Challenge

TO: Tom Glover, ASWSU President Jim Camp, ASWSU Vice President Patty Clark, Evergreen Editor Donald Wright, Evergreen Editor

To the mighty humiliators of nearly no one:

What's new, pussycat? If you can reassemble your mangy menagerie after your recent debacles, we, the Almighty Vandals, will tolerate your attempt to play football. (However, we play tackle). Reports from Moscow's suburb, Pullman, tell us that Coach Clark has declared every spot on your team (?) open. We agree; the Vandals will ramble through those openings all day. Realizing that the members of the current Cougar varsity have never subdued the awesome Vandals, we can comprehend your trepidation in the face of impending

Even the Evergreen staff indicates that WSU is suffering from a massive defeatist attitude, Student apathy strikes again. Your beloved Evergreen backed down in fear from the Argonaut's challenge to run under the name of the Idaho Argonaut following your defeat.

So the trend is established. If you persist in punishing yourselves, the Idaho All-Americans will give the Cubs clubbing that will resound forever in the multi-storied eyesores of WSU.

If you do dare to rashly venture into Vandal country Saturday, bring your walking shoes for this Sunday's narch. You should walk it in record time; after all you've had lots of practice during the past couple of years. Would you believe 27 miles? (3 x 9).

As the seasonal wind shifts, and Butch's delicate senses perceive the dark, rank odor of decay and moral ineptitude emenating from the U of I, that academic armpit of American universities, we once again issue a challenge to a battle. Truth, beauty, bravery, and virtue will stand against ignorance, beatiality, and chaos. The masses meet and a new era is born.

Foremost in the Cougars' mind is the desire to see the villainous Vandals slither along the oft-traveled trail of suds and spus to the illustrious country of golden grain and grandoise Cougars. You who blaspheme the name of the Palouse and violate its sanctity, prepare for October 22 is the day of doom that awaits the derelict Vandal team, if such a term can be meaningfully applied to that motley crew of meloderous, metamorphized megalomaniacs.

Accept this challenge. Venture forth and be prepared. we will show NO mercy.

Looking forward to the Exodus from Idaho, Tom Glover, ASWSU President Jim Camp, ASWSU Vice President Patty Clark, Evergreen Editor Don Wright, Sports Editor

Bates pointed out that football games were scheduled between the two from 1972 through 1976. "If we were considering dropping Idaho from our schedule. we certainly wouldn't have made dates for those years," he said. The final change made in the Idaho-WSU festivities is the date

Poor Pussycat

What a splendid retaliation! Washington State students were the victims of the perfect squelch following their attempt to steal Jae Vandal out of the Student Union Building's Vandal Lounge Tuesday night. What humiliation they must have felt yesterday morning when they found Idaho students had painted their panther pink. We have to feel sorry for the cat, being the object of such notoriety, but we can also only claim a "tit for tat." It is going to be funny if old Butch is still presented at the game tomorrow.

Palouse Battle Revisited

This is the big football weekend, and the 74th year of the Idaho-Washington State football tradition, and the last time the Battle of the Palouse will resound from the University's Neale Stadium. For the two teams will never again meet at the Vandal's home field. For WSU officials have st ated that to continue the rivalry at all. games would have to be in a larger stadium-at Pullman or in Spokane, in order to make the game profitable for them.

There is also a lack in scheduling for future games, with no meet allowed for in 1968. Cougar authorities say: is an "inability to get together" with the Idaho team, since they play in a different league.

Cougars Look Reluctant

It may appear that playing Idaho doesn't mean very much to the Cougar club, and that they are more interested in rivalries within their league. But the loss of interest may also be because they have been LOS-ING to Idaho for the past two years, and their big COUGAR PRIDE HAS BEEN HURT.

Evergreen Backs Down

Not only the team and its management seem to be reluctant, but the student body themselves don't seem too jazzed either. One of the best representatives of the student opinion, Miss Patty Clark, editor of the Washington State Daily Evergreen, gave it away this week when she refused to ackknowledge a dare made by Jason, in proposing a change in newspaper flags, or identification plates, for use on the losing team's publication. Jason proposed that if the Vandals lost the game we would run the Evergreen's flag-and vice versa if the Cougars lost. Well, she consulted with her staff for about an hour, returned Jason's long distance call-and declined the proposition. "Frankly, we aren't too jacked about the game—because we don't feel we are going to win," she said. -and she forgot to, say this information was "off the rec-

How Record Stands

Frankly, we can't really blame her for her opinion, for the Cougar club has been losing the majority of their games this season. Their beginning game was dropped to the University of California, they were tromped by the Houston team, and last weekend took a trouncing from Utah State. They have lost four and won one.

Idaho began their season against the giant Washington team, the Huskies, and lost, resulting in a loss of morale which may have meant dropping the next weekend's game to Montana State. They have since come back with two wins and a loss to Oregon State to score up a three-two record. But they still stand one-one in their conference. So it looks like a close game tomorrow, with both teams about equally matched, but perhaps with WSU a little more tired.

So Jason will leave the rest of the interpretation up to Dick Sherman with one closing comment. Mistakes and penalties will be costly in this one, and it may be the team with the least errors that will win.

We Acknowledge . . .

The Argonaut would like to thank one of the University's alumni, Gib L. Meyers, of Grangeville, Idaho, for the large color cartoon on the front page of today's issue. This is the second year Meyer has submitted these ideas for the Argonaut, and we are very pleased to be able to print

We would also like to recognize the writing submitted by two faculty members of the Idaho staff which is being published in this issue. Our thanks go to Sid Miller of the Placement Service, and to Dr. Bernard Borning, head of the political science department. Miller's article explains the service and uses of Idaho's Placement Service, and the review of Dr. Borning's work is from his recent publications. The Argonaut encourages faculty contributions, and has expressly asked a number of faculty members to donate writings in their particular fields. Among them are Professor H. Sidney Duncombe, associate professor of political science, Dr. George Bell, dean of the college of law, and Professor Bert C. Cross, chairman of journalism.

A Nasty for Simmons

The Argonaut invites Dr. Charles E. P. Simmons, professor of history, to write for it also. Provided, of course he can write other than "pearly white" material, be sufficiently mean and nasty and can contribute stories that can do things other than terrorize freshmen. Is that mean and nasty enough for a "Fleece" topic, Professor

Political Scene

The Argonaut welcomes all state political candidates on campus again this weekend. -And this means both Democrats and Republicans. We invite you to leave any information at the Argonaut office for publication, or to schedule pictures and interviews with the Argonaut's staff. We try to give all candidates equal space in our endeavor to inform the students on political that we have shown partiality to the Democratic ticket, it is partly because these candidates have made themselves more available to the Argonaut for pictures and coverage. We must compliment the Young Democrats on their enthusiasm and organizat ion in support of their candidates this season, for it is through their management that campus visitors are scheduled for pictures and news coverage.

The voting record printed in this issue is biased in favor of the Democrats in that they only list the bills on which these Republican candidates voted "no." We do not have the time ourselves to research the voting records of these candidates, and if any student would like to investigate the bills on which either of them voted "yes," or the record of the Democratic Candidates, we will gladly print them. We thought these notes would be interesting to the student and therefore warrant publication.

Wazoo's Butch Undergoes Drastic Color Mutation

Butch, the WSU cougar, was mysteriously painted pink Wednesday night, so we hear tell. Now Wazoo has a pink panther. Yuk,

As the story goes, a group of enterprising students, probably from Idaho. stole across the border in the dead of night and did the dirty work. In fact, it's not dirty, it's kind of "purty" and Butch is the most gorgeous shade of pink ever worn by any cougar. Football would get a real fashion lift if the WSU uniforms were dyed to match.

Morale on the Wazoo campus must really be low. In past years the students have kept a nightly cougar-watch the week before the Idaho-WSU game. Evidently, they didn't even bother with that this year because raiders made not one, but two forays to our rival's territory and not even the campus cops detected the invasion, we were told.

If the job was done by Idaho students, campus spirit may not be dead. Our sources tell us that it was one of the most throughly planned raids in Idaho history, complete with color keyed maps, scouts, check points and, of course, red dye.

WSU didn't even notice the sudden change in the cat's color until KRPL sent an inquiry to their publications office Thursday morning. Wazoo actually had to send someone down to check on the pink pussycat. Here is their reply to the inquiry.

Some children attempted to spray red paint on the cougar and succeeded in messing up the cage considerably. The cougar was not affected."

We suppose the cougar wasn't affected if you failed to notice his new shade. Coach Bert Clark noticed it and said in a pre-game press conference that Butch would be restored to his normal color before the game even if they had to spray him brown to do it.

Here's hoping the Idaho team's spirit follows that of the students who showed enough interest to stir up the traditional college rivalry. Maybe the spirit will even carry over to the cheering section, which made such a poor showing at the Homecoming game. It's time this campus got jacked about something this year. Since all else has failed, maybe a college prank will do the Water is too precious a commodity in the state of Idaho to become a political play thing. Truth is even more precious. We cannot afford to have in Washington a man who would play with either water or truth to forward his own personal gain.

IDAHO VOTERS

Above all else, in Washington we need a man who speaks for Idaho with a voice of authority and a voice of truth.

We do not find Ralph Harding to be such a man.

Examples of his carelessness with the truth have been cited before and we are sure you can recall many such examples. We would like at this point to list but a few in this campaign to demonstrate our position and to document it.

First, it must be pointed out truth is a whole thing: to leave out part is to mutilate truth just as much as it is to tell a direct and fullsome lie.

Item: One Harding "quote" has Sen. Len Jordan proposing that Congress and the Federal Water Agencies study plans for bringing water of the Columbia Overland to Lake Mead for use in the Colorado Basin. This statement was taken from a speech by Sen. Allott. Mr. Harding leaves out one line of the quote. It should read: "Water now wasting to the ocean at the mouth of the Columbia River."

He also leaves out one sentence important to the Senator's position: "He (Jordan) in his convinction that every drop of water that originates in a state should be used by the state until all its needs, present and future, are met."

Sen. Gordon Allott says, and we would like to repeat: "Len Jordan is truely a water statesman."

And may we add, Len Jordan also tells the truth.

YOUTH FOR JORDAN COMMITTEE

Campus Comment By Leo W. Jeffre

EDITOR'S NOTE: Leo Jeffres, Jason' 78 last spring, w asked to submit a guest column this week because Kan Longeteig is out of town. His subject selection, like that the regular columnists, is of his own choosing and his con ments reflect no particular Argonaut policy).

Big Don was in town the other day, Big Don Sam uelson that is. He's the Republican candidate for gove nor-at least that's who the 15 persons (give or talk five) who listened to his speech said he was.

Don was the one who fell into the gubernatorial nomination when everyone voted against Smylie. At that time he was one of less-articulate state legislators known as pipe puffers, a well-chosen name for their major contribution to the state legis. lature. Then a few Republican voters and other assorted individuals felt guilty and began investigating to see who this political neophite was. Lo and behold, it was an ultra-conservative who was mostly "anti," anti-this and anti-that.

But this would never do, said Republican party leads ers. Big Don must become "progressive, moderate, conservative, Goldwaterish, even." And so, through the a of some Elizabeth Arden public relations, he became the new Big Don.

The campaign tempo changed. Don was now for maintaining education expenditures at their prese level. He no longer would vote against controls for where diseases. He will run government on a business-like b sis: However, he doesn't explain whether this mean making a profit or measuring success in problem soluing. Don probably even wants to keep water in Idaho. Big Don is now a Goldwater conservative. He announced that earlier this week. One of his more successful campaign slogans in southern (that means Boise) Idaho was "Big Don, Sane, Sober, Sincere." Hopefully voters will recognize that Swisher and Andrus are also sane. They are all sober, too, at least most of the time. But that last word is one of those connotations which means all things to all people. Sincerity in an individual who is opposing progressive realistic policies is more of a vice than a virtue. In this case it would be much more favorable if he weren't sincere in his efforts. One of the unfortunate aspects of this campaign is that the man called Big Don is a well-respected, compe tent businessman who is being forced to change his views in order to have a chance of becoming governor. In other words, his sincerity is being tested. An article in the "Idaho Observer" quoted a farmer as saying he would vote for Samuelson because, "Everybody knows him and we like him. He's big and honest . . . I haven't heard anything against him and that generally means he's okay. If a guy's honest nobody says much about him. If he's a shyster, they say so quickly enough.

Perhaps this sums up most opinions about Big Don. He's big and honest and all American, like apple pie and motherhood. But does that make him a candidate for governor of the state, a states small but complex to run. Putting Samuelson in the governor's seat is like running Karen Longeteig for president of the University. Chances of success would be slim for both (odds on Karen).

An Ironic Situation

A funny thing happened on the way to eliminating class officers-most students forgot to show up. It's rather ironic when students are too damn apathetic to vote on something to be eliminated because it was something students were apathetic about.

There are now 12 students with new titles. The problem now is to create a job for the titles to do. It's the typical situation of finding something for someone to do instead of finding someone for an already existing function.

A few University students may still be wondering why there seems to be an emphasis on politics on the campus and in the Argonaut this fall. The emphasis seems to be based on student reaction.

A powerful play demands a powerful cast and the University cast of "A Man for All Seasons" almost succeeds in matching the strength of this play written by Robert Bolt.

The cast is faced with a play of immense proportions. The historical drama dips into the moral, spiritual and political conflict surrounding the divorce of Henry VIII from Catherine of Aragon in 16th century England. Nuclear Test Ban Treaty (Ex-Henry, in a struggle to consolidate power and gain international independence, needs a son to inherit his throne. Catherine, unable to give him a son, must be replaced. The conflict brings a break with the Roman Catholic This treaty called for prohib-Church and the Pope, and the subsequent formation of the Church of England with Henry as its head.

Thomas More, who has risen to the Chancellorship, must give approval to the king's moves or face elimination. Thomas is a man trapped by his own conscience. His contemporary, Erasmus, likens him to Socrates. Jordan's vote against the Food Irony pervades with each man caught by his beliefs in a grotesque series of events which lead to the inevitable tragic conclusion.

Characterization is the major obstacle facing the cast. Every part could have been presented with more contrast in emotion. Since the play depends on dialogue and not action, each character must put intensity into his lines. Crescendos demand emotional tension in wide contrast to the basic plane of the play.

Vyrl Alcorn as More gives us a good character, but not a tormented character. GENERAL TELEPHONE PROGRESS REPORT

A cable drum makes a handy table as Ron Baird and Joe Trout, both from Everett, check blueprints and plan what's to be done next.

Gary Getty, from Gen Tel's Everett staff, codes the wiring to be installed in new switchboards.

Soldering multiple connections for switchboard panels call for the sure eye and steady hand of expert men like Ralph Miles, Hillsboro, Oregon.

We're trying to do two year's work in nine weeks!

The job: Installation and connection of complete central office equipment for 6,000 local phones, plus long distance equipment for an additional 17,000 phones in surrounding communities.

This normally takes 18 to 30 months from planning to completion; our people are working like beavers to do it in nine weeks total time.

Today, only a little more than three weeks after the fire that put the Moscow central office totally out of service, the job of rebuilding is well underway.

Our regular Moscow and Pullman crews, plus 75 additional skilled men from Gen Tel offices in Idaho, Washington and Oregon, are working around-the-clock installing and connecting new equipment that is coming in daily from throughout the country. Just locating and securing the equipment needed was a big job. It is usually custom-built, and ordered a year or more before needed.

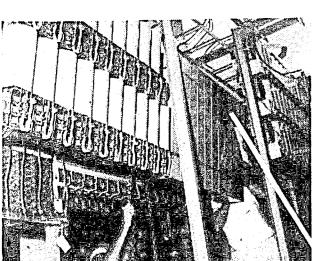

Why the rush? One simple reason—to get your telephone service back to normal as quickly as it can possibly be done. Our job is to serve you—and we couldn't be satisfied if we're doing less than our very best.

Meanwhile, we appreciate your patience with the restrictions and inconvenience of the temporary emergency service, and your consideration for other telephone users and for us. With your continued patience and cooperation, it will soon be over.

We'll do our best to hurry the day. And we sincerely thank you for being the most helpful and understanding telephone customers in the world!

Vandal-Cougar Clash Should Be Great One

Nobody Likes Idea Of Favoring Idaho

BY TIM RARICK ARGONAUT SPORTS WRITER

According to that prominent publication of the newspaper world, the Pullman News-Review, sports writers in the area, on the basis of a player-to-player comparison in their respective positions, report, in so many words that the poor Idaho Vandals just don't quite measure up to the ability of Bert's boys.

Well, this makes the third year in a row since I've been here that our "area sportswriters" have failed to see what is right before their eyes. A person would think that after two years of embarrassing predictions on the outcome of this contest, that our informed group would be a little less radical in their appraisals of the two teams. What I mean is, you'd think they would give Musseau's MEN a chance.

However, you can bet that Bert is fighting the element of overconfidence among his gridders. After last week's tremendous display of power and savey against U-tah, which they just barely let slip out of their hands (25-15), they have all the right in the world to be overconfident. You can bet, however, that with fist in hand, soft-spoken Bert will not let his charges get big heads. Friday night outside of Bohler Gym in Pullman, the Cougar coach will have his "Cardiac Kids" (they do cause a bit of excitement?) doing reaction drills to the tune of "Beat those Vandals" and other such chants that really get the 'Cats up.

However, I must give them this. Although they have a poor record (speaking of poor records . . .?) they have been playing the very best of competition and actually haven't done that bad against any of them. The usual procedure in most cases however, is that after a number of games against top flight opponents the experience will make a ball club better at each outing. Right now, Mr. Clark has opened up every position on the squad because of dissatisfaction in performances of first stringers. Can this be the sign of a team that's improv-

Well, let's just say that the sportswriters are right, and the Vandals don't have a prayer. Don't be discouraged John, I know this great play you can use for a sure T. D. You see, Ya' take the ball and you stick it up

ONCE MORE UNTO THE BREACH

Way back in 1953 I started writing this column about campus life. Today, a full 13 years later, I am still writing this column, for my interest in undergraduates is as keen and lively as ever. This is called "arrested development." But where else can a writer find a subject as fascinating as the American campus? Where else are minds so nettled.

bodies so roiled, psyches so unglued? Right now, for example, though the new school year has just begun, you've already encountered the following dis-

- 1. You hate your teachers. 2. You hate your courses.
- 3. You hate your room-mates.
- You have no time to study. You have no place to study.
- Friends, let us, without despair, examine your problems one by one.

1. You hate your teachers. For shame, friends! Try looking at things their way. Take your English teacher, for instance. Here's a man who is one of the world's authorities on Robert Browning, yet he wears $30 tweeds and a pre-war necktie while his brother Sam, a high school dropout, earns 70 thou a year in aluminum siding. Is it so hard to understand why he writes "F" on top of your themes and "Eeeyich!" in the margin? Instead of hating him, should you not admire his dedication to scholarship, his disdain for the blandishments of commerce? Of course you should. You may flunk, but Pippa passes.

2. You hate your courses. You say, for example, that you don't see the use of studying Macbeth when you are majoring in veterinary medicine. You're wrong, friends, Believe me, some day when you are running a busy kennel, you'll be mighty glad you learned "Out, damned Spot!"

3. You hate your room-mates. This is, unquestionably, a big problem-in fact, the second biggest problem on American campuses. (The first biggest, of course, is on which side of your mortar board do you dangle the tassel at Commencement?) But there is an answer to the roommate problem: keep changing room-mates. The optimum interval, I have found, is every four hours.

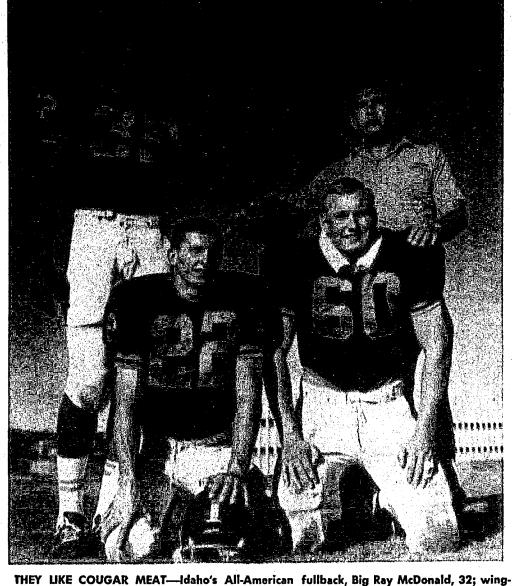

4. You have no time to study. Friends, I'm glad to report there is a simple way to find extra time in your busy schedule. All you have to do is buy some Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades. Then you won't be wasting precious hours hacking away with inferior blades, mangling your face again and again in a tedious, feckless effort to winnow your whiskers. Personna shaves you quickly and slickly, easily and breezily, hacklessly, scrapelessly, tug-lessly, nicklessly, scratchlessly, matchlessly. Furthermore, Personna Blades last and last. Moreover, they are available both in double-edge and Injector style. And, as if this weren't enough, Personna is now offering you a chance to grab a fistful of $100 bills. The Personna Super Stainless Steel Sweepstakes is off and running! You can win $10,000 and even more. Get over to your Personna dealer for details and an entry blank. Don't just stand there!

5. You have no place to study. This is a thorny one, I'll admit, what with the library so jammed and the dorms so noisy. But with a little ingenuity, you can still find a quiet, deserted spot—like the ticket office of the lacrosse team. Or a testimonial dinner for the dean. Or the nearest re-

You see, friends? When you've got a problem, don't lie down and quit. Attack! Remember: America did not become the world's greatest producer of milk solids and sorghum by running away from a fight!

There are hundreds of different breeds for every purpose But a trailer is a responsibility and a liability as well as an asset.

One of the most important features concerning the responsibilities of trailers is the insurance. Is your car covered while pulling a trailer, is your trailer covered while attached, or unhooked? What about the contents of the

Having pulled a trailer many thousands of miles I have fallen into a regular routine each time a trip is in the off-

First I check the hitch on the car. Is it stable, is it heavy enough for the load it is pulling, is the safety chain adequate, is it firmly attached? Hooking up the lights is next; are all the bulbs working, the turn signals, the stop lights, are the lens and the reflectors clean? It's a good idea to carry spare bulbs, a bit of tape, a pair of pliers, a screwdriver in the trailer, as well as a safety kit consisting of flares, flags, lug wrench, jack and spare tire in your trailer.

What to Check

Are the tires safe? A blowout at any speed with a loaded trailer can flip a car as easily as cracking the tip of a bull whip - the action is much the same. Next check the brakes; if you do not have brakes on the trailer be sure to check the states you are going to travel through; in some it is illegal to pull a trailer without brakes Never drive your car pulling a trailer any faster than you normally drive; in fact the safe thing to do is to reduce your speed because it's going to take you twice as long to stop. If the trailer has brakes, check the connections, both electric or hydraulic. Always, when making a stop, especially a quick of panic stop, apply the brakes on the trailer just a bit ahead of the car brakes, using the trailer as a drag or slowing agent. This way you don't wind up with your trailer for a necktie.

After a complete safety check, including well packed wheel bearings, practice a bit with your trailer Find an isolated parking lot or large area, practice backing the trailer into a tight spot, see how sharp a turn you can negotiate, try applying the brakes, get the feel of the whole rig. If you pull a trailer regularly these things have become second nature to you; if not, the practice is needed and it might save your life in an emergency

When you are almost ready to go, load your trailer a bit heavy in the front so that the tongue will bear down on the hitch - if the tail end is heavy the trailer will whip from side to side.

Once on the road, bear in mind that it'll take much longer to pass anything moving or still because the pep and pick-up of the tow car will be greatly curtailed. Don't try to fill any small holes in traffic because what is following is hooked firmly to you and may not go through the opening, or the opening may be gone by the time the trailer arrives. Stay in the slow lane, let the hot-rods go by.

SO WE DIDN'T!

Our brand-new sales and service center

It's true that the new Camaro would look good anywhere, but we felt we just had to have a fancy new place to show it off. So we built a new Sales and Service Center. It's as modern and well equipped as the Camaro is new, assuring you of speedy, efficient service. We hope you'll come over and see it soon, along with the exciting Camaro and all the other new '67 Chevrolets.
