Fall Completion Scheduled

A new classroom building, dairy science center and a third wing for the Wallace Complex are scheduled for completion by next fall.

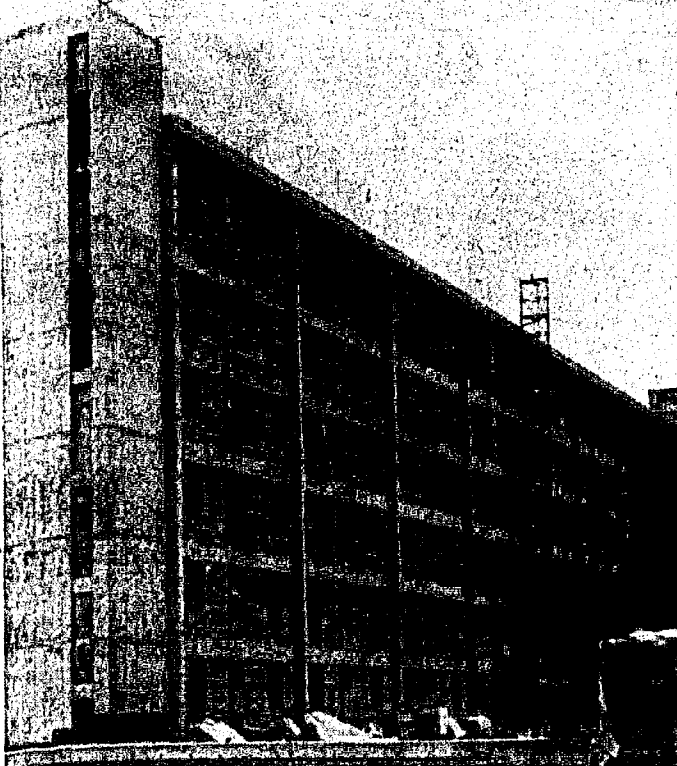

The classroom building is now having the north brick wall finished and interior work is being done on the first floor. The concrete and steel frames for the second and third floors are also going up, said George Gagon, University engineer.

"If we don't have any strikes, there is a pretty good chance it will be completed on schedule in August," he said.

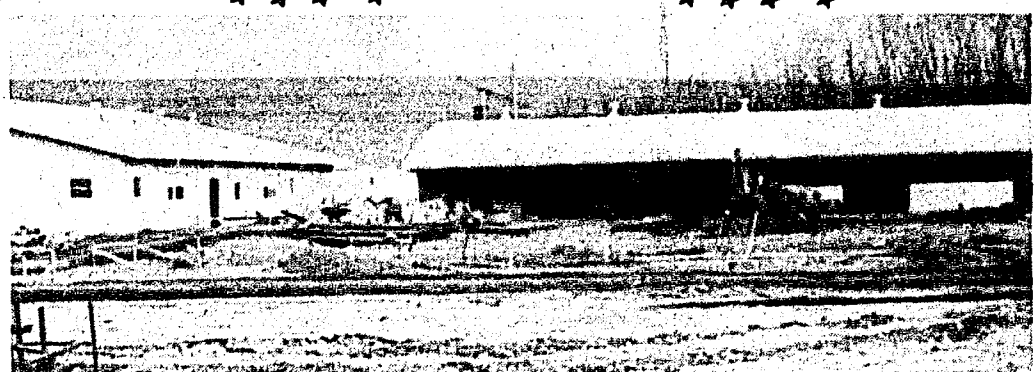

The dairy science center, scheduled for completion in May or a little later, will include a milking barn, calf barn, maternity and research barn, isolation barn and hay storage and manger units, he said.

The new six-story wing of the Wallace Complex is scheduled for completion in August. The windows are being put in and electrical and mechanical work is being done on all six floors, Gagon said.

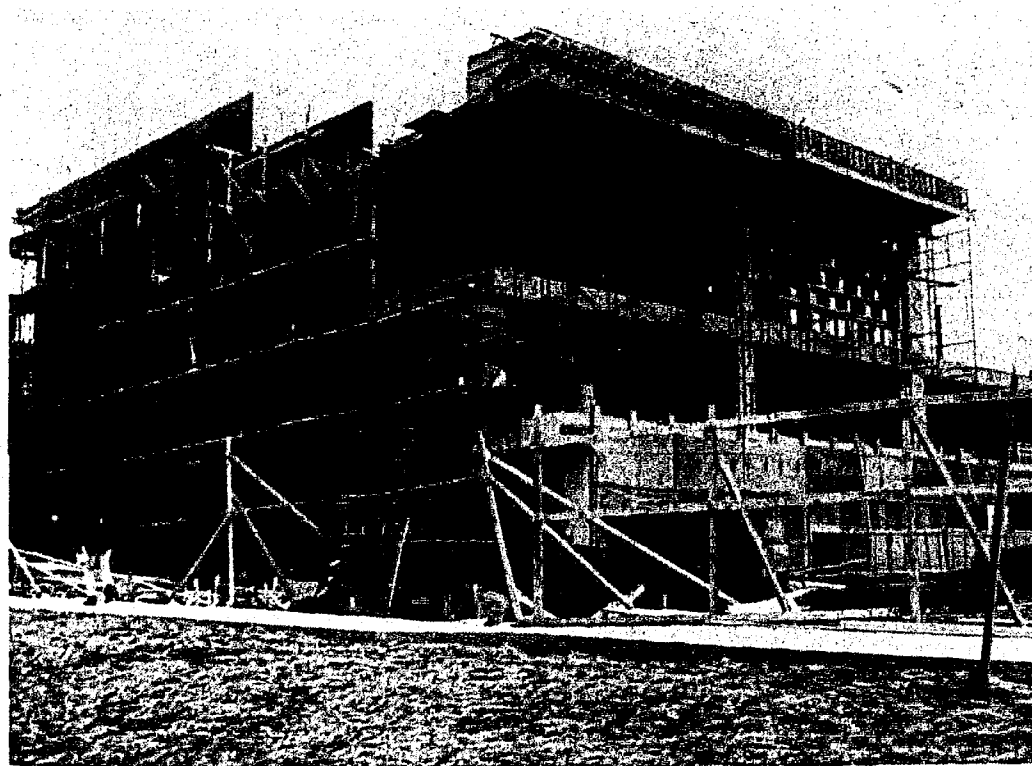

It is expected to house approximately 315 students.

WALLACE WING—Windows are being set into the new six story wing of the Wallace Complex. The wing, which is scheduled for completion in August, is scheduled to house 315 University women.

COW COLONY—The new Dairy Science Center,

IDAHO—EDIFICE—The second and third stories of the new University classroom building are being formed in with steel and concrete braces. Bricking is being completed on the north wall. The building is due for completion in late May.

Prof To Fill U-I Vacancy

Dr. J. D. Seader, a nationally-known authority on aerospace chemistry, has been named professor of chemical engineering at Idaho, effective September 1, it was announced recently by President D. R. Theophilus.

Dr. Seader will fill a vacancy in the chemical engineering department when Dr. M. L. Jackson, department head, becomes dean of the Graduate school, following the retirement June 30 of Dean L. C. Cady. For seven years, Dr. Seader was employed by the Standard Oil Co. of California in process and plant design.

"Detour" Debut

PULLMAN—The Borderline is out and the Detour is in—maybe—the non-official newspaper voice of students at Washington-State University.

But the red-faced editor of the new student publication may be wondering about the choice of its title. Detour, which had been labeled as a new paper for "free thinking students," was to have made its first appearance on campus last week.

It didn't show. The material for the first edition was put on a scheduled airline for Yakima, where it was to have been printed and delivered back to the campus by air Wednesday afternoon.

When the papers didn't show, Editor Bill Halstead of Tacoma called the printing plant and found that the paste-ups for the offset publication had not yet arrived in Yakima.

"We hope to come out next week," the chagrined editor reported. "But we haven't set a definite date yet." Last year, students at WSU and at Idaho published the Borderline, an unofficial student newspaper, which was distributed on both campuses.

"Spoken Mind" featuring an interview by Dave Soper, off-campus, with Lt. Charlotte Kinney of the WACS will begin the evening. Lt. Kinney will describe the junior WAC program of the Army, and show a film of junior WAC in training at Fort McClellan, Georgia.

According to Soper, the junior WAC program enables college co-eds to spend one month on active duty with pay at Fort McClellan during the summer, after which they are under no obligation to continue. However, girls wishing to continue may finish college and then receive an officer's commission at graduation.

At 6:30, President Theophilus will report on the condition of the University, what has happened in the past month and what is projected for next month. This is the first of a series of monthly reports to be given by the President.

At 7:00, "Probe" will feature Vice-president Kenneth Dick and University Engineer George Gagon discussing "The Campus Plan" with moderator Dave Soper. Soper said the high points of the discussion will be, 1—location of future buildings on the U-I campus; 2—development of pedestrian ways; 3—removal of auto traffic from the center of the campus; and 4—open space development, including malls and recreational areas.

"Probe" is a product of the ASUI Educational Development Commission and this is one of a series of such programs.

The final program of the evening will be an interview by Dave Soper with the poet Garry DeYoung, who was on campus a few weeks ago promoting his books of prose and poetry.

Sales Tax To Effect U of I Trade

How will the new Idaho tax affect University students? According to a recent Staff Letter, "the sales tax will apply to sales (consumer items) by the University in its various areas."

The sales tax appears to apply to all purchases at the Bookstore, at the Student Union and all sales for consumption, including dairy products, meats, fruits and vegetables from the various departments, according to J. W. Watts, business manager.

Board payments in the dormitories will also be affected although it is not yet certain how the tax will be applied, Watts indicated.

The sales tax will not apply to services at the University. Services include dormitory rooms rented for over 30 days and services at the infirmary.

Final details on the act are not yet available, but this is the present understanding of the act, Watts indicated.

ALLIANCE FOR PROGRESS — Jim Johnston, ASUI president, and Dick Rush, Campus Chest chairman, on behalf of the student body present a $200 check to Dr. Boyd Martin, dean of the College of Letters and Science. The money, made during Campus Chest Week, goes to the National Alliance for Progress Fund.

U-I Campus Chest Money Is Divided For Charities

Evaluation and ensuing distribution of money in the Campus Chest account has taken place within the last two weeks, according to Dick Rush, Delt, sophomore class president.

The $5031.40 discovered in the Chest account a week ago, undistributed allocations to charity from previous drives has been divided in three parts. One part $1500 will form an emergency charity fund. Another part, $1400, is money not sent out last year. This was sent out a week ago.

The remaining money after this has been subtracted, $2081.40, has been added to the $3137.50 made this year by the Campus Chest drive, bringing the total to $5218.90.

Division

The report of the division of money has been turned into Executive Board, according to Rush, and will be evaluated tonight along with approval of the charities the sophomore extended board has selected.

These charities include Idaho Crippled Children, Idaho Heart Assn., Moscow Opportunity School, Lewiston Children's Home, Idaho Youth Ranch,

Elks Rehabilitation Center, St. Joseph's Children's Home in Culesac, United Fund Drive, March of Dimes and the Cancer Fund.

"Alliance"

The final allocation is to the Partner's of the Alliance, established by the government. Under this program each state is given one South American country to aid. Idaho's country is Bolivia, to which it must contribute $20,000.

The Sophomore Class presented Boyd Martin, dean of the College of Letters and Science and chairman of the Idaho drive, with $400.

Oberoi's Pet Peeve

Foreigners Need To Mix More

By LEO JEFFRES

Argonaut Managing Editor Foreign students should mix more with other University students to learn to know Americans better, said "Pat" Lalpal Singh Oberoi, Executive Board member, in an interview yesterday.

Students attending Idaho from other countries should take more part in campus activities, he said. This is the main problem — how to know the American student.

The Executive Board member recommended that new foreign students live in the University dormitories for two semesters before transferring off campus.

"This would bring them into more contact with other students and in this way help them to understand the social life, American customs, and the new food," said Oberoi.

The Indian student was asked if he felt the foreign student had been accepted at Idaho.

"I think they have been accepted well, but still the U-I campus is very conservative on the whole and does not offer enough social life for the foreign students," he answered.

Communications Bad

Oberoi suggested more exchanges and communication between Idaho and foreign students.

out on foreign students and the adoption of a foreign student by a living group would help solve this problem of communication," he said.

Under the adoption program the foreign student would visit his host living group and tell about his country and life there, he added.

The Executive Board member also called for more participation of American students in the programs of foreign students. He cited India Night and activities planned by the "Cosmo" Club as examples.

More Information

Oberoi recommended making more information available for foreign students when they arrive on the Idaho campus.

"More information on the ASUI and the University should be presented to all new foreign students," he said. "At the present, second semester foreign students do not receive the materials explaining the campus and the ASUI which are sent to first semester foreign students."

The Executive Board member felt the roll of the foreign student at the University had changed during the past year. "They have participated in more ASUI activities this past year," said Oberoi. "They have also performed many educational programs at the University."

He cited International Students Week, which was sponsored by the International Student (Continued on Page 2, Col

Winger's Eligibility For Executive Board Contested At Meeting

Election Board has been studying the various sides of a controversy involving the eligibility of Jim Winger, Gault, to assume a position on ASUI Executive Board and will present its decision to Executive Board tonight, according to Ray Fortin, Phi Delt, chairman of the Board.

Following Winger's election last Wednesday, his eligibility was contested on the ground he had filed for a degree this June and would not return next year.

The ASUI Constitution states that nine people from either the incoming junior or senior class will be elected to Executive Board.

Associates of Winger are reportedly circulating a petition because they think he might be judged ineligible tonight, according to Jim Johnston, ASUI president.

Dropping, Class

Winger indicates he is dropping a class and plans to return next year to seek a degree in secondary education.

Boyd Yee, Beta, would be the next person to move up to Executive Board should Winger be termed ineligible.

The report will be submitted to Executive Board this evening. Another proposal for selecting the next member which may be proposed is an entire redistribution of ballots, according to Johnston.

Jeopardy

This would place in jeopardy the election of the last five members of Executive Board. Johnston said. These five did not receive the 270 first place votes expected to stay on the ballot.

According to Fortin, neither he nor Larry Nye, president of Election Committee, have been notified of any petitions secret meeting, or the like, which students have been said to be instigating.

"The proper place for treating any dispute is in an authorized Executive Board meeting," Fortin said.

The eligibility of Ruth Ann Knapp, Ethel Steel, a recently elected Executive Board member, was also debated. Election Board has said she is eligible, according to Johnston, on the basis that she has not filed for a degree and cannot graduate until a year from June.

According to Johnston, this will also be brought up at the Executive Board meeting tonight, which will begin at 7:30 p.m. and will be open to the public.

SOUND-OFF

SUB Sound-Off will be Friday at 4:50 with Dick Rush, sophomore president, as moderator, according to Jim Freeman, chairman of the Coffee Hours and Forums Committee.

Movie On Morals To Be Shown

"Tomorrow will be Too Late" is the thesis of the Moral Re-Armament program on campuses all over the world said

Dr. Hartung Stops Here Wednesday

Dr. and Mrs. Ernest W. Hartung, the University's president designate, will stop briefly at Moscow Wednesday night and Thursday morning on their way to a reception given in their honor by Gov. Robert E. Smylie, Thursday night at Boise.

The new University president and his wife will stop at Moscow mainly to look at possible presidential houses but while they are here Dr. Hartung will hold a press conference and will video-tape an interview at the Radio-TV center. The taped interview will be sent to area television stations, according to Rafe Gibbs, University editor.

Original plans were for the University to build a new Presidential home when the successor to Dr. D. R. Theophilus was named. University officials are now considering buying a home for the President.

While the Hartungs are in Moscow, they will be accompanied by Elvon Hampton, Genesee, President of the University's Board of Regents.

Recital Planned

Dick Bourassa, off campus, will play the piano at his senior recital Thursday at 8 p.m. in Recital Hall in the Music Building.

Bourassa, who will graduate in June with a B.M., will play pieces by Bach, and Brahms,

Ken Twitchell, who has brought this program to Idaho.

This movie will be shown along with another movie entitled "Profile 64" Wednesday at 7 p.m., in the Borah Theater.

The first movie shows a tour of campuses all over America by Peter Howard, British author, playwright and sportsman.

Howard, who had been in charge of this program for 3 years until his death in February, challenged this generation to take up a revolution to modernize man in order to match the needs of the world of the future.

A conference inspired by Mr. Howard will be held this summer in Michigan for 10,000 students in the United States and other countries. Information regarding this conference will be available after the movies, Twitchell said.

Twitchell spent two years in Africa with this program and his wife spent over a year in Latin America.

Only 1 Student Enters Pageant

Only one application was turned in by the deadline yesterday for the Miss U of I pageant, according to John Cooksey, general chairman.

"I guess if only one girl runs for Miss U of I, then she will be declared the winner," said Cooksey.

Applications will now have to be turned in by Friday, Mar. 26, in order to be considered.

Preliminaries are scheduled April 1, with finals slated April 30.

To compete, girls must be over 18 years of age,

The Golden Fleece

By Jason

The new E-Board has one poorly written lesson it should consider from the pages laid out by the old boys who will soon step down to being just-plain-students. Closed nights have a purpose.

This year's E-Board decided that in the past too many closed nights were scheduled for all-campus events. Saturday night's Junior-Senior Night (it used to be a Prom) failed miserably. Part of the blame should be chalked up to poorly laid plans and a too-informal, semi-formal dance.

Perhaps more of the blame should be laid to too much competition from house activities on the same night. This problem used to be eliminated automatically when closed nights were declared for the big all-campus events.

Tic, Tic TIC

TIC sounds more like a bug than someone to whom Idaho male students always refer when they talk about a finicky date. But looking around at campus cuties maybe they've decided to use the phrase in a different vein.

As of this writing, only one—and she must be an UN-TYPICAL IDAHO COED—has applied for the title of Miss University of Idaho this year. This is in spite of the beautiful public relations point that last year's Miss University of Idaho won the Miss Idaho Pageant, a trip to Atlantic City, a new Oldsmobile every month or so, etc., etc.

Maybe this year the coed-cuties have decided to kiss it all off. TSK, TSK TIC.

In The Same Vein

Honest Abe and his buddies at Lindley Hall just wouldn't listen to reason last Wednesday. They've got a complex over there and are trying to carry the campus-cross on their shoulders.

It seems that some living groups can't get candidates on the ballot in campus elections. (By the way, this is a legitimate gripe, sometimes.) But some of the living groups don't try with much of an effort.

Lindley's STYMIE QUANTOZ, however, wouldn't have needed many more votes to get a seat on E-Board. He polled 96 first place votes in our St. Pat's day election.

The power of a write-in was demonstrated in the election when Gault and Upham elected Jim Winger to a seat on E-Board and when the Betas with a campaign nearly got their Boyd Yee on.

Reactions that student government is a farce are uncalled for. Student government does the job it was designed to do. If students want it to do more—and it can—students themselves must support and elect the candidates they want to do that job. Stymie Quantoz was not such a "candidate."

ELEGIBILITY, A BIG QUESTION

Mrs. Hemingway Picks Idaho For Scholarship

A University journalism student will become the fourth recipient of a coveted $500 scholarship because of a recent choice made by Mrs. Mary Hemingway, wife of the late world-renowned author Ernest Hemingway. The award will be presented during the luncheon in Chicago on Sunday, May 2.

Here's More About—Foreigners

Named as this year's guest speaker at the fourth annual Chicago Ladies of the Press luncheon, Mrs. Hemingway was asked to select the school of her choice to receive the 1965 award bearing her name. She named the University of Idaho.

Each year, at its annual Ladies of the Press luncheon, the Chicago chapter presents a $500 scholarship to a young woman in her sophomore or junior year, with at least a B average, who has need of help to finish her journalism studies. Past winners have attended the University of Missouri, the University of Wisconsin and the University of Texas.

Father's Life Is Play Theme

"Life With Father" by the late Clarence Day and rewritten for the stage by Russell Crouse and Howard Lindsay will be presented on the University of Idaho theater stage March 25, 26, and 27, according to Professor Jean Collette, chairman of drama.

The story of "Life With Father" gives an inside view of family life of the 1880's.

Advisor Needed

Obero estimated that 137 foreign students attend the University.

He recommended a full-time foreign student advisor be appointed.

"I think the number of foreign students at Idaho will increase yearly because the University has a good educational program and is very accepted in other countries," he said.

The Executive Board member was asked to list problems of the new foreign student at the University.

Interviews Set In SUB Tonight

Interviews for the general chairman for New Student Days will be held tonight in the Student Union Building at 7 p.m. All applications should be in the ASUI office by 5 p.m. today.

The general chairman works jointly with the faculty chairman to plan such programs as President's convocation, Frosh-Faculty Forums, Frosh Night at the SUB, and general student orientation.

'U' Blue Key Talent Show Tickets Set

"Tickets for the Blue Key Talent Show, scheduled April 2 at 7:30 p.m. in the Memorial Gymnasium, will go on sale next week," said Jim Johnston, ASUI president.

Derald Hurlburt and A. Robert Marley, off campus, masters-of-ceremonies, will introduce sixteen acts picked in recent judging by Blue Key members.

Joy Esser will lead off the show with an organ solo following which he will furnish background music for Bill Southwick's magic act.

Folk singing, dance solos and vocal solos will also be featured. The Kappa Sigs and Mike Feuhrer's drum solo will be the concluding numbers on the program.

Individual

The acts are classified as individual, group or all-house. The best act from each of these categories will be picked by three judges from Moscow and WSU.

The show will run approximately two hours with a ten minute intermission. While the judges make their decisions, the members of Blue Key will present a skit.

Practices are Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. and April 1, which will be a dress rehearsal in the Memorial Gymnasium.

REPORT RELEASED

A report released recently by University Associate Professor Carleton N. Savage, as published by the Idaho Bureau of Mines and Geology, points out that carbonate rock deposits south of the Lewiston-Clarkston area on the Snake river could help in making the Pacific Northwest an industrial colossus.

Some E-Board members have tried to ignore this program, he added.

U-I Honorary Initiates New Members At Meet

Initiation was held recently in the forestry building for eight new members of Xi Sigma Pi, national forestry honorary, according to Jim Risch, Phi Delt.

Spur-O-Grams Sell March 29

"Again the Spurs are selling Spur-o-grams and the students have their chance to send secret notes over the campus," said Brooke Clifford, Spur.

According to Miss Clifford, the Spur-o-grams will go on sale March 29 through 31 and will be sold in the men's living groups during the noon hour and in the women's living groups in the evening.

April 1, April Fool's Day, the Spur-o-grams will be delivered to campus living groups. Miss Clifford stressed that they will not be delivered off-campus.

This Spur project helps the chapter support its adopted Korean war orphan.

New members are: George F. Ames, Gault; Earl R. Hutchinson, University Station; Alan D. Kyle and LeRoy R. Peterson, Chrisman; Russell T. Moore, Harold L. Gladfelter, James B. Kasper, and Zafar Uddin, all off-campus.

Dr. Graue, professor of economics, spoke to the group at a banquet following the initiation.

To qualify for membership a student must be a junior or senior in the College of Forestry and in he upper 25 per cent of his class. A student "must have shown a creditable interest and activity in forestry work and given promise of attaining high professional achievement. Other criteria include honesty, morality, industry, friendliness, dependability, and leadership," said Risch.

Officers of Xi Sigma Pi are: Jess Daniels, off-campus Forester; Dave Cox, Theta Chi, Associate Forester; James Gosz, off-campus, Secretary Fiscal Agent, and Vernon Schulze, Lindley, Ranger. Faculty advisor is Howard Alden, professor of forestry.

Idaho Epsilon Chapter of Xi Sigma Pi, founded in 1920, was the fifth chapter founded in the United States.

There are now 23 chapters across the country.

Every professor in the College of Forestry is a member of Xi Sigma Pi. There are approximately fifty graduate and undergraduate members.

Miss Oleson, currently a candidate for the title of Miss Walla Walla, will also sing works by Donizetti, Rossini, Schumann, Ravel, Poulenc, and Menotti.

YR's Interview For Prospective Officers

University Young Republicans will be conducting interviews for prospective officers at 6:30 Thursday in the Russell Room of the SUB, according to Ray Rocha, President, off-campus.

Interested students will be interviewed by the organizations Executive Board and recommended for nomination during elections March 31, in the SUB Galena Room.

The reason for the interviews is to find the definitely interested and qualified persons to fill the positions, according to Rocha.

Nominating will also be made from the floor during the elections.

Officers that need to be filled are president, executive vice president, vice president, and treasurer.

Officers to be appointed by the executive board are secretary, public relations, advertising, education, membership, and finance.

Persons interested in these positions are also asked to apply for interviews.

1st Place Won By Engineers

A University student won first place in the Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers (IEEE) Tri-Sectional contest in Spokane March 20.

Leslie Galloway, off-campus, defeated contestants from three other schools with a total of 384 points. He received a $25 prize for a written paper, and won the oral competition by a narrow margin of three points.

Galloway and another university senior, Harvey Waldron, off campus, were both presented additional $10 prizes.

Waldron, will enter the IEEE district paper contest to be held in Bozeman, Montana in April. The winner of this contest will attend the regional meet in Las Vegas, Nevada.

His paper, entitled "A Data Conversion System", explains snow measurement research, a project being conducted by the university engineering experiment station on Moscow Mountain.

Waldron has been working on the project for several years, according to Jim Peterson, IEEE representative. The project entails uses of radio isotopes and is sponsored by the Walla Walla Corps of Engineers. Waldron has constructed a detector which can locate metal buried 12 to 14 inches underground. It was developed as a device to locate buried man-hole covers on unpaved streets.

A message of importance to sophomore men

If you've got what it takes to be an Army Officer, you may qualify for this new on-campus training program

A new Army ROTC program starts this coming Summer for sophomore men who apply prior to May 1—only 3,000 applicants to be accepted

If you're a sophomore now attending one of the 247 colleges and universities that offer Army Officer training—or you plan to transfer to one of these schools next Fall—you may qualify for the new two-year Army ROTC program.

This new program—designed especially for college men who have not taken Army ROTC during their first two years—will commence with six weeks of field training this coming Summer, beginning June 14. Then you'll have on-campus training during your junior year... six additional weeks at camp during the following Summer... and more on-campus training during your senior year. Even flight training is offered at some schools.

ROTC training is really a process of learning to organize and direct others—to be a leader. Consider how important this ability can be to you throughout life; yet, to acquire it you will spend relatively little time in the ROTC classroom. You'll obtain valuable junior management experience... a fuller and richer campus life... extra spending money ($40 per month during your junior and senior school years, and even more during Summer training)... and, when you graduate, an Army Officer's commission as Second Lieutenant. Then you'll normally spend two interesting years on active duty, often abroad with opportunities for travel.

Talk to the Professor of Military Science on your campus about this opportunity. Ask him to describe this new short program in detail.

Or send in the coupon below for complete information. There's no obligation involved, and you'll not be subjected to any "hard sell" recruiting effort. The kind of men the Army wants can decide for themselves if this new opportunity is right for them.

If you're good enough to be an Army Officer, don't settle for less. Sign up now for Army ROTC.

Send in this coupon for more information on this new two-year on-campus Army Officer training program.

Swim Coach Returns To Pole Vault, Eyes Olympics

A former world record holder and the current NCAA indoor pole vault champion will tangle in a special event at the Banana Belt Relays in Lewiston this Saturday.

John Cramer, a member of the Idaho physical education staff, who doubles as swimming coach, will jump for the first time this season as he challenges Bob Yard, NCAA indoor champ from Washington State.

The pole vault will begin at 1:30 in Lewiston's Vollmer Bowl as 15 teams battle in college and junior college-frosh competition.

Still Learning

Cramer, a long-time adherent to the "stiff" pole is shifting to the new fiberglass or "limber" pole. "I went 16-7 with a glass pole last summer in Europe," Cramer said.

This event is only one of the features of the meet that will see Gerry Lindgren and Doug Brown battle in a two-mile feature. The two-mile is billed for 4:30.
