Faculty Oil Tank Causes Fire in Trailer Park

A fire was reported at 7:40 p.m. Friday at a trailer park behind the Delta Sig house. An over-heated oil tank caused the trailer of Carl Brood to burn beyond repair.

The wife of a University Student in the vicinity of the burning trailer said that she smelled smoke, and upon investigating the trailer called the fire department.

Other students aroused by the fire ripped out the oil tank and butane tanks and disconnected the wiring. Firemen arrived shortly afterwards with gas masks due to the excessive smoke, put out the fire and removed burned clothing. Brood was apparently at work during this time. Firemen said that the heating stove exploded.

At 8:15 p.m. firemen received another call. This time an over-heated heater at 630 Ash St. had caused some smoke damage. Firemen removed the source of the smoke and little damage was done to the residence.

Lee Davis, co-chairman of Off-Campus Housing remarked "Not bad. Two fires within yards of University buildings in less than thirty minutes."

More Arrests Made Friday

Two Charged With "Pot" Possession

By CHRIS L. SMITH
Argonaut Political Editor
Steven Reed, 18, and Richard B. Hensley, 18, both University of Idaho freshmen, were arrested Friday and charged with possession of a narcotic drug, specifically marijuana.

The two were bound over to Latah County Probate Court and appeared before Probate Judge R.J. Tunnicliff, who set bond at $1000 for each. Reed posted bond and was released within the hour. Hensley has since posted bond and been released.

The arrests came at 5:00 Friday evening in the Wallace Complex. Reed was taken into custody by Moscow police officers in Lindley Hall, where he lives. Hensley was arrested in Graham Hall. Reed is a native of Nampa, and Hensley's home is in Lewiston.

According to Moscow Police Chief, Captain C.H. Hudson, the arrests were a result of "information obtained from people previously arrested by the Moscow police."

"The investigation continues," Hudson stated. "We are mainly concerned with getting the suppliers. We can definitely state," he said, "that if a person has dispensed marijuana he will be arrested."

Under Idaho law, enacted during the last session of the legislature, possession of a narcotic drug, which marijuana is considered to be, is punishable by not over 10 years in prison.

That same law provides that possession of a narcotic drug for sale or the sale of a narcotic drug is punishable by not more than 15 years in the state penitentiary, as does furnishing a narcotic drug to a minor. The importation of a narcotic drug across a state line into the state of Idaho carries a 10 year penalty.

Other legal action is possible because federal laws also prohibit the possession of marijuana, and federal intervention in local cases is possible. The Moscow police have stated that federal officers have not intervened in this case. Federal intervention usually takes place only on the request of the local authority.

"We now have about 85 people under investigation," the Moscow Police Chief stated. "The lists of people seem to snowball. One person is contacted and he gives us 5 more names."

"We have even had people who we didn't know about come in and confess to using drugs, and have gotten names from them," Hudson said.

"As of now, we are not arresting the users," he said. "The University is still considering its policy toward drug use, and the prosecutor is also still trying to decide whether action should be taken against the users."

Young Republicans Meet Next Monday

Idaho's Young Republican Club has scheduled a meeting for Monday, Dec. 11 at the Rathouse in Moscow. Several state leaders will be featured speakers. Among them are Idaho Secretary of State Pete Cenarrusa and Republican National Committeewoman Mrs. Steel Barnett.

Also on the roster are Bill Maxwell, Executive Director of the Idaho Republican Party and Jim Galler, administrative assistant to Jim McClure. Final speaker will be Roland Wilbur, the Finance Chairman for the Idaho Republican Party.

The meeting will be an informal affair, and there will be a discount on pizzas. The event is being organized by the Young Republicans, whose president is Pam Nelson, Sigma Nu. Vice-presidents of the organization are Jim Willms, Upham and Sid Smith, Shoup. Recording secretary is Diane Benedict, Alpha Chi, and corresponding secretary is Sue Dunlop, Hays.

Off-Campus Housing

The Off-Campus Housing Committee will meet Thursday, Dec. 7 at 12 noon in the East Room of the SUB. All off-campus students are invited to attend. Work will begin on the housing survey at this meeting.

"If things go right," the chief stated, "we should have this particular case cleaned up within another month."

"However," he said, "I feel that the investigation will never really stop. Whether we arrest the users in this investigation, I feel sure that after this if anyone is caught action will definitely be taken against them."

"We have not only encountered marijuana in our investigations," he said, "but there have been amphetamines (speed) and barbiturates (goofballs)."

Friday's arrests follow a series of charges filed on Nov. 12, in which two University of Idaho students, and five other persons were charged with narcotics offenses.

At that time the Moscow Police Department stated that the investigation had been in process for over a year.

The people arrested at that time have either been arraigned or have requested continuances of their cases. After preliminary hearing, the cases will be heard before District Judge Tom Felton of Moscow. Trial dates have not been set for the cases, but Felton's office reports.

Concert Features Charles Walton

German Leider will highlight the faculty concert to be presented by Charles Walton, who has returned to the Idaho music faculty after studying last year at the Academy of Music in Vienna, Austria. The concert is set for 8 p.m. tonight at the Music Building Recital Hall.

Walton will be accompanied by David Tyler on the piano and assisted by the New Art Players, and Ronald Walton on the French horn.

Arriving in Vienna in mid-April of last year, Walton started his studies with an audition at the Academy of Music, which is affiliated with the University of Vienna. Commenting on his leave of absence from the University, Walton said, "I missed Idaho, because I like teaching. I am thrilled about teaching and performing; I seem to need both of them. Stimulation of a college campus is not the same as just studying in a city."

Walton had lessons at the Academy four times a week plus a coaching lesson for voice and in German Leider and oratory with a leading tenor at a Viennese State Opera.

On his University pass Walton was able to stand at the leading opera for 6 cents four times a week. Some of his fellow students would be waiting at 3 p.m., for standing room area.

"Students were so different," said Walton, "for everything was music. If a voice major, the student would talk about nothing but voice and was very, very critical of a performer. The students are very involved in their studies, some having already picked out the opera house in which they wish to perform," he said.

Lessons felt like you were auditioning for the Met four times a week," he said. Walton feels that most of the students were very serious people, "living in terrible conditions," such as unheated rooms. Commenting on the Leider, Walton said that "it is so familiar that the audience brings books to follow along with the singer."

The Leider is steeped in tradition, and in the language of the "native sons."

Tradition means Schubert, Mozart, Beethoven, and Strauss. "This is what we don't understand in America. We are just growing our tradition, least of all in our song," he said. "That's why we still hear the German Leider in America."

The Leider is taken from folk tradition, based on folk idioms, and according to Walton, "all great songs come from folk idiom—into ourselves for inspiration."

"As soon as I have the money," he said, "I will go back to Vienna, but not for a year."

The program for tonight is as follows: Cantata 189, Bach; Widmung, Der Nussbaum, Dein Angesicht, Mondnacht, Schone Fremde, and Schumann. Also featured will be Lenski's Arla (Eugene Onegin), Tschalkowsky: Verborgenheit, Auf ein altes Bild, Lebe wohl, Auch kleine Dinge, Verschwiegene Liebe, Der Tambour, Wolf; Haiku Settings, Mel Powell and Canticle III, Britten.

AN OVER HEATED OIL STOVE was the cause of the fire that burned a trailer beyond repair Friday evening. The burning trailer, located behind the Delta Sig house, aroused students living in the vicinity to rush to the trailer and pull out the burning oil tank before the fire department arrived.

New Queens Begin Reigns Over Weekend

NANCY WILLIAMS, Gamma Phi, was crowned ATO Esquire Girl Saturday night. The queen is chosen by "Esquire Magazine" from the photos of finalists chosen by the ATOs.

"I CAN'T BELIEVE IT!" exclaimed Patty Ryan, Alpha Chi, when she was crowned Navy Ball Queen Friday night at the SUB. The queen was chosen from six finalists.

Two new queens were chosen this week-end to reign for the year of 1967-68. Patty Ryan, Alpha Chi, was crowned Navy Color Guard Girl, and Nancy Williams, Gamma Phi, ATO Esquire Girl.

Patty was crowned at the Navy Ball Friday night in the SUB Ballroom, to the theme of "Beyond the Seas." She was among five other finalists: Margie Franklin, Theta; Christy George, Forney; Elise Meyers, Gamma Phi; Kathy Morgan, DG; and Cathy Clomens, Kappa.

At intermission, the finalists walked through an archway of swords to the stage. Silver bracelets were presented to the court, and Patty received a gold bracelet from Janet Perri, Kappa, Navy Color Guard Girl of 1966-67. Janet also presented Patty with a dozen red roses.

Col. Case then crowned Patty and had the traditional dance with her. Her escort was Jim Amos, TKE.

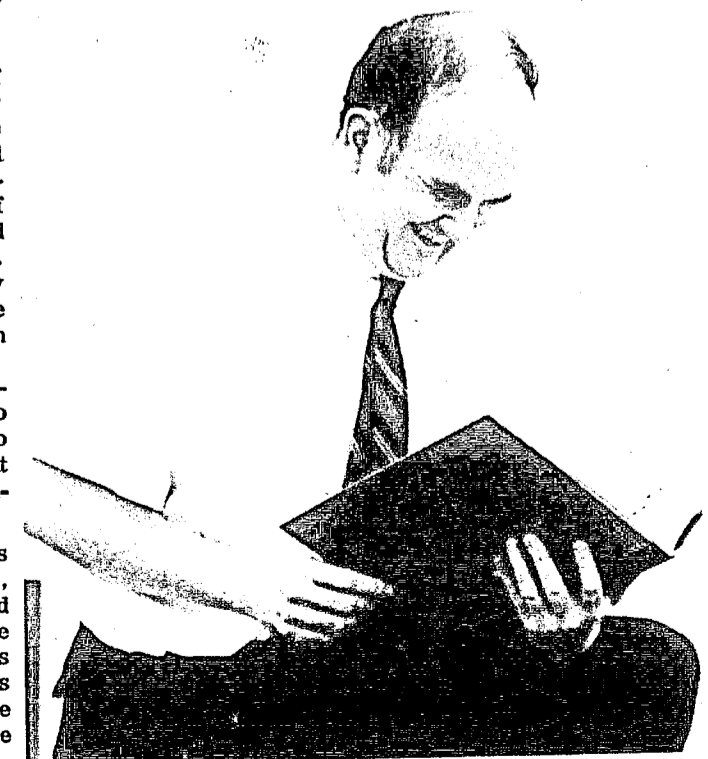

"I was really shocked," Patty said. "I hadn't expected to win at all. I only hope I can do my best to serve and represent the Navy ROTC here at the University."

Saturday night, Nancy Williams was chosen ATO Esquire Girl, at the annual Esquire Dance held at the chapter house. The theme of the dance was "Esq. Tours the Past," and each class was responsible for decorating one room in accordance with the theme.

During intermission, Nancy was escorted to a stage, along with the four other finalists: Marilyn Hite, Kappa; Karlene Gellings, French; Helen Van Beck, Oleson; and Becky Hoffmaster, Houston.

On the stage was a throne, with Leslie Peterson, Tri Delta, Esquire Girl of 1966-67, and Doug Roberts, ATO President, standing beside it. Roberts had a large framed picture in his hand wrapped in tissue paper, and upon unveiling it, announced Nancy as new Esquire Girl.

CHARLES WALTON, tenor and David Tyler, piano, will be featured in the Faculty Recital at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Music Building.—(Bower Photo)

Regents' Policy Commended

Editor's Note: The following Editorial appeared in the November 18th edition of the Idaho Observer, a Idaho weekly newspaper from Boise. In the article, Observer Editor, Samuel H. Day, comments about the resolution passed by the Board of Regents clarifying the policy on campus speakers. The policy Day refers to applies to the University of Idaho.

The heights to which higher education has advanced in Idaho since the recent past were illustrated once again this month when the State Board of Education, following the precepts of John Milton, Thomas Jefferson and others who have argued eloquently through the ages freedom of inquiry, opened the doors for anyone to espouse any cause on a public campus in this state.

The new campus speakers policy, forged by the faculties of the two state universities and adopted without dissent by the board at its Pocatello meeting, is as liberal as that of any educational institution in the United States. It restricts speakers only to the extent of requiring that orderly procedures be followed in scheduling and staging their appearances. It provides specifically that institutional controls "should not be used as a device of censorship."

The policy may be contrasted with the position taken not so many years ago, but since modified, by such an illustrious institution as the University of Washington, which denied the privilege of speaking on the campus to "an individual who is a declared representative of an organization that has been placed on the United States attorney general's list of subversive organizations."

The lasting impact of the new policy, despite its liberal implications, became apparent this week when it received an endorsement from Gov. Don Samuelson, who only last winter was wistfully expressing a desire to declare a "kick a beatnik in the seatnik" week in Idaho.

Idaho was following a national trend in liberalizing its campus speakers policy. But there were ample warning signs that the trend may soon be reversed by the tensions and frustrations of a growing war. In view of that, the clear and uncompromising position taken by this state can only enhance the prestige of Idaho institutions in a national academic community highly conscious of the growing threat to its freedoms.

It could happen now in Idaho, a state not noted for its toleration of unpopular beliefs, only because of qualitative growth which has occurred at the state universities. This has in turn imparted new heart and new muscle to the State Board of Education. The new speakers policy is just one more manifestation of a new sense of purpose that has come quite recently to higher education in Idaho.

It is another dividend of Idaho, increased investment in higher education.

PERFORMING ARTS COMMITTEE

CANCELLED: "THE LIVING SPOONFUL"

Mortar Boarder Line

I heard a few words of wisdom from Bob Young SAE, a few weeks ago. According to Bob there are two classes of people — thinkers and non-thinkers. After a residence of 3 1/2 years at this institution, I would like to expand his classification and say there are three classes of people — those who think and express their thoughts; those who think, but do not express their thoughts; and those who simply don't think.

It seems to me that our University contains too many members of the second class. And I refer to students and faculty members alike.

How often do you converse with professors on matters other than the course they are teaching? How often do you read articles they have written? How many times have you attended a meeting where absolutely nothing was accomplished because the members would not speak up? How many times have you felt relief when a professor passed out an objective test covering only the specifics set forth in the text or lecture? How many times have you complained, or heard another complain, that you get more satisfaction out of discussion and interaction with other students and faculty than out of class?

Then ask yourself, how many times have you had an idea, a good idea, about student government, current events, ways of improving living conditions, a recent book, etc — and how many times have you communicated your idea to those who could benefit from it or do something about it? I would be willing to bet that in most cases the answer is not very many times.

For some reason we are not encouraged or stimulated to be creative. Not only are we losing out on the experience we could gain through our own self-expression, but we are losing out on the chance to gain ideas from the other over 7,000 minds around us. Many of us are letting a one-in-a-lifetime opportunity go to waste. I think we need to ask ourselves if we are shirking our responsibility as a University. Don't we have some responsibility to be productive and expressive? I think we do.

And now can we ask ourselves why there is such a reluctance of members of this University to express themselves. Possibly we lack confidence due to inexperience, maybe we're lazy; maybe we've just never really thought about it; or maybe we don't feel anybody really cares.

Probably the best solution to the problem would be to change our entire system of education, and move toward a program of independent study. However, for the present, I think we could benefit by simply utilizing more fully the resources we have.

I refer to student faculty forums and the Argonaut. From these mediums we could not only gain insight into other's points of view and areas of interest, but also gain experience in expressing our own ideas.

I would like to suggest that our ASUI Executive Board be responsible for a column in every Argonaut. Its purpose would be to keep the student body informed of what is happening in student government and also to stimulate thinking among students on current campus issues. I would also like to suggest that our faculty do more writing for the Argonaut—on campus issues, political issues, social issues, new insights into their respective fields, new teaching methods, their ideas on anything. In addition, I think we should have more coffee hours at the SUB with faculty and students. Maybe instructors should hold regular conference hours there.

Wouldn't it be interesting and beneficial to pick up the Argonaut and read an essay by Mr. Cooper on the possible effects of the British devaluation of the pound, or Gary Vest's opinion of why the University should or should not expel students for non-academic reasons, or an interpretation of a current art display in the SUB, or an article fully explaining the tuition raise next semester, or your opinion on . . . Then and only then can we begin to think of ourselves as participants in an academic community.

Studies Office Conducts Pass-Fail, Option Survey

AMHERST, Mass. (I.P.)—The Office of Institutional Studies recently conducted a national survey of the "pass-fail" option at the request of the chairman of a Faculty Senate subcommittee on the campus of the University of Massachusetts.

Results: At Pomona College, juniors and seniors have had the pass-fail option available in elective courses outside their major for the past eight years. All freshman seminars are graded pass-fail. A student is allowed up to two courses a semester under this option with a maximum of four such courses to count toward graduation.

The respondent felt that although a few students try to manipulate the option to improve their grade point average (GPA)—neither pass nor fail is registered in a student's cumulative average—valid uses far outnumber possible abuses. . . making the program a general success."

At Ohio State University, seniors, graduate students and professional students have been allowed to take certain courses under the pass-fail system in selected schools and colleges including the Graduate School and the Schools of Medicine and Education for "several years."

Included are all courses in Medicine and specified courses either in or outside the student's major, e.g., thesis, minor problems, special seminars. There is no specific policy on the number of such courses a student may take and while the students will receive credit hours for an "S" (satisfactory) neither the "S" nor the "E" counts in his GPA. The respondent regarded their program, as outlined above, successful.

The California Institute of Technology began a pass-fail grading system in the fall of 1964 as an experiment to "encourage the development of an attitude in which a student sees himself as a self-guided scholar rather than as a competing grade-getter."

Their program is unique in that there is no real "option" since all courses in the standard freshman curriculum, which all freshmen must take, are graded this way but no upper division courses (with one exception) are available under the pass-fail option. This policy was so successful that it became permanent in May 1966 as a result of a "unanimous less one" faculty vote.

Among the reasons for adopting this policy permanently was the fact that the freshman attrition rate decreased considerably and that freshmen anxiety was not as evident. The morale among sophomores who had participated in the pass-fail program was also considerably higher. One negative effect was that some freshmen had "so conditioned themselves to the topwards that they suffered a real psychological shock when these awards, in the form of grades, were not obtainable."

Of the remaining six respondents presently offering the pass-fail option, only Stanford University, with one year of experience, has had this policy in effect longer than one term. At all six schools the option was available to both juniors and seniors and at all but one to sophomores as well.

All freshmen at Stanford and the University of California (Berkeley) and second term freshmen at Tufts University are allowed to participate in this program. At only two of six institutions was the option limited to selected schools, but four of these respondents limited the option to courses outside the student's major.

At Berkeley students were allowed to take courses in their major for a pass-fail grade with their major department's consent. At Oberlin College, although the option is generally available only in courses outside the student's major, "a faculty member may elect to have the Satisfactory-Unsatisfactory grade option apply for all students in a course. Enrollment in such a course does not deprive the student of his option."

At Tufts, Mount Holyoke College and Lehigh University, students were also allowed to take distribution requirements under the pass-fail option although at Lehigh foreign languages are excluded.

At all six institutions a student was limited to one pass-fail course per term. Mount Holyoke restricts the number of such courses in a student's college career to three, Lehigh to four and Tufts to eight. At none of these schools was a grade of "Pass" entered in the student's GPA, but at Tufts, Lehigh and Mount Holyoke "Fail" is included in the GPA.

Although not included in this survey, Princeton University and the University of California (Santa Cruz) have also had some experience with the pass-fail grading option. The pass-fail option at Princeton, in effect since Spring term 1966, is available to all undergraduates. Only one elective course a year (outside the student's major) may be taken for a pass-fail grade.

It is also interesting to note that if a student fails to take advantage of the option in any given academic year, he can not pick up the option later. Faculty members report only the regular grade; the Registrar's Office changes the grade to pass or fail and enters it as such on the student's record. No record is kept of the student's regular grade.

At Santa Cruz, an experimental evaluation program has been in effect for the past five years. As stated in their 1966-67 Bulletin, "Evaluation will take three forms: faculty comment, comprehensive examinations, and grades."

Concerning grades, "Students in lower division courses normally will be graded 'Pass' or 'Fail.' Students in upper division courses will be graded 'Pass' or 'Fail' except that a Board of Studies, in courses required for the major in its field, may assign letter grades to students pursuing a major in that field."

Thus while the pass-fail is only one aspect of their evaluation scheme, they have had considerable experience with this method of grading. Their impression is that pass-fail does "give students courage to explore" and that while many suffer some disorientation at the start, most adjust and learn to "work for themselves." There are, however, unresolved transcript and class rank problems, especially regarding the draft.

Conclusions: Most of the respondents felt it was too early to judge how successful their policy had been. One school, however, although feeling it was too early to justify any firm judgment, felt that all students were not using the pass-fail as had been intended.

While the faculty had hoped students would use it as an opportunity to "explore new fields and broaden the base of their education," many students appeared to be using it to schedule a "safe" pass and reduce study and grade pressure.

Although there are many variations on the regulations governing pass-fail, several practices seem widespread. Generally, freshmen are not allowed the option. The student is usually only allowed one course a term, frequently with a maximum number of credits to be earned this way, and then not generally in his major field.

Practice seems split on whether it should be available in all schools. There is some indication that individual schools or departments should be allowed to decide which courses will be available. And finally, although a pass does not affect the GPA, fail often does.

'Peace Committee' Meets Tonight

The Committee for the Peaceful Solution of World Problems will meet at 7:30 p.m. today in the SUB to consider a proposal to affiliate itself with the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

The Committee will also consider plans for a draft vigil in downtown Moscow to be held in conjunction with the Dec. 4-10 Draft Resistance Mobilization Week. Plans for the group's participation in the spring teach-in will be reviewed along with a program designed to encourage parents not to buy children war toys for Christmas.

A committee will present a preliminary statement for consideration which will be distributed in downtown Moscow during the evening shopping hours. It is hoped that parents will recognize the incongruity of celebrating the birth of Christ by giving their children replicas of guns, missiles, and tanks.

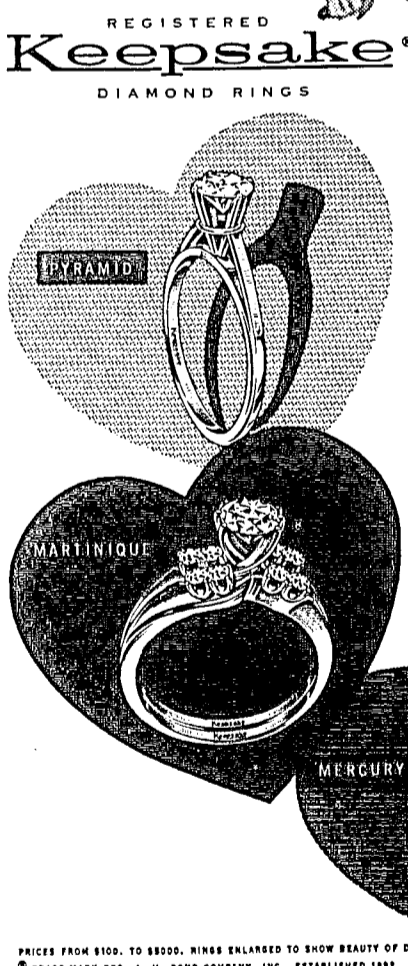

Formed in 1913 by Jane Addams, the League has 18 national sections throughout the world. The United States section is dedicated to the education of the public in non-violent ways of working for peace, freedom, and justice. Such efforts involve the support of the U.N., of world-wide disarmament, the easing of tensions on all fronts, and the promotion of human rights and civil liberties.

In addition, the League supports legislative lobbying in Congress and state legislatures. Sponsors of the League include Ralph Bunche, Pearl Buck, Marian Anderson, A. Philip Randolph, Norman Thomas, and Dr. Benjamin Spock.

Electrifying Opportunities at Southern California Edison

- Electrical Engineers
- Mechanical Engineers
- Civil Engineers
- Chemical Engineers
- Thermonuclear Engineers

Come live and work with us in Southern California. Aside from the fact that Southern California is the advanced technology capital of the world, we'd also like to mention that the weather is great, sports and entertainment are unlimited, and all the girls are beautiful.

Now about us. We're just completing our first major nuclear station, the 450,000 kw capacity San Onofre facility. It will be the largest in the U.S. when it completes the check-out phase and goes on line.

We have more nuclear stations in the planning stages, including a combination electric power and desalination plant.

We're doing lots of work in EHV transmission, too. And we're looking even further ahead to direct conversion methods: thermionics, thermoelectrics, and magnetohydrodynamics.

Grow With Us
We must double our generating capacity in the next eight years to keep pace with the electrical demands of Southern and Central California. By 1975, we'll also have doubled our total plant and equipment investment to more than five billion dollars. And we'll probably have to double again in the eight years after that. We need top engineering talent. Electrical engineers, mechanical engineers, civil engineers, chemical engineers, and thermonuclear engineers.

Master's Program
We offer good starting salaries and opportunities for rapid advancement. Our master's program will pick up the bills for you if you want to work toward an advanced degree while employed at Edison.

If you're interested in advancing the state of the art in the generation, transmission and distribution of electricity, check with your placement office regarding Edison's visit on campus. Or write: F. J. Ofsanko, Southern California Edison, P.O. Box 351, Los Angeles, California 90053.

Spanish Guitarists Hold Concert Wednesday in Memorial Gym

TIMOTHY LEARY, LSD prophet, will present his LSD views on "NET Journal" Wednesday at 9 p.m. on Channel 12. Leary will use a combination of slides and film in presenting his dramatic talk.

Younger Generation Told "Drop Out" By Dr. Leary

The younger generation must "drop out all the way," LSD prophet Timothy Leary urges on "NET Journal" Wed. at 9:00 on Channel 12.

Leary, debating in the Yoga position and wearing a mystic's robes, dramatizes his presentation through a combination of films and slides, which render both an observer's view of a "trip" and suggest the feeling of an actual LSD experience.

Leary retorts that prophets have always gained their insights through changes in sensory equipment. At this time, "the sacrament is a series of chemicals."

Selective Service Director Favors Drafting Protestors

By WALTER GRANT
Collegiate Press Service
WASHINGTON (CPS) — Students who protest the war and the draft by disrupting army induction centers or keeping military recruiters from conducting interviews should be drafted first, according to Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey.

Hershey's letter said local boards "may reopen the classification" of protestors who perform illegal acts. "If evidence of violation of the Selective Service Act and Regulations is established," the local board should "declare the registrant to be a delinquent and to process him accordingly."

Referring to the protestors, the letter said, "It is to be hoped that misguided registrants will recognize the long-range significance of accepting their obligations now, rather than hereafter regretting their actions performed under unfortunate influences or misdirected emotions, or possibly honest but wholly illegal advice, or even completely vicious efforts to cripple, if not to destroy, the unity vital to the existence of a nation."

Hershey said his letter also refers to persons who either burn or refuse to carry their draft cards. However, he said "about 75 per cent of the pieces of paper which have been thrown around as draft cards probably are not."

The letter, or one similar to it, reportedly was sent to colleges and universities. Asked about this, Hershey said, "I'm sure this will receive wide distribution, but I don't know who all got it and when."

Hershey admitted his letter to local draft boards is a reaction to the "disruptive and destructive" trend which protests have been taking. "There is a growing weariness on the part of the public, and Congressmen and a lot of others have been saying why in the devil don't you do something about these people," Hershey said.

The artistry of Spain's Royal Family of the Guitar, The Romeros, comes to Moscow Wednesday evening at 8 p.m. when the four-member family appears as one of the attractions of the Moscow Community Concert Association's 1967-68 schedule. The concert will be held in Memorial Gymnasium on the University of Idaho campus, and is open to Moscow-Pullman concert ticket holders and students from both campuses.

Since the Romeros began concerting in the United States in 1961, a new and demanding audience has been created for this type of music. Father Celedonio and his three sons—Celin, Pepe and Angel are proven artists; their solo and ensemble playing is little rivaled in the concert world.

According to Community Concert President Glen Lockery, "their artistry is disciplined but moral." Physiologically, Lettvin contends, one faces an irreparable "loss of judgment" through use of LSD.

the power of opening up the heavens."

Soon after his debut, Celedonio married a young leading actress of Malaga's Teatro Cervantes. During the Spanish Civil War he performed many times for his fellow Loyalists. When Malaga surrendered to the Franco forces, Celedonio was imprisoned but was later released and paid a loaf of bread per concert for entertaining troops. His reputation as a distinguished classical guitarist grew, but because he would make no commitment to the Falangist Party, he was denied the right to concertize outside of Spain. In 1957, however, after constant pressure, he and his family were granted a passport to visit Portugal. With the help of American friends there, the Romero family emigrated to California and now live in Los Angeles.

Celin Romero was born during the Spanish Civil War in Malaga at the height of an air raid. The guitar was his constant companion, and he made his first professional appearance at the age of five on a radio broadcast. His style of playing is romantic and he prefers to concentrate on compositions of the 19th century. He uses the guitar as an instrument of emotional persuasion and strives for subtlety and suggestion rather than technical brilliance. The most flexible and adaptable of the Romeros, he served a six month tour of duty with the U.S. Army and celebrated his graduation from Boot Camp by playing a concert—with his family—for fellow G.I.'s.

Pepe Romero was born in Malaga also and because the Romero house was located at the edge of the city and overlooked a gypsy encampment, he early came to know and love Flamenco guitar music. At the age of six it was acknowledged that he played Flamenco better than any gypsy guitarist in Malaga. His classic training from his father gives his Flamenco a particularly clear and precise sound which Flamenco guitarists cannot imitate. Pepe is the studious one in the family and he listens to at least one complete recorded opera per day. He has said that he would like to play a concert every night of his life, with or without payment.

Angel Romero, the youngest, has always belied his first name, being of a mischievous and energetic disposition. He practices more hours than any other member of the family, and his heavier hands produce the most powerful tones in the quartet. Angel favors the complex, contrapuntal compositions of the Baroque era and, therefore, finds his affinity with the works of Bach and Scarlatti. Of the family he is the only one to have made his debut in the United States—at the Lobero Theatre in Santa Barbara, California in 1960. Angel has recently made his debut as a singer of Flamenco, on a Mercury Record soon to be released.

Appearances on the Today Show and the Ed Sullivan Show, as well as five releases on the Mercury label, have contributed as much to the Romeros' success as the extensive concertizing which has won them so devoted a following. Recently the Romeros have appeared at the Hollywood Bowl, with the Cleveland Orchestra and the Honolulu Symphony.

COMMUNITY CONCERT will sponsor a concert by the "Romeros" a group of Spanish guitarists, at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the Memorial Gym. The family group is made up of Celedonio, the father and his three sons, Celin, Pepe and Angel. Since touring the United States for six years, the group has played nearly 600 concerts.

"THE ROMEROS," Spanish guitarists, will appear on campus in conjunction with the Community Concert at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the Memorial Gym. The Romeros have been touring the United States since 1961.

Idaho Symphony Orchestra Schedules Concert Dec. 10

The University of Idaho Symphony Orchestra will be heard in the annual fall concert at 4:00 p.m. Sunday in the University Auditorium. Although this is the first concert of the year for the full symphony, a large part of the orchestra performed last month in the highly successful campus production of the musical show, "The King and I."

Sunday's program includes several favorites from the standard symphonic repertory; Brahms' Academic Festival Overture, the Water Music Suite by Handel, and two movements from the Symphony No. 2 by Sibelius.

On the occasion of the first concert of the year, conductor of the orchestra, LeRoy Bauer, has for a number of years presented artist members of the faculty as soloist with the symphony. This year a new member of the staff, Richard Collins, pianist, will be introduced to the area as soloist in the Piano Concerto No. 4 by Beethoven. Dr. Collins, an associate professor of music at Idaho, resided in Europe during the past year and recently completed a series of 25 concerts in Italy, Germany and England.

Original Hippies Driven From Haight By Weekenders

By JACQUES LESLIE
Collegiate Press Service
Once there was a group of highly imaginative, Bohemian people who lived in the Haight-Ashbury district of San Francisco. Among them were musicians and artists, many who used drugs fairly regularly. These people no longer live in Haight-Ashbury. They have been driven out by high rents, tourists, and the fact that what was once a community has now become merely a place to live. It is difficult to say who came to Haight-Ashbury first, the hippies or the newspapermen. In any event the press turned a community group into a national movement, warning that the number of hippies would grow fulfilling the prophecy by writing endless stories about the hippies. Fascinated by the defects of their society, middle class Americans read the articles about hippies with absorption—the hippies seemed to them a threat to their way of life. They focused their attention on hippies, for a word whom "inarticulate" is not a strong enough word, and not on intellectual critics who have been rejecting middle class society for years, for one simple reason: the hippies, being a middle class movement, were not really not rejecting middle class values at all. Instead they were trying to find antidotes to middle class hangups, primarily sex and boredom. The hippies prescribed drugs, and middle class society became obsessed with evaluating this prescription's remedial powers. Either you were for it or against it. Among those who decided for it were thousands of college students across the country. Even the most entrenched gin-and-tonic set in the fraternities began to sponsor pot parties (not without a twinge of guilt, of course). But others condemned the use of drugs, citing statistics and studies on the dangers of LSD and marijuana. (Had any of them stopped to compare how many people are killed by LSD with, for example, how many are killed on the highways?) The important thing, though, was to have an opinion, and Time and Newsweek and Harry Reasoner obliged.

The hippie movement grew tremendously. "Summer hippies" and "weekend hippies" became more common than the real thing, and, of course, all came from the middle class. That so many people found it so easy to shift roles back and forth made it clear that the real issue in the hippie movement was not middle class immorality, as the hippies claimed, but middle class boredom. Who wanted to stay at home watching TV when you could go outside and receive stimulation from psychedelic lights? Marijuana was popular for the simple reason that it could turn the most prosaic of atmospheres into an interesting one. Lost in the shuffle were the original hippies and the ideals they believed. "Community" became four or five people holding hands together, "truth" became whatever you thought of when you were high. And "grooving together" became an excuse to avoid the conflicts between people that lead to understanding. If someone began to hint that maybe something you said was not quite right, you stopped him, telling him he was "blowing your mind." To be a hippie was to have a fragile mind.

Former University Student Honored For 200 Air Missions Over Vietnam

A Butte naval aviator was honored in a formal ceremony today for completing 200 or more missions over Vietnam. He is LCDR Gerald R. Dougherty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Dougherty of 4643 Castelar, San Diego and husband of the former Miss Judith A. Folkins.

LCDR GERALD P. DOUGHERTY, a U of I graduate, was honored in a formal ceremony for completing 200 or more missions over Vietnam. The ceremony was held aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Constellation.

The ceremony was held aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS CONSTELLATION (CVA 64). Dougherty and 41 other aviators from Carrier Air Wing 14 were welcomed to the "200 Missions Club" by Ralph W. Cousins, the Commander of Task Force 77. Dougherty and the other members of the "200 Missions Club" conducted more than 9,000 missions over North Vietnam since CONSTELLATION arrived in the Far East on May 27. Dougherty, who is attached to Fighter Squadron 143, an integral part of Carrier Air Wing 14, has flown 240 missions over the heavily defended areas of North Vietnam. When asked about his most exciting mission, Dougherty said: "The most exciting mission for me was flying as a 'snooper' on the strike against the MIG base at Kep, North Vietnam. I had to precede the strike force into the target area to look for lucrative targets. It's wild in there by yourself!" Dougherty is a graduate of Butte High School and the University of Idaho.

Vandals Look Impressive But Lose Two Tilts

Vandal Babes Lose Twice

Coach John Smith's Frosh cagers opened their season over the weekend with a pair of games against the Golden Eagles from the College of Southern Idaho at Twin Falls. The Vandalbabes lost both decisions dropping the opener on Friday, 56-52, and losing the Saturday affair, 61-49.

"The kids really surprised me," said Smith. "They played real well together and they had very few turnovers. For their first appearance, this has to be the best ballclub that I have seen in quite some time."

The Frosh led most of the way Friday night and were ahead by three points with two and a half minutes left in the ball game, but fouls got them in trouble and the Eagles rallied for their opening victory.

Said Smith, "We worked the ball real well and stayed with them most of the game, but they have an excellent team and they just overpowered us."

Adrian Prince led the Vandal Frosh with 13 points and was quite effective on the boards. Jerry Forth added 12 points to Idaho's cause and John Nelson tossed in 10. Ples Vann led the Eagles with 26.

In their second outing against the College of Southern Idaho

Vandal Finmen Take Third Place

Idaho swim coach Chet Hall was very much pleased with his finmen over the weekend as they finished third in the Washington State Relays in their first outing of the season.

"The boys showed great hustle and desire," said Hall, "and we will improve as the season progresses. They looked real good for their first meet of the season."

The Vandal tankers took second place in the freestyle relay with Stein Buer from Sacramento, Calif., turning in a time of 52.9 in his 100-yard leg of the relay. He also covered the 50-yard distance in 22.7.

Other standouts for the Vandals were Marc Greenwell of Oahu, Hawaii in the medley relay with a time of 1:00.7 in the butterfly and an individual time of 1:01 in the medley along with Frank Burlison who churned the 100-yard breaststroke in 1:08.9 which was the fastest leg in the meet.

SPORTS

Johnston and Thacker Pace Idaho's Attack

The Idaho Vandals opened their basketball season last weekend and absorbed a double defeat from Southern California on Friday night, 59-50 and then were defeated by California, 67-55 on Saturday.

In their first outing against the men of Troy, the Vandals looked impressive and held the big, experienced California quintet to 28-28 stand-off after the first half of play.

In the second stanza of play Idaho turned cold on their shooting and could not hold the Trojans down as they came out on the short end, 59-50.

Anderson was pleased with his squad's performance commenting, "I thought that we did real well in our opener, but we were just not on the mark with our shooting. We must be able to find the range from the floor more often and improve on our free throw accuracy to battle the remaining teams on our schedule and we might as well start with Alaska this weekend at home."

Jim Johnston paced the Vandals in the opener with a 16-point performance and Steve Brown was the only other Vandal in double figures with 10. Jim Thacker contributed 6 points to the Idaho cause in the USC game.

"Thacker and Johnston played real well and their hustle and playmaking stood out in both games," said Anderson.

In the game with California the Vandals were up against a rough quintet and had trouble controlling the boards against the Golden Bears, California's key guard Russ Critchfield suffered a separated shoulder in the opening moments of the game but his running mate Presley took the reins and paced the Bears' attack with Gaines adding 17.

Aiding the Vandal cause were Phil Waddell and Jim Thacker each having 10 points, Jim Johnston tallied 8 with Rick Day next in line with 6.

Against USC the Vandals hit 18-50 from the field for a 38 per cent mark while cashing in on 14 of 20 free throws. The

In this game the Vandals had 15 turnovers which took some steam out of their attack even though California had 11 turnovers of their own.

Idaho will face the University of Alaska in two games this weekend in their home debut and Anderson is hoping to get on the winning track in these non-conference affairs.

The Vandals will be without the services again this week of Bob Nolce who bruised some of his thigh muscles in an earlier workout this season and did not make the trip to the coast last weekend.

The Vandals will face the Washington State Cougars at home on Tuesday before travelling to Spokane to take part in the Lilac Tournament scheduled for Dec. 16-17.
