Dad's Day Plans Are In Full Swing

Father of the Year candidates are being selected by the living groups this week in conjunction with Dad's Day on the weekend of Nov. 12 and living groups submitting Dad Day sign contest applications.

The signs will be judged according to the appropriateness of the Dad's Day theme of "Vandals Bare the Grizzley," originality, general appearance and construction.

The signs must be built within the property boundaries of the living group and may be constructed from any material. The sign dimensions are limited to 20 feet. On Friday, Nov. 4, the signs will be judged at 7 p.m.

That evening Dad of the Year signs-up will be announced and introduced to the students during the rally. The sign winners will also be announced, and first, second, and third place awards will be given.

On Saturday Dad's Day begins with a breakfast at 8:30 a.m., a luncheon at the Student Union Building at 11:30 and the Idaho-Montana game at 1:30 p.m.

Other events include living group open houses from 4 to 5:30 p.m., the Baron of Beef Buffet from 5-7 p.m. in the SUB, the Ramsey Lewis Trio from 8-10:30 p.m. and a dance in the SUB from 11:30 to 1 a.m.

At the breakfast Saturday

Stewart Springer, E-Board member, and Jim Mundt, Beta, ASUI public relations director, will propose to the assembled dads the formation of a Dad's Club.

The purpose of the club is to organize dad's who are not alumni of the university or the Vandal Boosters, yet who wish to contribute something to the University. Washington State University and other universities have organized similar clubs.

Alumni secretary, James Lyle, Dick Rush, and Coach Musseau will address the dads at the breakfast also.

At the football game, fathers of the football players will be seated along the sideline of the field. During the halftime gifts will be presented to the Father of the Year and to the finalists.

The fathers of the football players will also be introduced.

Tickets Going Fast For Trio Concert

"Tickets are going rapidly for the Ramsey Lewis Trio," stated Gale Mix, ASUI general manager, yesterday. "Of the 4,440 seats, more than 400 have already been sold," he added.

Tickets for the big name entertainment range in price from $1.50 to $2.75, according to Mix. The Trio will be performing at 8 p.m. Nov. 12 at the Memorial Gymnasium.

Tickets are on sale at the SUB at the University of Idaho, and the CUB at Washington State University.

The Trio consists of the three original members, Ramsey Lewis on the piano; Eldee Young, bass and cello; and Isaac "Red" Hold, drums. All members are from Chicago.

Lewis, nearly 32 years of age, once said, "It's important to anyone's life and career to see where you've gone, to know where you are, and to have a good idea where you're going."

The trio, which has built up a solid following in Chicago and other Midwestern cities over the past two years via records (Argo) and personal appearances, has both a sound and a flavor, somewhat in the Ahmad Jamal-Modern Jazz Quartet tradition.

The Lewis threesome, working together for over 10 years, strike a middle ground of easy, listenable music, sparked by the piano lead of Lewis, and hefty assistants Eldee Young and Red Holt.

The combo handle any type of tune, and the music they play is as easy to take for a jazz-oriented audience as for the musical club goer.

Each member of the Ramsey Lewis Trio presides over his instrument in a different manner.

Tall, slender Ramsey sits at his piano like a pleased spectator watching a good show. Eldee bobs, weaves, and peeks from behind his enormous appearing bass and cello. Red Holt's face betrays his inner satisfaction with the wide array of percussion instruments surrounding him.

No matter what the tempo or type of tune, essentially cheerful, optimistic quality can be found in the Lewis Trio.

AWS Group Taps Board

Names of the recently selected members of Reference Board were submitted for approval at Wednesday's Associated Women Students legislature meeting. Unanimously accepted for the board were Sally Harris, Campbell; Bev Boughton, Shoup; Pam Taylor, Gamma Phi; and Mike Skok, Pi Phi.

Besides dealing with women's rules and standards on campus, Reference Board also discusses and proposes revisions for the AWS constitution.

The following constitutional change was submitted by Reference Board to AWS legislature and recommended for adoption:

That article V, section B, paragraph 1, part to read: Women students under 21 (unless they are seniors) must have written permission of their parents filed in the Office of Student Affairs to visit off-campus apartments or private residences of men.

Membership Drive Begins

A membership drive for the Committee of 1,000 begins this week on the University campus, announces Bill Kyle, Upham, chairman of the speaker's bureau of the organization.

Those interested in joining the political organization which supports the Idaho sales tax and hopes to register student voters, are asked to contact Kyle, Art Crane, Graham, Sandi Wood, Thea, or Jim Tegan, Phi Delta.

A $1.00 membership fee is charged. The money will help finance group activities, pay for publication materials.

Jr. Extended Board to Meet

A junior class extended board meeting will be held tomorrow evening at 8 p.m. in the Student Union Building, said Howard Foley, Fiji, junior class president.

Foley asked that each living group send a junior to the meeting.

Dinner Slated

Pakistan Student Association is sponsoring a "Little Joey" benefit dinner set at 6:15 p.m. Saturday at the Moscow Presbyterian Church in cooperation with the Idaho students and the people of Moscow, Zamir Syed, president, announced. The menu includes four main dishes from Pakistan. Highlighting the dinner, will be exhibits, a short movie and other entertainment.

This is the first time Association members will pay for their tickets. Their goal is 200 tickets and they will go on sale at the Information Desk in the Student Union Building, Safeway Food Store, University Drug, the Bank of Idaho, and Rosauer's Food Store. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Association members will be selling tickets on campus and in Moscow. The price is $2.00.

Mock Ballots Cast Today

OVER WHITE BIRD AND AWAY WE GO—So sang over 500 University students Friday as they took off for Boise for the U of I-Oregon game. The University ralliers filled one entire section in the Boise College football stadium. Seen getting ready to go are Pat Deacy and Jim Watt, Lambda Chi; Paddy Lukens, Gamma Phi; and Carol Dickard, Alpha Phi.

The University campus will come alive today with all the activities of the statewide election in Idaho. The Idaho Center for Education in Politics is sponsoring the ICEP Mock Election on the campus.

"Previous ICEP political activities have proved to be a great indication of the political climate of the state. Last year's Mock Political Convention was the first indication of the feeling against a fourth term for Governor Robert E. Smylie in the state," according to Lee Davis, off-campus, an ICEP member.

Jim Tegan, president of ICEP, Phi Delta, stated that polling places would be set up in the Ag Science Building, the SUB and the Administration Building. Polling places in the Administration Building and the polls in the Ag Science Building will be open from noon to 5:30 p.m. and the polls in the Student Union Building will remain open until 8 p.m.

According to Davis, students must have their student activity cards with them to be punched before they will be allowed to vote. Davis went on to state, "The students will be voting for all candidates for statewide offices with the exception of Bill Brunt and George Hansen in the Second Congressional District. The Brunt-Hansen race was considered to be out of context in the election because of the fact that we are located in the First District."

Young Republican's President Bob Wise, SAE, said, "The ICEP activities in the past have proven of great help to both political parties and have proven themselves a good barometer of public feeling. With the issues in the election, such as the sales tax, being of such vital interest to students I think we can look forward to success in this election."

Mike Wetherell, Delta Chi, president of the University Young Democrats stated, "ICEP has done a tremendous job in the past and I feel it will act again to show trends in the election. I think many students and political observers will be surprised at the showing of the Democrats on the University campus this year."

"The election this year has had many focal points which are:

Who Chooses Mate

"Marriage! Who should choose the mate?" is the topic of the international roundtable Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Student Union Building. The discussion, sponsored by the people-to-people committee is one of a series held to increase understanding among American and foreign students.

Boise Weekend Filled By Events, And Thrills

The weekend held thrills and events for the estimated 500 Idaho students who traveled to Boise for the football game and activities Saturday.

Beside the game and other unscheduled functions, items of interest concerned an auto accident in which five students were involved and an Executive Board sponsored hospitality session for high school student leaders.

The one car accident occurred at 8:30 p.m. Friday six miles south of Cascade.

The students, George Smith

Terry Coffin, Tom Howard, Allan McDonald and Dick Brown, all Beta, received only minor injuries from the accident which rolled the 1965 GTO driven by Coffin.

Smith and Howard were treated at Boise St. Luke's Hospital for facial cuts and then released. The others were uninjured.

The accident occurred when the car driven by Coffin met a car just before entering the Payette River Canyon traveling toward Cascade. The GTO began to fishtail on the road as the two vehicles passed, left the road, rolled and came to rest in the barrow pit right-side up perpendicular to the road.

Howard said, "I have no idea what happened."

The students were taken into Boise by passers-by. There has been no appraisal of the damage to the car which was extensive and no citation was issued.

Executive Board sponsored the hospitality session and banquet for high school student leaders Saturday morning in the Owyhee Hotel. Executive Board members and ex-officio members met

Brahms Cycle Is Part Of Tonight's Recital

Norman R. Logan, member of the Idaho music faculty, will present, at 8 p.m. tonight at the Recital Hall, the first in the faculty recital series scheduled by the Department of Music at the University.

Logan, a baritone, will perform a vocal recital accompanied by David Tyler, pianist and member of the music faculty. The program includes four Italian songs by Scarlatti; Lotti; Pergolesi and Marcello. Logan will sing the Brahms Cycle, "Magelone Lieder." The presentation closes with four contemporary songs, "I Watched the Lady Caroline," Duke; "Gone," by Raphael; "What if Some Little Pain," and "Early in the Morning," both by Rorem.

Professor Logan, a member of the faculty since 1947, has his bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Southern California, where he was featured as baritone soloist in many productions including opera performances on the campus of the California school. Pianist Tyler joined the Idaho music staff in 1965 after a career in the East as a professional pianist and soloist with a number of symphony orchestras. He holds degrees from the New England Conservatory of Music, Boston, and has attracted attention in the West as a piano recitalist. During his first year at Idaho he gave several solo recitals and appeared as soloist with the University Symphony Orchestra.

"Magelone Lieder," the Brahms Cycle, is unique among the many masterful expressions for solo voice by this composer. It is set to the legend of "The Beautiful Magelone and the Knight Peter with the Silver Keys." Brahms became acquainted with the legend at an early age and later encountered the setting that Ludwig Tieck had given the legend. Tieck, an author, critic and translator, was a very influential man in 50 years of German literary culture. He was fond of elaborating on the durable legends of the day and included his version of "The Beautiful Magelone" in a series called "Phantasus." He recreated the series of 17 poems. From these poems Brahms selected 15 for his cycle. This is the first time these songs have been performed at the University.

There is no admission charge to the recital.

Hartung Calls For Tax Support

Dr. Ernest W. Hartung, president of the University of Idaho, called for support of the state sales tax in a speech to State Grange members meeting in Moscow.

He said, "The university budget in this biennium was calculated on a program of serving 5,500 students last year, and 5,700 this year. But we have 5,793 students here and 200 more at Arco. We had to deal with 400 more than we expected last year."

Holly Week Interviews Set

Interviews for the Holly Week committee chairmanships have been scheduled for tonight and tomorrow night beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the SUB, said Amie Paroz, DG, sophomore sec.

Interested sophomores may obtain application blanks from the sophomore Extended Board representative in each living group. Additional blanks may be obtained from Miss Paroz.

Tuesday night interviews are open to those interested in trying for Assistant General Chairman of Holly Week and for chairmanships of the following committees: Dance and Decorations; Band; Outside Decorations; cleanup; Lighting and Sound; Pictures and Intermission; Programs, Chaperones, and Invitations.

Wednesday night interviews will include chairmanships for Publicity, New Ideas, Outstanding Sophomores, Queen, Wreaths, Caroling, and Dance Ticket Sale.

Interviews for committee members for each of these committees will be conducted the week following midterms.

AWS Cultural Comm. Interviews

Interviews for AWS Cultural Committee will be held at 8 p.m. Thursday at the SUB according to Sue Cairns, committee chairman.

"This year the Cultural Committee has plans for working with foreign exchange students and helping to emphasize the cultural events and activities which take place on campus. We hope that many students will turn out for the interviews and will plan to take an active interest in the committee," she said.

Little Joe March, Game Nets $650

The student march in Boise turned out to be a complete flop, but over $650 was collected by Sigma Nu pledges and Tri Deltas at the Boise game Saturday.

The student march in Boise received no pre-march publicity in the Boise area and very few Idaho students showed up to march.

Jim Hughes, Sigma Nu pledge president, said thirteen Sigma Nu pledges and Dave Campbell, Snow, showed up for the march.

The Boise papers and radio and television gave the march no news in advance although the Boise Statesman said in a follow-up story that 250 students marched, Hughes said.

"We walked down the streets and asked some of the storekeepers about the march but they hadn't heard anything," he said. At the game the Sigma Nu pledges had more success although things still weren't as organized as it could have been. The announcement about donating for little Joe was made at halftime and by the end of the game all of the cans were full. "The people at the game were most co-operative in giving," Hughes said. If the announcement had been made before the game we could have covered most of the stands."

Unknown to the Sigma Nus around seven Tri Deltas were also passing cans around the stands. The Tri Deltas received $45 in donations. Nancy Andrus, Gamma Phi, said the Angel Flight was doing another compilation of living group giving, but that none of her girls had called in any information to her yet.

U-I Revisited

What a weekend! Everyone who went to Boise this weekend for the football game, seemed to put more emphasis on seeing and being with old friends than they did watching the big athletic event—but it did provide a wonderful incentive for making the trip. Even if the football game didn't turn out favorably, the city and southern part of the state were certainly made aware of the University, it's visiting students, faculty and most important, it's alumni. For the entire city seemed to be over-run with students and former students resulting in an atmosphere more like a convention or huge reunion than that of a gathering of football fans.

Every alum seemed to be very glad to see the students and faculty and anxious to express their interest in the school, its growth and changes. Similarly Jason would like to speak for the students in saying we were delighted to see the "old grads" and see what and how they are doing.

Sharing Through Learning

Just as an after thought, the weekend get-together (especially the one at the Boise Elks Club) makes apparent a valuable quality about the University students and the institution itself. This quality is more than a sentimental attachment or loyalty shown to the school, but also a quiet empathy between the persons involved with it, and for the ideals, attitudes and interests which it teaches. It gives Idahoans throughout the state a common ground on which to stand, and a secure feeling of warmth which comes with sharing.

Former Editors Complain

Speaking of sharing, Jason saw three former Argonaut editors over the weekend and couldn't help but talk about common interests. The main one being the traditional right of the Argonaut to set its own editorial policy without restrictions imposed upon it by either the administration or the student government.—A 73-year-old tradition, which the ASUI Executive Board threatened last week by setting an ominous precedent in commanding the Argonaut to print certain news.

These three "Jasons," Jim Golden, Boise Statesman political writer; Jim Herndon, 1966 law graduate and practicing attorney, and Karen Smith Stroschein, on the journalism faculty at American Falls High School, were in agreement that the rights and freedom of the press had been infringed upon regardless of the "interpretation" of the ASUI constitution. Herndon, in fact, said he recalled the adoption of this section of the constitution when it was passed, saying that the inference of "control" over the Argonaut was not intended, and that it was meant only to give Executive Board the responsibility of approving the selection of the Argonaut editors made by Communications Board.

Faulty Interpretation

The section of the constitution in question implies that the Argonaut be responsible to Executive Board for policy therein provided, and could therefore lend itself to be interpreted either in favor of policy freedom or of supervision. Yet when it comes right down to a legal interpretation of this clause, (which one of the E-Board members gave last week after about two seconds of consideration), it is hard to make a case in support of the board's action. For the "herein provided" phrase is not followed up with specifics which provide any basis for control. In reality, the power to review policy is supposed to belong to Communications Board as also stated in the constitution.

A Moral Case

Apart from a legal case for the policy freedom of the Argonaut, a good moral case can be made. For the paper has a long tradition of autonomy and a precious heritage of freedom which we want to preserve. It would be a shame to see a hasty fit of emotional legislation set a dangerous precedent which would permanently hurt the quality of the publication.

The original source of the problem was criticism of the coverage of Activities Council news. This issue could have been cleared up with only some basic organizational improvements done within the publicity departments of these committees in cooperation with the Argonaut editors.

We agree there are valid complaints due to the Argonaut's short staff and limited space problems. Usually when we hear criticism we listen and try to improve. But when we are ordered to make corrections we can only balk; not against the criticism but against the precedent which this action sets.

Hell of A Deal...

Two guest editors, Tim Rarick and Jim Poore, both Phi Delta, put together the sports page for today's issue. Both have been sports contributors in previous issues, but were asked to take charge for this publication in the absence of the Argonaut Sports Editor, Dick Sherman, who found himself stranded with a car breakdown on the way home from the Boise game.

Mock Election

Idaho Center for Education in Politics is sponsoring a mock election today as a part of their research into the state's election predictions. If you were voting who would you vote for?

Probably the most interesting predictions have been the running evaluation of the supermarket polls done in major cities throughout the state. These show the preferences of an intended cross-section of both men and women which supposedly represent all economic classes throughout Idaho.

Now the latest predictions have been released by the Idaho political writers. They pick three Democrats and one Republican to be elected in Tuesday's balloting. Their choices were Democrat Cecil D. Andrus, for governor; Ralph Harding, for United States senator; and Rep. Compton I. White in the First District and Rep. George Hansen in the second.

It will be interesting to see how the Idaho student's selections compare with the political writer's predictions, especially now as we go into the last week of campaigning. Many decisions are supposed to be made this week. Some predictions say up to 30 percent of the vote is still undecided, and that the last-minute political maneuvers will have quite a deal of influence. Perhaps the outcome of the University's ICEP elections today may even be a contributing factor in influencing a share of public opinion.

Students, Get Out, Vote To Express Your Opinion

Election day is drawing nigh and voters throughout the nation must make up their minds concerning candidates and issues. Although election day is Nov. 8 for most of the nation, it is today for the University campus.

The Idaho Center for Education in Politics is giving the Idaho students a chance to express their choices for all the state and congressional candidates with the exception of the Second Congressional District race. As with the regular elections, we hope a good percentage of the qualified voters will make it to the polls. And in this election, all University students are qualified voters. The only requirement is an ASUI student body card.

Polls have been set up at the Administration Building from noon to 5:30 p.m., the Ag Science Building from noon to 5 p.m., and in the SUB from noon to 8 p.m. Results of the races will be posted as they are reported after the close of the polls at 8 p.m.

Thanks go to the IK's, Spurs and Alpha Phi Omega for their help with the mock election.

ICEP mock elections and conventions of the past have anticipated the sentiments of the citizens of Idaho. This may be a good indicator to watch for the coming elections with five men vying for the office of governor. The pollsters can add the U of I election to their collection supermarket polls, man-on-the-street interviews, back room and bar polls and personal hunches. It may even shed some light on that nebulous faction, the undecided vote.

Now, on to the real thing. We can't stress enough how important it is for every citizen to vote in every election, though it be for president or dog catcher. This definitely includes students 21 and over, many of whom are voting in a state election for the first time.

The laws of this state make voting by absentee ballot a tedious task, but it's worth it. In a country that allows free elections, it is the citizen's duty to uphold his rights by exercising his voting privilege.

For information on how to vote by absentee ballot, see a representative of the Committee of 1000 or write to your county auditor.

Whether it's a mock election, the real thing or both, get out and vote!

Complaint About No News Is Nothing New To Arg

The Activities Council Area Director complained to Executive Board last week that the Argonaut has not been giving Activities Council enough coverage. For the editors of the Argonaut it is a very old complaint, one that comes up continually from all parts of the University.

The reason for this is that at one time or another the Argonaut leaves out news from every single organization on campus. This selection, is never directed against any one particular organization.

The one sole criteria by which the editors make their selection is what is most likely to interest the greatest number of readers. The ability to make this selection is one that the editors have been learning for five years or more.

If Executive Board had its way the Argonaut would no longer have the right to make this selection, and as a consequence of such a policy, other groups on campus would find it twice as hard to get anything printed.

We feel that if the publicity on Activities Council is not known around campus it is not entirely our fault, but also partly the fault of the publicity area.

We recognize that we do not have the space, money, or reporters to cover this entire campus. Publicity Area exists to make sure that the information about Activities Council does get around campus.

There is a definite need for an alternate publicity function other than the Argonaut. This is why Publicity Area was created.

But we could do without Publicity Area. If E-Board gave the Argonaut $10,000 more, recruited five more reporters, get rid of the publicity director and the Publicity Area, the Argonaut could cover the entire Activities Council and everyone would be happy.

Dear Jason

Kuehn Supports Arg. Position

Dear Jason:

When I first read the article in Friday's Argonaut I thought someone was pulling my leg. Then I slowly came to the realization that I wasn't having a nightmare—that I was actually witnessing a group of representatives who were literally thumbing their noses at the very Constitution under whose precepts they were elected!

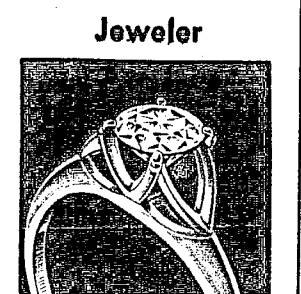

Having been news director for two radio stations as well as a television station, I can speak from authority when I talk about the amount of time necessary to produce good, comprehensive news coverage and I also realize how damnably frustrating it can be when you receive very little cooperation.

It takes a 24 hour effort on behalf of the entire staff to produce a quality product. But we are students too. We have grades to worry about. We can't devote 24 hours a day to the news—we can only do the best possible with the time we do have.

I, for one, believe the Argonaut is doing a superior job with what it has available.

I was under a slightly different situation, however—I also had great amounts of encouragement.

Cool Was Blown Over Argument

Dear Jason,

It seems as if all parties blew their cools about something of the size of a mosquito.

Here are two basic ideas that the parties involved should remember: a newspaper has to be partial and subjective in its editorials and comments and it should be as impartial and complete as possible in the news coverage.

Students, please note one good thing about this whole "affair": E-Board finally got excited about something and can let off all its unproductive steam, thus covering up its own incompetencies and failures. Since the E-Board found out that nobody—neither students nor administration—gives a damn about its "activities" it has to find other things to whine about.

Why do we have to go through this whole farce of student government? Why doesn't anybody get excited about "Big P" student government? The reason is obvious, it is not a lack of school spirit but rather a lack

Roll Call

By Mike Wetheroll

Since my last column regarding the candidacy of Independent Candidate for Governor, Perry Swisher a few eyebrows have raised. Among them, that of my fellow columnist who "writes" for the Argonaut on Friday.

I might remind Miss What's Her-Face that her quotations out of context in no way reflect my feelings on the election and her rank opportunism and obvious ability to distort facts pertaining to my views on the governor's race are impressing no one but herself and her sorority sisters.

To further clarify my point, I do now, and have since the first of August, supported the Democratic candidate for governor, Cecil Andrus. I support Andrus because of several reasons: Number one, he does not have, since the last session of the legislature, supported the Idaho sales tax, which, though I disagree with theoretically, is a practical necessity if we hope to move Idaho out of the dark ages. Number two, the regardless of the attempt of Mr. Swisher and his followers to discredit Mr. Andrus' stand on the sales tax in relation to his selection by the Central Committee after the death of Charles Herndon his position has not changed. Number three, I support Andrus because of his strong stand on a "Head Start" type state kindergarten system, which would properly control the education of pre-school age youngsters and see that they are educated, not baby sat. And number four, he is a Democrat.

Yes, my fellow columnist, I am a Democrat and I am damn proud of the fact but I might also remind you that I am a person who holds some pretty strong opinions on what I consider right and wrong. If my column of last week raised your hopes any as to my ultimate conversion to "the cause," I am sorry. To trifle with your feelings so was undoubtedly most unkind.

I stated what I believed was the case in relation to the election for governor this November and I will state it again. Cecil Andrus will be the next governor of the State of Idaho and he will be governor because the "independent republican" approach which Senator Swisher has taken to this election will allow Andrus to hold the progressive votes within the Democratic party while Swisher holds the vote of those Republicans who might vote for Samuelson out of party loyalty. This will split the Republican vote while the Democratic vote remains intact assuring the election. Need I make my position any clearer, my fellow columnist.

I might add also, my fellow columnist, that though I am a Democrat, I also have my own opinions separate from party. This column reflects those opinions as well as my party beliefs, a fact which I have never disputed. I hold opinions which I know are out of context with the general trend of the Democratic party philosophy and I have stated them before and will again.

I believe in the right of the party member to try to change the attitude of his party when he does not agree with it and that I will do. However, my dear Miss Longteig, I will do it myself and it will be clear that, that is what I think. I prefer that you do not do it for me through pervocations of the type which appeared in your last column.

As for my final statement, Miss Longteig your interpretation of my last column makes a very interesting fairytale... but it does not make you an analyst.

CAMPUS CUTS... A member of that Grand Old Party told me today that if we wanted to stop crime in the streets we should send Republicans to Washington. I suppose that is one way to get the undesirable element off the streets.

of revolutionary fire in the so-called "programs" drafted by E-Board members. Don't try to change anything! Don't try to hurt anybody's feelings! You can only win a student's support by proposing things that are in favor of students and that you try to get through with all possible means, even with strikes, etc. But who remembers election promises after the elections are over?

What does E-Board think it has reported the different activities objectively. On the editorial page and special columns, it is only correct that opposing opinions should be revealed to the readers. It is for the good of the students that the paper presents dissenting and majority opinions.

This year is an election year. (If E-Board doesn't know it) Students are asking about the issues and about the various stands candidates have taken. The Argonaut, as a mass media, is bound to report to their readers what they want to read! Who cares what the activities are in the "Passion Pit" (Dipper) when the state government needs adequate coverage.

It is not E-Board's place to censor the paper before it goes to press. It is the job of the Argonaut staff to edit. E-Board should try to raise the level of the "Sinking Complex" and not try to lower the level of the Argonaut.

Plans Smoker

Phi Mu Alpha, men's music honorary, will meet at 6:30 p.m. today at room 123 of the Music building, announces Mike Fuehrer, TKE, president. A smoker planned at 3 p.m. Sunday at the SUB will be discussed he said.

ASUI ARCHER CLUB—An archery club, sponsored by the ASUI, is being formed this year according to Dr. Frank Schafer, head of recreation curriculum. The club is open to men and women students. Here they are shown practicing for the last night's match. The club plans to arrange intercollegiate matches as inter-campus matches, Dr. Schafer said.

Archery Club Plans Third Shoot Thursday

An Archery Club, organizing here, will hold its third shoot of the year at 3:30 p.m. Thursday at the Field House. Scoring will begin at 4:10 p.m.

The Idaho Archer's Club is being organized to promote archery among both men and women students, said Dr. Frank Schafer.

The club is open to faculty and spouses and wives of students.

At Thursday's Shoot, Officers for the club will be elected. Those nominated are: for president: Dave Myers, off campus, and Mike Cryder, Kappa Sig.

Two additional members of the Board of Directors will be elected at the shoot.

At a shoot two weeks ago, 72 arrows were shot with the following winners:

The Sighted Bow (16 inch Chicago, 20 yds.) was won by Myers with a score of 436, followed by Gary Gillespie.

The Bare Bow (16 inch Chicago 20 yds) was won by Cryder with a score of 363, followed by Byers, 319, Bob Wennstrom, off campus, 314, and Jim McManus, Lindley, 288.

The Novice (48 inch Chicago, 20 yds) was won by Stan Jeppesen, Borah, followed by Steve Fields, Farmhouse, 456.

The bare bow has no sight in contrast to the others. The Chicago is the type of target used, with the number of inches in diameter. The 48 inch target is commonly used in Archery classes.

Interested persons can get further information from Dr. Schafer in Room 201 of Memorial Gym.

Plans are underway for an indoor range for the way, he said.

Gem Deadlines Set

Deadlines for Gem pictures have been named. Women are to have their pictures taken before Nov. 15 and proofs are to be returned by Nov. 30. Men's pictures must be taken before Feb. 15 and proofs be returned by Feb. 22, 1967. If there are any questions, please contact June Lay Campbell, 6368 or Jane Miesbach, Steel House, 6262.

Knitting Lessons Start Tomorrow

Knitting lessons will be started Wednesday at 7 p.m. sponsored by the Arts and Crafts Committee. The lessons will be taught by Mrs. Ruth King from the Needle Nook downtown. The cost of the lessons is $3 for six lessons. The lessons are for beginners and for those who have already started knitting. Those interested are asked to bring knitting needles and practice yarn.

Seniors to Meet

The Senior Class Extended Board will meet Thursday, Nov. 3, at 7 p.m. in the Appaloosa Room of the SUB. An ASUI Executive Board member will be present at the meeting to explain the function of the extended board in the ASUI structure.

Every living group is requested to elect an interested senior delegate to attend each monthly meeting of the extended board.

Corps Volunteers At Idaho Nov. 14

Two Peace Corps representatives will be on campus during the week of Nov. 14-18.

Both representatives have already been in the Peace Corps. Patricia A. Ebert of San Diego, Calif. was assigned to Brazil. As a Peace Corps volunteer in the state of Mato Grosso, Brazil, Pat served in a Rural Public Health project.

She lived in a small rural community of 2,000 people and worked in the local public health post. Pat also taught health classes in the local schools. She received a BA degree in social sciences from San Diego State College in 1964.

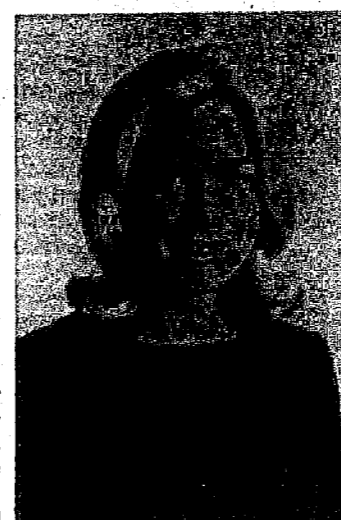

Steven N. Carter, the second representative is also from San Diego and attended Pasadena City College and Stanford University receiving a B.A. degree in political science in 1964. Carter was assigned to Ecuador.

During his Ecuador assignment, he worked in the formation and management of savings and loan cooperatives which provided poorer people with credit for development of agriculture and small businesses.

He also advised the cooperatives in accounting and taught administrative procedures and democratic processes.

As a side project, Carter conducted discussion groups in English to adults.

The two representatives will conduct interviews and testing in the Student Union building as well as talk to students about Peace Corps in the SUB.

erable solutions were it not for the world's most crucial and paralyzing threat to survival: the bitter and irreconcilable rivalry between the free world and the communist world. So incompatible and hostile is this rivalry that voyages in space are watched with jaundiced eye. Startling discoveries of more destructive nuclear A bombs and H bombs by either side are soon learned by the other through espionage tactics of a low order. And when new nations are born, the progeny of our world wide movement of nationalism, there, standing beside the cradles, are the jealous great powers ready to rob them and annex these infants as allies. Time is not allowed new nations to reach any stage of maturity independent and unhampered by international rivalries.

Why have I rambled on so long about a world engulfed in great cataclysmic revolutions and said so little about the role of the United Nations in it? My objective in the midst of this madness is to make the point that, in so discordant a world, unity of purpose and collective action in the political realm of international relations is nearly impossible. The United Nations is a creature of history; it reflects the reality of a world fragmented within itself. It is the shattered world that divides the United Nations and not the United Nations that divides the world.

Even When She Answers, He Still Gets the Busy Signal.

DEAR REB:

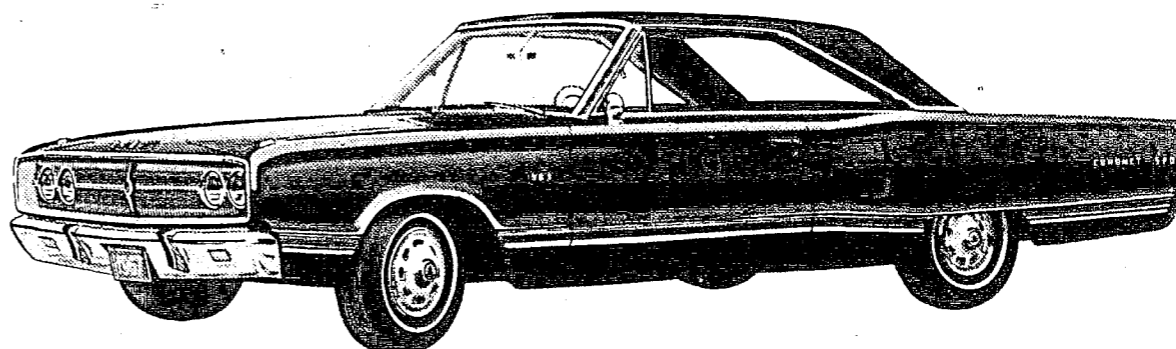

Lately, every time I call my girl, she's either "not in" or "not interested." Last week I called her 23 times and couldn't even make a coffee date. The trouble started when she started dating a guy who owns a Dodge Coronet. Now she goes to parties with him, dances, football games, etc. Do you think I should call her again, or should I forget her and break her heart?

BAD CONNECTIONS

DEAR BAD CONNECTIONS:

I think your next call should be to your Dodge Dealer. Then make a date to see the '67 Coronet, the car that's breaking hearts all over America. You'll find that its good looks are pretty hard to resist. Now, before you break your girl's heart, give her another break. Ask her to go for a ride in your new Coronet. I think she'll get the signal.

Sincerely, Reb

Here's the heartbreaker... '67 Dodge Coronet 500. A campus favorite with its great new looks, ride, and list of extras that are standard. Like bucket seats with either a companion seat in the middle or a center console. Plush carpeting. Padded instrument panel. Padded sun visors. Seat belts, front and rear. A choice of Six or V8 models. And lots more. So get with '67 Dodge Coronet and get busy.

Dr. Hause Reviews Status, History Of United Nations

(Editor's Note: This article is a two part article about the United Nations written by Dr. E. Malcolm Hause, professor history and political science, emeritus, concerning the progress of the United Nations since its birth 21 years ago and its present status in the world today. The study was written at the request of the United Nations Committee at the University.)

of age and stands astraddle the globe in diabolic strength. The might of nuclear powers equipped with over-kill potentialities is fantastic: the equivalent of seven tons of TNT for every man, woman and child on Earth! President Lyndon Johnson has observed, "Indeed for the first time death in an afternoon is literally possible for most of the northern hemisphere."

This first generation of the "Government of Man" under the Charter has been made more complex by the race for space. For nine years now the genius of space have been subjected to all kinds of bombardments by an assortment of fabulous missiles, capsules, rockets, winged craft, aluminum balloons, TV robots, weather eyes, undreamed of before sputnik. The frontiers of our knowledge about space are being pushed back against our stellar and quasar horizons. Even the back sides of our moon and Mars have been rudely exposed to the stares of the curious. Venus may hide her secrets but little longer. Do I hear old Jupiter muttering, "Oh, to be young again?"

And if nuclear devices, space hardware, Van Allen Belts, cosmic storms, strontium 90, were not enough hazards to alarm earthmen, greater turmoil is stirred by the people of the world engaging in a headlong crusade for freedom, equality, civil rights and a better life. The underprivileged, downtrodden, enslaved races of mankind will stand for no more of these indignities. They insist upon running before they have learned to walk. They no longer tolerate the old imperialism of capitalism, nor the neo-colonialism of communism. They are hungry and hunger breeds strife and strange bedfellows. The population explosion of this generation is as sinister in its implication as is the threat of nuclear war. Calcutta, India, alone could reach an astronomical total of 66 millions by the year 2000. Already four out of ten families there live in the streets. They are born there, eat there, sleep there, marry there, and die there in the streets without benefit of four walls and a floor for a home. Now all these incalculable complexities might yield to some total.

Vandals Riddled With Many Mistakes, 28-7

Frosh Lose Also To TVCC, 38-26

By TIM RARICK
Argonaut Sports Writer

The University of Idaho Vandal Babes unleashed a sparkling passing attack in the second half, but they had spotted the Treasure Valley Chukars too much of an early lead and ended up on the short end in Ontario, Ore., Saturday night, 38-26.

Paced by the rushing of 217-pound halfback Jim Evenson, the Chukars piled up a 32-7 halftime lead. Treasure Valley scored first when Evenson crashed over from the two for his first of three touchdowns for the night. A pass play from Piquet to Nelson good for 38 yards made the score 13-0 in the first quarter.

After Evenson had broken through the Vandal defense for a 43 yard gallop, and a touchdown, Vandal quarterback Steve Olson got the Babes on the scoreboard with a 22-yard pass to end Jerry Hendren. However, Treasure Valley scored twice more that quarter on a long drive and an intercepted pass runback, and the Vandal Babes were on the short end at halftime.

The second half belonged almost entirely to the Idaho Frosh.

Cottonwood Reigns Supreme Sunday

Thank God for assistants! That's all I have to say after my undesirable weekend in Boise. Your dear ole sports editor made it back in time to just say a few words in this issue.

I had a big dream over the weekend and the bad part of it is that it was true. I was stranded with four other unfortunates in good ole Cottonwood, Idaho (Mick Wimer's Wonderland) and could not leave that place of oblivion until yesterday afternoon.

Our car literally blew up and thanks to the Lambda Chi pit crew I was able to hobble back into Moscow. Don't knock this town either because I finally found a place that would make you appreciate this great metropolis.

I stayed at the famous Silver Dollar Motel Sunday night and all I had to keep me company was the local Conservation Job Corps which last week after they had received their pay checks tried to take the place apart.

The night was fairly quiet in this great western town as I settled down with my roommates for a couple of Sneaky Pete's, some chips, and watch the tube. Bosomy Elke Sommer was in a movie called "The Prize" and that definitely helped the cause for a while but soon the excitement of this great town was too much for me so I decided to catch a few winks.

Before I could get to sleep, my roommate had a guitar and banged out a few bars of "Gloria" and combine that with Elke Sommer and most anyone would be ready for the rack.

Finally the next afternoon we pulled out and we should give that hotel clerk a real pat on the back. She didn't charge us anything extra for the stay over and she even let her daughter take us guys down town for a bite to eat.

I think the reason was because she had a son going to Gonzaga and she more or less understood the problems of college kids.

If you ever have a chance to stop in Cottonwood stop at the Dew Drop Inn. That place makes the Brass Lamp look sick when it comes to pure fun and frolic.

Argonaut Sports Editor

By JIM POORE
Argonaut Sports Writer

It's that time again. The season when football coaches drive armored cars around, send their wives and children to mother for a few months, check up on unemployment benefits, and test their food before they eat.

The time of year when alumnus stand around at parties with a bottle of scotch in one hand and a rope in the other yelling about what's wrong with "their" football team.

The head-hunting season on coaches opened in real force last weekend and things could get a little nasty around the nation before its finished. The alums are on the warpath.

When the alums go on the warpath its not a very pretty sight. Geronimo and Crazy Horse could take a few lessons from these boys. If they would have been at Auschwitz there would be a serious shortage of Bar Mitzvs today.

But its something that all football coaches know exist and have to face. If you are having a losing year then the season is going to be like a bad dream—one that you just can't seem to push out of your mind.

Idaho is having one of those years, and so is Washington State (nobody really cares about Washington State but its necessary to mention it to show how much they suck). Right now Steve Musseau and Bert probably have got that empty feeling in the pit of their stomach—the one you get when you visit the dentist.

Musseau is going to have a lot to deal with in the next couple of weeks. The meat of his schedule is gone, the games that everyone wanted Idaho to win. This year that the Vandals were going to walk over the likes of Washington, Oregon, Washington State and Oregon State. But it didn't happen.

Nobody knows why. The games have been close—just like they were last year. Musseau doesn't know the answer and neither does anyone else. After the Oregon game, Musseau said if he knew what was wrong with the team he would correct it.

Against Oregon you can't be sure why the Vandals lost (the obvious reason being it that they were out-scored).

Maybe its just Idaho luck. Maybe the day Idaho was dedicated Haley's comet flew over. Whatever it is, one thing is sure—its not all Coach Musseau's fault.

Right now Idaho is where they were last year—with five losses. If they are going to finish with as good a record as last year they will have to win the last three. They could do it easily, if the team lifts itself out of phlegmatic condition it seems to have fallen into.

If they do, then San Jose State, Weber State and Montana will be a little more than flies on the back of an elephant. Three straight wins for Musseau might leave the alums clawing at the door, instead of busting it down.

Then maybe they could turn their concern in another direction. They could stand around at parties with a bottle of scotch in one hand, a rope in the other and a meek, little science teacher between them. And they could be yelling at him, wondering why the new Science Building isn't done.

Oregon Attack Overpowers Idaho At Bronco Stadium

By JIM POORE
Argonaut Sports Writer

Oregon threw a racehorse offense at the University of Idaho Saturday—that was powerful enough to stop the Vandals 28-7 at Bronco Stadium in Boise.

It was a bad day for Idaho all the way around. The defense leaked more than it usually does, Steve Garman at the 18 and then danced, side-stepped and bulled his way into the end zone. Dar-Ray McDonald ran for 92 yards but wasn't as potent as he usually is, and a pair of Vandal passers were on but their receivers weren't.

A pair of sophomore Ducks, Mike Barnes and Claxton Welch, were the downfall of the more experienced Vandals. Welch scrambled for 107 yards rushing while Barnes hit consistently through the air to roll up 164 yards passing.

Oregon jumped off to a 7-0 lead at the end of the first half and the battle looked like it would settle down to the kind of thriller the two teams have produced the last four years. But the second half Oregon struck for two touchdowns in the third quarter and another one in the fourth before the Vandals could push one over.

When Idaho did score, it was broke over right tackle for the Mc Donald. The big senior took 42-yard touchdown romp with a short pass from quarterback

Steve Garman at the 18 and then danced, side-stepped and bulled his way into the end zone. Dar-Ray McDonald ran for 92 yards but wasn't as potent as he usually is, and a pair of Vandal passers were on but their receivers weren't.

The Ducks scored first on something less than a normal play. Barnes fumbled near Idaho's goal line late in the first quarter and guard Tom Wooten minutes later Kent Grote capped a 28-yard Oregon drive, that had started after Idaho had fumbled, when he ran 13 yards for a TD. Mike Brundage added his third point after to make it 21-0.

Idaho's two quarterbacks — Garman and John Foruria — combined to thread the Ducks' secondary for 153 yards passing.

Garman, who took over for Foruria in the second half, handled the Vandals extremely well in the fourth quarter despite the fact that nobody could hang onto the ball. Passes that should have been caught weren't, making it hard to keep a drive going.

Five straight IC4A cross country championships were won by the Kennedys of Michigan State. Henry Kennedy won the title in 1955 and 1956. His brother Fordy won the title the next three years.

NYU's 1966-67 basketball team will have only two seniors, Mal Graham, the team's leading scorer, and Bruce Kaplan.

When it comes to politics, is big business a Mugwump?

Some sharp tongues define "mugwump" as a political animal with his "mug" on one side of the fence, his "wump" on the other. Clearer heads claim it a stamp of independence. The definition and corporate stance Western Electric takes is strictly nonpartisan.

But nonpartisan as WE must be, we recognize that, to be an effective citizen, the individual must become a political partisan. And it means being more active than just showing up at the polls. So we do our best to encourage our 170,000 people to express their political leanings — in whatever direction.

We do it by sponsoring a "Democracy in Action" program that takes no sides, but explores all angles. WE people — white collar, blue collar — lead it. Long before elections, courses are given at WE locations. Background subjects include such Soc. and Eco. considerations as — The Persistent Problem of Unemployment... The Negro's Long Struggle... America's Balance of Payments. Booklets are handed out that answer questions like: "How can I get started in politics? How can I use my talents to serve my party?"

Before elections, Back Your Party rallies are held. Bunting and posters hung. Politicians from both national parties are invited to speak. A dialogue develops.

Thousands of WE people participate. It stirs up their political juices. Helps make them better informed, ergo: better citizens.

As a national company, in the Bell System to make ever-better communications equipment, we believe such basic communications are vital. It's also fun!
