Actually, the difference between the two political activities is wide—the campus elections are local, generally void of major issues, and tend to center around personalities.

National politics, as seen in the Mock Convention will hopefully center more around issues, and should help pull students away from campus provincialism and stimulate interest in next November's race for the national Presidency.

The Mock Convention is bi-partisan. So bi-partisan that four years ago the students nominated Nixon for president and Kennedy for vice president.

At any rate, there will be sessions to acquaint the delegates with the candidates and issues of each party, Republican and Democrat, plus indoctrination sessions about back-stage maneuvering.

Speaking about indoctrination and back-stage maneuvering reminds me of the formation of Campus Union Party—it was four years ago at about the same time as the Mock Convention. This year we may have a similar situation shaping up, with the possible exodus of four living groups from United.

Today's compliment goes to the Board of Regents for authorizing the rebuilding of the baseball bleachers and for approving construction of the new Home Management House.

The old bleachers were a mess, and had to be disposed of for safety reasons. The Home Management House had long since served

'U. Telephone System Like Small Lown's

By BOB HOFMANN Argonaut Contributor

The University of Idaho's telephone communication system is equal to that of any small community in every detail, according to J. W. Watts, University business manager.

"Of course, there probably aren't as many telephones in our system here at Idaho as there normally would be in a community of this size, but otherwise we have every facility that a community of 6,000 people would have," he said.

Due to the increase in volume of use and the addition of direct dialing to the telephone system in recent years, the University was compelled to set up its own switchboard to facilitate its operation, Watts said. General Telephone Comp a n y operations simply couldn't keep up with the increase. Watts said.

Currently, the University system is operated on a rental basis with General Telephone. Monthly rental for the system comes to around $3,000.00 per month, but in addition there are telephone changes and installation fees which must also be met, according to Watts.

Got Own Switchboard J. I. Ikeda, assistant business manager, said that the University currently has about 380 lines in use accommodating 284 primary and 262 extention telephones on the campus. He said that until about four years ago, the entire system was handled by General Telephone, but in 1958 the University installed its own switchboard in the library basement. In December of 1963, the communications center was moved to its present location in the north end of the campus. At the time of this re-location, the switchboard went on a 24. hour-a-day, seven day week basis, and currently there are three full-time and two part-time operators employed by the Univer-

the new Information Center at

ordinator, said that in addition to the telephone system, the University has a two-way unit to facilitate the Physical Plant activities and campus policing.

The main base of the two-way unit is at the Information Center, and base number two is located in the Physical Plant itself, Rogers said.

In addition, there are five ley, Musical Masterworks, a program of master composers, more mobile units connected in this two-way system.

Rogers added that though the University has its own telephone contemporary Holland offer a system, it is still dependant varied program. upon and served by the General Telephone Company, as is any other independent system in the area. Any line repair and telephone installation is handled by the University Business Office but the telephone company personnel do the actual labor.

Calls Around World

Watts said that due to the re- 6-413. cent addition of the direct dialing system anyone can call anywhere in the world and talk for an hour with the call charged to a University telephone. To eliminate this practice and to simplify the charging of the calls by the University operator, a departmental budget numbering system was established.

Now, in order to make a longdistance call on the University telephone system, the caller must know the budget number of the department from which he is calling and this number desired price. The books which must be given to the University operator.

Minor Difficulties

Watts also indicated that there have been a number of will be returned indirectly to minor difficulties concerning the the University through IK projinter-departmental system, such as the set-up in the Student Union or at the physical plant.

In the inter-departmental system, several numbers must be dialed in order to get an outside line and lack of knowledge of this operation has caused some difficulties in several emergencies, Watts said.

Since the decision last week to try the case only on its constitutionality and since the U.S. Supreme Court has ruled that the practice of Bible reading in publie schools in another state is unconstitutional, it would appear that the case is virtually decided already.

An interesting comment about the situation was made by Bill Hall on July 3, 1963. He noted in his column "Political Scratchpad" in the Idaho State Journal at Pocatello, that:

Del Engelking is taking a position on the Supreme Court's Bible reading decision that is similar to that being taken by the Pocatello School Board.

An Idaho law requires that the Bible be read as an opening exercise. The U.S. Supreme Court has ruled virtually the same practice in another state to be a violation of constitutional guarantees of government neutrality on the question of religion.

Study Tour Is In Final Stage

The University of Idaho European Study Tour for 1964, organized in the Department of Social Sciences, is in the final planning stage.

Under the direction of Wilma Brun Merlan, instructor of German, the Europe tour will include visit and study at New York, London, Paris, Madrid, Venice, Florence, Rome, Vienna, Innsbruck, Salzburg, Munich, Berlin, Bremen and Amsterdam. There will be 56 days spent on tour, beginning in mid-June, 1964.

This European Study Tour, which can earn the participant eight college credits, is open to all students of the University of Idaho and to students of any college or university in the United States or to anyone eligible to enroll in the Extension Division of the University. High school seniors graduating in June 1964 are also eligible.

It is an opportunity to see and hear Europe in action. The tour study topic will be in the field of contemporary European history, the course title announced being "The European Scene."

Reservations can still be made but all interested students are asked to contact Mrs. Merlan before Friday morning, Feb. 21. Mrs. Merlan can be reached in Ad 332A, at phone 6521, or at her home at TU 3-4981.

Staff Notes

By JIM FAUCHER Argonaut News Editor

What does it take to be a fullfledged member of the student body of the University of Ida-

Does it take a three point or better? A fabulous taste for beer: The ability to sit down at one of the three coffee shops on campus and play bridge all afternoon? Or does it take a lot of plain ordinary guts? This is really a funny campus.

It has its ups and its downs. If someone or something is going along fine, the result is great. but lo and behold, if something is wrong or something doesn't even look right, the students will scream at the top of their lungs. One of the prime examples is the basketball team of this year. They have a poor record, thus the attendance is bad. The football team had a good mark, the attendance was good. What Basis?

What is the basis for these 'ups and downs?''

Let's say that a snowball is thrown at your best friend and fraternity brother. Immediate results - more snowballs and everyone joins in. This could be the trend on this campus. IT'S CALLED CONFORMITY.

Independents call themselves such because they feel they are away from the stringent rule of the conforming Greek life. The Greeks (most of them) contend that this is not true. The Independents conform and so do the Greeks, and they very often are griping about the same thing which really shows cross-campus relations.

A recent popular song talking about "little boxes" on the hill-

But what happens to the "litthe guy" who stands on one of these little boxes and tries to say something else. If it is on the Idaho campus, this "little guy" won't last for very long, and he will be back in the "little box."

One of these "little guys" might have been the Independ. ent, and I use the word to its fullest extent, in last year's student body elections, Clif Eld. red. It had been a long time since anyone had done anything like he did, and he felt that he had a good reason for doing it and a pack of new ideas to pass

The campaign was worse than poor, and he was subsequently pushed back into his box by a storm of torn up campaign posters, repainted campaign cars, and sometimes not too nice words.

Not Right!

But this isn't right! We are living in a free society, and we have the right to speak. We may have it, but are we taking ad. vantage of it?

An example of this is the famous, or should I say the infamous "SUB Soundoff." This brilliant idea (not in sarcasm), was a complete flop which still rises above the waters of conformity every now and then to take a breath of fresh air. The "Soundoff" will probably be brought to life again when the spring elections hit the calendar, and then they will pack the mikes away until the fall.

This paper is your paper, you support it. If you have any grip. es, write us a letter. (Even if you don't like this "Staff Column"). Can't you stand on top of your "little boxes" and say something worthwhile?

ARF!

Benjamin Franklin (or The Louisville Slugger, as he is better known as) said, "A penny saved is a penny earned," and we, the college population of America, have taken to heart this sage advice. We spend prudently; we budget diligently. Yet, despite our wise precautions, we are always running short. Why? Because there is one item of expense that we consistently underestimate—the cost of travelling home for weekends.

Let us take the typical case of Basil Metabolism, a sophomore at UCLA majoring in avocados. Basil, a resident of Bangor, Maine, loved to go home each weekend to play with his faithful dog, Spot. What joy, what wreathed smiles, when Basil and Spot were re-united! Basil would leap into his dogcart, and Spot, a genuine Alaskan husky, would pull Basil all over Bangor, Maine-Basil calling cheery halloos to the townfolk, Spot wagging his curly tail.

But the cost, alas, of travelling from UCLA to Bangor, Maine, ran to $400 a week, and Basil's father, alas, earned only a meagre salary as a meter-reader for the Bangor water department. So, alas, after six months Basil's father told Basil he could raise no more money; he had already sold everything he owned, including the flashlight he used to read meters.

Basil returned to California to ponder his dilemma. One solution occured to him-to ship Spot to UCLA and keep him in his room-but Basil had to abandon the notion because of his roommate, G. Fred Sigafoos, who was, alas, allergic to dog

Then another idea came to Basil—a stroke of genius, you might call it. He would buy a Mexican hairless chihuahua! Thus he would have a dog to pull him around, and G. Fred's allergy would be undisturbed.

The results, alas, were not all Basil had hoped. The chihuahua, alas, was unable to pull Basil in the dogcart, no matter how energetically he beat the animal.

Defeated again, Basil sat down with G. Fred, his roommate, to smoke a Marlboro Cigarette and seek a new answer to the problem. Together they smoked and thought and-Eureka!an answer quickly appeared. (I do not suggest, mark you, that Marlboro Cigarettes are an aid to cerebration. All I say about Marlboros is that they taste good and are made of fine tobaccos and pure white filters and come in soft pack or Flip Top box.)

Well, sir, Basil and G. Fred got a great idea. Actually, the idea was G. Fred's, who happened to be majoring in genetics. Why not, said G. Fred, cross-breed the chihuahua with a Great Dane and thus produce an animal sturdy enough to pull a dog-

It was, alas, another plan doomed to failure. The cross-breeding was done, but the result (this is very difficult to explain) was a raccoon.

But there is, I am pleased to report, a happy ending to this heart-rending tale. It seems that Basil's mother (this is also very difficult to explain) is a glamorous blond aged 19 years. (Ine day she was spotted by a talent scout in Bangor, Maine, and was signed to a fabulous movie contract, and the entire family moved to California and bought Bel Air, and today one of the most endearing sights to be seen on the entire Pacific Coast is Spot pulling Basil down Sunset Boulevard-Basil cheering and Spot wagging. Basil's mother is also happy, making glamorous movies all day long, and Basil's father is likewise content, sitting at home and reading the water meter.

Pacific Coast, Atlantic Coast, the great Heartland in between —not to speak of Alaska and Hawaii—all of this is Marlboro Country. Light up and find out for yourself.

But some people still try. From the looks of last spring's stu-

Requests Short Stays

Infirmary

Do fellow students a favor when they are ill, and limit visiting at the Student Health Center to the minimum.

This was the summing up of advice today by Dr. J. M. Fleming, director of the center, on the growing problem of too many visitors for too long periods.

"It is a common observation in all hospitals that ill patients will almost invariably show a rise in temperature and evidence of increase in fatigue following the departure of visitors." said Dr. Fleming, "Many hospitals have been forced to restrict visiting not only to short time periods but to members of the patient's immediate family.

"As a compromise, most hospitals now limit visiting to two persons, and depend on the good sense and cooperative spirit of duly the visitation. This works ed. reasonably well for patients in single private rooms, but in a two-bed or four-bed ward the situation can become very difficult for the patients.

"At the University of Idaho hospital, where by far the majority of patients are admitted for upper respiratory infections, almost all of these exhibit, as outstanding symptoms of their illness, extreme fatigue and physical exhaustion. Rest and sleep thus become, at least for the first 24 hours following admission, essential parts of their treatment. Elimination of visitors for the first 24 hours is highly important to the recovery of the patient."

Golis Selected For Program

A University professor has been one of about 20 in the nation selected to attend a special summer program at Harvard Business School.

Eugene Golis, assistant professor of management and economics at the University, will attend sessions on the case method of teaching June 14 to Aug. 7. The workshop is sponsored by the Ford Foundation program in economic develop ment and administration.

Under the case method, students are given a problem and a number of facts which can be used to solve it.

Professor Golis, who is currently working toward a doctorate degree, recently returned to Metallurgy, Harry Caldwell asthe United States after three years abroad in Africa and and the faculty members of the South America.

What! Ghosts And Haunted Houses In Bonnie Scotland?—Could Be

By FRED FREEMAN

Argonaut Managing Editor Ghosts, haunted houses! I suppose that most people around here don't believe in such things any

I didn't either until I moved into a haunted house this summer. The whole tale, true of course, began when I went to Mussel-

Living program. The haunted house which called home, as did the five members of the Lindsay Aitken family -and our uninvited guests - was a two-story Victorian semi-detached (somewhat like our duplexes) house of rough Scottish sand-no laughing matter. Long before I had dismissed this passage as written by some prejudiced author from Southern England, an author who believes, as many Southern Englishmen do, that people in Northern England are barbarians, and Scots are barbarians, too, even if they are romantic barbarians.

The report was that the former owner of this house in which I was then living was an old widower who had once ben a librarian or instructor at an upper-class boy's school just around the corner from us.

The house was supposedly haunted by his housekeeper, who was no longer living. Each night she would come out of wherever it is that housekeeper ghosts hide and eastern side of the old Scottish put away the books that the master of the house had used in the

From the description of the house before my Scottish parents good view of the Firth of Forth moved in, it wasn't hard for me to with the breakers rushing on the surmise that if not this, at least something was amiss. All the walls in the house were to have been nearly a week when I first learned painted in dark green and brown that it was haunted. Some neigh- colors or papered with an oldbors and my Scottish hostess and fashioned gray and cream colored showed me the colors in a spot My first thoughts on hearing where the present paint was chip-hooked up to cords so that each bell would ring from one of the upstairs rooms or the front door. They were set up so that one could easily tell which bell had rung because the right bell remains slightly ajog after it rang. My hostess told of hearing the bells ring when she knew that no one was in the house. Upon checking through all the rooms and the front door she couldn't find a sign of whatever, or whoever had rung the bell.

The morning after all this conversation had taken place. I was left in the house alone. My host had gone to Glasgow and my hostess and the three children had ridden in to Edinburgh to do some shopping.

As I was doing the breakfast dishes I heard a bell ringing. I thought it would be one of the neighbor children coming over to play. But no one was at the door and one of the bells in the dining room was ajog. I didn't go upstairs.

A little later I heard footsteps on the stairs.

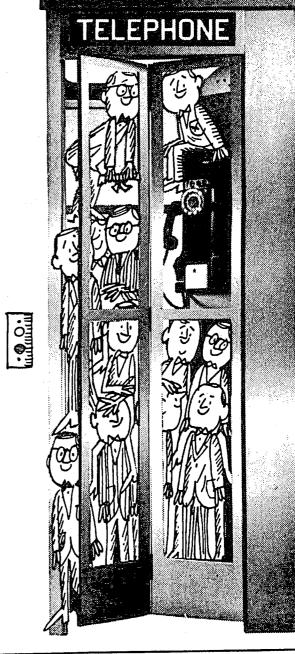

No one was there.

But let me tell ask you, if I don't have an overactive imagination - and I don't - and if there I were talking one evening when wall paper. My Scottish-folks aren't-ghosts-in-the-old country. What is the logical solution?

The Vandals are determined to give away no cheap baskets to the Montana team whom they defeated 75-60 and 78-69 last year, Jim Goddard, Vandal coach, said Monday.

"Montana is a fast breaking team, according to our scouting reports," Goddard said. 'and we'll have to keep right with them to avoid giving them any cheap baskets."

Goddard said that the team's main concern would be to halt Montana's breaks, taking advantage of a man-to-man defense leaving the basket. Defense leaving the basket. Defensive strategy under the Montana basket will be along the same lines as Saturday night's box and one where four members of the team played a zone defense and a fifth covered Bengal scorer Art Crump.

Another possible defense in tonight's game will be an adaptation of the box and one where three men will play a zone defense and two others will cover specific opponents.

Offensively, Goddard's strategy will be for members of the squad to get shots for Ed Haskins, second high scorer on the outside and Tom Moreland, first high scorer, on the inside.

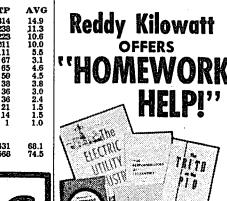

In Saturday night's game the Vandals held down a second half scoring push by Idaho State to clinch a 70-66 victory and sew up the King Spud title which goes to the team which amasses the most points during the two game series.

High scoring Vandal Tom Moreland led the University of Idaho club with 26 points and the Vandals held "King" Art Crump, ISU's high point man to 21 points, keeping him scoreless for practically the first ten minutes of the game. Moreland was followed in Three members of the team qualified for the National Collegiate Athletic Association final at Hanover, New Hampshire. March 5 and 6. Rolf Prydz qualified with a 5th place in the jumping event. Jon Ostbo took fourth in both jumping and cross-country to qualify. Nils Jebsen qualified by winning the cross-country event.

Freshman Jon Seetin placed second in the slalom and fourth in the downhill, but under NCAA rules freshmen are not eligible for the finals.

The team's total of 356.7 points was 25.7 points less than the 382.4 points totaled up by the meet-winning University of Washington team.

The Idaho skiers edged third place Montana State College by 3.5 points. The Vandals' second place finish qualified them as a team for the NCAA finals.

Next weekend the Vandals travel to Bridger Bowl, Boze. man, Mont., for the Big Sky Conference championships. The team expects tough competition from the MSC Bobcats, whom they have edged in three preconference meets.

John Lauritzen wanted further knowledge

He's finding it at Western Electric

When the University of Nevada awarded John Lauritzen his B.S.E.E. in 1961, it was only the first big step in the learning program he envisions for himself. This led him to Western Electric. For WE agrees that ever-increasing knowledge is essential to the development of its engineers-and is helping John in furthering his education.

John attended one of Western Electric's three Graduate Engineering Training Centers and graduated with honors.
