U-I Students Injured in Auto Crash

Ten University students were injured early Sunday morning when the pick-up truck in which they were riding rolled over in an accident north of Robinson Lake.

Four of the students were admitted to Moscow's Gritman Memorial Hospital and treated for injuries.

Still under care at the hospital are Wayne De la Motte, Sigma Nu, and Linda Fleming, Houston, who are reported by hospital authorities to be in satisfactory condition. Both De la Motte and Miss Fleming received fractured vertebrae.

Released later Sunday was Roberta Wheeler, French, who received back injuries, and transferred to the Kellogg hospital in Kellogg, Idaho, was Miss Cindy Holmquist, Hays, who also received back injuries.

Treated and released were Dawn Hall, Pine; Janette Rainey, Carter; Christine Rowett, Carter; Richard Logston, Sigma Nu; and James Daniel McLaughlin, Sigma Nu.

The accident occurred at 12:40 a.m. when the pick-up truck driven by Russell Storey, Sigma Nu, left the road and overturned after striking a soft shoulder on the road which caused the driver to lose control.

At the time there were 20 students in the vehicle, according to Larry Waterby, Latah County Deputy Sheriff. No citation was issued.

Swisher Stands Firm on Sales Tax

Senator Perry Swisher, independent candidate for Governor, re-affirmed his stand for the sales tax at the no-host luncheon and press conference on campus Friday, and said that the November referendum would not be an accurate prediction of the people's intentions toward state financing.

"It gives the people no opportunity to say what they wish . . . and even its defeat would not mean that the people want a budget cut-back," he said.

"It gives the people no opportunity to say how they want development of education, or how they feel about the payroll, economic opportunity, parks and recreation, development of natural resources or how they feel about retirement, and the merit system or the property and income taxes," he said.

"I won't throw the state back, by my efforts, into the dismal state it was before the tax," he said, adding that politicians could not abide by the outcome of the referendum.

Swisher outlined a program for state financing without the tax, however, saying that he would set up a list of priorities, and those of least importance would be on the end of the list and might be cut when the money runs out.

"I'd set education first and give it all my support," he said. He named the excise tax, and income and property taxes as the only other sources of income for the state without sales tax. He said that if the tax is not passed, every school district would be faced with massive bonds to raise the support of education, that property taxes

Alpha Phi Omega Rushing Begins

Alpha Phi Omega's rush program began yesterday and will continue through Wednesday. Members of Alpha Phi Omega will tour all men's living groups and fraternities in conjunction with their pledge drive.

Informal initiation will be held Thursday at 7 p.m. at the Student Union Building. Interested persons who have not been contacted are invited to attend. Formal pledging will not occur until Thursday, October 6.

This year promises to be one of Alpha Phi Omega's most active years on campus, according to Joseph Tassinari, corresponding secretary.

Fire Isolates University; Telephones Out Indefinitely

A fire Sunday in the equipment room of the General Telephone Co. of the Northwest isolated the campus, and officials would make no estimate as to when service would be restored.

FIRE DAMAGE REPAIRS—Workmen labor to repair the wiring which was burned out of the General Telephone building Sunday morning. The loss amounted to about $750,000 and complete service will not be renewed for an indefinite length of time, according to company officials. Emergency wires were installed Sunday afternoon, and local service is being restored on a priority basis as soon as workmen can install new wiring and equipment.

Although the internal university circuit has been unaffected by the fire, the access to the outside is on an emergency-only basis.

The loss from the fire is estimated at $750,000. So far direct lines to the police station, Fire Department, Sheriff's Office, Red Cross, Hospital, Civil Defense, and the University system have been put in.

By last night 150 essential services were to have been put back in. In addition fifty pay phones around the area are back in for emergency use. All pay phones throughout the area will soon be put back in.

The fire almost completely wiped out the local switching equipment and switchboards, said Jay Sherar, district manager.

All the equipment is being hauled to a local garage to determine what can be salvaged. All equipment will have to be totally reconditioned.

The emergency service is being maintained through a mobile switching unit that was hauled in from Portland early yesterday.

"We are scouring the country for equipment. We won't know when service will be restored until we find out how much of it is available," Sherar said. All the wire services and Western Union service are in operation, he said.

In addition to the local repair crews, about 75 persons from other areas have been brought in.

The fire broke out in the ceiling of the equipment room. The fire was principally confined to the maze of cables and wires between the ceiling of the equipment room and the operating room upstairs.

The fire was believed caused by a short circuit in the lighting circuit.

Only 11 operators were at work when the fire started. No one was hurt in the fire.

The fire occurred only a few minutes after firemen had been called to a rural fire on the Robinson Lake road, it knocked out the home monitoring system used for summoning the firemen. Thus a full firefighting force could not be summoned.

It disrupted long distance service to and from Pullman, Potlatch, Palouse, Genesee, Bovill, Deary, Orofino, Weippe, Pierce, and Peck. Troy, which is serviced by an independent company, was not affected.

Limited long distance service has been restored.

A Temporary Ham radio network was set up to handle emergency messages from these outlying areas in cooperation with radio station KRPL.

The first meeting of SIEA, the Student Idaho National Education Association, will be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday at the Galena Room of the SUB.

SIEA is not limited to students in the College of Education, but is open to all students interested in education. Sid Miller, of the University Placement Bureau, will be the speaker. Refreshments will be served. Officers are Sandy Wood, Theta, President; Dennis Dosssett, Sigma Chi, vice-president; and Sue Spencer, Pine, secretary-treasurer.

CUP Legislative Commission Approves Constitution Changes

Members of the Legislative Commission of Campus Union Party gave their approval during meetings over the weekend to three ASUI legislative alterations, which may appear on the Oct. 12 election ballot, pending vote of E-Board.

Unanimous votes by the 15 committee members, representing campus living group areas, were received by proposed changes in budget management, government to prepare and adjust its budget.

2) Improvement of Elections. The following changes were seen as an improvement in elections. a) Lengthen the time voting polls are open. The commission agreed that the polls should stay open at least until 5 p.m. if not later. It was felt that voter turnout might be bettered by the change.

b) Spring election should be held the sixth week of spring semester rather than the fifth week. The chance for better weather and the opportunity for more time between first semester finals and the campaign were seen to be valid reasons for making the change.

3) Districting. The commission agreed that districting was beneficial because it guaranteed all parts of the ASUI a representative, would help focus attention on some definite regional problems such as off-campus housing, would increase ease of campaigning, and have numerous beneficial effects on campus politics. The committee recommends that four members of Executive Board be elected at large and nine members elected from districts, the total size of the voting members of Executive Board to be 15.

Those on the CUP Legislative Policy Commission include: Denny Dobbin, chairman; May-long Harvey, off campus; Randy Stamper, Shoup; Dave Leroy, SAE; Vicki Green, French; Lynn Rock, Hays; John Kirk, Willis Sweet; Dwayne Gump, Kappa Sig; Trevie Maffitt, Pine; Gary Fie-bick, Campus Club; Lynn Manus, TKE, Bill Kyle, Upham, and Roberta Timm, Tri Delta.

1) Budget Area. Creation of a Department of the Budget composed of Budget Director, Assistant Budget Director, and Budget Committee was seen to be beneficial because such a department would aid continuity and build Administration confidence in the ability of student

What Do We Print?

The Argonaut has been asked recently what type of news we print, and have received complaints that certain news stories have not been published. In answer to these inquiries we say there is an element of importance to all organization's news and that we try to give everyone as thorough coverage as is possible.

However, the Argonaut has definite space limitations, and a limited staff. Therefore we must ask that the students who want their news printed must also make an effort to make the news available to us.

Especially now with the General Telephone Service discontinued indefinitely, the Argonaut is going to have trouble contacting their usual news sources. So please bring your news down to the Argonaut office, preferably typed, with all the pertinent detail and news source.

The Right to Know

The Argonaut stands definitely against any form of suppression of the news or of anything we think the student has a right to know. It is our hope that all forms of student and faculty authority not without this information for reasons which will only temporarily benefit them.

We also claim the right to print opinion and varying viewpoints, and will try to give coverage to as many as possible. We may not agree editorially with the views in the letters to the editor or of our columnists, but we will defend their right to say it.

Swisher Summary

Senator Perry Swisher's visit on campus last week, as a part of his campaign as an independent candidate for governor, left many people impressed with his progressive ideas, his sincerity and his courage to speak for his convictions.

He "snowed" the educators when he said education is on the top of his priority list of "needs" for the state. But, he says the sales tax is needed to support good education. Thus he may slit his own throat with his best qualities; his sincerity and truthfulness; especially on the sales tax issue. But again, the voters may quietly and honestly agree with him.

Referendum Outcome

"Unclear"

Speaking frankly on the sales tax referendum, he said he could not stand by its outcome, because a simple yes or no vote cannot show what the people of Idaho really want. He claims they will not be given the opportunity to say how they want development of education, how they want to increase the payroll, how they feel about economic opportunity, state parks, recreation, development of resources, retirement, the merit system, the economic climate or the property and income taxes.

So far Swisher is the only candidate to propose a type of state financing in case the referendum is defeated. He said he would set up a list of priorities and give his full support to those of the most importance. The services on the bottom of the list would have to be dropped if the funds run out, he said. He indicated that education would be at the top of his priority list.

"Isn't It A Shame"

Swisher broke from the Republican party to run independently when the primary elections placed Senator Don Samuelson on the party ticket. He is not running on the republican or democratic party platform. He says he is getting his votes from "the people" and not from either the republican or democratic side of the campaign. He said if elected he would owe nothing to anyone. "And wouldn't that be a terrible thing?" But he also said that we would be obligated to darn near everybody to do a good job.

YR's Look Interested

Politically speaking it is also interesting to note that Swisher was co-sponsored by the University's Young Republican's organization while he was on campus. Although the YR president has given the reason as promotion of educational information in politics, the name is nevertheless there. It is also apparent that they have not shown much interest in their party's nominee.

"But this weekend is Homecoming!"

It's Time For E-Board To Make An Impression

The official school year, at least as far as student government is concerned has now started. The Executive Board of the Associated Students of the University of Idaho has now met for two open meetings and one closed door evaluation session.

What have they accomplished so far? Next to nothing. True, it takes a while for the wheels of government to start turning after a three months' hiatus, but so far the ones at the steering wheel seem to have no direction to guide those wheels.

The main topic of discussion at the two open meetings has been the ASUI budget—or lack of same. The board is waiting for Joe McCollum to say whether or not $5000 will definitely have to be cut from the budget because of lowered enrollment and, if so, what will be cut. So far no definite suggestions have been made by McCollum.

Another issue brought up has been the legislators' breakfast Nov. 18, when the North Idaho Chamber of Commerce will give all the newly elected state legislators a tour of northern Idaho including the University. Also discussed have been the student-faculty retreat, E-Board visitations to the living groups, interviews for committees and a new mail service for distribution of E-Board notes to the living groups. Here's hoping that there will be something to distribute throughout the year. Homecoming has been discussed, E-Board's main concern was what they would ride in for the Homecoming Parade. Someone jokingly suggested wheelbarrows. Well, then, how about dump trucks?

To haul out that old saw, campaign promises, the present members of E-Board backed almost to a man proposals for some sort of revision of the student government structure. This was an admirable and worthwhile stand because something definitely needs to be done about student representation. However, if any of the E-Board members came up with suggestions during the summer, they are still keeping the information to themselves.

During their campaigns several of the present E-Board members said they would be honored to serve on the ASUI governing body. They made it. They may now feel honored. But in order to gain honor and respect of their fellow students, they must do something first. Now is the time that E-Board will make or break itself and influence the attitude of the student body toward student government.

Roll Call

By Mike Wetherell

It is admirable to note in recent weeks the concern that Idaho's junior senator, Len Jordan, has shown for education. Jordan recently proposed federal tax deductions. He has also mentioned tax credits for parents who are helping their children through school.

This would seem to be a rather odd position for Senator Jordan to take. Jordan has obviously become a friend of education rather suddenly. One need not reach back far in the record to find Jordan as governor in 1951 sending a special message to the Idaho Legislature proposing the abolition of the teacher retirement system. He did not stop there, however, he proposed that the state minimum aid to education be cut by $3 million. It is also a well known fact that it was Jordan, while governor, who closed down the North Idaho College of Education at Lewiston. He was also responsible for the closing of the South Idaho College of Education at Albion. In sight of these facts, Senator Jordan's sudden interest in the well being of education would seem, at least, questionable.

How Senator Jordan intends to defend his past actions in relation to education will be interesting to see and hear. Even more interesting, however, will be his defense of the negative position he took on the nuclear test ban treaty. It is true that the test ban treaty ne-have any. No one voted for Samuelson in the primary, they voted against Smylie," he said. "And it wouldn't be fair to say I would be taking votes from Andrus because his support will change as he continues to change his position," he said.

He further stated that his having no party position would not concern the people. "No one has even registered a party for 30 years in Idaho," he said.

Swisher also spoke on the case about non-resident tuition for University of Idaho students now being considered in the Idaho Third District Court. He said requiring non-resident tuition at "full cost" would cripple the University and also hurt Idaho State University.

"I would think at the Supreme Court level that the court would rule against the plaintiff, because if not they then would have to decide what tuition should be."

gotiated under the administration of Kennedy was but a token step. But Senator Jordan's opposition to the treaty seems to be a totally individual vote which had no basis in the will of the people of Idaho.

Much attention will be brought in the next few months to Senator Jordan's voting record in many areas. It would seem to me that his record, though undoubtedly well meaning, is far from forward looking. His record on education alone should be of great interest to Idaho students. For references to the record, note Jordan's vote on H.R. 2362 providing aid to elementary and secondary education and H.R. 6143 providing federal aid to higher education. Jordan's vote on both measures was—what else?—NO.

Senator Jordan might well dispute these issues for they were brought forth by his opponent, former two term congressman Ralph Harding. Harding has been more than willing to show his record to Idaho's people. Jordan by contrast, has refused to meet Harding on any public forum or in debate to defend his position. The people of Idaho will decide the question in November but I hope that ample facts about both men and an honest comparison of their records will make it an intelligent choice.

Bobcats Stop Idaho Threats In 24-10 Upset

By Dick Sherman
Arg Sports Editor

Well, Big "I" is not so big anymore, according to many of their following. The Vandal charges have dropped their first two games, a thing which some people considered an impossibility.

Everyone is complaining under his breath but nobody is able to put his finger on the trouble. This may be due, perhaps, to the fact that many troubles are haunting the Vandals.

The loss at the hands of the Washington Huskies was brushed aside as a typical opening day game with the usual first game mistakes; but the Montana State triumph raised some eyebrows. Some disappointed faces expressed the question of whether the Vandals have lost their knack for winning. Actually nobody knows for sure because the Vandals have yet to win. Besides, some feel that the Vandals never did possess a winning attitude.

Let's take a look at what the majority of Vandal Boosters considered a potent defense with ravaging abilities. Opposing teams have scored a total of 43 points which is averaging over three touchdowns per game.

In the Montana State game alone, Bobcat halfback Don Hass rambled for 209 yards. The Bobcats ran pretty freely through the Idaho defenses and even had a fourth touchdown nullified late in the game.

Offensively, the Vandals were considered unstoppable by a majority of onlookers but the potent Vandal offense has come up with a mere 17 points. This is not enough to maintain a winning margin when the defense is giving up twice as many points to the opponent.

In the rushing department, McDonald, as usual, is carrying the load, but on many occasions he has had nowhere to run unless it is out-of-bounds. Vandal ball carriers in general have been drawing an enemy crowd in a hurry.

Last week against Montana State the Vandals were stopped on four occasions with fourth down and short yardage to go. Is this a credit to the Montana State defense or an oversight by Idaho's offensive linemen. Either way it looks like it is becoming habit-forming.

In the passing department John Foruria has compiled quite a record. His success in completions to the opponents is almost as good as compared to his teammates, maybe even better. He set up one touchdown for the Huskies at Washington and also one for the Bobcats at Montana State. This has been matched by only one Idaho TD pass to Manny Murrell.

This week coach Steve Musseau will reach into his bag of tricks for the third time in trying to stop the University of Pacific. He has no alibis concerning the first two Vandal encounters and will surely not accept "no" for an answer when asked about the outcome of the homecoming game.

If the Vandals win this weekend, they will be back in good graces with the general public. If the Vandals win they are considered great if they lose they are considered the worst. Idaho fans neglect to take a middle-of-the-road attitude toward the football fortunes of the Vandals.

Musseau—"We Shall Not Lose"

Evidently Steve Musseau is not too happy with his two opening defeats as was revealed by the weekly letter to the Vandal boosters. He stated that he was sorry that he had to bring news of defeat but expressed his position clearly with the following comments.

"From here on in, I think that you will see a bunch of Vandals rather than a bunch of rats. As I look back in retrospect, I can't help but believe that it starts with my leadership.

"I can't help but think that the kids have been responding as I have been responding, and truly, I have been walking around like a man who was satisfied and on tranquilizers.

"I can assure you from this movement on that I would rather be dead than lose, and if it means dying, I shall — because we are not going to lose again."

Musseau went on to say that alibis were not appropriate and that the Vandals will improve and show their capabilities.

"From this moment on, you will be proud of your Vandals. Of this I can assure you. We're going to lengthen our stride and quicken our step, and look like the Vandals that we are capable of being."

Hass Leads Montana State Past Vandals In Conference Opener

The Vandal football hopes suffered another setback last Saturday as they dropped a 24-10 decision to Montana State in the opening conference tilt for each squad.

The Bobcats wasted no time as they struck twice for touchdowns in the first quarter which only came a mere 33 seconds apart. The first score came on a one-yard plunge by halfback Don Hass with Jan Stenerud kicking the extra point.

Idaho's John Foruria had a pass intercepted following the kick-off by Montana State and the Bobcats moved in for another score on a 14-yard gallop by sophomore Ron Bain. Stenerud again made the extra point and the Bobcats had a 14-0 lead.

of the day as Dick Nelson, sophomore speedster from Pocatello, took a punt and scampered 59 yards to score.

The Vandals chose to go for the 2-point conversion which was successful when John Foruria rolled out on the option play, picked his spot and ran in for the conversion.

After the Vandals had cut the lead to 14-8, it appeared that they might take over command but a determined Montana State defense stopped them. Idaho applied offensive pressure throughout the half but never sustained momentum beyond the MSU 23 following the score by Nelson.

MSU DEFENSE TOUGH Montana State's defense was far outweighed by the Vandal offense but on four different occasions, the Bobcats held the Vandals with fourth down and less than two yards to go. McDonald along with Foruria and Butch Slaughter were stopped cold trying to pick up the necessary yardage.

Idaho picked up two more points when Montana State's punter, Dan Hodge, deliberately grounded the ball in the end zone, at 24-10.

Later in the second quarter, halfback Don Hass again put the Bobcats on the scoreboard as he slipped through the left side and went 60 yards for the score. Stenerud again kicked the extra point.

With 1:34 left to play in the game Montana State's field goal specialist, Jan Stenerud, booted home a 30-yard field goal to give the Bobcats their final score of the day and leave the margin grounded at 24-10.
