The International Students Days program, which was dedicated to the late President John F. Kennedy, held many varied attractions to the University students last week end.

KUOI Plans "Auditorials" For Idaho

Students can "air" their own views on a new series of Auditorials designed to alert and inform students over student radio station KUOI, according to James Kuehn, KUOI chief announcer at KUOI.

The Thanksgiving season will be discussed tonight at 5 and 8 p.m., according to Kuehn. Following Thanksgiving a three-part editorial on commercialism versus the true Christmas spirit will begin. Students are urged to give their views and will be allotted time on the program, said Kuehn.

"We're hoping to alert and inform students on campus of different activities of which they should be concerned. By doing this we hope to fulfill part of our purpose for being founded, which was to serve and entertain the students through information and music," stated Kuehn.

The first day of the second semester is planned as the first day of all-campus coverage. This will depend on the arrival of new equipment such as centrally located transmitters and boosters, he said.

Anyone wishing to give their opinions should contact Kuehn or drop a copy in the KUOI mailbox in the SUB.

the United Nations at the model UN session, such things as an Arabian shiek dress and a Phillipian saya dress were modeled at the International Style Show, and two co-ed exchange students sang French songs of praise of dead husbands at the International Variety Show.

The MUN session alone attracted approximately 50 students who, representing various countries, decided many issues.

The session, organized by Arvind Saklikar, off campus, president of Cosmopolitan Club, passed a motion to admit Red China to the UN, decided that the USSR need not lose its vote in the general assembly or the security council due to arrears, and censured the apartheid policy in South Africa.

The Style show attracted about 300 people, according to Judy Aldape, Alpha Phi, who with Judy Stuebbe, acted as mistresses of ceremonies.

Such varied costumes as the Maria Clara, old costume of the Phillipine Islands, modeled by Leonisa P. Delos Reyes; an Indian costume of typical shepherd dress, by Arvind Saklikar; and a Kenyan style one shouldered dress by Rahab Muaniki, were shown.

"I thought the style show was a definite success," said Melanie Wetter, Campbell, who wished to take the opportunity to thank the foreign students who took part in the style show.

A soccer game between both Idaho and Washington State University Cosmopolitan Clubs was played Sunday afternoon, and a variety show was held later Sunday night.

The variety show, which was held amid colorful decorations of travel posters, attracted an audience of about 250.

Bob Marley, Sigma Omicron Beta, and Mary Gladhart, Gamma Phi, acted as masters of ceremonies.

The program consisted of such varied acts as German Folk songs done in the German Language, which depicted two friends drinking beer together at a German bar, who

NEWEST MARKER — Jean Glenn, Hays and Robert Callison, off-campus, admire the newest Idaho historical marker, located on Highway 95 north, of Moscow's city limits. The sign reads: "Like this long highway, the University of Idaho links together the northern and southern parts of the state of Idaho. Established by the territorial legislature, Jan. 30, 1889, the University opened in the fall of 1892. As Idaho's land grant institution, the University was charged to bring the benefits of quality teaching, research and service to the people of Idaho. Its eight colleges and its graduate school now serve thousands of students, and it is the major center for higher education in Idaho."

Peace Corps Team Plans To Visit Idaho Campus

Three Peace Corps representatives will be on the University campus during the week of Nov. 30 to Dec. 5 to explain programs of the Peace Corps and administer placement tests.

The three visitors are: Jim Walls, a veteran Peace Corps staff member from Portland, Ore. Walls worked for 10 years on the San Francisco Chronicle and has written a book titled "Chinatown - San Francisco"; Sal Tedesco, a former Peace Corps director in Somalia, is from San Francisco; and Bill Brownell, who has worked in a dairy development project in Bolivia for the last two years.

Opportunities to Serve
The purpose of the visit is to inform the University student body about the opportunities to serve in foreign countries, to create interest in international relations and clear up existing misconceptions about the Peace Corps, according to Brownell.

Non-competitive aptitude tests, for placement purposes only, will be given Dec. 2 through 5. Anyone interested can take the test but the Corps is mainly interested in upperclassmen, Brownell said.

The tests require no previous knowledge of a foreign language. Optional Spanish and French achievement tests will be given.

Peace Corps questionnaires must be filled out before taking the tests. They are available at the Student Counseling Center. On the applications students are requested to give six references which are used in their selection as Peace Corps members.

Training Sessions
If students are selected, Brownell said, the Peace Corps will invite them to attend special training sessions at a college or university in the United States. Brownell stressed that the placement tests were non-obligatory and non-competitive.

The placement tests will administered Dec. 2 at 3:30 and 7 p.m., Dec. 3 and Dec. 4 at 1:30, 3:30 and 7 p.m., and on Dec. 5 through Dec. 7 at 10 a.m. and 2:15 pm in the SUB

Any organization or living groups which wishes to have a Peace Corps representative speak to them should contact Donald Keys at the Student Counseling Center.

Nearly 10,000 volunteers are either overseas or in the process of training for services in 46 countries in Africa, Asia and Latin America.

SPOKANE — The University of Idaho football program got a lift Monday afternoon as the president's council of the Big Sky Athletic Conference allowed the University to retain 75 football grants-in-aid for the next two seasons. The presidents of the conference member institutions, however, ruled that in 1967 the limit for all conference member schools would be cut to 70 grants.

The conference presidents, acting on a request from the University, turned back an earlier decision last spring to keep the conference grants-in-aid limit at 60.

In their ruling the group set up a plan where the other four conference members with football programs (Gonzaga does not have football) progress to 65 scholarships next year and to 70 in 1966. In 1967, they held, all the member schools will be limited to 70 grants-in-aid for football.

Football was the only sport affected by the ruling. Basketball and other sports will be continued to a total limit of 40 grants.

University President D. R. Theophilus, in Spokane for the meeting, expressed pleasure and satisfaction with the decision.

He said that he felt the limit increase was important to the

Dee Happy

SANDPOINT — Coach Dee Andros was at Sandpoint at a high school athletic banquet Monday when the Argonaut called to get his reaction to the Big Sky Conference Presidents' scholarship decision.

"I'm very happy that they saw their way clear to solve our problem. I think that we had a problem that the other schools in the conference did not have," Andros said.

"I'm happy they made the decision. I think it is best for the whole conference. Conferences are important and in order for a conference to be respected and to grow, you have to have finances—scholarship-wise — to compete outside the conference."

However the Idaho coach expressed some disappointment in the decision to cut back to 70 scholarships after two years.

"If we want to expand, we have got to lift this restriction. It's not 100 percent what I would like. I'm thinking of the future," he said.

U. Students Charged In Courts

Two University of Idaho students ran afoul to the law Friday as a disorderly conduct charge cost one a night in jail and a $25 fine, while the other was given 30 days probation and a suspended sentence on a non-sufficient fund check charge.

Robert Charles Nutting, 24, McConnell, was fined $25 for disorderly conduct Saturday morning by Moscow Police Judge Mike Felton. Nutting was charged with causing a disturbance in the hall and hitting another resident Friday night, by hall proctor Fred Crowell. He was committed to the Latah County jail Friday night in lieu of $100 bond.

Officials from the Office of Student Affairs asked Nutting to temporarily move out of the hall, according to Charles O. Decker, Dean of Students. Nutting is scheduled to appear before Men's Discipline Committee Dec. 2, Decker said.

Albert J. McMillan, 18, Shoup, was given probation for 30 days and a suspended sentence on a non-sufficient fund check charge Friday at Latah County Probate Court. McMillan was charged Thursday with passing the check at the Perch, according to a complaint filed at the Moscow Police station.

Big Sky Conference as well as book fees for athletes before Monday's meeting.

The conference presidents' council ruling also said:

1. That total grants-in-aid may not total more than the full-time equivalent allowed the institutions. This means that half scholarships and fractional scholarships—sometimes given in minor sports—are included in the total scholarship limit.

2. The Big Sky Conference will permit grants-in-aid to the extent of NCAA subsidies, except that $60 would be allowed for book expenditures. The conference rules allowed only $40 for

Meet On New Member

In session Tuesday, the council is scheduled to consider an application for membership in the conference from another institution.

Indications are that Arizona State College, Flagstaff, has asked to join, but there was no official word as to what institution has petitioned for membership. Earlier speculation was that Portland State College or the University of Nevada were possibilities.

Legislature Ask To Find $30 Million For Schools

By JERRY BROWN

The Legislature has to come up with $145 million if it is to meet the requests for appropriations. This is an increase of $50 million over the amounts appropriated for agencies in the current two-year period.

The amounts requested on a state-wide agency basis leave about $30 million to be raised counting the normal income growth of tax money of about $7 million.

The University has asked for a 40 per cent increase in appropriations. We need 18.5 million dollars appropriated to run the University for the next two years according to the request.

Other Educational agencies have also asked for raises. Elmer Crowley of the Idaho Education Association said Tuesday that the state should provide matching funds to permit school districts to enjoy funds from the NDEA act.

The Idaho Unified Education Council has issued a call for the enactment of a sales tax so Idaho School Children can have $450 each per year and match per child expenditures of neighboring states.

Considering normal tax income in this state this means that if the money is to be appropriated it will have to be raised through a broad-based tax. The only broad based tax not on Idaho books is the sales tax.

The Chairman of the tax writing committee in the 1963 Legislature says he believes the Legislature will adopt the sales tax and propose handing alternate revenue measures to law makers at the start of the session.

An article in the Lewiston Morning Tribune by Earle L. Jester states: The pressure for more spending—particularly in Education—is certain to bring an even stronger push for enactment of a sales tax than it did in 1963.

In the past two sessions efforts to enact a sales tax have failed. Instead, the lawmakers have boosted tax rates on income, property, cigarettes, beer and liquor.

The biggest dollar increase request given the Budget Committee came from the Board of Education for the public school equalization program. The 1963 Legislature appropriated $40 million and the Board asked for $67 million for the next two years.

Bartlett Given Athletic Post

Bob Bartlett, Beta, was picked to fill one of three student positions on the Athletic Board of Control, yesterday, according to Cathy Lyon, Executive Board Member and area director for the Athletic Board.

Bartlett joins Dean Hagenson, off campus, and Jim Winger, Gault, in the student positions on the Athletic Board which advises the President on athletics and assists the Athletic Department with scheduling.

The Golden Fleece

By Jason

After yesterday's action by the Big Sky Athletic Conference presidents' council, University of Idaho football fans have cause for a Thanksgiving Celebration—and that's no Turkey.

For the next two years when we face four Pacific Athletic Conference teams each year (Washington, Washington State, Oregon, Oregon State, all of whom give more football rides than we do) we will have the same scholarship backing we have been allowed for the last three years.

The action allowing the University to keep 75 scholarships for two years and then to cut back to 70, to be on an even scale with the rest of the conference, met some surprise and general happiness, if not complete satisfaction, from fans that this writer talked to.

No Coup de Grace

The decision meant, as some have stated, that amid rising football fortunes, we did not have to give our program the coup de grace to the outcry of literally hundreds of Vandal supporters. But more than that, the decision to increase scholarship limits for the whole conference by ten over the next two years, gave the Big Sky a boost from the mediocrity of just another small college conference.

The conference institution presidents should be congratulated for taking the most graceful way out of what could have been a sticky situation. At least temporarily, Idaho supporters have been quieted in their demands for the University to get out of the Big Sky Conference in football.

The decision was not a small compromise for Weber State, Montana State University, Idaho State and Montana State College. In a session last spring they had voted to hold the football limit to 60.

Thanksgiving Twist

Indications are that the highways will be slippery as students begin their trek homeward this afternoon and tomorrow for Thanksgiving vacation. Drive carefully, and enjoy your Thanksgiving.

And, as to Thanksgiving, the Corn Research Foundation has revealed a new twist to this traditional American celebration.

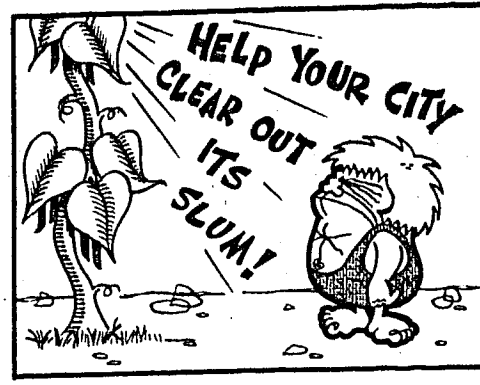

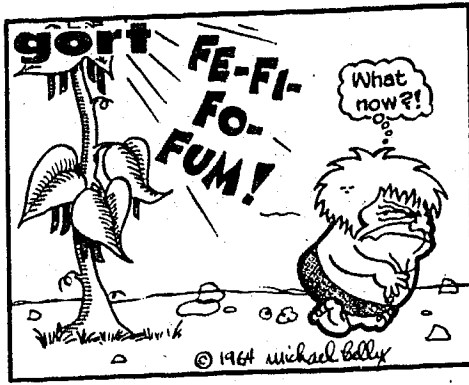

Turkey and corn traditionally grace our Thanksgiving festivities. We all know that the American Thanksgiving started in Massachusetts in 1621 when turkey symbolized the feast given in thanks for the corn harvest that would see the Pilgrims through the coming winter.

Maybe it's not important which came first, but two thousand miles from New England the Jicarilla Apaches of the Southwest had a definite idea. One of their most popular mythological characters was named Turkey. He was credited with bringing corn to the people. Before the Europeans came to America the turkey was the only bird domesticated by the Indians for food.

If the Apaches were right, Turkey deserves the appreciation of every American. Corn provides basic feedstuffs for livestock and poultry. Corn goes into bread and pudding and fritters. And refined products of the corn kernel, such as starches, syrups, sugars and oil, provide ingredients for hundreds of processed foods that may be found on Thanksgiving tables.

Like the Pilgrims, we are grateful for turkey (with or without a capital "T") and for corn at Thanksgiving and throughout the year.

MUN Successful

Arvind Saklikar, president of the Cosmopolitan Club, and chairman of the mock United Nations session held Saturday in the Student Union, termed the program a success.

From an educational aspect of the delegates, Saklikar was right. The delegates undoubtedly learned more about international relations in those two hours of debate and discussion than their friends who stayed home to study did. In another sense, though, the program was less than successful.

The Cosmopolitan Club members were visibly disappointed at the support by the general student body. At the peak of attendance the audience numbered eight—mostly adults. More than half of the students who were acting as delegates were Cosmopolitan Club members.

It is difficult for a foreign student to understand why Idaho students seem so anxious to learn about his country, but so unwilling to take the opportunity to learn, when it is offered.

The sad fact may be that Americans in general, and Idahoans in particular, are too illiterate about any area outside our own to be interested enough to learn. For example, an African recently told me that Americans not only couldn't pronounce the name of his country, they didn't even know, or appear to care to know, where it was.

Aside from the fact that University students who lack interest in wider horizons are an affront to the spirit of any University, such an attitude is potentially dangerous. Without even mentioning what happens to peoples who become too busy to learn, we are, by such an attitude toward foreign guests, compounding an already complex national problem.

Theoretically, in a democracy, leadership begins with the people and is expressed by the representatives. People who lack knowledge have a tough time formulating intelligent opinions.

On a less theoretical level, though, the chances are pretty good that in 20 years we will have people making decisions on foreign policy in Washington, D. C., who are now learning to learn at the University of Idaho.

It's rude to know so little about guests that we ask such questions as "Do you live in houses?" Manners aside, though, such questions, or the type of ignorance which allows any college student to ask such questions, are perilous.

Doesn't it seem like we ought to try some self-education? — L. B.

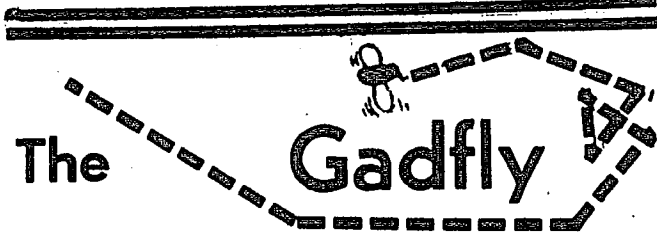

Talk Pays

Perry Swisher, editor of the Intermountain, a Pocatello weekly, who is a legislator and avid ISU supporter, had this to say in his last column.

"Fraternities in general are on my long list of prejudices; yet easily the best part of my Moscow stay was a long bull session in the Sigma Chi house, over a breakfast of French toast and sausage, with Lucas, (his Moscow host) Ben Peterson from Pocatello, Ben Blick from Castleford, the Argonaut's editor Fred Freeman and their bright, assorted brothers. Should a son or mine desert to Moscow . . . he could be educated at the Sigma Chi house, and without reaching for the grip, the paddle, or a six-pack."

The compliment goes, in this case, to the Sigma Chis. I suspect, however, that other legislators had similar reactions to other living groups. We're to be congratulated on a job carried off in an adult manner. — L. B.

This year, student government will spend over $123,000. In theory, the E-Board makes up the budget and determines who gets what and why. Unfortunately, this doesn't happen in practice. Because of the supposed complexity of the budget, one Board member is assigned this responsibility, in lieu of the entire board.

Most students, including these Board members, have little financial experience of this type and only elementary knowledge of budgetary procedures so the budget is, of necessity, prepared by the General Manager and the E-Board "budget director." We freely grant that the General Manager should have a role in this determination, but it seems that there are methods which would put the Board back in the decision making process.

At present, the budget is usually discussed 10 to 15 minutes — if at all — and passed with the big old rubber stamp. The budget is the single most important piece of legislation passed by most boards and it certainly merits more careful analysis.

Solution Offered.

The best solution I've heard to this problem is the one advanced by Bob Marley. The Marley method involves the appointment by the ASUI President of a budget committee. This committee, composed of E-Board members, would require each ASUI agency and organization to submit an accounting of the previous year's expenditures and a request for whatever amount of funds needed for the next year.

The Board at present receives no such information. These requests would be scrutinized, analyzed, compared with the available funds for the coming year, and granted upon a basis of need. To me, this is a logical way to solve this overlooked responsibility of the board. After all, what Board of Directors, which E-Board supposedly is, spends $123,000 without serious discussion or debate? If student government is to be effective, it must accept its responsibilities, not avoid them. Is a government that takes no real voice in its spending of money really a government?

Participant?

Tom Bates is an E-Board member. On paper, he is one of the better qualified members this year. It is no secret, he was looking towards the ASUI Presidency, until he was accepted to Medical School. But, what has happened to Tom Bates? Did the fact that he won't be here next year change his attitude? Sadly, yes. Quite a few people voted for Tom when he ran for E-Board. They, undoubtedly, voted for him because of his impressive list of qualifications.

At least, they voted for him because they thought he would attend E-Board meetings and express views they held. They didn't vote for Bates with the expectation that he would miss important Board meetings to go swimming. This is just what he has done, though. Intramural programs at Idaho are far superior to many schools of similar size, and everyone who is able should participate. However, E-Board members usually realize that running for that office entails some responsibilities, not the least of which is attending the meetings every Tuesday, not just the convenient Tuesdays.

ELECTRONIC ENGINEERS MATHEMATICIANS

Let's discuss tomorrow

In science and technology, the accomplishments of today are but direction for tomorrow. Why? Simply because resting on the accomplishments of today is a luxury we cannot afford.

In Communications Engineering, where others are content to modify, our mandate is to CREATE.

In Electronic Data Processing Systems, where others are content to innovate, our mandate is to CREATE.

This, then, is the philosophy . . . the crux of intellectual thought . . . at the National Security Agency—where the concepts of tomorrow are the problems of today.

So let's discuss the future . . . yours and ours

If you are a gifted and interested Engineer or Mathematician, we have much in common—including A COMPULSION TO SUCCEED.

Our future is contingent upon a constant input of new . . . and creative . . . scientific talent . . . the lifeline of any institution. Our success is embodied in the technical capabilities of our professional staff. To assure this, scientific employees are encouraged to pursue graduate studies at local universities under Agency sponsorship. Your future with NSA will entail education . . . early responsibility . . . and unusually challenging assignments. Why? Because . . .

• We MUST create completely new kinds of communications equipments and systems embodying concepts and techniques THAT HAVE NO PRECEDENT . . . antennas, transmitters, receivers and terminal hardware of a most advanced design.

• We MUST assure the complete invulnerability of message content through the novel . . . but never static . . . science of cryptology.

• We MUST develop special refinements for computers and electronic data processing systems . . . experimenting with the latest semiconductors, magnetic film and superconductive devices to provide new logic circuits and memory units for increased speed and capacity.

Interested? . . . If so, then LET'S DISCUSS TOMORROW. Representatives of the National Security Agency will be on campus in the near future. Check with your Placement Office for details and dates, or write to:

Newsweek Bureau Chief Speaks On Europe, Asia

Robert S. Elegant, American foreign correspondent, said at an informal forum Friday that there are some measures that can be taken by the U.S. government to mop up the Chinese in Southeast Asia.

Elegant said that the U.S. should take a more active part in the war, to get the local army back on its feet; that the supply lines across the North Vietnamese border into South Vietnam should be severed immediately; and that more of a guerrilla war should be fought although it would require a much longer time to see any results.

Elegant said this at a forum planned by the Coffee Hours and Forums Committee. The discussion was held Friday at the SUB after Elegant had spoken to students and faculty in the Memorial Gym.

In response to questions concerning the Red China situation, Elegant said that our policy should not be one of aggression, which would make the Russians fight us. The U.S. policy should be one of containment.

Recognition, said Elegant, would allow us some freedom of movement inside China. He said that the Chinese are somewhat taken in by their own propaganda about the U.S. and do not realize how powerful the demoralized Capitalists really are in the areas of food stocks, mineral resources, and weapons and brains.

The Chinese would realize that people are not dying all over from malnutrition as they would like to believe, he said.

Elegant feels that the fighting in Laos is not the real fight, and that the Chinese are really concentrating their efforts in Vietnam. The correspondent advocated not more troops in the Vietnam region, but a more concentrated effort on our part.

Army ROTC Plans Speaker

Mix will discuss his experiences as a commissioned officer after completion of college and ROTC training. The role of the commissioned officer in an organized Reserve unit will also be discussed.

Richard P. Lange, Fiji, is Cadet Captain of the AUSA Company.

Idaho Trustees Advocate State Sales Tax At Meet

Some 190 delegates to the Idaho School Trustees Association approved a resolution calling for enactment of a state sales tax before closing their annual three day conference held at the University last week.

The trustees heard a program of speakers including Dr. Boyd A. Martin, Dean of the College of Letters and Sciences.

Charles H. Bond, chief student counselor at Idaho, listed the major reasons students gave poor performance at the University: poor study habits, lack of reading skills, poor linguistic ability, lack of writing ability, lack of self-discipline and motivation and unrealistic goals, and the increase of college requirements.

One of the major reasons students fail to make the grade at Idaho is poor preparation beforehand, said Dr. Martin.

Percent Fall English
He said 23 per cent of students in freshmen English fail the course and indicated plans to inaugurate a summer institute for English teachers similar to the Institute for Science Teachers, now an annual event at the University.

A square dance is tentatively planned for Dec. 4 in the Student Union Ballroom and a duplicate bridge night will be held Dec. 11 in the Appaloosa Room of the SUB at 7 p.m.

Recent results of a questionnaire - survey indicated 160 would support a bowling league; 60, a chess tourney; 124, square dancing; 50, duplicate bridge; and 150, bridge lessons, said Miss Green.

1. Now that we're 21 we have a lot more responsibility. Now we make the decisions.

2. Right. And this year we have a big decision to make—who gets our vote for President. I've already decided to vote for the candidate of my choice.

3. Your decision should be based on what the candidate stands for. For example, does your man's fiscal policy square with your philosophy on the matter? I hope not. I never could handle money.

4. Then how do you expect to go out into the world, support a wife, raise children, and be a two-car family? I wish I knew.

5. Let me give you a piece of advice that will help you off to a good start. I'd sure appreciate it.

6. Soon as you get a job, put some dough into cash-value insurance, the kind they call Living Insurance at Equitable. It gives your wife and kids solid protection and it automatically builds a cash value you can use instead for retirement or whatever you like. Say, why don't you run for President?

Vandals Lose To Devils 14-0 - Season Over

New Twists Put In Old Patterns

Idaho basketball fans will see something new in the offense-defense patterns of the Vandals when they take the mat court for the first time against Washington State Dec. 1.

"This year we will use the fast break as our basic offensive challenge," said Coach Jim Goddard. "We will also use a system which I chose to call the rotating overload."

"Basically, Goddard continued, "this means that all three big men on the inside will alternate from the strong side forward to the weak side forward and finally to the post. It's sort of a triple post offense."

Goddard went on to say that the offense was designed specifically to enable the big men to shoot more from the outside than they have in the past.

"Instead of having just one man in the double figures, we should have two and possibly three men up there," Goddard said.

Goddard then explained that the new offense would enable the guards to drive more than they have been able to do in previous games.

"We have four very capable drivers this year in John Rucker, Jerry Skafie, Mike Wicks and Ed Haskins," the Vandal mentor continued. "And I might add that last year Rucker was the leading scorer in the Columbia Basin Junior College team that went undefeated. He was also CBC's second leading rebounder, even though he did play at a guard spot."

Goddard stated that this year's defensive pattern would be much the same as that used last season. "However," he said,

"we do plan to make more use of the full court press to pressure our opponents."

"Other than that," he continued, "we will use a variety of man for man defenses with some different types of zones depending upon the team we are playing."

Record Book Rewritten By Vandals

The record book took a beating at the University of Idaho during this grid season as the Vandals tied or broke 20 marks on their way to a 4-6 season.

Coach Dee Andros' charges set records as individuals and as a team for game, season and career marks. Some of the standards had stood for as long as 16 years.

Rookie Ray McDonald and veteran Mickey Rice each tallied three marks, while veterans Mike Monahan and Rich Naccarato fell short of career records.

Sets Mark
McDonald racked up the most carries in a single game with 34 against Washington State to better Larry Norby's mark of 30 against Oregon State in 1950. McDonald also set season high with most carries (131) to top Mike Mosolf's 116 in 1961 and most net yards gained (585) to erase Wilbur Gary's record of 579 set in 1954.

Rice boomed out a total of 119 punts in his three collegiate seasons to top Jim Norton's total of 100. His career punting average of 40.7 also better Flip Kleffner's 39.1 mark. Rice had a season punting average of 42.2 to break Reg Carolan's mark of 41.7 set in 1960. The punting mark was also a team season record breaking the one which Rice and Gary Peters set last season.

Carolan also had another title wrested from him when Joe Chapman picked up 508 yards receiving. Carolan gained 498 yards receiving in '60. Chapman teamed with Mike Monahan for an 80-yard touchdown pass against Iowa to break the overland record of 74 yards set by Max Glavers and Glen Christian against Wyoming in 1950.

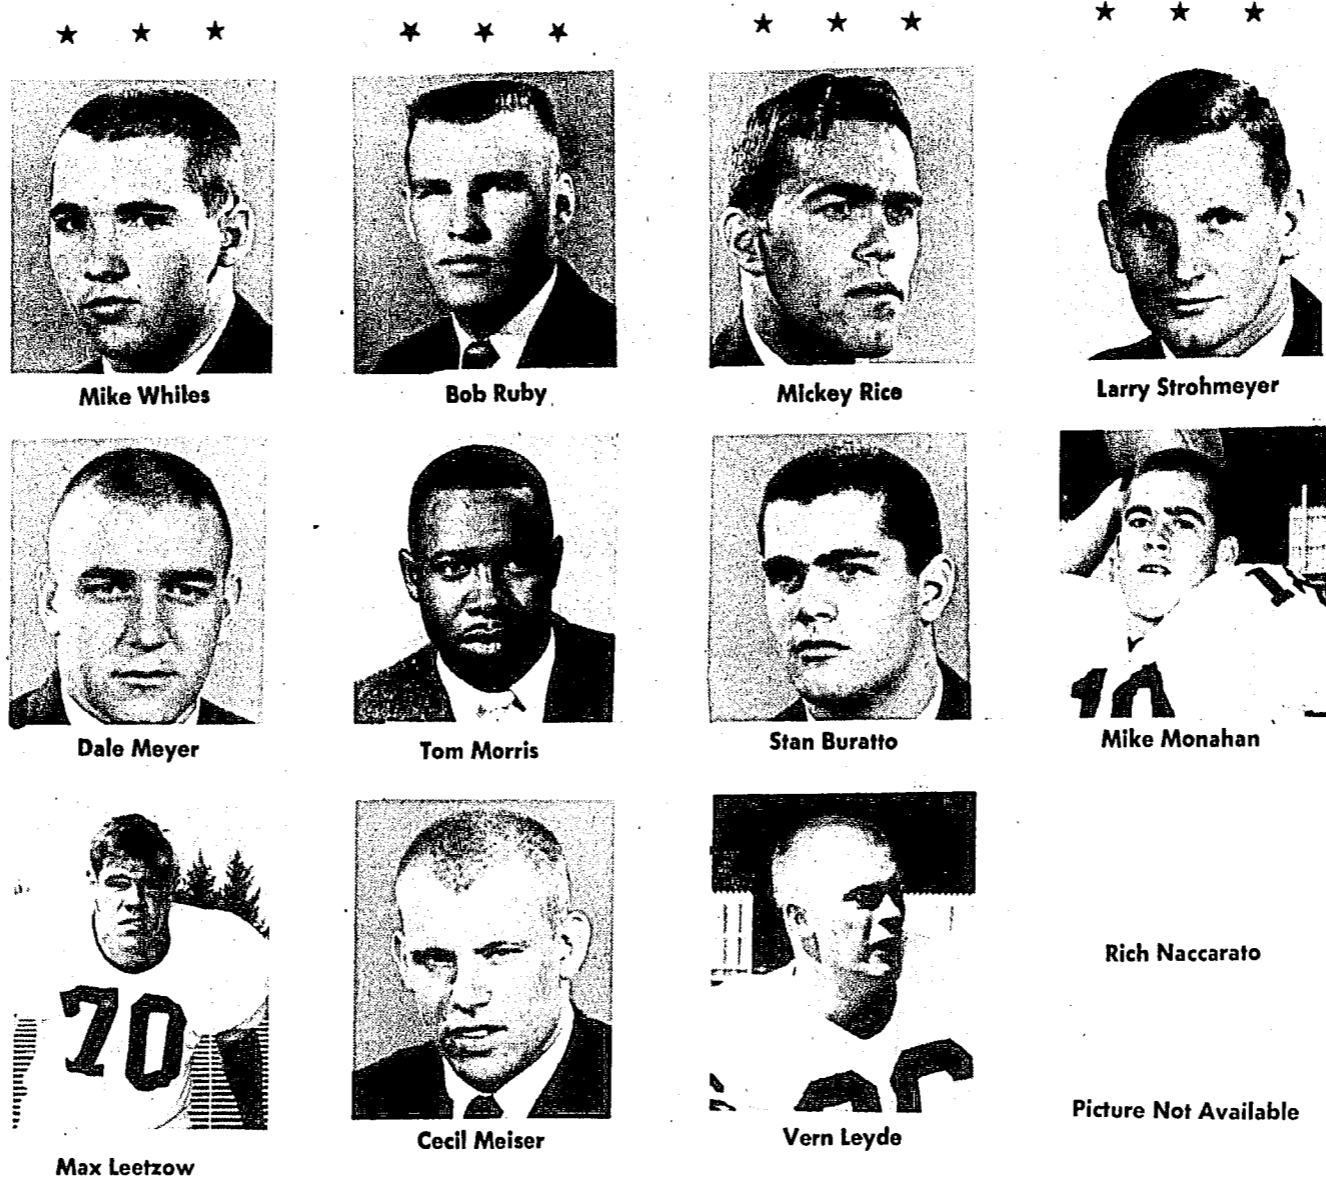

Ties Mark
Bill Scott was the other individual to make the book. His three interceptions against Pacific gave him a share of the mark held by Norton and Ken Larson.

Twelve Vandals End College Ball

By Jim Petersen
Arg Sports Writer
TEMPE, Ariz. — Time ran out for both the Idaho Vandals on their only sustained scoring drive and for 12 graduating seniors who played the final game of their college careers Saturday night at Tempe.

Arizona State Quarterback John Torok led his fellow Sun Devils to a 14-0 victory over the Vandals, leaving them with a 4-6 record for the season.

Andros expressed disappointment in the fact that the Vandals were unable to move the ball with any degree of success in the last game of their season. "However," he said, "although we lost, I was just as proud of our kids Saturday night as I was when we won against WSU and Utah because they fought their hearts out and again showed more courage than any one group of men that I have ever coached."

The Vandal mentor went on to pay tribute to his "very fine seniors." "The rest of the coaches, as well as myself, would like to publicly thank them for their great dedication and tremendous team pride that they have helped to start at our university. We're losing 12 kids I think the world of. We wish them the best and we are very sad to lose these young men. However, we are also very optimistic and happy to have back a group of undergraduates. We should have an excellent team next year."

Too Tough
"We played a real aggressive tough football game against a team with more speed than we had met all year," said Andros. "They were a great passing team and they had three great receivers who could run with the ball as well as anybody after they caught it."

"I thought we moved the ball well at times, Andros continued. However we could not be consistent as we have been in the past. We were not able to burn Arizona as they gambled and guessed right on many key downs that hurt us."

On his return to the campus, Andros stated that the defense Arizona State used against his Vandals had been used against them on a couple of times earlier this season. However, he went on to say that on those occasions they would score with the long pass.

Just About
However, the long pass occasioned itself only once Saturday night. It came in the form of a 41-yard aerial bomb from quarter-

Water Polo

The University of Idaho will meet Washington State at 4:30 p.m. today in the WSU pool for the first water polo match of the year and second in Idaho's history.

The Vandal swimming team and non-team members have formed a water polo team under the leadership of John Cramer, Swimming Coach, making Idaho's first organized team for the sole purpose of polo competition. Last year they played a match against Oregon in the Far West Swimming Championship at Seattle.

The game is played with a semi-inflated ball which is carried or passed over the course to the goal line, like a football game played in water, but with slightly different rules.

I have no watch, but I have a clock, which I occasionally forget to wind. Once when this happened, I went to the house of a friend, passed the evening in listening to the radio concert program, and went back and set my clock. How could I do this without knowing beforehand the length of the trip?

What is your answer?
