'Peace' - Motif Of Concert

By KIP PETERSON
 Argonaut Associate Editor
 Peace — quite a theme for a concert, but it was perfect for Sunday's Vandaleer concert in light of the recent death of former President John F. Kennedy.
 Although, as Glen R. Lockery, director of the Vandaleers noted, the theme of peace was chosen long before the events of the past few weeks, it has a timeliness for the campus.
 "Vision of Peace," the only song actually relating to the theme of the concert, was sung without accompaniment by the 60-member choir. "Vision of Peace" ends:
 "Let all nations be gathered together, and let the peoples be assembled.
 "Violence shall no more be heard in the land. . . And the ransomed shall return, and everlasting joy shall be upon their heads. And sorrow and sighing shall flee away . . ."
 Candles — Plus Peace
 Candles flanking the Vandaleers symbolized this year the quest for peace. Every year the candles take on a new significance for the concert in addition to their historic and traditional significance as an illustration of the relationship of God to man and of Christ's mission to mankind.
 Candles in front of blue-lit Christmas trees leading to the Vandaleers, silhouetted against the deep gold velvet curtains, are part of each Vandaleer Christmas concert.
 What changes every year is the setting, mood, and format remain the same, the music and quality change yearly.
 Last Year
 For example, last year the concert featured an antiphonal effect (somewhat akin to stereo). By having the choir sing from either or both sides of the gym and the floor, with the instrumentalists remaining on the floor, the audience got a singularly charming effect.
 However, that same concert showed insufficient practice and polish of the instrumentalists.
 This year the choir remained stationary. This may not be as spectacular a presentation as last year's, but it was less confusing to the audience and did not detract from the quiet, reflective, yet happy frame of mind of the audience.
 Instrumentalists Good
 Also, this year's instrumentalists added significantly to the Vandaleers' effect.
 How? Start with Jeff Grimm's trumpet accompaniment of the baritone aria sung by Winston Cook, off campus, and Jim McConnell, FarmHouse, during "Christmas Oratorio" which was a highlight of the program. Also, the oboists' accompaniment during other solos of the "Christmas Oratorio" was a definite addition to the solos — despite the fact that the oboists had not gone on the Vandaleers tour Dec. 11 and 12 and consequently had not had the practice with the Vandaleers that Grimm had had — and the fact that the oboe parts were intricate and difficult.
 Picking out these people does not mean that others on the program were not equally good — over-all this was a much more polished program than last year's.

200 Attend Sing-A-Long With Christmas Carols

More than 200 students participated in the all-campus Sing-A-Long, which was held in the SUB Ballroom Sunday night.
 The program was sponsored and planned by the religious groups on campus, but was extended this year to all students on campus as an addition to the traditional Holly Week activities.
 During the evening there was sing-a-long participation from the crowd and special feature numbers by four folk singing groups.
 The four groups participating in the program were Karl Elge and Mike Stanger, off campus; Skip Botsford, off campus; The Deacon Street Three, featuring Bob Bushnell, Rich Hall, and Al Eiguren, SAE; and Judy Manville, Pi Phi.
 The groups sat in a circle and each group led two Christmas carols. During the other part of the program they sang

Authorized Parking Is Announced

Students who plan to leave their cars on campus during Christmas vacation are instructed by the Operations Council to park them only in authorized areas. Streets must be clear in order to facilitate snow removal from the streets.
 The four authorized areas are the following: the parking lot at the corner of West Sixth and Line streets, the area across Third Street and north of the prefabs (intersection of Third and Line), parking lot east of the SAE house and north of Sweet Avenue, and the West Seventh parking lot, back of the Gamma Phi Beta house.
 If it snows, cars parked in unauthorized areas will be towed to authorized areas and the student owners will be charged for the towing costs. The University will not be responsible for any loss or damage to moved vehicles.
 Unauthorized areas which should be cleared include all University parking lots, behind all dormitories and the following streets in the campus area: Sixth, Seventh, Idaho, University, Sweet (behind Blake and Deakin), Deakin, Blake, Elm, Ash, Line, Pine and Rayburn.

No. 23 Is Last In Fall Of '63

No Argonaut will be printed on Friday.
 Today's issue is the 23rd Argonaut to go to press in the closing months of 1963.
 Argonaut staff members wish you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Chris Hunt Queen Of Soph Week

Sophomore Holly Days ended Saturday with the crowning of Chris Hunt, Forney, as queen by Kathy Baxter, DG, last year's queen.
 Outstanding sophomores were also announced at the dance intermission. They are Gerald Tell, Shoup, College of Engineering; Bob Bushnell, SAE, College of Letters and Science; Steve Schmidt, FarmHouse, College of Agriculture; Fred Brackebusch, off campus, College of Mines; and Marcla Knutsen, Houston, College of Education.
 The Lambda Chis announced the winners of their door decoration contest. The Alpha Chis won in the women's division with a Christmas tree made of individual colored circles. The Theta Chis won in the men's division with a door with a stained glass window affect.
 Other finalists for Holly Queen were Cathy McCloud, Alpha Chi; Ann Thompson, Alpha Phi; Julie Joslin, Kappa; and Lorna Kipling, DG.
 The "Gentlemen of Note," a band from Lewiston, furnished the music for the dance from 9 to 12:30 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom. Women's hours were extended until 1:30 a.m.
 Other events in the week included the style show in which all contestants for Holly Queen modeled formal, semi-formal and classroom wear.
 The sophomores caroled on Thursday night after which the finalists for Queen were announced. Hot chocolate and donuts were served to the carolers.
 Other activities were the presentation of wreaths to living groups and the Christmas Carol Sing-Along, a new addition to Holly Week this year.
 General chairman for the week was Harold Sasaki, Phi Tau, class vice president. Other chairmen were Ken Johnson, Phi Delta, dance; Robert Gorman, Shoup, band; Carolyn Ravenscroft, Ethel Steel, and Duane Golcochea, DEI, decorations; and Rich Hall, SAE, pictures and intermission.
 Julie Joslin, Kappa, programs, chaperones and invitations; Kent Kleinkopf, Sigma Chi, Jan Cochran, DG, and Cary Ambrose, Pi Phi, style show; Larry Wilcox, Kappa Sig, queen; Mary Bjostrom, Alpha Gamma, and Bill McCann SAE, wreaths; Leslie Snyder, Phi Tau, and Penny Craig, Campbell, caroling; and Tim Flood, Fiji, pre-dance ticket sale.
 "ALUMNI ROUNDUP"
 The Alumni Office sends out 16,000 copies of its quarterly publication the "Alumni Roundup."

WITH ADORATION — The Theta Chis decorated their door in the form of a stained glass window with the Nativity scene. They won first place in the men's division of the Lambda Chi door decoration contest.

Placement Begins Tutoring Service

The Central Placement Service at the University has recently added part-time student employment and a tutoring service to its full-time employment registration.
 Sidney W. Miller, placement coordinator, said that the expansion was due primarily to the desire of the Placement Office to become a central agency for the University in employment placement.
 In addition to expansion in the placement program, it is also being reorganized for greater efficiency. The filing system of students registered is to be entirely revamped into a smoother and more easily accessible system.
 All students now registered with the Placement Office for part-time or full-time employment must re-register by second semester. Names of students in the areas of part-time, full-time and tutoring employment will be re-catalogued.
 At present the students are now registered on a green form. The re-registration will transfer the information to large white file cards for easier reference.
 The tutoring service, one of the new additions, will require students who feel competent to do tutoring in a specific field to register at the Placement Office. The forms must be accompanied by a permit signed by the department head or employing dean in whose field the student will be tutoring. The list of potential tutors will then be filed into the system and will be available to persons desiring such service.
 The part-time student employment file will also be available to Moscow businessmen at their request, Miller said.

Library Sets Vacation Hours

The Library has recently announced that they will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. during the Christmas Holidays during the week and will be closed Saturdays and Sundays, Christmas Day and New Year's Day.
 Hours are:

 Dec. 28-29—Closed.
 Dec. 30-31—8 a.m.-5 p.m.
 Jan. 1—Closed.
 Jan. 2-3—8 a.m.-5 p.m.
 Jan. 4-5—Closed.
 Jan. 6 — Resume Regular Hours, 8 a.m.-10 p.m.

Residents Want To Remain in Pine

Residents of Pine Hall dormitory for women, voted almost unanimously in a recent meeting to remain in the dormitory second semester.
 President D. R. Theophilus, Financial Vice President Kenneth Dick, Director of Dormitories Robert F. Greene, and Dean of Women Marjorie Neely, questioned the girls as to whether they would like to move into other dormitories second semester.
 The girls voted to keep Pine Hall together as a group, even though it appears they could be taken care of in other dormitories.
 President Theophilus announced after the voting, that the girls would be allowed to remain in the dormitory second semester.
 Dick said that the decision by the girls came as somewhat of a surprise regarding the amount of derogatory discussion about the necessity of utilizing the old dormitory.
 No decision has been reached about the necessity of utilizing the dormitory next year, Dick said.
 "We're trying to settle on how many additional spaces will be needed with women compared with men," he said.
 The dormitory has a capacity

Panel Probes U-I Image

Three students and a faculty member will probe the "University Image" at 6:30 Thursday evening over KUID channel seven.
 Dr. A. W. Helton, professor of plant pathology, will be joined by Barbara Clark, Kappa; Bob Bushnell, SAE; and Carvel Whiting, ASUI vice president, on "Probe."
 Last year Dr. Helton lectured high school students and service organizations throughout the state in conjunction with the Land Grant Centennial.
 Helton is also a member of the National Academy of Science, and has, for the past few years, participated in the science program visitations for Idaho.

FCC Gets Petition; Ed-TV Net Closer

A state-wide educational television network may be a step closer with the filing of a petition with the Federal Communications Commission for an educational television channel by Idaho State University.
 Idaho State filed a petition earlier this month, to reserve Channel 19 for educational television in the Pocatello area.
 Herb Everitt, director of radio-television services at ISU, said that he expects an FCC decision within the next 60 days.
 The educational TV station at ISU is part of a state-wide network plan which was proposed to the last legislature. Other stations in the network will include the University station, KUID-TV, and one to be established at Boise Junior College.
 "We hope to have the network completed by the fall of 1968," Gordon Law, acting head of the Department of Communications here and a member of the Gov-

KUID-FM Gets Go Ahead—Began Broadcasting Friday

Nearly two years of planning and rebuilding transmission equipment culminated Friday when KUID-FM, the University's radio station began broadcasting at 2 p.m.
 Signals transmitted from the station should be strong for an area in a 30-mile radius of Moscow, said Jim McElhaney, station program director and instructor in radio-TV.
 "We received notification that a strong signal was received in Pomeroy, Wash.," he said.
 "The station received a 'go ahead' from the Federal Communications Commission Friday about 11 a.m. and began broadcasting recorded music at 2 p.m. An application to the FCC for broadcasting clearance was made about six weeks ago.
 "We possibly could have started earlier, but being concerned with quality we wanted to make certain that station personnel could operate in an effective and efficient manner," said Gordon Law, acting head of the Department of Communications and station manager.
 The station will be student operated under faculty supervision, according to Law.
 Nine students who have qualified for FCC third class licenses, allowing them to operate radio transmission equipment under supervision, will operate the station under the supervision of Law; Station Engineer Cecil Bondurant, instructor of radio-TV; and McElhaney.
 The nine student operators are Paul Schneider, Lindley; Gerald Peterson, Gault; Roger Snodgrass and Grayson Gibbs, Sigma Chi; Ben Goddard, Theta Chi; Rick Wilhite, Lambda Chi; Todd Shelton, Buzz McCabe and Warren Board, all off campus.
 An additional student, Walter Johnson, off campus, is chief student engineer.
 Regular programs will begin Jan. 6. Until then, recorded music will be broadcast from 2 to 10 p.m.
 Beginning Jan. 6 uninterrupted background music will be broadcast from 2 to 7 p.m. and taped feature programs and special music programs including jazz and folk singing, will be on the air from 7 to 10 p.m.
 The taped programs will include some produced at the University and others from the National Association of Educational Broadcasters, Canadian Broadcasting Company, Radio Netherlands, the French Broadcasting Company and the British Broadcasting Company.
 KUID-FM is broadcasting 91.7 megacycles on the radio dial.

The Golden Fleece

By Jason

And . . . ?

"We Wish You a Merry Christmas, We Wish You a Merry Christmas, We Wish You a Merry Christmas and . . . ?"

The last line of the traditional Christmas song has many endings. However, this year it appears that the ending has taken on a new, and rather vulgar, twist.

" . . . and Please Buy Our Beer!"

It is true that Christmas is becoming more commercial . . . "just as sure as x belongs in Christmas." The situation has been cussed by aesthetes, praised by capitalists and rationalized by realists.

There seems to be no real answer. Everyone has an opinion. Everyone is critical — except of course, when they, themselves are involved.

Oh, well, it's Christmas and who feels like being philosophical. Everyone seems to be in good spirits and full of Christmas cheer.

However . . .

There are students on campus who seem to be a little absentminded and who fluctuate between strained attitudes and jolly spirits.

Why? Because they're getting hitched!

You may think you have a pretty good knowledge of campus "leaders," their names, their positions. But just wait until after Christmas!

Your Student Body president will no longer be Bill Frates — but Bill Frates Witherspoon. No, he's not changing his name to that of his bride's when he marries Dec. 28, but he is changing his name.

Also, Exec Board member Dave Lindsay, who is also getting married Dec. 28, will graduate at semester and will be replaced by Larry Nye, Phi Delta, the next in line of votes last spring.

Yell Queen Janie Modie, also getting married Dec. 28, will no longer be Janie Modie, but Mrs. Forde Johnson.

And, Jason, herself, is jumping on the Dec. 28 bandwagon. She will no longer be Karen Smith, but Karen Smith Stroschein (had a hard time spelling that last name.)

So fellow students, when you return after Christmas, you're not just suffering from that New Year's Eve hangover . . . things are confused!

So Long

For years now, the Argonaut has followed a policy of running some kind of mushy Christmas editorial in the last edition before vacation begins.

Usually the line runs "have a merry Christmas, drive safely, and that jazz." Or "good will to all men and peace on Earth" and that sort of thing.

We figure that all this stuff is okay, but it's a little repetitious. So this year we're going to be different (we're the newspaper that dares to be different).

Right now all we can think about is getting the Hell out of here Thursday night or Friday morning and not coming back until we have to.

We're thinking of getting home, hitting the rack, and not getting up until 1 p.m. every day. We're thinking of falling into physical and mental lassitude which we won't break until the last day of vacation.

We're thinking about all the goodies we'll eat when we get home and how good it will be to get away from all the frat brothers and hall mates we have to live with nine months out of the year. We're thinking about how much better we will like them after we've been away from them for a couple of weeks.

We're thinking that the 600-mile drive from this end of the state to the other doesn't look like too much of a hardship in view of the comforts of home that are awaiting us.

We're thinking of how nice it will be when we don't have to roll out of bed in the morning for an 8 a.m. class and how good it will be to erase lit, poli sci, English, math and biology from our minds until after New Year's Eve.

We're wondering if we'll ever want to come back. —M. B.

Accidents Delay Return Of Students

Two of three students who were injured in automobile accidents during Thanksgiving are recuperating at home and one of the two will not be able to return to school until next fall.

Miss Betty Gabica, a freshman from Middleton, who suffered two broken legs, two broken arms and a broken jaw in a one-car accident near Middleton, will not return to the University until next fall, Mrs. Harriet Cummerford, Forney Hall housemother, said Monday.

Mrs. Cummerford said that she had received a letter from the girl's mother Monday which stated that Miss Gabica is recovering, but will be in the hospital for three months, thus being unable to re-enter the University until fall.

Another accident victim, Steven Mead, Delta Sig, is recovering from a fractured back which he received in a separate accident in Boise the same day of Miss Gabica's. A fraternity brother, Mike Smith, who was injured in the same accident, said that Mead is at home in Des Moines, Iowa, and will be back after Christmas.

Smith received a broken arm in the accident, but was able to continue going to school.

My Column

By Mark Brown

I couldn't help wondering, after I read an editorial in a student newspaper about a campus television show concerning student immorality, whether or not the particular topic — women's regulations — was classified as immoral or moral.

What confuses me is the fact that the series is dubbed "student immorality."

This leaves open to question, in the case of the last show, whether the staff and panel considers women's regulations immoral or do they consider women immoral?

Taking the latter possibility first, one can conjecture a campus full of scarlet women, sent from towns and cities throughout Idaho for a little moral rehabilitation at the University of Idaho.

These little Scarlet, who know no better, are whipped into acceptable social shape by the wholesome halls and houses into which they are placed on arrival at the campus.

Each hall or house is under the care of a case worker, sometimes called a "housemother." Each housemother tries her level best to prevent her precocious charges from pursuing a course similar to ones they were sent to school to change.

All housemothers' activities are coordinated by the Office of Student Affairs which is a scaled down version of Jane Adams' Hull House.

Let us assume the converse or former possibility.

We have a campus full of Joans of Arc who are battling a restrictive octopus which is dedicated to the proposition that all girls cannot be trusted past 1 a.m. The girls, who come to the University with an education foremost in mind, are placed in houses or halls under the care of a warden, sometimes called a housemother. Each housemother is required to make all the girls conform to the restrictive rules which are laid down by the chief warden in the Office of Student Affairs.

These rules are designed to interfere with the girls' personal freedom so that they will leave as frustrated and immoral as they are when they arrive.

al as the means they have to devise to get around the restrictive rules.

At this point it might be wise to ask ourselves what immorality actually is. In my opinion, immorality or its converse, morality, is somewhat of an intangible quality. When one attempts to label a person as moral or immoral, he must have a clear definition of what he is talking about.

Confusing the situation further is the fact that society has immorality of all sorts. One can find sexual, spiritual, verbal, intellectual, temporal, political and commercial immorality to mention only a few.

Should one say that if a person is not immoral that he is moral? Or, conversely, if a person is moral that he is not immoral?

Can a person be moral in one aspect and immoral in another? If so, how does one decide into which category he falls?

The implicit assertion in the "student immorality" series is that students are either moral or immoral. By what standards are they judged?

Where do we begin? Shall we start with the assumption that students are immoral and work away from it or will we say that students are moral and try to prove that they are not?

If we take either assumption, we have two courses of action. We can try to prove that we are right or try to prove that we are wrong.

A panelist would be at no loss for subject matter because all moral things, taken in their converse, are immoral.

"Student immorality" is a generalization that, to me, requires a definition. Does "student immorality" refer to the moral character of the student as an individual or does it refer to the actions of an individual in his role as a student.

Taken in the first sense, "student immorality" might imply that all of an individual's actions count under this category while the second aspect implies that only those actions connected with being a student are counted on the morality score-board.

Russian Influence in U.S. Elections

Khrushchev was asked in 1960, after the late president was elected, what he thought of Kennedy's election. He said in effect that he was a Democrat and so was Kennedy, so he was happy.

The importance of Khrushchev's reply is not whether he is a Democrat, rather it is that he wants to see a Democratic president in the White House. This fact brings us to an important conclusion: Khrushchev will do what he can to insure, or at least to help, bring a Democrat to the White House. And, he could do a lot more about it than we think.

Why a Democrat?

The question that follows is: Why would Khrushchev rather have a Democrat win the election?

The simple answer — because the Democratic leaders are generally more internationally-minded and easier to deal with than their counterparts, the Republicans.

But, now, does Khrushchev have the power or influence upon the results of the elections, and if so, what are these powers and how would he use them?

Going back to the Cuban crisis last November, we saw the late President obtain his highest popular support. This high popularity was due mainly to the late president's determined handling of the crisis that was created by the Russians.

No Missiles, No Crisis

Had there not been Russian missiles in Cuba, there would not have been a Cuban crisis at the time and the Gallup poll would not have shown the late President at the climax of his popularity. If the presidential election had been held at that time, there would have been no doubts about President Kennedy's re-election.

Even though the Russians at the time of the sending of missiles to Cuba were not thinking in terms of the presidential popularity — they were interested in getting some political and strategic gains — their action, nevertheless, influenced Americans and made them hail the president.

At Any Time

The Russians could at any time create an international crisis. The field is wide open and the troubled spots are numerous. They could make a crisis in Berlin, or Cuba, or South Viet Nam, or in many other places. They could Sunday.

The weekend convention, which will be held in the SUB ballroom, will feature major political figures, including the State chairmen of the two parties. They, with two other guests whose names have not yet been released, will serve on a panel Saturday morning. The politicians will concern themselves with the principles and fundamentals of the two parties, and will feature rebuttals.

Other aspects of the convention include a keynote address, work on campaigns, and platform and resolution committees. Final elections will take place Sunday.

Seminars will be scheduled this spring in Lewiston, Moscow and Coeur d'Alene, on Idaho's new pre-convention primary system, if ICEP can make the necessary arrangements, Engman said.

Air Force Honors 11 Cadets

This year the Air Force ROTC announced 11 cadets from the 180th cadet group as Distinguished Air Force ROTC cadets. Each year the University participates in the Air Force ROTC Distinguished Cadet program.

The 11 cadets, all enrolled in Air Science IV, were chosen because they:

1. Possess outstanding qualities of leadership and high moral character.
2. Demonstrate leadership ability through achievements while participating in recognized campus activities, both curricular and extra-curricular.
3. Have a standing in their academic and military classes which warrants designation as "distinguished."

The Distinguished Cadets are permitted to apply for an appointment in the regular Air Force.

The men who have been selected are considered by the Air Force ROTC to possess the abilities, qualities and experience required by the Air Force.

Foreign Students Speak To SIEA

Foreign students will discuss the education systems in their countries at the Student Idaho Education Association meeting 7:30 tonight in the Student Union Kullyspell Room.

Students participating in the panel will include William Kahwa-Ching Ferg, off campus.

Students participating in the panel will include William Kawamba, Lindley, and Hwachung Feng, off campus. Kawamba is from Northern Rhodesia and Feng is from Taiwan.

Those who attend the meeting will have a chance to ask questions of the students on the panel. At this meeting students can pay their dues for the year.

A January meeting is planned to include the operations of the Placement Office at the University.

Chartered Bus Cancelled

The lack of enough people to fill a student-chartered bus to Boise for Christmas vacation has caused the cancellation of the bus arrangements, according to Gale Mix, ASUI general manager.

By the sign-up deadline, noon yesterday, only 13 people had signed up to make the trip, Mix said. At least 38 people were needed.

The student-special bus was a project of the ASUI and the Associated Women Students.

Dear Thanks

Dear Jason:

This letter is to extend the appreciation of the Idaho Association of Student Councils. The organization officers and myself wish to thank you for the fine manner and the wonderful facilities that you made available to the Association for their sixth annual meeting the last of November.

Not only did we find this facility to be ideal for our use, but we found the hospitality of the students, yourselves, the people at the Union and University, and from the high school at Moscow to be wonderful.

We hope that sometime in the future we would again wish to bring the conference to the Northern end of the State that we might again avail ourselves to the use of the Student Union there at the University.

Let me again repeat how much we appreciated your help, your making the facilities available to us, and the wonderful rapport that existed between the students, the sponsors and your organization.

Glen M. Manion
Executive Secretary
Idaho Association of Student Councils

In the second case, immorality might be construed as missing classes, not doing assignments or thinking evil thoughts about instructors.

If so, the University must be overflowing with immoral students.

Xmas Parties Decline With Coming Vacation

Vacation is drawing nearer and with it the last week of Christmas parties, firesides and dinners. Living groups this weekend were hosts to firesides after the basketball game Friday night and the Vandaleer Concert Sunday night. Many women's living groups have saved this last week to hold house big and little sister firesides and to become acquainted with one another again after the hectic schedule of Christmas parties, dances and other Christmas observances.

guest at FarmHouse last week. On Wednesday evening he prepared an Indian meal for the men of FarmHouse.

TRI DELTAS SLATE SISTERS' FIRESIDE Martie McCullen was initiated in membership this weekend. Dress dinner Sunday was held in her honor.

The Tri Deltas will hold their annual big and little sister fireside tonight. Sophomores will hash for dinner and a gift exchange and other entertainment is planned following dinner.

SOPHOMORES SURPRISE ALPHA PHI PLEDGES Alpha Phi pledges were surprised Friday morning when they found the Christmas tree that had been decorated by sophomores after hours Thursday evening.

GAMMA PHIS HOLD HOLIDAY PARTIES The annual Christmas exchange was held with the Sigma Nus and the pledges recently had an exchange with the Lambda Chis.

Gamma Phi hashers and cook Mrs. Wingrove, were honored during the hasher party Sunday. Each was presented a gift.

Member of the month is Mary Gladhart and pledge of the month is Janet Cox.

The Sigma Nus recently serenaded the Gamma Phis in honor of the pinnings of Nancy Yount, Mary Ellen Glodowski, and Marilee Rowland. Barbara Reay was serenaded Monday by the SAEs for her pinning to Dick Henry. The Gamma Phis also received a Christmas serenade from the Kappa Sigs.

DELTA CHIS HOST CHRISTMAS FIRESIDE The Delta Chis held a Christmas fireside after the Vandaleer concert Sunday evening.

Pledges had an exchange with the DG pledges and a grubby dinner exchange with the Alpha Chis.

Plans are underway for the Pirates Dance which will be held Jan. 18.

FARMHOUSE HOLDS ANNUAL EXCHANGE

The annual Christmas dinner exchange and fireside of the Tri Deltas and FarmHouse was held Thursday evening. After dinner the time was spent dancing and decorating the Christmas tree.

After the game Friday, FarmHouse serenaded their advisors, cook and associate members. After carolling they attended firesides at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John McMullen, assistant professor of botany, and Dr. and Mrs. Edson Peck, professor of physics.

FarmHouse held a fireside after the Vandaleer Concert Sunday night. Mallikarjuna Rao, graduate student from India, was a house

WITH THIS CROWN — Chris Hunt, Forney, is crowned Holly Queen by Harold Sasaki, Phi Tau, Holly Week general chairman at the Holly Dance Saturday night. The sophomore dance was held in the Student Union Ballroom from 9 to 12:30 p.m. Women's hours were extended to 1:30 p.m.

Idaho's Royal Line Homecoming Holly Dolly?

Idaho does possess a royal line — when it comes to the choosing of Homecoming Queens.

If a coed captures the title of Holly Queen, she is destined to become the next year's Homecoming Queen.

Will the newly crowned Holly Queen, Chris Hunt, Forney, be the next Homecoming Queen? This question can only be answered by fate or male decision next fall. A hint about the outcome of next year's contest might be surmised from the following statistics.

In 1959, Toni Thunen, Hays, became Holly Queen and in her junior year she was selected as Homecoming Queen to preside

Lacking Xmas Presents? Search In Lost & Found

By JOYCE ARTHUR Argonaut Society Editor Having problems finding items listed on your Christmas list? If so, here is a suggestion that might help that migraine headache that is developing from frustration to clear up.

There are a few items from the lost and found drawer in the ASUI office which might solve your problems.

Has your girl-friend been complaining that she has nothing to wear? A pair of black high heels in the ASUI office might be the answer. Give them to her and then worry if they fit. It's the thought that counts.

Your girl-friend has been hinting that she wants a ring for Christmas. The ring in the lost and found items may be a little large, but it has a pretty red stone.

Gag Ends Friendship? You have a friend that likes to argue and you don't want to give him a gag because it will end your friendship? Inside the lost and found drawer is a receipt book full of debate cards. He may not be interested in the topic but he may get the hint.

You have always had a desire for soft romantic background music on a date but you don't have a car. Here's the answer, a transistor radio that you can carry anywhere.

You have intellectual scientific friends that you want them to become interested in other fields or "know they exist." Give them the journalism text found in the list of Lost and Found items.

What For Roomie? You just haven't been able to decide what to get your roommate for Christmas? She could always use white gloves. White gloves will go with anything. But the white gloves don't match. Who knows one of them might be a mate to one she lost several years ago and forgot about?

You are still confused and you don't feel that the answer to your problems can be found in the lost and found department. There is a checkbook lying there that someone has just lost. With this you could solve all your problems.

RILC THEME In 1960 the Religion-in-Life Conference used the theme "Your Move."

STUDENT EMPLOYMENT The Student Union employs 72 students.

Rings N' Things

ENGAGEMENTS LITTLE-EDWARDS The engagement of Charles Edwards, Lindley, to Lois Little, San Francisco State College, was recently announced.

PINNINGS GREENE-GERLACH Alpha Phis were surprised Sunday afternoon at the annual Christmas party when Santa Claus passed around a blue candle entwined with white carnations and Kathy Billington read a poem to announce the pinning of Wilma Greene, Alpha Phi, to Gerald Gerlach, Kappa Sig.

Juniors Plan Hootenanny For Jan. 10

"Hootenanny 1964" is the name of the folk singing group which will appear on the Idaho campus Friday, Jan. 10. The group is made up of amateur and professional singers from throughout the Northwest.

The Hootenanny is being sponsored by the Junior Class with all of the proceeds made from the show being given to a worthwhile cause, Joan Henning, Hays, publicity chairman, said. Admission to the show, which will be held in the Student Union Ballroom is one dollar per person with everyone sitting on the floor, in true hootenanny fashion.

The program will last from 9 p.m. to 11:30 p.m. with the singing being continuous. Miss Henning said that since the students will just be back from the Christmas vacation and with finals facing them in three weeks, the program should be very good relaxation for them.

Package Art Displayed

A new art display — of student-designed commercial packages — is on exhibit at the Art Building.

The traveling display shows the original designs of the winners of the fourth annual collegiate packaging design contest. This year was the first time that Western schools entered. Neither of the University of Idaho's entrants placed.

Divided into four divisions, bag design, bread package design, folding carton design and construction, the display features unusual designs and rich, strong colors.

First place in the bag design division went to a Texan who used impact and imagination in incorporating the product name in an usual flowerpot design executed in moss green and rich brown colors against stark white.

Bread wrappers, sometimes rather prosaic art items, were given original treatment by a Californian who used the name "Western Brand," then incorporated a branding iron, vibrant colors and graphic design into the wrapper.

Simplicity in shipping containers, plus exciting colors, won first place in the corrugated container design division for an Illinois student.

Shapes were important in the folding carton division, with second and third places going to cartons employing triangles and hexagons. First place, however, went to a student from Illinois, whose gay and whimsical orange crate container package was used for orange and lime citrus ball candies.

GALENA ROOM The Galena Room in the Student Union will seat 250 people.

Study Tour Of Europe Announced

The Department of Social Sciences announced a European tour for next summer in which as many as eight University credits can be earned.

The tour study topic will be in the field of contemporary European history with "The European Scene" as the course title.

The complete cost for the tour will not exceed $1,594. This includes jet travel from Spokane and return, meals, and tour facilities, lectures and transportation.

The tour leader is Mrs. Wilma Merlan, instructor in German. Those interested should contact her in her office in Administration Building 322A or call her at 6521 or 3-4981.

The tour plan will include New York, London, Paris, Madrid, Venice, Florence, Innsbruck, Salzburg, Munich, Bremen and Amsterdam. There will be 56 days on tour, beginning in mid-June, 1964.

Direct language contact will be made with Europeans in all of the countries visited.

lines, and the design of private switching systems. Ernie has made rapid strides to earn a reputation as a competent, versatile engineer. He has proved his abilities on every assignment and has gained the personal satisfaction and recognition that go with a job well done. Ernie Selzer, like many young engineers, is impatient to make things happen for his company and himself. There are few places where such restlessness is more welcomed or rewarded than in the fast-growing telephone business.

Vandals Play Western Washington State Thursday

Jim Faucher's behind the scoreboard

"Ignorance" is a lack of knowledge, a lack of understanding, or being very uninformed. I think that "ignorance" in one of these basic forms came to light last night on a radio show called "Night Pulse" broadcast over a local radio station.

A supposed student from Washington State, he sounded more like a "Harry," called the station and made some rather snide remarks about the University of Idaho particularly in relation to the school's spirit and the "definite superiority of the WSU athletic system over the University of Idaho." He commented about the rainy walk this year the Vandal students made over to Pullman; the defeat of the Vandals by the Cougar football team; and the defeat of the Vandals in basketball a week ago.

If the Cougars are so proud of their athletic system, especially in football, why did they buy the contract out from under their head football Coach Jim Sutherland? Could it be that the 3-6-1 record they proudly boasted this season was too much for them? Sutherland had another year to go in his contract, and yet, the students and higher officials applied the pressure and he was fired. If those are grounds for boasting, WSU must be getting pretty hard up.

Concerning the walk to Washington State, 125 students made the nine mile trek, under very soggy conditions. The spirit on the walk was tremendous. Because of the poor visibility, a Washington State policeman tried to stop the walk, but the students said "no," and proceeded to the railroad tracks. A lack of spirit in that instance? No.

When the walkers arrived at WSU, their student body vice-president, Bud Rothgib said that he felt that if the WSU students had had to walk on such a poor day that he felt that they wouldn't have had as many people as Idaho did. If H. R. Harry had been there in the CUB to show a little spirit, he would have heard all this.

Now the basketball season has arrived. WSU won the one and only game between the two schools this year. WSU had a big shiny blank space in the "win column" going into the game, Idaho had one win. The game was slow, and some cases very sloppy. The handful of Idaho fans at the game in Pullman didn't have too much trouble at being louder than the Cougar fans. It seemed than the only thing which kept the Cougar fans from going to sleep were the pretty pompon girls and a "Court Jester" by the name of Kaspars Blums. Blums is a 6-3 forward on the WSU squad, and every time he hits the court, you can take that in a number of different ways, the crowd would roar.

In trying to drum up a little more spirit for the Cougars, their student body has gone to quite an extreme. They have a group of male students dressed up in peppermint stripe coats, wearing straw hats, sitting near the floor by a microphone in an effort to get more volume from the crowd.

There is nothing as good as good clean rivalry. The rivalry between Idaho and WSU has been going on for many years, and it is hoped that it may continue for many to come. But, when such people as H. R. Harry (short for Hot Rod) starts spouting off, it greatly hinders this rivalry.

I imagine that when WSU makes the nine mile walk next year, they will probably be boasting that since they have a new football coach, they will do better in the years to come.

The following is a dramatization: The Vandals are playing away from home. The game is coming to a close. The score is very close, and one of the Vandal players is at the foul line. All of a sudden, the fans in the opponent's gym start "booning." Result: more pressure is added to the player and he missed the shot.

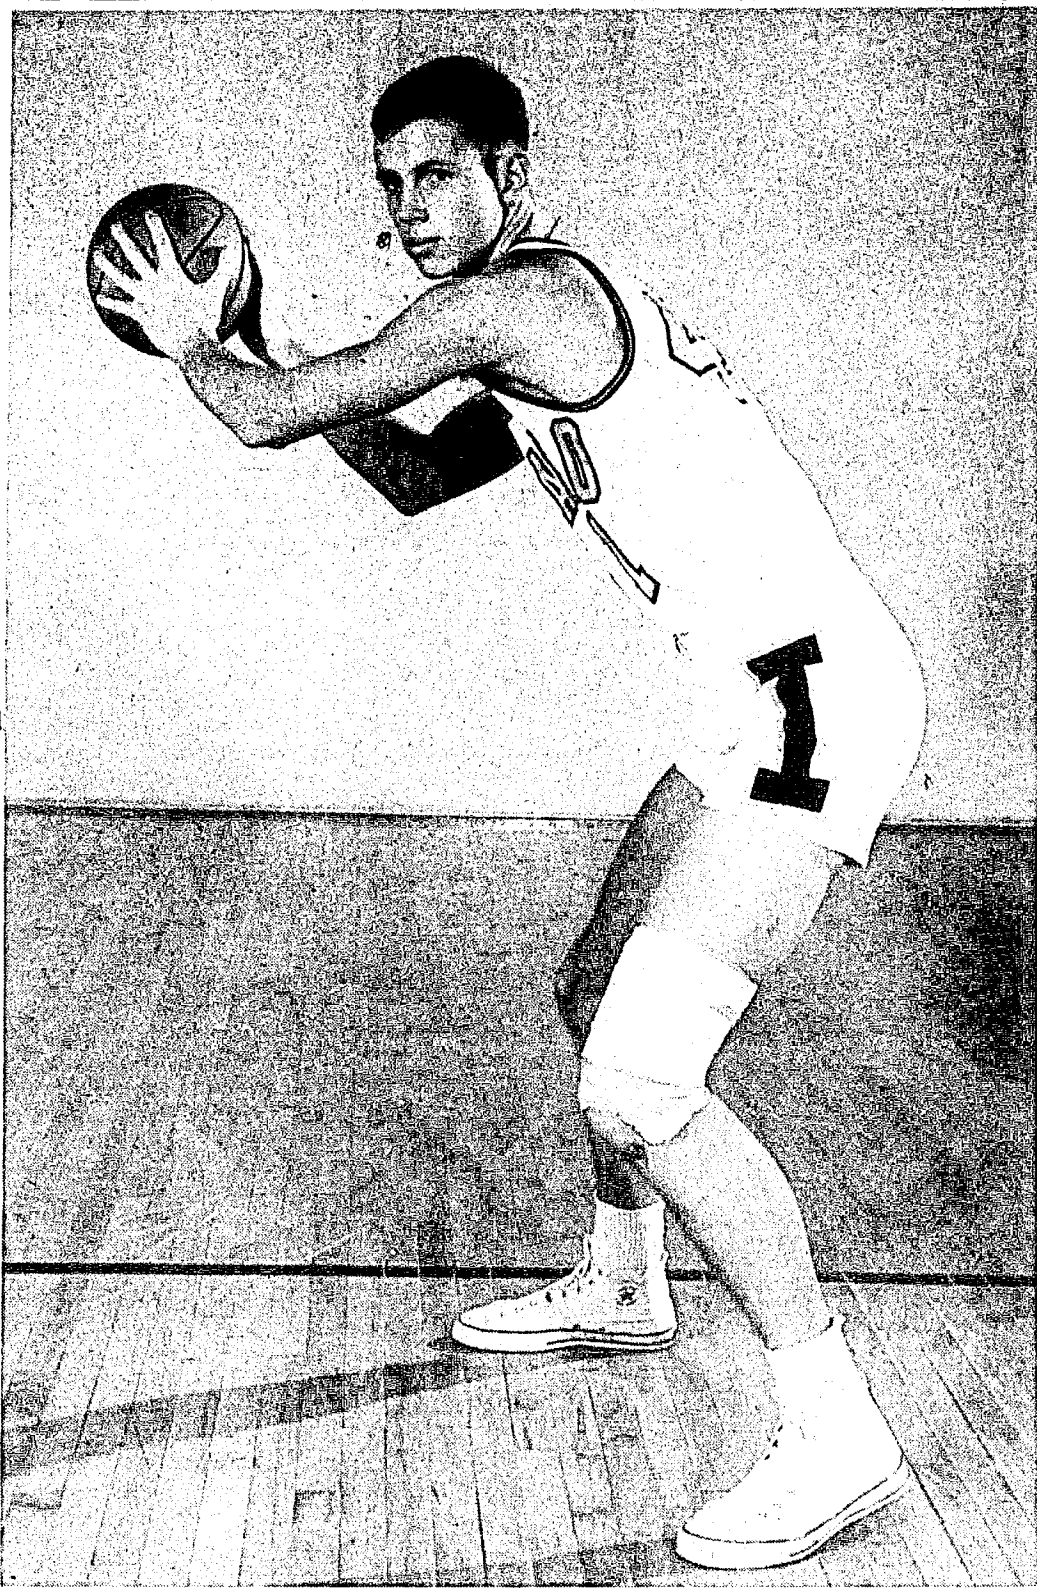

This may sound ridiculous, but this same type of thing has been occurring in our own Memorial Gymnasium during the Vandal games. The fans are booing the opposing players when they are taking a foul shot. Being noisy at basketball games is wonderful, but it might be wise to hold it off when a foul shot is being taken. The same thing could happen to the Vandals when they are away from home.

P. S. Since there will be no Argonaut Friday, we would like to wish all of you a merry Merry Christmas and a "spirity" New Year—J. F., and faithful copy reader, B. B.

SAEs Win IM League Three V-Ball; Upham 2 Has Good Lead In League 2

By CHUCK WALTON

6 Lettermen Return To Ski Team

The University of Idaho Vandals, always a power in Northwest collegiate skiing circles, appear headed for another banner year with six lettermen bolstered by 17 other candidates. Idaho opens its season January 3 in McCall when the University hosts the Idaho Invitational at the Payette Lakes Ski Club hill and Brundage Mountain ski area. The Vandals also have meets slated for Missoula and White Pass. The Big Sky Conference ski meet is slated for Bozeman, Mont., the home of Montana State College and the site of the 1960 NCAA collegiate nationals.

Norwegians Called On
The Vandals can call on their Norwegian exchange students for strength in the Nordic events and home-grown skiers to handle the slalom and downhill. Leading the lettermen is Rolf Prydz, Oslo, Norway, who will participate in the cross country and jumping events. He is also one of the top trackmen on Coach Daug MacFarlane's cinder squad. Per Jensen, also of Oslo, will also enter the Nordic events. Robert Trent, Tacoma, Wash.; and Steve Kimball, Walla Walla, Wash., will represent the Vandals in the slalom and downhill.

Friis — Four-Way
Erik Friis, Oslo, takes over from countryman Arnie Frilling as the Vandals' letterman four-way or all-around entrant. Nils Jebsen, Oslo, is the sixth letterman and he will enter the jumps. Coaches Merrill Conitz and Tom Anderson will hope to gain team depth among the other 17 skiers listed on the roster. Training sessions are billed for the North-South Ski Bowl as soon as the snow flies in the Palouse.

NO GOLF
In 1930 no students could play golf on campus.

Idaho Tries For Third Win Before Oklahoma Tourney

The Idaho Vandals have one more chance to even their record before they take on nationally ranked Oklahoma City University in the All-College Tournament in Oklahoma City on Dec. 26.

Thursday the Vandals will be facing a team which definitely is smaller than the Vandals. The Idaho squad, fresh from their win over the Santa Barbara Gauchos Saturday night, will be gunning for their third win of the young season. Santa Barbara won the first game Friday night in Memorial Gymnasium.

Saturday Night Win
The Vandals won the game Saturday night in overtime 77-73. Chuck Kozak tied the game up in the final seconds with an under-the-basket hook tying the game up a 63-63. In overtime the Vandals got called on a number of ten second violations. The Gauchos scored on two free throws by Murdock. Then a minute later, Bob Emeisher tied up the score for the Vandals. The Vandals went on to win, and Terry Henson electrified the crowd with his jump shot swisher from half-court just as the buzzer went off.

Whitfield Leads
Veteran Tom Whitfield has regained the scoring lead with a 13.4 point average on 67 points in five games. He is third in rebounding. Top rebounder, and second scorer on the club is Junior Tom Moreland from Coeur d'Alene. Moreland has 62 points and 64 rebounds. Third in the rebounding scramble is tall Larry Rasmussen, a sophomore from Cannon Beach, Ore., with 53.

Challenge Game
In the 1930's the lawyers at the University challenged the agricultural students to a basketball game.
