Hartung Surprised By Announcement At Idaho

In The Idaho House

Reconsider After U-I Tuition Bill Defeat

BOISE — A bill which would set a minimum of $750 annual non-resident tuition at the University and at Idaho State University was defeated and then reconsideration was asked yesterday in the Idaho House of Representatives.

The bill which was defeated by a scant 38-40 vote will probably be ready for a vote on Saturday after amendments during today's session, according to Rep. George Brocke, D-Latah.

"The legislators favoring the bill are going to try to amend the bill, and we're going to try to amend it too," Brocke said. Brocke and Rep. Harold Snow, R-Latah, both spoke against the bill on the floor yesterday in a session which Brocke said lasted "a long time with more legislators speaking for the bill than against it."

Opposition to the bill is growing, however, according to Brocke.

"I believe we can kill it when it comes up again. We have more strength now than we did today," he said last night.

He said that delegations from the Pocatello area supported the bill and the Ada County delegation carried it.

The bill which was defeated yesterday on a 40-38 vote called for any student not an Idaho resident "to pay for the privilege of attending . . . the two universities, not less than two-thirds of the actual average cost of educating each undergraduate student for the previous academic year."

Minimum Fee
The bill also set a minimum fee of $750. Presently non-resident students are charged $310 tuition per year and a $70 hike is planned for next year, according to University officials.

The state constitution prohibits a resident tuition from being charged at the University. University officials opposed the bill on eleven grounds in a statement issued to legislators earlier this week.

Chief among the University officials criticisms of the bill is that they say it would jeopardize the credit on future Regent bonds needed to finance further building construction at the University.

$100 Pledged
Presently $100 is pledged in each non-resident fee toward the debt payment on the bonds.

"The proposed radical change in tuition rates would inevitably result in a drastic decrease in non-resident students which would in turn result in loss of income pledged to bond issues," the officials say.

Plans to sell bonds this spring for financing the fourth wing to the Wallace Complex would have to be cancelled but the sale of bonds to partially finance new engineering laboratories and a College of Education Building would not be effected, according to University President D. R. Theophilus.

Tuition Hike
University officials also say that the tuition hike would hinder the "intellectual atmosphere" created by widespread geographical distribution of students at the University and lead to "provincialism." Presently the national average of 20 percent non-resident undergraduates is maintained at the University.

The hike would raise the non-resident tuition fee to above those of eleven of the thirteen neighboring institutions with which the Idaho budget is compared, according to officials.

Also effected by the hike would be cost of athletic grants-in-aid since a large percentage of the University's athletes with scholarships are non-residents of Idaho, officials said yesterday.

Registration Hits 5,079 Thursday
Registration for second semester leveled off at 5,079 yesterday.

"Except for a few student teachers going through, this is pretty much the final registration figure," said F. L. O'Neill, Registrar.

Students still have through March 2 to register with the approval of the academic dean. This figure is 262 more than at the end of registration second semester last year.

Paula Spence Is Elected 1964-65 AWS President

About 550 University women chose two Moscow and two Boise coeds to the top Associated Women Students offices Wednesday, according to Carol Husa, Hays, current president.

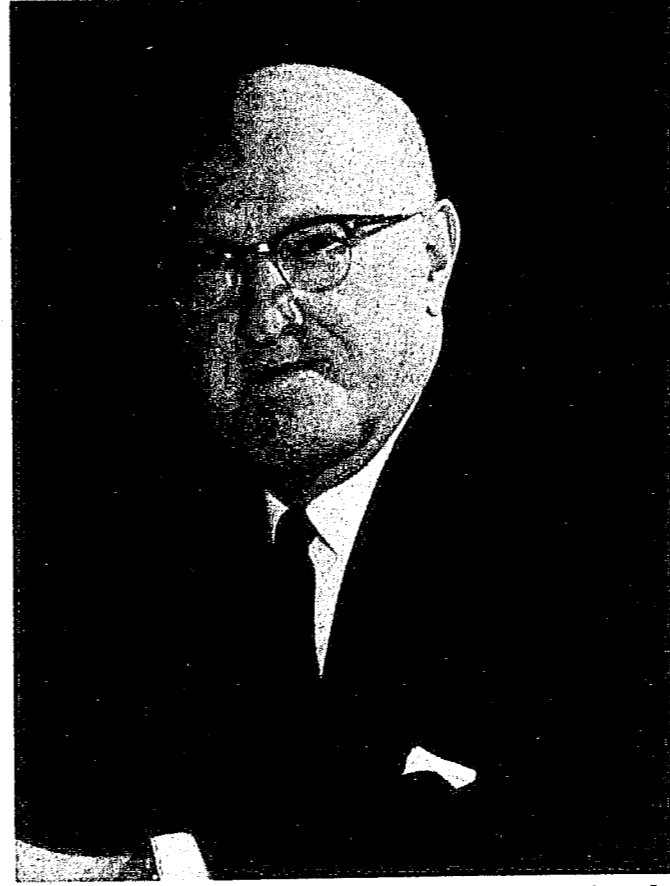

Paula Spence, Gamma Phi, a junior from Boise, majoring in French, will assume the duties of president, stepping up from secretary.

Elected vice president was Mike Gagon, D.G. Moscow. She is a junior majoring in physical education.

Miss Leichner Secretary
Gail Leichner, Alpha Phi, Boise, a sophomore elementary education major, will be secretary and Margie Felton, Kappa, a sophomore from Moscow, ma-

NEW SKIPPER — Dr. Ernest W. Hartung, vice president of the University of Rhode Island, will become president of the University of Idaho Aug. 1. He is currently serving as acting president at Rhode Island.

RETIRING CHIEF — Dr. D. R. Theophilus will retire Aug. 1, after serving as University of Idaho president for 11 years. By September, he will have been at the University a total of 38 years, advancing through the ranks to Dean of the College of Agriculture and President.

Board Proposed To Okay Off-Campus Housing

A Board to approve off-campus housing was proposed by A. Robert Marley to the Student Executive Board Tuesday night.

The proposal is a renewal of a plank from the Campus Union Party Platform of the ASUI General elections last year. Two other issues considered at the Tuesday meeting were that the Activities Council be given constitutional status and a suggestion to create a more effective bureau of student civic speakers.

Marley's proposal was that student government recognize the problem of off-campus housing, and by investigating, improve the standards of the living conditions.

The off-campus housing problem is becoming greater every year, Marley said, and he recommended that the problem should no longer be allowed to exist.

A student-faculty community board has previously existed on the campus during a housing shortage in the 1930's but was abandoned with the construction of Willis Sweet Hall, according to Robert F. Green, director of housing, in the Feb. 14, 1964 issue of the Argonaut.

The second recommendation made to Exec Board, made by Nancy (Grubb) Nelson, proposed that Activities Council be given Constitutional status.

"The council theoretically could be abolished by Executive Board any time two-thirds of the board didn't like what the council was doing," Miss Nelson said.

Gribble Named, "Gem" Discussed

Will Gribble, McConnell, was appointed station manager of KUOI, University student-owned radio station, at Communications Board Wednesday and then the meeting erupted into controversial session on the Idaho yearbook "Gem of the Mounttain's."

Gribble was appointed to replace Alvin Burgemeister, off-campus who resigned because of academic pressure.

Gribble served as sports director and acting station manager before the appointment.

The Gem controversy was prompted by dissatisfaction on the part of Karl Urban, off-campus Gem editor, with the present specifications and publisher for the yearbook. The proposals were submitted by Graig MacPhee, Executive Board member.

Included in the first of four proposals all of which were approved was changing the printing process to offset to improve quality and lower costs; allowing the editors to make up pages without sizing photographs; allowing free bleeding and reducing the number of pages from 400 to 300 more appropriate to the size of the school.

Bids will be submitted to any appropriate Idaho publishers, Taylor Publishing Co. in Texas, American Yearbook Co. in Kansas, Inter-Collegiate Press, Inc., also in Kansas, Walsworth Publishing Co. in Missouri and R. Wallace Pischell in Washington. Regents must approve out-of-state bids, according to MacPhee after talking with President Theophilus.

The third proposal was that to improve its quality the Gem should join the Associated Collegiate Press, as the Argonaut has done. This gives a professional rating to yearbook publications pointing out good and bad points.

The final proposal was that the Gem editors should plan to have their specifications and their bids at an early date.

The proposals were made with the approval and recommendations of Gale Mix, general manager, faculty of the Communications department, including Walter Stewart, and administration officials.

E-Board Interview

ASUI Knowledge Important Election Issue

By LEO JEFFRES
Argonaut Managing Editor

Knowledge of student government is one of the three issues which the coming ASUI elections will evolve around, according to Craig MacPhee, Executive Board member, in an interview yesterday.

Idaho students are not on E-Board long enough to gain the knowledge of student government, said MacPhee.

The junior University student listed three ways the necessary knowledge could be obtained. "Executive Board members serving for two terms and class officers representing their respective constituents would both add to the continuity and enable students to gain the knowledge necessary for student government," MacPhee said.

Another suggestion was the publication of a handbook on policies and procedures specifically for E-Board members.

"They would then have the knowledge necessary at their fingertips to perform their functions," added MacPhee.

Representation! Representation is the second election issue the Idaho student predicted would be important. MacPhee disagreed with another E-Board member, Bill McCann (last issue), by opposing the proposed student senate plan.

"It would be far too cumbersome for the duties to be performed by the students," he said. "The E-Board has 10 voting members now, and a student senate which would have 20 to 30 members would take a lot longer than the present three hour weekly meetings to get through the same amount of business."

The E-Board member said he also doubted the number of people required to assume the time and responsibilities of the office could be found if the student senate plan were adopted.

"Rather than spreading student government out, we should concentrate it," he said. "Now our student government works very effectively as long as student and University administration objectives coincide, but in times when students' interests conflict with those of the administration, I think the students have a difficulty in voicing their opinions."

The Executive Board should be the place they can, he said. MacPhee suggested more communication between student-faculty committees and E-Board.

Not Reporting
In the past members of the student-faculty committees haven't been reporting to E-Board on everything. I'd like to see this enforced in the coming year," he said. "Nobody at one end of the government knows what is going on at the other end. This should be the E-Board's prerogative."

Individual student responsibility and a greater responsibility for student government were the third issue the elections will revolve around, MacPhee said.

"We're making great strides through the budget committee in increasing student responsibility in that area," the E-Board member said. "We're going to have a more detailed budget, one which will have every expenditure on it. It's no longer going to be a rubber stamp."

The junior Idaho student recommended adding representatives from Residence Halls Council, Interfraternity Council, and other groups as ex-officio members of the ASUI Board.

Story Broken Early By Student Paper

WASHINGTON — Dr. Ernest W. Hartung, who was named late Wednesday to succeed Dr. D. R. Theophilus as University President, admitted surprise at the suddenness of the announcement of his appointment by Elvon Hampton, Genesee, president of the University's Board of Regents.

Hartung told the Argonaut in a telephone conversation yesterday that he was "surprised but delighted" at the announcement.

The announcement was expected late next week when the legislature is scheduled to adjourn but official plans were apparently disturbed when the story was carried in the student newspaper at the University of Rhode Island where the new Idaho head is presently Vice President and Provost.

In Washington for a Senate Hearing on Art and Humanities, Hartung said that he could not say now any policy changes that he plans when he comes to Moscow Aug. 1.

"I feel that one has to live with the institution before one has the rights and privileges of suggesting changes," he said.

Strong Student Government
In the areas of student government and fraternal living he stressed that Rhode Island has strong programs in both these areas.

"I have supported the Student Senate at Rhode Island during my tenure there and expect to do so at Idaho," he said.

An SAE at Dartmouth during his undergraduate years, Hartung said that although he does not consider himself a strong fraternity man, he feels generally that fraternities can be integrated into the educational system and be used as they were intended to further scholarship and morality.

Unanimous Choice
"Dr. Hartung was the first and unanimous choice of the Regents in seeking a worthy successor to Dr. Theophilus, who has for so long been such a potent factor in the progress of the University," Hampton said.

Dr. Francis H. Horn, president of the University of Rhode Island, commented:

"Losing Dr. Hartung is like cutting off my right arm . . . I have no doubt that he will prove to be an outstanding educational leader at the University of Idaho. He will, moreover, quickly be recognized as a major educational leader in state and region."

Was Acting President
During leaves of absence by Dr. Horn, Vice President Hartung has served as acting president.

LDS MEET
Tonight Mutual an LDS meeting will feature a vocal quartet contest at 7:30 p.m. at the LDS Center. Several groups will compete for the chance to represent the University ward in stake competition, according to Alan Jeppeson, LDS.

ident of the University of Rhode Island. He is also provost and coordinator of research.

Chosen From 100
Hartung, who will become the 12th president of the University of Idaho, was chosen from more than 100 candidates. All candidates were screened by a faculty committee, which recommended five men as the most outstanding. The five were brought to the campus for interviews. (Continued on Page 3, Col. 7)

Parallels Are Listed

A number of parallels between the University and the University of Rhode Island, where Idaho's new President, Dr. Ernest W. Hartung has served for the past 16 years, were noted by University Editor Rafe Gibbs yesterday.

The University of Rhode Island was founded in 1888 and Idaho in 1889 but both universities began functioning in higher education in 1892. Both universities are land grant universities.

Rhode Island has seven colleges and a graduate school and Idaho has eight colleges and a graduate school. Both changed the names of their various subdivisions from school to colleges in 1951.

Idaho's campus is 1,200 acres and Rhode Island campus covers 1,400. Both are located in small communities rather than cities.

The total of fraternities at Idaho numbers 16 and one colony with nine sororities. Rhode Island has 16 fraternities and eight sororities.

The name of the monthly magazine published by Rhode Island is "The Beacon." The history of the University of Idaho which was written by Gibbs is titled "Beacon for Mountain and Plain."

India Students Give U-I $100

A $100 check was presented to the University by the India Student Association according to President Theophilus.

"We give this money to the University in appreciation for all that they do for us," said Pat Oberoi, an Indian student here. "The money will be used to help the needs of Indian or other foreign students."

Dean Disappointed: Bd. Backs ISU Plan

Allen Janssen, dean of College of Engineering, said that he was "most disappointed" in the State Board of Education's decision to continue plans for creation of a nuclear engineering course at Idaho State University in a short interview Thursday.

Senate Bill 119, which provides for the creation of this course at ISU, has already passed the Senate.

Yesterday morning the State Board of Education met with the House Education Committee to go over provisions of a bill calling for establishment of such a course at Pocatello.

The bill will now go to the house for their consideration. Janssen, who opposed this bill, told the legislature last week that the establishment of this program would dilute engineering education in Idaho and would cost approximately $690,000 in the first year.

Janssen, who has served on engineering college accrediting teams, also said that he thought the new program would have trouble gaining accreditation, if it should pass the house.

He has also expressed concern over duplication of courses which he feels will follow the initiation of the program.

Dr. Lawrence Gale, acting president of ISU, denies that his school wants to compete with the University's engineering field.

Dr. Gale also said that the course, which would utilize facilities at the National Reactor Testing Station near Idaho Falls, would cost no more than $59,000 in the first two years.

The Golden Fleece

By Jason

"What are your plans after Aug. 1, Sir?" I asked Dr. Theophilus yesterday after the announcement of his successor's appointment.

"My plans are for the place of residence of my wife and myself to be in Moscow, Idaho, where we have lived and worked for years," was his reply as he leaned forward on his broad, white-topped desk.

Throughout those "years"—38 of them by next September—Dr. Donald R. Theophilus has been a symbol of the University. And throughout those "years" it has been fairly and appropriately said "With Dr. Theophilus, the University is always first."

For myself and the Argonaut editors who have preceded me, for the student leaders who have asked probing questions on how far their responsibility goes and have met frank and fair answers, and for the countless students whose lives have been affected by his decisions, I want to thank Dr. Theophilus for giving those 38 years to the University and to each of us.

"Remember . . ."

"Remember those who have come before you, those who are here now and those who will come after you," I have often heard him say.

Although I have heard these words often as a predecessor of mine observed, "You don't mind because you know he tells them to himself before he makes a decision affecting the University." And, like my predecessors these words have added something to my philosophy.

"I'm telling you this confidentially, but I think you should know it as part of your education," Dr. Theophilus has frequently said, as I have sought out pieces of the puzzles that often make a story.

Thank You

And for those parts of my education that often make the puzzles fit, I again want to say thank you to Dr. Theophilus.

"Just a minute and I'll get that information for you," Dr. Theophilus has said as he leaned to press a button on his intercom or walked to his files to get a report. This, too, has helped in the busy pre-publication moments.

As an earlier Argonaut editor said, and I can not say it better, "I will remember him, not because he was President of the University during my undergraduate days, but because he is a symbol of the University—cautious, but thorough . . . and always fair."

Interviews Set Tuesday

Interviews for committee members for the student opinion poll will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Russet Room of the Student Union Building.

The Opinion Poll committee conducts surveys of students on campus and off, in matters concerning anything of interest to the students.

Polls are also taken to determine effectiveness of publicity and to find out how much the students know about their student organizations and what they would like to have the student government do for them.

All students interested in trying out for this committee, may fill out an application blank in the ASUI office in the SUB, including on the application any ideas for the committee.

The Gadfly

By David Soper

Last Friday's "Arg" contained a letter under the sub-head "Profound" asking for a clarification of the purpose of the Vandal Lounge. The writer went on to advance his theory that it is to be a study area, even suggesting the spending of A.S.U.I. funds to erect glass show cases for exhibits. This might not be a bad idea.

However, there seems to be a difference of opinion over the purpose of the lounge. There are a number of places in which to study in silence. The library, the upstairs lounge (Appalosa), and many living groups provide silent space. The Vandal Lounge is just that . . . a place to lounge. One of the problems faced by the SUB people is to get greater utilization of the new facilities. This can't be done with uninformed students admonishing others to keep quiet, and discouraging students' comment on the Art displays: that is why they are there.

I don't know who first perpetrated the idea that the room was for study purposes solely. It is not true. The room was designed for relaxed conversation, a place to take a break, to admire or ridicule the art, to shoot the breeze with a buddy, or any other enjoyable pastime. I think the misunderstanding arose from the fact that few, at present, use the lounge and those that do are usually silent. Discussions with fellow students are as much a part of an education here as solitary scholarship. It should be encouraged, not attacked.

This column's deadline is Thursday p.m. Consequently, I normally don't get to comment on events happening between then and press time. However, Thursday at midnight saw the first of several editions of "Diogenes' Lantern."

From discussions with the publishers, I have a basic idea of its content. I agree in principle that things have been far from rosy and I welcome this new method of presenting fact and opinion to the campus. This afternoon at 4:30 will be a SUB Sound-off. I hope that everyone interested can find time to attend. It will have some surprises and some new and dramatic suggestions for action-plan to be there.

As best as can be determined, our new president-elect is the kind of man who likes to get things done. I was impressed by his diversity of interests and his relative youth. The word from Rhode Island is he is very interested in community affairs and he is quite adept at public relations. I believe he will be bringing youth and imagination with him to our top spot.

In Boise, we may have won one and lost one. Skyrocketing out of state tuition was wisely defeated, at least temporarily. There is still to be a $70 or $80 increase, but apparently not a $750 tag.

For some obscure reason, the many-hatted Board of Regents still seek to establish Nuclear Engineering at ISU. They are doing this in opposition to the best engineers in the state. Idaho is now in the top 10 in Engineering nationally. I cannot understand any logic that advocates establishing a competitive situation that will, in the long haul, prove to be expensive and as far as Idaho and ISU are concerned self-destructive.

Dear Jason

A. Bob Invites

Dear Jason: An apology. University officials have not conspired against the student government. The University administration is not a disease. If I left any "Marley Column" fans with that impression I am sorry. I made a mistake.

There are currently few University administrators who are not dedicated to the University. But these dedicated people do make mistakes. The mistakes, whether improper job descriptions, outdated womens rules, and improper attitude towards academics or faculty intellectual freedom should and must be pointed out by student government . . . in a constructive manner.

If student government regards the administration as an unviolable golden cow administrative mistakes may never be corrected. Our level of education may suffer as a result. Do we expect the Board of Regents, which hired the administration, which made the boo-boo or the faculty who get their paychecks from the administration to point out the error?

If students are afraid to speak out and instead live under undesirable rules, attitudes, etc. that is the students fault. The students jointly share the blame for administrative lack of faith in the student. You can only intimidate those who accept intimidation.

Thus the student government's defeatist "they won't let us" attitude is as much to blame for inadequacies in student government as the "you can't" attitude of the administration. They live together and die together.

Student government devoid of defeatism can do just about anything — just ask Dr. Gittens, E-Board advisor—or read last Friday's Gadfly.

Let's stop losing the battle before it's fought.

Let's approach our projects with a "we believe in it, we need it, we will fight for it" attitude. The results will be a better University and a better education — and a better University and better education is student government's only goal.

Come to the SUB Sound-off at 4:30 today or right after the Vandal rally.

No Van Cliburn

Just Suppose . . .

By Leo Jeffers Argonaut Managing Editor

Someone will tell you about the good points of Al Hirt. In fact, I'm sure many people would. Mr. Hirt is, in the true sense, a jazz musician. He is an individual, not on the competitive basis of Van Cliburn. Al Hirt has his own type of jazz, and Mr. Cliburn has his own type of symphonic music too, I'm sure. This leads me to believe that jazz and classical music are two different types of music, and can not be compared on the same basis.

It is also my opinion that music is to be enjoyed instead of criticized. Al Hirt is one of the few musicians that has been truly enjoyed by so many and to such a full extent. It may be true that he weighs 299 pounds, and has a beard. Not to be critical, but more on the comparative side, Van Cliburn is a thin and run-down looking person. Want more examples? Ella Fitzgerald is rather large, and she is a woman. Yet her singing has literally enthralled millions. A blind person can enjoy music just as much or more than a person with sight. It is not the appearance of the person that makes him what he is, but the quality of the material that he produces. If it was, I'm sure Al Hirt would have never made the top.

In conclusion, music is what you want it to be. If you enjoy Van Cliburn, go see Van Cliburn. If you hate Al Hirt, that's your opinion, but variety is the spice of life. After all have you really tried?

Idaho Students Stream Into Fallout Shelters?

Just Suppose . . .

By Leo Jeffers Argonaut Managing Editor

H-Bomb Flash! . . . Idaho students stream into 17 fallout shelters . . . Spokane's Fairchild Air Base disappears under a mushroom . . . Spokane residents stream eastward . . . U-I student cracks after two weeks in "Noah's Ark."

If the Vietnam situation escalated into a world holocaust and bombs began flying through the air toward the U.S.A., where would University students "hide" from the possibly fatal radiation rays?

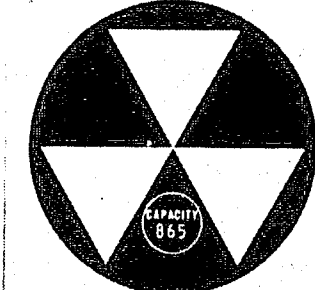

This question led the Argonaut to investigate the Civil Defense facilities and plans for Idaho students if such a hypothetical situation did occur.

Some 17 buildings on the University campus have bomb shelter facilities for 10,757 students, according to a July 1964 survey initiated by the U.S. Department of Civil Defense.

The largest and most adequate shelter is the basement of the Wallace Complex, according to Kenneth Dick, University financial vice president. The Complex shelter holds 2,500 students and was built specifically as a bomb shelter.

A tour through the Complex "bomb shelter" facilities leads directly to the two decontamination centers of tall thick cement walls with showers and depositories for contaminated clothes. After being issued "new clothes" students would arrive at their next destination—the large day room.

SLEEPING ROOMS Two sleeping rooms, storage space, a water treatment room, and kitchen facilities complete the "home away from home." University Housing Director Robert Greene has received instruction in civil defense shelter.

The Complex has enough bed to accommodate the capacity designated by rotating in shifts. One group of students would sleep for several hours and then return to the day room while another shift caught a few "z's," according to Greene.

The Complex bomb shelter also has an infirmary, two toilets and storage centers.

The two collections of Federal government supplied materials include a wide variety of "necessary" equipment. Sanitation kits and empty water barrels are piled in the storage area.

The 1964 survey revised the previous capacity estimations of the U.S. Department of Civil Defense.

The revisions in the capacities of University buildings is due to changing standards, according to George Gagon, U-I engineer. The last National Fallout Shelter Survey was completed under the supervision of the U.S. Army Engineers. The new Physical Science Building has not been included in the survey yet, he said.

The Student Union Building "bomb shelter" (basement) was said to have a capacity of 2,165 students; University Library, 500; Memorial Gymnasium, 2,100; Engineering Building, 632; Home Economics, 500; and Music, Kirtley Engineering Lab, Infirmary, Administration, Agriculture Science, and other buildings, between 100 and 150.

There are enough stored supplies on hand at the University for all these facilities, said Gagon.

In addition to the sanitation kits and water drums, radiation detector kits, concentrated crackers, and medical kits are stocked.

The University Information Center would serve as the "command post" for civil defense operations if the situation arose, said President Dick. The Center would also serve in such a capacity in case of an emergency or catastrophe on campus, he added.

"The University has space and will provide civil defense housing for all students for whom they provide housing," said Dick. "We have food, shelter, emergency rations to take care of students on an austerity basis," he said.

Century Club Invades Houses

Members of the University Century Club invaded the men's living groups last night as part of a program to boost interest in the Idaho-Idaho State game tonight.

The programs included mock team interviews and skits of Vandals chasing the Bengals.

Pre-game skits such as these are a part of the Century Club's program in boosting sports, according to Nadene Kantola, Tri Delta.

Campus Chest Week Starts Monday; U-I Sophs Plan Events For Charity

Campus Chest Week, sponsored by the sophomore class, starts Monday, according to Dick Rush, Delt, sophomore class president.

Events planned for the week are an Ugly Man contest, house auction, car smash and dance featuring a Charleston contest during intermission. All money received during the week will be donated to charity.

The Ugly Man contest starts Monday and will run the entire week. All men's living groups should put up a candidate and campaign for him, said Bob Wise, SAE, publicity chairman.

"This year we expect more active campaigning with serenades and lunch hour visits to the women's living groups," he said.

Jars will be put in the Bucket and students can vote for their choice for Ugly Man by putting money in the jars, he said.

Ugly Man

The Ugly Man will be named at the dance Friday night and will reign for the coming year, said Wise.

Candidates for Ugly Man are: John Croner, Delta Sig; LeRoy Gornick, Sigma Chi; Norman Lohr, FarmHouse; Joe McCollum, SAE; Mike Jacobs, Campus Club; Danny Dick, Christian; Tom Shields, Gault.

Others are: Leon Moore, Lindley; Jerry Skaffe, McConnell; Phil Stonebraker, Shoup; Terry Scott, Upham; Mike Riener, Willis Sweet; Mike Wicks, ATO; Bill Chipman, Delta Chi; Morris Campbell, Delt.

Andy Christoff, Kappa Sig; Paul Freudenthal, Lambda Chi; Chick Rogers, Phi Delt; Bob McCray, Phi; Tim Shea, Phi Tau; Mike Patano, Sigma Nu; Milt Slavin, TKE; Dick Klampfer, Theta Chi; Ed Frost, Phi K A.

The house auction will be Wednesday at 7 p.m. in the SUB ballroom, said Wise.

Each living group puts up a party and a tentative date for its auction and the houses bid for each other, said Rush.

Derby Day Spectacle To Begin With Parade

The spectacle of Derby Day, an annual event in the Sigma Chi search for a Sweetheart, begins at 9 a.m. tomorrow with a parade of vehicles decorated by members of each women's living group.

Starting in the SUB parking lot, the parade will wind through the campus and end at the Sigma Chi house, where further Derby Day events, open to the public, will take place.

Nine events, including an egg drop, tomato throw, and "deck a pledge," will be on a competitive basis, with the living group scoring the highest number of points to be declared Derby Day winner.

"The winner of Derby Day does not affect the house's decision on choosing a sweetheart," said Ben Blick, co-chairman. "It's a day for fun."

Sweetheart candidates from each living group will be team captains and in charge of organizing their group's activities, according to Blick.

The captain and one assistant from each team will participate in the egg drop, with the assistant trying to drop two eggs from the balcony of the Sigma Chi House into a plate three inches in diameter held under the captain's chin.

Sigma Chi members will be targets for team captains and three assistants during the tomato throw. Team members will have one tomato each with which to bombard the target, and points will be awarded for each hit.

Each team will pick one Sigma Chi pledge for the deck a pledge event. Teams will have 15 minutes to dress the pledge in any way they see fit without removing essential clothing. The finished product will be judged on character and originality.

The winner will be announced and awards presented at 11:45 a.m., after which the Sweetheart candidates will spend the afternoon with the Sigma Chis.

Idaho's Student Union Building will soon have two new improvements in its basement.

The first one to be completed will be a snack bar in the Dipper where coffee and soft drinks will be served.

The second, which will be completed sometime this semester by the Art Department, is a mural depicting a Viking battle scene.

According to Maun Rudisill, program advisor of the SUB, funds were appropriated last year for this project. It is part of an over-all scheme of "putting personality and life" into the SUB.

The theme and design were worked out by Vic Reynolds, off-campus, who said that he obtained his idea from "Joe Vandal." Reynolds will supervise the painting after he finishes the preliminary sketching. Miss Kirkwood's classes will then complete the mural.

According to Dean Vetrus, food service director at the SUB, the snack bar in the Dipper will be open in a week or two with a manned "paper service" for students.

Present plans indicate that it will be open during all regular Dipper hours, but that the demand for sandwiches, etc. will have to be present before they are added.

ATO And Willis Sweet Capture League Crowns, Play For Title

The Alpha Tau Omega cage squad combined consistent free throw shooting and crucial buckets from the field to roll to 47-43 victory over the SAE five in Wednesday night's Greek Championship clash in Memorial Gymnasium.

The Tauswill represent the Greek league Friday night when they meet Independent Willis Sweet in the preliminary action to the Vandal battle with Idaho State. The Willis Sweet cagers captured the Independent crown Tuesday night when they defeated Gault Hall 37-31.

Reel Cliff Hanger

Wednesday night's "battle of the Greeks" was a real cliff hanger as the scoring lead saw-sawed back and forth between the teams until mid-way through the fourth quarter when ATO pulled ahead and retained their edge.

Until then, it was anybody's game as the SAE's led by hot shooting John Fouria and Mike Tunison, pressured the ATO lead on more than one occasion.

Emehiser Hot

The SAE forward wall didn't seem to be able to find the key to stopping ATO standout Bob Emehiser as he repeatedly drilled the hoop from everywhere on the floor. The Tau forward also led his team in rebounding as he picked the boards on several crucial occasions.

Emehiser captured the individual scoring honors for the game with 19. He was followed by Larry Sappington who canned eight points from the field and added an addition 4 from the charity stripe for 12. Richards hit for 6. Amos and Zgonzelski both had four tallies, and John Bardelli hit for 2. Fouria and Tunison led SAE Fouria led the SAE scoring race with 16. He was followed by Dick Arndt who hit for 10. Mike Tunison found the bucket for 9, and Rich Hall and John Whitney dumped in another 8. With the wrap up of the intramural "A" basketball play-offs, the following other scores were reported following the maple court action on Tuesday and Wednesday night. Tuesday night Upham Hall dumped McConnell Hall, 41-35; Borah Hall defeated Gault Hall in a real close one, 37-36; the Phi Deltis edged past Lambda Chi 21-30; Willis Sweet rolled over Lindley Hall 47-40; Delta Sig beat TKE, 46-42; and the Kappa Sigs thumped the Theta Chis, 30-19.

Seattle To Finish Season After Losing Star Cagers

The Seattle University Chieftains, rocked back on their heels by a point shaving scandal, regrouped Thursday to try to press on with their basketball campaign.

When they meet Nevada in Reno Saturday and Utah State in Logan, Utah, Monday, they'll be minus the help of their team captain, Charlie Williams, and two other teammates, Peller Phillips and L. J. Wheeler.

Three Expelled

The three were expelled from Seattle University after the FBI arrested guards Williams and Phillips Wednesday night on charges of bribery and conspiracy to affect the outcome of the Chieftains' game against the University of Idaho, Jan 22.

At the same time, Williams and Phillips, both 21, and both seniors, were arrested. The FBI arrested Leo Casale, 24-year-old owner of a Chicago cocktail lounge, in that city.

Wheeler Implicated

The Rev. Timothy Cronin, chairman of the SU board of athletics said Wheeler, 22-year-old Chieftain pivotman, was ousted along with Williams and Phillips because he knew of the incident and didn't report it. "Really victimized" Father Cronin said he and other officials of the university got the impression from talking to Phillips and Williams that they "were really victimized."

"Peller said that had it been a professional gambler, they wouldn't have talked to him," Father Cronin said. "But it was a fellow he knew. He thought he was kidding. He gave then apparently a big song and dance. They were just taken for a ride."

"I'm Innocent"

Williams remained unavailable for comment but Phillips said he intends to plead innocent at a preliminary hearing in Seattle March 1. In discussing the charge in the presence of his attorneys, Phillips declared, "I do feel I'm innocent."

His expression was glum as he was interviewed and said, "I feel very bad this came about like this, because a lot of people have been shocked. I'm hoping they won't judge me, or Charlie, until we're proven innocent."

The young athlete said he felt particularly bad that he and Williams had been hung in effigy from a flagpole at the university Thursday.

Vandals Face Tough Weekend

Cramer Set To Attend European Track Meets

Vandal swimming coach, John Cramer has received an invitation from the Swedish State Department to represent the United States in several track meets in Sweden and other parts of Europe this summer.

Two European Records The Idaho tank mentor has competed as a pole vaulter in three previous meets in Europe. He is the holder of the Irish national pole vault record — a title that he has broken on five different occasions.

Cramer also holds the Scottish national record in that event. His best vault is 18'7".

Cramer, who is in his first year as finmen boss, has coached several European decathlon teams as part of the goodwill tour.

Athletic Goodwill "I am a great believer in the medium of athletics as a means of aiding the cause of worldwide peace in goodwill," Cramer said. "As a competitor in several European track meets, I have made many lasting friends among the cinder men of many different countries."

"Just Like Us" Cramer said that he found the Russians to be very friendly people—"just like us."

He recalled talking to a

U-I Finmen Set Records

Three more Frosh swimming records were broken Tuesday when the Vandal tankmen clashed with the Washington State yearlings.

Finmen Fritz von Tagen smashed two meet records as he raced the length of the pool to chalk up his sixth record since he joined the Frosh squad. The former Walnut Creek, Calif. swimmer shaved nearly three seconds off the old 100-yard butterfly to win that event with a time of 58.2.

Von Tagen also swam the 500-yard free style in record time as he E-raced Brian Anderson's two year old record of 6:22. Von Tagen went the distance in 6:11.5.

Frosh tank man Frank Burlison followed in Von Tagen's wake as he too shaved three seconds off an old meet record. Burlison raced his way through the 100-yard breast stroke in 1:12.3.

TENNIS COURTS The Idaho tennis courts were completed in 1934. They were situated across from the Memorial Gymnasium.

Moreland Leads Rebounders Moreland, the former all-stater from Coeur d'Alene, still leads the team in rebounds with 231, and is closing in on a pair of Idaho field goal shooting records. As the mainstay of the Vandal forward wall, big Tom already holds the season mark and could break his own standard and establish a career record as well.

Big Weekend This weekend the Vandals face traditional rival Idaho State and current league leader Weber State in a pair of Big Sky games. Coach Goddard and company hold a pair of wins over ISU, and the Bengals haven't beat Idaho since 1962. Weber, on the other hand, has never lost to the Vandals and has a three-game streak going

U-I Cagers Set To Clash With ISU, Weber State

Vandal coach Jim Goddard's basketball philosophy that anybody can beat anybody on a given night on the maple court came true beyond his wildest dreams last Saturday night when the Western Washington Vikings rolled to a 67-64 victory over the Idaho five.

That's It In A Nutshell "We were outlasted for the free ball and on the boards — that's the whole story in a nutshell," Goddard said. "If you don't get those—and we didn't get them—you lose."

Basically, the Vandals were not quick enough to compete against the Vikings' small forward wall, the Idaho cage mentor pointed out.

Couldn't Hit "This plus the fact that they couldn't miss from the free throw line and we couldn't even make the easy shot just about sums it up," Goddard continued.

The Idaho coach said that he did not analyze the team in terms of a team let down, especially in light of their season record.

However, he noted that the big problem Saturday night was the same as the one that's been plaguing the Vandals all season — seeming inability to pick off the offensive rebounds coupled with a lack of consistency in field shooting.

Rucker and Skafte Praised Goddard praised the fine offensive and defensive work on the outside by the Idaho speedsters, John Rucker and Jerry Skafte.

Both Rucker and Skafte, as well as the other men who have seen action on the outside, have played fine steady ball all season," he said.

Skafte has moved back into the top spot in the Vandal scoring race with 326 points: four more than last week's leader Tom Moreland.

Moreland Leads Rebounders Moreland, the former all-stater from Coeur d'Alene, still leads the team in rebounds with 231, and is closing in on a pair of Idaho field goal shooting records. As the mainstay of the Vandal forward wall, big Tom already holds the season mark and could break his own standard and establish a career record as well.

Toughest Weekend "This will undoubtedly be our toughest weekend of the season," Goddard noted. "Idaho State has got to win—so do we for that matter. Their season record looks a lot like ours."

The Idaho cage mentor stated that winning Friday night's clash was a matter of state pride, especially in light of the recent recognition ISU received from the legislature.

Moscow Mtn. To Be Scene Of Ski Hill

A new ski area, within 15 minutes drive of Moscow, was proposed last Friday by the owners of the North-South Ski Bowl at Emida.

Merle and Fred Craner, operators of the Emida ski area, revealed the purchase of land on Moscow Mountain. They hope to have a new ski area ready for use during the 1965-66 season.

Immediate Construction The Craners plan to begin immediate work on construction of a modern day lodge, complete with cafeteria, ski shop and rental facilities. Uphill facilities will include a 2,000-foot T-bar and a 1000-foot rope tow.

Easy Access The ski area is located seven miles northeast of Moscow in the Robinson Lake area. A major part of the area is cleared land and will need a minimum of grooming, the new owners report.
