Symphony, Pianist Present Concert

The University of Idaho Symphony Orchestra under the direction of LeRoy Bauer, Professor of Music, and featuring guest soloist Richard Collins, pianist, will present the annual fall concert Sunday, at 4 p.m., in the University Auditorium.

Although this is the first concert of the year for the full symphony, a large part of the orchestra performed last month in the highly successful campus production, "The King and I." Sunday's program includes several favorites from the standard symphonic repertory—Brahm's Academic Festival Overture, the Water Music Suite by Handel, and two movements from the Symphony No. 2 by Sibelius.

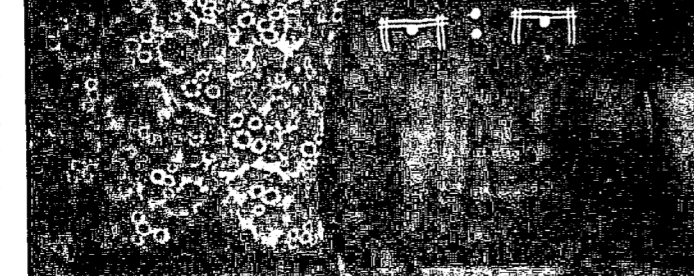

Dr. Richard Collins, guest soloist, is a new member of the University of Idaho music faculty. He has resided in Europe during the past year and recently completed a series of 25 concerts in Italy, Germany and England.

A former member of the music faculty at Scripps College in California, he holds the degrees of Bachelor of Philosophy, University of Chicago; Bachelor and Master of Science in piano from Juilliard School of Music, New York, and the Doctor of Musical Arts from the University of Michigan. His "Piano Talk" five-record album for Literary Records and Capitol Record Club has attracted wide attention.

In addition to his involvement in classical music, Dr. Collins has an international reputation as a serious jazz pianist. In 1957 he performed as a jazz soloist in the International Festival of Jazz held in San Remo, Italy. At Idaho, Dr. Collins teaches piano, music history and literature.

The membership of the University Symphony Orchestra represents many different courses of study and most of the colleges of the University. Many of the players are majoring in fields other than music. Tryouts are open to the entire student body and regular University credit is granted for participation. Qualified adult musicians from the surrounding communities are also encouraged to participate.

Each year the orchestra presents three major concerts in the University Auditorium, transcribes radio broadcasts in collaboration with the Radio-TV Center, assists in the production of musical shows and operas, and presents occasional off-campus concerts in the state.

E-Board Defeats Resolution, England Admits Attempt To Fire Argonaut Editor

By Chris L. Smith
Arg Political Editor

Executive Board of the ASUI refused to endorse a statement on Argonaut policy Tuesday night during one of the most motion packed sessions of the year.

In explaining his statement of policy Willms said, "I have set my mind to work and come up with a set of complaints and suggestions for the Argonaut."

Willms' report stated, "The 'Argonaut' is in a unique position because... its major readership is also its owner." The report contended that the ASUI E-Board is the owner of the "Argonaut," the argument "Freedom of the Press" is of virtually no consequence.

"The Executive Board," Willms declared, "has the natural and legal right to set policies for the paper and the responsibility to see that they are carried out."

"It should be understood," Willms declared, "that the design and intent of this policy should not interfere with reasonable free expression in an editorial sense. However, 'reasonable' must be defined with ample consideration of the basic premise of the statement and the purpose of the 'Argonaut.'"

In his policy statement Willms offered an "Argonaut" Statement of Purpose: "The purpose of the Idaho Argonaut shall be to disseminate news of the ASUI, its Individuals, and agencies; and to provoke thought and stimulate interest on issues of student concern in accord with the general philosophy of an academic community."

The specific clauses of the policy statement refrained the "Argonaut" from promoting "a particular political philosophy in the dissemination of news." The statement also demanded that all information published in the paper be "substantiateable."

Other clauses of the document gave the paper freedom to "express philosophy and opinion in an editorial manner." The document laid both the authority for editorial and operational policy of the paper on the editors, and made them responsible to the E-Board for proper execution of all policies.

After Willms had explained the document, ASUI Attorney General Gary Vest asked, "Do you think that the E-Board has the power to make these decisions?" Willms answered by reasserting that the Board is the publisher of the paper.

Vest then told Willms, "I interpret the things that you are saying and doing as getting into the realm of editorial policy, where you don't have any authority. That is the area in which the Communications Board has full authority. I suggest that you withdraw your report and refer it to Communications Board."

Roy Haney stated that Communications Board met and "it was the general opinion that items in this area should be acted on by the Communications Board. If there are any gripes about the 'Argonaut' they should be referred to that body."

Willms reiterated his position that E-Board is the publisher of the "Argonaut."

Argonaut Editor Julie Anderson then asked the group, "I would like to know why there is only one name on this report. It appears to have been the work of several people."

"Did you," Anderson then asked ASUI Vice President Jim England, "pass a note around the Board last Friday asking for my dismissal?"

England admitted that he had tried to start such a movement.

"I would like to know," Anderson asked, "why the only way I can find out what is going on is by second hand information? It doesn't appear to me that Mr. Willms is the prime mover in this thing. My main complaint is that you have been irresponsible in handling this thing, and your conduct certainly deserves criticism."

"This whole matter," she stated, "belongs in the Communications Board, which you, Mr. Leroy, are chairman of."

Leroy stated that he had used executive authority in delegating the responsibility for Communications Board to another member of E-Board.

"The only action that has been taken by this body," he stated, "is to consider this statement, and since we have done nothing officially we can bear no criticism."

Argonaut Associate Editor Roger Anderson then stated, "I wish to correct Mr. Willms. It is not the E-Board that is publisher of the 'Argonaut,' but the University Board of Regents, and the E-Board only has the delegation of power from the Regents. Under the regulations which the E-Board has approved this whole discussion should be in the Communications Board."

Leroy then stated that the report "is only here for discussion."

Gary Vest answered Leroy's waiver of responsibility for individual action by Board members. "Your day-to-day actions," he said, "are a reflection of the Board's thinking. I sympathize with Julie. It was pure hell to have people calling you up and saying that you are being fired. No one had the courtesy to even talk to her about it."

After several more minutes of discussion, Willms moved to have the statement referred to Communications Board. The motion was defeated because the statement was the opinion of only one member of the Board, and was not an action of the entire Board.

Willms stated that he would take the statement to the Board as a private individual.

After this action, England explained his action.

"The note to remove Julie was only to find out what the Board was thinking. I wanted to have something to work from. The note itself may have been irresponsible," he said.

Before the Board's public meeting at 7 p.m. the group arrived at 6:30 p.m. and resolved itself into a special session, which was closed to the public. At that time about 15 people were present in the room.

Leroy asked for a motion for an executive session, which was passed. According to unofficial information the purpose of the secret meeting was to discuss what action was to be taken on the "Argonaut."

In other action of the evening the Board tabled for three meetings a report to add one member from the Residence Halls Association to the Student Recruitment Committee. The Board also defeated a report that would have required the ASUI General Manager's permission before programs or records could be sold at Big Name Entertainment events.

Informational reports were received dealing with the Associated Student Governments Council, and the Activities Council Recreational area.

Julie Anderson, Jason 81

"Twice Told Tale" Or Maybe More

Ever year, or maybe more correctly, once per semester, Jason and the Argonaut staff have a run-in with Executive Board of the ASUI. During the past week the semesterly tradition of Arg-Exec Board conflict was upheld. There were several frustrating aspects to the whole fiasco, but perhaps the most ridiculous thing about it all, was that it need not have happened. Many times during the past few days, Jason has tried to justify human irresponsibility and at the same time wonders if E-Board ever reads the ASUI Handbook.

To avoid a repeat of the past week's performance, would it be better for Communications Board to become more autonomous from E-Board? Jason suggests that another faculty member and two students other than those connected with the respective campus organs be placed on the Board. As it stands now, Communications Board is "responsible" to E-Board which leaves room for a large amount of misunderstanding between the two groups. Either the handbook regulations should be rewritten or there should be a Constitutional change to avoid a recurrence of the antics of the past week.

Once Upon A Time

It all began last Friday, when Jason received a phone call informing her that certain persons on E-Board were "out to get the Argonaut." Reaction was first one of amusement and disbelief which graduated to one of anger which settled to a static plateau of general depression and disappointment. During the next four days, Argonaut received information only by innuendo. The real frustration underlying the Arg staff feeling was in the form of the question, "why?" No one understood exactly what the motives of E-Board were and later discovered that E-Board did not know its motives either. That's why they had to have a closed session at 6:30 p.m. before the regular board meeting on Tuesday.

Out Of Sight

The emotionalism of the threats and counter-threats which flew back and forth between the Arg and E-Board were completely out of proportion with the original motives of members of the Board. The inarticulate manner in which they chose to tell the Argonaut that it makes mistakes, was quite unfortunate. The blame can be leveled at two areas: 1) Jim England, ASUI vice president, who passed a note among his fellow student body representatives, asking their feelings on the possible removal of Julie Anderson as editor of the Arg; and 2) E-Board members allowing one individual, Jim Williams to act as mouth piece for their opinions and who did not offer any constructive criticism, only personal ideas on what free expression in the University of Idaho "corporation" means. All that came out of the Tuesday meeting was a suggestion sheet from Williams. No one else offered anything to the discussion without prodding, especially Mr. England.

Proper Setting

General feeling on both sides of the fence at the conclusion of the meeting, was that Communications Board should have been the proper setting for all discussion concerning communication areas of the ASUI which include the Argonaut, The Literary I, the Gem and KUOI. The ASUI Handbook states, "Communications Board shall: 1) employ and discharge all ASUI publications personnel in accordance with ASUI regulations, 2) review policy in all matters connected with ASUI publications, both editorial and financial, and 3) perform such other duties as may be assigned to it by Executive Board. Where the responsibility lies is quite clearly defined in the handbook. Communications Board is set up to handle all criticism of the four areas of student expression and includes among its members ASUI president, one E-Board member, a faculty member (Journalism), ASUI General Manager, editors of the Argonaut, editors of the Gem, station director of KUOI, editor of the Literary I and ASUI secretary.

Exciting is the Word

It was really entertaining hearing that the Idaho Argonaut did not represent student opinion; that some people don't like artsy-craftsy front page make up; that unsigned letters to Jason are irresponsible and that editorial comment is biased and non-factual and that the editor had already been fired in much the same manner that districting was eliminated. On the other hand, we are sure E-Board heard rumors that the entire Arg staff was threatening to quit if anything happened to their beloved Jason and that re-call petitions had been drawn up for a majority of board members which only needed to be handed out, if the editor bit the dust. All of this caused a "small" amount of bitterness and tension among the respective groups.

We Make Mistakes

Jason would be first to admit that the Argonaut makes many mistakes in each issue, from misspelled names to invalid facts. We also admit we are human. Considering the situation of the paper, it would be easy to say that twice the work is done with half the staff in comparison to many other similar campus newspapers. As for representing student opinion, the Arg has always tried to create more student opinion by offering food for thought. The opinions expressed are not necessarily those of the University administration or its students, but only of the individual who penned the comment. A resolution on unsigned letters was approved by Communications Board this week. No letters will be received in the Argonaut that are unsigned. The author can request that his name be withheld, but must not submit a letter unsigned. Those who don't like the white space on the front page are just going to have to develop toleration, because Jason loves white space and has lots of fun playing with it. For those who think the paper is lacking in vital news content, we might suggest that the University itself is lacking in the same area.

England Should Swing— From A Yardarm

Jason closes with a quotation from a campaign statement made by Jim England when he was a candidate for ASUI vice president last spring. "As a member of E-Board I was in charge of the communications area, and I feel that I will be able to cope with any problems arising from this area. . . . The falldown in communications has been interfering with Activities Council's reaching students, and with my experience with the Argonaut and KUOI, I will be better able to further the reaches of Activities Council." Is any further comment required?

ISU To Vote On Fee Hike; Idaho Students Should Too

The time has come for a searching look at a losing tradition at Idaho: football. Perry Swisher, in the Dec. 2 edition of the "Intermountain Observer," advocates "Let's quit. While we're behind." Swisher estimates that over a period of twenty years the cost of facilities, operation, scholarships, coaches, etc. will be $50 million for the state of Idaho. "Discount my figures by 10, 20, even 40 percent and then tell me: If Idaho has priorities for what it does with its money and energy and recreation, is football worth the price?"

Bill Hall, editorial page editor of the "Lewiston Morning Tribune" is concerned even more with how football is going to be paid for. Hall doesn't think that football can be eliminated, too many grads and citizens in the state want it. "But if they want it to continue," Hall wrote, "it's about time they started paying for it. Today, the question has become one of deciding whether the old grads are hot enough for football to demand that the students pay for it."

At Idaho, ISU, and Boise, the students are going to pay for new athletic facilities. Thus, Hall wrote, it is the students, not the grads that should decide the future of college football. "The decision on future hikes in tuition (better known by the euphemism "student fees") should properly be left to those who are paying more than their share of the bill—the students. The present system is taxation without representation. The students should be permitted a plebescite when asked to kick in the kind of cash they have been forced to in recent years.

Somebody finally listened to Hall, at least at Idaho State. Next week the students at Idaho State will vote on whether or not student fees should be increased $12 per semester in order to finance a 2 1/2 million indoor football stadium. While the ISU student body president Fred Wahl says three out of every four students favor the hike in fees, a Stop the Stadium committee has been formed to protest "the spiraling cost of the athletic department."

At least the students will be able to vote on the $12 per semester hike. That is more than the students at Idaho will be able to do about the $75 per year that they will be assessed. Of course it is obvious to everyone, that all the students favor such a hike. The hike should be made, if the "Daily Idahoian" is to be believed, because the students will "gladly" pay for it.

The students, unlike the legislature, don't have very much money to spend. The students, again unlike the legislature, have no power to cut requests made upon it. Which is all the more reason to give them an opportunity to voice their opinion. The students at Idaho might surprise a few people and vote for the hike, or they might not. But they should be given the chance. —R.W.A.

Christmas Parking

Students who plan to leave their cars on campus over Christmas Vacation are to leave their vehicles in authorized areas only. The purpose of this arrangement is to facilitate snow removal and street clean-up. The following areas have been designated for authorized parking:

T. H. E. Column

By Marty Peterson

Those of you who are regular readers of this column may remember several week ago when the "Henault Plan" was presented. This plan consists of an alternative proposal for attaining funds to construct an athletic plant at the University of Idaho.

Since this plan was presented, several things have come up which have been brought to my attention. It seems that Idaho State University is going to give its students a chance to vote on whether or not they want to have their fees increased to finance such a project. Well, since the U of I seems bent on forcing this increase onto the students, I would like to offer a second alternative proposal for financing this facility. Allow me to introduce you to the Fund for Constructing Recreational and Athletic Facilities (FCRAP).

The FCRAP Proposal

WHEREBY the exulted rulers of the University of Idaho seem to be lacking in arriving at a method for funding an athletic facility which will be acceptable to all citizens of the State of Idaho, an original plan must be constructed.

THEREFORE it is proposed that a committee be formed to collect the said funds and shall be operated under the name of FCRAP, the Fund for Constructing Recreational and Athletic Facilities.

WHEREBY, upon conducting research into the possibilities of raising the said funds, the FCRAP committee has arrived at a possible solution.

DESOLVED: Several polls conducted in the past have indicated that the per capita liquor consumption in the City of Moscow places it among the highest of any college town in the United States. Although it is known that students at the University of Idaho are above average in their consumption, this alone does not justify Moscow's high position on these polls. The FCRAP committee felt compelled to find out where all of this revenue was coming from and contacted the Bureau of University Research Projects (BURP) to find the answer.

RESOLVED PART I: The findings of BURP indicate that much of the high liquor revenue in Moscow is due to approximately 2500 students from Washington State University who are twenty years old and, due to the archaic laws of the State of Washington, make frequent pilgrimages to Moscow to take advantage of Idaho's more reasonable laws.

THEREFORE the FCRAP committee drew-up an estimate of people from other bordering states and cities who also join these pilgrimages to Idaho. It is the conclusion of the committee that there are more than 30,000 people from areas such as Spokane, Pullman, Clarkston and points in Oregon who take advantage of this situation.

WHEREAS the State of Idaho has, in the past, instituted regulations concerning out-of-state tuition, out-of-state hunting and fishing licenses, and taxations on the incomes of people who reside outside of the aid State; the FCRAP committee proposes the issuance of out-of-state ID cards. The said cards would be required for all persons between the ages of twenty and twenty-one who desired to partake in the merriment the said State of Idaho has to offer. The price of these cards would be $15 per year and they would only be required to purchase the card once. Through the sale of such cards, the State of Idaho would realize approximately $450,000 per year, which is close to the amount that it would raise through the planned fee increase of $75 per student per year.

FINALE: The University of Idaho and the Legislators of the State of Idaho should give serious consideration to both the FCRAP proposal and the Henault Plan.

Dear Jason

Prof Evaluation Confidential

Dear Jason, Because of misinformation submitted to the Argonaut some misunderstanding may have occurred concerning the planned distribution of EIC Teacher Evaluation sheets.

EIC is conducting the teacher evaluations the week of December 11. Contrary to popular belief, the evaluation is completely voluntary and COMPLETELY CONFIDENTIAL. The results will be tallied by the computer owned by the College of Business and returned to the instructor.

The Deans will receive a copy of the results IF THE INSTRUCTOR CHOOSES TO GIVE IT TO HIM. There is no copy given to the Dean by the committee. We furnish two copies to the instructor in order that he may give one to the Dean if he wishes.

The committee is distributing and collecting forms at this time which will determine which instructors will participate in the evaluation. The forms for the evaluation itself will be distributed this week so the evaluation may be conducted next week.

The benefit will be that of the instructor, pointing out certain areas in his teaching in which he excels, and places that he might improve. But keep in mind that the evaluation is confidential.

With help from the students and instructors, EIC will conduct a beneficial evaluation. The University administration is aiding us in our program by underwriting part of the costs, including computer time. If the students will be open-minded and objective, the evaluation will be even more beneficial.

Middle Class Isn't That Bad

Dear Jason, Middle-class society is boring only to those who are bored with themselves—immorality exists only in the individual—escape is only for the weak—middle-class hang-up doesn't exist for those who don't believe in hang-ups.

If a person rides in a bus, eats in a cafe, goes to school, enjoys the production of the "establishment," he shouts his approval by participating. If his approval is not one hundred percent he continues eating and prepares himself to change things. Meanwhile he believes in the establishment and shows his belief by accepting its profits.

To replace the ability to reason with chemical whimsy is to admit that humanness is too big a responsibility, that inaction is better than error, that failure is a goal worthy of the seeker. If I am a zero in this universe, I will enjoy being so for eighty years; I will create because I can, I will find adventure and hear music and the colors I see will be my colors because I so will it. I will explore to the limits of my talents, I refuse to give up my right to decide for myself what my next hour and year will include.

If I rebel I will do so with respect, if I challenge I will present a better way, if I complain I will offer myself as a laborer.

Grass is for the jackass: give me meat!

Willms Upholds ASG Affiliation

Dear Jason, In Friday's Fleece on the value of the ASG (Associated Student Governments) convention, Jason made several references to the National Student Association. Under the heading "NSA, ALL THE WAY" she asked the question whether it might not be better to maintain membership in NSA rather than ASG. Allow me to answer the question by noting some stands of NSA.

In favor: abolition of the House Un-American Activities Committee; repeal of the Internal Security Act of 1950 and the Smith Act; admission of Red China to the U.N.; repeal of laws banning the sale of LSD; immediate halt in the bombing of Vietnam—North and South—and participation of the National Liberation Front (V.C.) in the South Vietnamese Coalition Government.

The group also supported rioting Berkeley students, endorsed Fidel Castro, condemned U.S. intervention in the Dominican Republic crisis, and has endorsed such groups as the Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee. (Ref.: TIME, HUMAN EVENTS NATIONAL REVIEW.)

A consideration Jason overlooked is that NSA and ASG are basically not comparable. ASG is essentially a conclave for the exchange of ideas on student government, where NSA is devoted to the discourse of political ideology. Even so, I could never sit idle and watch the U of I take membership in an organization with a political personality so contrary to my own philosophy.

The University of Idaho was once a member of NSA, but got out. Again we should say, "NSA, ALL THE WAY"—to HELL!

Sincerely,
Jim Willms

'Great Escape' Featured at SUB

"The Great Escape," starring Steve McQueen, James Garner and Richard Attenborough, will be showing tonight and both Saturday and Sunday night at the SUB Borah Theatre.

Reviewed as one of the all-time great war films, "The Great Escape" is a true story of the flight in 1945 of 76 Allied prisoners-of-war who broke out of Germany's notorious maximum security camp, Stalag Luft III. It is an engrossing adventure of their flight to freedom resulting in both trial and tragedy. The movie can be at times hilariously funny, breathtakingly suspenseful, or totally action-packed making it a very exciting film.

"I LAUGHED WHEN MY ROOMMATE TOOK NoDoz."

—writes Private J. B., now of Fort Sill, Oklahoma.

"No pill can stop you from flunking out," I scoffed. "Well, he's there. And I'm here. Take warning from my sad case. And take NoDoz to help you stay with it."

Actually, our young warrior is right: NoDoz can't work miracles.

But it can help, any time you're drowsy or tired. For example: A couple of NoDoz can sharpen your mind and help you remember facts at exam time, or NoDoz can wake you up when you have to cram late at night. When driving makes you drowsy, NoDoz can bring you back to life. If a long lecture makes your attention wander, NoDoz to the rescue.

Get the point? NoDoz can help you anywhere, any time, and it's non-habit-forming.

NoDoz. The scholar's friend.

U-I Peace Committee Discourages War Toys

The University of Idaho Committee for the Peaceful Solution of World Problems and the University of Idaho chapter of the International League for Peace and Freedom announced today a Christmas Vigil for Monday 7 to 9 p.m. in downtown Moscow.

The Committee and the ILPF will demonstrate to urge parents to refrain from buying their children war toys for Christmas. Volunteers will distribute pamphlets to late evening Christmas shoppers from now until Christmas. War toy vigils will take place on Saturday afternoon, Monday evening, and Saturday afternoon, Dec. 23.

The Committee believes there is sufficient evidence to establish a correlation between the degree of violence aroused in children and the kind of playthings they are offered and that war toys lead children, and hence, adults to accept war as a fact of life. The more acceptable war becomes, the more inevitable it becomes.

Moscow merchants have been asked to cooperate by presenting to their customers whenever possible, alternatives to war toys.

Citing the wide selection of toys which the Moscow stores stock, the group believes that educational and constructive toys and games are more appropriate presents to celebrate the birth of the Prince of Peace than are guns, tanks, and planes.

University students, faculty, and residents of Moscow interested in distributing pamphlets from 7 to 9 p.m. one or two nights a week may receive additional information at the Country Dairness Bookstore on the University of Idaho campus.

People interested in taking part in the vigils which will be held on the corner of First and Main Streets in front of the First National Bank may sign an assignment sheet at the bookstore and pick up their pamphlets for distribution.

Housing Committee To Mail Questions

The Off-Campus Housing Committee met Thursday and decided to circulate a questionnaire to every off-campus student. This questionnaire will cover such areas as cost of housing, number of square feet per unit, proximity to the University, and other matters.

The committee will mail out the questionnaires either before or after Christmas. Replies are requested as soon as possible in order to tabulate and organize the information obtained before semester break.

All replies will be kept confidential and available only to the Off-Campus Housing Committee and President Hartung. The tabulation of results will be made public.

The section for personal remarks is to allow the student an opportunity to make a value judgment of his rental unit. If the student feels that his rental unit is sub-standard and wishes it to be checked, he should make such a notation on the questionnaire. The questionnaires will be used to form an information bureau for students who will be looking for rentals in the future. Last spring the committee put out a publication listing all rental units known to the University. All 500 copies were gone in less than a two-day period, which was the last week before finals.

The cooperation of all students is needed in order to start this movement. The committee is in need of money for stamps, and people to evaluate the questionnaires. When found how serious the problem is, the committee can then evaluate all courses of action.

"The two fires last weekend could have been very serious and could have happened to anyone," said Lee Davis, co-chairman of the Committee. "If students give us a hand we will do something ourselves instead of waiting to have it done for us."

Drama Shows Feature Students

University of Idaho Drama... "Tiger at the Gates." The cast included Sandra Nalder as Cassandra, Deanne Kloepter as Andromache, Harry Emerson as Hector, Sam Barker as Paris, Larry Samson as the First Old Man and John Lassfol as the Second Old Man. The play opened on the ramparts of the palace of Troy. Hector had returned to Troy after several victorious battles only to find that it was on the brink of the war. Paris, Hector's younger brother, had carried off Helen, the wife of the Greek king, and he refused to give her up. Hector tried to convince Paris of the futility of a Trojan war, but Cassandra with her gift of prophecy thought the war was unavoidable. Finally, his soul... "Pigmallon," with the cast of Shelley Mitchell as Mrs. Higgins, Glen MacPhee as Mr. Higgins, Bonnie Brown as Eliza Doolittle, Steve Casey as Colonel Pickering, Pam Arnold as Mrs. Hill, Colleen Montell as Miss Hill and Dave Lobdell as Freddy. The play was directed by Andrea Hill. The theme of this play was the attempts of Mr. Higgins and Col. Higgins to pick up out of a gutter, to be a lady and speak properly.

EXPERIMENTALIST in the field of Art is Walter Hook, Missoula, whose art is exhibited this week in the SUB Lounge.

Pottery, Painting Displayed in SUB

The current painting exhibit being shown in the Student Union is the work of Missoula artist Walter Hook. Mr. Hook is Professor of Art at the University of Montana and has been a guest member at the Universities of Oregon, Washington, Alberta and Central Washington State College. He received his B.A. from the University of Montana and his M.A. from the University of New Mexico.

Mr. Hook states that in his work he pursues an experimental approach, not for the sake of innovation, but as a search for new concepts that will contribute to total development. This, he says, is not limited to technique, but includes revising compositional concepts and attempts at new measures of emotional dimension in his work. He doesn't claim that these innovations are new, but that they are new to him. His work is not limited to experimentation. He also spends a substantial portion of time working in standard approaches to painting, feeling that a certain direction or sequence may become too routine. His approach to painting is that of yielding to his own inclinations of the moment and trying to serve only one master, his own convictions.

Pottery by Robert Sperry, Professor of Art at the University of Washington, is also on exhibit at the SUB. Mr. Sperry earned his B.A. from the University of Saskatchewan in art history. He got a Bach. of Fine Arts in ceramics at the School of Art Institute in Chicago and a Master of Fine Arts in ceramics at the University of Washington. In 1955 he won the 3rd Annual Miami National Ceramic Exhibition, selected for the Smithsonian Institute's Traveling Exhibition; in 1957, a $1,000 Tiffany Scholarship Grant; and in 1961, the second prize in the 8th International Exhibition of Ceramics, Washington, D.C.

Among his other credits are two films, "The Village Potters of Onda" made in Japan in 1963, and "Profiles Cast Long Shadows" (1967) which have won awards at the Bellevue Film Festival and the San Francisco Film Festival. Eleven pieces of his pottery are now being displayed in the Student Union.

Foreign Students Feted at Party

The People to People Committee is sponsoring a Christmas party for foreign students at the University of Idaho and others associated with the foreign student relationship committee Sunday from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. The annual event will be held in the Moscow Youth Center. Lesley Hervey, committee chairman, reminds students that anyone who is interested is welcome to come.

Highlighting the party will be a performance by the famous Oinkari Basque Dancers of Boise. These well-known dancers have performed at the World Boy Scout Jamboree, in Washington D.C., and on tour over-seas in Europe and Australia. They specialize in authentic Basque folk dancing and novelty Basque rituals.

"ALL THE INVITATIONS ARE OUT!" exclaimed Lesley Hervey, DG, after the People to People Committee sent out invitations for their Christmas party at 3:30 p.m. Sunday at the Moscow Youth Center. Committee members, Jim Dunn, Delta Chi, Eric Sandquist, Delta Chi, and Mariana Carrillo, Theta, sent invitations to foreign students, host families, and American brothers and sisters of foreign students.

Several Teachers Agree To Course Evaluation

The Educational Improvement Committee is in the process of conducting its second annual teacher and course evaluation, which will be carried out the week of Dec. 11-15. At this time, questionnaires are being collected to determine which instructors will participate.

"So far the results have been encouraging," said Gary Anderson, chairman of the subcommittee in charge of distribution of the evaluation forms. Said Anderson, "Of the three teachers collected, only three teachers have stated that they will not participate."

Some questions have been posed by teachers and students concerning the confidentiality of the evaluations. "The members of the committee never see the forms once they are sent out. The instructors send them to the Statistical Service Center for processing, and we only see the completed results. The instructors' forms are returned to them," said Anderson. The instructors are given two copies of the completed results.

"They may give one of those to their Deans if they want to, but the committee does not send a copy directly to the Dean," said D. Blair Clark, EIC chairman. "This assumption that the committee sends a copy to the Dean has caused some trouble, and it is hoped that this assumption will be corrected."

The Administration is aiding the EIC in their evaluation by underwriting a large portion of the costs. This support comes from a cash contribution, and by the donation of free computer time.

45 Have Paid Banff Deposit

Forty-five have paid their deposit for the semester-breaktrip to Banff, BUI Kyle reported today. The deposits can be paid at the SUB information desk and will be accepted until the Christmas Vacation begins.

"The sid movies that were shown Tuesday night netted $20 for the Club and gave us enough to start to cover the organizational expenses of the trip," Kyle said.

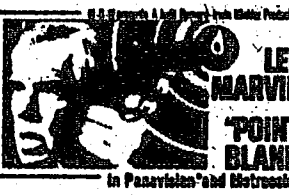

Sid reports for the local areas were not available, however the following conditions were present last weekend and the resulting conclusions were drawn.

Mt. Spokane was short of snow on both Saturday and Sunday last week but nearly twice as much snow is present now and the skiing should be rock free, although the packed, solid base will not exist.

Schwartz Basin was relatively rock-free last weekend and they too are reporting twice as much snow for the coming week.

Wrestling Team Hosts Bengals

Coach Ron Stephenson faces perhaps his roughest match of the season when his Vandals take on the Idaho State Bengals today at 3 p.m. in Memorial Gym. This is the opening tilt for the Vandal grapplers this year.

Idaho is weakened considerably by injuries and will be at a definite disadvantage when they meet the Bengal squad. Some promising prospects loom up for the Vandals in the heavyweight division in Ed Clauson from Spokane and Tom Stolarz at 177.

Other hopefuls for Idaho include Richard Maine in the 152-pound class along with Tim Lape in the 137 division and Dave Mohler at 123. In the other weight divisions the Vandals will be lacking experience.

"We can't start off any tougher," said Stephenson. "They are a good squad and have strength in every division."

The Idaho State Bengals under new coach Tom Jewell have two matches under their belt winning their opener against Ricks College, 17-16 and dropping a close decision to powerful Utah State, 16-14.

The Bengals have three defending Big Sky Conference champions in the first three weight classes with Allen Takahashi at 123 and Fred Rodriguez at 130. The other defending champion is Rick Yates in the 137-pound division.

Idaho State features Leroy Harris who moved up a weight to 177 and is currently the defending champion at 167. Other bright spots for the Bengals include Gary Stuffer in the heavyweight division who finished last year in conference action at 191 and Gary Huff who has finished second in the conference for the past two years at 152 and was conference champion at 145 as a freshman.

The Vandals will face Whitman College at home tomorrow at 1:30 p.m. in the gym in their second match of the young season.

No Decision Made For Coach

The University reports no decision has been made in the search for a head football coach, while interested students report a movement to 'hire-Troxel' will be started on campus.

Paul Ostyn, Athletic Director, reports that the University has received applications from many junior college head coaches and from assistants from almost all of the nation's major colleges.

"I don't expect a decision before Christmas," Dr. Hartung said, when he was asked for a progress report.

A group of students is considering starting a 'hire-Troxel' movement to petition the University to hire Ed Troxel. Troxel is presently employed as the offensive line coach. Paul Ostyn acknowledged applications from Troxel as well as George Davis, who is also on the staff.

"Royal comfort" is almost an understatement when you attempt to describe the pleasure inherent in a pair of Jarman's calfskin Rex-Flex shoes. Super-soft leather lining surrounds your foot and there is a deep cushion insole. The styling and craftsmanship are equal to the task. We invite you to come in and try a pair.

Idaho Cagers Look For Opening Victory

Coach Wayne Anderson displays his Vandal cagers before the hometown folks for the first time this year as Idaho plays host to the Alaska Nanooks this weekend.

Anderson plans on starting Larry Kaschmitter at the center spot with senior Rick Day and Tony Traweck at the forwards. At the guard positions it will be a tossup between Phil Waddell, Jim Johnston and Jim Thacker.

The Vandals are 0-2 going into this weekend series dropping their opener to Southern Cal., 59-50 and coming out on the short end of a 67-55 decision against the California Golden Bears. Both games were played on the coast.

The Nanooks have two games under their belt as well with both of them being in the loss column against Western Washington College. Alaska lost both of them on their home floor, 70-62 and 80-72.

Leading the Vandal scoring attack is Jim Johnston. The junior from Portland, Ore. has compiled a 12.0 average at his guard spot and is shooting at a 40 per cent clip.

Transfer Jim Thacker is sporting an eight-point average and is also averaging 40 per cent from the field.

Steve Brown and Tony Traweck are the co-leaders in the rebound department each having 14 to their credit with a seven rebound average. Next in line is Rick Day with five rebounds a game.

Alaska has hauled down 104 rebounds in their first two games compared to 102 last year and Scott Loll leads that department with a 15.5 average. The Nanooks are currently sporting a 66.7 per cent average at the free throw line.

This Christmas Give Him Italy

Throw in England if you'd like. And maybe France. And Germany. And Sweden. And Brazil. And Spain. And Hong Kong. And Ireland. If you think he can handle it, give him all nine countries.

Nine Flags Shaving Colognes is the next best thing to giving him the world. Here are nine different colognes from nine different countries. Each with its own distinctive fragrance. Depending upon how a man feels or the mood he's in, he can choose all the way from the exotic, full-bodied Patcham of Hong Kong to the cool, minty Clear Spruce fragrance of Sweden.

Give him 9 countries, or 6, or 4, or 3, or 2, or just one. From $5.00 to $15.00. (No man should be without a country.)
