Borah Symposium On VIETNAM

February 15, 16, 17

University classes are to be dismissed 3rd period this morning, and all afternoon for the Borah Foundation-sponsored Vietnam Symposium continuing thru Feb. 17 on the Idaho campus.

Thursday evening began what promises to be one of the most unique and perceptive analetic investigations the Vietnam War has yet to inspire. Feb. 15-17, seven of the nation's most prominent and qualified authorities on the Vietnam situation will be on Idaho's campus for the widely-publicized Vietnam Symposium open to all students, faculty and community.

The college community has been preparing for the symposium in showing movies and the publication of articles and reports, authored by various parfects on the American people. "Historical Background of the Vietnam Conflict," presented last night in the SUB, began the program with an issuance of basic facts and causes of the war in order that students could bet-

Following these reports will be an open panel discussion at 4:15 p.m. featuring Halberstam, Pauker, Sheer, Wiener, Rep. James McClure (R-Idaho) and Dave Dellinger of "Liberation" Magazine. McClure will act as moderator.

Saturday at 9 a.m. in the SUB ballroom, David Dellinger will explain "The Case for Withdrawal," "Vietnam and the Rebellion of Exploited Peoples—At Home and Abroad," by James Farmer of Racial Equality at 10 a.m.; and a panel discussion at 11 a.m., are scheduled for the remainder of the morning.

"Vietnam and American National Security," by Senator John Tower, the only Texas Republican since 1870, is scheduled for 1 p.m. Senator Albert Gore will speak on "NATO, the Western Hemisphere and the Vietnam War," at 2 p.m. in the SUB. The panel discussion at 3:15 p.m. in the SUB ballroom featuring Dellinger, Farmer, and Senators Albert Gore and John Tower, will bring the Vietnam Symposium to a final close.

During the sessions various luncheons and banquets will be held for which tickets are available to the public.

5th Dimension Sings Tonight With "Beautiful Balloon"

The 5th Dimension, a new dimension in sound, will bring to the U of I tonight a unique combination of modern harmony and the soulful rhythm of blues.

The U of I Gym doors will open at 7 p.m. for a performance by the group at 8 p.m. whose first album, "Up, Up and Away" was a success.

There is a new look about the 5th Dimension, both visibly and audibly, that may set a trend for the future. They have mod costumes, expert choreography and a repertoire that runs the gamut from soul to pop.

Marc Gordon, the 5th Dimension's manager, first saw them perform on a concert tour with Ray Charles when they were known as the HI-FI's. He promptly signed them to a contract and went to work developing their new name and introduced them to Soul City founder, Johnny Rivers. Working hand-in-hand with Rivers, their enthusiasm was only exceeded by their eagerness to get the 5th Dimension on wax and on the market.

Before it reached momentum, their first release on the Soul City label, "I'll Be Lovin' You Forever," was followed quickly by "Go Where You Wanna Go." The song became a hit and catapulted the 5th Dimension into public acclaim.

They were introduced at Hollywood's Ciro's on Sunset Strip and have appeared on stages from the Shrine Auditorium in Los Angeles to New York's Carnegie Hall.

Their '66-67 television appearances include guest spots on the "Hollywood Palace," "The Jackie Gleason Show," "Ed Sul-ivan," "Mike Douglas" and "Red Skelton." During the upcoming television season they'll add to their long list of guest star spots with visits to "The Hollywood Palace," "The Jackie Gleason Show," "The Smothers Brothers" and "Dean Mar-

Recently they appeared in concert with Frank Sinatra in Minneapolis at a fund-raising dinner for Vice President Hubert Humphrey and received a standing ovation. Their night club bookings extend into June of 1968 when they'll play three weeks in New York's famed Copacabana.

Committees Open For Homecoming

Interviews for 1968 Homecoming Committees are open Tuesday, Feb. 20, in the SUB for those wishing to help plan and coordinate next year's Homecoming activities.

Openings for sub-chairmanships exist in rally, dance, publicity, parade, alumni, queen and halftime committees.

The duties of each committee are important to the overall success of Homecoming, one of Idaho's major events of the year.

These committees may involve a lot of time according to Ron Reynolds, 1968 Homecoming Chairman. The rally chairman, for example, must coordinate and organize the band, the football team, fireworks, the pom-pom girls, the technical aspects such as public address systems, lighting, and securing a location to hold the rally.

Any questions may be answered by consulting the Homecoming report in the ASUI offices or by contacting Ron Reynolds at 7121 or 7122.

Election Deadline

All petitions and the names of party nominees for the ASUI General Election must be submitted to Jrv England, ASUI vice-president, in the SUB no later than Feb. 26.

Four Sections of Bill Passed, Editorial, Big Changes Made

By CLIFF EIDEMILLER Arg. Political Editor

The first four sections of the student bill of rights were reviewed by Executive Board last Tuesday night. The document was read article by article, discussed and then approved or changed. Many editorial changes were made on the document, but there were also a few major changes.

Article 16 on double jeopardy was added to section four. Bill Gigray moved that the group accept the article "That no student shall be placed twice in jeopardy for the same offense."

Another new article was also included in the document. This article following the previous one which says that "no student shall be expelled or suspended from school as a penalty for the violation of disciplinary regulation; expulsion and suspension may only be used as penalties for academic violations."

The article ended with a parenthetical statement saying that this article would be under trial for the next two years, but it was moved to have this stricken from the article, since the document was a permanent one, not meant for temporary purposes.

The most discussed topic in the bill was the power of living groups versus University control over the living groups regulations. The whole controversy began with the section that says that "faculty and or its duly authorized representative is the only body authorized to approve disciplinary regulations governing the conduct of students . . . that all regulations not approved by the Faculty or their representatives are void."

At the meeting, Jim Willms moved that the whole clause be removed because "there is not any reason for it." John Orwick said "that the section is straight out of the State constitution."

Gigray said that "it is that way also in the Regents Policy and Procedure book." Willms then said, "If this is a forgone conclusion of the Regents, what's the use of this clause at all?"

An amendment was introduced by Dave Leroy to make the provisions of the section not applying to the internal regulations of the living group organizations. Under these provisions, the living groups cannot receive any enforcement help from the University for the enforcement of their own laws. Therefore, as John Orwick said, "You are your own structure." Possibly in the immediate future, women will set their own regulations as to hours.

In other E-Board action, a second paragraph was added to the already existing report on the soccer team. Since soccer is not under the direction of the University Athletic Department, the ASUI could be liable in case of injury. Therefore, the players will be required to sign a waiver relinquishing responsibility from the ASUI.

The report on student recruitment was finally passed. Questions were raised by board members on the criterion listed at the end of the report. Roy Haney questioned having a grade point as a pre-requisite. Howard Foley said that the grade point set at 2.7 would give the individuals the blessings of the administration. Haney pointed out that grade points have no correlation with academic record.

The report on the golf course improvements was tabled until the next meeting.

In new business considered, Ron French presented a report with a tentative list of people recommended for the student-faculty retreat to be held at Camp Lutherhaven later this spring.

Tom Gannon presented a report requesting $1,060 for the pom pom girls and the rally men to fly to Weber State and ESU to support the team this weekend. Mike Powell asked how much money was in the treasury. Roy Haney said that the rallymen hadn't been participating in the local games. Tom Gannon said, "the rallymen are gunshy right now because of student ridicule." The board decided to send the pom-pom girls to the games if the money was available.

A SUB Board regulations report presented by Gigray was passed by the E-Board in their final business.

Intellectual Expansion

The Vietnam Symposium offers students a rare opportunity to experience several days of total exposure to the most pressing issue that confronts our generation.

The fact that no firm conclusions are drawn, and that there seems to be no basic agreement on the situation, may shock some. But that is the nature of Vietnam. The main factor in the symposium is that the issues are being discussed in a balanced, sensible, and rational way. The importance of a confrontation of minds over Vietnam can hardly be over emphasized, especially when so much of the overt opinion on Vietnam has been expressed in a conflict of bodies and emotions.

tion from most sides of the issues. Hence it offers the interested, but basically uninformed student, the opportunity to see the picture in perspective. Such a presentation is rare, because most of the presentations on Vietnam are for reasons of propaganda. Granted, those speaking will be presenting personal points of view, but the general effect will be a combination that gives a balanced look into the situation in some perspective.

Such opportunities for intellectual expansion come seldom, and once past, can never be recovered. The person who misses the symposium will have missed an experience that will be hard to get elsewhere. C.L.S.

Notes From the Underground

If Student Government?

By Robert Young

Since my first year at the University of Idaho, I have wondered (as I am sure others have) what significance student government has in University life.

Is there any validity for its existence other than the fact that it might be a personal ego satisfying accomplishment, a chance to "get out on campus," or perhaps it's even serving as a political stepping stone for bigger and better future achievements?

Answering the previous question honestly would require an affirmative in all three cases if past criterion is any indication for judgment. Nevertheless, the question is not complete, and maybe should not be viewed in a negative manner. The above mentioned motives are among the many which crossed my mind in my early associations at Idaho.

To illustrate using an example (strictly hypothetical), let us look at a candidate for student office; Susan A., is a good-looking (after all, being runner-up for Miss Idaho Potato Queen is no mean accomplishment), intelligent (a 3.0 plus in the college of social activities), and besides, she's on lots of committees and all the girls like her!

John D. is also long on qualifications. He is presently an Activities Council chairman for committees on committees on committees, serves every prestige group on campus with his pithy maxims and witty exhortations, and he impresses nearly everyone by wearing his new Myklebust's sport coat (not bought on sale) at all occasions.

Surely a fit description for these candidates would be Shakespeare's title "Much Ado About Nothing." But although these candidates were construed mostly from my imagination, fiction often parallels fact.

Candidates such as the above cited may have a little relevance in their own small realm or possibly when they were running for a high school homeroom representative, but definitely not deserving of support for a college student body office. The University of Idaho has turned out several people such as Susan A. and John D. for candidacy—fortunately they often met with defeat, but nevertheless this type of candidate can be blamed in a large part for the commonly heard "student apathy."

It is a pretty sad thing when only one third of the students feel a need to vote in a student government election. Two thirds of the student electorate seems to find that student government means little to them, and it is hard to blame such thinking because it might be true.

Whereas qualifications may surely have some relevance, the way candidates think and express themselves on important current issues is perhaps of considerably more importance. One can often question the strength of an office seeker on the grounds of why he deserves student support; or in other words: just whose thinking will he express when he takes office, (his own, students, or other?)

A student body leader owes his first allegiance to those who gave him his office, and anyone else who deserved consideration should at least be secondary.

Students should explore every area available to them while in attendance at academic institutions. A free expression of student opinion should be the primary function of government, and as a tool for that expressions, it does not require that it be the vehicle of University policy. Nevertheless, student opinion is a very strong influence on University policy, and a realization of this factor is an important measure of competent student government.

Perhaps it was pressure to bear in some manner or another, but the recent policy taken by E-Board on the student bill of rights deserves some credit to a responsible group of individuals who demonstrated qualities of good student leaders.

It is hard to remain completely inert when action like this has taken place. I maintain that rather than this being the exception, it should be the rule. In offering this solution to student apathy toward student government, I am opposing the other alternative, which is its non-existence.

There are faults now, but an informed and interested student body can cure them. An interested student body will be able to discern between past dubious achievements and the real issues of student concern, or they don't deserve to call themselves members of a scholarly community.

Some people would say this is just a case of "sour grapes." However, I don't quite agree after finding that out of 1500 freshmen last year, only four received an A in Freshman English. This fact aptly points out the need for a Pass-Fail system, especially when a three credit C, D, or F, which the vast majority received, can be quite harmful to a student's grade point.

The Golden Fleece Community Government?

By Roger Anderson, Jason 82

During last year's ASUI elections one of the presidential candidates ran on the platform that it is no use changing the form of student government again, but that student government should use the powers it has. Unfortunately that power consists only of a moral power, or in other words, the power of propaganda. That former candidate was right in saying that E-Board has never used the power it has; E-Board has never been very effective at protesting.

Protesting should not be the function of Executive Board. (The Arg should, maybe, but not the Executive Board). Ideally the student government shouldn't be a lobbying organization, it should be a government. It should be able to set the rules which govern the students, and for which students are disciplined.

Unfortunately no one is going to give the students such power. No one is going to heed the cry of student power. What is possible and feasible is that almost shop worn term: community government. The students should have a vote on the body that can make rules on student behavior. The students should have seats on Faculty Council.

Even this compromise will be hard to get. Faculty Council will reply, "You don't need this, a member of Executive Board always attends Faculty Council. Your opinions will be heard." It is likely that the student opinions will be heard, but it is also possible that such opinions could be ignored. You can ignore an opinion, but you can't ignore a vote.

Faculty Council must above all be responsive to student opinion. Faculty Council shouldn't follow student opinion down the line, but it should modify legislation which affects students in order to compromise with student views. This Faculty Council has not done. Instead Faculty Council has taken steps to set itself off from student opinion.

One way it has done this is by holding all of its meetings behind closed doors, and releasing an approved version of the meeting. Over one week ago, the Argonaut tried to send a reporter to a Faculty Council meeting. He was turned away. At that meeting, because of Faculty Council rules, the Arg's request to be allowed to attend could not be voted upon. The Arg understands from unofficial sources that the majority of the council was against such coverage. Such a policy has prevented student opinion from not only being brought to bear upon Faculty Council, but it has prevented one from forming.

Faculty Council may have taken a vote on our request as this is being written. We don't know, because we couldn't attend. We hope they voted favorably. President Hartung agrees that Faculty Council is a public body and should be open to the public. But just opening Faculty Council to the students is not enough. It does not replace a vote.

T. H. E. Column Marty Peterson

Synopsis: "Are American College Students Going to Pot?"

Last week in this column, you were introduced to the members of the Green Mill Joint Committee on Pot—GMJCOP (which is pronounced "gmjcop"). The panel featured some of the great leaders of the world today. Tex Johnson is president of the nation's largest corporation. Representing the nation's political groups is Luke Rightwing, a leader of the Pueblo Indians. From the academic community came noted non-presidential candidate Pat Paulson, who distinguished himself in the academic community by attaining a consistent average of 70% on the I.Q. Quiz in the Lewiston Tribune. Rounding out the panel was the noted humorist and sometimes presidential adviser David Henry (formerly known as the "bearded boy blunder"). Today we take-up where we left off last Friday when we broke for a commercial.

MODERATOR: "Let's get this final session of the panel started by using a quote from the award losing book 'The Wise Sayings of Don Samuelson.'"

JOHNSON: "Looks like a pretty small book."

MODERATOR: "It sure looks that way. It just seems to be a cover with no pages inside."

PAULSON: "I suppose you could say that 'The Wise Sayings of Don Samuelson' is the shortest book ever printed."

MODERATOR: "Oh well, you know what Mr. Samuelson always says, uh . . ."

HENRY: "I believe that you're mistaken. That's what I always say."

MODERATOR: "If Mr. Henry will stop patting himself on the back for a few minutes, I think that we had best return to the original problem."

JOHNSON: "Yes, what was the problem? I seem to remember that it had something to do with college students."

RIGHTWING: "Let us spell the problem out for you. M-I-C-K-E-Y . . . M-O-U-S-E."

MODERATOR: "Thank you Mr. Rightwing. I am sure that these are the sort of statements that have endeared you to the hearts of all of the Pueblo Indians."

RIGHTWING: "Remember the Pueblo!"

HENRY: "Remember me too."

PAULSON: "Due to circumstances beyond our control, we can't forget."

MODERATOR: "Getting back to the subject, I would like to direct a question to Mr. Rightwing. You have often been quoted as saying that when you were in college, everyone was there to study. You have stated that if today's students would spend more time studying and working, then they wouldn't have time to go around causing problems. You were evidently very busy in college and I'm sure that everyone on the panel could profit from hearing how you worked your way through college."

RIGHTWING: "Well, I had a brief case which contained the names of 25 known card-carrying Communists who worked for the student newspaper and we made a deal."

MODERATOR: "It looks like we are getting a little off base, so, speaking for the entire panel, I hereby adjourn this meeting. Are there any objections?"

HENRY: "Yes! I thought I spoke for everyone."

MODERATOR: "Thank you Mr. Henry. We salute you."

Student Wants Pass-Fail System

Dear Jason: It is my opinion that this University should use the Pass-Fail system in the grading of freshman composition courses. Freshman composition is required at the University, and as a three hour course, it has a good deal of influence on the students' grade point average. Many students find that they are failing their composition course, not because of poor writing, but because their ideas conflict with those of the teacher. The teacher, as an opinionated individual, is less likely to give a dissenting student as fair an evaluation as he would a student who agrees with his own personal views. (Even though teachers try to keep an open mind.)

Some people would say this is just a case of "sour grapes." However, I don't quite agree after finding that out of 1500 freshmen last year, only four received an A in Freshman English. This fact aptly points out the need for a Pass-Fail system, especially when a three credit C, D, or F, which the vast majority received, can be quite harmful to a student's grade point.

Public Opinion Answers

$75 Tuition Raise For Complex, Yes or No?

By RON WIETZKE Opinion Poll Committee

The question for this week is: What is your opinion of the $75 tuition raise, which will finance the Athletic Complex?

Robert Spickard—Off Campus
If it is for the betterment of the school it's a good idea. We can all benefit from it as alumni.

Sheila Kumko—Off Campus
I think it's a good idea to some extent, but seventy-five dollars is not necessary from each student. If everyone pays, this is quite a bit of money. I would be willing to pay thirty dollars or so, but at seventy-five, it's not worth it.

Marv Williams—Chrisman Hall
I think it's a good idea. We need facilities pretty bad.

Dennis Dossett—Sigma Chi
Athletics are fine and an important part of the program, but why couldn't the same type of thing be done for the Performing Arts Center? Why exclude one and not the other? I'm not for it in its present form.

Walt Zarella—Off Campus
It should go to a student vote.

Jim Fuller—Delta Sigma Phi
I don't agree with it. It isn't fair to the students to pay for something they won't benefit from. At Oregon State they paid for their gym from the gate receipts.

Klaus Sonnenberg—Off Campus
Idaho isn't noted for its athletics. Before building an athletic complex they should develop athletics with what facilities they have. If they improve themselves, then raise the money for improvements. This money could be better used for something academic.

Bob Jones—Sigma Chi
I'm in favor of it. It will help the athletics program.

Susan Yurk—McCoy Hall
I don't like it. We shouldn't have to pay for it in that way.

Tom Pageler—Off Campus
We haven't been told beans about it. Boise is putting up athletic facilities for two million. Ours is costing six million. Where is the money going?

I'm a senior, and of the students now paying, the benefits will only be felt by a few. In the past there have only been one or two home football games a year. How much use will a new stadium get?

This is beyond the academics of the university, and the extra seventy-five dollars makes it rough on the people who are working the summer and just scraping by.

I'm not definitely against it, though, because I love athletics.

We should be better informed, and the students should be able to decide by a referendum.

Dear Jason

Writer Praises Dorm-Beautiful

Dear Jason, On behalf of the WALLACE COMPLEX residents, I'd like to express my appreciation to the ones responsible for the beautiful condition of the dorm and also for the periodic entertainment.

How nice it is to have air conditioning in the middle of winter, just break the glass out of the doors once every two weeks, no muss, no fuss.

From the moment you step into the lounges, you feel the comfort of the deep, knee-high carpet—of water.

You never notice the hardness of the brick walls in the foyer because of the nice cushion of raw eggs and gum, and the garbage scattered all over really adds to the homey atmosphere.

As the newest dorm, the use of modern art cannot be exceeded—bannisters twisted in weird contortions, electrical wiring forking out of their sockets, the half-ripped covering of the posts—really a la mode—and distorted vending-machine-type things which really fake you out. They are so realistic that guys are always trying to buy something from them, but, of course, they don't work.

Even mealtime is brighter because these clowns are inspired to create masterpieces with their food and cigarette butts—really appreciated by everyone, especially the dish-line crew who has the privilege of appraising it. So what if they get a little messy and food gets thrown around a little. A true artist must "feel" his work and have freedom of movement. Besides, those mashed potatoes will come off the back of that guy's neck; that butter will come out of that girl's sweater (what's she so upset about anyway? Some people just don't appreciate "plain good culture.")

Every once in a while to keep things interesting, a bottle will fly through a closed window, or better yet, we have a fire drill at 3:00 in the morning (nothing like a little fresh air and exercise when you're preparing for finals).

And since we're in classes all day, the housemothers really don't have too much to do, so why not ring the doorbell every 25 minutes after hours and listen to them run down to first floor to answer it.

Anyway, the list is endless. I'm sorry that I can't give all the credit where it is due—I'm sure you deserve more.

THANKS to all of you animals responsible for this. Your time and effort spent to do the complex such services was so generous; hopefully we'll have the chance to reward you with something more substantial than mere words. (Your modesty is almost appalling.)

Gratefully yours, Laura Shikasho Houston Hall

Booster Thanks Rally Men

Dear Jason, This is just a note of thanks to your yell leaders for finally leading the student body in the first organized yell of the basketball season. It was fortunate that there was an overtime period or they would have missed the Weber State game also. The ASUI Executive Board should take action to see that the rally committee functions.

This letter is in no way intended to cast reflections upon the Pom Pom Girls. Congratulations to the Pom Pom Girls for their fine performances.

Bellstrom Tells Of New Books

Dear Jason, The COUNTRY DARKNESS BOOKSTORE has recently received a new shipment of posters from California which are on sale at $1.00 each. We also have just received the John Birch Blue Book and other right-wing literature, including some Objectivist pamphlets by Ayn Rand which are not otherwise locally available. This month's Psychedelic Review features articles by Timothy Leary on LSD (what else?)

LAMONTE McLEMORE

FLORENCE LARUE

BILLY DAVIS

RON TOWNSON — Ron has lived music all his life. He began at the age of six by performing in choirs and then placed third in the Metropolitan Opera auditions held in his home town of St. Louis. As a teenager Ron toured with Dorothy Dandridge and Nat "King" Cole, before joining the famed Wings Over Jordan Gospel Singers. He also played a small part in the film version of "Porgy and Bess."

MARILYN MCCOO — Marilyn McCoo, who started singing before she could walk, made her television debut at age 15 on Art Linkletter's Talent Scouts. Four years later she won the "Miss Bronze Grand Talent Award" and "Miss Congeniality" title in the same contest. Graduated from U.C.L.A. with a bachelor of arts degree in business administration, Marilyn thought about a modeling career. But her voice, four octaves big, tipped the scales in favor of a singing career and her current contribution to the 5th Dimension.

LAMONTE McLEMORE — Lamont McLemore who originally aspired to a professional baseball career, became interested in music while serving in the Army. He was a member of the U.S. Army Drum and Bugle Corps and participated in many U.S.O. shows. After dismissal from the army Lamont worked as a professional photographer, and had his pictures in such magazines as "Harper's Bazaar," "Life," "Ebony" and "Elegant." He finds singing a challenge as he was never been interested in it as a child.

FLORENCE LARUE — Florence LaRue received training as a child in singing, dancing and the violin and as an adult continued a love for all kinds of music from classical to jazz. She earned a bachelor of arts degree in elementary education at Cal State in Los Angeles. Florence, like Marilyn, is also a former "Miss Bronze Grand Talent Award" winner.

BILLY DAVIS JR. — Billy's first contact with music in the professional world came after he had saved enough money to buy a cocktail lounge in St. Louis for the purpose of using it as an entertainment workshop. It was here he experimented with various musical groups before starting his own rock group, "The Emeralds," which later switched to gospel music, calling themselves "The Saint Gospel Singers."

Psych. Dept. Receives Grant

The University of Idaho Department of Psychology has received a $4,100 research grant to purchase a multi-channel polygraph, which will aid university psychologists in studying anxiety and other feelings. Dr. Victor E. Montgomery, head of the Psychology Department, announced recently.

One of the uses of the polygraph will be to record the inward physiological responses of individuals under anxiety producing situations. Through analysis of heart rates, brain waves, skin response and breathing, we will be able to further understand the physiological aspects of human behavior, Montgomery said.

Montgomery is currently studying anxiety in the learning situation. In this study, he is attempting to discover how to make positive use of anxiety and how to reduce it when it becomes disruptive.

According to Dr. Montgomery, "anxiety can be described as a sense of impending catastrophe, the general feeling of inadequacy, or simply, the one ulcer man in a two ulcer job."

Fortune Magazine Honors Idaho Alums

Two University of Idaho graduates have been honored in Fortune Magazine's "Directory of the 500 Largest U.S. Industrial Corporations."

Mentioned in the directory are A.D. Davis of Jacksonville, Fla., a 1929 graduate of Idaho and Stanton G. Hale of Los Angeles, Calif., class of 1932. Each earned a B.S. degree in business administration.

Both men were named to the directory because "the book's purpose is to demonstrate through an impressive array of public university alumni that business and industry will increasingly be turning to the public sector of higher education for talented manpower and leadership."

Davis is chairman of the executive committee of Winn-Dixie Stores, a grocery chain in the southern portion of the U.S., while Hale is serving as president of Pacific Mutual Insurance

Co. of Los Angeles. Davis is also currently serving on the national board of directors for the university's Fund for the Performing Arts Center.

A native of Burley, Davis was a member of Sigma Chi fraternity at Idaho, served as secretary of Alpha Kappa Psi, was president of the Advertising Club, secretary of Scabbard and Blade, and commissioned a second lieutenant in the Army Reserves. He was awarded an honorary doctorate degree by the university in 1961.

Davis and his three brothers, James E., Tine W. and M. Austin, all alumni of the University of Idaho, make an annual grant of $600 through the Winn-Dixie Foundation to the university for the purpose of providing scholarships to upperclass students majoring in the College of Business Administration.

The concert will be held at the Ad. Auditorium Sat., Feb. 24, at 8 p.m. Tickets are on sale now at the Student Union Information Desk, Haddock and Laughlin's, and The Country Darkness Bookstore. General admission tickets are $1 and reserved seats $2.

MUN

A mock United Nations General Assembly will be held on the University campus March 3, from 2:30 to 5:30 p.m. Living groups are being contacted through their house presidents and various departments on campus are being asked to encourage participation.

MORNINGS AT SEVEN... AND THERE'S NOTHING YOU CAN DO ABOUT IT

Any man who says morning is the best time of day is either a liar or a meadow lark.

There is only one way to make morning enjoyable: sleep till noon. Failing that, the very best you can do is to make morning tolerable. This, I am pleased to report, is possible if you will follow three simple rules:

- Shave properly.
By shaving properly I mean shaving quietly. Don't use a blade that whines and complains. Morning being a time of clanger and anger, use a blade that neither clangs nor angers. Use a blade that makes no din on your chin, no squeak on your cheek, no howl on your jaw, no rip on your lip, no waves while it shaves. Use, in short, Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades.
- I have been shaving for 71 years (not too impressive until one considers that I am 49 years old) and I am here to tell you that the quietest blade I know is Personna. I not only shave with Personna, but I also admire it. Old virtues reappear in Personna, old values are reborn. Personna does not rasp and tug, yelling, "Hey, lookit me!" No, sir, not Personna! Silently, respectfully, unobtrusively, Personna whisks your whiskers with nary a whisper. It shucks your soil and stubble without toll and trouble. Why, you hardly know it's there, this well-bred Personna blade, this paragon of punctilio.
- Moreover, this crown of the blade-maker's art, this epitome of epidermal efficacy, is available both in Double-edge style and Injector style. Do your kisser a favor: get some.

- Breakfast properly.
I assert that a Personna shave is the best of all possible shaves. But I do not assert that a Personna shave, bracing though it may be, is enough to prepare you for the hideous forenoon ahead. After shaving you must eat an ample breakfast.
- Take, for example, the case of Basil Metabolism, a sophomore at V.M.I. Basil, knowing there was to be an inspection by the Commandant one morning, prepared by storing up energy. He recognized that coffee and juice would not sustain him, so he had a fitch of bacon, a clutch of eggs, a batch of bagels, a notch of ham, a bunch of butter, a swatch of grits, a hutch of honey, a patch of jelly, a thatch of jam, a twitch of pepper, and a pinch of salt.

The idea was right; the quantities, alas, were not. When the Commandant arrived, Basil, alas, was so torpid that he could not raise his bloated arm in a proper salute. He was, of course, immediately shot by a firing squad. Today, a perforated man, he earns a meagre living as a collander in Cleveland.

- Read properly.
Always read the paper at breakfast. It inhibits bolting. But do not read the front page. That is full of bad, acid-making news. Read a more pleasant part of the paper—the Home and Garden section, for example.
- For instance, in my local paper, The Westport Peasant, there is a delightful column called "Ask Harry Home-spun" which fairly bristles with bucolic wisdom and many an earthy chuckle. I quote some questions and answers:
Q: I am thinking of buying some power tools. What should I get first?
A: Hospitalization.
Q: How do you get rid of moles?
A: Pave the lawn.
Q: What is the best way to put a wide car in a narrow garage?
A: Butter it.
Q: What do you do for elm blight?
A: Salt water gargle and bed rest.
Q: What can I do for dry hair?
A: Get a wet hat.

Personna's partner in shaving comfort is Burma-Shave, regular or menthol. Together, Personna and Burma-Shave make a considerable contribution toward forenoon survival.

Pikes Celebrate Anniversary

The Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity will be celebrating its 100th anniversary March 1st.

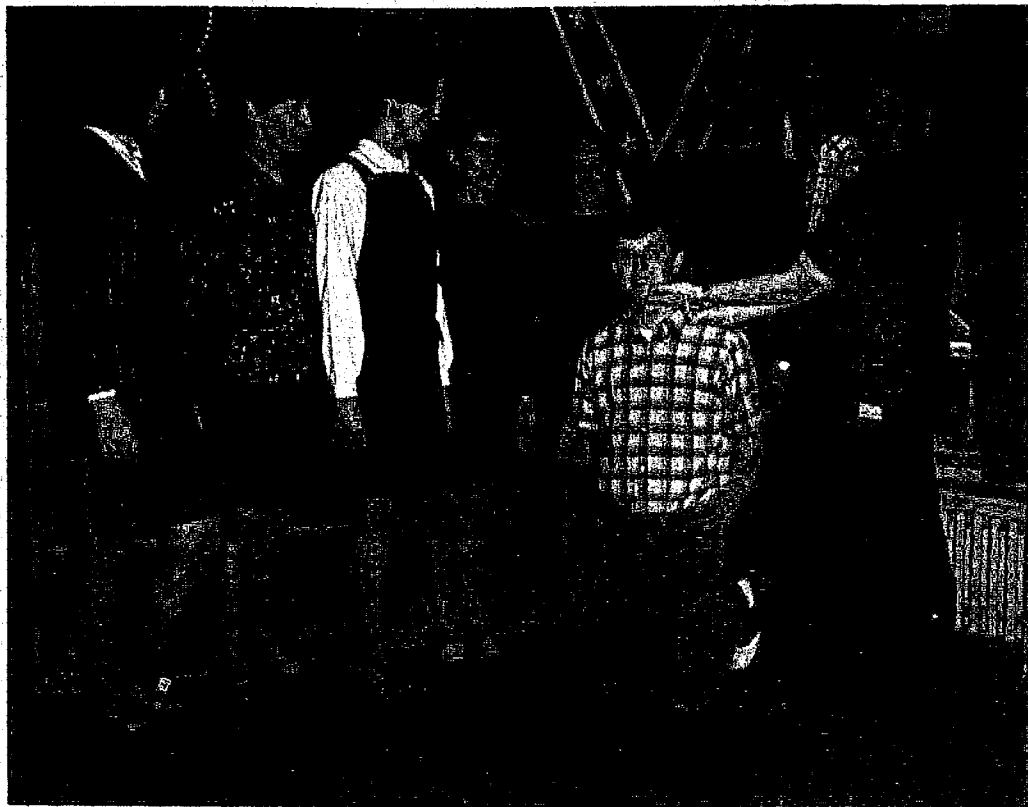

Pi Kappa Alpha was founded March 1, 1868, at the University of Virginia by six young men who had recently finished fighting in one of this nation's wars.

The 100th celebration has already begun with the year's highlights being the Founder's Day celebration, the Dream Girl Dance, and a National Centennial Convention this summer at the University of Virginia.

The first dinner for the Dream Girl contestants was held last night. At the dinner six contestants were introduced and entertained by the members and pledges of Zeta Mu chapter, of Pi Kappa Alpha.

The six contestants were: Debbie De Thomas, Campbell; Rhonda Hegge, Tri Delta; Doline Megordon, Gamma Phi Beta; Marilyn Mayle, Kappa Alpha Theta; Patti Valle, Carter, and Joyce Vickery, Ethel Steel.

Also present at the dinner were Mrs. Farrar, Tri Delta house mother and the present Dream Girl Kathy Wilcomb, Alpha Chi. The other contestants will be dining at the house Sunday and Monday nights.

"WOULDN'T YOU LIKE THIS WORTHY SLAVE?" was the question asked of Alpha Phi's yesterday when they went to the Pi Kappa Alpha house to look over the pledge class. Saturday girls from all living groups will gather at the Pike house for their annual slave auction. The slave being auctioned above is Joe Foster.—(Bower Photo)

Pi Kap Slaves Plan Auction

Pi Kappa Alpha will hold its annual slave sale Feb. 18 at 1 p.m.

Each women's living group is invited to attend and bid for one of the pledges who will be auctioned.

The group can then use the pledge for whatever purpose it wants, within reason, until 5 p.m.

The proceeds from the sale are used in the Pi Kap's annual roller skating party for the children at the North Idaho's Children's Home in Lewiston. The fraternity has done this every year since it was a colony in conjunction with its National Community Service Day.

People To People

The selection of a student for the People to People University Student Ambassador Program to Europe will be made by the People to People Committee. Applications for the program are obtainable from the SUB Information Desk and are due at the desk Tuesday, Feb. 20, at 5 p.m. The committee will then select a nominee.

"Want a company where you can really put your education to work? See IBM March 1st!"

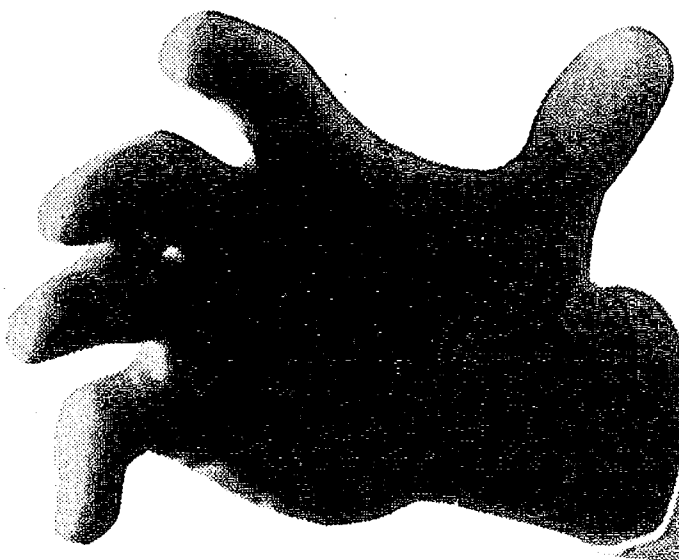

"Some of the engineers who graduated before me complained that their education didn't mean much in their jobs. That's not what I wanted," says IBM's Jim Carr. (Jim is a Manager of Mechanical Process Engineering.)

"At IBM I knew I'd be using what I learned. There's so much diversity here that you can usually work in the specific area you choose. In my own case, I majored in Mechanical Engineering and minored in Metallurgy. Today my ME degree means more than ever. And I often use my metallurgical background. For example, I'm now working on a process development program that requires a knowledge of machine design, metallurgy, heat transfer, and chemistry, all of which I studied in school.

"Another good thing about IBM's diversity is that it creates an interdisciplinary environment. You get a chance to work with and learn from people in many different fields. Since our industry is growing so fast, the people you talk to are likely to be working at state-of-the-art levels or beyond."

There's a lot more to the IBM story than Jim has mentioned. We'd like to tell you about it when we're on campus. We'll be interviewing for careers in Marketing, Computer Applications, Programming, Research and Development, Manufacturing, and Field Engineering.

Sign up for an interview at your placement office, even if you're headed for graduate school or military service. And if you can't make a campus interview, send an outline of your interests and educational background to Mr. E. C. Purtell, Jr., IBM Corporation, 3424 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif. 90005. We're an equal opportunity employer.

Physical Law Films For Physics Dept.

Richard P. Feynman, Co-recipient of the 1965 Nobel Prize in Physics, will be featured in a series of seven films presented by the University Physics Department this semester. The hour-long films were taped by the BBC at Cornell University in 1964, where they were presented to undergraduate audiences.

The lectures are self contained. Any one of them may be viewed profitably without having seen the others. The series covers the most important principles pertinent to present-day physics. They are scheduled as follows: "The Relation of Mathematics to Physics," Feb. 22; "The Great March 7;" "Symmetry in Physical Law," April 4; "The Distinction of Past and Future," April 18; "Probability and Uncertainty—The Quantum," May 2; and "Seeking New Laws," May 16.

Dear Jason

and an account of a Native American Church meeting; Trans-Action carries three excellent sociological studies of the Hippies, while the Berkeley Barb, the San Francisco Oracle and the Los Angeles Free Press tells us what the Hippies are really doing. Politically, the National Guardian keeps us informed of the outrages of the Establishment performed on demonstrators and other law-abiding citizens; the New Leader and Progressive have penetrating articles on such things as the McCarthy candidacy, "Vietnam and the Negro" by Reinhold Niebuhr and "Are White Liberals Obsolete?" by James Farmer, the last two of which fit perfectly into the theme of the upcoming Vietnam Symposium.

Vietnam

Senator John Tower of Texas ("Vietnam and American National Security") was elected to the Senate in 1961 as a Republican from Texas. He holds degrees from Southwestern University, Southern Methodist and the London School of Economics and Political Science. Tower is a member of the American Political Science Association and the Southwest Social Science Association.

Senator Gore ("NATO, the Western Hemisphere and the Vietnam War") was elected to the Senate in 1953 as a Democrat from Tennessee. Prior to 1953 he was a member of Congress, serving from 1939 until his election to the senate. He is presently a member of the Senate Foreign Relations committee and has also served as a member of the U.S. Delegation to the United Nations General Assembly.

The Borah Committee has been aided in its efforts by representatives from the following student groups, encompassing a wide range of student opinion: The Young Republicans; Young Democrats; the Idaho Center for Education in Politics; The Committee for a Peaceful Solution to World Conflict; and the Vandal Veterans Organization. The Borah Foundation was endowed in 1929 by Almon O.L. Levinson in honor of Senator William E. Borah of Idaho. Borah and Levinson were associated in the securing of adoption of the Pact of Paris which renounced war as an instrument of national policy. The purpose of the foundation is to promote the study of "the causes of war and the conditions of peace."

Speaking of the Vietnam Symposium which will be held February 15, 16 and 17, the COUNTRY DARKNESS BOOKSTORE has gone to great lengths to obtain all pertinent publications by the symposium participants. As a special feature we now have on sale "The Making of a Quagmire" ($5.95) and "One Very Hot Day" ($4.95) both by David Halberstam, "Freedom—When?" ($4.95) by James Farmer.

Activities Council Area Heads To Select New Chairmen

Jeanne Davis, a dark-haired junior at the Theta house, stepped into the shoes of Paul Chappell as the Social Area Director for Activities Council last fall when Chappell didn't return to Idaho.

Now, as Activities Council prepares to pick a new director during interviews next month, Jeanne is busy with her committees planning for the approaching Mother's Day Weekend and awards festival.

As social director, Jeanne has a large job co-ordinating the seven committees under her category. TGIF, with its entertainment; The Blue Bucket, with its special dinners; Sub Dances, such as those at registration; Senior Days, which draws many high school graduates to Idaho; Valkyries, ASUI host's group organized last year; Mothers' Weekend, with its programs and events; and Dad's Day, with the big football game, all fall under the Social Director's area.

"Currently," said Jeanne, "Mortar Board, AWS, Alpha Phi Omega; and Spurs, are all working hard to make Mother's Day a success.

"We are making some changes," she said, "which we think will lead to a better overall program this year. May Fete has been changed to a combination of that event and that of Song Fest. We feel the two together will be more exciting."

She said that another function which has been changed is "Senior Days". It has been switched to next fall in order that there will be enough time to organize for the changes.

Jeanne said she thought the job as an Area Director was very beneficial. "You get to meet a lot of people and learn to work with them," she said.

"I'd like to encourage everyone to attend the interviews in March," she said, "as I think it is a rewarding experience."

Interviews will be held March 13 and 14 for Area Directors; April 2-4 for Committee Chairmen; and April 9-11 for committee members.

"Enthusiasm and a keen interest in ASUI committees and their financial needs are the basic qualities that contribute to an excellent Budget Area Director," commented Larry Craig this year's current Budget Area Director.

the other areas to cut their expenses down to "the bone" in order to give the additional money to the Dance area and the General Fund.

Reports are submitted to E-Board with regularity on the money that is being spent. When necessary, the Budget Director found himself acting in an advisory capacity utilizing past budget records and going to E-Board to help the various areas with financial needs. Having no committees under his area, this left Craig freedom to do the extra ground and paper work involved in planning and making a workable budget.

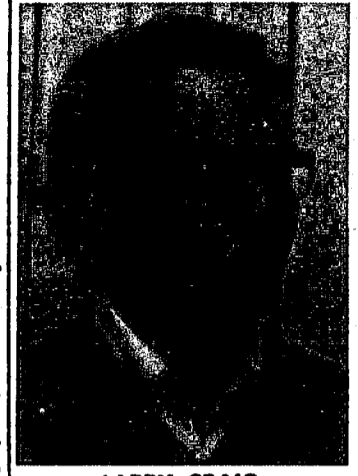

One of the most fascinating involvements that being Budget Director allotted was appointment to the Association of College Unions International Region 14. Craig, being the University's board member, met just recently with the members of his region 14 at Portland State.

The membership is composed of representatives from all schools in Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Hawaii, Alaska, Japan, and the provinces of Alberta and British Columbia. The Association provides an excellent media for exchange of problems and new activities in the various schools' Student Unions.

At the Portland State meeting preliminary plans were made for the next fall convention for all area directors from all the participating schools. This past fall the convention was in Edmondson, Alberta. The new area directors will meet in Ashland, Ore., at Southern Oregon College.

Craig was able to meet many newly elected student government presidents and other officers from the various Universities, and discuss with them and compare out student government and problems with theirs.

Craig, Delta Chi, poli. sci. speech major, stated that interviews for Budget Director will be later in the spring. He found that through the stimulated interest of his directorship he became more interested in student government and served on some faculty and E-Board committees. Basic knowledge of activities council and the committee activities, along with some basic mathematics will be the main qualifications.

LARRY CRAIG

As Budget Area Director, Craig's responsibilities centered around handling all the accounts of each area of the ASUI activities committees. All the areas have been extremely cooperative this year especially when the initial budget of $18,000 was cut at the beginning of the year to $14,000. Each area arranged its programs to operate under the new limitations.

The Dance Committee suffered under the various cuts, having a budget of only $400 for the entire year. This money was used for one semester in order to attain the band qualities University students desire. Craig was faced with the problem of re-coordinating the budget and asking

Ex-Vandal Pitcher Making Adjustments for Pro Ball

By STEVE BALLARD

Al Simmons, former University of Idaho pitcher now attempting to make the grade as a professional, said yesterday that the adjustments that have to be made between college and professional baseball are numerous.

"Control is the big thing," said Simmons. "Pitchers like Juan Marichal of the Giants and Bob Gibson of the Cardinals rely on their ability to put the ball exactly where they want it to get the hitters out. Hitters like Aaron and Clemente are able to get good wood on most any pitch near the strike zone, so a pitcher must try to outguess them. Without good control you're dead."

"You've got to have more than one pitch; a good fastball just isn't enough," continued Simmons. "A little flame is enough to get a guy a contract, but before he can expect to advance to the Major Leagues, he must develop a good curve and change up. A good pitcher will keep the hitters off balance, keep them guessing as to what's coming next."

Simmons has progressed a long way from the sandlots of Coeur d'Alene through high school and college and now is a member of the New York Yankee organization. Immediately after graduating from high school, Simmons was offered a contract by the Pittsburgh Pirates, but he turned it down in favor of attending college.

Simmons, along with another ex-Idaho pitcher, Ken Johnson, were members of the Oneonta Yankees, a Class A farm club of the parent team in the New York Penn League this past summer. Simmons must report for spring training in March, but is now back in school and will graduate in January with a degree in Plant Science.

"The Yankees have the worst farm system in professional baseball," remarked Simmons. "They have signed very few colored guys, and I think this is one of the major reasons they fell all the way from first place to the cellar in only one year."

"Baseball's just a game to most people," said Simmons, "but to us who play it it's a grueling and demanding job. It's hard work. The same routine day in and day out—a guy has to love the game to play it professionally, and I do. Still though, a little fun is taken away when you know that how well you eat depends on how well you do on the mound."

When asked what his biggest thrill was to date, Al replied: "I guess it would have to be beating the Air Force Academy in the NCAA Regionals two years ago. I haven't had too many thrills in the pros yet—you've got to win once in awhile to get a thrill in the pros."

Vandal Grapplers Meet Gonzaga

The Vandal grapplers will travel to Spokane on Monday to meet the Gonzaga Bulldogs as both teams will be warming up for the Conference championships that will be held the next weekend at Pocatello. They will run Feb. 23 and 24 with ISU as host.

The Vandals lost their match Wednesday with the Columbia Basin Hawks 30 to 5 as the visitors took everything except the 177-pound class which Jim Lemmon won for the Vandals with a pin.

Greg Wilcox, CBC 123-pound class started the day by pinning Dave Mohler in just 2:50 minutes for the Hawk's first win of the day. It was to be a Hawk sweep, with the exception of Jim Lemmon, 177-pound class win for the Vandals.

Doug Gordon, 130-pound class, defeated Tim Lape, 8-0 in the next match as they continued to win.

Danny Bender was the next Vandal to fall as Ray Rehm, in the 137-pound class, defeated him 11-0.

The Hawks picked up five more points as Dave Able, 145-pound class pinned Dale Mowrer in 7:33 minutes. It was the last pin of the day for the visitors.

Lee Kuykendall, 152-pound class, defeated Mike Boeck in a close one as the final score was 8-6 in his favor.

The Vandals forfeited the 160-pound class and the heavyweight class to give the visitors several uncontested points.

Vern Hall then defeated Butch Mitchell in the 167-pound class 17-1 as they widened their lead even more.

The Vandal's only bright spot came then as Jim Lemmon pinned his opponent, John Magoteaux in 7:37 minutes of their 177-pound class match.

The Vandal grapplers were plagued with injuries even before the season started and have never fulfilled the dreams of coach Ron Stephenson as the end of last season.

Well the Idaho Vandals lost a couple of more athletes during the past week but they were not by the normal injury route. Steve Garman, one of the Vandals stand-outs in baseball last year inked a contract in the $25,000 column for the San Francisco Giants. This leaves both Steve and his brother, Mike, in Major League organizations since Mike signed fresh out of high school with the Boston Red Sox. Garman played second base and shortstop for the Vandals, but he thinks that the Giants might give him a go-around at third base.

Rudy Linterman, who starred at halfback for the Vandals this past fall in football turned professional by signing a contract with the Calgary Stampeders in the Canadian Football League. This now leaves new head coach Y. C. McNease with two additional gaps to fill on his grid squad.

Head track coach Doug MacFarlane wished that grades were never given out in college after he lost a couple of good trackmen via the academic route. In addition to this, he has just been informed that distance man Fred Lake broke some ribs in an automobile accident last Sunday which takes some added talent from his already depleting track squad.

Ron Stephenson takes the lead in the "lost" column when it comes to actual numbers since he had five wrestlers on the disabled list before the season even began. Stephenson may have to draw on additional funds so he can buy his team members first aid kits to keep them in one piece before they tangle on the mats in the Big Sky Conference meet Feb. 23-24.

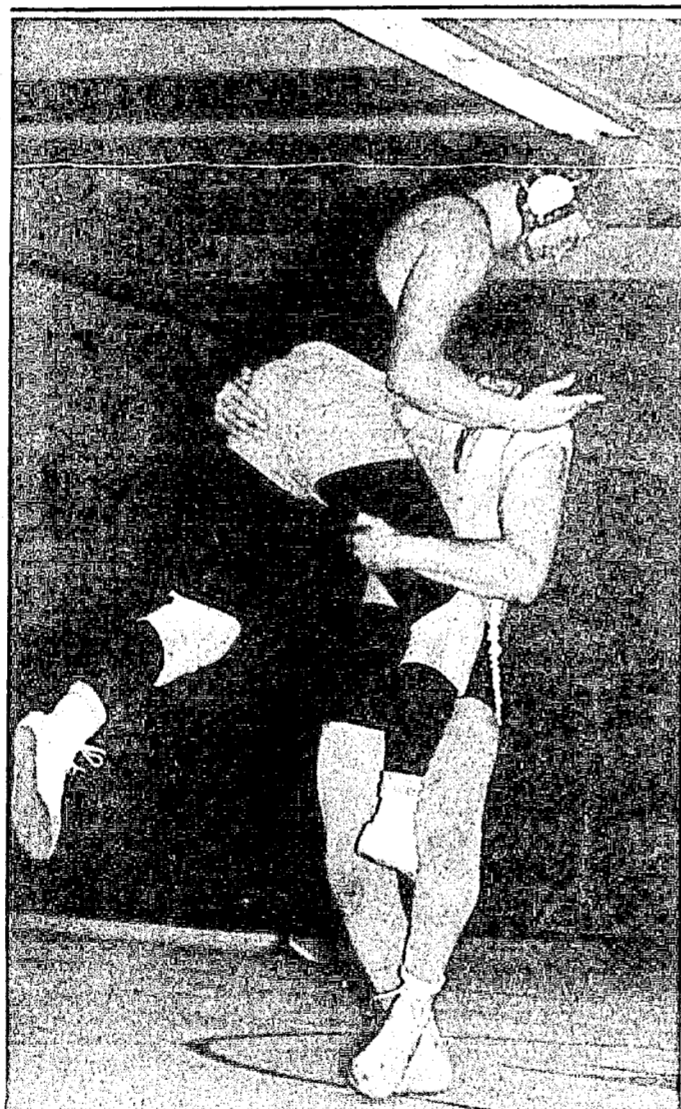

Wayne Anderson's cagers seem to fulfill the bill of health the best since he had no serious injuries on his squad, yet. This is a miracle in itself since the road was not that smooth in the beginning. Bob Noice was out of action almost a month with a thigh injury while Jim "hacker" looked like the "Masked Marvel" wearing a mask during the pre-season so his broken nose would be allowed to heal. Rick Day went to get up out of bed the following morning after the Saturday night clash with Idaho State and promptly fell flat on his face only to find out later that he had a bad internal ankle bruise. They gave him some pain pills before the Weber State contest which took the sting out of his ankle, but also took the sting out of his scoring punch from the previous two weekend encounters.

The ironic thing about Idaho's injury list is that some people wonder why the Vandals' patented trainer, Packey Boyle, is retiring this August. Packey might be suspicious because the pains and injuries might be contagious and he wants to get out before he is put on the disabled list. Packey has come up with all kinds of remedies, but his best medicine cannot be found in his kit and that is his humor.

I think that there are more people on the disabled list in the student body than there are on the athletic teams pudging by the turnout at the rally for the basketball team last Wednesday night. I thought that there were 6,000 students enrolled this semester, but it seemed Wednesday night that there couldn't have been more than 600 enrolled. Even the famed Gault Hall cheering section was not to be seen anywhere. I'm sure that Coach "Andy" could have called all of the Vandals' supporters on one dime that night—it kind of makes a coach wonder what the student body expects of him.

Then there was the E-Board session on Tuesday night that put another barb in the side of Idaho athletics. A proposal to send the cheerleaders and rally men down South was cut in half with the cheerleaders being allowed to make the trip to Ogdon this weekend for the Big Sky showdown. After the Board passed on the money that was necessary for the trip, they couldn't determine from what funds the money should come or if they had any funds. When it comes to fining out how much money is in their many funds, it is just like asking E-Board the $64,000 question—but don't sell them short. They can make the student body dollar go a long way, if you don't believe me, then watch them pass the buck time and again. Better yet, 99% of the time it is the same buck. The moral of the story—if in doubt about E-Board money, just ask their faithful budget director, Mike Powell.

E-Board stated their sentiment about not being able to send the rally men and said that it was not because they were not Vandal Boosters, but yet at the rally Wednesday night, I believe that Roy Haney was the only member in attendance. That's what I call a real boost.

UP IN THE AIR—Columbia Basin's Vern Hall has Idaho's Butch Mitchell up in the air and under control as Hall went on to decision Mitchell 17-1.

Vandal Babes Play NIJC Cardinals

★ Intramurals ★

Conference Crown On Line At Ogden

The Vandal Frosh will play tonight at Coeur d'Alene as they meet NIJC for the second time this year. The Cardinals won the first encounter 55-51 in their only other encounter earlier this season. Their next action will not be until after Washington's Birthday when they play preliminary contests against the Montana Frosh.

The "Babes season record now stands at 5-8 with victories over Columbia Basin College, and Big Bend College in the JC ranks and the Gonzaga and Montana Frosh in the frosh category.

Currently the Vandalbabes are trailing their opponents by just three points per game, as they are scoring 64.6 to 67.6 for the rebound department by almost eight per game as they have hauled down 44.0 per game to 36.8 for the others.

They also lead in the field goal percentage but they trail in the freethrow stats by one percentage point. Their field goal percentage is .41 while they are making almost two-thirds of their free throws with a .66 percent. The personal foul department is all even with the opponents having been called for 190 and the Vandals for 190 also. In the individual statistics Adrian Prince is leading the scorers with an average of 13.4 per game with Keith Hessing close behind at 12.3 per game. Prince also tops the foul department with 41 in 13 games.

John Nelson is sinking .76 percent of his foul shots to lead the team with 47 made in 62 attempts.

Adrian Prince has made 77 of 165 from the field for a .47 percent along with 21 of 32 for .66 percent from the charity strip. He also has the most rebounds with 138 for an average of 10.8 per game.

Keith Hessing the second leading scorer has made 65 of his 135 attempts from the field to lead the regulars in that area. He has also made 30 of 48 for the line for a .63 percent showing from the line. He is pulling down 8.6 rebounds per game while committing only 29 fouls.

John Nelson is the third man on the scoring list with a total of 137 points in all 13 games for 10.5 per game. He has made 35 of 116 for .39 percent from the field.

Speedy Redhead Has Class In Air, Court

The speedy redhead from the Lambda Chi house is showing his class these days in the air as well as on the basketball court.

Rick Day, senior forward on the Vandal basketball team, will finish his college work this spring which will make him eligible for a reserve commission in the U.S. Air Force at the same time. Rick who is presently a cadet-major in the cadet brigade, has also finished his requirements as a student pilot through the ROTC program.

Day has his 10 hours of dual instruction and flying under his belt several weeks ago as his time for a solo flight approached. "I was just a little scared, but mostly anxious, as I completed my first solo," he said.

"It was one of the greatest thrills in my career." He quickly qualified the statement by saying, "Of course I sure liked getting 24 points against Idaho State on Saturday night."

He was thrilled over the first solo and since then has been getting in extra flying time whenever he can. Day loves to fly and hopes to continue his career as a flying officer in the Air Force after his graduation from Idaho.

On the basketball court Day is the second leading scorer for the team with a 10.4 average in 18 games and is hitting his field goals at a .43 percent. The charity line also shows his ability as he has made 33 of 44 from there for a respectable .75 percent.

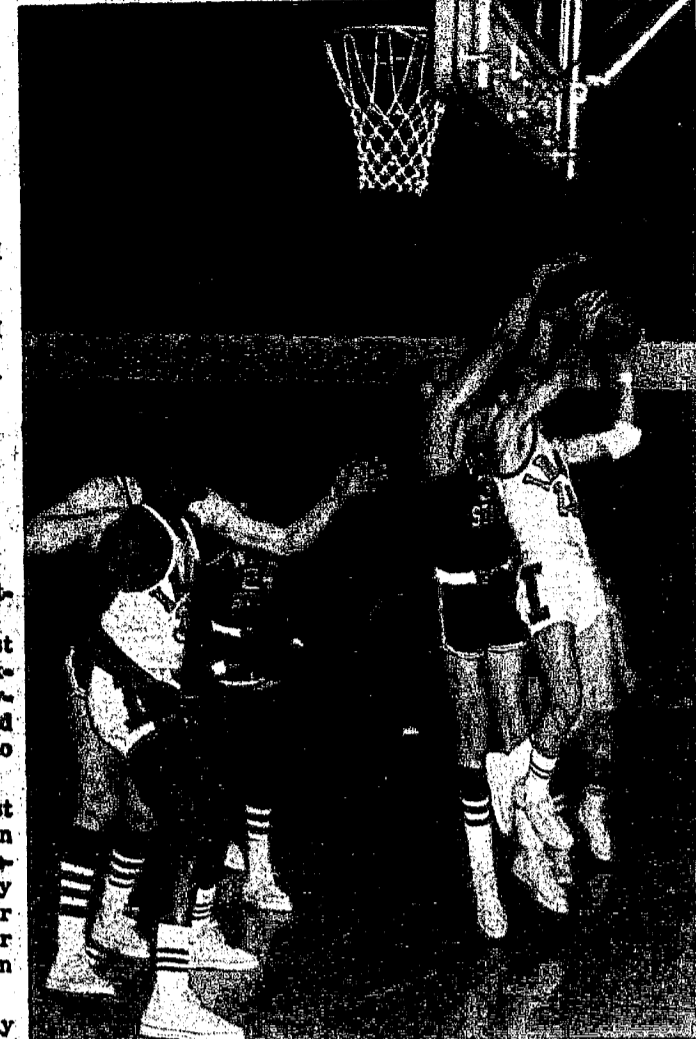

Rick has been a starter all season and has often led the scoring along with being named captain several times.

He attended a ROTC summer camp last summer during which he toured the Air Force Academy and was given a ride in a jet trainer.

"I enjoyed the trip to the Academy," he said, then went on to describe his trainer flight. "I had a chance to fly in a jet-trainer and handle the controls for a while, of course I am hoping some day to be a jet pilot in the Air Force," he said.

"Right now, I am putting more of my time in the practice sessions and doing all I can to aid our team as we make a bid for the Big Sky title," he said.

"We have a fine group of dedicated athletes on our squad and we sincerely believe in the wonderful coaching we are getting from Wayne Anderson. Our team believes, to a man, that we can take the title and after that chore is completed, then I can look forward to my Air Force career," Day said.

ON THE DRIVE—Idaho's Jim Johnston manages to get the shot off despite the interference of Weber's Dan Sparks (30), but Sparks was called for a foul. Looking on for the Vandals is Steve Brown and Weber's Justus Thigpen.

Vandals Are Impressive In Conference Starts

Idaho carries a 7-1 Conference record to Ogden Friday. Although the Vandals have, on the average, outscored their Big Sky opponents by less than 6 points per game, a look at the overall statistics tells more of the story.

The Vandals have an edge over their opponents in every statistical category. The hoopsters have been hotter free-throw shooters, hotter from the field, and have fouled less. The team has hit an average of 43 per cent of its shots from the field, and 75 per cent of its shots from free throw line, compared to their opponents averages of 42 per cent from the field and 64 per cent from the line.

In individual statistics Jim Thacker continues to lead conference scoring for the team with a 20.2 average, after a home stand output of 80 points in his last three games.

In Big Sky statistics three other Vandals are also in double figures. They are Tony Traweek with 13.0 points in eight conference games, Rick Day, who is hitting for 12.7, and Phil Waddell who has a 12.2 average. Jim Johnston has a 7.3 average for the games.

Phil Waddell is high percentage wise, in conference games. He has hit on 54 per cent of his shots from the field, while Traweek, with 48 per cent, Day with 47 per cent, and Thacker with 46 per cent are close behind.

In the rebound column the team leader is, of course, Steve Brown. He has snagged an average of 9.4 rebounds per Big Sky game. Rick Day has tallied 7.9 rebounds in those games and the next Vandal in the rebound statistics is Jim Thacker with 4.4 per game.

At the free throw line the team, led by Phil Waddell, has compiled an impressive 75 per cent average for conference games. Waddell has hit on 92 per cent of his tries at the line, Jim Thacker has hit 85 per cent, Jim Christensen 82 per cent, Jim Johnston 76 per cent, and Steve Brown 71 per cent.

The Idaho Vandals will have their work cut out for them starting tonight when they take on the Weber State Wildcats at Ogden. The Vandals will find the tables turned when they face the Wildcats in Utah territory with the 4100 hometown fans dwindling to six, mainly the Pom Pon girls.

The Vandals' 71-67 victory over the Wildcats in overtime gave them the undisputed lead in the Big Sky at 7-1 compared to the Wildcats 6-2 mark.

What makes it rough on the Vandals is that they have to face the same Weber State quintet on Saturday with a Monday clash at Pocatello with the Idaho State Bengals who have their sights set on revenge after losing the Spud Trophy to Idaho in addition to a couple of conference tilts.

It is almost a must for Idaho to split with Weber State. If the Vandals lose both ends of the twill to Weber State and beat Idaho State this would leave them one game off the pace with four contests remaining.

The following weekend Weber State plays Montana State twice and Montana once with all of the games being away from home. If the Vandals were to lose two to Weber, then their only hope would be to have one of the Montana schools knock off the Wildcats.

Anyway you look at it Idaho has a rough road as they too have to face Montana and Montana State. Idaho plays Montana twice more and Montana State on one more occasion, but Idaho will take them on in their home surroundings of Memorial Gym.

Another headache for the Vandals is that they have to travel to Spokane for their final conference encounter in Kennedy Pavilion against the Gonzaga Bulldogs.

Idaho's only conference loss came at the hands of Montana State away from home when they lost a Saturday night encounter, 87-71. The previous night Idaho overcame a 21-point deficit to trim the Bobcats, 84-83.

The Vandals have only played Montana once and this was also on the road as Idaho came from 14 points down to take a 76-69 decision. Idaho has tangled three times this year against Gonzaga losing their opening tilt in the Liliac Tourney to the Bulldogs, 59-53.

In two conference games, Idaho has come out on top of things with a homefloor, 74-65, decision followed up by a 70-65 win over the Bulldogs at Kennedy Pavilion.

Against Idaho State, Idaho has reeled off three straight victories taking the clash down in Twin Falls, 72-64, and following up with a double victory over the Bengals in Moscow by scores of 104-76 and 84-80.

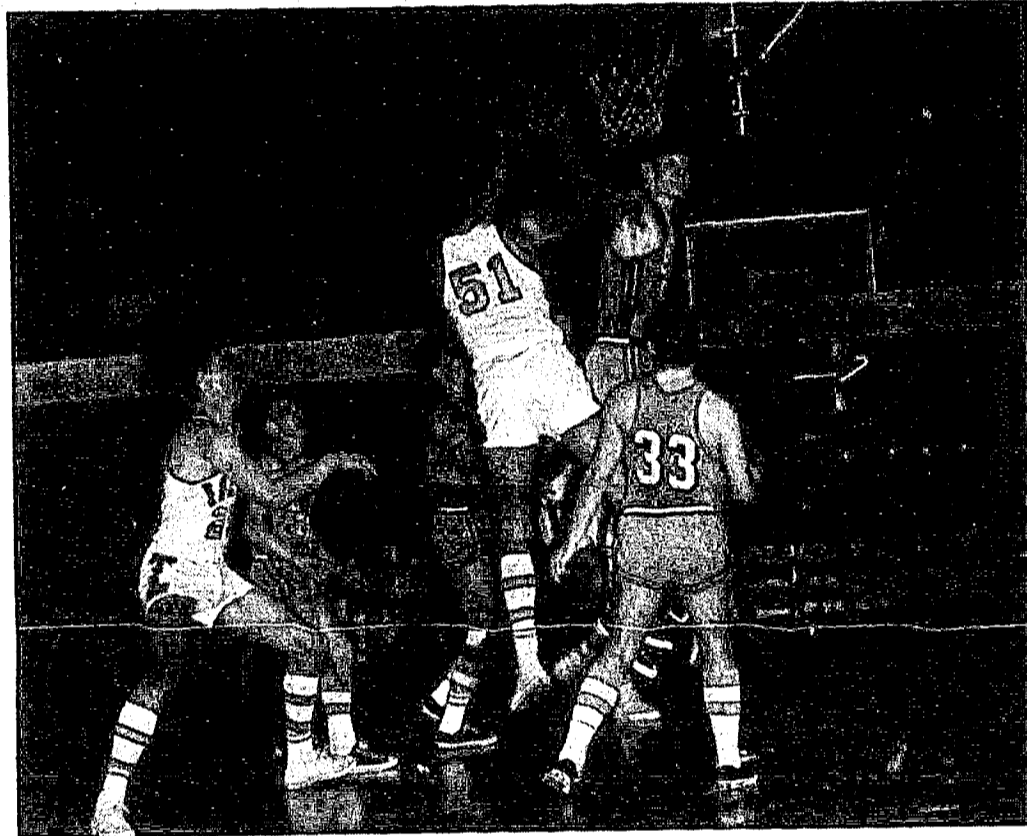

Coach Wayne Anderson feels that he will be pleased to come out with a split at Weber State, but he has been saying this all season long in reference to other Big Sky opponents.

Weber State showed the Vandals one thing and that is that Idaho will have to hit from the outside if they are going to damage the Wildcat zone. So far the Vandals have answered with damaging effects to their opposition.

The sparkplug in the Vandal scoring column has been guard Jim Thacker who tallied a total of 80 points over the weekend. Thacker canned 20 points on Friday and followed up with a 26-point effort on Saturday. In Monday's clash with Weber State "Thumper" tossed in 34 for a fine shooting exhibition.

At the forward spots, Tony Traweek has been playing some fine all-around games, but seemed to have lost his shooting touch against Weber State. Meanwhile Rick Day has progressed along and now had to be reckoned with as a shooter. He had a good weekend against Idaho State with efforts of 15 and 24 points.

Steve Brown has added tremendously to Idaho's rebounding strength and will be counted on heavily to help carry the load on the boards for the Vandals in their crucial three game series.

Vandal Ski Team To Host Big Sky Championships

The Vandal ski team will take a strong cross country contingent into the Big Sky Championship over the Washington's Birthday weekend in McCall as they host the Idaho Invitational at the same time.

The meet which will be run with the slalom and cross country on Feb. 24 and the downhill along with the jumping on Sunday, Feb. 25. The combination of the conference championship with the Idaho Invitational will bring together Big Sky teams with several other area colleges.

Montana State University and the University of Montana will be represented along with the Vandals and Weber State College in the Big Sky finals, but it is doubtful that Idaho State or Gonzaga will attend.

Schools outside the conference that will be in the competition will be headed by the University of Washington and the University of Wyoming along with the University of Alaska and the College of Idaho.

In their last team meet, when was held at Banff, Alberta, over the semester break, the cross country team finished second with two Vandals in the top four. Terje Skogland topped the Vandal's efforts as he took second place. Ole Bergseth was fourth for the Vandals as they finished behind the University of Denver. Denver placed their top two men first and third with their third man in the top ten too. Ed Gunderson was the Vandal's third man. He finished in 20th place.

Bob Zapp and Bruce Henry competed in the giant slalom in Spokane and took two places each. In the two races that were run Zapp finished 7th and 8th while Henry ran the course for 6th and 8th places.

At the same time Terje Skogland and Ed Gunderson were competing in a cross country meet at Mission Ridge in Wenatchee. They finished one and two with Terje leading the way.

HALFTIME ACTION—Weber State's drill team made the journey to Moscow last Monday night and put on a fine halftime show, but their smiles slowly faded away as the Vandals decimated the Wildcats in overtime.
