Mothers Welcomed To U-I Campus

British Family Involvement

Final Performance Set

"An Inspector Calls," a play written by John B. Priestly, will be given in final performance at 8 p.m. tonight at the U-Hut after a week's run which began Monday.

"The show has had good houses all week," said Edmund Chavez, director, "and I expect them to continue through Saturday with the mothers on campus this weekend." Chavez went on to say that audience response had been very good for the simple period play spinning out the story of an upper class, British, family's involvement in the suicide of a young working girl.

"Because of the current heat wave, a fan has been installed at the U-Hut to insure audience comfort during the performances," said Chavez. Tickets can be obtained at the ASUI office or at the door with either a student card or $1.00 required for admittance.

The "Inspector," cast includes Mike Wetherell, Delta Chi, the father; Judi Fischer, Hays, the mother; Joan Throop, Pi Phi, the daughter; Steve Scott, Fiji, the son; John Breden, off campus, the boyfriend; Leslie Leek, Tri Delt, the maid, and Walter Brennan, Lindley, the inspector. The production staff includes John McMahon, Phi Delt, assistant to the director; Cynthia Woodcock, Ethel Steel, house manager; Vicki Haight, Pi Phi, sound and stage manager; Dennis McCanna, Sigma Nu, and Tom Oakland, Gault, stage crew; and Julie Martineau, Houston, make-up.

Mike Sheehy, Tri Delt, and Ann Clark, off campus, are in charge of costumes, Steve Parish, McConnell, and Richard Sparks, Gault, are working on the lights.

Other committees include Kandy Komp, Kappa, and Laura Delamarter, Carter, properties; Don Volk, off campus and Joanne Buhr, Carter, paint; Cecil Kelly, Borah, and Barbara Hammea, Carter, publicity, and Jim Freeman, Sigma Chi, and Paul Gentle, Sigma Nu, building and staging.

The drama department has begun plans for summer theatre with several productions scheduled. Those interested in summer theatre work are asked to contact Chavez at the U-Hut.

Vandaleer Tour Said Smoothest in 19 Years

"It was the smoothest running tour in the 19 years I have been here," stated Glen R. Lockery, professor of music, in reference to the Vandaleers' annual spring tour, April 24-30. The singing group, who performed throughout Southern Idaho, presented the same program in the Ad Building Auditorium on Tuesday evening.

Interviews Planned

Student faculty committee interviews begin Wednesday, said Lois Grieve, chairman.

The committees are composed of students and faculty and the position is for one year. The final selection of students is by E-Board, and then must be approved by President Hartung. The general eligibility requirement is a 2.2 G.P.A.

Interviews are as follows:
May 11-6:30 p.m.
Borah Foundation
Public Events and United Nations
Men's Discipline Committee
Women's Discipline Committee
Scholastic Improvement Committee

May 12-6:30 p.m.
Recreation
Traffic Safety Committee
Athletic Board of Control

May 16-6:30 p.m.
SUB Board
Student Faculty Council
Bookstore Advisory Committee
Student Health Services Advisory Committee

Highlights featured the male chorus singing a group of Sea Shanty's and the chorus and orchestra in selections from "Die Fledermaus" by Johann Strauss.

In 12 programs, the group sang to a combined audience of over 500 students and adults.

"We have never had a more successful, better prepared group or a program more enthusiastically received by the audience," said Lockery. Included in the itinerary was Boise, where the chorus performed over KBOL-TV. The evening concert there was sponsored by the University Alumnae and the Boise Kiwanis group. All the proceeds will be used for scholarships for prospective University students.

Other performance sites included Montpelier, Preston, Malad, Soda Springs, Aberdeen, Twin Falls, Buhl, Jerome, Gooding, and Glens Ferry. Lockery said that each year the Vandaleers are reaching more deeply into the population as far as impact and awareness are concerned.

Fall Plans Being Made

Homecoming plans for the 1966 celebration October 1, with the University of Pacific Tigers are now underway, according to Vicki Haight, Pi Phi, parade co-chairman.

Because the celebration is planned at such an early date next fall, the homecoming committee is urging living groups to start the ground work for floats and to tentatively select homecoming queen candidates this spring.

"Your living group is asked to indicate now whether or not you plan to build a float, and if so, to choose a float chairman," Miss Haight said.

A float registration form must be turned into the Student Union office by Monday, she said.

The homecoming committee has also recommended that each living group select a queen contestant in order for her to obtain an 8x10 glossy print in time for the contest next fall. The committee said that there would be only four days for the candidate to get the photo, if she is selected next fall.

Selection of the candidate is not mandatory, however, and the final selection date for the contestants is September 19, 1966.

A New Flag

We would like to introduce — a new flag. The present and future editors of the Idaho Argonaut would like to announce that the flag "The Idaho Argonaut" on page one has changed.

Our new flag was designed for the Argonaut by Alfred C. Dunn, professor of art. The staff would like to thank Mr. Dunn for his efforts.—J.W.

Proceeds From Turtle Derby To Go to Jamestown School

The fanfare of go-go contests, street dances, turtle banquets, and the "littles battle of the Palouse" appear to be only a week-long side show for students. But for a crippled children's school in North Dakota and a U of I student, this Saturdays Phi Delt Turtle Race doesn't end in the chite circle by the checkerboard flag.

For the ninth straight year Phi Delt will donate money betted on the turtle race to a charity. Last year proceeds totaling $500 went to the Moscow Opportunity School and in 1964 $400 was presented to the Lewiston Children's Home.

Today, the Phi Delt are paying tribute to their fraternity brother, Terry Malcolm, by giving the money to the Jamestown, North Dakota, Crippled Children's School, where he had once received handicapped training.

Terry, 22-year-old son of Mr.

and Mrs. A. J. Malcolm of Cottonwood, is a senior at the University, majoring in physical therapy. Since birth, Terry has been afflicted with damage to the motor area of the brain the next four years.

causing speech and body disabilities.

When Terry was eight years old, his parents thought he would need special training and sent him to the Jamestown school for treatment, where he spent the next four years.

Terry came to the University in 1960 to continue his studies in the physical therapy field. He joined Phi Delta Theta Fraternity in 1963 as a junior in college. Upon graduation in June, Terry hopes to enter graduate school and work for an advanced degree in psychology.

The Jamestown Crippled Children's School offers educational opportunities for the physically disabled. The school, which receives three-fourths of its funds from voluntary donations, is designed to house 65 students in a well-rounded curriculum. The enrollment includes all ages from kindergarten through high school

Mothers of students will be honored guests this weekend on the University of Idaho campus for the annual Mother's Day weekend.

Starting the weekend's activities is a street dance beginning at 6:30 p.m. at the Beta and Phi Delt corner.

At 7 p.m. the Helldivers will present a swimming and water acrobatics show in the Memorial Gymnasium.

The Helldivers is a swimming honorary. Their show this weekend, Moods of Music, is dedicated to all mothers.

Included in the show will be a "Western Hoedown" from "O' Johnny," "Dreams in Color" from the "Last Time I Saw Paris," "The Tempo" from "Night On Bald Mountain," and a Finale entitled "Salute to Mothers."

Miss Laura Tuttle, physical educational instructor is staff advisor to the group.

ASUI Arena Theatre presents "An Inspector Calls" at 8 p.m. in the University Hut. Friday evening will be closed with the Spur Songfest at 8:15 in the Memorial Gymnasium. Various living groups will compete with each other.

Saturday from 9 to noon there will be tours of the SUB. From 10 to noon the bookstore will hold open hours. Also at 10 a.m. there will be a baseball game at MacLean Field with the Idaho Frog going against North Idaho Junior College.

The annual Phi Delt Turtle Derby will start at 10:30 a.m. in the Phi Delta Theta parking lot. This race will pit the turtles of the womens living groups against each other.

From 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. there will be a cafeteria luncheon in the Student Union.

The annual May Fete featuring the tapping of Spurs Mortar Board, Silver Lance and the outstanding seniors will start at 2 p.m. in the Memorial Gymnasium.

For mothers interested in seeing the campus, there will be automobile tours leaving the SUB from 4 p.m. to 5 p.m.

An open house will be held in all campus living groups from 4 to 6 p.m. followed by a dinner in honor of the visiting Mothers.

Written On The Wind

By PAT COBB

The place is the hottest (weather-wise, too) on campus outside of the Administration Building. Hearts are broken or mended as the case may be, bells constantly ring and in the fall, people complain about the flies in the basement (and expect something to be done about it). What remarkable place could be so diversified? Naturally, the U of I Library. You might have known I'd eventually get around to the library.

A library is the only place where the staff talks louder than the students, which blows the myth that librarians are "shushers." But can you imagine having to spend eight hours a day explaining things in a whisper?

Everybody sends their pledge classes to the library, ostensibly to study. Mostly, the "brothers" and "sisters" send them to get 'em out from under their feet and away from the house. So they come to the library and sleep. I really can't say too much because I used to play bridge in the map room on second floor. I guess I forgot to tell you that, Mr. Beck...

The suggestion box is always crammed with questions and complaints about those mellifluous bells that sound intermittently. They constitute an intercom system. Otherwise, we would hear a voice calling... "Mr. Condit, oh Mr. Condit, where are you?" The night bell is something else. It took me two years to quit jumping straight in the air when the closing bell sounded at a quarter 'til ten.

The suggestion box is also often filled with complaints about the building itself. Now my answer to that is, "You should have seen the old one!" Not that I did, you understand, but I have seen photographs.

It was dark, cramped, creaky, with a network of pipes over your head. Would you believe the wing of the Administration building where the law school now is, WAS the old library? Some of the employees say that they used to chase kids who were necking out of obscure secluded corners at closing time.

Of course, I'm taking my life in my hands in writing about the library. My job there keeps me in school. It has its advantages: one becomes familiar with how to use a lot of books and how to live with stolen books, name falsification and rude people. But I have to admit forestry majors are the most fun. For such outdoorsy people, they certainly spend a lot of time in the reserve reading room.

NOTE - If it doesn't rain pretty soon, we'll never get any studying done. It's most discouraging to be cramming for a test in your hot stuffy room and look out the window to where sun bathers are obviously just sleeping.

I don't think that I would be stretching the point to say that of all the school related activities that the University of Idaho puts out on the "field," so to speak, the Vandaleers come nearer to ranking among the best in the country than any other.

I personally have no doubt that were the college choirs across the country to be ranked that Idaho's Vandaleers would be in the top 10 or 20 year in and year out. With all due respect, none of our other activities would even attempt to claim this distinction.

I'd like to give public praise to Professor Glen Lockery and his Vandaleers as being as consistently "All American" as anything this institution produces in its own field.

I hope that next time a little more consideration might be given to helping publicize one of our real claims to fame, Larry Grimes College of Law

Perhaps the University could raise this money by selling the old, plastic wastebaskets to those students who would prefer the risk of possible asphyxiation to that of probable loss of hearing. Since, The Music Lovers Doug Hall Bill Carleton Borah Hall

Let me say in closing that I believe the responsibility placed on the editor of a newspaper is great. Therefore, he must live up to these responsibilities. He cannot do anything else or someone will be writing a letter such as this because he slipped up in his responsibility.

Recently it was brought to my attention that the Young Republicans of the University had had a guest speaker a Mr. Marvin Root who brought forth some interesting ideas in regard to the outmoded philosophy of the Republican Party.

Mr. Root stated, "Republicans need to present a progressive productive local and state government before they can justify federal control."

Mr. Root is the chairman of the Western Federation of College Republicans and a statement such as this, coming from an individual of supposed authority within his group is at once both disturbing and curious.

Mr. Root stated earlier in his speech, "In view of the small, but well publicized leftist movement on campuses today; I feel the college Young Republicans have a tremendous opportunity to build an image of responsibility and respectability."

Now I would ask the head of this University's YR's what could be more left than an attempt to "justify federal governmental control" which Mr. Root states should be his party's doctrine.

It also seems curious to me that as a member of a party which nominated an avowed rightist in the last election to bear that the Arg is in some measure to blame. Tuesday's Arg was full of a great deal of material, most of which was concerned with the Mother's Day festivities. On the front page, for instance, we read about turtles, plays, Miss U of I winners and more turtles. Don't get me wrong. I am not anti-turtle. But to place as much emphasis on that particular event, at the expense of burying an inch and a half article on the Vandaleer Concert on page three is certainly not helping to foster an activity that is in the eyes of many somewhat more substantial than a turtle contest.

The damage, however, has been done. For the many who would have attended the concert had they been aware (and the article itself, once having been found, was not entirely clear) this opportunity is gone. The future is of the main concern to me.

I don't think that I would be stretching the point to say that of all the school related activities that the University of Idaho puts out on the "field," so to speak, the Vandaleers come nearer to ranking among the best in the country than any other.

The Golden Fleece

By Jason No. 78—Leo W. Jeffres

Dear Mother:

This is Mother's Day at the U of I. Perhaps so few other American institutions are so variable and colorful, full of complications and objectives. And with the many activities scheduled, May Fete, Turtle Derby, Hell-divers, Drama production, open house, these many aspects are rapidly manifested.

It wasn't so long ago, a few thousand years, that the role of mothers wasn't as desirable as it is today. In the primitive Tasmanian society off the coast of Australia husbands often mistreated their spouses, appropriated the choicest foods for themselves, and could lend or otherwise dispose of their wives. Divorce was permitted—on the will of the husband. That's quite a contrast to American women today.

Another primitive society, the Aranda of central Australia, could have had a rather interesting Mother's Day. The Aranda follow a classificatory system of relationships, lumping whole groups of relatives together under the same term. The term "mother" would not only apply to one's own mother, but also for your mother's sisters. The term "wife" refers not only to the actual wife but indiscriminately to any women belonging to the particular category of blood relatives. With the complications arising in our own society from divorce and remarriage, such a system might simplify Mother's Day.

But the lot of mothers in all primitive societies wasn't all this bad. The Semang society of the Malay Peninsula gave a comparatively high status for women. They never were beaten, either party could divorce the other, and the house was considered the property of the woman. Aged mothers were honored and respected, never contradicted, and provided for by their children.

But today all this would seem rather strange in a society which is increasingly complex and places great import upon the individual, including mother.

Except for freshmen mothers, the U of I campus and all its many activities, will seem comfortable. Most of the mothers of seniors, juniors and sophomores have realized the new role of their sons or daughters. That role includes the independence of making decisions and being responsible for the ramifications resulting. Perhaps Mary or Joe's language is rather refined and conservative, but mother knows if it's part of a false front. That Tom stops after two or three beers may be an indication, but mother knows that it may just be restraint for the weekend. She recognizes that her parental concern must have its limitations, and her son or daughter knows that the concern will continue.

Freshman mothers have a different role. Although most are already aware of the new status of the sons or daughters, some may find it difficult to adjust. These mothers may have a trying task realizing that the time for fixing the foundation for goals and standards they wish for their offspring has already passed. And now their sons and daughters are refusing or reaffirming this philosophy on their own.

Although the Idaho campus is rather conservative, at least a large percentage of its students have the liberal attitude of judging others on their personality and character, not on their family background, money or tradition. This too can pose problems for some mothers.

But while mothers are watching the students, the reverse is also happening. One of the delightful aspects of Mother's Day is watching the many types of mothers—the vivacious spring chicken, the conservative, stern-sitter, the timid, the social climber, the colorful. But regardless of which type you are mother—WELCOME TO THE UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO.

Baja Marimba Wastebasket Band Gets Comment

Dear Jason: Have you ever been awakened at 2 a.m. in the morning to the sound of the Baja Marimba wastebasket band? We were, just last weekend. We had just managed to close our weary eyes when the concert began with Pomp and Circumstance, with a well-known senior directing. This was quickly followed by the University of Texas fight song. It was a beautiful rendition, much better played than the original as the Longhorn Fighting Band is only equipped with a single fifteen-foot drum, which cannot do the song true justice.

As the band began to play The Stripper we decided that sleep was impossible and went outside for a short walk. As we reached the sidewalk under the windows we were accidentally drenched by several wastebasket loads of half-melted ice and empty beer cans which were hastily being disposed of by other members of the band who were a little late for the symphony.

We would like to thank the University for assisting in the formation of this new band, which is already expanding itself, having enlisted the services of three jack hammers, a pile driver, and a dynamiting squad from the Complex Construction Site. However, it would be nice if the University would allocate traveling expenses for this band, especially during the week of finals.

Perhaps the University could raise this money by selling the old, plastic wastebaskets to those students who would prefer the risk of possible asphyxiation to that of probable loss of hearing. Since, The Music Lovers Doug Hall Bill Carleton Borah Hall

C of C Committee Commends U of I For Loyalty Day

Dear Jason: On behalf of the Moscow Chamber of Commerce Loyalty Day Committee, we take this opportunity to thank the students of the University of Idaho for their support during last week's festivities.

Particularly, we'd like to thank Parm Nelson, ASUI Loyalty Day Chairman and Emma Sawyer, Recreation Area Director for their great job; Maun Rudisill for her organizational talents; The Army, Navy and Air Force ROTC's for their participation; The Associated Foresters for erecting the flag in the Arboretum; the ASUI Hospitality Committee for their Roadside Greeters; the Century Club and Pom Pon girls; the University Administration for their cooperation; KUID and Jim Story for technical assistance; Steve David for his fine folk singing; and last—but not least—the Argonaut for its fine coverage.

To all of the above, as well as the whole college community, we thank you for making the day a huge success and hope that next year's celebration can be equally successful.

Art Helbling

Poor Coverage By Argonaut Criticized

Dear Jason: I suppose that after spending some three to four years studying journalism it comes to no surprise to you to find out that an establishment such as a newspaper carries some power in a community such as a university. Also, it would naturally follow, that the aid of a newspaper would be advantageous to any organization wishing or deserving some publicity.

Granting these assumptions to be true I wonder why you and your staff did the Vandaleers Concert Choir such a favor as to find the smallest, most inconspicuous corner of your paper in which to announce the Choir's return to the campus and also to advertise its Spring Concert.

Contrary to some people's belief, there are a number of people on this campus who would appreciate reading about such a concert since they would enjoy attending such a performance. Also, since the members have worked since Christmas putting together a program which would be enjoyed by any mature person who wandered into the audience I believe they might deserve a little credit too.

While we are on the subject of music and how and when it should be presented, I believe I am right in pointing out to you that when the title of a musical composition such as the opera "Gianni Schicchi" is written it should be presented in its full form and not by some simple abbreviation such as "Schicchi."

It would seem to me that if mistakes such as this are common, some examination of your writing staff might be advantageous to your publication.

Let me say in closing that I believe the responsibility placed on the editor of a newspaper is great. Therefore, he must live up to these responsibilities. He cannot do anything else or someone will be writing a letter such as this because he slipped up in his responsibility.

Sincerely, Bob Caron Sigma Chi

Dear Jason: Tuesday evening I was privileged to have been among the fortunate few that were in attendance at the "homecoming" concert of the Vandaleers. That this was a performance of excellent caliber cannot be questioned. It was as fine a concert as I have ever witnessed here in Idaho and as far as I'm concerned ranked with the many fine performances I have heard in this country and abroad.

Yet something was missing. In this case it happened to be the audience and to those of us in attendance the question was asked—why?

Can it be true that Idaho is indeed a cultural desert? Can it really be the case that such excellence as our Vandaleers continually present to us falls mostly on deaf ears? I doubt it. Nevertheless there is something wrong here and I think

The Pi Phi's won second place and the Alpha Chi's third place in the girls' group houses, Sigma Nu won second and the Beta's and Phi Delta's tied for third place in the men's groups.

Delt Formal A night at the Yacht club was the theme of the Delt Formal. One portion of the hall was decorated to represent the deck of a yacht, while the other end was decorated with small sailing ships to give the effect of the harbor. Favors were crested chromium ships and blue-sea-like mirrors set on them.

SAE Spring Formal Monte Carlo was the theme for the SAE spring formal. A modern ballroom, flower garden, and roulette wheels were the decorations.

Mother's Weekend Mothers of several hundred Idaho students will not lack for entertainment over the Mother's weekend on the Idaho campus. Beginning Friday evening, the visiting mothers will be the guests at five special events arranged in their honor, not to mention three track meets, a tennis match, and a baseball game not listed on the program. First of the events the mothers will attend is Taps and Terpsichore, elaborate dance, festival, which climaxes the yearly activities of the Women's Athletic association. Tomorrow morning the mothers will have time to tour the campus and visit with their sons and daughters. At 1:30 they will attend the May Fete, to be held on the lawn near the administration building.

Movies At the Nuart, "A Message to Garcia" will be playing. "Transatlantic Tunnel" and "Til We Meet Again" starring Herbert Marshall will be playing at the Kenworthy.

Student Strike at Pullman To the student strike at Washington State college, Idaho students have remained aloof—a factor which has met with hearty approval of the administration here. The strike at Pullman was made in protest of the stringency of the administration, the prohibition of student government, and a general lack of freedom in thinking and carrying on their affairs. Classes were skipped with glee, parades were maneuvered, committees met, and speeches were loud and long.

Intramural Track Phi Delta Theta and Lindley Hall led the way to league first places last night in a dual league intramural meet.

Largest Senior Class Larger by 26 students than any other graduating class in the history of the university—this is the record that will be hung up when this year's class of 362 students march across the platform to receive their diplomas.

AWS Sees Changes In Hours, Rules

During Wednesday's meeting the AWS Legislature passed a resolution concerning women over 21 living off campus, changed women's hours for next year, discussed four constitutional changes, and set the dates for a general AWS meeting and the junior key orientation.

The Legislature passed the following resolution concerning off-campus housing:

"At such time the University of Idaho in conjunction with the Moscow Chamber of Commerce takes positive action towards improving the living condition of off-campus housing, the A.W.S. Legislature will firmly support the proposal allowing women students 21 or older to live off campus. The great shortage of off-campus housing is an important factor to be considered at the present time."

Women's hours next year will be 11 p.m. Monday through Thursday for all women. The Legislature also approved two two o'clock hours a semester to be taken on any Friday or Saturday night for all junior women.

The junior key orientation was scheduled for Tuesday, May 24, at 7 p.m. at the SUB Ballroom. In order for the junior women to get keys as seniors next year, they must attend this meeting, said Margie Felton, Kappa, AWS president.

Three constitutional changes were passed by the Legislature and one was defeated. Most of the revisions were clarifications of the present constitution.

The approved changes are:

1. That Article V, Section 1, Subsection b, Paragraph 3, of the Constitution which reads:
3. Appoint committees and officers not otherwise provided for in the constitution; be amended to read:
3. Appoint committees and officers not otherwise provided for in the constitution with the consent of the vice-president.
2. That Article VIII, Section 2, of the Constitution which reads:
- Section 2. There shall be two elections, a primary and a general, with the time and place of the election to be determined by the Legislature. The general election shall be held on the second Wednesday after the beginning of the second semester. be amended to read:
- Section 2. There shall be two elections, a primary and a general, with the time and place of the election to be determined by the Legislature. The primary election shall take place on the second Wednesday following Christmas vacation and the general elections shall be held one week later.

3. That Article IV, Section 2, Subsection e, of the Constitution which reads:
- e. The AWS contact shall be chosen from either the sophomore or junior class and shall be appointed to her office by the president and vice-president with the approval of the Legislature.

That a new paragraph be added to Article IV, Section 2, to read:

- g. No more than one officer shall be from any one living group.

The revisions passed by Legislature must now be passed at a general meeting for all AWS members. The meeting was scheduled for Wednesday, May 18 at 7:30 p.m. at the SUB.

Sigma Chi Chapter Is Threatened

(ACP) — The University of Minnesota chapter of Sigma Chi fraternity has been threatened with suspension January 1, 1968, unless the chapter can prove before then that it is free to pledge and initiate members without discrimination.

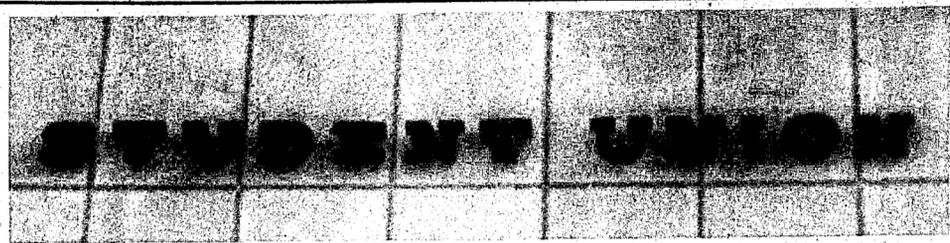

The decision of the All-University Judiciary Council stemmed from an incident last April in which the national Sigma Chi organization suspended a chapter at Stanford University after the chapter offered a bid for membership to a Negro student. Several chapters around the country have been suspended from their campuses since that time. The national has denied it suspended the Stanford chapter for bidding a Negro.

Donald Zander, director of Minnesota's Student Activities Bureau, presented the Stanford incident as evidence of membership discrimination by the national organization.

He told the Judiciary Council that de facto discriminatory practices by Sigma Chi in turn restrict the freedom of the University chapter to choose its members.

This places the local chapter in violation of the Minnesota policies relating to the selection of members by student organizations, he said.

George M. Roehdranz, Sigma Chi alumni president and attorney for the Minnesota chapter, said the organization "is not going to sit idly by. We are going to resort to whatever means are open to us to alter the decision."

SUB SIGN—A new addition to the north end of the University Student Union Building is a metal and neon sign which was installed this week. The specially made sign works on a time clock and goes on at 8 p.m., off at 2 a.m.

We've Got The Weekend

Since this weekend belongs to the mothers, and their schedule appears elsewhere in this glorious publication, I shall refrain from becoming repetitious.

However, for those of you whose mummies did not appear on the scene, I will clue you on the current movies in the area.

KUID Special To Show Crime

A portrait of today's young criminals and their vicious and senseless crimes will be shown Monday, May 9, over KUID-TV.

It is an hour-long documentary of the police who patrol the nation's streets, of the problems of local departments, and of the rehabilitation of young Americans who today are committing more than half of all street crimes.

N. E. T. camera crews in ghettos of New York City and Chicago find the problems of teen-age offenders, visit them at community centers around the country and at a training home in Delaware, and hear a criminologist, a psychologist, and policemen themselves talk about the new breed of youthful offenders.

The program shows how, despite an annual increase in the crime rate, fewer arrests are being made. "Crime in the Street" attempts to analyze what is behind this apparent breakdown in law enforcement effectiveness.

"Crime in the Streets" goes behind the headlines of the past year's riots in Harlem and Watts for an examination of the relationship between local police and non-whites.

And Here's to You, Too! Yes Folks, The Race Is On . . .

By LEO W. JEFFRES
Argonaut Editor

(Editor's note—This is the traditional fictitious account of the Turtle Derby presented by the Argonaut each year. The article is a play on words and has no relation to the abilities of the turtles.)

It's about time for the race to begin and here at the ringside the crowd is going wild. Everyone that is, except French Hall turtle Damit, who said the hell with everything and staggered off to greener pastures.

Damit seems to have offended the Alpha Phi Angel with his crude language, but she's being consoled by the DG's Herbie, who replied for her, "and here's to you too." The turtles are beginning to crawl into the ring. Campbell's Chug-A-Lug is hanging right in there as usual, followed by Carter's Ethemer and Gamma Phi's Jomami Gasunaki Heganmoruswell.

Wait a minute . . . there seems to be a ruckus in the middle of the line. It looks like the Tri-Delta's Boots has stepped on Nappiolian, who envisions himself as another Napoleon and seems to have met his Waterloo. That's the breaks, sports fans.

Jubilation T. Turtle of the Alpha Gam's is jacking things up in the background and Ethel Steel's Slo Gin is turning red in the heat. Danny Dragster is greasing it up with the Houston Oiler. In fact it's becoming a rather sticky affair.

Sterling Moss of the Theta's is raising his shining banner and Hay's Herbie squared is watching for the television cameras.

Sweet Pea of the Kappa House is gulping down a last can of spinach and Pine's Thundershell is surrounded by a group of glamorous women, including the Pi Phi's Daisy Rosalee whose boy friend Homin Nigel Fang Esquire of Shoup is homin' in on the affair.

The race is about to begin . . .

And they're off. Early in the lead it's Ethemer, followed by Jubilation T. Turtle and the Alpha Phi Angel. Wait a minute . . . Chug-A-Lug got kicked in the can by Danny Dragster who is really turning the gas on. Jomami Gasunaki Heganmoruswell is putting on quite a show clowning it up—he's just too much for words.

. . . around the corner it's Herbie in sixth place. He seems to be flipping a message to Damit, whose reply seems to be likewise. His moral support is coming from seventh place Herbie squared.

Thundershell just nudged into sixth, beating off the Homin Nigel Fang Esquire, who is having trouble himself with ego inflated Nappiolian . . . Boots is stomping through the middle, but the Houston Oiler is on her back . . . Chug-A-Lug seems to be pooping out and Jubilation T. Turtle is taking over. Danny the Dragster is still hanging in there but the Houston Oiler's playing some pretty grimy tricks.

. . . The race is just about over folks and here comes the winner, it's, it's . . . Herbie . . . Yes, the DG's Herbie is this year's winner of the Turtle Derby. Do you have anything to say to the folks at home, Herbie.

HERE'S TO YOU AND I REALLY MEAN IT.

SYNCHRONIZED SWIMMING—Performing tonight in the Helldiver's program, "Moods of Music" will be (clockwise from top) Diana Kinzer, Alpha Phi; Kay Barnes, Shoup; Gwen Hyke, Alpha Gam; Nancy Knox, Alpha Phi, Marcia Gollert, Alpha Gam; and Maureen Snow, Gamma Phi. Tonight's shows will be at 7 and 8:30 p.m. in the Memorial Gymnasium pool.

Two Honoraries Set Initiation

The annual Alpha Lambda Delta-Phi Eta Sigma initiation and banquet will be held at 5:15 and 6 p.m. respectively, tomorrow in the SUB, according to Joan Elsmann, DG. Dress is semi-formal.

At an Alpha Lambda Delta meeting Tuesday, the following girls were elected officers: President Sally Harris, Campbell; Vice-president Polly Thompson, Theta; Secretary Pat Beaudoin, Shoup; Treasurer Amie Paroz, DG; and Historian Linda Frazier, Kappa.

The phrase, "God reigns and the government at Washington still lives," was used by James A. Garfield, while he was delivering a speech, to reassure his hearers following President Lincoln's death.

Serving as co-chairman for the weekend's activities are Margaret Heglar, Alpha Phi, and Mike Skok, Pi Phi.

Mother's Day History Unfolds

The festival honoring motherhood came from the Western world around the time of the ancient Greeks. They worshipped Cybele, mother of the gods, and performed rites in woods and caves in her honor.

In England the tradition grew from "mothering." During mid-Lent visits were made to the old home and gifts were given to the mother of the family.

Mother's Day — U.S.A. was started in 1907 by Miss Anna

M. Jarvis of Philadelphia. She arranged for special mother's services in one of the churches and had those attending wear white carnations.

By 1911 every state celebrated this day as well as Canada, Mexico, South America, Africa, China and Japan. Leaflets were distributed explaining the purpose.

One of the leaflets included the following:

MOTHER'S DAY is a day that has shown that the United States has heart and living interest for all classes, races, creeds, native and foreign born, high and low, rich and poor, scoffer and churchman, woman and child. The common possession of the living world is a mother.

In 1912 the Mother's Day International Association was formed to increase knowledge and interest in the event.

Congress, in 1914 designated Mother's Day to be every second Sunday in May and on May 9 of that year ex-President Woodrow Wilson asked that all public buildings and citizens as well put out a national flag as "a public expression of our love and reverence for the mothers of the country."

GO-GO GIRL—Miss Sandy Hutt, DG, demonstrates the dance technique she used last night at the Phi Delt go-go contest. The contest, which was held during the fraternity-sponsored street dance, was a preliminary to the Turtle Derby this morning.

Plaque Given For Mothers Attendance

The Open House Committee will award a plaque to the living group with the highest percentage of mothers visiting the living group during Mother's Weekend, according to Carolyn Trebilcock, Pine, Open House Committee Chairman.

The Scott Reed Jazz Combo is featured in Sunday's TGIF show to be held from noon to 1 p.m., according to Paul Chapell, Beta.

search is the reason we have no know-how; no large body of agricultural knowledge, derived from experiment, exists anywhere other than in the developed world.

Judaean-Christian invention, will be necessary. It appears to be the only possibility. The real question of the future seems to be what form this fanaticism will take. Will it be military, as in Japan? Marxist, as in China? Will it resemble Ataturk's approach in Turkey? Or will some Oriental religion suddenly produce a Luther?

If the situation now is grim, all signs point to an even grimmer future. Many things are going to happen in the world that the American people, with their present simplistic and moralistic views of politics, are going to find hard to accept. But in this world, which is the one we have to live in, things are changing so rapidly even the long run is over before we know it.

Smile, Mrs. Sebastodes ... you're on live TV

Sebastodes, or Rockfish, is one of many colorful species of the ocean depths where our underwater TV cameras and lights probe the night-black water at 600 feet.

These cameras are not for study of marine life, however. They're down there to help technicians aboard our anchored oil-drilling ships guide complicated, remote-controlled drilling equipment.

600 feet - 100 fathoms. It's almost twice as deep as any ocean oil drilling ever attempted, until some very special techniques developed by Standard Oil scientists and engineers made it possible.

Our continuing search for new sources of oil takes us to mountains, deserts, and ever and ever deeper waters. For we must be certain that adequate supplies of oil are on hand to serve the Free World's growing energy needs, now and in the future... an important part of our responsibility to you.

DOLLARS — SCHOLARS

More than 7000 students have been helped to college educations by a program called "Dollars for Scholars," reports Reader's Digest. Started in 1957 by Fall River, Mass. Optometrist Dr. Irving Fradkin, the program has 200 chapters in 35 states today, operates by encouraging people in a town to contribute "A dollar or more" to help deserving local youngsters.

The school is now in the process of enlarging its program. It plans to develop more intensified vocational training and enlarge the existing physical plant.

Dr. Ann Carlson, director of the Jamestown school, in a letter to the fraternity, said, "We are proud of Terry and we are pleased that he has made such a fine adjustment in college. I certainly think that it is a fine thing that Phi Delta Theta wants to help our school."

Pat MacMahon, president of Phi Delta Theta said "Although we have usually donated the money to a local source, we feel that because of the work Jamestown has done in training Terry, this year it would be worthwhile to recognize their program in some way."

Terry, who visited the school three weeks ago to tell them the plans said, "I will always be grateful to the teachers at Jamestown in helping me to overcome my handicap. I am glad that my fraternity has decided to donate the proceeds to them. I know that the race and the betting will be the biggest success yet."

The goal is $600 in betting proceeds this year. The money will be turned over to Terry at the end of the race and mailed to the Jamestown School in North Dakota.

Underdeveloped Nations

MYTH: America Solves All

By NEAL PARSELL
Argonaut Contributor

It is May. The Indian farmer surveys his one-acre plot on the Ganges Plain. Heat waves erupt from the flat, monotonous land; there has been no rain since September. The temperature is 116. Will the village moneylender loan enough to pay for seed? Will the harvest be successful? Will there be another baby this year?

The farmer does not trust the government, never has. His father helped build mud walls around the village so it would appear to the tax collector that there was nothing worth taking. There is much talk of "India": is that the same as "Bharat"? Does it include the next village?

Since World War II, the world has been much concerned with the problems of the "underdeveloped" nations. These have become so complex it now requires a real effort to sort out the problems as presented in propaganda and the problems as they really are.

To call these geographical expressions "nations" is an honor that in most cases is not justified by the facts. Few of them are united politically; nation-building is an aspect of political science that is only now getting the attention it deserves. To clear the air for this study, it is necessary to look at some, but by no means all, of the myths that have grown up around international development.

MYTH: The underdeveloped nations are catching up with the West.

The Marshall Plan for the reconstruction of Europe was the first big success of foreign aid. The speed with which European banded back amazed even the most optimistic planners. At the same time, these European nations were unable to hold their colonies, and cries for modernization began to be heard from the Europeanized leaders of these former colonies.

There followed from this one of the most simple-minded analogies of modern intellectual history: that the methods which had been so successful in Europe could be used in the underdeveloped nations (which were called at this time "backward" nations, a term later to be abandoned for something more neutral).

Chemistry Prof. Phi Beta Kappa Honorary Member

Dr. Richard A. Porter, professor of chemistry at the University was initiated as an honorary member of the Idaho Alpha chapter of Phi Beta Kappa at its initiation and banquet Monday, May 2.

Dr. Porter, who is engaged in quantum mechanical calculations involving the nucleus of atoms, is a visiting professor, replacing Dr. E.K. Raunio, who holds an appointment at Stanford University this year.

Dr. Porter received his Ph.D. degree from the University of California at Los Angeles in 1959, following undergraduate study at the University of Illinois and Northwestern university.

He has held research appointments at the Lawrence Radiation Laboratory and at the University of California, San Diego and has been a consultant to the Rand Corporation.

Dr. Porter currently serves as advisor to the Idaho chapter of Phi Eta Sigma, men's scholastic honor society for freshmen.

Phi Beta Kappa is an honorary society for students with high scholastic achievement in the arts and sciences.

Forthwith came a flood of plans prescribing how these countries were to raise themselves by their bootstraps. These plans have all failed.

Progress has been made in some limited areas, but in no case equals the attached publicity. India, for example, has a steel industry of considerable size. The plan in building up this basic industry involved the transfer of some 100 million people to industry in order to get them off the land. It was a very appealing plan. But apparently no one noticed, at the time the plan was made, that in the United States only about 15 million workers were engaged in industry; this even though most of the planners were Americans. So now India makes steel, and the population still lives in misery.

It was taken as axiomatic that education in massive doses would be required. Yet the required changes from the traditional curriculum are very slow in coming. And in such a place as Nepal, where schools are being built as fast as possible, population is growing so rapidly that the literacy rate decreases every year.

Even the most superficial reading of United Nations reports is sufficient to convince anyone that the underdeveloped nations not only are not catching up with the West, but that most of them are not even making any overall absolute progress. Alien traditions and societies have defeated oversimple developmental efforts.

MYTH: A "revolution" of some kind has taken place in the underdeveloped countries. The term is pure jargon. We hear much of the "revolution of rising expectations" and it is true that great movements are taking place; powerful forces are at work. But these do not in any way add up to a revolution.

If these countries really want to modernize, what is necessary? Some of the answers are in, if modernization is to take place on the Western model: (1) Population control, and methods will have to be immediate and drastic: (2) the population must be saving-minded; the low propensity to save must be overcome; (3) foreign investment must be made possible on a tremendous scale; (4) the whole attitude toward work will have to be revised; "material" values must be substituted for "spiritual"; (5) emphasis in education has to be put on "doing," not "book learning."

These conditions have been met nowhere. European and American developers stress them incessantly, yet demands for change are met with polite evasion by the governments concerned. Instead we hear about "spiritual superiority" and "native solutions." Intellectuals want the changes, yet are unwilling to part with their traditions. The best possible example of this is Nehru, who could advocate rapid industrialization on one hand, and on the other a return to the Gandhian spinning ideal. These goals are incompatible. At bottom, the ferment in the underdeveloped world is a crisis in pride, and it arises not from a sense of strength in a new-found independence, but from a sense of weakness. Intellectuals, who hold traditional prestige in the population, and there is precious little foreign exchange to spend on food. Now we are to increase the shipments, but US STORES ARE NOT UNLIMITED. Such things as these make good newspaper copy. But they are useless as solutions to problems.

MYTH: American "know-how" will solve the problems of underdevelopment. In the most vital area, food production, the know-how does not exist. And on the industrial side, Americans can erect factories, but are powerless in solving the sociological problems of running them.

It has to be realized that food production in most of the non-Western world cannot be called farming; it is gardening. The prime considerations anywhere are output per acre of land and agricultural costs. Some areas of farm land in the world produce much more per acre than land in America, but this is accomplished at a much greater input cost; it has been said that up to 30 per cent of the agricultural labor force in India has zero net productivity.

It is possible to grow wheat on top of the Matterhorn; the problem is that of costs. In 1962 in the United States, it took 2.4 man hours to produce 20 bushels of wheat. Americans now spend less than the major part of their incomes on food, which from the point of view of the underdeveloped world is utopia arrived on earth. Agricultural surpluses have contributed to it not made possible only recently has anyone investigated how we got where we are.

A major cause of our present prosperity is the Hatch Experiment Station Act of 1887. This law made it possible for agricultural experiment stations to be set up across the country. And the agriculturalists soon found that a problem occurring, say, in Latah County did not necessarily have the same solution as a similar problem on Camas Prairie. Experiments had to be run in both places.

Death control is very easy. In the past, development has begun with spectacular health measures, usually smallpox or malaria eradication. But birth control is very difficult, and the answers are not yet in. Even if some super-simple device is invented, efforts to persuade people to use it, and effects once they are persuaded, are matters involving decades. And the problem is now.

Hospitals and health programs in the underdeveloped nations, established no doubt out of the most Christian motives, positively work against all developmental efforts by enlarging a population that must be cared for out of increases in the national output.

The only argument against this, that healthy people do better work, has never been confirmed in the underdeveloped countries. Another example is UNICEF. This program, which won a Nobel Prize, has as its goal care of the children of the world. But what happens when these children reach adulthood and join their hungry brethren?

The United States is currently shipping 20,000 tons of wheat per day to India. Conditions there have now reached the point where not even a bumper crop will feed the population, and there is precious little foreign exchange to spend on food. Now we are to increase the shipments, but US STORES ARE NOT UNLIMITED. Such things as these make good newspaper copy. But they are useless as solutions to problems.

The religious Directors Association of the University of Idaho elected officers in a meeting at noon yesterday in the Russett Room of the SUB.

Those elected were: Chairman, Father Roger Williams, Episcopal chaplain; vice-chairman, Richard Crader, minister at the First Baptist church; secretary-treasurer, Bill Nelson, LDS Institute; and advisor of Religion-in-Life committee, Father Andrew Schumacker, of the Catholic church.

Members of the organization are campus chaplains and community clergymen who are associated in some way with the university. "This includes many of the city churches," said Father Williams.

Richard Crader, minister of the First Baptist church, will speak at the Campus Christian Center at 7 p.m. Sunday.

Rev. Crader will describe the new concepts of God involved in the radical theology.

Vandal Baseballers Near NCAA Diamond Berth

With eight games to play and a 27-4 record, the Idaho baseball Vandals are taking dead aim on a bid to the District 7 NCAA baseball playoffs as well as their second league title in three years.

Next obstacle in the path of the charging Vandals, who are riding a nine-game winning streak, is the Whitworth Pirates. The Spokane nine hosts Idaho this Friday in a single game and will be trying to atone for a pair of losses at Moscow earlier this season.

Coach Wayne Anderson hopes to have most of his walking wounded back in the lineup on Friday after a rough four-game road trip to Utah and southern Idaho.

Shortstop Gary Johnson is ready to return to duty after being sidelined with a shoulder injury for 10 days. Steve Moen has been cleared by the university doctors after jamming both elbows in a collision. Wally Posey has returned to duty behind the plate after being sent to right field to protect an injured thumb.

Mike Everett, however, is back on the bench with the same injury that has plagued him since the middle of March. He stayed well long enough to steal one base on the recent road trip and help the Vandals boost their total to 93.

Spencer Second In Doubles Johnson stayed atop the Vandal hitting with his .386 average, but Posey moved up to .359 and Jim Spencer climbed to .342 during the southern swing. He is second in doubles with three, first in triples with four and homers with 2. He is second to Wayne Adams in stolen bases with 15.

Dean Cherbas leads the club in runs batted in with 23. Johnson and Posey each have four doubles to share that lead.

In the pitching department, Frank Reberger, Mike Lamb and Al Simmons all boast 6-0 records and Lamb is 14-2 during his three years with the Vandals. Ken Johnson is 4-1 and has struck out 45 in 33 2-3 innings.

by Dick Sherman Assistant Sports Editor Right now the Vandal baseballers stand 27-4 on the season with 8 games remaining on their schedule, but hopefully by the time this paper comes out Idaho will have defeated Whitworth to bring their record to 28-4.

This leaves 7 games remaining on the schedule which include such teams as Weber State, Montana State, Washington State, and Eastern Washington.

One of Idaho's defeats has been at the hands of Eastern Washington as they dropped a 10-5 decision following a grueling tournament down at Boise. Another of the losses was to Washington State in the Banana Belt Tourney by a score of 2-0, but since then the Vandals have beaten the Cougars twice, once at Pullman and once at home by identical scores of 9-8.

The Vandals took a doubleheader from Weber State by scores of 2-1, and 4-0. Idaho also defeated Whitworth twice this year but have yet to face Montana State who has had their troubles in conference play. The Vandals will close out their season in Pullman against the Cougars of Washington State.

Here's One For Mother

MOTHER, did you know your son ran on a dirty old cinder track in those brand new beautiful chaireuse dress socks you bought. That's gratitude for you. Don't be mad though, Mother. Buy the poor guy some shoes. Then he can wade Paradise Creek without cutting his feet on beer bottle glass.

AH, THE THUNDERING HERD. Are they bound for Mother's arms or Morts? We'd rather not say. You know, God, Country and Motherhood and all that good stuff.

HERE HE IS AGAIN, MOTHER—Same dirty old socks. Kinda reminds you of the fate of the Ajax White Knight when he went to the Polack neighborhood. He found out the dirt was stronger than he was.

Vandals Plagued With Many Injuries Today

After almost three weeks of spring football under their belts the Idaho Vandals have a long injury list that includes Bill Bufton, Byron Strickland, Woody Deckard and others. There are 18 players currently in the injury list.

Even though there were quite a few missing from action, coach John Smith said, "Last Tuesday was the best workout that we have had yet. The boys showed a lot of spirit and we also had a real good scrimmage session."

The warm weather has had quite an effect on the scrimmage sessions but the team has responded quite favorably to it. Said Smith, "The heat saps quite a bit of strength from the boys, but they are now becoming used to it so I think that they will do alright."

The Vandals will scrimmage today at 4 p.m. and will have two scrimmages remaining after today.

action this Saturday. Other doubtful participants will be Woody Deckard who along with Byron Strickland has a pulled groin muscle.

Teams Separate A week from today the Vandals regular scrimmage game with the two teams being divided up equally. "In the last two weeks I think that we will work separately with two teams so that we can conduct more of a game like scrimmage in the final two sessions," commented Smith.

The game at Coeur d'Alene is called the "Chicken-Bean" game where the winners eat chicken and the losers eat beans. The final scrimmage session of spring football is called the Picnic Bowl where the losers have to serve to the winners.

When asked about what would occur if a tie occurred, Smith commented, "I guess the coaches would be stuck with the job of serving everyone."

Short of Backs

"We will be short on backs in today's scrimmage, said Smith, but everyone should be healthy in the final two scrimmages to play in the last two scrimmage sessions will be those with knee injuries."

Included in the category of knee injuries are Ray Miller, Dick Arndt, Jack McKinney, and Jerry Aldin. These boys will be held most likely from participating in the last couple of intra squad games.

Bill Bufton has sustained a knee injury and will be held from

Short and Sweet

GOLF Idaho's golf coach Dick Snyder hopes that the frustration will end this Saturday when he sends his Vandals into action against Gonzaga for the fourth time this season.

In three previous meetings the two teams have finished with 9-9 ties. Idaho has a 3-3-3 season record after dumping Idaho State in Boise last weekend.

TENNIS The vastly improved Idaho tennis team will try to make it two in a row over Montana in Missoula this Saturday as they go after their fourth win of the season.

Coach Dave Gunderson's racket swingers tipped the 'Tops 5-4 in a match at Moscow last month. The rookie coach is still shifting his squad to get ready for the Big Sky championships here on May 20-21.

SWIMMING

Steve Calhoun from Orofino and Tom Kirkland from Moscow have been elected co-captains for the University of Idaho swim team, coach Russ Hatheway said today.

Kirkland and Calhoun replace Kirkland's older brother Kris and Bryon Anderson, who led the Vandal tankers in 1966.

SOME GUYS ARE BORN CLOWNS. This guy saw the camera-man. What a dramatic finish, recorded on film for posterity. The only thing is, the race was over. That string is for the next race. Oh well, you don't see any pictures of Custer looking like a human pin cushion. But then, they didn't have cameras then either.
