H. Mancini Gets Warm Reception

Approximately 4,000 persons packed Memorial Gymnasium Friday night to hear Menry Mancini and academy award-winning 40-piece orchestra play his best selling selections and medleys of tunes by Peter Rose and Victor

The two hour concert was loudly applauded by the University of Idaho - Moscow - Pullman audience and ended in a standing ovation and four encores for Mancini.

"I'd like to play the theme of Holly - Go - Lightly's Japanese neighbor in "Breakfast at Tiffany's," Mancini said as he began the performance. "He was played by Irishman Mickey Rooney if you remember, luckily I don't cast the players, I merely write the music."

As the concert progressed, Mancini not only played the hits from his best selling records, Young.

"The irony about the whole thing is, Young was nominated for an academy award 22 times and when he finally won, he wasn't around to pick it up. So as a tribute to Victor Young, wehis outstanding hits."

Sandwiched between "Holiday for Strings" and "Golden Earrings" Mancini showed the versatility of Young, as well as Mancini's orchestra by playing the theme from "The Stripper." As Mancini introduced the selections from "Hatari" he said: "You might remember that Elsa Martinelli had three friends that she led in a parade. And so, dedicated to my three little elephants at home, whereever they may be, we'd like to play "Baby Elephant Walk."

At one point in the program Mancini proved to the crowd that he was a pianist as well as a director as he sat down to the keys to play last year's emy award winning song, "The Days of Wine and Roses.'

In introducing his academyaward winner from the previous year Mancini said, "And now I'd like to play the tune that will probably send my three little elephants through college." Mancini formally closed the

Golden Fleece By Jason

Barry Nelson, president of United Party, and Arlen Marley, president of Campus Union Party, met in the Argonaut offices with Kip Peterson and Jason Sunday night for an informal discussion about campus politics in general,

It seemed to be the general concensus that there were too many activities on this campus—something Jason has felt for a

But the problem is simple-where do you cut? Most of the ASUI activities are necessary to maintain an interest in the ASUI and make it function. And, as Marley stated, one of the purposes of activities is to develop the leadership of the individuals that are going to lead the country in years to come.

"You can't learn leadership from books," he said.

But as Miss Peterson pointed out - their proper place on campus has been exceeded by the number of activities. It's pretty difficult for class officers or even Executive Board for that matter, to completely rearrange the clubs and activities. Most of them are private organizations, most of them are worthy. And, most of them don't require the participation of everyone on campus.

As the discussion progressed, however, some solutions did appear. For example-why have two big weekends in the fall -Homecoming and Parent's Day? Why not combine them into one?

Certainly there will be some complaints, there always are if you cut something out, because it just may appeal to someone. However, if Homecoming and Parent's Day were combined the solution would be almost apparent—only so many activities could be held that weekend and the others should be abolished.

Here is a suggested list of the activities that could be cut during these weekends:

- 1. Skits for Homecoming spirit
- 2. Quartet Contest for Dad's Day 3. Posters for Homecoming Rally
- 4. Pajama Parade

During the busy Homecoming week, living groups are busy preparing floats for the Homecoming parade. We feel that the floats, although expensive, add to the Homecoming spirit and should be maintained. It takes time to construct them, but by cutting a few other activities there would be time to work on the floats.

For example, the skits for Homecoming spirit, the posters for the Homecoming rally and the pajama parade should all add pep to the Homecoming rally. However, they require so much time to dream up the skits, construct the posters, and make outfits for the pajama parade that by the time the game and rally come up, people are so tired they don't have any spirit.

The Quartet Contest for Dad's Day is a nice program - but instead of cluttering the busy weekend, why not incorporate the quartet contest with songfest? A few individual songsters included with the groups might prove nice variety.

However, even if Homecoming and Parent's Day are reorganized that won't do us much good this year. And, it won't provide a platform for the class officers to run on. So Marley and Nelson suggested some other Items that might be eliminated that the class officers could accomplish.

Frosh Week and Holly Week are traditions on campus. They are nice affairs but they end up the way Homecoming and Dad's Day do. There is so much going on that no one has time for, and consequently many of the activities lack participation.

- 1. Legs Contest,... Frosh Week
- 2. Treasure Hunt, Frosh Week
- 3. Wreath making and distribution, Holly Week 4. Caroling, Holly Week

The Legs Contest during Frosh Week is O.K. But it isn't really beneficial enough to warrant the time spent by the organizers and the girls who participate. The Treasure Hunt during Frosh Week is senseless. No one really participates in it except the people who do the organizing and the people that the organizers influence to

During Holly Week the Sophomore Class is overrun with making cludes Pat Muldoon, Phi Delt, and Ron Galbraith, off-campus, wreaths, that most houses don't place on their front door because operations officer; Dick Wil-special assistant. they would ruin their door decorations they are being judged on. liams, TKE, personnel officer; Every house goes caroling anyway, or most of them. At any rate Ross Simmons, Beta, material times during the school year to every living group is besieged with serenades and song practices officer; Bruce Vickerman, off-allow experience at both comduring that week and they don't really need to go caroling with the Sophomore Class.

The old arguments about class spirit and holding the class together as a unit are always apparent during the campaign. But the fact remains that there is too much to do throughout the year and by cutting out some of the activities that aren't as worthwhile supposedly their main reason for being here.

What would class officers do and what would they campaign on if some of the activities were cut from their week?

In the first place, there needs to be an activities booklet published monthly on this campus, with a description of each activity that is having tryouts during the month, the time of the tryouts and the description of the activity.

This booklet would eliminate many impromptu house meetings at noon to nominate a candidate for queen contests, ROTC sponsors, Angel Flight and various other activities. Every activity would almost be required to schedule these things ahead of time and give the living group a chance to organize their schedules and give the living group members more frée time.

Money for the booklet could be obtained from the money spent on the activities being cut, the money spent mimeographing flyers to living groups, and the costs of mailing some of the information.

If the class officers prove themselves worthy of holding an office during the next election, or for that matter prove the office worthy of existing for some other reason than a stepping stone to bigger and better things, we feel that some of these suggestions will be considered.

Progress is being made, simply because the presidents of the two parties took the time to get together and make some concrete mutual suggestions. We are optimistic about the next campaign - hope we're not overnight. Last July 1 the name change took effect, giving the institution a name that truly exemplified what Idaho State has represented for several years; a university in fact, but without a proper name. This long term transition doesn't mean that the name change hasn't already had a direct impact on the school.

The first and most readily apparent statistic showing the impact of the name change is the record enrollment for this semester. President Donald E. Walker points out that the record enrollment of freshmen not only represents a greater number, but these students also set a record by scoring the highest average score in their ACT tests in the school's history... an indication that many of the higher caliber high school graduates chose to come to Idaho State rather than an out-of-state university because the new name embodied the same representation the out-of-state universities have held.

The size and growth of the physical plant during the past few years has also helped Idaho State climb into the university bracket.

President Walker emphasized the growth of the physical plant by pointing out that while this campus had added a number of new buildings very recently and has definite plans to build more in the near future (Fine Arts Building, Student Health Center, Women's dormitory), other institutions of all sizes across the country have experienced more or less a drought in this area.

This growth has had to parallel the growth of the student body, which now places Idaho State within the group of 246 colleges and universities in the United States with more than 3,000 students. The total number of four-year accredited institutions is 1,129.

The fact that Idaho State is now a university should attract some of the more than 3,200 students from Idaho attending Utah universities. President Walker points out that a continuing attraction of a highly qualified faculty has been given added impetus. The job of selling a college or

Idaho State didn't become a university university to a prospective faculty member is made easier when the institution's name travels ahead of its representative. The word, university, sticks in a person's mind easier than college and will often prompt a faculty member to find out about the institution, rather than passing it off as one of the hundreds of colleges that CAN NOT offer the same opportunities as a university. providing, of course, that the university can live up to its name—as Idaho State

> With offerings in four colleges— Liberal Arts, Education, Business and Pharmacy—leading to six different under graduate degrees in 39 major fields; eight masters' degrees in 14 major programs; and a number of professional areas, such as nursing, denial hygiene and speech hearing therapy, Idaho State does live up to its name as a university.

In addition to the acadmic offerings it is important to note that Idaho State is fully accredited on a regional and national basis and ranks among the top schools in the nation in at least one area—pharmacy.

A third area in which Idaho State hopes to capitalize with its new status is the obtaining of grants from outside

Moth of these agencies consider most carefully institutions which are of a size and nature to assure a reasonable completion of the research projects involved. Thus, if the university name is truly backed up by the institution in what it offers, the name indicates to granting agencies that the school has faculty members capable of doing research, that is multi-purposed, and that it is progressive and growing.

Over-all, Idaho State University is basically the same school that has served Idaho for the past several years. The name is different, and the results of this change have already begun to be felt. It is hoped that in the future students will take more interest and pride in what the school stands for because of what it represents.—ISU Bengal.

Here We Go-Again

We're not alone in having class officers with no solid basis for existence -or indeed in having class officers who have to scratch to find a campaign platform with more meaning than just additional activities for themselves and a handful of other "leaders", to work on.

We agree with the last sentence-"A class officer is nothing more than the owner of a prestigious title that requires little, if any, meaningful work." added 'meaningful' because our officers do find jobs—dances, legs contests, wreath- making.

The class primary elections this Thursday mark the beginning of another year of campus politics at the The turnout for these elections in the past has been notoriously poor. While making, slogan shouting, and bandwagon noise, the end result is nearly sickening.

For what do the class officers do after their election? hardly anything. The presidents of the classes sit in the Student Senate as regular members, the treasurers collect and keep track of the $1 per person class membership money, the secretaries write notes, and the vice presidents do practically noth-

A few attempts at class activity have been seen in past years, notably the "June in September" campaign by the class of 1964—a singular success for this year's seniors.

But other than isolated examples and the senior breakfasts the classes as such do very little.

The Greek organizations, activityminded as they are, practically run the class elections. The independent vote is small, because the interest in class activity by the independent is equally made worthwhile by the establishing of worthwhile goals, they will be left to Greek popularity seekers. For, as it stands now, a class officer is nothing more than the owner of a prestigious title that requires little, if any, work.—Arizona Wildcat.

WORDS: THEIR CAUSE AND CURE

Today let us take up the subject of etymology (or entomology, as it is sometimes called) which is the study of word origins (or insects, as they are sometimes called).

Where are word origins (insects) to be found? Well sir, sometimes words are propegnames which have passed into the language. Take, for instance, the words used in electricity: ampere was named after its discoverer, the Frenchman Andre Marie Ampere (1775-1836); similarly, ohm was named after the German G.S. Ohm (1781-1854), watt after the Scot James Watt (1736-1819), and bulb after the American Fred C. Bulb

There is, incidentally, quite a poignant little story about Mr. Bulb. Until Bulb's invention, all illumination was provided by gas, which was named after its inventor Milton T. Gas who, strange to tell, had been Bulb's roommate at Cal Tech! In fact, strange to tell, the third man sharing the room with Bulb and Gas was also one whose name burns bright in the annals of illumination-Walter Candle!

The three roommates were inseparable companions in college. After graduation all three did research in the problems of artificial light, which at this time did not exist. All America used to go to bed with the chickens, and many fine citizens were, alas, severely injured falling off the roost. Well sir, the three comrades-Bulb, Gas, and Candlepromised to be friends forever when they left school, but success, alas, spoiled all that. First Candle invented the candle, got rich, and forgot his old friends. Then Gas invented gas, got rich, bankrupted Candle, and forgot his old friends. Then Bulb invented the bulb, got rich, bankrupted Gas, and forgot his old friends. Candle and Gas, bitter and impoverished at the ages respectively of 75 and 71, went to sea as respectively the world's oldest and second oldest cabin boy. Bulb, rich and grand, also went to sea, but he went in style-as a first-class passenger on luxury liners. Well sir, strange to tell, all three were aboard the ill-fated Lusitania when she was sunk in the North Atlantic. And strange to tell, when they were swimming for their lives after the shipwreck, all three clambered aboard the same dinghy! Well sir, chastened and made wiser by their brush with peril, they fell into each other's arms and wept and exchanged forgiveness and became fast friends all over again. For three years they drifted in the dinghy, shaking hands and singing the Cal Tech rouser all the while. Then, at long last, they spied a passing liner and were taken aboard.

They remained fast friends for the rest of their days, which, I regret to report, were not many, because the liner which picked them up was the Titanic.

What a pity that Marlboros were not invented during the lifetimes of Bulb, Gas, and Candle. Had there been Marlboros, these three friends never would have grown apart because they would have realized how much, despite their differences, they still had in common, I mean to say that Marlboros can be lit by candle, by gas, and by electricity, and no matter how you light them, you always get a lot to like—a filter, a flavor, a pack or box that makes anyone—including Bulb, Gas, and Candle-settle back and forswear pettiness and smile the sweet smile of friendship on all who pass!

Renfro did a good job. He completed two passes and ran the ball for gains on two keeper plays.

Many of you who read the Spokesman-Review Sunday may have discovered that the paper couldn't give Wednesday: field 1, Lindley enough praise to Oregon while hardly mentioning Idaho Hall vs. Upham Hall; field 2, at all. The headline read "Oregon Routs Idaho 41-21 Willis Sweet Hall vs. Town Men's Association; field 3, Gault true, but the University of Idaho does reside close Hall vs. Shoup Hall; field 4, to Spokane, and I don't see how it could help the spirit McConnell Hall vs. Borah; field of the team and the school by saying this. So what if 5. Lindley Hall 2 vs. Upham its the truth? No one can tell me that in the practice Hall 2; field 6, Gault Hall 2 vs. of being objective which every newspaper should be, that some type of pride or honor should not be given

After the game Vandal Coach Andros commented that it was "Our best offensive showing of the year." The Vandals also took to the airways and did a fine job. In their three previous games the Vandals had a total of 153 yards gained on passing. In the Oregon game they gained 109 yards on passing. Even a Math 9 student can figure out that that is only 44 yards difference. It looks like quarterback Gary Mires discovered Vern Leyde. Mike Monahan discoverd Bill Scott, and Dee Andros found some passing quarterbacks.

Yes, Oct. 12 was a day for discoveries, and for you who don't know or can't remember, it was also the day Columbus discovered America.

The Vandal's opponent next weekend the University of Pacific, got beat Saturday. Fresno State College did the trick, 29-7. The Vandals did a pretty good job on Fresno State when they played them in the first game of the year, defeating them 32-8. Next weekend is the Idaho Homecoming. The Vandals should be in top shape for the game, and the fans should be too. I don't mean that type of shape! Show the school spirit and when you go to the Homecoming Dance Saturday night the Vandal record will be 3-2.

VANDAL BOOSTERS There will be a meeting of the Vandal Booster Club, Saturday morning at 10:30 a.m. in the New Idaho Hotel, Vandal Booster Club Treasurer John Thomas announced Monday.
