begging to the Regionals officials for an at-large berth. The conference champion will automatically qualify for the event.

Athletic affiliation should result in greater attendance for all members concerned. There is an enthusiasm that a pennant race develops that no "big series" or "big game" can match. I have a feeling that turnstiles on the various campuses are going to see a lot more action as the years pass.

This association can be expected to have a positive effect on the so-called minor sports. The league will bring competition and play in tennis, swimming and the other sports to a high pitch. A pennant quest helps swimming as much as it does basketball or baseball,

The new league will bring added revenue to the schools involved, which in turn will up-grade recruiting and the quality of performance as a result. Attendance and revenue go hand in hand:

Of course, much remains to be done, but the major hurdle has been cleared. The league will be ready to go by the 1963-64 season in several sports.

There are a number of people who deserve a vote of thanks. A great deal of credit must go to the presidents, and especially to Idaho's own Don. ald R. Theophilus, who ran much of the interference for the creation of the conference.

A word of thanks goes to Sports Editor Harry Mis. sildine of The Spokesman-Review. It was Missildine who suggested naming the organization the "Big Sky conference." The name is quite fitting for the area that the various institutions comprise.

However, the major credit for the formation of the conference should justly go to Idaho athletic director J. Neil (Skip) Stahley. It was Stahley who went out in search of league status, developed the idea, kept it alive and worked tirelessly for its realization.

On behalf of myself and everyone else who will benefit from this man's labors, I would like to say, "Thank you, Mr. Stahley. Thank you so very much.'

Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. in the new SUB Ballroom. University President Donald R. Theophilus will be the principal speaker. Theophilus' speech will concern matters pertaining to the University. New WRA officers for the following year will be installed during the event. They include: president, Cox; vice-president, Donna Striegel; Secretarytreasurer, Jeri Ross; Public relations officer, Sharon Gygli; corresponding secretary
