When asked why the film "Candy" was being brought on campus, Joseph Levining, head of the Stud Films Committee, stated: We hope that by showing this film we can do away with the fallacy which American males are growing up to believe. It seems that so many fellows read 'Playboy'' these days that American youth is starting to believe that the ideal female nude has a staple just above her navel."

"Now that the news of the show is out," said Levining, "contrary to popular belief, everyone is not coming west for MJB Coffee."

The movie, which has just been released, features big name talent which should assure success. In the male leads are Ringo Startled, (who had to iron out a few bugs before he could do the show) and Malcom Sex, who gave up the role in the Hunchback of Notre Dame for a similar part in "Candy."

Candy herself, was cast ideally in the person of Doris Daisies, an ex-Idaho flower girl who used to dive for pennies in the Library moat.

Student Recruitment

all time low, and that decline is graphically and painfully evident when one talks to high school students about coming north for an education.

The situation seems to be simply this: The ones who can't get in any place else will come to Idaho if they have the money; those who can go elsewhere will. The result is that all the top students want to go out of state for an education, and when approached about the University of Idaho their reactions range from patient by negative attention, to an out and out laugh that you should even approach them with the Idaho.

Intellectual snobbery from a high school senior may be disgusting, but it happens, and it appears to be happening more frequently. The top notch scholars and student leaders don't want to go to Idaho.

They state several reasons for their rejection of this school, and most of them are valid. The answer to those that are valid is to change the institution. The answer to those points that are not valid is to better inform the state what is going on in Moscow.

The first objection that one usually hears is the argument that Idaho is a "Party School" or a "Drinking School." The serious high school senior, who should be coming here, wants quality education, not quantity booze. But, in reality this University is, probably not much wetter than any other school. It just does less to cover up the consumption. Stories about drunken parties on campus, and the occasional student bash held off campus during vacations, certainly don't help the image, any.

The second objection many high school sen-The solution to that problem is two-fold.

Along with improving the quality of education, a real effort must also be made to sell education at the University of Idaho as being worthy of any Gem state student. The myth that is prevalent in Boise Valley now is that even the newly emerging Boise College is offering a better education than the University of Idaho. But a look at BC's upper division course offering proves that it just isn't so.

The coming emphasis for this University must be on quality education, not quantity student bodies. The junior colleges and Boise college will fill that need. But, to convince a student that he should come to Moscow, there must be the real attraction of a school where he is being prepared to take an active place in society.

The University of Idaho must be sold on intellectual grounds if it is to attract the type of students it needs.

It is readily evident that the present student recruitment program does not meet the need. The Interfraternity Council group is not even allowed in the Boise schools. In other places it seems that its success is moderate, and the story it tells is one not of quality education, but of a beautiful campus, and how to adjust to Idaho social life. One cannot really criticize the IFC for the short comings of the program. The group is not geared to be a public relations agency of the University, but has commendably stepped into a void.

Dear Mr. LeTourneau,

It would seem by your recent article that, perhaps, you are one of the reasons why physical education is a requirement at the University. Do you know that a person tends to do those things at which he is skilled, and rejects those at which he is unskilled? It would also seem apparent that you do not understand the objectives of physical education, or perhaps of the University at all. Just what do you think is important?

The University does require Idaho students to take two years of physical education. So what? It requires us to take English, biology and education courses too! Perhaps the University is a bit wiser about looking to the future than are students, who tend to look only at the here-and-now.

It is true that we play some of the same sports in college as we did in junior high, however, the program is also broadened by such courses as modern dance, field hockey, scuba diving, synchronized swimming, fencing, skiing, gymnastics, archery, and others. However, I haven't seen too many physical education courses in which the performance of skills was completely mastered. It is only after one has learned the basics, that he can begin to create in sports. by using skill, strategy, positioning, and intellect. Lyndon Johnson totally changed the political complexion of 1968 Sunday night when he announced to the nation, 'I will not seek, nor will I accept the nomination of my party for the Shock, dismay, some jubilation, and some remorse seemed to sweep the nation in the wake of his announcement, and a wave of reassessment swept leaders in the Democratic party when they himself out of the running.

The Johnson announcement came as a tremendous surprise to most. However, there had been some signs in the wind for the preceeding several days. Idaho Democrats who had been in close contact with the White House, and the emerging election machinery for 1968, reported that they had not heard from headquarters in several days. Phone calls to Idahoans about the Johnson movement from people close to the administration had not been received. One Idaho Democrat said, "I thought that something I agree that a student should enjoy the exercise was going on," but he added to his remarks, Kennedy has the advantage of having the money, presitige, and political experience that is lacking Gene McCarthy. However, Kennedy galled many of his potential supporters by entering the race against McCarthy only after McCarthy proved that a peace candidate does have a chance. The old adage that "all is fair in love, and war" can't be stretched to include politics in the eyes of many of the young, and that is where Bobby Kennedy must draw support.

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO POLICY STATEMENT ON DRUGS

— DRAFT — Proposed Revision - 3-6-68

The University of Idaho does not sanction, condone or remain indifferent to any act or conduct which impairs the pursuit or dissemination of knowledge and which may be judged to have a deleterious effect upon the academic community. Until results of long range medical and pharmacological research on the physiological research on the gical effects of such substances as LSD, marijuana and hallucinogens establishes a clear understanding of their mode of action, physiological range, and similar facts, we assume that the illegal use or abuse of hallucinogenc, depressant, stimulant, or other substances, may be detrimental to the maintenance of a suitable educational environment. Therefore, the University of Idaho establishes the folowing policies: 1. Every effort will be made to inform students relative to the known physical, physiological, and legal aspects of drug uses:

The primary role of the University in handling mat. ters potentially involving use and possession of drugs by its students is that of counseling;

Investigatory, prosecuting, and disciplinary roles in relation to illegal drug use are the responsibility of the law enforcement authorities;

Subject to procedural safeguards, including principles of due process, the University will also assume a disciplinary role when convictions for drug violations occuring on campus jeopardize the interests of the

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS the Divine Creator blessed our State of Idaho with an abundance of natural resources, and our livelihood is derived in a large measure from lumbering and we must be ever mindful of our responsibility which these resources impose; and

WHEREAS we received this bounty from our forebears and must preserve and wisely use this treasure so that we may hand it down to our children, and they in turn to their children, in a greater abundance and in ever more fruitful condition.

NOW, THEREFORE, DO I, DON SAMUELSON, Governor of the State of Idaho, hereby proclaim the week of April 1-6, 1968 as and do request every citizen of this State to undertake a renewed dedication to the conservation and wise productive use of our forests so that we may go forward together into Idaho's future.

Did the offense justify the punishment? No, I don't think so.

Certainly, this sort of behavior requires discipline and it should be dealt with swiftly and surely, but just because the national press quoted MacFarlane as saying Brown was through unless he was sick is no reason to restrict the man's competition. Brown made his mistake when he told the coach that he would attend the meet and then didn't bother to make the trip and of Steve Brown and Jim Johnston were suspended from the Vandal track team for an indefinite period of time today as a result of their absence from a track meet against the University of Washington on Saturday in Seattle, it was announced by Bob Maker, sports information director.

Brown, who was the NCAA high jump champion in 1967 and Jim Johnston, a middle distance runner were suspended from the team for disciplinary reasons, resulting from their failure to compete at Seattle.

"Brown assured me that he would make it to that meet,"
MacFarlane said.

MacFarlane voiced his opinion in the press on Sunday and threatened Brown with the ax if he didn't have a good excuse. MacFarlane was quoted as saying that he (Brown) was finished, through, unless he was on his death bed or in a hospital.

Steve Brown returned to Moscow Sunday night after flying into Spokane, but he didn't talk to the coach until yesterday during the noon hour. He gave an excuse but the coach didn't accept it and he was suspended by 2 p.m.

MacFarlane said he took the action after talking to both athletes. He also stated after the conferences that their primary interest at this time was not in the track program.

"With this in mind, I feel that for the betterment of the track program at Idaho, the disciplinary action is necessary," MacFarlane said.
