History professors would probably go out of their minds if they received a test with Western Union Telegrams in the Ice Age, and the Ark at the Boardwalk in Atlantic City.

However, Thornton Wilder has used these very mix-ups in his Pulitzer Prize winning play, "Skin of Our Teeth" which will be presented on campus by Idaho dramatics this Thursday, Friday, and Saturday at 8:00 p.m. in the Ad Auditorium.

From the invention of the wheel to modern space flight Wilder has condensed the adventures of one family, the Antrobuses, through human history. Many comic situations arise through Wilder's creation, but he also makes the serious suggestion that the survival of man through the ages, despite natural calamities and man's own shortcomings, proves that humanity will continue to forge onward if he keeps his sights set high.

Mr. Antrobus, played by John Naples, off campus, is shown as the leader of men, and a good family man that pulls his family through the many crisis which face them. Mrs. Antrobus, Vickie Haight, Pi Phi, is the real leader of the family, and is the rational guidance behind the scenes for Mr. Antrobus.

While the Antrobuses are visiting Atlantic City, where Mr. Antrobus speaks to the convention of the Ancient Order of Mammals, he is tempted by the eternal seductress, Sabina, Nancy Kandel, McCoy, to divorce his wife and marry her.

Just as all looks lost for Mr. Antrobus, a spindly fortune-teller, Leslie Leek, Tri Delta, interrupts to foretell the end of the world. The Antrobuses just get aboard the Ark, when the rains begin.

Combined with the techniques of experimental theatre, the end of the world is shown with psychedelic lights, flashing slides, and vivid colors.

This is only one instance of the play which has been renovated to fit with the current ideas in theatre.

"Skin of Our Teeth," opening Thursday, marks another first for U of I theatre. Tickets are on sale now at the Information desk in the SUB, or at Carter's Drug in downtown Moscow.

THE "MIXED MEDIA" crew, Bob Turritin, left, hands a slide to faculty designer, Robert Thompson while Gerald Henry projects a familiar family portrait on the screen, in preparation for "The Skin of Our Teeth."

'Festival of the Arts' To Continue Tonight

The "Festival of the Arts" continues tonight when music professors from Washington State and Idaho combine to present a "Composer's Concert" at 8 p.m. in the Music Recital Hall.

The unique festival opened Thursday with a Northwest Wind Quintet and New Arts Players Concert. "Wild Strawberries," an account of a doctor's journey through a land of dream and memory was shown March 1-3 in the Borah Theatre. Sunday Dave Seiler's Jazz Lab Band presented a concert featuring the swing music of the past.

Tonight in the "Composer's Concert" Greg Steinko and William Billingsley of Idaho will play their respective compositions. From Washington State the composers are William Brandt, William Watson and Oran Olsen.

From March 7-9, the Pacific Northwest premiere of the mixed-media theatre will be presented with the up-beat version of the Pulitzer Prize winning "The Skin of Our Teeth," by Thornton Wilder. Directed by Forrest Sears, the play will be performed in the University Auditorium at 8 p.m. Four large screens will surround the futuristic set created by designer-technician, Robert Thompson, instructor of dramatics.

Completing a rugged nine-day tour of the Gem State, the renowned "Vandaleer" mixed chorus, under the baton of Glen Lockery, will return to campus on Sunday, March 10, for a 4 p.m. concert in the University

Auditorium. Included in the program will be the Academy Award winning music of Richard Rogers, "The Sound of Music."

On March 12, the University Orchestra under the direction of LeRoy Bauer, conductor, will perform Vittorio Giannini's "Symphony No. 2 and Joseph for Violin-cello and Orchestra." Guest soloist will be Achilles Balabanis, cellist. The second half of the concert will limelight Aron Copeland's "Appalachian Spring," a 1945 Pulitzer Prize winner in music.

Samuel Barber's "Summer Music, Op. 31" will be played by the Northwest Wind Quintet. The music will be danced to by Kay Kerns, Sharon Stranahan, Jenny Wood, Diane Yemler, and Michael Graves, and choreographed by Lucy McIver, assistant professor of women's physical education.

Closing out the festival will be Ruth Currier, professional dancer from New York. The famous choreographer-director will perform in the University Auditorium on Saturday, March 16, at 8 p.m. Says the New York Times—"an artist to be reckoned with." Miss Currier will also take part in the Northwest Dance Symposium on the campus, March 11-16.

Auctions, Dances, Contests Highlight Campus Chest

By PENNY PROCTOR
Arg. Reporter

In Idaho when it rains it pours. And it will literally be raining millions over the Campus this Wednesday at 9:30 a.m.

A plane furnished by the Vandal Flying Club will drop paper money over the area between the library, the UCC, the Gym and Gault.

The person who gathers the most dollar value of the fake money will win a kiss from Miss Campus Chest or Mr. Ugly Man during the coronation at the dance Friday night.

The plane will be flown by Jim Voyes, Graham.

Another activity in connection with Campus Chest Week are the house and professor Auctions Thursday in the SUB ballroom at 7 p.m. All the proceeds from this event will go to charity.

The professor auction is the auctioning of a U of I professor for an evening, post-lunch or post dinner lecture to the living groups with the highest bids.

The professor will be noted for a combination of his speaking talents, his holding of controversial opinions in areas of student interest and his general concern with the modern world and its problems.

A list of the professors and their subjects will be released at the auction.

A professional auctioneer will auction off the living groups who are bid for on their plans for a future exchange or function.

The bidding for both events will start at $10. The money will be collected immediately after the purchase in cash or check.

Campus Chest is also sponsoring a grubby dance from 9 to 12 p.m. Friday. The band will be the Mystic Tambourine from Spokane.

During the intermission the coed living groups will perform their own dance numbers. A trophy will be awarded to the winner.

Also announced at the dance will be the winners of the Miss Campus Chest and Mr. Ugly Man contests.

The official balloting for these contests began yesterday and will continue during the rest of this week. Each penny counts as one vote and any individual or living group may vote as often as it wants.

The winner shall be the candidate with most money votes. He and she will be awarded a trophy engraved with his name and the name of the living group.

The deadline for submitting ballots will be Friday at 10 p.m. All proceeds from the contests will be donated to charities.

Candidates for the Ugly Man contest are Lee Gunderson, Shoup; Kris Kellogg, Farmhouse; Jim Rosecrans, McConnell; Leo Bielenberg, Lindley; Robie Russell, Chrisman; Darrell Danialson, Snow; David Gabert, Upham; and Terry Stranahan, Borah.

Other candidates are Mick Nance, Pi Kap; Wendell Holton, Theta Chi; Marc Shigeta, Phi Tau; Terry Sechler, Delta Chi; Neal Bariger, Delta Sig; Perry Kirby, Sigma Chi; Steve Long, Phi Delta Theta; and Steve Engstrom, Lambda Chi.

Also running are Russ Storey, Sigma Nu; John Anacabo, Kappa Sig; Larry Hersman, ATO; Don Farley, Beta; Ed Harper, Phi; Bruce Tebbas, Delta Tau Delta; Del Edelman, TKE; and Mike Nelson, SAE.

Miss Campus Chest contestants include Sue Stark, Campbell; Carolyn Brooks, Oleson; Tina Smith, DG; Ricki Fay, French; Nancy Germer, Steel; Karen Rinsfather, Gamma Phi; Joellen Wright, Hays; Arlene Aruckle, Alpha Phi; and Roxie Stevens, Houston.

Other candidates are Sally Past, Carter; Robyn Remaldus, Alpha Gamma; Sue Jones, Forence; Sally Carlson, Kappa; Anita Dallilo, McCoy; Kay Rasenberger, Theta; Artie Stone, Alpha Chi; and Pat Tippitt, Tri Delta.

Yesterday, as a new feature of Campus Chest, a treasure hunt was held. Slogans and clues were given over KUOL. The hunt took place on campus and the prize was two season passes to any SUB movie the rest of the semester.

All the proceeds from the events this week are donated to various charities. This year the money will be distributed on a percentage basis to the following charities: American Cancer Society, Muscular Dystrophy, March of Dimes, Red Cross, Moscow United Fund, Idaho Heart Association, Near East Foundation, Alpha Phi Omega, World University Service, Alliance for Progress, Moscow Opportunity School, Idaho Youth Ranch, Cystinosis (Little Joe Fund), Elk's Rehabilitation Center, Lewiston Children's Home, and the State Hospital at Nampa.

Voter Interest Needed In ASUI General Election

"I sincerely hope there is a little more interest in voting," said Election Board chairman Jim England, "than in students have in running for office."

Wednesday, March 6, is the annual ASUI spring general election. Polls will be located in the Administration Building, the Physical Science Building, and the SUB.

The polls will be open from 8:45 a.m. thru 5:15 p.m. Voters must have their University identification card to be able to obtain a ballot.

Vying for the position of president of the Associated Students are Larry Craig, Delta Chi, this year's Activities Council Budget Director, and Bill Gigray, Beta, who has served this past year on Executive Board.

Running unopposed for the vice-presidency is Mike Powell, Delta, who is also presently serving on ASUI E-Board.

Ten candidates are officially running for Executive Board positions this spring. The nine who are elected will assume their new posts in April.

In the race are Jim Willms, Upham; Ron French, Delta; Allison Miller, Alpha Phi; Tom Carroll, McConnell; Jim Whistler, Phi; Robert Young, SAE; Roger Anderson, off-campus; Chuck Wardle and Dennis Albers, Lambda Chi and Taylor Gudmundson, Beta.

Two constitutional amendments will also be on the ballot. One amendment changes the present wording in Article II, clause 3 from "The secretary of the ASUI shall be elected from the Executive Board," to "The secretary of the ASUI shall be appointed by the Executive Board." The other amendment, if approved by the students, will allow student referendums to be called by a petition bearing the names of at least 10 per cent of the number of students voting in the last election. The other portion of the amendment will give E-Board the power to call for a student referendum on an issue with a simple majority of the members present.

One write-in candidate has announced that he is vying for the E-Board, Joe Numbers, a freshman from Sigma Chi, has also entered the race.

"Since only ten candidates are running for nine vacancies on E-Board, thus, as a write-in candidate, I wish to give you, the students a choice in who you want to represent you and your opinion on E-Board," he said.

Retired General Talks Against Vietnam War

Hugh Hester, retired Brigadier General, spoke yesterday against the United States' role in the Vietnamese War. Hester spoke in the Borah Theater under the sponsorship of the Peaceful Solutions Committee.

Mr. Hester served for 34 years in the Army, retiring in 1951. His position as a dissenting military leader was established when he resigned because of his conflicting views in the Korean War. Hester commended fellow dissenters in the Senate in his introduction, citing Senator Frank Church's eloquence and courage. However, he felt this dissent stopped before the voting as only a few voted against war appropriations.

"I wish they would vote the way they felt," he said.

Because of his extended absence from the military, Hester spoke as a student of international policy and American diplomacy. Tracing American Asian diplomacy back to Roosevelt's era, Mr. Hester interjected personal remarks on Generals McArthur and Ridgeway. In citing the folly of post WW II wars, he quoted McArthur as saying, "war now is mutual suicide. There is no distinction between winners and losers."

"Because America kept China out of her charter seat in the United Nations, we missed the possibilities of peace in Asia," he said.

Asian disturbances, he felt, can be followed back to 1949 when America began waging economic and political war on China. According to Hester, South Vietnam was then unsuitable as a base for attacking China.

Following our rejection of the Geneva Conference, however, America installed an "agent," Dien, in the government of South Vietnam.

"We were then able to cancel the promised Vietnamese elections because Ho Chi Minh would have won 80 per cent of the vote," Hester said.

From this initial infiltration of the government, the U.S. has since been able to exercise control of the government.

Bringing the U.S. involvement to current times, it has been during Johnson's administration that the number of troops have been increased, from 20,000 to the present 500,000. The South Vietnamese have been given no choice of governments. They are, consequently, fighting two forces; the opposition and the U.S. forces and administration.

Concluding his comments against the present policies, Hester offered his own plan for ending the war. The U.S. should accept U Thant's suggestion to end our aggression by stopping the bombing and calling for a national cease fire. The country could establish rules similar to those drawn at the Geneva Conference. South Vietnam would then be treated as a neutral country.

Correspondent To Speak March 11

A man who has been CBS News White House correspondent for the past 10 years and has earned a reputation for his shrewd political analysis, Robert Pierpoint, will speak here on March 11, it was announced by Dwight S. Hoffman, chairman of Public Events.

A lively and perceptive analyst of the current national and world scene, Pierpoint will speak on "America Looks to the '68 Elections" in the Memorial Gymnasium at 10 a.m.

Named White House correspondents in 1957, Pierpoint covers the activities of the President, his staff and his family.

He has traveled with Lyndon Johnson to the Far East in 1966, with John Kennedy on two trips to Latin America, and was with the President in Dallas on the day he was assassinated. He also accompanied Dwight Eisenhower on his journeys to Europe, the Middle East and India.

Pierpoint has been with CBS News since 1949, when he became their special correspondent in Scandinavia.

Editorial Opinion

Yes, Virginia

Yes, Virginia, there will be an ASUI election Wednesday. However, if the campus follows the patterns of past years the turnout of voters in that election will be disgraceful to the whole institution of student government.

In numerous past elections not even a third of the campus has voted. At times the number has looked like it would plunge down to less than 20 per cent. Something is evidently seriously wrong.

The problem is that people do not vote if that vote is basically meaningless to them. And today, while student government is making some headway toward meaningfulness, the majority of the campus is still unaffected by the actions of the victors in the annual contests.

However, the situation is only made worse by its own existence. The campus doesn't care, so it doesn't vote. The government's elected give the campus even less to care about, and even fewer people vote. The problem is that Idaho student government seems to be caught in a downward spiral. Fewer votes, lead to fewer peak campus leaders, and hence, still fewer votes.

But, griping about the condition of things will never solve the problem. The only way for the downward cycle to be uplifted is for conscientious students to decide that now is the time for them to take action.

The mere act of walking to the polls and casting your vote could make the difference in the election. One vote contests are not all that rare. One vote decisions by E-Board are very common. Every Idaho student does indeed have the potential of making the Student government truly responsive to his needs. He must only take the first step.

He must vote Wednesday. He can begin to break the cycle, and once broken, the basic problems can be solved. C.L.S.

Election Overview

By Chris L. Smith, Acting Editor

The time of decision is almost near. By the next Argonaut the campus will know who has been elected and who has gone on to the political ash heap. The results will be interesting, but it appears that they may be basically meaningless in the E-Board races.

In that contest only one person will be eliminated from the race. He will probably be the one whose name is least known on campus and who has had the least money to finance a campaign. The main subject of conversation among the campus politicians does seem to be who will the unlucky tenth man be, but there is no real agreement.

Looking at the race, with its dearth of candidates, and comparing today's Arg with that of past years, one wonders why the decrease in political activism. It appears that being on E-Board has somehow lost some of its appeal.

The reason for the decline of the popularity of campus politics could be explained in a number of ways. Probably most important is that there are continually developing more and more campus activities to take the time and energy of the activist who finds that the class work itself is not totally consuming.

The development of such activities as the Free University and other new ideas that offer areas of intellectual expansion can easily be seen to have an appeal that would lure away the potential E-Board candidate. This is especially true when that candidate is confronted with the confusing maze of endless meetings and paper work "ad nauseum."

Also having no small influence on the number of candidates is the increasing pressure of academics. Previously there was plainly just more time. Today, however, class loads have increased due to pressures of the draft. Grades are harder to come by, and candidates know that service on E-Board will take increasingly more time. Caught in the time squeeze, the potential candidate decides that a retreat is the best way out, and another good potential member never announces his candidacy.

PERSONALLY SPEAKING: From my own point of view the campaign as it winds to a close, all the candidates who did run deserve a round of applause for their endeavors and their maturity. There have been some very basic differences of opinions show up in this election and the campus has been given more of a choice than it has enjoyed before.

A definite liberal conservative dichotomy is evident among the various candidates as they take stands on the issues. The leading exponent of the conservative point is Jim Williams. The Wizard proudly claims the title of being a conservative, and says that although he is not opposed to change, he is afraid of change for the sake of changing. That cagey wizard could be called just down right cautious.

Trying to find the leading liberal candidate would be a task. The lot seems to slide into one another's points of view and there is a general amalgamation of the left. Tom Carrol, Bob Young and Roger Anderson have been the most outspoken exponents of enlarging the scope of campus government and student influence.

In the middle are found most of the rest of the candidates for the Board. Their positions seem to shift from issue to issue and it would be impossible to attempt a classification.

Trying to put the presidential candidates into classes would also be an undertaking that no political analyst would want to attempt.

Perhaps the best generalization that can be made about the presidential race is no generalization at all. Bill Gigray is Gigray and Larry Craig is Larry Craig.

Craig is more the new comer into campus politics, while Gigray has had the seasoning of a year on E-Board. Craig, however seems to be the better speaker, and is more polished in his presentation.

Gigray, on the other hand, is more off the cuff with an audience. Craig seems to have a platform based on the generalities of campus political structures, and says that there is a great deal of investigation that needs to be done and that specific programs should be formulated to meet the problems.

Gigray seems to have the answers and the programs formulated in his mind, and is raring for the chance to get them into operation. He seems to be less cautious than Craig, and less inclined to look at generalities.

As to which would be the more outspoken as president, the campus' pundits can find no agreement. Everyone has his own opinion, and the campus will make up its mind on Wednesday.

FORECAST: I will predict that the last E-Board seat is a hard fought contest, and that there will be very little difference in vote tallies among the last five. Four will win; and one will cry a lot.

On the presidential scene, I see a very very close race. This election could be a cliff hanger.

On the vice presidential race: At least OX will get one vote, D. Blaire Clark's.

PLANS: In order that the news of the election can be delivered to the campus Thursday morning, the Argonaut will publish on Wednesday night, instead of the usual Thursday.

Written From South Idaho

The University of Idaho is losing "the race" in the Southern part of our state. The race concerns student recruitment, local influence and financial support for the scholarship and arts program at the University. Why? It all comes back to the balance-of-power theory that is such a favorite of our history profs. Because of the geographical shape and location of our state, it is only natural for other schools to attempt to recruit money and students from the area. The tempo of this infiltration has increased in recent years as the hegemony of the University of Idaho has crumbled. Idaho must either fill that vacuum or lose talent and money to schools that are willing to make the extra effort to recruit.

After having spent the past five weeks student teaching at Hagerman High School, this writer begins to question the very existence of the University of Idaho. For every piece of literature from Moscow, there are six from schools such as Idaho State University, University of Utah and the College of Southern Idaho. Not only do these schools seem to recognize the need for an aggressive public relations program, but they also promote their programs by sending representatives to visit local areas. Utah schools are well represented on school district facilities, as is Idaho State. These schools seem to be making a much larger play in the press and their brochures are attractive, interesting and emphasize progressive programs and lucrative scholarship opportunities.

The encroachment on University of Idaho territory is made abundantly clear by mentioning that Twin Falls High School Orchestra will perform at Utah State University this month at the invitation of the school. Three high schools were chosen for this "outstanding" honor. The other two high schools are located in Utah. There could not be a more graphic illustration of what we are attempting to indicate. The University of Idaho must meet this challenge with a much broader, more aggressive public relations campaign aimed at re-establishing its reputation in the high schools of southern Idaho.

The blame for the slip in prestige must be laid somewhere. There are many areas of the University which are at fault, but the Publications office must carry the brunt of the criticism. We realize that improvements have been made, but a larger and better organization seems still to be out of reach for our people. Another solution to our problem would be a more organized and larger student recruitment program. Some half hearted attempts were made this past fall, but because of the inability of students to work for the common good of the University, the program squawked and flapped a couple of times, then went into a "swan song."

The isolationist philosophy compounded by a pompous, indignant attitude of superiority, is notorious at the University of Idaho. Because of this, we hear of deans at the University pulling their hair and yelling things like, "They can't do that." But they are, and they will, unless Idaho meets the challenge by recognizing that times have changed and Idaho State and Utah schools see the gold mine ready to be panned by the institution that is willing to build a program strong enough. State lines no longer have a prohibitive aspect so long used as a limitation to educational expansion. Schools are looking for talented students and are very happy to put out the money and effort necessary to get them.

If Student Government?

By Larry Seale

Students at Idaho have questioned the role and effectiveness of student government for years, and its good that they do. I am on a campus now where there is no questioning—everyone agrees that the students have no power. None. On top of that, no one cares.

From my experience last year as a candidate for ASUI President, and my understanding of "student influence" at the U of I, here are several points I feel should be considered before voting in the upcoming election:

ADMINISTRATION—Most students (and a lot of candidates) are not aware of the amount of administrative, "paperwork" business that Executive Board must contend with. A candidate with enough organizational ability to streamline the rather inconsistent procedures used at present and take care of day-to-day problems would be a real asset in a leadership position.

POLITICIANS—Anyone can come up with appealing plans for "effective student government," can wear a sharp sports coat, or have something witty to say when he interrupts your meals, but this doesn't mean he has the ability to logically and effectively pursue the needs of students.

UTOPIAS—A sudden improvement in student government isn't likely to come about as a result of a change in its structure. A candidiate whose campaign is based on such a change just shows incapacity to deal with reality. The "power" of student government is proportional to the amount of pressure student leaders are willing to exert to get what students need.

COMMUNICATION—What students need has to be apparent to student leaders and the ASUI President must not only seek student opinion in this regard, but must make sure that the campus is informed of possible E-Board action at all times. The Argonaut and KUOI need to take a lot more responsibility in this area, too.

LEADERSHIP—In the final analysis, the "power" of student government depends on the commitment of the ASUI president and other members of E-Board. Leadership means going ahead with a project in the student interest despite a chance of failure, it means a willingness to press issues opposed by the administration, a willingness to lose friends by demanding complete competence from them, and the readiness to initiate student action in any area to improve the U of I.

These are not intended as a complete analysis of student government at Idaho, but simply a few objective points offered by someone far removed from the politics and speculation which no doubt exists on campus right now.

Hartung Praises Indian Students

Dear Jason,
The undertaking of any historical project eventually warrants special thanks to many individuals and organizations for their efforts and assistance in reaching the ultimate goal. The University of Idaho and her Alumni Association's FPAC campaign is no exception. Through the efforts of many students and student groups, the end result—a fine new facility—will be achieved.

1. Are you in favor of a community council type of government for the University of Idaho?

Yes, I believe that we are striving toward this form as it has worked out already at other institutions. Of course before-hand, there will have to be details, blueprints, and considerable work to assure the feasibility at Idaho. Merits of working directly with Faculty Council offers meaningful opportunities to the student body.

2. How would you represent student opinion to the state, the Regents, the Administration, and the faculty?

Student opinion is perhaps the most important function of student government. Soliciting it, it is necessary before representing it to anyone. Making better use of class extended boards and their officers can provide more of this opinion. Tact responsibility and planning must go in to public relations when presenting student opinion.

3. Are you in favor of the present Bill of Rights Document?

Yes, much work has gone into producing a good document, and it has proven itself effective at other colleges. It is new and not entirely understood therefore information should be forthcoming covering its details and explaining its purposes. E-Board must continue to work for its eventual passage by the University.

3. What action would you take in regard to student fee increase?

Student fees and how they are being spent to provide the various student benefits should be a matter of public information. Student opinion towards any fee increase should not be ignored because it is after all the students whom the fees are meant to serve in the first place.

On behalf of the University, I extend sincere thanks to the Indian Students' Association for this effort. I hope the response from the campus community will make it highly successful.

1. Are you in favor of a community council type of government for the University of Idaho?

Yes, I am very much in favor of the community council type of government for the University of Idaho. Through the community council I think the students would be given more equal representation with the faculty and the administration. The present student-faculty committees are the key to the success of the community council type of government.

2. How would you represent student opinion to the state, the Regents, the Administration, and the faculty?

Student opinion can be represented to the state, the administration, the faculty, and the Regents through referendums and petitions. These documents should be submitted and written in such a manner that the Regents, administration, the faculty and the state will accept them as the products of a mature, hard working, and self-improving student government.

3. Are you in favor of the present Bill of Rights Document?

I am in favor of the present student bill of rights with the exception of certain sections which seem to me need clarified so they will not have such a wide interpretation.

4. Should the ASUI student recruitment program be revised? If so, How?

The ASUI student recruitment program should definitely be revised. The many recruitment programs which now exist should be consolidated into one large far reaching program which would bring the best students to the University of Idaho. Student recruitment is a very serious problem for without top students the University will fail to grow.

5. Are you in favor of the present Student Bill of Rights proposal?

Yes, I do feel however, that this document should be examined closely by a qualified lawyer so that all parties involved (especially the students) know exactly what changes this Bill will bring about.

The many recruitment programs which now exist should be consolidated into one large far reaching program which would bring the best students to the University of Idaho. Student recruitment is a very serious problem for without top students the University will fail to grow.

5. Are you in favor of the present Student Bill of Rights proposal?

Yes, I do feel however, that this document should be examined closely by a qualified lawyer so that all parties involved (especially the students) know exactly what changes this Bill will bring about.

1. Are you in favor of a community council type of government for the University of Idaho?

Yes, I think that better student-faculty relations is a Council Government of the University of Idaho. I think that those they must create of a university community.

2. How would you represent student opinion to the state, the Administration, and the faculty?

I would be these respecting loudly in that represent student opinion.

3. Are you in favor of the present Bill of Rights Document?

I am in favor of the present Bill of Rights Document, but I think that the present document is not support. The present document areas that are ambiguous and unacceptable. If the Bill is in its present form, it is difficult.

1. Do you think it is necessary to have a student Bookstore?

Yes, with the present set up, it is not available for students. One would have to handle a lot of cash. One would have to have a lot of cash. One would have to have a lot of cash.

2. Are you in favor of the present Bill of Rights Document?

Yes, by the way, it is not enough available for students. One would have to handle a lot of cash. One would have to have a lot of cash. One would have to have a lot of cash.

3. What action would you take in regard to student fee increase?

I feel it is necessary to have a student Bookstore. One would have to handle a lot of cash. One would have to have a lot of cash. One would have to have a lot of cash.

4. Should the ASUI student recruitment program be revised? If so, How?

Yes, I think that the present document is not support. The present document areas that are ambiguous and unacceptable. If the Bill is in its present form, it is difficult.

ASUI GENERAL ELECTION

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 6, 1968

Vote for President and Vice President by placing an X after the candidate of your choice.

1. Are you in favor of a community council type of government for the University of Idaho?

Yes, I think we all realize that better understanding between students, faculty, and administration is a must. Community Council Government provides University of Idaho students with a direct line of communication to those they must work with in the creation of a more aggressive university community.

2. How would you represent student opinion to the state, the Regents, the Administration, and the faculty?

I would be obligated to go to these respective groups speaking loudly in favor of any issue that represented a majority of student opinion on our campus.

3. Are you in favor of the present Bill of Rights Document?

I am in favor of a Bill of Student Rights but find the present Bill, now on its way to Campus Affairs Committee, one I could not support. In examining the present document I have found areas that are much too broad, ambiguous and undefined to be acceptable. I feel approval of this Bill in its present form will be difficult.

1. Do you feel any changes are necessary in the University Bookstore?

Yes, with qualifications: Under its present setup it is being operated well. However, the store is only about one third large enough to handle a campus of 6,000 students. Ownership by students would appear impossible because of the nature of student involvement called for in a cooperative type set up. I am hopeful that the Bookstore Committee questionnaire due to be out in the near future will expose other problems.

2. Are present parking facilities and policies in need of change?

Yes. By next fall there will not be enough parking spaces available for all cars registered on campus. To my knowledge nothing is being done to handle this problem. Also I feel a standard parking violation charge would be more just, with no restriction set on the number of fines an individual might receive.

3. What action would you take in regard to student fee increase?

I feel it is the obligation of Student Government to search out student opinion and desire on such issues. Had a majority of the students expressed their opposition to such a fee increase I would then have gone to the President and the Board of Regents for consideration of another method of funding such a project.

4. Should the ASUI student recruitment program be revised? If so, How?

Yes. I think the whole university community must come to realize the importance of a well-developed student recruitment program. I would work for greater cooperation and better coordination of both student and university programs. A joint effort in this area could result in more top students coming to the University of Idaho.

1. Are you in favor of a community council type of government for the University of Idaho?

1. With the institution of the Faculty Council Committee on Campus Affairs student government at the University of Idaho made a tremendous stride in the direction of a Community Council. However, we must not stop. We must push ahead into new areas of student influence and make use of the power we have in the area of non-academic regulations. We should begin now to work for a true University wide community council government in which the interests of the student will be adequately represented in the government of this University.

2. How would you represent student opinion to the state, the Regents, the Administration, and the faculty?

2. The purpose of student government is to represent the student's interests and work for his welfare. The ASUI President should be in tune with the campus opinion, and should be taking student opinion to the Regents, the Faculty, and the state. The President of the ASUI should go to the Regent's meeting.

3. Are you in favor of the present Bill of Rights Document?

3. I feel that it is the responsibility of student government to protect student rights. The student Bill of Rights does that job. It will be the duty of the next student government to see that the Bill is enacted by Faculty Council and the Regents. I will speak out forcefully in favor of the Bill and will work for its adoption in its present form.

1. Do you feel any changes are necessary in the University Bookstore?

1. Student government should propose to the Regents projects for the use of the bookstore profits, and should see that those projects are adopted. If the Regents are opposed to such ideas pressure should be applied and the possibility of a profit return at a co-op store should be investigated.

2. Are present parking facilities and policies in need of change?

2. The present parking facilities and policies are in serious need of improvement. I believe we should institute a traffic planning board to make a comprehensive investigation of policies and procedures, and make recommendations for improvements.

3. What action would you take in regard to student fee increase?

3. Student government should never again be caught unaware by such an action. It should keep up on the issues before the Regents, and should bring those issues to the students. I would have no hesitancy about holding a student referendum and using the most effective means I could to make the results of the referendum meaningful.

4. Should the ASUI student recruitment program be revised? If so, How?

4. I feel that since student recruitment is basically a public relations venture to reach high school seniors that there should be more coordination of the recruitment programs with the public relations department. We should spend less time bickering over where a person is from in the program.

AMENDMENTS TO THE ASUI CONSTITUTION (Vote by X)

I. Are you in favor of changing the title of Article VII from Recall and Recall to read: Recall, Recall and Referendum and changing Article VII Section 3, to Section 4, and inserting as Section 8 the following: Section 8. Referendum: The ASUI Executive Board, by a simple majority of those members present at a regular meeting or by petition of 10% of the number of people voting in the previous general election, may refer legislation to the student body as a whole for approval or disapproval. A simple majority vote for a referendum proposal by the students voting in an election will validate and put the proposal into effect, when within the final jurisdiction of the ASUI. In matters outside the final jurisdiction of the ASUI, the Executive Board will automatically present all student body approved initiation and referendum measures to the Faculty Council Committee on Campus Affairs, the Faculty Council, and/or the Board of Regents.

Roger Anderson

1. Are you in favor of a community council type of government for the University of Idaho?

The only way students are going to get any measure of power is through community government. One feasible method to create a community government on this campus is to give students a vote on faculty council. Another method would be to put the Campus Affairs Committee on an equal standing with Faculty Council. One method should be followed.

2. How would you represent student opinion to the state, the Regents, the Administration, and the faculty?

Representative petitions from the student body, organized and administered through the class extended boards, can be very effective in representing student opinion. A new Communications Committee under the A.S.U.I. working the Publicity Area could then easily publicize this opinion.

3. Are you in favor of the present Bill of Rights Document?

I think that the basic idea of a cataloging of student rights is necessary particularly to the freshmen student. I, however, question the validity of some of the clauses such as judgement for "Academic Reasons" and the controversial "Expulsion" clause.

4. Should the ASUI student recruitment program be revised? If so, How?

I think the present Student Recruitment program can work if all the involved parties cooperate with each other. Furthermore, all groups associated with bringing students to the University of Idaho must work together to further this end. All such groups must "Get all their marbles in the same bag," as far as recruiting goes.

Dennis Albers

1. Are you in favor of a community council type of government for the University of Idaho?

If a literal definition is meant, I am not in favor of it. I don't think that this type of government is representative of enough students on the campus-wide scene and that Idaho is ready for it. In the future, if faculty and administration more fully accept student opinion, it might work.

Tom Carroll

1. Are you in favor of a community council type of government for the University of Idaho?

Yes. Through such a type of government we could form a helpful alliance with the faculty. This sort of program, though, should be allowed to evolve from the Committee on Campus Affairs. Radical changes in a government may help in the long run, but are always harmful in the short run.

2. How would you represent student opinion to the state, the Regents, the Administration, and the faculty?

Chuck Wardle

1. Are you in favor of a community council type of government for the University of Idaho?

Yes, But only if each representative group sitting on the council has an executive body subordinate to it. These subordinate bodies are necessary to filter the irrelevant and trivial material before it is submitted to the community council. Also, these subordinate bodies would have to be responsible to enforce the community council's actions as they apply to their particular constituents.

2. How would you represent student opinion to the state, the Regents, the Administration, and the faculty?

trite. However, in the future I believe it is the responsibility of student government to initiate mature and accurate measures which would clearly indicate to the Board of Regents, etc. that "A" number of students are opposed and only "B" number of students are in favor of Proposal "X". Then that body would have no doubt in their mind as to the student attitude when it makes its decision.

Taylor Gudmundson

1. Are you in favor of a community council type of government for the University of Idaho?

As I have stated before, I think there are many areas in which the combined effort of all the people affiliated with the University is most advantageous. A closer, more personal relationship between the student and the faculty and the administration will ultimately result in cooperation needed to make improvements.

2. How would you represent student opinion to the state, the Regents, the Administration, and the faculty?

In correlation with the first question, a more personal contact is needed with the administration, faculty, and Regents in order to effectively represent student opinion. I think it is the Executive Board's duty to insure this needed contact between the students and these other groups.

3. Are you in favor of the present Bill of Rights Document?

The present Bill of Rights Document has some flaws that should and will be ironed out. The basic concept behind the student Bill of Rights is a necessity and is an excellent move forward. I am wholeheartedly behind this document.

4. Should the ASUI student recruitment program be revised? If so, How?

The A.S.U.I. student recruitment program isn't in need of revision so much as it is in need of emphasis. Unless student government realizes the necessity of an effective and comprehensive student recruitment program, the University of Idaho will face a serious problem with recruiting in-state students.

Jim Willms

1. Are you in favor of a community council type of government for the University of Idaho?

I am in favor of a community council government in a limited sense. A relatively autonomous student government must be preserved if only to administer the ASUI budget.

How would you represent student opinion to the state, the regents, the administration, and the faculty?

Valid student opinion can be represented to the public only on the basis of appropriate referendums, opinion polls, or petitions. This can be done through official ASUI communications media.

Are you in favor of the present Student Bill of Rights proposal?

I am not in favor of the present student bill of rights proposal as certain sections of it seem destined to replace order by anarchy.

Are present parking facilities and policies in need of change?

In addition to the present crisis in parking construction of new buildings and dormitories will eliminate many spaces. Planning for practical as well as aesthetic value is in need.

Allison Miller

1. Are you in favor of a community council type of government for the University of Idaho?

This structure provides equal representation for and clear communications among all university segments. This facilitates total efficiency in achieving government goals.

2. How would you represent student opinion to the state, the regents, the administration, and the faculty?

As the official delegate, the President should represent and express student opinion. As an E-Board member, I would ascertain the President's knowledge of student views.

3. Are you in favor of the present Student Bill of Rights proposal?

The Bill, as passed by E-Board leaves many areas open to question and change by Campus Affairs, Faculty Council and the Board of Regents. The future E-Board must follow this bill through the several bodies, knowing what they're in the bill and what they're getting, taking into account legal interpretations and future implications.

4. In what capacity should student government be involved in campus physical planning?

If students are to be billed for the building of new facilities they should at least be represented on the planning commission.

New Research Proposal Reviewed by Committee

More than $57,000 in short term applied research proposals have been reviewed by the Steering Committee of the Research Advisory Council at the University, it was announced by Dr. H. Walter Steffens, vice-president of Academic Affairs. The committee is composed of business and industrial leaders.

Fifteen proposals will cover the areas of engineering, forestry, letters and science, business administration, geology, mining, agriculture, and law. The largest proposal funded concerns the study by Dr. George Williams, head of the Department of Geology and Geography. His research is entitled "The Geology, Geochemistry, and Beneficiation of Low-Grade Phosphate Ores in Idaho," and is budgeted for more than $9,000.

Dr. Steffens said that each dean of the nine colleges and schools at the university gave a report to the committee regarding the man-power potential and "needed research" of his respective area. The committee meets twice a year with the Research Council to review projects in progress and new research plans requesting special funds, and to advise the council on the problems within the state that need attention and could be done by University of Idaho personnel.

Committee members attending the Jan. meeting included Steele Barnett, manager of the Wood Product Development Department of Boise Cascade, Boise; R.J. Bruning, editor of the North Idaho Press of Wallace; Orland C. Mayer, director of Industrial Development, Idaho Power Co., Boise; George L. Crookham, Jr., board chairman, Crookham Co. of Caldwell; State Senator Richard A. Egbert of Teton, and State Senator James Ellsworth of Leadore. Also on the committee are State Representative H. Fred Koch of Boise; J.E. McKay, manager of Metallurgy Bunker-Hill Co. of Kellogg; M.A. Peterson, general manager of the Idaho Potato Growers, Inc., Idaho Falls.

NROTC Offers Two-Year Program

The Commander of the NROTC program at the University of Idaho, Mel E. Hirschi, associate professor of naval science, says that the young man contemplating a career with the Navy, while in college, must have an objective in mind—academic or military.

"There is no place for the potential midshipman who doesn't care, or is just passing time," said Cdr. Hirschi. "He must have an objective in mind, or he won't get through the program. Enthusiasm for the program is half the battle."

The Navy is now offering a two-year program that is aimed at the qualified junior college transfer. It affords the opportunity for a college student to get into a military program while he still has a selection. Qualified graduate students may also enroll in the two-year NROTC program.

Applications for the two-year contract program must be submitted to the Commanding Officers of NROTC Units for forwarding to the Bureau of Naval Personnel. Final selection for the program is made in the Bureau of Naval Personnel. Upon completion, the midshipman will become a commissioned reserve officer in the U.S. Navy or Marine Corps.

According to Cdr. Hirschi, the program offers the college student financial assistance, leadership training, and the ability to make meaningful associations with his fellow man.

Gary Vest, Phi Gamma Delta, John Kirk, Sigma Chi, and Larry Craig, Delta Chi, have been selected for The People to People Citizen Ambassador Travel Programs Fact Finding Delegation to the Middle East, and Europe and the Iron Curtain countries, and Vietnam and Southeast Asia.

GARY VEST

Gary Vest will depart from New York City August 6 after briefings by the State Department. The European itinerary includes stops and meetings in Amsterdam, London, East and West Berlin, Warsaw, Leningrad, Moscow, Prague, Paris, Madrid, Frankfurt, and again in New York.

JOHN KIRK

John Kirk will depart from New York on June 15 for Lebanon, Jordan, Cyprus, Egypt, and Israel after briefings by the State Department and the U.N.

Larry Craig is scheduled to leave Seattle August 6 for Tokyo. From his first stop he will continue to the Philippines, Hong Kong, Indonesia, Cambodia, Saigon, then to South Korea, and back to Tokyo on August 30.

LARRY CRAIG

The purpose of the tours is to enable American students to meet with and discuss U.S. policy with counterpart students in the respective countries. The student delegations will review points of U.S. policy with government officials of the various countries, and also meet with the U.S. ambassadors and consuls in those countries. Visits to the countries include tours to historical sites in addition to official business.

Sigma Alpha Iota Presents Concert

A benefit concert, sponsored by the Moscow-Pullman chapter of Sigma Alpha Iota Alumnae, is to be presented March 8 at 8:15 p.m. in the University of Idaho Music Recital Hall. Proceeds from the concert will be contributed to the Fund for the Performing Arts Center.

Eleanor Mader on the violin and Marian Frykman on the piano will start the program with Bloch's "Sonata No. 1 for Violin and Piano." Ernest Bloch composed the sonata three years after coming to this country from Switzerland. He was appointed director of the Cleveland Institute of Music in 1920.

Bartok's "Sonata for Two Pianos and Percussion" will feature the pianos of Sidney Thompson and Ellen Greenwood, and the percussion of William Kennedy and Pat Klevenow with Greg Steinke assisting. Bartok's sonata was written in 1937, and the first performance featured Bartok and his wife on the pianos.

Vandaleers Leave March 3 For Annual Tour of Idaho

Singing their way across the state, the University of Idaho's famed choral group, "The Vandaleers," will embark on their 21st consecutive tour of the Gem State next week, March 3-10. Nine programs at high school assemblies and formal evening concerts will be given.

The 60-member chorus, known throughout the Pacific Northwest for its outstanding performances, is under the direction of Glen R. Lockery, professor of music. He has selected offerings for the tour ranging from church music of the 19th century to Broadway show tunes, and favorite campus melodies.

Included in this year's program are "Missa Brevis" by Zoltan Kodaly for mixed chorus and organ accompaniment; a group of French children's songs for women's voices by Francis Poulenc, selections from "A Ceremony of Carols" by Benjamin Britten; folk songs aranged by Robert Shaw and Alice Parker; contemporary compositions by Samuel Barber and William Schuman, and songs from light opera and Broadway show tunes to include a medley from "The Sound of Music" by Richard Rogers.

Student soloists will be Dorothy Neuer, Larry Gee, David Knutson, and Twyla Brunson.

Dates of the concert tour of Idaho are Kellogg High School, 8 p.m. March 3; Salmon High School, 8 p.m., March 4; Soda Springs High School, 8 p.m., March 5; Marsh Valley High School, 10 a.m. and Burley High School, 8 p.m., March 6; Boise Rotary Club - Owyhee Hotel, 12:30 p.m.; and Weiser High School, 8 p.m., March 7; Cambridge High School, 9:30 a.m., March 8, and the University Auditorium, Moscow, 4 p.m., March 10.

Bill Gigray Will Work For You

PROTECT YOUR JOBS

Bill Gigray will work for the establishment of a Student Civil Service Commission to review all cases in which students are fired from paying University jobs. Student jobs will be more secure.

Bill Gigray will work for establishment of a body to investigate student grievances about working conditions and other problems of student employment.

SECURE YOU MORE MONEY

Many federal grants are lost because the University does not have the personnel to secure them, or current information about changes in the law.

Bill Gigray feels that the University should begin immediately to take advantage of all possible sources for student loans, grants, and assistantships.

REPRESENT YOUR INTERESTS

Better communications between the student body, the administration, and the Regents is necessary if student opinion is to be meaningful. Bill Gigray will go to the Board of Regents and represent your opinions. He will fight for a direct student voice in the administration of the University.

Because the working of the Faculty Council is of direct importance to students, Bill Gigray will work for open meetings of the Faculty Council. Students should be able to see how this University is run, and to participate in important policy decisions.

PROTECT YOUR RIGHTS

Immediate passage of the Student Bill of Rights by the Board of Regents is necessary to insure the student's rights. Strong support from the ASUI President's office is necessary if students are to be insured their rights. Bill Gigray will give that strong support.

So You're An Apathetic Student

You're not alone, and probably for good reason. In the past, student government has avoided the real issues, issues such as those outlined above, allowing its energies to be directed to what President Hartung has appropriately referred to as "Mickey Mouse government."

The future year will be no different than the past, unless we elect as ASUI President a man who is not afraid of facing the gut problems that determine the quality of education and student life on the University of Idaho campus.

Convinced that Bill Gigray is the only candidate who can and will accept this responsibility, we support—and ask you to support—Bill Gigray for President.

Dr. Fitzgerald Explains U-I Student Health Service

By PENNY PROCTOR
Arg. Reporter

"All they ever give you are aspirins."
"If you go there they'll put you in bed."
"Health Center? . . . I don't even know how it's run."
These statements and other misconceptions like them are often heard throughout campus. "We give out very few aspirins or medicines like aspirin," said Dr. W.D. Fitzgerald, director of the Health Center. "We hardly ever prescribe them to students because we presume they have some at home."

First, he said, everyone with a hint of flu was put in the hospital to be properly treated and isolated from other students. Secondly, no visitors were allowed for a period of six weeks. "Last of all we were just lucky," he exclaimed. Although the majority of students use the health center, few realize the projects of the center and the methods involved in operating it. For instance, yesterday the center took blood samples from a selected number of people who had the flu about a month ago. Picked as typical flu examples, these samples will be sent to the State Health Department in Boise for an evaluation.

They examine about 500 to 600 men yearly. The Health Center has a complete out-patient clinic, full laboratory tests and entire X-ray equipment. "We are able to do any X-rays and any laboratory tests that are done in local hospitals," Dr. Fitzgerald said. The staff includes three full-time doctors and two full-time nurses that are present every day all day. There is one full-time registered laboratory and X-ray technician.

Concerning the frequency of putting students to bed, Dr. Fitzgerald said, "We do put people to bed a little quicker than elsewhere in an attempt to contain the spread of disease, such as the flu or strep throat." He said another reason for hospitalization is to give round-the-clock medication for a short period of time. A serious sickness can thus be avoided. He also said that many of the students are just over fatigued and don't know it. "Of course the main reason is the evaluation of the doctor as to the seriousness of the disease," he stated. The health center took several precautions this year to prevent a serious flu epidemic on campus, Dr. Fitzgerald said.

"This is to pin down the exact type and name of the flu we had," Dr. Fitzgerald said. "We will get the results in about a month." The center has also instituted a tuberculosis skin testing program which is given to faculty and employees on campus. "We also give a physical examination to every athlete who engages in intercollegiate athletics when the season starts this year," Dr. Fitzgerald further enumerated. "The ROTC organizations all come here to do their physical examinations each year," he added.

There is a hospital upstairs for bed patients that is staffed by Dr. Fitzgerald, administrator of the hospital, and six registered nurses on duty 12 hours a day six days a week. "It has all the facilities any other hospital might have except for a surgical suite, and obstetrical suite and nursery," Dr. Fitzgerald explained. The center is not facilitated to do any surgery requiring an anesthetic, he said. There is an emergency service consisting of a doctor and nurse on call 24 hours a day 7 days a week. However, there is no ambulance service. "It is necessary to call the Moscow ambulance service which is run by the University security officer," Dr. Fitzgerald explained. The center has the services of a radiologist who interprets every X-ray taken, and a psychiatrist that comes once a week. There is a physiotherapy department that takes care of traction treatments, diathermy treatments and ultra-sound treatments. "We have a complete patient medical records department on top at all times. Records are kept for a number of years after the student leaves," Dr. Fitzgerald said.

Three Girls Chosen To Reign As New Queens

Jacobs Chosen Delta Sig Queen

Delta Sigma Phi held its annual Carnation Ball Saturday where the new dream girl, Kathy Jo Jacobs, Alpha Chi, was announced.

Kathy was among four other finalists competing for this title, who were: Reggie Chipman, Theta; Carolyn Rowett, Gamma Phi; Lorie Thomas, Campbell; and Bev Velasquez, Alpha Phi.

The dance was held in the Galena Room of the SUB. Music was provided by the Lemon Rubber Band, Kathy was crowned at intermission and has now replaced last year's dream girl, Lynda Fagg, also an Alpha Chi.

Other girls who competed in the contest were Angela Harshfield, Houston; Carol Heimgartner, Tri Delta; Sharon Icenbice, DG; Connie Keene, Hays; Kathy Neely, Carter; Penny Proctor, Kappa; and Sherri Rowe, Olesen.

Others were Julie Rasmussen, McCoy; Geraldine Stout, Forney; Marcia Welch, Pi Phi; Sue Whaley, Alpha Gam; Susan Whittaker, Steel, and Dianne Williams, French.

PRESIDENT ERNEST HARTUNG danced Friday night with Sandy Adams, Carter, the new 1968 Military Ball Queen at the Military Ball in the SUB.

Adams New Military Ball Queen

Sandy Adams, Carter, was crowned Military Ball Queen Friday night at the annual Military Ball held in the SUB Ballroom. Sandy was crowned during intermission by Jerry Weigal, general chairman of the Ball. Surrounding Sandy were the four other finalists from which she was selected. They were: Diana Arnold, Alpha Chi; Stephanie West, A Phi; Susan Taylor, Theta and Patsy Taisey, Tri Delta.

"Springtime of Our Years" was the theme of the dance and the 14 piece Jazz Lab Band, conducted by David Seiler, provided music. After Sandy had been crowned, she had the traditional dance alone on the floor with her escort.

Other girls who participated in the contest were Carol Colbough, Hays; Carolyn Lenton, DG; Laura Shikashiko, Houston; Deanne Kloepfer, Pi Phi; Margo Thompson, French; Esther Troth, Campbell and Janene Pridmore, McCoy.

Also competing were Patty Newell, Kappa; Carolyn Fairley, Alpha Gam; Marsha Bermeosolo, Gamma Phi; Margaret Cisco, Steel; Marsha Dixon, Olesen and Susan Petersen, Forney.

The responsibility for planning the ball alternates each year between the three ROTC units. The Navy was in charge this year.

Aguirre Crowned Pike Dream Girl

Diana Aguirre, DG, was crowned new dream girl of Pi Kappa Alpha at the annual Dream Girl Dance held Saturday in the SUB Ballroom.

Diana was selected from among four other finalists, who were as follows: Debbie Watts, Alpha Chi; Rhonda Hegge, Tri Delta; Sandie Nalder, Gamma Phi; and Debbie DeThomas, Campbell.

The dance was highlighted with a cocktail party beginning at 6:45 p.m. Following this was a candlelight dinner at which President Hartung and Dr. Watkins delivered addresses.

DIANNE AGUIRRE, DG, stepped up to receive her crown Saturday night when she was named Pi Kappa Alpha Dream Girl.

English Dept. Holds Forum

The first English Forum of the University of Idaho will be held tonight, March 5, from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m. The Forum, scheduled in room 109 of the University Classroom Center, is sponsored by the English Department.

The Forum will consist of three groups of papers. The first group is composed of papers written for English courses. Featured compositions are "The Art of Conrad: Captain Macwhirr of the Nan-Shan" written by Mary Brown. The second featured article was written by David Bibler. His composition is entitled "Snake-Eating his Shoulders: Discovery of Self in D.H. Lawrence's 'Snake.'" Sue Webb is the author of the third paper to be discussed in this category. "Shaftebury and Fielding: A Comparison," is her featured article.

The second heading are papers of research in progress, Mike O'Neals' "On the Poetry of Thomas Wyatt" and Lalia Boone's "On Idaho Place Names" make up this section of the English Forum.

The final paper to be read will be the featured composition of the evening, Barbara Mel-drum is the author of "George Chapman and Henry Adams: A Comparative Approach" which has been accepted by the Pacific Northwest Renaissance Conference at the University of Alberta in Edmonton, Canada.

Brief question and answer periods will follow the readings of each paper. A full discussion of any and all papers will follow the recitation of the last paper. Everyone is invited to attend and participate in this forum.

All class and residence hall pictures must be taken before March 15. This is the last chance as the deadline has already been extended by two weeks in order to accommodate those who missed the first deadline.

Pictures should be three by four glossy prints only. All pictures should be taken by this week in order for them to be in the GEM office by March 15.
