

U-I Pre-Registration Finals Schedule Given

Start Of Program Noted By E-Board

By Jane Watts
ARGONAUT EDITOR

A Pre-Registration Finals Schedule, for use by students who wish to see what their finals will be like before registration, will be available for second semester of this year, it was stated at Executive Board Tuesday evening.

It was announced by Lon Atchley, E-Board, that in case of electives or sectioned courses, students can alter their schedules to avoid an overload of tests on one day.

The Pre-Registration Finals Schedule was approved by Academic Vice president, H. W. Steffens and members of the Interim Committee for second semester of this year and first semester of 1966-67. The schedule will be printed in the Argonaut prior to registration in February.

"It is hoped that students don't use this schedule to get out of their classes as soon as they can," Atchley said. If there is flagrant abuse of the system it will be cancelled, Atchley added.

It was suggested by Don Fry, E-Board, that the people working in the registration line could prevent abuses of the system by using the usual methods of assigning sectioned classes.

Atchley also thanked Dr. Steffens and members of the Interim Committee for the priority and approval which they gave the project.

Remit Dues
A motion to remit the 50 cent class dues of law students to Bench and Bar was passed by Executive Board. The motion, submitted by Mick Morfitt, E-Board, stated that law students are not considered graduate students by the University, and are not considered members of the under-graduate groups by the ASUI.

Indiana System
Lon Atchley reported on the Educational Improvement Committee and the problems of education and evaluation. The committee will use the Indiana system, a system of evaluation by the instructors themselves and by the deans of colleges, in their survey.

Are Not Members
"As 82 per cent of the Freshman law students alone have or complete during first semester a degree, they should not be considered members of under-graduate classes and pay dues of the same," Morfitt said.

The motion as passed will subtract the dues of the law student from the total amount disbursed among the appropriate classes. A motion to table the report until it could be looked into further, died for lack of support.

Entertainment Policy
In other business, Ken Johnson, E-Board, submitted a report to update the policy toward big name entertainment that was established in 1963. Instead of a limit of two special events each school year, the report states, "there may be four special events each school year."

The report also suggested revision in the financial arrangements for the programs. Johnson suggested that any profits earned will accrue to the Entertainment Fund, and any losses incurred will be made-up from the fund. Previously such monies have been taken from the ASUI General Fund.

However, if the balance in the Entertainment Fund is insufficient to cover any losses, the remainder will be made up from the ASUI General Reserve, according to Johnson.

Never On Sunday?
In the 1963 policy it was stated that the special events are not to be held on Sunday. This policy was questioned by several members of the Board.

"I think the ASUI ought to be able to put on a program any time it pleases," Mick Morfitt said. "Possibly the committee due to discretion will see fit not to schedule these things on Sunday, but I hate to saddle future students with such a restriction," he said.

It was moved and passed that the report state, "These events preferably not to be held on Sunday."

Elections
It was moved and passed that ASUI general elections be held on Wednesday, March 9, 1966. Following the reports members of E-Board were asked to report on their areas of concern and future plan.

A complete report is on file regarding the Student - Faculty Retreat, it was reported by Ruth Ann Knapp. A budget committee meeting was held yesterday for work on preliminary action in allocating extra monies, she indicated. Future plans included an analysis of student-faculty committees.

Eventually there will be book drops and coat hangers in the men's johns, according to Denney Dobbin. In reporting on the

Navy Ball Set Tonight

"Ebb Tide" will be the theme for the annual Navy Ball being held tonight in the Student Union Ballroom from 8 to 12 p.m.

The Navy Color Girl will be crowned at the intermission of the dance at 10:30 p.m., according to Fortin.

Tryouts Set For Mon.

Tryouts for Studio Productions will be held Monday, Dec. 13, at 7 p.m. in the U-Hut.

The cuttings from the three plays and the upper division drama majors that will direct the plays are as follows: Anon Chekov's "The Boar," directed by Wendy Beams, off campus; Tennessee Williams' "27 Wagonloads of Cotton," directed by Nikki McDonnell, Kappa; and Lillian Hellman's "The Little Foxes," directed by Cary Ambrose, Pi Phi.

There are three available roles each in "The Boar" and "27 Wagonloads of Cotton" and seven available roles in "The Little Foxes." There are places also available on the various crews involved in production. No expense is involved so all are urged to try out. The production dates are Jan. 13, 14.

Finalists for color girl are Cheryl Rousey, Alpha Chi; Ruth McCall, Gamma Phi; Marcia Antonson, Tri Delta; Julie Gustavel, Kappa, and Kay Snelson, Theta. Capt. Harry E. Davey, professor of naval science, will crown the queen. Capt. Davey will be assisted by Gwen Tolmie, Gamma Phi, the present Navy Color Girl.

All contestants for Navy Color Girl attended a tea and were introduced to members of the battalion. After being introduced to the battalion for a second time yesterday, the members voted for the finalists.

The dance will be open free of charge to all University students according to Ray Fortin, Phi Delta, publicity chairman. Music for the dance will be provided by the Thirteenth Naval District Dance Band, a group of 22 professional musicians from Seattle, Washington.

The dance will be semi-formal.

Wreaths Delivery Opening Holly Week

The official opening of the Christmas season on campus will take place Sunday when the sophomore class presents each living group with Christmas wreaths marking the beginning of "Holly Week."

Gail Ater, assistant general chairman, announced the final plans for the annual Christmas split week today. Following the tours of all queen candidates to the various living groups, the contestants will take part in a fashion show to be held in the SUB ballroom, Tuesday evening at 7 p.m. Following the fashion show, the five finalists will be announced and be presented with bouquets of roses.

Caroling - Caroling
The caroling, which was originally scheduled for Wednesday night, will take place Thursday evening at 7 p.m. To give the sophomores a chance to "tone" up, the men's living groups will practice at the women's living groups starting at 6:30 until all meet at the SUB at 7:00. Directly following the caroling the sophomores are invited to a dance to be held in the Bucket of the SUB where refreshments will be served.

On Friday the final voting for the Holly Week Queen will take place. Members of the IK's will visit each living group with ballots.

Also on Friday, the Dean of each college on the University will select an outstanding sophomore in his department. The winners will be announced at the Holly Week dance.

Mistletoe Madness
The highlight of the week comes Saturday night when Holly Week comes to an end with the "Mistletoe Madness" Holly

Week dance. The dance begins at 9 p.m. with the crowning of the Queen at 10:30 p.m. Music is by the "Shadows" and dress dinner attire is requested.

Tickets for the dance can be purchased from sophomore E-Board members in the living groups. Tickets are $1.00 a couple.

Symphony Orchestra To Perform Sunday

Three new members of the University music faculty will be heard by University Symphony Orchestra concert-goers at 4 p.m. Sunday in the University auditorium as they augment the brass and woodwind sections.

David Tyler, who has received wide acclaim as a pianist, will be featured soloist, playing Tchaikowski's Piano Concerto No. 1 in B Flat Major.

Making their first public appearance on the Idaho campus are Ronald E. Wise and Martin D. Pachey. They will assist the 60-piece orchestra as it performs the Coriolan Overture by Beethoven and the Symphony No. 5 "Reformation," by Mendelssohn.

Since joining the music faculty this fall, Tyler has appeared in recital and as accompanist for Community Concert soprano Karin Hurdstrom. Formerly he was on the teaching staff of the New England Conservatory of Music for five years.

Tyler's formal training included the bachelor of music, master of music degrees and Artist Diploma from the conservatory, and private study with Canadian pianist and composer Minuetta Kessler and Mme. Rosinna Lhevinne of the Juilliard School of Music.

He has given scores of concerts in the Boston area and appeared on half-hour educational television programs. He has also appeared as a soloist with the Boston Pops Orchestra, Boston Civic Symphony, New England Conservatory Orchestra, the Melrose Symphony and Cape Cod Symphony.

Wise, first horn with the university orchestra, teaches French horn, low brass instruments and music literature. He holds music degrees from Eastman School of Music and Yale university. He is completing doctoral studies at the University of Wisconsin.

Wise has taught at Wittengerg University in Ohio and the University of Wisconsin. He has experience as a professional hornist in Canada and Mid-West and Eastern cities.

New 'Mrs.' Should Complete Wife Card

Any Misses who turn to Mrs. over Christmas vacation should report to the registrar's office immediately after vacation, said Lee O'Neill, registrar.

If they wish to have their married name used second semester, O'Neill said, they must complete a married women's card right after vacation.

Car Crash Injures 3

Only minor automobile accidents occurred over the Thanksgiving Holiday which involved University students. Ten students were reported as being in accidents, and only three of these received injuries.

Minor cuts and bruises were received by Kent Russell, and Ed Ahrens, passengers in a car driven by Terrence White. The men, all 19, live at the Phi Tau house.

Also in the car were Joan Bailey, and Barbara Arndt, Tri Delta, and Sharon Granlund, Campbell, all 19. Miss Bailey received a sprained ankle; Russell minor cuts on his forehead, and Ahrens two back eyes, in the accident.

The group was thrown to the front of the car when it slid off the road near Cottonwood at 6 p.m. Wednesday night and into a barrow pit, and then fell about 10 feet into a drainage ditch. They were admitted to St. (Continued on Page 2) Col. 7)

Santa Claus Will Visit Annual Kiddie Party

Santa Claus and his helpers are expected to be the distinguished guests at the annual "Kiddies Christmas Party" to be held Dec. 12 at 3 p.m. in the SUB Ballroom, according to Christmas committee chairman Leslie Mathews.

Miss Mathews announced that Santa is expected to arrive around 4 p.m. to entertain approximately 100 children of faculty members and married students.

The annual "Kiddies Christmas Party" is sponsored by the Christmas Party committee of the Activities council. All children on campus are invited to attend the party.

The party includes a Christmas movie in the Borah Theatre, Christmas Caroling in the Ballroom, and talking to the jolly old fellow with the white beard. Refreshments are served and each child is presented with a bag of candy from Santa's helpers to take home.

"Since this is our only activity of the year, we like to do it up in a big way," said Miss Mathews. "As far as we know, it is the only chance the kids get to have a Christmas party of this kind. So, we really try to show them a good time. The parties in the past have been very successful, but a great number of children on cam

Angel Flight Will Tap New Members

Angel Flight, the Air Force ROTC sponsor group, will be tapping additional members before Christmas vacation, according to Peggy Reed, DG.

The girls will be selected from those nominated this fall.

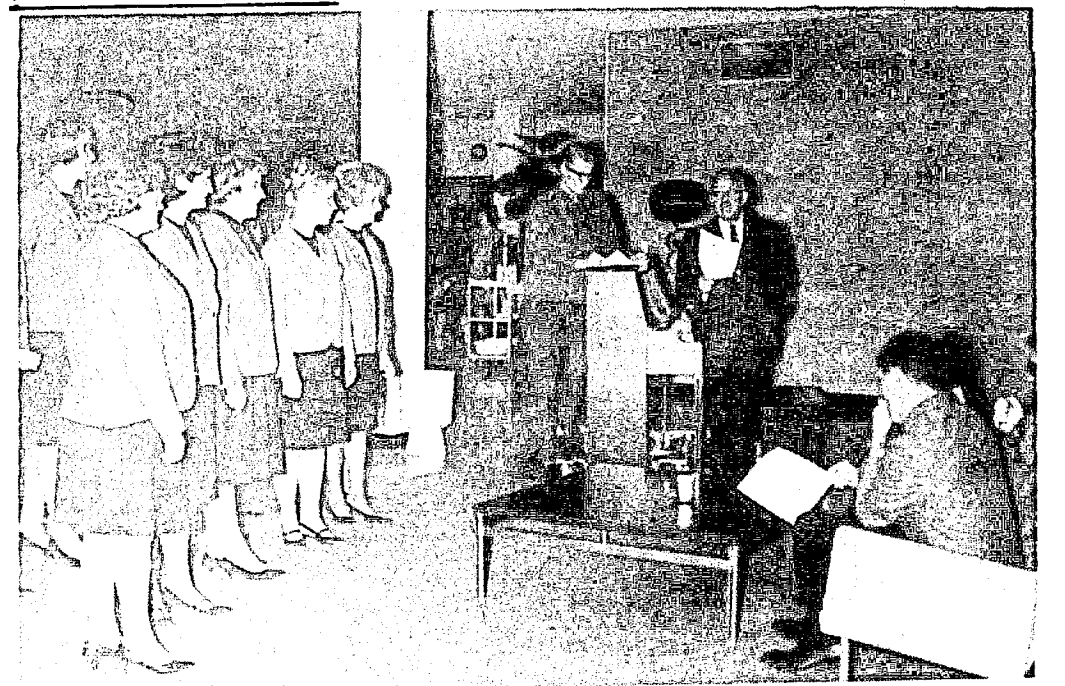

Christmas Issue Set Next Week

The Argonaut's Special Christmas Issue is scheduled for next Tuesday.

Features and other articles on Christmas and special coupons giving students reductions on Christmas gifts will be included in the issue.

Organizations with meetings notices and living group news should be handed in by Saturday noon. If the Argonaut office is closed, news may be slipped under the door.

Save your Christmas shopping until next week.

IDAHO PEP SONG FORUM—Members of Sigma Alpha Iota, national professional music honorary for women, members of E-Board and interested students met Tuesday in the Vandal Lounge to sing and learn the school songs. Leading the singing is John Anderson, Beta. Playing the piano is J. M. O'Donnell, local attorney, and author of the Idaho fight song.

off-campus housing committee, Dobbin stated that the committee had split into three areas, one to work with the city council, one on investigation and one area to set up housing standards. The committee is also planning a survey of off-campus students, Dobbin indicated.

The possibility of setting up a very small senate system was mentioned by Dianne Green, head of the Student Government Review and Revision Board. A proposal on actual student government revision should be ready by the end of the semester she indicated.

Bob Aldridge, whose area of concern is class officers, stated that the class leaders had gotten together and were working on plans. However, he expressed dissatisfaction with the work not being done by freshman class president, Devon Walker.

We encourage students to bring their gripes and suggestions to the bookstore and infirmity committees, Mick Morfitt indicated in his report.

Judy Manville reported that she was examining the ASUI regulations and said she hoped that the change in the class election dates which did not pass this fall would pass in the spring.

Campus relations were reported on by Don Fry. The future is a little bleak for this area of concern, Fry reported. It is difficult to run around asking if people are having any problems each week, he added. Fry also suggested that something be done in the way of improving the status on the Administration Building lawn.

FEIFFER

sally thRU COLCHIS Colchis—Land in which Jason sought the Golden Fleece

The most involved fact in the world Could have been faced when it was simple. The biggest problem in the world Could have been solved when it was small. The holocaust early last Wednesday morning which left two University students in the hospital with serious injuries shocked many of the people in Moscow as well as University students. But it shouldn't have; I have been waiting for it to happen for years. And because of this I feel partly responsible for the students' injuries. I have lived here practically 10 years while housing conditions in Moscow have deteriorated, but never said a word, never so much as raised my voice in protest at the fire traps which flourish in this city. But I refuse to take all the blame, for it is shared by the apartment owners, the city of Moscow, the University, and finally the students themselves. Next Year? Despite the large number of new, safe, and attractive student dwellings built in the last few years, the increased demand has allowed the owners of some of the most miserable structures in Moscow to rent them at prices which bring extraordinary returns on their investments. Because of the low value on these structures, the taxes are so low that the return is all profit. Yet, despite their high profitability many owners of these apartments refuse to make any improvements, even new heating systems, fireescapes, etc. which would improve safety. Many Reasons The reasons they give are many: My property is going to be taken over by the University so why improve it? Next year I'm going to tear the old place down and rebuild. (But they never get them down.) Why improve when I can rent it the way it is? Students don't appreciate improvements, and all they do is wreck the place anyway! These are all good reasons, but how would they sound to the boys in the hospital? Nevertheless, the apartment owners aren't all to blame; indeed, some have installed new and safer natural gas heating systems in place of the coal, provided metal fire escapes, and other safe guards. Righteous Indignation Moscow's people and city government also share in the guilt of the apartment owners, for the specific regulations regarding apartments are seldom complied with by the people, or enforced by the city. Last year's Argonaut ran a feature story with pictures showing some of the violations in Moscow, but the only result of the article was widespread indignation on the part of the townspeople toward their student critics. Moscow's celebrated planning commission has concentrated on improving and expanding the city to the East, a windfall for the real estate developers who own land in that area. But when it comes to the most critical area of need, the decaying residential area between the business district and the University, neither the commission nor the city has had much to say. Even the Moscow Chamber of Commerce has been dubious of student plans to investigate Moscow housing. Good Solace? The University, too, has been particularly outstanding in its official disregard of off-campus housing problems, partly because of its desire to maintain good relations with Moscow townspeople, and also to protect its own financial interest in dormitories which they must keep full. As little as two months ago some U of I officials steadfastly refused to admit at the student-faculty retreat that an off-campus housing problem even existed. Former University President, D. R. Theophilus, urged student leaders last year to not cause hard feelings by stirring up trouble. I wonder what solace the boys in the hospital can get out of those remarks. Of course, in the final analysis, the students themselves should be blamed for living in unfit and unsafe dwellings. Collectively, however, and against the wishes of the University, the students through their ASUI government have set up a committee to study housing conditions and perhaps formulate proposals for improving them.

The Golden Fleece By Jason

Epitaph on the Politician Here, richly, with ridiculous display, The Politician's corpse was laid away. While all of his acquaintance sneered and slanged, I wept: for I had longed to see him hanged.

In yesterday's Lewiston Tribune there was an editorial concerning out-of-state tuition at the University. State Rep. Lyle R. Cobbs, R-Ada, has a lawsuit before the Third District Court at Boise asking that out-of-state tuition be increased at the University.

Cobbs has contended quite accurately that the cost of educating an out-of-state student at an Idaho institution is more than the $380 in tuition charged," states the editorial. Cobbs estimated the cost at about $1,300 per year. Originally he suggested that tuition be raised to that figure, but his lawyer, T. H. Eberle, Boise, this week asked the court to raise tuition to $750 effective with the beginning of our second semester. The author of the editorial then questioned why any "responsible public official... would advocate a restriction that harsh on a major Idaho institution."

Common Practice

According to the writer, below-cost tuition for out-of-staters is a common practice throughout the country, involving a certain unstated reciprocity that works to the advantage of in-state students as well as those from outside.

"There isn't an institution of higher learning in the nation that doesn't welcome among its native born a few outsiders to provide the broadening experience that is as much a part of a college education as the professors and the textbooks. Tuition should be a control device, not an impenetrable barrier against the outside world," the author states. He concludes by asking what Cobbs is trying to prove by such a lawsuit.

Trying To Prove?

We would also like to ask what he is trying to prove. It is not as if the University were overrun with out-of-state students. Undergraduates have been limited to 20 per cent of students for a number of years. If we raise the tuition, not only will we lose many of our undergraduates, but probably a larger number of students in the graduate school will leave. How many forestry students would remain if our out-of-state tuition were raised? There are not enough students going into forestry from Idaho high schools even to maintain our industry in the state.

Local Interest?

Perhaps the move being made by Cobbs is an attempt to stifle the state's two universities while making Boise College (which is not state supported and would not be affected by the tuition change) more attractive to out-of-state students. We would hope that a legislator, such as Cobbs, who is serving on the House Education Committee, is not so much a purveyor of local interests as he appears to be. We feel that Boise College will continue to grow rapidly because of its centralized location in a populated part of the state. However, we would hate to see either University become a more provincial institution by lowering the percentage of out-of-state students. We remain adamant against Mr. Cobbs and his proposal.

Congratulations

Congratulations to the faculty members who have made it possible for students to use a pre-registration finals schedule in arranging their courses for next semester.

The schedule will be published prior to registration in February, giving students an opportunity to arrange courses so that they do not have a conflict of several tests on the same day. As of next semester, a great deal more responsibility for avoiding a poor test schedule will be shouldered by the students.

However, the students also will have the responsibility of not abusing the system. It is fairly obvious that by taking some courses, students could arrange their courses so that their finals are over early in the week. This is not the purpose of having a pre-registration schedule for finals. If it is found that many students are avoiding courses in which the final is scheduled at the latter part of the week, the new program may be cancelled.

A Privilege

Jason maintains that this new policy at this time is not a right, but a privilege. The student is given the privilege of avoiding too many tests on the same day. Therefore, may we strongly suggest that students show their responsibility when arranging their schedule. Not only can this method work, but it can work and benefit all concerned.

Robin Hood Cast Begins Final Week Of Rehearsals

Rehearsals of the University's fourth Children's Theatre production, "The Ballad of Robin Hood," go into their final week with presentation dates set for Dec. 10 at 7:30 p.m. and Dec. 11 at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. at the University auditorium.

Action, Color, Song
The production under the direction of Walter Brennan, Lindley, senior drama major, and supervised by Edmund Chavez, assistant professor of drama, promises action, color and song as the story of legendary Robin Hood of Sherwood Forest is told.

"Even though the play is for children," states Chavez, "adults will also find the production entertaining. Primary teachers will be interested because of the material background, seeing what shows can be done for children and in observing young student reaction of the play."

Bach Featured

Tuesday night's faculty concert featuring pianist, Mrs. Agnes Schultdt; tenor, Charles Walton, and cellist, David Whisner, was an indisputably fine representation of the depth and talent in the University department of music, and also, illuminated the too often forgotten musical genius of three sons of that master of the baroque, Johannes Sebastian Bach.

"The sons, Wilhelm Friedemann, Carl Philipp Emanuel and Johan Christian, talented and original composers in their own right, were more well known in their time than the elder Bach," stated Mrs. Schultdt, in a brief introduction to the musical presentations. She also said that their music represents a transition period between baroque and the classical, retaining shades of influence of their father, but with new lyrical freedom and lightness.

The program included six piano selections performed with clarity and vitality by Mrs. Schultdt. Her Fantasia in C and Rondo in B flat were especially interesting. Mr. Walton's tenor voice interpreted the German, French, English and Italian with style and energetic control. The tonal quality and interpretation of Concerto in C minor in three movements for cello by Whisner pleased an enthusiastic audience. The final selection included the three artists in a Scene and Rondo by Johann Christian Bach.

The period in music history following the prolific and powerful J. S. Bach and preceding the intense creative genius of Mozart, was very much alive with high quality musical work. Outstanding representatives of this period are these three sons of Bach. Mrs. Schultdt explained their music as being "the valley between two mountains." Tuesday night's performance proved it to be a very pleasant valley.—J.L.A.

SUB Film Best of 1957

"The Bridge on the River Kwai," proclaimed as the best show of the year of 1957 will be presented at the Borah Theatre on Friday night at 6:30 and 9 p.m. Saturday and 7 p.m. Sunday.

Filed in the jungles of Ceylon, "The Bridge on the River Kwai" concerns the inmates of a Japanese prison camp during the early days of World War II. The prisoners, mostly British and American, are being forced to build a railway bridge over the River Kwai. Because of the ruggedness of the surrounding terrain, the bridge is destined to be one of the most vital links in the Japanese supply lines.

Best Actor

Alec Guinness, named "Best Actor of the Year" for his performance, portrays a captured British Army Colonel whose stubborn courage and inner conflicts are highlights of the film.

Sessue Hayakawa is realistic as the camp commandant who is accustomed to always having his own way.

William Holden, an American seaman who intends to survive the war one way or another, can neither understand nor accept this relationship between victor and vanquished.

PRACTICE, PRACTICE—Members of the University Symphony Orchestra prepare for their fall concert which will be presented Sunday at 4 p.m. in the University Auditorium. Shown are David Tyler, instructor of music, program soloist; and LeRoy Bauer, professor of music who will direct the orchestra.

Honorary Taps Coeds

Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, tapped 17 coeds at dress dinner Wednesday evening to serve as sponsors.

Judy Swager and Julie Webber, French; Patricia Beaudoin, Amie Paroz, and Karen Rember, Shoup.

Those tapped include Trudy Williams, Alpha Chi; Andee Kanta and Barbara Roberts, Alpha Phi; Dianna Dobbin, Campbell; Jeannette Choules, Carter; Marcia Antonson, Nancy Dalke, and Glenda Walradt, Tri Delta.

Ann Fretwell, Delta Gamma; Joyce Bakes and Sue Blackaller, Houston; Sue Irwin, Kap-

The sponsors will assist the men of the service fraternity in their various campus service projects and act as a liaison between the fraternity and women's living groups in regard to projects, said Mike Dewey, Campus Club, president.

Alpha Phi Omega's next campus service project will be a coat check at the Holly Week dance, Dec. 11.

University Committee Lauds Peace March

The U-I Committee for the Peaceful Solution of World Conflicts Tuesday evening went on record as supporting the principles of the Nov. 27 march on Washington, D.C., for peace in Vietnam.

This demonstration was in support of measures which endorsed the ending of the War in Vietnam. George Armstrong, Graham, president, and Dale Emmert, off campus, vice president spoke for the committee.

"We see no gain coming from the war in Vietnam. We see only the growing victimization of the Vietnamese people, the erosion of a better society at home and the clear possibility of a world conflict. We affirm our support for all the efforts, including those of the United Nations, and Pope Paul, to end the dispute to the conference table, and we welcome a wider role for the United Nations in bringing about negotiations and in implementing any agreement.

Toward this end we ask; that our government call for a cease-fire, and halt the bombing of North Vietnam; reiterate U.S. support for the principles of the 1954 Geneva Accords — the eventual withdrawal of all foreign military forces, and self-determination for the Vietnamese people.

We ask that our government declare U.S. support for U.N. or other international machinery and guarantees to supervise the cease-fire, provide for peaceful establishment of a new government in South Vietnam, protect the rights of minority groups and protect the neutrality of North and South-Vietnam."

Individual sponsors of the march included the following names: Jules Feiffer, Dr. Erich Fromm, John Hersey, Arthur Miller, Dr. Benjamin Spock, Saul Bellow, The Rt. Rev. William Crittenden, and Norman Thomas.

We set out to ruin some ball bearings and failed successfully

The Bell System has many small, automatic telephone offices around the country. The equipment in them could operate unattended for ten years or so, but for a problem.

The many electric motors in those offices needed lubrication at least once a year. Heat from the motors dried up the bearing oils, thus entailing costly annual maintenance.

To stamp out this problem, many tests were conducted at Bell Telephone Laboratories. Lubricant engineer George H. Kitchen decided to do a basic experiment that would provide a motor with the worst possible conditions. He deliberately set out to ruin some ball bearings by smearing them with an icky gunk called molybdenum disulfide (MoS₂).

Swock! This solid lubricant, used a certain way, actually increased the life expectancy of the ball bearings by a factor of ten! Now the motors can run for at least a decade without lubrication.

We've learned from our "failures." Our aim: investigate everything.

The only experiment that can really be said to "fail" is the one that is never tried.

Big Ray Does It Again-Voted All-American

Floyd Little Joins Ray As Second Team Back

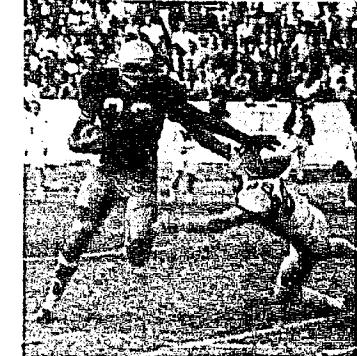

By Jim Petersen
Arg Sports Editor

He's "gone" and done it again. Thunder Ray McDonald, Idaho's answer to the old "anyone who ever new anybody" adage, has struck again—this time he "cracked through" into the ranks of this season's Associated Press All-American selection.

Big Ray was named second team fullback in yesterday's balloting. He was previously selected for second team All-American honors by the Newspaper Enterprises Association.

Literally "Gone"
Literally, the Idaho deepback has "gone" too — gone for just about every record in the Idaho books. He's already set one game, season and career records. All in all, he holds ten Vandal records in the rushing, carrying and scoring departments.

In the single game departments, McDonald has posted new marks for most carries, 34; and most yards rushing, 240. For the season, he has carried 213 times and rushed for 1002 yards. In the scoring department, he holds the school record with 90 points — that's 15 touchdowns and another record.

THUNDER RAY
Big Ray also holds the career record for the most carries with 343; most yards gained rushing, 1587; most touchdowns, 22; and most total points, 132.

The Big "If"
Nationally, McDonald finished seventh in both the rushing and scoring departments according to the Na-

Vandal Cagers Subdue Oregon In Opening Clash Of Season, 86-81

Pipkin High Man With 31 Points

By Dick Sherman
Arg Sports Writer

The Idaho Vandal cagers opened their 1965-66 season with an impressive 86-81 victory over the Oregon Webfoots at Eugene Wednesday night.

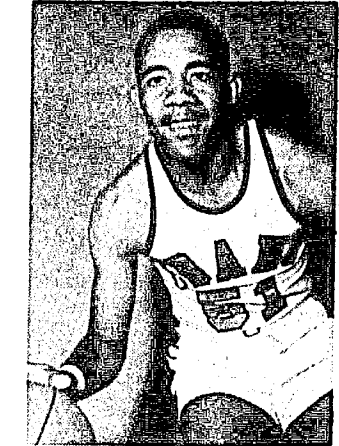

Idaho's Bob Pipkin, a Dodge City Junior College transfer, turned in a 31-point effort, which was high for both clubs. He had 12 buckets from the field and was perfect from the foul line with 7-7.

The Vandals had trouble finding the basket in the first half, hitting on only 11 of 43 shots for a 25 percent clip. In the second half Idaho scored 55 points, hitting on 47 percent of their shots.

Tide Turned
In the second half the Vandals turned the tide. After trailing 36-31 at halftime, Idaho suddenly caught fire and exploded on a point barrage that brought them within one point of the lead on a lay in by Rod Bohman with 3:21 remaining.

Then Jerry Skafte stole the ball and went the entire length of the floor for a lay in to give the Vandals the lead for the first time in the ball game, 74-73.

made their home debut against the Aggies of Utah State. In their first outing of the season Utah State crushed Montana State 102-68.

"Typical First Game"
"The game was a typical first game, said Goddard. The kids played an inspired ballgame giving it all they had. Oregon has a fine ball club. They will win their share of ballgames. We were happy to win, but of course one game doesn't make a season."

game, said Goddard. The kids played an inspired ballgame giving it all they had. Oregon has a fine ball club. They will win their share of ballgames. We were happy to win, but of course one game doesn't make a season."

Explode Offensively
"In order to beat these bigger teams," Goddard said following the Oregon win, "we're going to have to explode offensively. That's just what we did this time."

The Vandals pumped in 55 points in the second half to drop the Ducks for the first time since 1963. Junior college transfer Bob Pipkin from Dodge City, Kan., scored 31 points, the biggest scoring debut of any cager in Idaho hoop history.

Game Edge
The Vandals go into Saturday's fray with a 9-4 edge in the USU series, but the two teams haven't played since the 1959-60 season when they split a two-game set. Idaho won 57-56 then lost the following night 73-61.

Goddard got a look at 10 of the 14 hoopers on his roster against Oregon. In the home court setting he will have the entire crew in uniform. If things go right on Saturday the Vandal mentor could have an opportunity to see sophomores Charley Smith and Craig Johnson from Spokane, Dave Dillon from Sandpoint and Ulysses Benjamin from Savannah, Ga., under game conditions.

All The Way
In the opener nine of the 10 Vandals hit the scoring column, with veteran Ed Haskins the only member to play the entire 40 minutes. Haskins' 10 points in the second half helped pace the explosion that Goddard says he needs to win.

Four Horsemen
Notre Dame's Immortal Four Horsemen owe their title to the late sportswriter Grantland Rice, the December Readers Digest recalls. It was after an Army-Notre Dame football game in 1924 that Rice wrote: "Outlined against a blue-gray October sky, the Four Horsemen rode again. In dramatic lore, they are known as Famine, Pestilence, Destruction and Death. These are only aliases. Their real names are Stuhldreher, Miller, Crowley and Layden."

Utah State On Deck

Idaho's run 'n shoot Vandals put their cage wares on display before the home fans this Saturday night in Memorial Gym when they host the Utah State Aggies.

Coach Jim Goddard's twine burners will be opening at home fresh from an 86-81 victory over Oregon in Eugene. The Aggies pounded Montana State 102-68 in their opener, but have a Friday date in Seattle against the Seattle University Chieftains before they test the Vandals in Moscow.

Bulletin

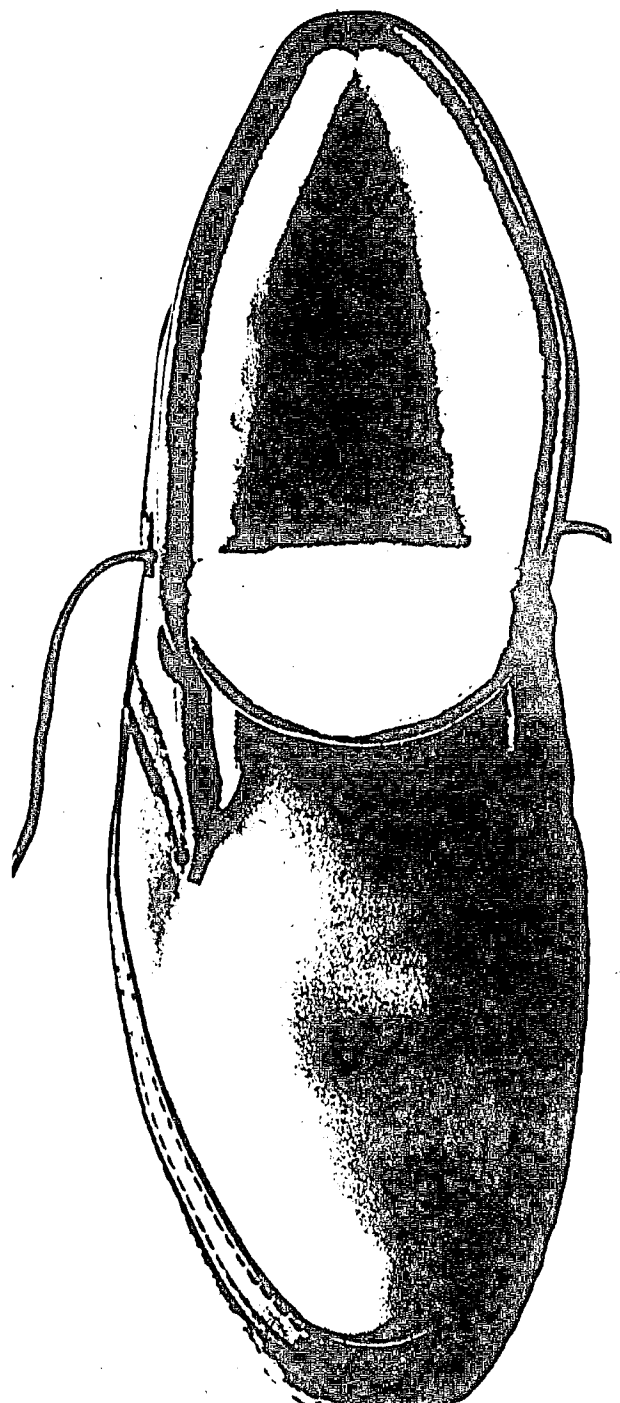

Idaho's "monster" linebacker, Jerry Campbell, has been named to United Press International's All-American team. Campbell was cited for honorable mention honors on the poll's western defensive unit.

The selection is made on the basis of voting by 242 sportswriters and broadcasters across the nation. It is the first time since 1952 that a defensive unit had been named in the balloting. The change was made this year in lieu of the return to two platoon football.

Four other northwest grid-ders join Campbell on the western honorable mention defensive unit. They are: Wayne Foster, WSU; Jack O'Billcock, OSU; Fred Forsberg, University of Washington; and Dave Toby, Oregon.

Campbell Picked By WSU Squad

Idaho's "monster" linebacker, Jerry Campbell was today named to Washington State University's all opponent team. He was the only Vandal picked in this season's post season Cougar poll.
