Vandal Bigtop Comes Alive For Homecoming

Football Belongs In Homecoming

By Dick Sherman
Arg Sports Editor

Homecoming festivities will reach their peak Saturday afternoon when Steve Musseau's Vandal football charges take the field against the University of Pacific Tigers.

During my short two years here, the Vandals have been victorious in both of their homecoming appearances. In 1964 they defeated their chief rivals, the Cougars from Washington State and last year they beat Idaho State, 15-7, which made their southern neighbors very unhappy.

to a quiet afternoon before returning to their home grounds. The fathers meanwhile are still recuperating from the previous afternoon's activities in preparation also for the long trek home.

Meanwhile, the students are gathering up the loose ends in their particular living group hoping to catch a little relaxation before that dreaded Monday morning rolls around. Then they can look forward to the coming weekend and eventually to next year's homecoming.

Tomorrow Idaho hopes to overshadow the University of Pacific before what promises to be a sellout crowd.

Vandal boosters and alumni from all over the Northwest will be in town to see their heroes, and that is just what they are. Idaho fans will have an opportunity to see three future draft choices of professional football clubs in Ray Miller, LaVerl Pratt, and Dick Arndt.

PAD to Honor Law Graduate

Phi Alpha Delta National Legal Fraternity will initiate Abe McGregor Goff as an honorary member at a banquet in his honor today. This is a continuation of policy started last year which recognizes outstanding leaders of the legal profession who are from the State of Idaho. Frank Church was made an honorary member last year at a similar function.

Goff is a native of Moscow, Idaho, a law graduate of the University and a former vandal griddler.

Following the Second World War he became a Congressman from the 1st District and then went into private law practice. He was appointed Solicitor of the U.S. Post Office Department in 1954. In 1958 he was appointed to the Interstate Commerce Commission and served as chairman of that Commission in 1964.

Also they will see an All-American in action in the person of Ray McDonald. Included among the Vandal charges will be punting specialist, Joe Rodriguez, who is vying for national honors in this department. This is only a sampling of the talent that will be on the field Saturday. When the University of Pacific is on offense their ball carrier will have 2,386 pounds of beef after him—the combined weight of the Idaho defensive unit. One thing for sure, the Vandals will be throwing their weight around.

It is interesting to watch some of the spectators' reactions to the play down on the field. People are hooping and hollering, then suddenly the whistle blows and nobody knows what happened because they never heard the sound of the whistle over the confusion in the first place.

Low and behold the referee makes the decision and is prominently booed by the hometown folks for making the wrong move. I have not heard of too many officials refer to Neale Stadium as their second home.

When the game is finished the fans wobble out of the stadium, tired under the influence of the afternoon's activities, some just under the influence. Then come the numerous celebrations which follow a Vandal victory. Alumni and former Idaho grid greats get together for their yearly fling and renew old times while university students take in the usual night activities.

Wed. Deadline Set For Adding Class

Next Wednesday is the last day for adding classes for credit, said Registrar F.L. O'Neill.

Next Wednesday is also the last day for changing course sections and for removing incompletes.

Students who plan to drop classes must do so by October 12. After this date the student is required to take the class on a pass or fail basis.

O'Neill said also that students who plan to graduate at semester should apply for their degrees at the earliest possible date.

Districting Plan Heard, Budget Okayed By E-Board

By ELLEN OSTHELLER
ARGONAUT EDITOR
ASUI Executive Board heard a proposal for a regional districting plan for campus elections and passed a revised version of the 1966-67 Associated Students budget in their meeting Tuesday night.

budget accounts are not closed for the year and that more will be allocated to them as the funds are available.

More details on the budget can be seen in the extra story on the ASUI budget in this issue.

The districting proposal for use in ASUI elections was proposed to the board by Campus Union Party Legislative Policy Commission.

The plan allows for four legislative districts which would provide for a student representative for every 600 students. The districts in the proposal represent three campus geographic areas and a large section for off-campus students. Candidates who will represent the various areas will be required to live in that district or be affiliated with a recognized political unit within it.

Voting registration for students desiring to vote within a given district would be required, and a certain proportional amount of votes for a representative within a district must be cast in an election in order to elect a representative.

CHAMBER FED STUDENTS—The Moscow Chamber of Commerce furnished coffee, doughnuts and pop to Idaho Students last night while they were building their Homecoming floats. Two trucks carried the refreshments to nine sites throughout the city. Chamber members pictured in the photo are Bob Mortenson, and R. J. Christiansen. Plans were coordinated with the Homecoming Parade Chairman Tim Madden, Sigma Chi.

GENTLEMEN OF NOTE—The Homecoming dance "Big Top Ball" will feature music by the Gentlemen of Note from Lewiston. The 16-piece orchestra has one vocalist and members are from Lewiston, Pullman, Orofino and the University. Tickets are on sale at the Student Union office for $1.50 per couple.

Special Concert Set For Stereo Lounge

The Stereo Lounge is presenting a special concert for the Homecoming alumni Saturday in the Vandal Lounge of the Student Union Building. The Big Band Era of the 20's, 30's and 40's will be featured. The concert begins at 5:30 and continues the entire evening. All parents and alums are invited.

Hays Dancers First In Capers

Chicken dinner, folk songs and a warm Fall day greeted all on-campus University coeds at the Associated Women's Students and Women's Recreation Association's "Coed Capers" Wednesday.

The 14th annual Folk Dance Festival set a continental mood to the evening as winners included Hays, first place with a Russian dance; Theta, second place with the Highland Fling; Pine, third place with a Philippine bamboo dance; and Alpha Chi, fourth place with the Norwegian Shuffle.

Other groups participating included French, Ethel Steel, Forney, Campbell, Houston, Carter, Kappa, DG, and Pi Phi.

Judges for the contest were Mrs. Marjory Neely, Dean of Women, Mrs. Anes Mendiola, Pi Phi housemother, Miss Betts, and Miss Zurroff, professors of Physical Education for women.

Introductions of living group presidents and skits by officers of Spurs, Mortar Board, Women's I Club, AWS and WRA were followed by a long, long line of hungry coeds to the dinner table.

Deadline Set For Petitions

Petitions for class offices must be submitted to Dick Rush, ASUI President, before 12 noon Monday. This deadline must be met so that the registrar's office can begin certification of all candidates running, as prescribed in the ASUI Constitution.

Those wishing to run for an office must be nominated by either formal balloting of a recognized political party, or by submission of a petition bearing 75 signatures of members of the ASUI, along with a statement by the candidate of his willingness to run. All people signing the petition must be from the prospective candidate's class, as indicated by the Registrar.

Finalists will receive an engraved silver dish and serve as attendants to the queen. Homecoming Queen will receive three trophies, one for her living group, an individual trophy for herself and a traveling alumni trophy. The trophies are on display in the Washington Water Power building downtown Moscow.

ASUI Budget Cut; Changes Possible

By JEAN MONROE
Argonaut Associate Editor

The ASUI budget has been cut a total of $5,350 because of lowered enrollment. Executive Board member Joe McCollum reported the budget cuts at the Tuesday meeting of the group.

Speaking to organizations which had had their budgets cut, he said, "I feel we will be able to reallocate funds when final registration figures are in. None of these are permanent cuts." He also said that the budget should be examined and re-examined throughout the year and money not being spent should be reallocated.

as well forget about a first semester issue."

Among other groups cut were the Gem of the Mountains, $500; Argonaut, $300; KUOI, WRA, and debate, all $200.

KUOI radio station cannot stand a $2000 cut and survive, said Emma Sawyer, Carter, program director. "We will be selling advertising this year and I think we can cover the $200 cut if the money can come back to us. The money cut out of the budget was for salaries and we need salaries to encourage staff members."

The biggest change in the upward direction for the budget was in the Executive Board general fund, which received a $1000 boost. This was taken out of unallocated funds and will give E-Board working funds for such projects as the Education Improvement Committee, McCollum said.

The whole budget got a $1,370 raise from the ASUI reserve. "The budget was based on 90 per cent of the total enrollment at $7.25 per semester. Cuts were based on the effect the organization has on this campus," McCollum said.

Here is the budget as passed by E-Board:

	INCOME	EXPENDITURES
Administration	400.00	15,750.00

Further legislation on elections was heard and passed upon by executive board. Poll hours for elections were proposed to change to 8:45 a.m. to 5:15 p.m. instead of 8:45 a.m. to 5 p.m. to accommodate students after their four o'clock classes on election day. The proposal will now be presented to the students for ratification Oct. 12.

Election date for spring elections was also moved up one week to give the campaigners more time before mid-term examinations. The proposal which was passed, read that elections should be held the fifth week following the beginning of the spring semester.

The resignation of ASUI public relations director, John Cooksey, was submitted to the board by ASUI President Dick Rush. Rush said that due to health and time reasons, Cooksey chose to withdraw from the office.

The board voted to accept the resignation and to appoint assistant and public relations director David (Continued on Page 5, Col. 4)

Bizzles and Swizzles

On today's campus scene, some swizzles are not bizzles and some nizzles are swizzles. But some nizzles might not be bizzles, some nizzles might be bizzles, some swizzles may be nizzles, or some bizzles may not be swizzles. This is "New Math," as taught here at the University as Math 15. It all goes to show that the University is changing.

For you alumni that are visiting the University this weekend, you will find many vast changes as you try to find your way among the old landmarks and the new structures that obstruct the old familiar scenes. Or you may find that in relation to the growth you might have expected here, the University is not expanding or progressing as you may have thought.

and the other is that it would allow for an effective, competitive two-party campus system.

Cup Overfloweth

Stanfield and his committee seem to be doing such an effective job that the Campus Union Party is drawing a great following this fall. The party president has pointed out, however, that the recent growth in membership may be due to the forthcoming campus elections, and has warned student to be aware of the stipulations which may be added to membership if the new districting proposal is adopted. He noted that if a party is too large, it is increasingly difficult for it to draft candidates for election. He also pointed out that a member of a smaller party may have a better chance to get on a party ballot. And, he said, CUP party is adopting rules against party "bolting," saying that he expects they will be quite strict in that permanent membership and voting penalties will be imposed upon the candidate who attempts it.

The hats in the Argonaut office are off to Stanfield and his committee for their effective organizational efforts and wish them the best of luck in securing their goals.

University Changing

But it is not only architecture that is changing on this campus, but also the educational programs, the faculty and the students. And for every change there are a multitude of causes.

This year the face of the institution was altered with a drop in predicted enrollment from a 6,400 figure to a 5,900 actual total. The causes have been attributed to everything from the increased growth of the state's junior colleges, to increased non-resident tuition, to the adverse publicity the University received last year during the campaign to clean up the deplorable off-campus housing in the city of Moscow.

Budget Settled

The effects have also been far-reaching. The first immediate problem created was the consequent cut-back in the ASUI budget which resulted from a loss of student fees and an approximate $5,000 had to be trimmed off the budget allocations to various student organizations and activities. For doing this exacting and unpopular work E-Board budget area director Joe McCollum, deserves the students' gratitude and appreciation. Through McCollum's management the cuts were made where they will be the least felt, and will still enable most organizations to begin the school year with sufficient funds. The Argonaut compliments Joe for a job well done in a time-pressed situation—and in doing an impossible feat of balancing the budget even before the actual figures on income enrollment were final.

ICE in Offing

Another worthy cause which merits mention is the educational improvement area of executive board, which is headed by Stan Smith. Thus far, Smith has drafted an outstanding committee and policy and has laid out a program in the area of faculty and teaching analysis unequaled by any previous efforts.

Political Events

The Argonaut would also like to point out the efforts made by student leaders in their work to acquaint the students with state issues and candidates during this fall's state election campaign. The Idaho Center for Education in Politics, Young Democrats, and Young Republicans are making every effort to keep the campus informed about the current issues. Student representatives also wish to remind students and visitors to the campus, that state candidates will be on campus this weekend, and they urge everyone to get out and meet them.

Students Pro-Sales Tax

Attention should also be given to the state's student committee which is advocating support of the sales tax. The organization is called "The Committee of a Thousand, Student Leaders for a Brighter Idaho Future," and claims its purpose to be the distribution of materials and stimulation of voter turn-out for the election referendum. On the state level the organization is being directed by a former U of I student, and on this campus, organizational plans are being formulated by Jim Tegan, Phi Delta. The Argonaut also wishes to commend these students for their outspoken interest and dedication and is confident that the committee may be an effective force for the sales tax.

On the football scene tomorrow, many students are probably aware that Coach Musseau is dedicated to no more game losses. The head coach for the Vandal forces stated this week that Vandal fans would no longer see "rats" on the football field, but real Vandals, who are out to win, not lose. He also said he has stopped taking his tranquilizers and is going to get more response from the team if it kills him.

Best Wishes

But whether the Vandal team shows their capabilities at the game or not, it is going to be a great weekend. The University of Idaho and the Moscow Chamber of Commerce welcomes all returning Vandals and guests this weekend. Have a good time, and don't over-run the Elks' Club.

Government Structure Changes

Other steps in improved student organization are being made this fall also, and among them is the proposed change in the ASUI student election structure. The proposal was made recently to Executive Board by the Campus Union Party's Legislative Policy Commission, under the leadership of CUP party president Bob Stanfield. It provides for the most representative method of electing campus officers offered in many years by dividing the campus into geographical districts from which elective officers are chosen. The districting is done in four areas; one for off campus students, one for the students in the Wallace Complex area, one for the area known as "Greek Row," and one for the living groups located in the hill area.

Apportionment Stipulation

Elective representatives are apportioned according to the number of students registered and voting in these areas. There are two additional improvements under the districting plan. One is that it would increase the number of students voting in campus elections since representatives would be allotted on a proportional basis,

"They love me, they love me not, they..."

Dear Jason

Dear Jason:

Margaret Mead via Karen Longetelg (Argonaut, Sept. 23) proposes two kinds of marriage: the first for personal gratification and the second for the formation of a family. (Margaret is obviously thinking of Polynesia,) considering the purposes of the first kind of marriage—to place a limit on the number of such marriages any individual may successfully engage in, to sanction such marriages is equivalent to sanctioning a kind of free love. (Why require marriage licenses for free love? A license for license would be a mockery!) Marriage without obligation ("personal" obligation can easily come to mean no obligation) is a form of social irresponsibility, and widespread irresponsibility yields social disorder. Such irresponsibility on the part of college students would be at least partially offset by their disciplined endeavors as students to acquire socially valuable abilities; their very attendance at a university should indicate a commitment to the enhancement of the social order at high levels.

Another consideration is that the technological achievement and the material prosperity of our nation appear to permit a relatively large amount of dis-certainly be used well if it were used conscientiously to re-examine the area of interpersonal relations.

Yet we should keep in mind with is that it does not trust itself: a healthy society (in the usual occidental sense) has goals which it believes it cannot attain without self-discipline. Such a society mistrusts itself because it is aware of tendencies within itself which, if given free rein, it believes would lead to the complete dissipation of its energies.

For this society to sanction without undermining the overall social structure. The freedom it had lost its goals and in which technology gives us would

Social Life Comes To Halt; Coeds Hit By Phone Crisis

Social life on the University of Idaho campus has come to a grinding, screeching, thundering halt. The phone situation has left coeds incommunicado and dateless. Oh, weep, oh, moan!

This seems to say something for the Idaho man. If he can't avail himself of the phone, he'll eliminate his social life because the walk to his girl's living room would be too great a tax on his strength. This leaves the girls seething, silently and not so silently.

However, the phone crisis seems to have brought out an unsuspected gallant streak in some young men. One senior remarked that a boy came over to see her the other night because he couldn't call and actually took her on a coke date. The first one in years. Usually he just calls and talks. Maybe there are some benefits in the situation after all.

And then there's the Homecoming situation. Many girls don't have dates for the affair because the Idaho men can't or don't have the energy to get hold of them.

But here's where the independents have all the plus points. They are on the University exchange and calls between four digit numbers just go through the switch board and not the main Moscow phone office. However, too bad about the Greek who tries to get hold of an independent or vice versa. Any couples who live next door to each other could get a good thing going. If he doesn't have the strength to mosey next door, he can just hang a sign in the window. For example, "How about a coke?" or "Pick you up at 7." She may reply with "We're not speaking. Remember?" or "My hair simply won't be dry by 7" or "sounds great!" The whole procedure is highly illegal, no doubt, but effective. Just don't let "standards" know.

Until the lines are fixed, girls, you'll just have to be glamorous in class and set snares out on campus.

One random thought on the whole situation. We wonder if this lack of social life will be reflected in the nine weeks' grades. Who knows? J.M.

HERE'S MORE ABOUT

FORUM

One interesting sidelight of homecoming may be seeing who has dates and who hasn't. I'm betting that independent girls will have much better luck than Greeks—they have phones! Who would have realized, after living twenty or so phone-oriented years, what a problem it would be doing without?

Boys hate the situation—not only do they have to hike to a girl's house to ask her out, but if she is busy (or doesn't want to go) they have to be shot down in person. Girls aren't noticeably fond of it either—invariably they will be in grubs and rollers when the guys come over, and the guys take one look and ask for history notes instead.

And, of course, there is the spectacle of people standing in line on the main street of Troy, Idaho, for an hour and a half (without even a beer in their hands!) waiting to make a long-distance phone call.

If this lasts much longer, people will date less and less, study more and more—the marriage rate will go down and the increasing birthrate will consequently reverse. Perhaps this is the answer to the population explosion—no phones!

Remember how last year was the Year of the Fly? You could sit in class and count nine of them crawling on you at once, and sit and sweat and sweat and sit and sweat. Well, this is the Year of the Moth—at least at the Kappa house. We open the window at night to avoid suffocation, and here they come. Our room record is fourteen in a night, knocked into the sink and washed down the drain. Actually, a can of bug spray would probably be cheaper than the plumber's house call.

the process of dissipating itself or that it had arrived at a point of such high social stability that the disorder in interpersonal relations resulting from the general practice of free love would not mar it in any way.

Perhaps out of such disorder could arise a higher moral order; for the additional personal freedom accompanying such disorder might lead to a sounder concept of personal responsibility. But if instead the structure of the whole society were demolished by such disorder, little good would come of it; the lesson learned would be like the lesson many have learned from the decline of ancient Rome.

Off Campus

Everyone of us is responsible for the trash that lays around our campus. You may not be the one who throws it but you are just as guilty for not picking it up. If you like to brag a lot about what the University of Idaho has, one thing you can certainly brag about is the amount of litter we have spread around our campus.

How did Idaho get a reputation for being known as a "party school?" Just look around after a Saturday night function, and see the clues laying around. How our campus looks makes a great impression on prospective students and visitors.

This unsightly problem could be solved by picking it up ourselves, working towards getting trash barrels put on every corner, organizing work parties to be in charge of cleaning up different sections of our campus, and by not littering in the first place.

Let's take our name out of the trash can, and make room for the garbage.

Campus to Host State Candidates

The University campus will be the scene of most Idaho political activity during homecoming, as candidates for statewide offices from both parties attend the annual festivities.

According to Mike Wetherall, president of the Young Democrats, all of the Democratic candidates for state offices are expected, with the possible exception of First District Congressman Compton I. White, who may remain in Washington due to the unusually long session of Congress.

"After the homecoming parade," Wetherall said, "there will be a reception from 10:30 a.m. to noon in the Appaloosa Room of the Student Union Building where both students and guests may informally meet with the candidates." No speeches or announcements are expected. Democratic candidates in attendance will be Cecil Andrus, gubernatorial nominee; Ralph Harding, candidate for the United States Senate; William Drevlow, candidate for Lieutenant Governor and other state candidates.

Bob Wise, Young Republican chairman, said that most of the Republican state candidates will be on campus during homecoming. He said he had received word from United States Senator Len Jordan, and candidate for Lt. Governor, Jack Murphy, that they would be present. "Jordan," he said, "is planning to tour the living groups to meet the students." No reception is planned for the Republican candidates.

FILM WORLD

By Phil Holabach

"Nothing can faze Modesty Blaise (our gal flirt), the world's deadliest and most dazzlingly female agent!" The Kenworthy is playing Joseph Losey's "Modesty Blaise" all this week.

The incongruous title characterizes the whole, for in "Modesty Blaise" anything goes. What Losey has done is to mate two contemporary forms of expression: (1) the pop art of, say, comic books, and (2) op art. (I gather that in op art the artist experiments with visual effects.) Needless to say, such a bastardization has produced quite a child.

I won't tackle the plot. It's ridiculously simple, but the maker's pseudo-sophistication, abetted by muddled diction, makes the whole thing even more complicated than "The Spy Who Came in From the Cold." No matter. Plot isn't especially relevant when the unexpected is all. Then there's the film's monumental emptiness. As far as human values are concerned, "Modesty Blaise" is one vast wasteland, a psychopathic hors d'oeuvre for today's alienated zombies.

However, I do have some words of praise. Jack Hildyard's photography is excellent, and the color is very beautiful — often dazzlingly so. Well-timed cutting makes most of the film exciting to watch. By the way, much of the humor is grotesquely wild, as if someone had bothered to film "Mad Magazine."

I would like to think that this type of motion picture represents an isolated instance; unfortunately, my better judgement warns me that the worst is yet to come.

Students Chose Poor Way To Give Support

We lost. The Idaho Vandals were defeated for the second time this year by Montana State last weekend.

Students at the U of I were disappointed. Some chose a rather immature way of demonstrating their anger because of the loss. They chose to hang Coach Musseau in effigy. What this loss is left unanswered.

"We lost" were the words said by many Idaho students. However, the fact that they said "we" is encouraging. We are all connected with the loss of our team. No one in this world can say with any proof that the Vandals went to Bozeman to lose. Nor that Coach Musseau didn't try his hardest to give the team the winning plays.

In every match between two contestants there has to be a winner and a loser. Naturally everyone wants to win.

Undoubtedly there is no one who wants to be a winner more than the Idaho Vandals. However, yesterdays are gone and it is now tomorrow that we are looking at.

The Vandals represent every one of us out on the field. This week they will play their first home game. They want our support. Right now is when they should know that Idaho students are behind them 100% and have confidence in them as a good team which they are.

We can win this weekend. The coaching staff and team want it. Why not forget last weekend. Why not show the Vandals that you are behind them. The football team and coaches are trying their best—are we, the students doing our share?

Walk Planned By Math Prof. To Promote Cystinosis Fund

With a baby bottle strapped around his waist and an umbrella over his head, University of Idaho mathematics teaching assistant, Wesley C. Stone, will make an 8 mile marathon walk in Yakima, Washington today . . . carrying his 23 month old son Joey.

The walk is for publicity purposes in order to raise money for a cystinosis research fund which just may save Joey's life. Joey suffers from cystinosis, which his doctor, Charles P. Mahoney, associate professor of medicine at the University of Washington says can be caused by either birth defects or is an inherited disorder.

"There is no known cure for the disease, but one may be developed in Joey's lifetime, if research had the funds," Stone told the Argonaut.

He said Dr. Mahoney told him that he is optimistic about finding a cure, saying the disease was known during the second World War, when the Germans were able to induce it, but as yet research has found no cure.

Stone said he has made a number of the publicity walks; 37 miles from Methow to Manson, Wash.; 25 miles from Renton to Seattle, Wash.; eight miles in the Spokane area, seven around Tacoma, and tomorrow he says he will be walking about eight.

Stone said he has collected about $33,800 on his campaign so far, $200 from the Associated Students funds were appropriated from the ASUI budget to go to the cystinosis fund, and the Phi Delta Theta fraternity has donated the $700 proceeds of last spring's Turtle Derby.

Stone, who is working on his doctorate degree here in mathematics, said there are no major fund drives for the cystinosis research.

"No federal, state, or local fund drives, or none from the large United drives is available," he said.

"If any money for research must be raised, it's up to the parents of these children to raise it," he said.

"It would seem to me that these little children should be worth some effort," he added. He said he knew of three other afflicted children in the Seattle area.

Stone said the University of Washington is the only center doing research on cystinosis in the United States. There are only two others besides that, one in London and one in Germany, he said.

Stone said he opened an account yesterday at the Moscow Bank of Idaho, called the "Life for Little Joe Cystinosis Fund." He said he also has accounts at the NBC at Brewster, Washington, and at the Ballard Branch of the Seattle First National Bank.

Stone said Joey's medicine now consists of massive doses of vitamin D and minerals. "This is keeping him alive now," he said.

He said with the disease, cystine crystals accumulate throughout the body and form in all the tissues except the brain.

By next year, he said they would form in Joey's eyes so that he might have to wear sun glasses.

"By the time he is eight or ten, the crystals may block one of his vital organs causing his death, if a cure isn't found," Stone said.

The longest anyone has ever lived with this disease is 18, he said.

Mr. and Mrs. Stone have two other children, Cassia, 6, and Cheryl, 4. Both have escaped the disease. "To see Joey play now, you would never think there was anything wrong with him," Stone said.

"He's a happy little kid," he added.

Registration Up at WSU; Idaho State 500 Short

Preliminary registration show Washington State University up in the number of students and Idaho State University down.

Classes started at WSU yesterday with 10,375 students registered during formal registration.

Claude Simpson, WSU registrar expects the total registration to reach 10,600, almost 600 more than last year.

Registration at Idaho in the meantime has reached 5,961 exactly last year's enrollment after the sixth week of classes.

"We will have at least as many as last year, possibly more," said F.L. O'Neill, registrar.

Unofficial figures from other Idaho schools gathered before the telephone breakdown show Boise College up slightly and ISU way down.

Boise College, now in its fifth week of classes is up only fifty from last year.

ISU, which registered at about the same time as Idaho did, had

We've Got The Weekend

By Julie Anderson

For those left alive after the hectic week just complete, the weekend promises great things. This year's Homecoming seems to be the best planned and executed ever, in spite of the limited preparation time allotted because of the early date. # Decal Will Signify Donations To Performing Arts Center Fund

"A special University of Idaho Alumni decal will be presented to all alumni donating to the University Performing Arts Center Fund," according to University President Ernest Hartung.

Hartung said the fund will be used to finance the building of a University center for the performing arts.

The alumni office said it hoped all Idaho Alumni would soon be identified by the decal on their cars, and that it would spark interest in the Center.

The decal is black and gold on a white background. It shows the clock tower of the administration under the words "University of Idaho". The upper left hand field has a large white "U" with a smaller "I" set in its center on a black background. The bottom of the decal carries the word "Alumni."

The center, which will be built with matching funds from the alumni and the federal government, will serve as a center for University groups to present the plays, musicals, and concerts, and other special performances produced on campus each year. "It would," he said, "also be used for the visiting performers the campus attracts."

According to the President's Office, Hartung conceived the idea of a University Center for the performing arts when he saw a performance of "Old-

"Any person interested in the committee," she said, "should pick up an application in the SUB Office as soon as possible. The only prerequisite is at least 2.2 cumulative grade average."

The purpose of the People to People Committee is to foster better relations between the foreign students on campus and the rest of the campus. Programs planned so far include a Host Family plan, where each foreign student is assigned to a host family, and a University Travel Bureau to aid Idaho students in planning trips abroad.

Are you discontented enough to work for G.E.?

Does water pollution bug you? Or smog? Does it concern you that some places in the country never have enough teachers? Or nurses? And when you read about the growing pains of a developing nation, do you wish you could do something?

You can. Thousands of General Electric people are helping to solve the problems of a growing, changing world.

Generating more (and cheaper) electricity with nuclear reactors. Controlling smog in our cities and pollution in our streams. Using electronics to bring the teaching skills of an expert into many classrooms at once, the trained eyes of a nurse into many hospital rooms at once.

If you're not content with the world as it is . . . and if you have the brains, imagination and drive to help build a better one, we'd like to talk to you.

See the man from G.E. during his next campus visit. Come to General Electric, where the young men are important men.

id Leroy to the position. "Leroy has already done a great deal of work on the coming events which his office must handle," Rush's report stated.

Four persons were endorsed by the board to fill positions on operations council. They are V.W. Howard, Jr., Willis Sweet; Ray Crowder, Phi Delt; Mike McMurray, off campus; and Lynne Rock, Hays.

Two new members of activities council were also approved by the board. They are Jim Bower, publicity area director and Ron Yankey, budget area director.

A constitutional amendment submitted by Mark Smith, Beta, was also carried. The amendment provided that the ASUI president as chairman of the board, should be charged with the responsibility to keep the board records open at all times to members of the ASUI. Previously the constitution gave this responsibility to the secretary of executive board.

Other proposals carried by the board were two reports submitted by Steward Sprenger and two by Gary Vest, both board members.

Sprenger's proposals provided for the distribution of the Alumni magazine "Idaho Alumni Round-up" to all campus living groups, and for the use of the University film "Keystone to the Future" for all nearby relay stations.

Vest's proposals concerned an idea exchange with other Idaho institutions of higher education, and a university-legislative relations committee. Both received approval.

WILLIAM CAMPBELL

The one-time mascot of the University will be crowning the Homecoming Queen during halftime at the game tomorrow.

William Campbell, Alumni President, will announce the Homecoming Queen at the rally tonight, crown her at the game, and introduce her at the dance tomorrow.

"I was living in the Alpha Chi House where my mother was house mother from 1931 to '34, so I entered the University at a young age. As I was Mascot for the University I traveled with the athletes and the Pep Band," Campbell said. Campbell, an insurance man from Boise, entered Idaho in 1940 and graduated after the war in 1947 after earning the rank of major in the reserves. He has three children including Kathy Campbell DG. In 1959 Campbell received the distinguished service award as the Boise "Outstanding Man of the Year."

Veterans Attendance Cards Due In Boise Tomorrow

Honorably discharged veterans should send in attendance cards to the Veterans Administration office in Boise by tomorrow in order to receive benefits.

Attendance cards do not have to be signed by registrar unless changing major programs.

Dewey Newman, Head Counselor of the mens forms, said yesterday if someone has not received their IBM card, to be patient because Veterans Administration is busy this time of year. If a veteran has been waiting for a long period of time, he should see Newman.

Cards are sent from the Veterans Administration in Boise directly to the students. A copy of the document showing discharge or separation from active duty and the length of active duty service should accompany the application for educational benefits.

The benefits will be received some time between Oct. 15 and 20 if the cards were sent in on time.

Newman reminded Veterans to be sure when filling out his card to put down the first day of attendance, which is the first day of registration, and the last day which is Sept. 30.

Any veteran who has to make application for benefits should contact Newman immediately.

There are some programs that preclude persons from receiving benefits. However every veteran should make application for benefits soon, he said.

Veterans may use their eligibility by attending any state-approved educational institution from high school through graduate school training.

The V.A. will not reimburse veterans for educational expenses for training completed before June 1, 1966, but they may take additional schooling and collect benefits for training commenced after that date.

Veterans who have served on active duty six months or more will be eligible for one month of training for each month of active duty, up to a maximum of 36 months.

Plans Activated By Living Groups

Big and little sister parties, all house retreats, elections and serenades are among varied house activities this week. Big and little sisters announced at Houston recently. DG's retreat at Kenjockey. TKE's and Sigma Chi pledges held elections and the Fijis serenaded freshmen coeds.

The Pi Kap initiation and Gault's birthday fete for their SnowBall Queen are also part of the festivities.

HOUSTON HALL
Houston's big and little sister party was a great success. Following the introduction of each little sister by her big sister, Betty Dahl and Kathy Ardrey entertained the girls with a skit about freshmen life.

Sue Blackaller is chairman of Houston's float committee this year. Houston and Gault are building their float together.

Newly elected officers include Pam Zahner, treasurer, and Carol McBebe, Scholarship chairman.

GAULT HALL
Gault's SnowBall Queen, Diana Borgeson, Houston, was honored on her birthday during a recent dress dinner at Gault Hall.

Twenty candles lit the white double-layer cake brought out on a silver tray as the men of Gault serenaded Miss Borgeson. Diana was then presented with a lovely white cashmere sweater trimmed with pink flowers.

Dianna will crown the new SnowBall Queen during the Gault Hall SnowBall which takes place in December.

TAU KAPPA EPSILON
The men of Tau Kappa Epsilon are making preliminary plans for their pledge dance at the chapter house October 15.

Newly elected officers of the TKE pledge class include Rick Honn, president; Don Stone, vice president; Greg McDonald, social chairman; Joe Dickinson, secretary; and Terry Gilbreth, sergeant at arms.

DELTA GAMMA
Members and pledges of Delta Gamma attended an all house retreat at Kenjockey recently. Special guest at the all day affair was Mrs. M.L. VanVilet of Edmonton, Alberta, Delta Gamma province collegiate secretary. Mrs. VanVilet also attended Sunday dress dinner at the chapter house.

SIGMA CHI
Newly elected pledge class officers include Daron Bell, president; Tim Mueller, vice president; Mark Sturgill, secretary-treasurer; John Dropping, social chairman, and Larry Duffin, "Emily Post."

The annual pledge-member football game was held Sunday. The Sig's and Sig pledges battled to a 12-12 tie, and victory was claimed by the pledges who had more penetrations.

The pledge class treated their dates to a hayride recently.

The DG's are working with the Sig's on their Homecoming float this year.

PHI GAMMA DELTA
Fijis serenaded girls' living groups Tuesday night in an annual presentation of their new pledge class, and also in greeting the new freshmen coeds this year.

Rod Bohman was selected Brigade Commander in the Army ROTC program.

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON
Since 1956, the John O. Mosley Zeal award has been granted annually to that chapter which, in the judgement of the Fraternities who have observed it, best exemplifies Sigma Alpha Epsilon loyalty, zeal and devotion.

The local chapter of SAE was honored as runner-up for this award out of 151 chapters throughout the nation. It was presented to those members of the Idaho Alpha chapter attending the August session of SAE leadership school on the Northwestern University campus at Evanston, Illinois.

Museum Features Ballet Costume, Set Designs

ART EXHIBIT—G. Ellis Burcaw, director of the University Museum stands beside one of 50 studies for set and costume design in a collection, "Masters of Ballet Design," sponsored by the Smithsonian Institution. The exhibit runs through October 16. Visiting hours to the University Museum are from 1 to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday. There is no admission charge. Featured at the exhibition is a collection of designs by ten outstanding designers of the past 60 years. The designs begin at the turn of the century when a new and vital group revolutionized the traditional art of the ballet. (Photo by Barriochoa)

A collection of 50 studies for set and costume design, assembled to evoke that period which began early in the twentieth century when the combined talents of a new and vital group of young artists, composers, entrepreneurs, and dancers revolutionized the traditional art of the ballet, will be presented at University Museum from Sept. 23 to Oct. 16.

The exhibition, "Masters of Ballet Design," was organized by the California Palace of the Legion of Honor in San Francisco from the Alma Spreckels Collection and is currently touring the United States under the auspices of the Smithsonian Institution.

The exhibition features the work of ten of the outstanding designers of this period: Alexandre Jacovlet, Michel Larionov, Marie Laurencin, Jose Marie Sert, Alice Halicka, and Pablo Picasso. It focuses especially upon the French productions of the Ballet Russe.

Each of the designers represented has made a unique contribution to the art of set design. The bold colors of Leon Bakst, shown in sketches for "Le Coeur de la Marquise," "La Pisanelle," and other productions, suggest exotic splendor with a modern flavor, while the abstract forms used by Nathalie Gontcharov for "The Firebird" and "Le Coq d'Or" reflect the revolution in Russian art of the period. A contrast is afforded by Marie Laurencin's wistful and rather ethereal study for "Les Biches." A costume design by Pablo Picasso for "Parade" is included.

The underlying cause for the transformation of the ballet from a rigidly formalized dance form in which music and design were thought of as secondary elements, was the advent of the great empresario of the Ballet Russe, Serge de Diaghilev.

Twenty sketches by Alexandre Benois, covering a forty-six year period from 1909 to 1955, highlight the collection. Nine of them are designs for various productions of "Giselle," dating from 1910.

The lavishness of the sets and the quality of dancers such as Nijinsky and Pavlova, signified a rebirth of this art form.

Throughout the life of the Diaghilev dancers and musicians, but also lev Ballet, the over-all quality by bold and imaginative designs of the productions was main-executed by the finest artists trained not only by its excellent of the era.

Idaho Is Ready For Powerful OSU Beavers

Andros And His Beavers Are Ready

The Oregon State Beavers will feature the running of fullback Pete Pifer and passing of Paul Brothers who led OSU to the Rose Bowl in 1964 against the Vandals this Saturday.

Pifer, who is an All-American candidate, could provide plenty of trouble for the Vandals tomorrow. Last year against Idaho he gained 87 yards in 20 carries as compared to 62 yards in 16 carries for McDonald.

The Beavers are 1-3 on the season but they have played real tough opposition. Three of their opponents have been from the Big Ten Conference with nationally-ranked Southern California being the other opponent for OSU.

Iowa has been the only victim of the Beavers so far this season but OSU has shown great improvement since their opening day thumping by Michigan, 41-0.

Pifer and Brothers join together in running the option to perfection which parallels the Foruria-McDonald option combination.

Joining Pifer and Brothers in the backfield will be sophomore Jerry Belcher at one halfback and speedy wingback Bob Grim. Grim scrambled for 146 yards against Iowa which was the key factor in OSU's victory over the Hawkeyes.

Two real fine sophomores that Oregon State will have on display Saturday will be tackle Jess Lewis and defensive linebacker Bill Enyart. Some scouts say that Enyart reminds them of ex-IL-linois great Dick Butkus.

Pro scouts are also looking at wingback Bob Grim as a fine prospect for the future. They are more interested in his defensive abilities however. He has great speed, good hands and a fine reputation for toughness.

The Beavers are sure to be hard-nosed tomorrow and will be trying desperately to improve on their 1-3 record so far this season.

Attention!

Idaho ticket manager, Ron Stephenson announced today that 1000 general admission tickets for the Washington State game would go on sale at 8 o'clock, Monday morning. The price of the tickets is $3 apiece and they will be located in the end zone. When these tickets are sold there will be standing room only.

Stephenson also said that there are plenty of tickets available for the Idaho-Oregon game in Boise on Oct. 29, but you are urged to pick them up as soon as possible.

Athletic Director Paul O'tyn, said that as of right now there is no chance of the game being televised as was previously stated.

THESE VANDALS will be looking for the goal line Saturday as Idaho plays Oregon State at Corvallis. (L-R) Joe McCollum, Denny McCanna, and Ray McDonald in the back.

National Leaders Look Impressive

The battle for leadership involves more top flight players each week as the different teams across the nation are picking up momentum and "jelling."

In the rushing department, Jim Bohl, from New Mexico State has regained the lead from Ray McDonald. Bohl has 618 yards in 112 carries as compared to 509 yards in 100 attempts for McDonald. Bohl has also played one more game.

In total offense, San Jose State's fine quarterback, Danny Holman, continues to set the pace with 1022 yards in 177 offensive plays. He is followed by Hank Washington (W. Texas St.) and Gary Beban from UCLA.

Holman is also tops in the passing department having completed 80 of 129 passes for 984 yards, 8 touchdowns and a .620 percentage.

In the punting department, John Morgan of Kansas has a slight edge over Stanford's Dave Lewis. Morgan is averaging 45.2 in 15 punts as compared to 44.8 for

Foruria, McDonald Will Lead Offense

Tomorrow the Vandals will be gunning for their third straight victory of the season as they tackle the Oregon State Beavers at Corvallis.

Idaho will again rely on the running and passing of John Foruria to overcome the Beaver defense. Foruria has regained his 1965 form and could give Oregon State trouble if the weather holds.

McDonald has recovered substantially from his shoulder injury and should be able to go full tilt Saturday. Big Mac injured his shoulder in the first quarter last weekend against

RAY McDONALD

Beavers, 27-6. Last year Idaho was edged by a field goal in dropping a 16-14 decision to the Beavers.

Since Dee Andros, one time head football coach at Idaho, has taken over the reins at Corvallis, the Vandals have not been able to beat him.

The Vandals would sure like to win this one which would give them a winning record and a little boost going into the traditional rivalry game with the Cougars from Washington State.

JOHN FORURIA

Idaho State but still managed to pick up sufficient yardage for the Vandals.

Replacing LaVerl Pratt at one of the linebacker positions will be Sandpoint's Lyle Bergstrom, a 5-10 210 sophomore. Coach Musseau said that his defensive unit is ready for four quarters of good hard football.

Foruria's prime receivers will be in Rich Toney and Tim Lavens. Toney surprised everyone last week as he snared five passes from Foruria for 90 yards.

Joining McDonald in the backfield will be Joe McCollum and Butch Slaughter who have both reached mid-season form.

Foruria's option play has been one of the key factors to the
