Mancini Concert Starts At 8 Tonight In Gym

Skits To Kick Off Homecoming

Homecoming activities will begin on campus Oct. 18 with the presentation of "Vandal Victory Skits" in the Student Union Building at 4 p.m.

These short humorous skits presented by freshmen from all living groups on campus will be judged on the basis of presentation, originality, theme and participation.

Judged for this event will be: Jim Scheel, Interfraternity Council president; Barbara Clark, Panhellenic president; Carvel Whiting, ASUI vice president; Mary Lynne Evans, Executive Board member; and Mrs. Richard Farnsworth, assistant SUB manager.

Skit Trophy
The winners of the skit competition will be awarded a trophy for their living group. Mistress of ceremonies will be Jan Wendler, Gamma Phi, who is chairman of this committee.

Following this event, freshman girls attired in pajamas will parade through men's living groups at 6:30 p.m. Parents and students will end Friday's activities with a rally and fireworks at MacLean Field.

Each living group on campus, armed with a sign, will form individual cheering sections. Introduction of the Vandal football team and a talk by Coach Dee Andros will be high lights of the rally. A fireworks display will follow the rally.

Bands, marching groups and floats will make up the 1963 Homecoming parade down Moscow's

Art Or Guide? Unusual Map Hangs In SUB

A new and unusual map of the University has students and visitors using it for reference and artists calling it art.

Professor Alfred C. Dunn of the art faculty designed the map which is engraved on a 5 by 6-foot sheet of lead drawn from an Idaho mine. Special engineering work on the part of the University's physical plant was necessary to have the 200-pound piece of permanent art hung in the lobby of the new Student Union addition.

Prof. Dunn is nationally known for his water color work and illustrations for books and magazine articles. He teaches water color and commercial art at the University.

The unusual media, lead, which oxidizes and gradually changes colors, lends an artistic touch to the map. Dunn started on the project last fall and completed it this summer. He spent many spare-time hours carving the lines of the campus and its buildings into the lead with engraving tools. A slip with the tools could have meant starting over from the beginning.

main street Saturday at 9:30 a.m. Floats representing 30 living groups on campus will be decorated with the theme of "Vandal Victory" and will compete for three top positions in the competition and permanent house trophies.

According to Sherry Meyer, DG, float chairman, the floats will be judged on the basis of theme, originality and neatness. The winners in the float competition will be announced during half time of the football game.

Miss Meyer said, "This is one of the largest groups that has ever participated in the float competition."

Groups Build Floats
Living groups who will be sponsoring floats are: DG and SAE, Pi Phi and Town's Men Association, Hays and Campus Club, Alpha Chi and Upham, FarmHouse and Alpha Gam, Phi and Alpha Phi, Delta Chi and Kappa, Theta and Phi Delt, Shoup and Pine Hall, McConnell and Forney Hall, French House and Willis Sweet Hall, Delt, and Phi Tau and Tri Delta, last year's winners who are building the queen's float.

Bands To March
Ten high school bands from the northwest, the University of Idaho band, Vandalettes, and Spurs will march in the parade. Bands who will participate in the celebration are University High School from Spokane, Wash., Kellogg, Wallace, Mullan, Coeur d'Alene, Kamiah, Lewiston, Potlatch and Moscow.

Parents, alumni and students will gather at Neale Stadium, at 1:30 p.m. to watch the Vandals as they host the Tigers from the University of Pacific. Vandalettes, Idaho's women's marching team will entertain at pre-game activities.

E-Board Reviews Change Of Student Gym Entrance

A proposal by the Athletic Department to establish the door at the southeast corner of the Memorial Gym as a student gate for basketball was accepted by Executive Board Tuesday.

Tom Hartley, ticket manager, submitted the proposal in a written report, giving the following reasons for the request:

1. Crowd control by separating fee-paying students from the ticket-buying general public;
2. Prevent the appearance of long ticket lines caused by student congestion in front of the gym;
3. The need for a large, single entrance for students which could be opened early; and
4. A need for a central spot through which all card holders must pass so that checks can be made for lost and stolen ASUI cards, and a check for second semester validation of student cards.

Discussion was sparse before the members voted to accept the report submitted by Hartley, but lively discussion ensued about the lines of authority for and formation of a new Pep Band.

ASUI President Bill Frates provided by the ASUI. Johnston said music has already been obtained, and that he figured it would cost $150 to hire the student musicians and $50 for derbies and vests.

Pep Band May Get Paid
Johnston said the Pep Band members have not been paid before, but that paying each member about $10 for the basketball season of approximately ten games would reimburse them for a missed opportunity to play for another function, thereby making it easier to get musicians of good caliber to participate in the Pep Band.

"If these fellows prove themselves, it'll be an on-going thing and people will want to contribute (funds)," Johnston said. During the E-Board meeting, Bill Longeteig read portions of a letter from Charles O. Decker, dean of students, to Gale Mix, Student Union manager, saying that Decker did not favor allotting $72 for the distribution of ASUI and organization information by the "runner" system.

Runner Would Be Paid
The $72 would pay one person $2 weekly to distribute the information. (Continued on Page 5, Col. 3)

Few Tickets Left In ASUI Offices

Ticket sales for tonight's performance of Henry Mancini's twice academy award winning orchestra are going above average, Gale Mix, ASUI general manager, said Thursday.

A limited number of student tickets are still available in the ASUI office in the Student Union Building, Mix said.

By 4:30 p.m. Thursday, nearly 1,500 student tickets had been sold from the ASUI office. Other tickets are on sale in downtown Moscow and in Pullman outlets. No report had been received Thursday night of ticket sales in outlets other than the ASUI office.

The concert begins at 8 p.m. tonight in Memorial Gymnasium. Mancini will head his 40-piece orchestra through such selections as "Baby Elephant Walk" from the film "Hatari," "Moon River" from the film "Breakfast at Tiffany's," and "Peter Gunn" from the television series of the same name.

Old Time Hits
In addition to his better-known recordings, Mancini will lead the orchestra through such old time hits as "Stars and Stripes Forever." The concert will last two and one half hours.

Among Mancini's albums, some from the scores of television shows and films for which Mancini has provided orchestration, include "The Mancini Touch," "Mr. Lucky," "High Time," "Hatari," "The Blues and the Beat," "Combo," "Experiment in Terror," "Peter Gunn," "Mr. Lucky Goes Latin," "More Music from Peter Gunn" and "Breakfast at Tiffany's."

Mancini himself is one of the most interesting leaders in the entertainment world today.

Born In Cleveland
He was born in Cleveland, Ohio, but moved to Alliquippa, Pa., while a young boy. At the age of eight, Mancini took up the flute and at 12 began to play the piano.

After he was graduated from high school, he enrolled at the Julliard School of Music, but was drafted a year later. When he returned from the service he joined the Glen Miller-Tex Beneke Orchestra as a pianist-composer.

In 1952, Mancini joined the

Generals Visit ROTC

Lt. Gen. Frederic J. Brown, the new Sixth Army commander, and his deputy, Maj. Gen. John E. Theiner, visited the campus Tuesday morning for an inspection tour.

They called on Dr. D. R. Theophilus, University president, for a discussion of ROTC matters, before inspecting Army ROTC installations with Col. G. W. James, professor of military science.

Immediately afterwards, the two generals visited Washington State University, accompanied by Col. James and Dr. Theophilus, where they lunched with President C. Clement French of WSU.

music department of U - I Studio contributing to over 100 films including the "Glen Miller Story" and the "Benny Goodman Story."

Scored T V Hits
After leaving U - I Studios, he was hired to score the television series "Peter Gunn" which became an immediate hit.

The success was soon repeated with "Mr. Lucky" which was named instrumental album of the year by Billboard magazine.

Mancini is not afraid to experiment in setting up a score. He is allowed to work without restriction; his unorthodox orchestration has proved his prowess. In recent pictures he had experimented with an autoharp, an electric cello, a Japanese samisen, a piano tuned off key, a hoe-down fiddle and imported African instruments.

Mancini is married and they have a son and two daughters.

Coffee House Gets Name

"The Burning Stake" is the new name for the coffee house at 518 University Avenue. "The Stake," which is now in its second week, will be operating Friday and Saturday evenings from 8 to midnight.

The coffee house offers coffee, music and conversation on politics, economics, philosophy and religion. Campus musicians will be featured both nights about 10 p.m.

Last week "The Burning Stake" featured free coffee and songs by Skip Botsford, 1963 Blue Key Talent Show winner. Later in the evening songs like "Three Jolly Coachmen," "Green, Green" and "Sloop John B" came drifting out of the coffee house.

Daily Flights Cut From Six To Four

Securing a seat on an airplane out of the Moscow-Pullman Airport will be more difficult beginning Oct. 27 because the number of flights has been cut from six to four daily.

Maynard J. Jacobson, customer service manager for West Coast Airlines, said Wednesday that when F27 planes are introduced here the 27th, and the old DC3s phased out, wind and temperature conditions will play a large role in the success of the F27 service.

"We will not be able to accommodate as many people during the busy times (opening and closing of school and vacations) because with an F27 our average load will probably be about 25 persons, plus having two less flights.

Cut Flights Not Used
"The two flights which were cut are the least-used of the six flights," he said. "The only time we will really

ASUI Lists Talent Pool

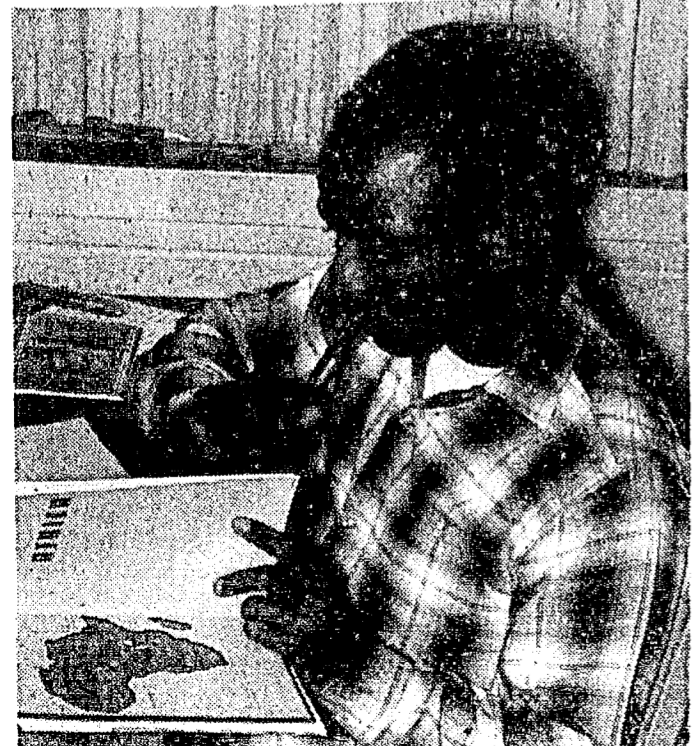

A talent pool for "members of any facet of the performing arts," artists, speakers and debaters is being formed to provide a centralized listing of people who want to appear either on campus or in the area, said Dave Soper, ASUI public relations director.

"The compiled listing will be distributed not only throughout the campus, but throughout the region as well" and will include people who will appear "either gratis or for remuneration," Soper said.

"The ASUI feels that showcasing talent is beneficial not only to the University, but to the individual as well. We feel that this is a service that should be established," he said.

Forms will be distributed to the living groups and made available at the ASUI office. The forms are to be returned to the public relations office, next to the ASUI office, by Oct. 18.

"If we get sufficient replies, we will list them alphabetically by type of talent or service," he said.

FOREIGN STUDENT OF THE WEEK — Ignatius O. Eze, an exchange student from Nigeria said that he has found American college life more difficult, scholastically, than he expected. He plans to return to Nigeria upon completion of his studies.

'Easy' Says—

College Ideas Unfounded

By DIANNE WENIGER
Argonaut Staff Writer
Ignatius O. Eze, foreign exchange student from Nigeria, has returned to the University after traveling extensively throughout the United States this summer.

Eze, who attended the University as a freshman last year, found that many of his preconceived ideas about typical American college life were unfounded.

"I had supposed that college students in the United States did very little work and achieved their degree quite easily after four years of goofing off, but this is not true, and there are actually more advantages to this educational system than the British," he said.

Former System Less Rigid
In the British system, which was the one used in Nigeria when he attended school, the program of study is less rigid, and credit for the course depends solely on passing the final exam. Here, Eze has found that it is necessary to keep up with daily assignments.

Although this is time-consuming, he feels that the final outcome is usually a fairer evaluation of what the student has actually learned. The educational opportunities for the student of the middle and lower classes are also much greater.

Another feature of American education which Eze found an advantage was the rapport between teacher and student.

No Close Relationship
"The English have a high opinion of themselves, and do not establish a close relationship with their students," he said. Eze found that, for him, one of the drawbacks of the United States was the emphasis placed on national affairs and national figures, instead of a more complete world news coverage. In order to tune in to the broadcasts of other countries, he became a ham radio operator.

"I had hoped to be able to tune into the programs of the Nigerian Independence Day on Oct. 5, but I was unable to," he said.

Discrimination Insignificant
Eze feels that discrimination is an insignificant factor which should not be allowed to besedge the nation, as the majority of Americans do not approve of it.

"Incidents concerning discrimination against me personally have been very slight, and I have not bothered me. Perhaps if I were an American and knew I would have it forever I would fight it," he remarked. However, he finds the questions of Americans regarding his native land both amusing and rather annoying.

They Talk As If . . .
"They talk as if we live in huts and beat on tom-toms," he said. This year "Easy," as he is known to his friends, has found that many of the difficulties he encountered when he first came to the U.S. have been overcome. For instance he has become adjusted to American food and developed a liking for pizza.

One problem that he had in this country at first was difficulty with American money.

"Whenever I bought anything I could only pay for it by opening my wallet and letting the clerk

Everyone Paying On Today's Replacement

Robert F. Greene, director of dormitories, threw some light on the dormitory situation today when he explained that persons paying board and room on a University dormitory are not only paying for that dormitory rent, but future University housing.

Although it may seem unfair to some students, that the women in Forney and Hays pay the same amount of room rent as the women in Ballard, the women in Forney and Hays are also paying for future housing at the University for the girls that live in Pine.

Confusing? Yes, the dormitory situation at the University and every other college in the nation is confusing. But with people such as Director Greene to see the situation through for us, we may rest assured that the dormitory situation is in the best possible hands.

Why do students pay uniform prices for all housing except co-ops? For one thing, they all do not. The one exception is the girls in Pine Hall who pay under $100 a semester for room rent, while other students in University housing pay $125. Other students pay standard rent.

In Director Greene's words: "Uniform prices for University housing are a common practice throughout the United States because of the long-range aspect."

The situation is simple — students now are paying a building fund fee to advance the dormitory situation at the University in the future. Persons living in a sorority or a fraternity do the same thing under the title "building fund fee." The fees are charged in a variety of ways, but it is still the same throughout campus — every living group charges for them.

Another Question About Housing

Other questions about University housing come up. For instance, why didn't the University foresee the coming influx of women students and prepare for the situation with more housing?

For one thing, the University isn't the sole determinant of when, and how, University housing should be constructed. First, the Board of Regents and the Federal Government analyze the assets, liabilities, prospective enrollment and other statistics of the University.

The Board of Regents then compares the needs for University housing to other needs on campus and determines which are the most necessary.

The Federal government analyzes the situation in detail and then determines whether they should make a loan for a new dormitory. They will not grant the loan without the full statistics of the University — including the statistics of the past, the present and the prediction for the future.

Why Isn't Stevenson Completed?

Another question that is raised often is, why wasn't the construction completed on Stevenson before the students came back to school so that 220 students wouldn't have to be housed in a bomb shelter.

For one thing, there was no reason to believe that it would not be. Construction of the dormitory was anticipated before school began. But, as with all construction projects, difficulties are encountered and the project was not completed.

Presently, although no contractors' dates have been made public yet, it is anticipated that the Lindley students will be moved in within a week and the Borah students moved in by the 25th. Of course, this is only tentative planning and it may take longer.

The point is — every effort is being made to make the situation easier for the Lindley and Borah students. The whole affair is unfortunate but the residents have met it with good faith and good-natured attitudes. They certainly deserve the compliments of their fellow students.

The entire housing situation is complex — too complex perhaps for the average mind to comprehend. But if you do have questions — the door of Director Greene's office is always open — why don't you ask him?

Bowers Pushes Small Museums

A nationally known anthropologist, Dr. Alfred Bowers, associate professor of anthropology, at the University, advocates the construction of many small museums to tell the story of the growth of communities.

Dr. Bowers, who recently dedicated the Moberidge, S.D., "Land of the Sioux" museum for the Smithsonian, said, "Rather than one large park to cover a huge area, local things should be stressed."

He pointed to the development of small museums along highway 12, from Moberidge to Portland, Ore. Much of the Indian culture is quickly passing from the scene, he said, and steps should be taken to preserve a bit of the history of each area. A small museum devoted specifically to the history of the community is the answer. "In working up a community museum, don't copy others. Tell your own story," he urged.

Join and Support

Dear Jason

Dear Jason:

I almost hesitate to comment on the recent letter of Mrs. Burnham and the so-called Benson Harding squabble over Elder Benson's open support of the John Birch Society. Such a "squabble" can easily be misunderstood by those not having the full story and, thus far, the full story hasn't appeared. The reason I'm hesitant about commenting on the case is that I, too, am LDS and as was so wisely pointed out, the LDS Church ought not get itself involved in "so political an arena."

Being in the possession of a few unmentioned facts, however, leads me to believe, correctly I hope, that I can cast some additional light on the situation. My information is first-hand and was obtained in a lengthy discussion with Rep. Harding on the matter earlier this year in Washington.

Objectively speaking, whether or not one agrees with Mrs. Burnham depends on one's opinion of the John Birch Society. I noted with interest that Mrs. Burnham used one of the pat arguments of the Society by inferring that all those who don't agree with the Society are in effect members of the "enemy" camp. They never hesitate to point out that they (the Birchers) are anti-communist and anyone not with them must necessarily be against them.

It is precisely this tactic that has driven Rep. Harding to the floor of the House. Harding makes no bones about the fact that he is a liberal, politically. This is amazing in view of the fact that his constituency must be considered basically conservative. Somehow, he has managed to survive and even win a second term. Opposition, however, is mounting. This I'm sure he expects. But what he does not expect, nor deserve for that matter, is the nature of a good share of the opposition. That opposition is centered among members of his own church (LDS) who violently disagree with the political philosophy of liberalism and who try to equate their views of conservatism with the LDS religious philosophy.

This is the crux of the whole argument: Elder Benson is a member of the Quorum of the Twelve, ruling body of the LDS Church. As such he is considered a general authority of his church and is widely respected in this capacity. He is also a man who has been extensively engaged in national politics since his appointment in 1953 as Secretary of Agriculture under Eisenhower. The problem involved is: When does Elder Benson speak as an ecclesiastical leader and when does he speak as a private citizen?

Lately, for some reason entirely incomprehensible to this writer, former Secretary Benson has allowed himself to be linked to the John Birch Society. In fact, his son, Reed Benson, is the Utah co-ordinator for the Society. Elder Benson claims that he is not a member of this Society, but fully supports them and must be considered as influential for the growth of the Society in areas predominantly LDS by virtue of his making statements such as "... (Welch) one of the greatest patriots in American history" and that the Society "is the most effective non-church organization in our fight against creeping socialism (one of his favorite phrases) and Godless communism."

Along with statements such as these Elder Benson has at various times stated that one's political beliefs should coincide with one's religious beliefs, and that they should both be basically conservative. This, then, is the tool that is being used against Rep. Harding. His conservative political opponents are trying to apply religious pressure, via Benson, to him. This he has protested to the First Presidency of the Church, the result of which was a public disavowal of the Society by the First Presidency.

Evidently Rep. Harding felt that his next recourse was to air the situation in public, as previous attempts along other lines had met with only limited success. This was his right as a citizen and as a Mormon. It was to be expected that Mrs. Burnham quoted Joseph Smith the way she did, since a favorite tool of all extremist groups has been to use quotes entirely out of context.

It is regrettable that the controversy involves a religious organization. Basically the argument is liberalism versus conservatism; concerning these, the church takes no official stand. More important is what the effects on Idaho are going to be in the coming years. It is this writer's hope that this issue will be pursued further in ensuing issues of the Arg.

A. C. Seeks Personnel For 7 Spots

Members and chairmen for seven Activities Council committees will be picked in interviews slated Oct. 22, Carvel Whiting, Council chairman, said Thursday.

Committees open for either members or chairman are the Jazz-in-the-Bucket, Coffee Hours and Forums, Personnel Recruitment, Public Relations, Off Campus Programs, Indoor Recreation and Arts and Crafts committees under Activities Council.

Interviews will be held from 8 to 10 p.m. Oct. 22 in several conference rooms of the Student Union Building, Whiting said. If more persons apply for positions than expected, interviews will continue the next night, he added.

Activities Council handbooks, which list each committee functioning under the Activities Council program and explains its duties, will be sent to each living group president the week before interviews are to be held, Whiting said.

The handbooks, which are modeled after Washington State University's activities handbook, were compiled by Activities Council director Barbara Clark. Included in the handbook are descriptions of each committee, a chart of the Activities Council structure and the tentative duties of a member of each committee.

Applications for committee membership or chairmanship may be picked up at the ASUI general manager's office in the Student Union Building.

Freshmen and transfer students who wish to discuss their guidance test scores with a student counselor should report to the Counseling Center and arrange for a conference.

A Rousing Victory

Nothing stimulates, or is so satisfying, to alumni and friends of a university as a good football team or a rousing victory.

Friends and alumni of the University of Idaho have that today, following the 32-8 victory over Fresno State in the opening Parents Day game Saturday at Moscow.

Not only was it a rousing victory, but it was the biggest score a Vandal grid team has run up in more than two years and it holds out promise that Coach Dee Andros, starting his second year, may win at least half his ball games this year.

Following WSU's loss to Texas Tech, it even has some fans talking about a victory over the Cougars at Pullman this year.

In the cold light of Monday, rather than the rosy glow of Saturday, it seems the better part of wisdom to take the games as they come — one at a time — and the Battle of the Palouse doesn't come up until Nov. 2.

But the Vandal team that a crowd of better than 8,000 saw Saturday looks ready and able to take the games as they come.

For the first time in several years, the Vandals have depth in every position, and Andros was able to send in two platoons of almost equal strength.

Also satisfying to fans was the way the Vandals hit, the way they blocked, the way they carried out their assignments. They caused apprehension only because of a pass defense that was loose at times, especially in the first half, but a little work should straighten that out.

Local fans also have reason to be proud of the play of Denny Alquist, the 214-pound guard from Mullan who is playing his last year for the Vandals. He was a standout in the line all afternoon.

Which leads to another observation that pleases the alumni particularly — the Vandal team this year is largely a home-grown affair.

A few years back it was hard to spot an Idaho or Inland Empire griddier in the lineup. Idaho, it seemed, was losing all its prep graduates to schools in other states, and had to go far afield to man its own team.

Not so this season. Idaho and the Inland Empire are well represented, and fans remember, too, that a good percentage of last spring's prep graduates are going to Idaho this season.

The fact that the University of Idaho appeals to Idaho high school graduates is cause for satisfaction — and this applies not only to athletes but to non-athletic students.

And the record enrollment at Idaho this year is proof of the academic standing Idaho does have.

After all, athletics is only part of a university's life, and the administration at the University of Idaho is well aware of that.

Visitors on the campus at Moscow last weekend could well be proud of evidence of growth at the University, reflected in the many new buildings that have been constructed, including the residence halls and new fraternity and sorority houses, the science building that is now in the process of construction, the new mines building, and the student union building.

The latter building is a magnificent, well appointed and efficiently operated structure that a university much larger than the one at Idaho could be proud of.

Old grads who remember the Blue Bucket Inn can be envious as well as proud.

The buildings, the enrollment, the football team, are physical evidences of the growth of the University of Idaho.

Not so visible, but just as impressive, is the manner in which Idaho has kept pace academically, despite the handicaps of low budgets and, until recently, an inadequate building program.

Idahoans have no reason to feel ashamed of the academic standing of the University of Idaho.

All this should serve, however, as a reminder to Idahoans that they have a responsibility to see that growth and academic standing are maintained at the University.

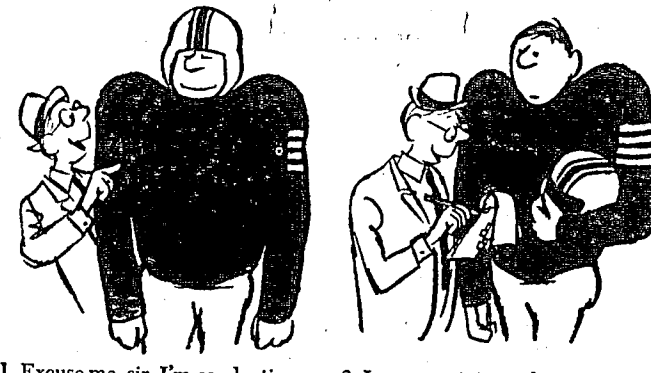

There still are inadequacies in the building program, as a tour of the campus will quickly prove.

There still remains the fact that the University must compete, salary-wise with other universities for faculty members.

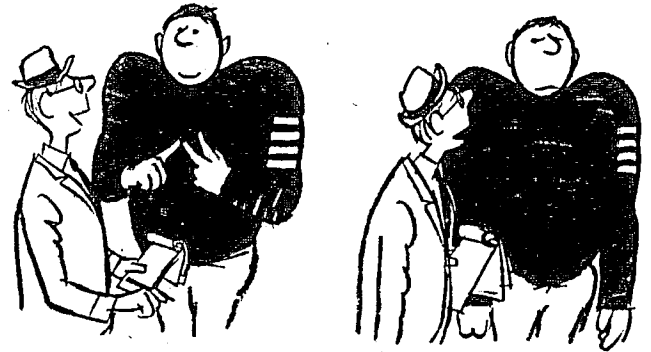

We have always been proud of what the University has done for Idaho — but we would not always be proud of what Idaho has done for the University.

Actually, we are in the process of catching up with the needs at Moscow. We can't relax until all those needs are met — and that day is still in the future.

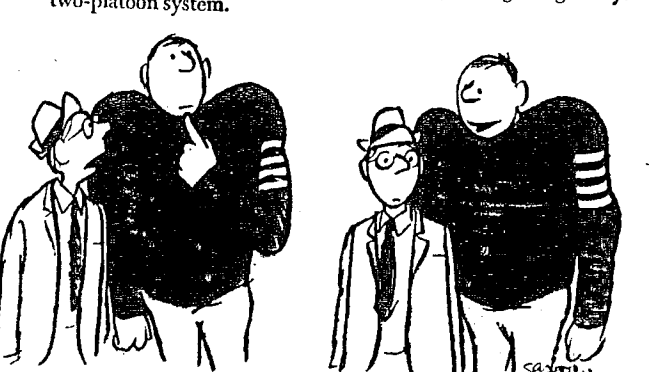

— Wallace Miner.

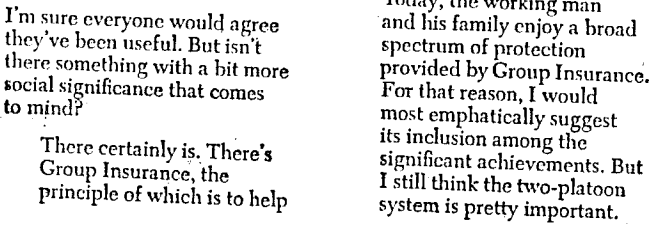

1. Excuse me, sir. I'm conducting a poll for the college newspaper. I wonder if I might ask you a few questions? Be my guest. Huh?

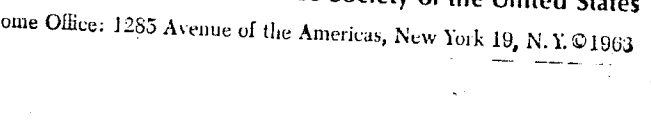

2. In your opinion, what are some of America's most significant achievements in the past 50 years? Huh?

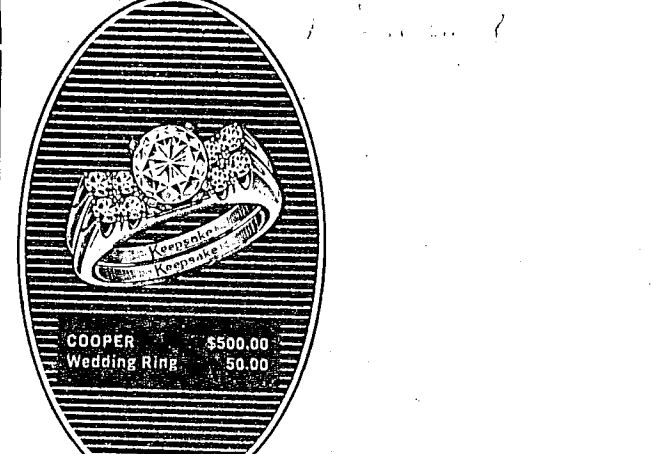

3. Let me put it this way. During the last half century what new ideas have led to important benefits for the American people? Well, uh — there's the two-platoon system. Now you're getting tricky.

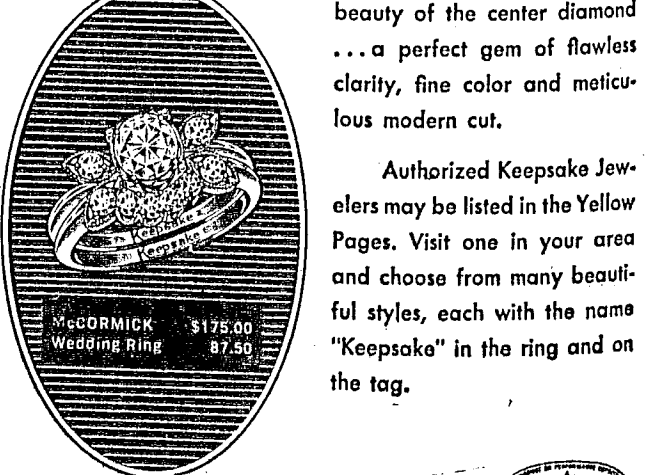

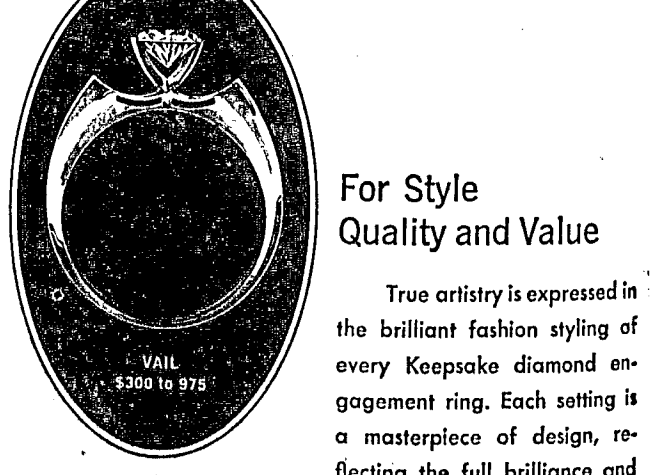

4. I'll rephrase the question. Since 1912, what developments can you think of that have made the lot of the working man easier? Now you're getting tricky.

5. Give it a try. Well, speaking off the top of my head, I might say stretch socks. I'm sure everyone would agree they've been useful. But isn't there something with a bit more social significance that comes to mind? There certainly is. There's Group Insurance, the principle of which is to help provide protection for those who need it most and can afford it least. Pioneered and developed by Equitable, it has proved most efficacious. Today, the working man and his family enjoy a broad spectrum of protection provided by Group Insurance. For that reason, I would most emphatically suggest its inclusion among the significant achievements. But I still think the two-platoon system is pretty important.

Tom Thomsen wanted challenging work

He found it at Western Electric

T. R. Thomsen, B.S.M.E., University of Nebraska, '58, came to Western Electric for several reasons. Important to him was the fact that our young engineers play vital roles right from the start, working on exciting engineering projects in communications including: electronic switching, thin film circuitry, microwave systems and optical masers.

Western Electric's wide variety of challenging assignments appealed to Tom, as did the idea of advanced study through full-time graduate engineering training, numerous management courses and a company-paid Tuition Refund Plan.

Tom knows, too, that we'll need thousands of experienced engineers for supervisory positions within the next few years. And he's getting the solid experience necessary to qualify. Right now, Tom is developing new and improved inspection and process control techniques to reduce manufacturing costs of telephone switching equipment. Tom is sure that Western Electric is the right place for him. What about you?

If you set the highest standards for yourself, enjoy a challenge, and have the qualifications we're looking for—we want to talk to you! Opportunities for fast-moving careers exist now for electrical, mechanical and industrial engineers, and also for physical science, liberal arts and business majors. For more detailed information, get your copy of the Western Electric Career Opportunities booklet from your Placement Officer. Or write: Western Electric Company, Room 6405, 222 Broadway, New York 38, N. Y. And be sure to arrange for a personal interview when the Bell System recruiting team visits your campus.

Meet Your Cinderella At Nickel Hop Saturday

By JOYCE ARTHUR
The clock struck eight. White uniformed attendants admitted the guest. Music could be heard in the background and the hushed girlish voices could be distinguished above the volume of the music. Anticipation was in the air. As the music and voices drew closer, the visitor looked about in bewilderment. There were so many new faces.

What should he do?

Choose a dancing partner or retreat to a corner for review of the situation?

Suddenly he sees his Cinderella and he whirls her away, followed by others who take his lead. The hours fly and the Prince Charming of the eve finds that the bewitching hour has arrived.

As he pays to maintain this night of enchantment, he smiles at the girl beside him who is going out with him. She is the girl he met at the Spur Nickel Hop.

Although this is only a fairy tale, this could happen to an Idaho male and female at the Hop.

Hop Becoming Tradition

This Nickel Hop, becoming a tradition at the University of Idaho, had its origin about 15 years ago when the Idaho chapter of Spurs gained the idea from a regional meeting in Missoula, Mont.

The adopted idea took its position as the Spur's major money making project of the year the next year and has maintained it ever since.

Before the Nickel Hop came to Idaho, the Spurs had sold Spurgrams and worked in conjunction with the "I" Club to maintain a concession stand at the games.

The first year that the Spurs sponsored the Hop they made $120 and in 1962 the sophomore organization made $585 from this endeavor.

This year's Nickel Hop will be Saturday from 8 to 10:30 p.m. in every women's living group on campus. Men students for the cover charge of a nickel can dance with the women of his choice and spend additional nickels for each 15 minutes he stays at a living group.

This function can serve two purposes, make money for the Spurs and give Idaho men and coeds a chance to become better acquainted.

Mortar Board Begins Mum Sale

Homecoming mums may be ordered from any Mortar Board member or from lists posted in every living group, Jan Riemann, off-campus, Mortar Board mum sale chairman, announced Thursday.

The lists will be picked up Oct. 17 and the flowers delivered early on the morning of Homecoming Oct. 19. The price of each mum is $1.50.

500 Annuals Arrive Daily

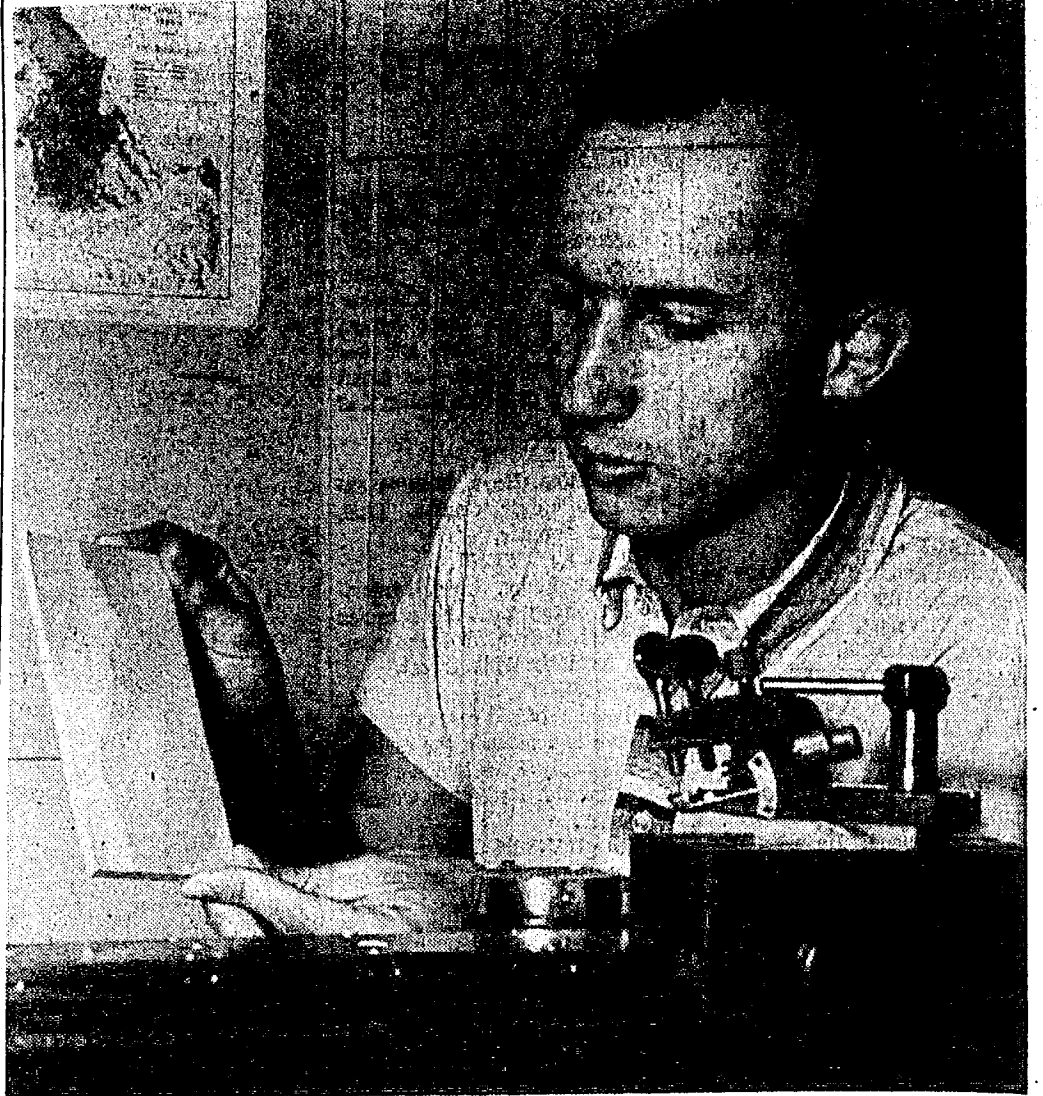

Copies of the Gem of the Mountains, the University yearbook, have arrived since Monday in quantities of 500.

"We're fortunate to have any 1963 Gems," reported Gale Mix, ASUI general manager.

A transfer carrying Tuesday's 500 books had an early morning accident near Lewiston. The yearbooks were quickly picked up by another truck. This truck stood ablaze in front of a Pullman dairy just a short time later. The protective box was scorched but the Gems were not damaged.

The unusual amount of color photography and art work in the Centennial edition made extra printing time necessary. Binding difficulties with Caxton Printers, Inc., publishers of the yearbook, forced a change in the original distribution date.

Gems have been shipped 500 at a time to simplify distribution. Soon after the college resident rush for yearbooks has leveled off, mailing processes will begin.

SCHOLARSHIP WINNER — James Eubanks, Sigma Chi, a senior in wood utilization from Boise, has won a Forest Clinic Foundation scholarship of $255 as a top student in the College of Forestry, Wildlife and Range Sciences. This past summer, he was selected to be a member of the student training program of the U.S. Forest Products Laboratory at Madison, Wis., a major research unit of the U.S. Forest Service.

AWS, WRA To Hold Picnic For All Women Tuesday

Fall picnics reach a finale with an all campus women's picnic "Coed Capers," sponsored by Associated Women Students and the Women's Recreation Association 5 p.m. Tuesday in the Arboretum.

Coeds will also have a chance to learn about women's organizations and to watch the WRA Folk Dance Festival.

The purpose of the picnic is to give women students, especially freshmen, a chance to meet other women on campus, said Carol Hussa, Hays, AWS secretary.

After the picnic the purpose of membership requirements and activities of Spurs, sophomore women's service honorary; Alpha Lambda Delta, freshmen women's scholastic honorary; Mortar Board, senior women's honorary; AWS and WRA will be explained.

This part of the program will be cut down on the usual fall visitations made by each of these groups to orient freshmen women.

The evening will be concluded by the WRA Folk Dance Festival at 6:30 p.m. on the tennis courts.

Eleven women's living groups are participating with dances ranging from Gustav's Skål, a Swedish dance, to a Fireman's American dance.

Dances will be judged on spirit, execution and originality of costumes. Each person in the dance earns ten participation points for her living group. Points will count for the WRA trophy to be awarded in the spring to the living group with the most points for WRA activities.

Groups participating are Alpha Chi, Alpha Phi, Campbell, Ethel Steel, Forney, French, Gamma Phi, Hays, Pine, Pi Phi and Tri Delta.

The festival was canceled last spring and then rescheduled for this fall to coincide with the "Coed Capers."

No women's living group will serve diner the night of the Caper. Each group's food treasury will give AWS and WRA 75 cents for each member of their group to pay for the picnic.

Coeds can wear slacks and those participating in the folk dance festival may wear their costumes.

Members of AWS legislature and WRA executive board will act as hostesses.

Idaho Forester Awarded Forest Clinic Scholarship

A University of Idaho College of Forestry senior, Jay Eubanks, Sigma Chi, has won a $255 Forest Clinic Foundation scholarship as one of the top students in Wood Utilization in the Northwest.

Eubanks received the honor on the basis of superior grades and participation in his field of forestry. Sophomores and junior college students in the Northwest are eligible for the scholarship. Eubanks shares the honor with another student from Montana.

His superior ability in wood technology and utilization technology, gluing wood seasons and the strength properties of wood used in construction also helped him achieve the honor.

This is the second honor for Eubanks within the past six months. He was the student selected to be a member of the 1963 student summer training program of the U.S. Forest Products Laboratory at Madison, Wis. The laboratory is a major research unit of the U.S. Forest Service.

The Forest Clinic Foundation was established in 1961 by the Northwest Wood Products Clinic and the Inland Empire section of the Forest Products Research Society. The organizations are made up primarily of timbermen located in Idaho, Oregon, Washington and Montana.

The scholarship is given to a deserving student pursuing a course of study in the field of forestry or forestry products manufacture.

Jim Faucher's behind the scoreboard

This weekend the Vandals are slated to face a very tough team — the University of Oregon Ducks. The Vandals and Ducks are even in one department only, and that is that the Ducks and the Vandals have the same win-loss record.

Idaho's total offense in their three games has amounted to 656 yards, in the same number of games the Oregon Ducks' total offense has amounted to 1221 yards. In the passing department, the Ducks have attempted 64 passes and completed 35 for 613 yards. The Vandals have attempted 35 passes and have completed 13 for 153 yards. In the fumble department, Oregon has had six fumbles and has lost three of these; Idaho has had 11 fumbles and has lost six to the enemy.

If one were to take a look at the statistics only, he might, and I say, "might," say that Idaho has a rough job ahead of them in Eugene this weekend.

The Oregon Ducks should be keyed up for this game. They have won their last two straight games. They defeated West Virginia, 35-0, last weekend. This game will also be their first home game of the year.

The Vandals could be the main dish for the hungry Ducks Saturday.

The final chapter in the Washington State-Iowa "missing down" incident was written Tuesday in a letter to Washington State Coach Jim Sutherland from the Muscatine, Iowa, Quarterback Club.

Quarterback Club President Art Miller told Sutherland: "Someone once said that football, in its rightful place, can be one of the most wholesome, exciting and valuable activities in which our youth can participate. For our money, with coaches like you at the helm, the game of football will stay in its rightful place."

Miller's letter accompanied a gold plaque mounted on hardwood to resemble the state. The inscription on the plaque read: "To Coach Sutherland, presented in respect of your display of sportsmanship and human understanding of the situation at the Iowa game."

Officials in the Washington State-Iowa game missed a fourth down play and awarded Iowa the ball when the Cougars were on the Iowa 25 with three seconds remaining to play. WSU and Iowa played to a 14-14 tie.

This column would be the last to say "Poor Washington State," but you can't win all of the time, and this time when the Cougars might have had a good chance to win, the officials blew the whistle. Many different theories were thought of to give WSU another shot at the Iowa squad so they could try for a field goal — none of these ideas materialized. So now Coach Jim "Suds" Sutherland has a plaque to commemorate the event. Isn't that just peachy?

In today's paper there appears the first in a "series" (?) of articles concerning the game of football. The main purpose of this series is to familiarize everyone, especially the female sex, about the finer points of athletics.

HERE'S MORE ABOUT — College Idea

takes the correct change," he said. The universal problem that almost all foreign students have in common, understanding fast-talking Americans, was also a difficulty.

"Now people complain that I talk English too fast myself," he said.

Before coming to the United States on the AID foreign exchange program, "Easy" attended missionary school, Christ the King College, and a school of forestry in Nigeria. His country, in conjunction with the U.S. exchange program, arranged for him to attend classes and do field study in Puerto Rico during the summer to apply what he has already learned. Upon graduation he plans to return to Nigeria.

HERE'S MORE ABOUT — E-Board formation to each living group instead of relying on the pigeon-hole system used in the past, or using the U.S. mails.

Mailing the information, which includes E-Board minutes and reports, Activities Council announcements and organization information costs more than $2 weekly, he said.

"The Executive Board has a responsibility to get this information to the students by the most expedient means possible," said Dave Soper, public relations director, noting also that there are not enough pigeon-hole boxes for each living group to have one.

The Exec Board voted to give the responsibility for selecting a mailman to Jay Sherman, subject to E-Board approval.

The present schedule calls for the championship match to be played on Oct. 30.

Football Schedule
The football schedule for Monday's games in the independent leagues includes: field 1, Chrisman Hall vs. Town Men's Association; field 2, Upham Hall vs. Shoup Hall; field 3, Willis Sweet Hall vs. Borah; field 4, Gault Hall vs. McConnell Hall; field 5, Chrisman Hall 2 vs. Town Men's Association 2; field 6, Upham Hall 2 vs. Campus Club.

Frosh Team Conditioning

Continuing with practice sessions, the 31 frosh football men are working out on general fundamentals and conditioning this week, with some emphasis on offense and defense.

According to Coach Bud Riley, "The men are a very outstanding group this year for attitude and desire."

The first game will be Oct. 25 against the University of Washington at Seattle. Nov. 2, Columbia Basin will challenge the Vandal Babes at Pasco, and Nov. 8, the traditional Shrine sponsored game will be held against Washington State University at Moscow. Proceeds will be sent to the Crippled Children's Home in Spokane.

SUB Movie Program Has New Changes

This year several changes have been made in the SUB movie program, said Ron Post, Sigma Nu, chairman of the SUB movies committee.

In the past there have been many complaints due to the distracting noise from the projection room. Because of the remodeling done in the SUB this summer, the projection room is now completely sound-proofed.

In addition, this year, the committee is experimenting with color travelogue short films on Europe and the Orient.

Three additional movies, besides those which appear on the Campus Calendar, have been scheduled for this semester. They are "All the Young Men," Nov. 1; "Wackiest Ship in the Army," Nov. 8; and "The Mouse That Roared," Nov. 22.

Because of the conflict with the Henry Mancini program this weekend there will be no film shown.

"The ASUI and the SUB activities Council would like to see this year mark the beginning of a trend in popularity of on-campus movies," said Post. "The shows for the year have been selected from the most popular of recent Hollywood productions."

McCONNELL HALL WILL CONFISCATE all property belonging to non-residents of the hall if said property is not removed by October 20.

Adult Educators To Meet About Internationalism

Delegates from universities and colleges in the western United States and Canada will be guests of the University this weekend when the Northwest Conference of the National University Extension Association convenes at Coeur d'Alene Country Club on Hayden Lake.

Sponsored by the University's Division of Adult Education and Summer School, 50 to 60 representatives from the University of Washington, Oregon State University of Washington, University of British Columbia, University of Idaho, Eastern Washington State College, Western Washington State College, Central Washington State College, University of Nevada, Utah State University and most of the colleges in Idaho will attend, according to Dr. Raymond Kooi, conference director.

The theme of the conference is "Internationalism and Adult Education." Three major speakers have been engaged. The keynote address will be given Sunday evening by Dr. Abbott Kaplan, associate dean for university extension, University of California, Los Angeles. His address is "The Role of Adult Education in Underdeveloped Countries."

Lunar Charts Given To U-I

What's new on the moon? Any University geography student should be able to tell by consulting a large number of lunar maps, charts and relief models given to the school by the Army Map Service Corps and the U.S. Air Force. The Bureau of Naval Weapons also provided 2,800 aerial photos for study.

"We use the materials as navigational training devices," said Dr. Harry Caldwell, associate professor of geography. "This is an expanding field and we want our students to be prepared for it."

Idaho's Vandals Go Duck Hunting In Eugene Saturday

Booster Club Awards Given

Jim Moran, who according to head coach Dee Andros, "played the best game of his career," and Mike Whiles were picked as the recipients of the Moscow Vandal Booster Club and Lineman of the week awards.

At the Tuesday meeting, the Boosters listened to a scouting report of the Oregon Ducks by frosh coach Bud Riley followed by a preview of this year's frosh team.

While Riley doesn't feel that we have a "great" frosh squad, he thinks this year's team will contain a larger number of prospective varsity players than in previous years.

The game film of Idaho vs. Missouri was then shown after which Moran and Whiles were picked for the honors. Moran was a stand out on defense as he broke up power sweeps time after time. On one occasion he dispersed five blockers and still made the tackle on the ball carrier.

Whiles also played well on defense and was credited with some fine offensive blocking against the very mobile Missouri line.

Webfoots Have Good Speed Says Frosh Coach Bud Riley

Idaho's Vandals, sporting a 2-1 record for the season, will travel to Eugene, Ore., this weekend to face the University of Oregon Ducks. The Ducks this season also have a 2-1 mark and will face the Vandals in their first home game of the year in Eugene.

The Ducks are expected to still be hot from their 35-0 walk over West Virginia, and the Vandals are recuperating from a 24-0 defeat from the University of Missouri Tigers in Columbia last Saturday.

Frosh football coach Bud Riley, who has seen Oregon play twice this year, gave his scouting report at the Vandal Booster Club meeting last Tuesday. "Oregon," reported Riley, "has tremendous speed (all members of the starting backfield run the 100 in under 9.9) which poses a real running threat and they are a fine passing team as well." This statement prompted Idaho head coach Dee Andros to comment: "In view of this, Oregon must be contained far more than Missouri, which is satisfied just running over you."

Berry "Best In West" Riley, who watched the Ducks defeat Stanford and lose to Penn State, called Bob Berry the best quarterback in the West this season. An excellent passer, Berry is also a "take charge" guy and will call about 50 per cent of Oregon's plays from the line of scrimmage, using "audibles." Berry has narrowly missed establishing a single game Oregon total offense record in his two most recent outings. The nifty Duck signal-caller was good for 238 yards against Stanford and came back with 237 yards in the win over West Virginia.

The Oregon single game mark is 239 yards, set by George Shaw against California in 1952. Renfro To Start

Also in the game for Oregon will be All-American halfback Mel Renfro. Renfro leads the Webfoots in kickoff returns, with a 23-yard average, and in scoring with a total point mark of 19 points. Joining Berry and Renfro in the backfield will be halfback Larry Hill and either Lu Bain or Bill Youngmayr at fullback.

The Vandals invade Eugene with a typically big, rough line and enough offensive firepower to give Oregon's tenacious defense a solid test. Up front, Idaho Coach Dee Andros points with pride to such performers as guards Don Matthews and Denny Alquist and tackles Max Leetzow and Jim Moran.

Idaho Backs

In the Vandal backfield will probably be Gary Mires directing the quarterback spot and running the Idaho Wing-T offense, halfback Rich Naccarato and fullbacks Galen Rogers and Mickey Rice to supply the running punch of the Vandals.

Oregon will be shooting for its 12th straight win over the Vandals and Oregon Coach Len Casanova will be out to keep his personal record of 11-0 against the Moscow crew unblemished.

Biology Group To View Film

Phi Sigma, biology honorary, will hold an open meeting 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in room 6 of the Home Economics Building.

Earl Larrison, associate professor of zoology, will narrate his 16 mm colored film "A Year at Kingbird Lake."

Larrison studied the biological life of the small Kingbird Lake, north of Spokane, Wash., throughout the year to produce his natural history film.

VANDAL CO-CAPTAIN — Don Matthews has become a very familiar sight to Vandal fans in the three games the team has played. Matthews finished his rookie season on the first team and has been one of the top guards around for the past two years. The 202 pound senior is from Amesbury, Mass.

Varsity Track Meet Slated

The Varsity cross-country team will face Washington State University Saturday, at Pullman, for the opening meet of the season. Representing Idaho in the forthcoming season will be Bernie O'Connell, Nils Jebens, Gunther Amtmann, Louie Oviesolas, Les Beck and Nick Wetter.

Last season Paul Henden placed ninth in the NCAA championships at East Lansing, Michigan. As a whole, the team placed tenth. According to Coach Doug McFarlane, "Paul Henden is one of the best in the nation for long distances. Dick Douglas will be great in short distances if his foot is healed from last year."

The meet against WSU being the first of the season, McFarlane "does not expect a lot out of the man because of the short period of getting in shape. They should hold their own though. They've always been able to compete in cross country quite favorably with WSU. We haven't had a great deal of time for practice due to the late starting date of the fall semester."

During halftime at Homecoming a cross country meet will be held with WSU and Gonzaga.

The following week Idaho will again travel to Pullman to meet WSU. Nov. 2 the Vandals travel to Spokane for the Inland Empire Championships.

Later in the season, the AAU championships will be held in Chicago.
