Bell Named New Law School Head

Dr. George M. Bell, 52, a member of the University of Idaho College of Law faculty since 1949, has been named as the colleges' acting dean, it was announced yesterday by President Ernest W. Hartung, following Regents' approval. The Regents are meeting this weekend in Pocatello.

E. Peterson who is resigning to enter private law practice after being on the faculty for 13 years, of which the last three were spent as dean.

Educated at Utah State university and George Washington university, where he received his Juris Doctor degree in 1940, Bell came to the University of Idaho after four years in the legal division, office of the chief ordinance, United States Army.

Following the war, he practiced law in Logan, Utah, for two and one-half years. He also served for a year as an assistant professor of law at the University of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Dr. Bell has been active in law school projects and has been popular with both students and faculty members. He is credited with being the man responsible for the starting of the annual "Idaho Law Review" of which he now serves as the faculty adviser.

In 1957 Bell published a book, "Handbook of Evidence for the Idaho Lawyer," providing for the first time rulings of the Supreme Court of Idaho from 1866 to 1957.

The new duties of acting dean become effective on July 1.

Student-Faculty Spots Open on Committees

Are you interested in working with faculty members to improve conditions and create new ideas for your university? Come to the SUB at 6:30 Monday evening and interview for a Student Faculty Committee.

The SUB Board recommends to the President through the Dean of Students, policy with respect to the general operation and management of the Student Union and supervises the implementation of adopted policies. A knowledge of all Activities Council and other campus events is required.

The Student Faculty Council discusses all probable and existing problems of campus life. This year work was done on revision of student probation and discipline standards. Members must have a broad knowledge of the university and an awareness of the procedures of campus life.

The Bookstore Advisory Committee advises the Financial Vice President of operation policies and procedures, and recommends changes in general policies.

The Student Health Services Advisory Committee advises the Dean of Students on general policies related to the operation of the Student Health Center.

Also interviewing will be the following committees which lacked applicants in previous interviews.

The Borah Foundation is the policy making body for the Borah Foundation. Members choose a speaker and topic for Borah Week and other events throughout the year. Applicants should have an interest in world politics, economics, and general international affairs.

The Public Events and United Nations Committee selects public events speakers and organizes and plans the luncheons to be given for them. The members also aid in recognition of the U. N. and set up a forum during U. N. Week in October.

The Women's Disciplinary Committee investigates facts and circumstances relating to disciplinary problems. It also handles cases referred to it by living groups.

The Scholastic Improvement Committee brings problems to the committee concerning the raising of academic standards on campus.

The Recreation Committee makes proposals for all needed improvement in the area of outdoor facilities for recreation on campus.

The Traffic Safety Committee recommends traffic and parking policy, and rules and enforcement procedure.

The Athletic Board of Control is an advisory committee to the President on matters relating to athletics. This year it will work on continued screening of the constitution of the new conference.

The general eligibility requirement for these committees is a 2.2 g.p.a. The final selection of students is done by the Executive Board and then must be approved by President Hartung.

Capacity Seating Set For Cosby

Only a handful of tickets remain for the Bill Cosby show at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Memorial Gymnasium, according to Gale Mix, General Manager of ASU.

He said that 250 more chairs have been added to the regular seating capacity of the gym.

"This is undoubtedly the most people we have ever had in the gymnasium for any performance," he said. "This will be the biggest show we've had yet."

Mix said that if any tickets remain they will go on sale at the doors at 6 p.m. "The doors will not open until 6:30 though," he added. The show will start at 8 p.m. with the "We Phi's," Chick Rogers, Steve Granger, Don Baranco, and John St. Clair, Phi Delta; members of the group, who were winners of the Blue Key Talent show in March.

Bill Cosby will arrive in Moscow about 5 p.m. and will leave for Seattle after the show, Mix said.

Mix said that people from Montana, eastern Washington, and southern Idaho will be in Moscow for the performance. He said the reason for this is that Cosby won't be appearing in this area until next fall. At that time he will appear at Gonzaga University in Spokane.

Mix said that there will be a group of NBC station personnel attending from Boise, Seattle and other areas. He also said that a new public address system has been installed in the gym. This system, instead of using many small speakers, will use two large speakers designed to cover the entire gym with sound.

Cosby has been nominated for an Emmy Award for his television show "I Spy." In addition to the show having been nominated for an award, Cosby has been nominated for a number of awards including best serious, and best comedy. The Emmy Awards are to be presented on May 22.

Tickets for the show are available at the Student Union and Haddock and Loughlin, Moscow, and at the CUB on the WSU campus.

Seating may be obtained by signing up at the U-Hut

"In nominating this man I would like to tell you that he has served the state of Idaho for many years and does have Idaho as his main concern. He is an advocate of the recent Sales and Use Tax passed by the 38th session of the Idaho State Legislature, which he feels is a needed and progressive measure to meet the tax needs of the state of Idaho."

These might be some of the words that will be spoken Sunday as the Idaho Center for Education in Politics (ICEP) Mock Political Convention gets underway.

Both Republicans and Democrats will meet together to choose a slate of candidates, according to Roy Haney, off campus, Governor, lieutenant governor, senator and representative candidates will be chosen at the convention.

The convention will convene at 2 p.m. Sunday. Republicans will meet in the Borah Theatre and Democrats will meet in the Galena Room to hold a rally. During this time those candidates who are running and who are able to be here will have a chance to speak to their respective parties and statements will be read by those candidates who were unable to come.

According to Haney there will be at least eight actual candidates who will be present. Among these will be Cecil Andrus, Democratic candidate for governor from Orofino. Andrus served three terms in the Idaho State Senate and served as chairman of Business Climate Committee, a legislative council.

Charlie Brown, Republican candidate for governor from Coeur d'Alene will also be present on campus. Brown is considering running independently without going through the Republican convention.

Charles Herndon, Democratic candidate for governor from Salmon Idaho will also be present.

Purcell is presently manager of the Lewiston Chamber of Commerce. He also worked with the Caldwell Chamber of Commerce as executive secretary.

Two candidates for lieutenant governor will also be on campus this weekend. Sen. Jack Murphy, Republican candidate from Shoshone will be present. Murphy is an attorney in Shoshone and has served in the Idaho State Senate in the capacities of Senreconvene in the Ballroom. Leo Krullitz, state Young Democratic chairman, an attorney from Boise and Larry Schoenhut, state Young Republican chairman, prosecuting attorney from Cascade will give the opening addresses.

Another Republican lieutenant governor candidate to attend is Syd Smith from Coeur d'Alene. Smith is an attorney in Coeur d'Alene. He has been active in the Republican party in the capacities of precinct committeeman, state committeeman and as the first Republican chairman from six northern counties.

Delegates to the convention are urged to dress like the character of the counties that they represent, Haney said.

Following the rally which should end about 3 p.m. according to Haney the convention will Reports from the Credentials committee and from the Rules committee will follow. At this time, also, a convention chairman will be elected and the platforms for both parties will be presented and voted upon. After a short break nominations for the candidates will follow.

The nominations will be given in the following order, Haney said. Nominations for U.S. Senator will be given first.

Nominations for the two state representatives will follow.

Candidates for lieutenant governor will be nominated next with gubernatorial candidates being nominated last.

Nominations will include a nominating speech and a second nomination speech. Each state candidate has a student representative on campus. It is up to them to get the nominating and seconding speeches lined up for their candidate, Haney said.

Forum Discusses Time Changes In Year's Semester Schedule

The early starting dates planned for the fall of 1967 and alternative plans to it were discussed at a forum yesterday afternoon in the Borah Theatre.

No consensus was reached at the meeting among either the faculty or the students.

Under the plan which has already been approved registration would be August 28-29 with final exams over before Christmas vacation, December 22-January 13. Commencement would be May 19.

The second plan is approximately the same plan by which Idaho is running now, it would start registration Sept. 12-13, Christmas Dec. 20-Jan. 3, final exams Jan. 17-24, and commencement would be June 2.

The third plan would have registration start Sept. 12-13 and commencement May 19. Under plan three first semester finals would come immediately after Christmas vacation (Christmas Dec. 22 to Jan. 8, Finals Jan. 8-13.)

All three plans include a one week spring vacation, and plans two and three, which have second semester starting sometime after Christmas vacation, have a three day break between semesters.

All three plans were semester plans; also discussed at the forum was the quarter system.

A quarter system would start Sept. 23-24 with the first quarter over at Christmas Dec. 18. There would be two quarters after

The ASU executive Board is planning a poll of the students on plan preference. The poll is now being drawn up by ASU vice president Art Crane and Lee Davis, off campus.

"The decision on which plan is used must be made by the faculty," Harry Caldwell, chairman of geography, said.

"While we may not do what you want," Siegrid Rolland, Prof. of history, said, "we will not take your opinions lightly." One of the objectives of plan one is to end the first semester at Christmas and thus eliminate the "flame duck" session afterward. One consequence of this is the early starting and finishing dates.

Some students at the forum said the early starting dates interfered with harvest, forest, and other jobs, while several

Advertising For KUOI Discussed By E-Board

An inventory control plan for the University Rifle Team equipment and discussion on whether or not University radio station KUOI should be allowed to solicit local advertising were the two main items of business at Executive Board Tuesday night.

Procedures for providing equipment for the rifle team were outlined and adopted by the board, and an order for $317.70 worth of equipment for the coming school year was okayed.

The procedures for ordering the equipment included an inventory by the coach and ASU general manager, and a listing on a consolidated memorandum receipt card. The provisions also included storage rules for the new equipment.

The use of local advertising on KUOI student radio station was discussed, with ASU President Dick Rush stating this would entail a change in the University's policy on advertising.

Rush said it has been the University's policy not to allow student organizations to solicit local advertising. He pointed out, however, that he thought both students and downtown merchants were in favor of the proposal and that he thought the proposal would be accepted.

Rush also stated that Moscow's radio station, KRPL, or the Chamber of Commerce do not disapprove of the idea.

E-Board member Jim England said he would present the proposal to University President Ernest Hartung for approval.

Other topics of discussion were appropriations for the University Golf Course, and for the upcoming Idaho Center for Education in Politics (ICEP) convention.

The board heard a recommendation for remodeling costs for living quarters of the University's Golf Professional's house. The board decided not to approve the request for funds until further investigation can be made.

Requests were heard and approved for the ICEP Mock Political Convention, appropriating $100 for costs.

Changes were recommended in five student faculty committees which are to be presented to Hartung for approval. These com-

The Golden Fleece

By Jason No. 78—Leo W. Jeffres

No Censorship—More Responsibility

Only four issues of The Argonaut remain after this one. Into those four editions the present Jason must condense the rest of his remaining ideas on the philosophy of a student newspaper.

Today is "turn-about" day at the Argonaut. Two of next year's editors, Ellen Ostheiler and Mike Seibert, are planning this issue. Tuesday's will be under the direction of second semester editor Jean Monroe. Then Jason and his associate editor will return for the last three issues.

Before the last paper is published this year, Jason asks any students or faculty members who have suggestions or criticisms of The Argonaut to submit their ideas in a letter to the editor, for publication or only for information. Indicate on the letter whether it is for publication. This is one way that the present editors hope to pass along ideas of improvements to next year's staff.

Some of the structures of control that surround campus newspapers are amazingly restrictive and severely limit the editorial freedom of the editors. This is not the case at Idaho. Although the editors must be approved by Communications Board, their recommendation to Executive Board is based upon the decisions of the preceding Jasons. At some universities faculty advisors to the student newspapers have authority to censor any material or criticism appearing in the paper.

Jason is presently participating in a survey of college newspapers by the American Council on Education, Washington, D.C. Many of the questions are concerned with the control of and restrictions on student newspapers. Last fall Jason asked President Hartung his views on the relationship between university administrations and student newspapers. He replied that the only requirements he sought were that the student editors know the laws of libel and obscenity. Beyond this he supported the independence of the Argonaut. This is a very enlightened attitude which contributes to the liberal-thinking atmosphere at the U of I.

But to be free of censorship and control only presents additional responsibilities to the student press. The Argonaut is and should be a forum for the students of the U of I. To do otherwise would be to ignore the fact that The Argonaut is the students' newspaper and is being operated for them.

One of the familiar criticisms of the Arg and other student papers who accept this philosophy is that they read like bulletin boards. And the rating services usually subtract points for this very point.

But as the most useful tool of communication, the Argonaut is perhaps the only means of reaching the majority of Idaho students. It is for this reason that so many group-limited events are reported. Certainly all-campus events such as Mothers Day weekend and the ICEP Mock Convention Sunday would merit considerable coverage because of the large numbers of students involved, but the more than 120 other organizations on campus also deserve at least some coverage. The controversy usually is how much coverage.

Opinions and criticism are welcome at The Argonaut.

Perhaps an appropriate quote is one by Tocqueville from "Democracy in America."

A man believes firmly because he adopts a proposition without inquiry. He doubts as soon as objections present themselves. But he frequently succeeds in satisfying these doubts, and then he begins again to believe. This time he has not a dim and casual glimpse of the truth, but he sees it clearly before him and advances by the light it gives.

WSU Lowers Requirements

Washington State has approved a recommendation which will lower the minimum number of semester hours required for a Bachelor's Degree to 120 plus the required physical education activities courses, a total of 122 credit hours. Although it varies with the degree and subject studied, the B.A. at the U of I requires passing 128 credit hours. Perhaps an evaluation of the U-I requirements is needed. A faculty committee this year has been investigating required courses and some student opinions about them. This new decision by WSU might also be included on the agenda.

Suggested Republican Platform For Mock Political Convention

WE THE UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO YOUNG REPUBLICANS RECOMMEND THE ADOPTION OF THIS PLATFORM FOR THE IDAHO CENTER FOR EDUCATION IN POLITICS MOCK IDAHO STATE ASSEMBLY IN MOSCOW ON MAY 15.

ARTICLE A. We the University of Idaho Young Republicans endorse the Sales and Use Tax passed by the 38th Session of the Idaho State Legislature as a needed progressive measure to secure the continued growth of Idaho.

ARTICLE B. And we endorse Idaho State Constitutional Revision to meet the changing needs of the State of Idaho and provide Idaho with a more flexible and dynamic governmental structure.

ARTICLE C. And we endorse the adoption of a suitable Home Rule Provision to facilitate stronger city and county government in Idaho.

ARTICLE D. And we furthermore urge the adoption of measures to improve communications in the State of Idaho, including the conversion of Highway 95 into an Interstate Highway.

ARTICLE E. And we finally recommend the adoption of general revisions of the Executive and Judicial Branches of State Government in Idaho to include:

SECTION 1. The election of the Governor and Lieutenant Governor as a party ticket (either both Democrats and both Republicans.)
SECTION 2. The appointment of all State Level Justices by a bi-partisan commission.

Suggested Democratic Platform For Mock Political Convention

We, the Democrats of the University of Idaho, to promote the economic development of the State, to insure a dynamic and effective state government and to assure the State of Idaho proper development of its water and other natural resources, do adopt this platform:

I. That a state constitutional convention be called to update the present Constitution and that a specific study of the executive branch be instituted to look into the feasibility of the appointment by the Governor of certain presently elected officials.

II. We recognize the importance of our natural resources, especially our water resources, to the people of Idaho and we pledge full support to the utilization of these resources for the best interests of the State of Idaho. We actively support the Southwestern Idaho Water Development Project.

III. In order to answer the need for increased revenues, we support the revision of existing state tax laws and the provision of new state revenues through a broad-based taxation. We pledge to follow the will of the people in the upcoming referendum in relation to the present sales tax law.

IV. Idaho's tax structure should be adjusted to better compete for new industrial development. This adjustment should include a tax credit system to be extended to new industry for a period of time and subsidies to aid the acquisition of land and water for new Idaho industry, and further that a public power line should be constructed into Southern Idaho so that resources may be properly developed and business and agriculture may prosper, consistent with the philosophy of free enterprise.

V. That a constitutional amendment should be passed for the purpose of raising the State's legal bonded indebtedness limit from $2 million to $12 million.

VI. That this money be used for the improvement of transportation and educational facilities of the state.

Mock Political Convention Questioned On Late Schedule

Late in the year, and possibly largely unknown... ICEP (Idaho Center for Education in Politics) is holding a mock convention here Sunday afternoon.

At least four candidates for state office will be attending the convention—both to speak at rallies and to observe the convention. All of the campus living groups will participate in representing Idaho's 44 counties, as the convention selects a slate of candidates.

May we remark at this point that the convention has several things going against it. First of all the convention has been scheduled too late in the year. It is close to finals and the conflict of interests arising from the good weather and slated functions may be overwhelming.

In addition, politics on a state level have tended to be a rather moot question as compared to those on the national scene... simply because of Idaho's basic and ingrained conservatism. However, there are benefits which could be gleaned from the convention.

Several aspirants for political office will be attending the convention, and both Democrats and Republicans will elect a slate of candidates... offsetting the Republican majority which prevails on the campus. All living groups will be participating, even if only a select few acting as delegates bother to attend.

It would seem, for those students who have never seen a convention in action, that Sunday would be an excellent opportunity to learn—concerning convention processes, Idaho's state politics, and opinions regarding such pressing issues as the future of the sales tax.

Each delegation is being asked to vote as it feels the actual county would vote during the actual convention. We doubt that this will actually happen. Nevertheless it will be a good experience, and may give some indication of what could happen when our elders get down to brass tacks.

Written On The Wind

By PAT COBB

I think I shall get whoever wrote the column "Written Down Wind" by Corn-off-the-Cobb (Phi Delt Shellback) to ghost write for me. He writes better than I do.

In doing some research for a term paper, I ran across some sermons and treatises that I think you'd be interested in. These comments have to do with the medieval attitudes of "anti-feminism" and courtly love. One of these dominant attitudes, courtly love, probably arose in opposition to the other dominant doctrine of anti-feminism.

In short, courtly love meant that a lady kept a few knights and squires on the side. She was generally married, of high birth, and had probably been married off, at a very tender age, in order to cement political interests or join a couple of feudal estates. To her husband, she was a piece of property. So her romantic interest was placed in an available knight. The knight's enemy was not the husband (he was expected to put up with all stray men) but a rival. Traditionally, the knight acted as her servant and always had to work hard for his lady's "favor." In the "Franklin's Tale" by Chaucer, the knight gets rid of all the rocks at the bottom of the sea, in order to approach his lady. (His brother, a cleric, just happened to have a charm for getting rid of rocks at the bottom of the sea.)

The doctrine of anti-feminism is more easily explained by examples rather than definition. St. Jerome in "A Monk's View of Womanhood" admonishes a "wise man" not to marry. He quotes "Theophrastus, an antifeminist of antiquity, and says, 'a wise man would take a wife if the lady were fair to see, well-bred and of honorable parentage and if the man himself were healthy and wealthy, but since wise men generally cannot find all these concurrent, it is better not to marry.'

Jerome gives some LOVELY reasons for not marrying, and I must remark that times have not changed much.

"Impedes the study of philosophy. Man cannot serve his wife and his books with equal zeal. (I've heard that before and not necessarily about wives.)

"A wife has too many needs - 'clothes, jewels and a gilded car.' (a gilded car?)

"Women must be praised a lot.
"He must listen all night long to her wordy complaints."
"If a man seeks marriage for a well-kept house, 'solace in sickness,' or to 'flee from solitude,' he might as well have a good servant around because a woman will do contrary to a man's wishes, if she gets a chance.

"If a man gets sick, he might as well have good friends to take care of him because a wife is generally waiting for him to die, in order to take a younger husband or get a widow's pension. Jerome really had a way with words and at last says, "A fair woman is easily loved, a foul woman easily falls into concupescence. It is hard to keep a thing that many men want; it is burdensome to possess that which no man deigneth to have. Yet it is less misery to possess the unshapely; for nothing is safe where all men sigh after it."

Bernardino in a sermon to a bunch of mothers and their daughters admonishes them not to pay too much attention to fashion, to keep a clean house and be virtuous. He comes up with a classic comment when he says, "Man is made of clay, but women is of flesh and bone, and in proof of this, man who is of clay, is more tranquil than woman, who is of bone; for bones are always rattling."

A typical medieval marriage is exemplified in a book of instructions written by a middle-aged menager or householder in France, (c. 1400) His wife, evidently a young teen-ager, is instructed regarding everything from in what form to make her confession to her priest, to how to charm glanders out of a horse and how to play games and ask riddles. But the menager was after all a good man and probably would not have agreed with the characteristic medieval argument that if God had meant women for a position of authority, he would have taken her from Adam's head rather than his side. The menager would probably have agreed with Peter Lombard who observed "She was not taken from Adam's head because she was not intended to be his ruler, not from his feet, either, to be his slave, but from his side, precisely because she was intended to be his companion."

I'm for Peter Lombard.

students at the meeting complained that the present ending dates were too late for some jobs.

"We have a candle; at which end do we burn it?" Caldwell said.

The effect of this plan upon summer jobs was one of the questions the committee said it wanted the students opinion on. Plan three has the best remedy to this question, with starting Sept. 12-13 and ending May 19. It sees this by having finals immediately after Christmas vacation.

E-Board member Gary Vest and other students strongly objected to having finals directly after Christmas vacation.

The committee also suggested the placement of finals in relation to Christmas vacation would be a question on which to poll student opinion.

The quarter system which best handles these problems, involves many more costs than any of the other plans, Registrar F. L. O'Neill and other members of the committee said.

O'Neill estimated that an additional $50,000 in registration

Pi Kaps Recieve Charter In Weekend Ceremonies

Zeta Mu chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity receives its national charter in ceremonies which begin tonight and run through tomorrow evening. The activities begin with the installation of the chapter during a banquet and crowning of the second Pi Kap Dream Girl, tonight in the Student Union Ballroom.

Installation ceremonies continue throughout tomorrow, with the official initiation of the new chapter officers, including Paul Bishop, President; John Garske, Vice President; Mike Brechan, Recording Secretary; Ken Buck, House Manager; and Dennis Johnson, Pledge Minister.

National Pi Kap officers who will be on hand for the ceremonies include R. H. "Bunny" Clark, national Vice President, and Bill Crosby, Assistant to the National Executive Officer, both of Memphis, and Lance Perkins, Field Secretary from Idaho Falls.

Initiation teams from chapters at both the University of Washington and Washington State University will also be present. The founding of the fraternity makes the 134th national chapter for the National Pi Kap organization, and the second in the state of Idaho.

The Pi Kap colony started here at Idaho in the fall of 1964 when Stephen C. Haskins of Gamma Xi Chapter at Washington State, set up a card table in the Student Union Building during formal fall rush.

The rush yielded six pledges, and during the semester the colony grew to twenty-five men, who in February 1965, moved into the newly purchased house at 630 Elm Street.

The new Pi Kap chapter receives its charter only a little more than a year after it first moved into its house.

Haskins, the Pi Kap's resident counselor and student founder of the colony, recently received the Pi Omicron Sigma Interfraternity Council Award during the May Fete ceremonies. The second Dream Girl, to be crowned tonight at 11:15 p.m. in the ballroom, will follow in the footsteps of Miss Lodi Stemmler, Forney. Miss Stemmler was the fraternity's first sweetheart, crowned at their social function last year.

The dream girl will be selected from a group of five finalists including Linda Fairburn, Kappa; Diane Foster, Alpha Chi; Karen Hanson, Alpha Phi; Judy Reed, Pi Phi; and Johna Welsh, Gamma Phi.

Guests of honor for the chapter banquet and formal dance will include Dean and Mrs. Boyd Martin, Dean and Mrs. Guy Wicks, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hillard, the fraternities' national pledge trainer, and Mr. Robert Johnson, fraternity district president.

The purchase of the present chapter house was started by Executive Director Earl Watkins, now the chapter alumnus advisor.

The University of Idaho brings its spring football "Picnic Bowl" game to the Lake City for the first time Saturday night.

Two evenly divided squads of youthful Vandal gridders will battle at 7:30 at Person Field in the first part of a two-game total points series that winds up spring practice — and decides who eats and who serves at next weekend's picnic.

Assistant coaches John Smith and Herb Adams, handling the Blacks, and Walt Anderson and Bill Hughes, of the Whites, "drafted" their teams this week.

Interesting Contrast
The split-up of quarterbacks offers an interesting contrast. Last year's regulars John Foruria and Joe Rodriguez wound up on the Blacks while a promising trio of freshmen, Woody Deckard, Steve Garman and Dick Nelson, will share duties for the Whites.

"We have a purpose in pitting the frosh against the veteran quarterbacks," assistant coach Walt Anderson explained. "There's no time like the present to find out if the frosh can become an integral part of our fall plans or if we have to rely on them purely as a source of depth. It would be nice if we could use them all on an equal basis."

That's What It's All About
Anderson also noted that he seriously doubted whether the blacks and the whites were, "any- thing but evenly divided." "I think we've got the strength and depth on both units to make the going pretty tough for anybody we'll play this coming season," he noted. "Our schedule is tough, but so are we. But we don't want to have to pick the best of each squad - so to speak. We'd rather build a plan to bring out the best in everyone. You might say that's what spring practice is all about."

Spring practice, however, has been notable for its absences. All-American fullback Ray McDonald is on the track team, and not out for spring ball. Wingback Joe McCollum and split end Rich Toney are others missing in spring sports.

Several Sidelined
Defensive end Jerry Ahlin, pro draftee defensive lineman Dick Arndt and Ray Miller, offensive back Tim Lavens and safety Pat Davidson all skipped spring ball to recover from off-season operations and spring injuries have the place-kicker Darrell Danielson and young ends Jim Thiemans and Mike Proteau sidelined.

The Vandals will be feted twice in Coeur d'Alene, before and after the game, with a 3 p.m. dinner at the Athletic Round Table and a post-game feast at the Coeur d'Alene Elks, Person Field has seating for 4,000. Proceeds go to Vandal Booster clubs.

IDAHO TRACK TEAM TO SPOKANE MEET

Idaho's Vandal track team journeys to Spokane today for a triangular meet with Eastern Washington and Whitworth College. The clash is slated for the Whitworth track at 5:30.

Coach Doug MacFarlane isn't making any predictions other than, "It's going to be a tough meet chuck full of talent. The Idaho mentor recalled that his cindermen barely edged Eastern, the 70-66 in the last meeting between the two schools.

The Vandals will meet with Whitworth for the first time, but MacFarlane predicts more tough competition on the basis of their previous performances.

Meet Highlight
MacFarlane said that undoubtedly the highlight of the meet will be the shot put competition between Big Ray McDonald and Whitworth's Jock McLaughlin.

"The two have competed against one another a few times," the Idaho coach noted. "Ray beat him once in Seattle, but McLaughlin has won every other time."

Idaho's chances in the sprints are rated even with Eastern, according to MacFarlane. "If Bryson has a good day in the 100 and the 220, we'll do okay there," he noted. "However, you can just about split the winning points between Whitworth and Eastern in any distance beyond that. We'll have to pick up a lot of second and third place points in those races to make up the difference."

MacFarlane gives Big Ray the winning points in the discus throw.

of the conference. That year Idaho beat Weber State, the other division winner, two games out of three for the championship. Since 1964 the conference has combined both divisions and only a single winner is declared with no separate division winners.

Al Simmons is the probable starting pitcher against Eastern Washington today with Mike Lamb scheduled for one game of the Montana State doubleheader tomorrow, and either Bill Stoneman or Frank Reberger in the second game. If the Vandals win the conference championship this year, it will be the second such championship for five of the six seniors.

Good Season

The Vandals' best season record was in 1964 which was their first year in the Big Sky Conference. They went 23-10 on the season and won their division who came to Idaho as a transfer. Sam hit .138 last year and now has a .200 average with 1-5.

Tomorrow the Vandals play Montana State in a doubleheader. Idaho will have to win both games to clinch the conference championship and at least split if they are to be assured of a tie.

Idaho is 9-1 in conference play with Montana State having a 1-7 record in conference play. Close behind the Vandals with a 6-2 record is the University of Montana. Montana has four games left including doubleheaders with Idaho State at Pocatello and Weber State at Ogden.
